Maughan ousts incumbent ISAT

Twin Falls Mayor Lance Clow, center, turns in his ballet to Cornie Lanting, left, after voting in the city election at Sawtooth Elementary School Tuesday. Clow's City Council seat was not up for election this year, but the outcome of the election could help determine who serves as mayor next year. Twin Falls City Council members traditionally select one of their own to serve as mayor every two years, and Clow has held the post since January 2002.

TWIN FALLS – The face of the City Gound will have a different look when two new members take office in January. Dennis Maughan ousted incumbent Gloria Galan for seat 2 in Thuesday's election, while Shawn Barigar beat out three contenders to win seat 7, left vacant by the retirement of Howard Allen. Each position carries a four-year term.

, "I first want to congratulate Gloria on a clean race," Maughan said. "She's a gracious Iady, and I wish her well. The community approciates her service. I also thank the voters. It will be a privilege and honor to serve them again in a different capacity." Maughan viewed the results in his race as a sign people were ready for a change in leadership. "I think my ideas, energy and experience will serve the city well." he said. "I look forward to listening to and learning from City Council members and especially listening to the voters."

Galan positioned therself as a representative of mainstream America and underserved populations. She had hoped to keep the seat open for other Hispanics to get involved in city government. She could not be reached Please see Volling, Page 42

Aside from Maine, only a few contentious proposals were on statesvide ballots in the offysen election, but many items on local ballots stirred heated debate.

In New York City, for example, voters defeated a proposal that would have eliminated party primaries and instituted nonpartisan elections for mayor and other city posts. Republican Mayor Michael Bloomberg spent $2 million of his own fortune backing the proposal, while Democratic leaders, whose party holds a 5-1 edge in registered voters, urged a no vote.

In Richmond, Va., voters easily approved a proposal to have their mayor elected by popular vote, rather than appointed by the City Council. Former Gov. L. Bush's signature on anti-abortion bill ends long battle for supporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush is handing aborion opponents a victory sought through seven years of political battle as he signs legislation that bans some abortions.

The president's signature represents an end to a legislative crusade that began when Republicans captured the House in 1995. Former President Clinton twice viced similar bills.

But for abortion rights advocates, the current president's action simply moves the fight over a procedure opponents call partial birth abortion from Congress to the courts.

The bill Bush has said he was pleased to usher into law Wednesday forbids an abortion generally performed in the second or third trimester, in which a fetus is partially delivered before being killed, usually by having its skull munctured.

killed, usually by having its skul junctured.

Aware of its backing among the religious conservatives that make up a key portion of his base of political support, the president called the bill "very important leg-islation that will end an abhorrent practice and continue to build a culture of life in America" when ir gained final congressional approval late last month.

Under those plans, about 15,000 Army National Guard troops have been mobilized for possible serv-ice in Iraq beginning early next year, to replace weary active-duty palace district. Utiticias sain there was no damage por casualties.

The deteriorating security situation has prompted the United Nations, the international Red Cross and other international Ged Cross and other international organizations to reduce their forcing staffs.

On Tuesday, Foreign Minister Ana Palacio said Spain will withdraw 25 of the 29-member Spanish diplomatic staff from Baghdad. Most will be relocated to Amman, Jordan. Spain has about 1,300 soldiers in Iraq and was one of the strongest supporters of the U.S-led invasion.

"We have taken staff out of Baghdad temporarily given that it is a very complicated moment," Palacio said in Berlin. Spaniards working for the U.S-led Coalition Provisional Authority will stay, the Spanish Defense Ministry said without giving their number. Spain became the third calition member to withdraw diplomats from Iraq because of stepped-up insurgent attacks. Jast month, Bulgaria and the Netherlands moved their diplomats to Jordan, also citing worsening security.

Those fears increased after adramatic escalation in attacks, starting with the Oct. 26 missile barrage against the Al-Rasheed Hotel, where many coalition and U.S. military officials lived. One U.S. colonel was killed and 18 people were wounded. On Sunday, guerrillas near Fallujah shot down a U.S. Armoltonek helicopter, killing 15 soldiers in the bloodiest single strike against American forces since the war began March 20. Violence persisted Tuesday when a roadside bomb killed a 1st Armored Division soldier and wounded two others in Baghdad. In the northern city of Mosul, insurgents using small arms first and rocket-propelled grenades attacked a hotel housing American troops but caused no casualties, the military said. Three grenades hit the building and two others landed in the compound as U.S. forces returned fire. A police station in Mostul was also struck overnight by a rocket-propelled grenade, the military said Tuesday. There were no casualties.

Also in Mosul – Iraq's third-largest city, which had been rela-tively quiet – gumen killed a judge near his home. Ismail Youssef, a Christian, was the sec-ond Iraqi judge assassinated in as many days.

Salt Lake City voters appear to re-elect mayor

SAIT LAKE CITY (AP) – With a quarter of votes counted, it appeared that Mayor Ross -C. "Rocky" Anderson had won a see ond term Tuesday, holding a 52 percent to 48 percent lead over challenger Frank Pignanolli. The early results e-cheed two exit polls, one by Dan Jones and KSL-TV, the other by students from Brigham Young University and Utah Valley State College, that showed Anderson ahead 53 percent to 47 percent. But Pignanelli was far from ready to take the early numbers as the final cell.

In races, for the Utah Legislature, there were times, "where we went to bed thinking we had lost and woke up finding we had won," said Fignanelli, who served 10 years in the Legislature. The people conducting the exit surveys left before the polls closed at 8 pm, meaning they didn't talk to hundreds of people voting late, he said. "We believe those were our people," he said. Anderson, clearly jubilant, sounded cautious after hearing the exit poll numbers.

Denver voters turn down measure meant to ease stress

DENVER (AP)—A measure that would have required the city to sponsor such calming activities as music in public buildings and meditation was soundly defeated Tuesday.

Tuesday.

Supporters, including the former meditation teacher who dreamed up the idea, said the programs would make Denver a role model. Opponents called it a ridiculous waste of time for a city trying to deal with millions in budget cuts.

"My 15 minutes of fame may have just expired," author Jeff Peckman said, but toward to continue to promote the benefits of meditation.

meditation.

City Councilman Charlie Brown had feared the proposal – which drew international attention and ridicule – made Denver look like a laughingstock. "Common sense and good western values prevailed," he said.

With 95 percent of the vote counted, the measure failed 68 percent to 32 percent. It would have required the city to implement "scientifically proven" stress-reduction programs.

The votes cast against it totaled 53,112, compared with 24,854 votes in favor.

Peckman, 49, collected about 2,500 signatures to get the measure on the ballot.

Some of the ideas that were floated by supporters of Initiative 101 included playing calming music in public buildings, recruiting people to meditate and improving the quality of school lunches.

The board also ignored Howard others have suggested is not legal.

But board member Laird Stone of Twin Falls maintained that the action "is not an overstep of board authority or the state law."
The board approved the charter member Rod Lewis of Boise conceded it was "a little bit rough."

Howard said it appeared patched together from Arzana regulations and still included neference to the Arizona Department of Public

Arizona state Internet site for more information on charter applications.

But the board declined to delay action on the rules even though they specifically call for charter schools to get monthly state support payments when public schools in general get payments just five times a year.

The rules also clarify issues charter school advocates have been complaining about. They clarify the state board's role in appeals and granting charters directly over the objection of local school boards, and they authorize up to 10 percent of any charter school's enrollment for children of the people who founded the school.

reason the Merdian School District recently cited in denying a charter application that included the founders' preference.

Loves Wrinkle Cream... Worried About Daughter

Worried About Daugnter

DEAR PATY: I cannot thank you enough! I am a 50-year-old woman who really looked too old...with those facial wrinkles, crow's feet, sugging throat and dry, blotchy skin. I read in your column about that pharmacist's discovery. EB5 Facial Cream. I bought a jar and it really changed my life! I look years younger. But now I'm worried about my 28-year-old daughter, who lays out in the sun, and is beginning to show a few signs of aging. Do you have any suggestions for someone ther age... to stop those wrinkles before they appear?

"Worried, Houston. TX."

DEAR WORRIED: I am glad you like EB5 Facial Cream. It's wonderful for a woman of your age group. But it's a different story for your daughter. Luckily, Pharmacist, Heldfond has another discovery.

SLEEPING...EVERYBODY DOES IT

Sleep that is. Sleep isn't just "timeout" from daily life. It is an active state important for renewing our mental and physical health each day. More than 100 million Americans of all ages fail to get a good night's sleep. This can lead to problems falling asleep and staying asleep, difficulties staying awake or staying with a regular sleep/wake cycle, sleepwalking, bedwetting, nightmares, and other problems that interfere with sleep. Some sleep disorders can be life threatening. If you want to have better sleep consider having a "Sleep Study" at Idaho Diagnostic Sleep Center. Call us at 208-736-7646.

Feds target Wal-Mart not people

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP).—

Mal-Mart sid Tueday that it has received a "target letter" from the U.S. Attorney's Office alleging the world's largest retailer violated federal immigration laws.

"The company is the target" of the investigation, Wal-Mart Stores Inc. spokeswoman Mona Williams sqid. "No company employee has received an individual target letter at this time."

On Oct. 23, federal agents arrested about 250 alleged illegal workers in a 21-state sweep of Wal-Mart stores.

Target letters give people or companies formal notification, that they are the focus of an investigation. Williams said the company was not surprised, given the comments federal officials made after Oct. 25 rides.

"We expect the grand jury will begin its hearing im mid-

Wood treated with arsenic isn't banned

WASHINGTON (AP) – Federal regulators decided Thesday against banning assenic-treated lumber for playground equipment, saying most manufacturers no longer use the wood-protecting chemical that is believed to increase the risk of cancer. The Consumer Product Safety Commission over dunanimously to adopt a staff recommendation that a ban was unnecessary, given the shift away from treated wood in playground structures, decks and picnic tables.

The industry agreed in 2002, following discussions with the Environmental Protection Agency, to stop building products with the treated wood by the end of the year. The EPA has removed the pesticide, chromated copper arsenate, from its list of approved chemicals. The pesticide protects damage.

The commission chairman, Hal

The commission chairman, Hal Tratton, said the two agencies are studying ways of coating existing wood structures to seal in the arsenic. But it will take time to see if that works, so the commission said any solution to the problem of existing structures with the pesticide is at least a year away.

EPA proposes easing regs on wastewater

WASHINGTON - The Bush administration proposed Monday to allow sewage treatment plants to release partially treated sewage into waterways when utilities are inundated with wastewater during heavy rainstorms or snowmelts. The change would be the latest in a series of apparent rollbacks of environmental regulations by the administration, a record current shope to capitalize on during the presidential election next year.

during the presidential election next year.

The Environmental Protection Agency said the proposal would help local utilities prevent the accidental overflows of raw sewage into waterways that sometimats occur when treatment plants are overloaded.

"We are working with these facilities to prevent backups of sewage in homes and the environment while requiring all discharges to meet Clean Water Act permit Limits," said G. Tracy Mehan, assistant EPA administrator for water.

Mehan, assistant EPA administra-tor for water.

But environmental groups said the proposal would violate the Clean Water Act and allow more viruses and parasites into drinking and swimming water.

Use ballots as weapons against corrupt leaders

Many people believe not vot ing is the best way to show the disgust with the system. I unde stand this. I really do. However let me offer a shift of mindset tet me offer a shift of mindset that might help non-voters reconsider. Think of your ballot as a bullet and let your ballot be a substitute for that bullet when judgment day comes, which is election time.

election time.
Think of your letters to the editor as bricks launched through the plate glass windows of sanctimonious bureaucrats, smug politicians and tax collecsmug politicians and tax collectors, all of whom think of them tors, all of whom think of them solves as untouchable aristo-crats. Tolstoy wrote, "Hard are the hearts of the men known as aristocrats." He knew them for what they were. They would bleed everyone of everything under the color of law if they had the opportunity, and too often they have that opportuni-ty. Thus, we see the U.S. Senate-again.

ndu the Opportunity, and too often they have that opportunity. Thus, we see the U.S. Senate-again - receive a massive pay raise, which shows their utter contempt for the American people; a people, many of whom will have trouble making their house payments this coming year. So you don't owe them anything, not even loyalty.

So, where is your loyalty?
What would you bleed for, sacrifice your some and daughters for? The land? The people? The flag? Maj. Gen. Butler, U.S. Marine Corps, wrote, "There are only two things we should fight for. One is the defense of our homes and the other is the Bill of Rights. War for any other reason is simply a racket." Even the American "Civil War," wrote Charles Dickens, was for "purely becuniary reasons."

Thus, we shouldn't fight, for our politicians who have made a practice of selling out the American people at every opportunity will soon expand the war in Iraq and bring back the draft, because we need huge armies to practice the game of empire. After all, war is "the sport of kings."

After all, war is "the sport of kings."

The result: we will go broke, as every other empire in history has, and we'll lift up our head one day to find the United States just another stavried by ethnic and religious civil war. So siep up to the plate, not back, and when you vote, think of it as the point of a rapier, lean and sharp, because the right to vote is about all that's left. Aim for the heart, if you can find one, and, as did Cyrano de Bergerac, when you end your refrain - "thrust home."

Our leaders keep saying the humber of casualties is small—only a few hundred so far, but how can they understand the pain and the anguish of those who knew and hoved these few hundred soldiers who have died. Those who sit in their magnificant of the cent office during the day and sleep in their luxurious bedroom at night may not have heard the painful screams of wounded soldiers calling for their faraway loved ones before they died. I have! I also lost a beloved brother, fiance, several cousins and many friends during the Vietnam conflict. I know how painful it is.

How sad it is to realize that

How sad it is to realize that the noble idealism and lives sacrificed by our children are being hijacked and manipulated for the financial gain of self-serving people to the detriment of citizens, to include citizens of our own Magic Valley. In fact, their sacrifices have preserved the very system that allows a greedy few to exploit our environment, destroy citizens' quality of life, pollute the air we breathe, contaminate the water we dripk and endanger our health.

Destroying campaign signs is irresponsible

To the dishonest people of the area:

It's a shame people go around destroying other people's property. I have been engaged in helping candidate Steven McGill put up signs for election, but there are a few scum balls that seem to like to destroy them as fast as we can put them up. They are probably the same people that go around stealing flowers off of graves. Please quit this act of irresponsibility.

P.S. We will be responsible for removing the signs when elections are over.

Pipeline worsens abuse of public land

of public land

It is too bad that The Times-News editorial-board cannot find some time to actually visit the Goose Creek allotment and see for themselves what lives stock ranching is doing to our public lands on the Sawtooth National Forest and the Bureau of Land Management in southern Cassia County. If they did, they would discover that a major federal boondogel like the proposed Goose Creek pipeline at Coalbanks Creek will never solve the livestock grazing problems that exist on the allotment.

I would also suggest that readers of The Times-News visit this allotment themselves. What they will discover is a cowblasted land-scape which even the most subservient supporter of public lands ranching would also learn that the locations selected for the stock tanks on the allotment which would receive pumped water from Goose Creek are many miles, hundreds of feet vertical and two fences removed from the original source of the water in Goose Creek and can never comply with Idaho water law for off-stream stock water, which requires that cattle still have access to the source of the water at the same time the stock tanks are in use.

COMMENT Jon Marvel

READER-

Additionally, the location of the water pump station for this pipeline is immediately adjacent to a large pratch of leafy spurge, a nocious weed, on the banks of Goose Creek. No one wants to see noxious weed seeds pumped onto our public lands just to aid a few ranchers.

A little more investigation would also uncover that the Goose Creek pipeline has aiready cost taxpayers more than $60,000, with no sign of environmental improvement after two years of "temporary" use, and aiready the negative impacts from unmanaged live stock in the Coalbanks Greek watershed have put in perll an Idaho rare plant – the Goose Creek milkevitch known only to exist in southern Cassia County. Even if the Goose Creek pipeline is permanently installed, the future for public lands ranchers on this allotment is not a rosy one. Although the pipeline was used this year, many areas on the allotment were badly abused by cattle, including the Coalbanks Creek area served by the pipeline. The Trout Creek riparian pasture was trespassed for an extended period in violation of the term grazing permit, and the Orangeburg Unit of the allotment. Even with this reduction, the ranchers have been unable to successfully manage their livestock. The pipeline is proposed cannot change problems with rancher accountability.

The long-term outlook for the five ranchers on this allotment is for reductions in cattle numbers on the Forest Service portion of the mallotment. Even with this reduction, the ranchers have been unable to successfully manage their livestock. The pipeline is proposed cannot change problems with rancher accountability.

The long-term outlook for the five ranchers on this allotment is for reductions in cattle numbers and exason of use making an already marginal economic use even more tenuous. Citizens who care about healthy wildlife habitat, clean water and recreational opportunities on our public lands are not helped by wasteful proposals like this pipeline.

Larger and longer studies need to be done to determine if the experimental treatment will translate into fewer deaths, but the early results are promising, said Dr. Daniel Rader, director of preventive cardiology at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

Lab tests revealed a likely explanation: All had a gene variation in a key protein component of HDL. The variation contributed to large-rthan-normal HDL particles, which is believed to make HDL cholesterol especially efficient at removing plaque.

State-deems Carey-area dam unsafe

CAREY – State dam safety inspectors are ordering a small organization of water sharehold-ers near Carey to breach their dam or prove they can make needed upgrades.

'Matrix' fans might not rush to series finale

By Steve Crump Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - What a difference a sequel makes.

Last May, the opening weekend of "The Matrix Reloaded" sold out at Iwin Cinema.

This, the opening weekend of its sequel, "The Matrix Revolutions," might not be so frenetic. "The advance ticket sale for this one has not been as great as for 'The Matrix Reloaded," said Larry Roper, who runs Interstate Amusement, which operates movie theaters in Iwin Falls and Jerome.

The reason?

"I didn't think the second movie was nearly as good as the first," said Brian Mitchell, 48, of Jerome, a "Matrix" fan since the original film arrived in 1999.

That's a common complaint in Matrix Nation. Although "The Matrix Reloaded" sold $281 million in tickets and, so far, 56 million in videos and DVDs; it was almost universally panned by critics—and by more than a few "Matrix" fans.

"The fight scenes were kind of drug out and impossible," Mitchell said.

Gooding commissioners nix permit, zoning application fee increases

By Mickey Walker s News correspondent

GOODING—There will be no increase in building permit or zoning application fees in Gooding County—Expressing concerns with the timing, Gooding County commissioners 'decided against a proposal that would have increased certain planning and zoning fees—soine as high as 100 percent.

Planning and Zoning Administrator Judy Daubner submitted the proposal at the Oct. 14 commissioner's meeting, stating that the increases were z necessary cost of doing business.

Daubner had said the fee schedule need in Gooding County had not increased since 1995 and the price per square foot in some categories had not kept pace with those of surrounding counties, such as Jerome and Twin Falls.

But Commission Chairman Rob Sauer said Monday that trying to match the rate fees of surrounding counties might not be in the best interest of Gooding County.

"The economy is just starting to rurn Operart, so I would like to see us leave the fees where they are," he said. "I would like us to be an inviting county where people and businesses want to come."

Current applications cost 5100 for each hearing on special use permits, variances,

Senator blocks effort to reclassify waste | Picabo sees rezoning

The Times-News and . The Associated Press

WASHINGTON V – Idaho South Carolina

WASHINGTON - Idaho, Washington and South Carolina are getting some help from a New Mexico senator in their effort to force the federal government to remove radioactive sludge. Sen. Pete Domenici, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, is blocking legislation to premit high-level radioactive material at Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory and elsewhere to be left in place oxtored in the government's dump in New Mexico.

The Department of Energy wanted the Republican to include the legislation in an ener-gy policy bill that Congress is putting together now. But Domenici Chief of Staff Steve Bell said flatly that there is "no chance that it will happen."

Boise-based U.S. District Judge Lynn Winmill last summer barred the Energy Department's attempt to reclassify the sludge from highly radioactive to so-called transuranic, a lower radiation classification. The department is appealing that decision. But it also turned to Congress to legislatively reclassify the waste so it can either be stored in place or shipped to the underground waste Isolation Pilot Plant near Carlsbad, N.M.

In Idaho, 11 stainless steel tanks in secondary containment structures it 500 feet above the eastern Snake River Plain Aquifer at INEEL near Idaho Falls. The aquifer supplies drinking water to much of southern Idaho and drains into the Snake-River. The Idaho tanks hold nearly I million gallons of sludge left ower from Cold War-era spen muclear fuel reprocessing.

The Energy Department Calms it is unnecessary to remove the sludge and that money could be saved by leaving it there and filling in the tanks with a cement-like grout. The agency contends the waste meets with a cement-like grout. The agency contends the waste meets all the technical specifications, in terms of contents and radiation levels, of transuranic waste. But Winmill ruled in July that the government cannot administratively reclassify sludge at INEEL and sites in Washington and South Carolina. Winmill held that the reclassification plan violated the 1982 Nuclear Waste Folicy Act.

Committee and a leader in drafting the new energy bill, Domenici

One of the most intriguing possible land uses Purdy has discussed involves the 3,000 foot grass runway airport he owns on the north side of the highway. The new R-5 zoning would allow construction of five homes on five-acre tracts with individual adjacent aircraft hangars along the length of the runway, but with setbacks.

To arrive at the rezoning approval Monday, Purdy says he spent more than $100,000 and several years moving his proposed rezoning and replatting changes through the county planning and zoning process and finally to the county commission. Ironically, Purdy was a member of the 1970's Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission that is credited with creating Idaho's first comprehensive county-plan.

Purdy said his basic mothe in the rezoning is to provide his children economic security in the out years. Ski resorts across West get snow

DENVER (AP) – Still trying to rebound from a sluggish economy, ski resorts across the West got a big boost from the weather this week as heavy snow fell from California to Colorado.

"The timing of these-storms-couldn't be better," said Joani Lynch, communications manager for Mammoth Mountain in California.

California.

Mammoth, which added a foot of real snow Monday to several feet of the machine-made version, plans to open with two chairlifts on Thursday.

The snow will help the multi-million-delora ski industry, but it is also welcome news for farmers, ranchers and Western cities that depend on melting snow for much of their water supply. Most of the region has been mired in a years—long—drought—and—snow—helps—reduce the threat of fire.

Before last weekend, much of the West had been dry and warm, with the heat fueling deadly fires in Southern California.

But Brighton, in Utahs Wassatch Mountains, has picked up more than 4 feet of snow and has a 35-inch base, spokesman Dan Malstrom said.

the government but we're not government employees," he said.
"We have to fight and scratch for-every nickel and dime we get so we can turn around and put it back into the community.

Healsy described the new lacility in Twin Falls the agency recently moved in to and how its divisions are now under one roof.

Robinette said the agency received a $500,000 grant from the state to build its new facility and had to finance the other half. The nonprofit also received a waiver from the U.S. Office of Community Service in Washington, D.C., to use its federal funds—normally used for lease money—for morgage payments.

At Monday's commission meet-ing, county commissioners agreed to follow the method used by other counties. The change came after county and college officials met. The new arrange-ment calls for the county to pay a maximum of $3,000 per student without the six-semester time maximum of 53,000 per student without the six-semester time limit.

The change should help parttime students who take longer to finish school because they are working and attending classes. CSI Executive Vice President Jerry Beck said the six-semester rule keeps some students from Finishing college:

About 70 percent of CSI students have jobs, and 50 percent work more than 30 hours a week, Mason said.

Commissioners questioned if they must pay the S50 per credit for people who only take non-credit classes. Beck said counties aren't obligated to pay for noncredit classes.

Freezing weather brings approval to prune

OK, you can prune.

The rule of green thumb is that when we've seen a hard freeze for three consecutive days the treese are as dormant as they're going to get. You can prune them back to knee-high any time you feel like it.

Grab the big loppers and lop off the canes all the same height and the canes all the same height they don't snap off cleanly, use-the small pruners to snip them off. You want the canes as clean as you can get them to eliminate off. You want the canes as clean as you can get them to eliminate hiding places where fungi and insect eggs might lurk.

Put everything you removed into a big trash bag and send it out with the trash man. Rake up as much rose debris off the garden floor as you can and throw that out, too. Do not compost. The bad stuff can easily infect the compost pile.

DEAR CATHY: We live in the country and have a lot of mice around. They are destroying the front lawn and flower beds. They make tunnels and eat the roots off the plants. Is there something off the plants. Is there something besides a hard winter that will get them to move elsewhere and/or die? I've heard that other animals don't like the smell of mothballs. Would it work on mice? Dc.on isn't a good option for us because of the dog and cats that eat mile. (They just don't eat enough of them.) Any suggestions would be appreciated.

SWEET-AND-SOUR DRESSING

2 cups sugar 2 cups white vinegar

2 cups white vinegar

I ceaspoon (or, mor, 10_Inste)
pickling spices tied in cheesecloth Place ingredients in a medium saucepan and boil until sugar melts and mixture is translucent again, about 5 minutes. Cool and transfer to a glass jar and refrigcrate. The dressing will thicken when it's cooled and will last indefinitely in the refrigerator. If you want it a little mellower, whisk in 12 cup light olive oil once the mixture has cooled.

How Do You Feel About Winter?

What's hot, what's not in gardening

By Mary Beth Breckenridge Akron Beacon Journal

The Garden Media Group, a public relations firm that special-izes in horticulture, compiled its forecast of gardening trends for 2004 for the Garden Writers Association:

What's hot: simple chic. What's not over the top.

Tres Fromme, of Pennsylvania's Longwood Gardens, says simple, serene designs with dramatic use of color and texture are the new look. He recommends creating a garden of one color or similar colors, such as pinks, lavenders and ourples. Create a mass of color by planting 10 to 12 plants of a single type rather than a mixture of plants.

McDonald, of Better Homes & Gardens, recommends "one outstanding color, one fabulous container."

What's hot: extending the planting season. What's not: planting just in spring.

Spring flowering bulbs and autumn mums have long been garden staples, but gardeners are finding other ways to add color in the spring and fall. Cool-season annuals, biennials and perennials that can be planted for fall color, then emerge in late winter to decorate the garden once more, are catching on with gardeners.

La Canada, Calif, eight years ago, there was no question that a large room off the back of the house would make a perfect play area for toddlers Louis and Josette. Maskin painted the room light yellow and green as a backdrup for the children's vibrant artwork. Later, artist Dayl Ann Zimmerman produced murals of the family animals – a menagerie of dogs and cats – on several closet doors. A tiny easel was set up in a corner. Pfintsized furniture was arranged around the room.

As the kids grew, the room's decor evolved along with them from craft room to game room, music room and library, Bookcases are filled with children's novels. A huge pine daybed covered with pillogs serves as the perfect place for the children, now 9 and 11, to nap and read. Alribockey and foosball tables provide entertainment for visitors – of all ages. One corner of the room serves as a ministage, with a drum set, an acoustic guitar and an electric guitar. UADRAFIR

Softened water brings nice changes to home

DEAR JIM: I recently stayed at a friend's home that had softened water. The shower water felt wonderful and even washed clothes felt nicer. Is this from the soft water, and if so, what kind of softener should I get?

MAY R

-MAV R

MAY R.

DEAR MAY: Properly softened water can feel better in the shower. This is particularly noticeable in one's hair after being washed. You will also find there is no ring in the bathub or hard-to-clean deposits. The faucet valve seats stay cleaner resulting in fewer dripping faucets. Clothes may also feel nicer when they are washed in softened water. When using unsoftened hard water, calcium and other mineral deposits remain in the fabric. What is worse than the way they feel is that these calcium deposits grind away at the fabric as you wear the clothes. This causes them to, promaturely wear out and lose their colorful filsenew appearance. Check with your local water works department to determine if your water is hard enough to benefit from installing a water sofyour water is hard enough to ben-efit from installing a water sof-tener.

SENSIBLE Номе James Dulley

The Water Quality Association (WQA) considers water with a grains of hardness per gallon to be the "hard water" threshold. Much household water is harder than this. You can expect a water than this. You can expect a various sale and extra water it uses during regeneration salt and extra water it uses during regeneration cycles. Some models have totally mechanical controls which use no electricity. Even the electronic digital models use very little electricity between the controls. The most effective-type of water softener uses an ion exchange process. The hard ions (typically calcium and magnetsum) in the incoming water are exchanged for simple sodium ions which are soluble in the water. The sodium content is very low, but if you are concerned about sodium in your diet, just run a nonsoftened water pipe to your sodium remains.

When selecting a water softener, you should consider its size and the type of controls. The optimum size (in grains of hardness) depends on how much water your family uses and how hard your water is. If you have very hard water, a small core will have to be regenerated-too-often-for-efficiency. Demand-initiated ontrols are best. These are programmed by the installer for your specific water hardness. When the programmed number of gallons of water are used, it automatically regenerates. It is often set to starr at 1 a.m. when little softened water is needed. A two-tank softener system switches between the tanks so softened water is continuously available.

Secrets of sausage: Recipe includes apple cider glaze

SAUSAGES WITH CIDER . GLAZE

SAUSAUES WITH LIDEA CHAZE

2 to 4 servings

4 links smoked sausage (may substitute ... chorizo ... or. other-uncoaked sausage)

2 firm cooking apples, such as Braeburn or Jonagold

2 cups apple cider

Using a fork, prick each sausage several times. Core the apples. Cut each apple into quarters, then cut each quarter into 4 pieces. You should have pieces about 1 inch across. In a large saucepan or skillet over medium-high heat, bring the sausages, apples and cider to a boil. Reduce the heat to medium-low and cook, uncovered until the apples are tender, about 10 minutes depending on the variety of apple. Using a slotted spoon, transfer the apple pieces to a plate; cover to keep warm. Partially cover the pan and continue to simmer until the sausage is warmed through, about 10 more minutes. (If using uncooked sausage, cook until the sausage is cooked through, about 30 minutes.) Transfer the sausage to the plate; with the apples; cover to keep warm. Simmer the cider, uncovered, until it is reduced to a syrupy glaze. You should have a generous 1/4 cup of reduced cider. Drizzle the cider over the sausages and apples and serve immediately.

Gerard has the A-frame

While the Gerard's rear eleva-tion has the richly windowed, A-frame look typical of a vacation retreat, its front facade and full-featured interior make it equally well suited for year-round residen-cy. Painted shutters and a wide-railed porth give the home a wel-coming look. An old-fashioned wooden porth swing can fit in nicely here. The covered porth wraps around to span the entire left side, and transitions into a V-shaped deck at the rear. Don't play with a full duck, cut it up

Such funny creatures, ducks: They waddle when they walk. They quack when they talk in the kitchea, they can fool us into thinking they re just chickens that swim. Until we try to cook them and discover they're birds of a dif-ferent feather.

From my first tentative steps as a cook, ducks called to me. a cook ducks called to me. Consider the flavor of duck most, dark and rich, what steak would unste like if coyes flew. But I've inde mistakes.

On a Chinese dish that involved woksteaming, then frying to crisp the skin, I worked all day and happily presented one duck to four people. We each got to more than a few tantalizing bites. Not much meat in a duck.

Then, I roasted a duck for a dimer for two. Unfortunately, in August when the high heat and constant opening of the own to siphon off a lake of fat made the whole business more trouble than the richest meat was worth. There's a reason duck's cooking season is fall and winter.

With my roasted ducks, too offen, the breast seemed dry and the legs were tough.

Enter Julia Child, at a cooking class at The Greenbrier in West Virginia, who shared three simple words: Cut. It. Up. The problem with duck, she explained, is among the steak-like, Well done, the legs become meltingly tender. Gook them together and you get breasts for roasting or making confit (legs and tight-leg combinations for roasting or making confit (legs slowly posched in duck (fat), Scaled under a layer of fat, the confit keep weeks in the refrigerator, ready to go in a cassoulet or give up meat for stir-fries or spring rolls.

SLOW-ROASTED DUCK LEAS WITH HOISIN-ORANGE GLAZE

o tablespoons orange liqueur, uch its Grand Marnier, Cointreau rTriple Sec 2 teaspoons dark sesame oil Put the duck legs, skin up, in a assting pan just big enough to old them in a single layer. Roast t 350 degrees about 1 1/2 hours.

Use a bulb baster to siphon off excess fat, or carefully lift the pan and spoon the fat off. Combine the hoisin, liqueur and sesame oil and brush on the legs. Return to oven and continuing roasting 30 minutes longer, brushing with glaze about every 5 to 10 minutes, until skin is crisp.

"The Duck Cookbook," by James Peterson

So you still want to roast a whole duck? Here's a way.

Serves 2 to 3.

1 duck, about 4 1/2 pounds hawed if frozen

Salt

1 tablespoon dark soy sauce

r labelspool dark soy sauce or balsamic vinegar Remove giblets and gizzard from duck. Rinse and pat dry. Rub the outside and inside the cavity with salt. Bring several inches of water to boil in a large water wide down to find wok or wide, deep pot fitted with a rack 1 inch above the water. Place the duck, breast up, on the rack. Cover and steam over high heat, adding more boiling water if necessary, until

You will also have skin for cracklings, which can be salted and sprinkled on salads. (Child says cracklings are the best cockrail smack there is). And you get duck fat, with endless uses.
To cut up a duck: Pull and cut away the excess fat and skin around the cavity and neck, setcing it- saide for rendering: Pullout the giblets and gizzard and set aside for stock. Turn the duck breast side down. Unfold the wings and cut away, pulling out to locate the ball joint and cutting through it. Set aside for stock.
Turn the duck breast up and locate the curving wrinkle around

TWICE-COOKED WHOLE DUCK the skin is taut and begins to pull away from the joints on the leg. 50 to 60 minutes. Remove duck from steamer. Cool to room, temperature and brush with soy sauce. (Can be made to this point, wrapped in plastic wrap and refrigerated up to 24 hours. Bring to room temperature before continuing). Hear tho oven to 400 degrees. Place duck on a rack in a rousting pan. Roust until the skin is crisp and very brown, 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from oven, tent with foil and let stand 10 to 20 min-utes before carving.

Remove foil and let stand 10 to the utes before carving.

the top of the leg. Cut through it, toward the carcass. Turn over and continue cutting and pulling away the leg and thigh. Turn breast side up. Slit through the skin along the keel bone, cutting through the skin at the neck. Locate the half-circle wishbone at the top of the neck and pull it forward, cutting and pulling to remove it. Add to stock pile. Cut along the keel bone (the stermun) to begin freeing the breast, pulling it away as you cut along the rib cage. Repeat on the opposite side, yielding two bone-less breasts. Tirm excess skin and fat and add to pile for rendering. When you cut up the duck, or even when you trim the excess fat and skin from a whole duck before roasting, you get the skin and clumps of fat. There are two ways to render it for crackling:

The first method is stow-top rendering. Cut the skin into this strips and put it in a heavy pot with any clumps of fat you pull off the bird. (If you're only doing one-duck at a time, save the skin and fat in a freezer bag until you have enough to fool with.) Add about 1 cup of water. Bring to a simmer over medium heat. Let it cook, watching and smelling to make a strip of the skin will work to be successful burn. After about 55 min doesn't burn. Reduce the hora much burn. Remove the crisp cracklings with a slotted spoon and dry them briefly on a paper towel, then strain the fat and freeze it. Boyer Jewelry

Got leftover cornbread? Just grill it

I first made this main-dish salad make use of leftover corn If first made this main-dish salad to make use of lettover corn bread. I was inspired by panzanella, a salad created by Italian peasants to make use of state bread. Now, I will sometimes make corn bread a day in advance for the single purpose of serving this salad.

GRILLED.

CORN BREAD SALAD

Yield: 6 servings
6 cups roughly crumbled dayold corn bread
3 tablespoons red wine vinegar 1 teaspoon grainy mustard, such as Creole

1/3 cup olive oil 1 can (15 ounces) black beans, rinsed, drained 4 slices crisply cooked bacon, crumbled

2 ripe tomatoes, diced 2 ripe avocados, peeled, seeded, iced

diced

1 each, thinly sliced: small red onion, cucumber
1/4 cup chopped cilantro
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper
Heat oven to 400 degrees. Place crumbled corn bread on greased baking sheet; bake until crunchy, about 7 minutes. Meanwhile, whisk together winegar and mustard Whisk in olive oil; set aside.
Place corn bread in large bowl.

Add black beans, bacon, toma-toes, avocados, onion, cucumber and cliantro; toss to combine. Season with salt and pepper, to taste. Pour reserved dressing over salad ingredients. Toss to com-pletely coat. Let stand 5 minutes before servine.

Edgar Martinez returns to Mariners for $3 million

Edgar Martinez returns to Mariners for $3 million SEATILE - Edgar Martinez
still work talk retirement.

Martinez, who turns 41 in January, agreed Tuesday to a $3 million, one-year contract with the Seattle Martiners, a deal that allows him to earn an additional $4 million based on plate appearances.
It's unclear if Martiner's 18th major league season will be the last for the designated hitter.
The two-time AL batting champion had a $4 million base salary this year and earned $3.5 million in performance bonuses.
He faced a Sunday deadline to file for free agency.
But Martinez wants to finish his career with the Mariners, the only organization he's layed for.

Martinez has several franchise records, including career batting average (315), games (1,914), hits (2,119), extra-base hits (803), doubles (491), RBIs
(1,198), walls (1,225) and runs
(1,174).
He was selected to his seventh AL All-Star team last season and won his fourth "SilverSlugger award after hitting .294 with 24 homers, 98 RBIs and 25 doubles in 145 games.

The vote would involve eight Ausserveryence but those from the tied schools and the winner of the SEC West.

Absent from the SEC's formula are any of the more complex facets of the NFL icobreak system. Ike point differential or net touchdowns - none of them perfect solutions, but all things that are decided on the field. (The NFL has never come does to needing the 11th and final step of the tichreaker, a coin flip.) The NFL sayle system was not on arbitrary, the AbB decided. Abitrary?

OK, tike true SEC athletic directors have advanced beyond the Paleozoic era of a few decades ago, when a bunch of former football coaches might have brought their cigars and their grudges line, a room to parse out the retend.

Sill, these newage ADs certainly have strong opinions, which are the only things that would presumably matter if the conference call comes.

Florida, at No. 17, was seven stake in this and could very well hose the vote if his criteria were used. Even with its win Saturday.

Authurn AD David Housel said this about the possibility: "You would have to ... make a subjective decision is always an arguable, debatable decision."

carried by a school that makes it to the title game, and into a BCS bowl.

Alt, the BCS.

That was Kramer's baby. It promotes a few of the most outdated ideas in all of sports; that it's good to have disputed champions; that it's good to protect a bunch of meaningless bowls; that it's good to teach that mediocrity, like a 6-6 record, is worth rewarding with an expense-paid vacation that ends with a football game; and that it's good to keep people talking about college football, even if many of them spend a lot of time bemoaning how ridiculous the system is.

One of the few good things to be said about the BCS is that tans can at least sort of see it all play out in front of them. They get to watch the games, then see the computer rankings come spitting out every Monday, even if they don't understand them.

SEC fans won't get those luxuries if their three-way tie ensues.

Bloom, a good guy who's forced to spin the SEC's unspinnable side of this story, laughed when some asked him if the conference call would be open to the media.

Asked what would happen is a side of this story, laughed when calls.

ence call would be open to the media.

Asked what would happen in eight ADs split their votes, 3, 3 and 2 for a champion, Bloom guaranteed it wouldn't go down that way.

"They will come out of there with a consensus, hopefully unanimous," he said.

That guarantee might make somebody out there happy.

But it sounds like a bad deal to anyone who invested time, motey or emotion into this season with the quaint notion that a champion would be determined on the field, and not during a conference call.

Lawsuit against Mannings will proceed

BARTOW Fia. (AP) - A female athletic trainer's defamation law-suit can proceed against Indianapolis Colts. quarter back-peyton Manning and his father, a judge ruled.

Judge Harvey Kornstein said Monday there is enough tedence for a jury to hear the case, which stems from a 1996 encounter during: which Manning dropped his pants in front of former University of Tennessee trainer Jamie Ann Naughright.

The querterback,—without using Naughright's name, talks about the encounter in the book he wrote with his father, "Manning: A Father, His Sons and a Football Legacy."
Manning says in the book that he pulled down his pants while the trainer was examining his feet in the Volunteers' locker room.

He said the trainer had a "vul-gar mouth," but concedes his behavior was "inappropriate." "Crude, maybe, but harmless," ne wrote.

Naughright alleges Manning placed his "naked butt" on her face.

She filed the lawsuit in Polk County, Fla., in 2002, two years after the book was published, saying it disparaged her and seeking at least $15,000.

Expansion

"We're going to have to step up in football," Syracuse athletic director Jake Cruthamel said. "Maybe we relied a little too much on Miami in recent years. We're all going to have to step up."

up."

The remaining football schools

The Fact are Syracuse, up."

The remaining football schools in the Big East are Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Rutgers and West Virginia, with Connecticut becoming a full-time member next season. The other members are St. John's, Villanova, Providence, Georgetown, Notre Dame and Seton Hall.

"In 1990, when Miami joined the league and Big East football was created, we were measured on-potential," Tranghese said. "These presidents are looking past today, to five, 10, 15 years down the road to what this league can be."

Conference USA moved quickly to replace the schools it for, adding Marshall, Rice, SMU, Tulsa and Central Fiorida.

"While we clearly would have preferred that no Big East expansion occur, that expectation was unrealistic given the actions of the ACC," Conference USA commissioner Britton Banowsky said. Tranghese was forthright in his criticism of the ACC during its expansion for the way it went about it.

"We had no choice," Tranghese said of taking another league's members. "The ACC had a choice and they made it."

Big East officials hope the new league will be attractive enough to keep its automatic berth in the BCS. The current BCS contract expires after the 2006 bowls, and negotiations for the new contract will begin in a few months.

"We're still one of the six strongest football leagues in the country and we will fail our contractual obligations, and I'm very confident we'll be there in the next go-around," he said.

Trunghese said there is no timetable for deciding if divisions will be formed and how the post-senson basketball tournament will be held, except that it will be the middison Square Garden, which last season completed the second year of an 11-year deal with the Big East.

Going on recent past performances, the new Big East could send half of its teams – or more to the NCAA tournament.

"If we were all together this year, we would have seven of the top 25 teams in the country." Cincinnati coach Bob Huggins said. "I can't remember the last time that happened."

and 11 other states where it already dominates local phone service.

Before this week, Qwest could not provide the service directly: Federal law prohibits former Baby Bells from providing long-distance service in states where they dominate the local phone market until they gain state approval and have closan books.

Qwest so far has received the mod from regulators in all 14 former US West states and final approval from the Federal Communications Commission in 13. FCC approval for Arizona is expected next month.

Qwest did not file audited financial reports for 2000-02 until last month, following an audit aimed at erasing improper accounting. Without audited reports, federal law barred Qwest from routing long-distance calls over its network in the US West states. With the audited reports now filed, the company can move all of its long-distance traffic in 120 the US West states to its own fiber-optic network, Qwest still is negotiating rates with Montana regulators.

Idaho entices California companies

The Times-News and The Associated Press

BOISE – State officials are trying to lure some businesses by showing them how much better the bottom line could be here. Idaho has kicked off an advertising campaign targeting California business leaders, touting how much they could save if they moved or expanded to this state.

The ads, financed with just a portino of the state Commerce Department's $120,000 coomic development budget, have been running in the California editions of the Wall Street Journal and business journals in California's major cities. A Covina, Calif., maker of precision hydraulic valves on Sunday announced intentions to relocate its manufacturing operation to Pwin Falls next summer. Hydro Fitting Manufacturing Corp. owners Seth and Johanne Schwartz said California's employment laws are abrrier to their family-friendly work schechtle, and high costs—both for businesses and consumers—mean small-business wages can't provide the lifestyle they want for employees.

"The stress of doing business in California was getting to everybody."

Johanne Schwartz said.

Idaho estimates businesses pay $2,546 a year per person in state and local taxes. That means a new company with 50 employees would spend annual taxes of $127,300, not to mention the wages carned by those new employees and the money they would spend in the local community. An April survey of 400 bisiness leaders by the California Chamber of Commerce found that one-fifth planned to expand or relocate out of state. Fifteen percent reported being actively courted by other states.

"It's consistently a high-cost state to do business in," said Jay Engstrom, economic development administrator with the Idaho Department of Commerce.

NEW YORK (AP) - Wall Street edged lower Tuesday as investors sought profits from the previous day's session, taking a pause between key economic reports while the earnings season winds down.

while the earnings season winds-down.

After sending the markets higher on an encouraging report from the manufacturing sector Monday, investors were sifting through some of the last third-quarter results and awaiting employment numbers, due later this week. The gap between economic reports made it a good day to take money off the table, said Brian Williamson, an equity trader at The Boston Company Asser Management.

"What you're seeing here is, wind of a void between economic data," Williamson said. "Stocks are up and money mangers have to take profits. really making a huge impact in this country.

Because a growing number of states have mandated personal finance education in public schools, Duguay noted, "we are slowly gaining access to kids."

On the importance of kids learning about money from both parents and teachers:

"Done right, what happens in the home and in school should be complementary," said Janet Bodnar, executive editor of Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine. "There are a lot of whigs you can learn in a classroom situation about money.

Meanwhile, at home you are teaching the values."
On when kids are best able to grasp financial concepts:
"At the high school level, when kids have a job and a paycheck and see the difference between gross income and net income, is when money issues start to sink in," said William Anthes, president and chief executive of the National Endowment for Financial Education.

Micron-laid-off-10-percent-of- its global work force last February, including 1,100 in Boise, and has persisted in an aggressive cost-cutting campaign to limit red ink. Kempthorne credited Micron Chief Executive Steve Applecon with "great-resolve and leader-ship" during the last several difficult years.

"You've seen the corporate leadership is willing to make tough decisions," Kempthorne said. "The leadership of Micron is very proud to call Idaho home, and I don't see that thanging."

The Utah plant, which was expected to employ about 3,500 for chip production when work started on it in 1995, was moth-balled in 1996 after Micron sunk-more-than-8550 million into it to-complete exterior work. It has been used for the past several years as a testing facility for chips fabricated at the main plant in Boise. The payroll was reported at about 800 two years ago, the latest figures available.

The Utah plant was one that some in Twin Falls had labored to attract before Micron picked Lehi; others in Twin Falls fall abored to attract before Micron picked Lehi; others in Twin Falls falls fought to keep it away.

Friend wants to help victim of schoolyard teasing

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 12-yearold girl. My friend at school, "Mindy" is being made fun of by her so-called "friends." They tease and tease and tell Mindy hey're "just kidding." but I can't help thinking they really ARE making fun of her. Please tell me how to stick up for my friend.
—CONCERNED
N MARYLAND
DEAR CONCERNED. You are a supportive friend. Since it's happening at school, report it to the principal – because what those students are doing could be interpreted as harassment.
Kids can be cruel, but it does not have to be tolerated, Your friend – and you – should be able to get an education in a safe environment.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, a friend of mine gave me your "Keepers" booklet. Lenjoyed-it-very much. One of my favorite

DEAR ABBY Abigail Van Buren

pieces was the poem about guest towels. (My mother always put out lovely guest towels, but few people ever used them.) cople ever out lovely guest towes a people ever used them.)

I would like to order a copy of "Keepers" for a friend who is going through a difficult time. I know the holidays will be depressing for her. I think it would inspire her and perhaps give her a lift. The ordering information I have is: "Send a self-addressed envelope, plus a check or money order for $5 (U.S. findels for each copy to: Dear or money order for $5 (U.S. funds) for each copy to: Dear Abby - Keepers, P.O. Box 447, Mount-Morris, IL 61054:0447: mount-Morris, IL 61054:0447. (Postage is included.)" Are the booklets still $5 and is the address still correct?

Is the JENNIE: Yes, that's still correct of the JENNIE is the JENNIE: Yes, that's still correct ordering information. I'm pleased you enjoyed the poemabour guest towels. From time to time, readers have asked me for copies to display in their powder rooms. Read on:

Guest Towel Speaks by Mabel Craddock

Please use me, guest; Don't hesitate. Don't turn your back Or vacillate. Don't dry your hands On petticoat, On handkerchief, Or redingote. Em here to use; Em made for drying. Just hanging here Gets very tiring.

TDEAR ABBY: My teen-age daughter has a close girlfriend who (at 14) started having sex with a 17-year-old "family friend." I happen to know that this girls mother was a teenage mom, and her goal has always been to prevent her daughter from repeating the same mistake. My daughter made me promise not to "rat" on her friend to hermother, but I think the girls mom should know that her daughter is engaging in sexual relations – as well as the fact that they're not, using protection. However, I do not want to berray my daughter's trust. Should I mind my own business, Abby?

ADDY? -ANONYMOUS MOM IN NEVADA
DEAR ANONYMOUS MOM Absolutely not. A young woman's future hangs in the balance. That mother needs to know her daughter is sexually active. Wouldn't you want to know?

Car pooling could mean giving up your private time

You can talk to yourself while driving to work, And hum old tunes. And think about your first bike or where you'd like to go come Summer. Alone in your car could be your only solitary time all day. Some theorists think you'll never give up that highly prized time by yourself. Means too much to you. They doubt you'll ever accept a car pool. What do you think?

O. Ask your fore and War man.

think?
Q. Ask your Love and War man this When a husband or wife is unfaithful, which is more likely to admit it later?
A. The husband, he says. It is not uncommon for a Maine moose, citifed by hunger, to walk through a storefront window. The moose is to the deer what the tame turkey is to fowl: stupid. Claim is the thin-skinned grape-

Among moths, males outnumber females three to one, but I don't know what they can do about it.
You've seen a bee inside a window pane. Bumping and bumping to get out. If it can't find freedom, it will probably die in an hour or so. Of stress. Bees do that, scientists say.

Q. What's a "mudbug"?

A. "Crawfish" in Cajun talk.

Consider husbands or wives who have affairs. In two out of three cases, their matrimonial mates find out. Research has proved that. Client asks, Howmany of these injured spouses-immediately file for divorce?

That's not known. But our Love and War man says the offended who divorce fall into two cate-gories: (1) those forced to file by their unfaithful partners, and (2) those who're been waiting for a clearcut reason to file.

10985 Today's slam is obviously an excellent contract, but that is the time to be especially careful. When you believe you are in a contract that will make against all normal lies of the cards, try to protect yourself against the unexpected.

protect yourself against the unexpected.

The point is that once you have tost a diamond trick, you have 11 tricks on top. All you need then is for either red suit to behave favorably. Diamonds are likely to split, and you have at least a 50 percent, thance of finding the heart queen, but it is possible to combine your chances in such a way that the contract is virtually 100 percent. Start by cashing the diamond ace and then lead a diamond to dummy's jeek. If diamonds are 3-2, or if East has the four-card holding (so that you have a marked finesse in the suit), you can claim immediately, so let us suppose West started with K-10-fourth of diamonds. He could not almost a suppose west started with K-10-fourth of diamonds. He could not a plate, but once he has played low, you have two diamond suit on a plate, but once he has played low, you have two diamond tricks without losing one.

Now that you have seven black-suit winners and two diamond tricks in the bag, all you have to suit winners and two diamond tricks in the bag, all you have to do is run the heart jack to East, the safe hand, who has no dia-monds left. Whether the finesse wins or loses, you are guaranteed four spade tricks, three hearts, two diamonds and three clubs for NORTH ANSWER: Jump to two no-trump, Rebidding one spade should show an unbalanced hand, while jump-raising hearts with this shape would be totally inappropriate. Your diamond stop may be modest, but who could argue with the statement that your hand is a balanced 18-19 count (too strong to open a 15-17 no-trump) and not something else?
