Kirkuk falls; Tikrit could be last stand

Opposition forces crumbled in northern Iraq on Thursday as U.S. and Kurdish troops seized oil-rich Kirkuk without a fight and held a second city within their grasp. U.S. commanders said signs pointed to a last stand by Iraqis in Saddam 'Hussein's birthplace of Tikrit.

The group planning the library's nuniversary celebration has had fun looking through old documents about the library's beginnings, Woodford said. Burley's library started in a small room in the building with other city offices with just 200 books. There are more than 46,000 items in the library today. The first library cards cost 50 cents; city residents now pay for library services through property taxes and non-residents pay $60 a year for a card. Oakley resident dies in one-car rollover URILEY - Oakley resident Enrique Ortega was killed in a one-vehicle accident about two miles west of Oakley just after midnight Thursday. Ortega, 19, was ejected from the 1986 Mercury Topaz he was driving, according to a report from the Cassia County Sheriffs Office. Ortega was not wearing a seat belt, Cassia County Sheriffs Jim Higens said. Early indications show alcohol may have played a factor in the accident, he said. A blood test is being conducted at the Idaho State Police lab.

Ortega was driving orth when control of the vehicle and it rolled. After Ortega was thrown from the car, the car rolled on top of him.

Search and rescue crews were distributed.

Also in Storybook Park, hand tiles will be on sale and a bake called to the scene to move the car off Ortega, Higens said. An ambulance crew, the Oakley quick response unit and sheriff's deputies were also at the scene. The accident occurred near the intersection of 600 West and 2000 South, where the posted speed limit is 45 mph.

Superintendent:
Mortensen said the supplemental levy, which would give the district $375,000 each year for two years, would provide funding for sports and clubs like honor society.

Some sports, such as soccer, were cut from this year's budget, but parents and students raised money to keep the programs alive. The district also closed Pingree Elemer tary school at the end of last school year.

Mortensen said this year's

Mortensen said this year's budget is also going to be tight. budget is also going to be tight. To make ends meet, the district plans to cut four full-time teach-ing positions, and will cut trans-portation costs by consolidating some busing schedules. An advisory committee of community members, teachers, administrators and staff recommended the levy vote at Tuesday's school board meets.

WSU shock physics receives $18M grant

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) – At Washington State University's Institute for Shock Physics, scientists have a smashing good time figuring out what happens when objects slam into targets at incomprehensibly high speeds—up to 5,400 miles per hour. And there's more fun to come now that the institute has been awarded a five-year, 518 million federal grant – the university's largest.

largest.

The award from the Department of Energy's Nuclear Security Administration will be used for research in the physical and chemical changes that materials experience under very rapid and large compressions.

Institute director Yogendra Gupta said this week he hopes to add 10 new researchers to the existing 35-member team. He also intends to create additional opportunities for undergraduate opportunities for undergraudure research.

"This grant means one thing and one thing only for me," Gupta said. "We will do great science and have lots of fun. We will tackle the hardest problems in the business."

Gupta also hopes to further research on the molecular engineering of explosives, which could be applied to the development of rocket fuels that are more powerful but less dangerous.

multimillion dollar awards are not unusual.

WSU is a land grant institution and agricultural education plays a key role, but researchers and grant support to campus.

The shock physics grant is an extension of a $10 million grant the agency awarded the school in 1997 the agency awarded the school in 1997.

This is a good time for grants because people are interested in the type of research thut's being done and because of the level of expertise of many of WSU's researchers, school President V. Lane Rawlins said.

"Right now the growth is greater and the opportunities are greater," he said.

For example, Gerald Edwards, a biochemistry professor and expert in photosynthesis, gives alks across the country, has published more than 300 research articles and has brought in more than 56 million in grant support.

There are dozens of others.

Middle-school crush grows into harassment

DEAR ABBY: I went to school with "Bert" from grammar through high school. It's no secret that he's been in love with me since seventh grade. After we graduated from high school, Bert remained in our hometown. I moved away and go back only to visit my family.

Bert got my phone number from a mutual friend and, in the four years since high school, has called once in a while. Out of the four years since high school, has called once in a while. Out of the four years since high school, has called once in a while. Out of the four years since high school, has called once in a while. Out of the four years ince high send eventually stop. I was wrong.

For the last two months. Bert's calls have become so frequent, I have stopped answering my phone – or if a girlfriend is visiting me, I'll ask her to answer for me and tell Bert I'm "on a date." I hoped hed take the hint, but it hasn't worked.

Last Christmas he sent me un expensive present. I did not accept it and still have not spoken to him.

Then one night last week.

Then one night last week, while I was out with the girls,

DEAR ABBY-

Bert called every 20 minutes and maxed out my voicemail with messages saying he lbves me. I don't know what to do. This has escalated to the point I'm afraid Bert could become violent. What should I tell him?

DEAR NERVOUS IN MAINE
DEAR NERVOUS: Stop evading Bert's calls. Tell him, "I know we're old acquaintances, but I'm not interested in any kind of relationship with you. Please do not call again." If he continues, speak to your lawyer and to the police about a restraining order. He appears to be unable to face rejection.

The play, which Pielmeier finished at Sun Valley resident Sue Wolfords, house while serving as best man at a friend's weeding, revolves around a young nun who's been accused of murdering her child shortly after its birth.

Problem is, Sister Agnes can't recollect whether she killed the child or not.

The atheistic psychiatrist played by Hudson attempts to uncover the truth with hypnosis and mind games, even as Mother Superior attempts to protect Agnes, fearing that she will be destroyed if her strong relationship with God is chipped away.

"It's a very powerful play," said Hudson, who is on stage talking from the time the curtain rises until the time it goes down. "I

Movies playing in south-central Idaho this weekend. Opinions are by Los Angeles Times, Associated, Press and, Knight Ridder Newspapers reviewers. Ratings Associated Motion Picture for general audiences; (PG) parental guidance urged because of material possibly unsuitable for children; (PG-13) parents are strongly cautioned to give guidance for attendance of children younger than 13; (R) restricted, younger than 13 (R) restricted younger than 17 admitted only with parent or adult guardian; (NC-17) no one younger than 17 admitted.

"Agent Cody Banks"

Agent COUY BANKS

This amusing and breezy action-adventure and Bond fran-chise spoof would have us believe that the CIA has started recruiting early teens as future agents. A winning Frankie Muniz stars as such a junior cone of the country of the ing early teens as tuture agents. A winning Frankie Munis stars as such a junior spy, as skilled at derring-do as Jackie Chan and loaded with padgets. Alas, he's tongue-tied when it comes to woo-ing Hilary Duff, whose nave scientisf father (Martin Donovan) is developing one of those devices with the power to destroy the world, oblivious to the naked evil of his backers (Ian McShane, Arnold Vosloo). Director Harald Zwart never loses the story's human diniension amid spectacular action sequences. With Angie Harmon, Keith David, (142, PG, for action violence, mild language and some sexual content.)

"Anger Management"

"Anger Management"

This excuse to pair Adam Sandler and Jack Nicholson rankles far less than it might have and produces scattered laughs. The premise is pure gimmickry: Meek doormat Sandler is railroaded into rage therapy with batty counselor Nicholson. For every gag that works, there are 10 that reck, but Sandler does what his fans like best - fumes pubescently - while Nicholson's sheer "Jack-ness" makes some of the ordinary psychobabble he utters sound funnier than it is. The notable supporting cast includes Marisa Tomei, John Turturro, Woody Harrelson, Heather Graham, John C. Reilly and Luis Guzman. Rudolph Gullani, Bobby Knight and John McEnroe are among the many cameo bits. PC-13 for crude sexual content and language. 101 minutes.

"Basic"

"Basic"

Though it's made with reasonable efficiency, this John Travolta-storring military thriller about murky doings in the jungles of Panama is so unashamed yoonfusing, so intent on piling twist upon twist upon twist, it makes your head hur i just trying to figure out what's happened. The credit for this migraine goes to screenwriter James Vanderblit, who has made the film so hard to follow that we not only can't figure out who did what to whom, we finally can't be bothered to care. Director John MCT Lerton ("Die Hard" and MCT Lerton ("Die Hard" and MCT Lerton ("Die Hard" and John Willerton ("Die Hard" and John Willerton ("Die Hard" and Connie which for davdle and briskly staging the film's action mechanics. lawer. The alliance of one of the funniest and most under-deployed comics in movies with the hip-hop, diva, it seems like comic kismet. Just the thought of Martin, who does unglish white guy better than anyone else, bouncing against Latifah's implacable wall of cool is irresistible. It isn't that you don't laugh – it's that too often you wish you hadn't. The comedy of mismatched partners works only if the laughs are at each player's expense. Here, Latifah sasses Martin every which way, but somehow the joke is usually on her. Screenwiter Jason Filardi and director Adam Shankman squeeze humor out of her looks, language and friends, mining entertainment from her nominal exoticism. (1:41. PG-13, for language, savual humor and drug content.)

"Chicago"

Rob Marshall's film version of the 1975 musical first staged by Bob Foss stars Catherine Zeta-Jones, Rene Zellweger and Richard Gere in the time of bootleggers and Tommy guns. A quarter of a century later, Fosse's ostensible cynicism, at least as interpreted by Marshall, who also did the choreography for the film, seems quaintly earnest. Denuded of satire, the musical now comes across as another charming if creaky theatrical contrivance. Instead of letting his performers just do their own thing, Marshall chops up their bodies like some lunatic cubist then frantically tosses the pieces around. None of the three leads is truly up to the demands of either the choreography or Kander and Elb's sly vadeville pastiche, but it's maddening that for most of fully in the control of the cont

"Dreamcatcher"

"Dreamcatcher"

The film is not only based on a Stephen King novel, the experience of watching it also uncannigud depletes what if feels like to read one. Which is sometimes, but not always, a good thing. As directed by Lawrence Kasdan, this science-fiction story of a group of childhood friends, now all grown up, in whose hands is placed the future of the planet is placed the future of the planet is placed the future of the planet is told with the same ungainly mixture of tones and sensibilities that characterizes King's books. There's only one reason you don't throw your hands up and move on, and that's because King has a gift for making us want to turn the page, to see what happens next. No matter how sharp his tongue and honed his delivery, the comic makes for one grievously bad director and almost as regrettable a leading man. Your enjoyment of this new chmedy may hinge on whether you find the sight of Will Ferrell ranning down a street in nothing more than black socks and shoes uproariously funny, inexplicably tagic or a little of both. Ferrell plays the most hapless of three friends in their 30s who feverishly try to recapture their youth by exabilishing a fraternity for men poised on the razor's edge between carefree youth and ponderous adulthood. The film more or less picks up where director Todd Philligh's last lollapalooza, "Road Trip" – yet another iteration of "Animal House," minus the subversion – ended. In Roman Polanski's film, hased on a memoir by a Polith Jew who survived the Warsaw spetto, the composer and concert pianist Wladyslaw Szpilman, nothing is more absud or surreal than war. A memoir written by a man for whom history is not dead and is yet littered with the dead, it is a book that doesn't obviously lend itself to cinematic interpretation. It is never easy to watch people suffer and-die without hope or even the glimmer of hope, which makes it extraordinary that Polanski, another Polish Jew who survived, has been able to bring Szpilman's detachment to the screen. All the more so given that it achieves the survive of the survive of

Tribe looks to rebound at Mid-Season Classic

By Scott Thompson Times-News writer

BUHL - The Buhl baseball team is seeking its fourth straight championship at its own Mid-Season Classe.

More importantly, the Indians (6-2) look to get back to their winning ways after two devastating losses to Wood River in a home doubleheader Tuesday after the Tribe won its first six games of the season to jump atop the state rankings.

the season to jump atop the state rankings.

Tuesday's losses - 16-10 and 22-7 - may have been exactly what was needed, however, since the team had grown overconfident after a 6-0 start against a soft early schedule, said Buhl coach Rvan Bobo.

Tournament schedule - Page D2

"It was an eye-opener," he said after Tuesday's 16-10 loss. "If this doesn't send a message, I don't know what will. We've got to get the right mental approach back in practice. They're not as good as they think they are - obvious. The Indians' eighth annual home tournament, featuring home tournament, featuring eight teams including fellow Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference schools Filer and Kimberly, could be just he spot to right the ship. And Bauer has already faced both goffers this season, losing in a two-hole playoff to Kaiserman at a meet in Wilder. Both goffers shot 2-under 70 in regulation. Bendawald finished a stroke back for third.

"This (tournament) I've always wanted to win since I was a freshman," said Bauer, who shot a 73 that year. "If I play my best I have a shot. Whoever gets the luck of the draw and the bounces will win."

Up the mad at the 3A-2A tour

Up the road at the 3A-2A tournament, a doglight should emerge between Kimberly, defending champion Shelley, Weiser and Flier.

Kimberly golfer Zach Abels expects a competitive round with Chad Huntsman of Shelley and Jysen Lancaster of Wendell. But it's anyone's guess with many of last year's top golfers graduated.

"I'm looking forward to it because if you want to be the best you have to beat the best," he said. "We have a chance to see how good we really are. I'm just looking forward to seeing who people have, because a lot graduated last year."

That includes defending state medalist John Shelley.

Clear Channel bows to pressure, stops airplay deals

Bowing to political pressure, Clear Channel Communications Inc. said this week it would sever ties to a cotreie of music industry middlemen who have paid millions of dollars to the radio giant while seeking to influence airplay.

The move by the biggest radio conglomerate in the United Conglomerate in the United States follows criticism from lawmakers who said Clear Channel's deals with independent record promoters ran afoul of payola laws, which prohibit stations from playing songs in exchange for money without disclosing the transaction.

The decision marks an abrupt reversal for the company, whose broadcasting empire includes more than 1,200 radio stations in Twin Falls, Clear Channel has radio stations KEZJ-FM, KLIX-

AM and KLIX-FM, Last July, Clear Channel President Mark Mays told the Los Angeles Times the company would accept promotional fees as long as record labels were willing to pay, saying it was a "fiduciary obligation to our shareholders."

But Clear Channel radio division chief John Hogan said wednesday that the company Wednesday that the company decided to terminate the deals decided to terminate the d ance of impropriety" and smooth the waters in Washington.

Promoters try to sidestep the anti-payola law by paying radio stations annual fees – often exceeding $200,000 – that they say are not tied to the playing of specific songs. In return, stations give the promoters advance copies of playlists or other airplay-related information.

"The real nitty gritty to the earnings season is whether we see a pickup," in upbeat earnings sorceasts, said Peter Cardillo, president and chief strategist of Clobal Partner Securities Inc. in New York.

The market's concern was The market's concern was again corporate performance rather than the war in Iraq. That makes the case Wednesday when was the case Wednesday when westers sent prices sharply lower despite TV images of allied forces and euphoric Iraqi citizens (aking over Baphdad.

Now that success in Iraq seems Now that success in Iraq seems sassured, analysts said investors assured, analysts said investors are looking more closely at earn-results and upbeat assessments for future quarters.

"The attention has shifted back to carnings and fundamentals," Cardilla said.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed up 23.39, or 0.3 percent, at 8,221.33. It was the Dow's first gain in three sessions, follow if the point drop on Wednesday, Broint drop on Wednesday, and Tuesday's decline of 1.39.

The broader market was also higher. The Nasdaq composite, index rose 8.87, or 0.7 percent, to 1,365.61. The Standard & Poor's 500 index advanced 5.59, or 0.6 percent, to 871.58.

While the news from Iraq has been good, analysts said many investors had already anticipated the U.S.-ted forces would prevail and factored that into stock prices by sending shares higher during by sending shares higher during reports, which may be home proposed to the priority on Wall Street.

Some industry insiders noted that even after independent promoters lose their contracts for Clear Channel stations, record executives could directly offer money, travel packages or other bribes to station, personnel instead of paying fees to a corporate parent.

Ingun said he doesn't intend to "police" his programmers.

"We have to hire good people, and trust that we've made the right decisions," he said. "Integrity and honesty are key components of being part of Clear. The company had been under increasing pressure to cut ties, with independent promoters in recent months. Federal lawmakers chastised the company during a Senate committee hearing in January. And Sen. Russell D. Feingold, D.Wis., has introduced legislation to restrict the music legislation to restrict the music legislation. The communications has taken a step in the right direction, it is still essential that we pass legislation to ensure that a replacement 'pay for play' system does not emerge. Teingold said.
Record industry leaders applicated the communication of the communicat

Arlington gets first Iraq casualty

The Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Va. – Saluted as "a warrior and a Ranger," Capt. Russell B. Rippetce was laid to rest Thursday at Arlington National Cemetery, the first soldier from the Iraqi conflict to be builded on the Iraqi conflict to the Iraqi conflict to the Iraqi conflict to the Iraqi conflict to the Iraqi checkpoint. Specialist Chad Thibodeau, who was wounded in the blast, was bandaged and watched the service from a wheelchair. Another Ranger, injured in a separate inclident in Iraqi, was on crutches with a heavy knee brace.

Eight Rangers from Rippetce's unit, wearing khaki berets and tlinking back tears, were honorary pallbearers.

I.I. Col. James May, the Army chaplain, called Rippetce "a man of faith" who had engraved a Bible passage from Joshua on the back of his dog tags: "Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, either be thou dismayed, for the Lord thy God is with thee whithers sever thou goest."

When he joined, the Joined full force... If edidn't just join the Army, he joined the Rangers," passal May, "Russell was a man who loved him."

Retired Lt. Col. Joe Rippetoe, with his wife, Rita, breaks down during cere-monies Thursday. Rippetoe served in Vietnam and was wounded.

Beside the grave, inside a wreath of flowers, were framed pictures of Rippetoe, as a grinning infant, as a young soldier in fatigues smiling in a tent and holding a rifle, and as a son kissing his mother, Rita, on the cheek.

A team of gray horses pulled a black caisson that carried Rippetoe's silver casket to the gravesite. The family followed.
Three sharp cracks of gunfire rang out from a seven-member rifle party and a bugler, standing among rows of white headstones on the cold, damp morning, played "Taps."

Rippetoe's father and mother were given the Bronze Star Medal for Valor and the Purple Heart that their son was posthumously awarded, and Capt. Shawn Daniel, a friend of Rippetoe's, presented them, with the flag that had been draped over the coffin.

Rippetoe's father, retired Lt. Col. Joe Rippetoe, who was wounded in Vietnam, returned cach salue from the Rangers who knelt or stooped in front of the act of the control o ed, killing Ruppetoc, two other sol-diers, the woman and the driver, according to the Defense Department.

The Pentagon said Thursday that 102 U.S. servicemembers have died, 11 are missing and seven have been captured since the war began.

Crowd slashes clerics to death

Meeting was meant to promote peace

The soldiers conduct two patrols a day. Sometimes they drive through the village of Orgun-e on humanitarian missions. They also inspect the bunkers of Afghan soldiers who are assisting the base.

Other times, they take posifore making the "obvious" play. The bidding was unremarkable. Per-Olof (P-O) Sundolin reached the natural game contract of four spades, but notice that Zia Mahmood, sitting West, had no hesistation in rejecting the chance to make an "unusual" two no-trump bid at his first opportunity, to show the minors. With such a weak hand, and a marked disparity between his two suits, the more cautious action was clear at the unfavorable vulnerability.

Zia led his club ace and continued with the king and a further club, for Tony Forrester, East, to ruff. At this stage, however, Tony pussed to work out the hand. Sundelin, South, was marked with every high card remaining in the pack. If fony ruffed this trick, he could not stop P-O from using the action only the first three circumparts. The could be do? Well, instead of ruffing the third club, try the effect of Tony's maneuver. He threw one of his diamonds away, allowing South to win an unexpected trick with the club queen. But now, though P-O could cross to a lop diamond and take the spade finesse, his attempt to reach dummy again would fail. Tony could ruff the next diamond, exit with a heart, and was now guaranteed to collect another trums trick for one down.

ANSWER-Bid three diamonds. Partner's three-club bid is a game-try looking for help in clubs. While your hand has a very disappointing club holding, your concentrated values in diamonds might be helpful to your partner—or again, of very little use to him. Let him know where you live, and make his decision easier.
