Bush: Saddam should die

President's view puts U.S. at odds with Europe, U.N.

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Saddam Hussein deserves the "ultimate penalty" for his crimes, President Bush said Tuesday, putting the United States sharply at odds with Europe and the United Nations which adamantly oppose the death penalty.

A day after saying his own views about Saddam's fate were unimportant, Bush decided to step forward and publicly state his opinion, a position that could carry considerable influence in determining the punishment of the deposed Iraqi leader. The administration blames him for killing 300,000 people.

"Let's just see what penalty he gets, but I think he ought to receive the ultimate penalty... for what he has done to his people,"

Bush said. "I mean, he is a torturer, a murderer they had rape rooms. This is a disgusting tyrant who deserves justice, the ultimate justice."

Bush made his comments in an interview with ABC News' Diane Sawyer and the network released a transcript of the remarks.

Even while expressing his views, Bush said Saddam's punishment "will be decided not by the president of the United States but by the citizens of Iraq in one form or another." He also said that Iraqis are "capable of conducting the trial themselves."

Bush has long been a proponent of capital punishment. During his six years as governor of Texas, 152 convicts were put to death.

In the case of Saddam, the death penalty issue could cause friction between the United States and Europe. All 15 member nations of the European Union have abolished capital punishment, and they often encourage other countries - most notably the United States - to abolish it.

But it is unclear how strenuously they would object to a death sentence for Saddam.

Enviros, ranchers talk on lands issue

By Jennifer Sandmann Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - An unlikely mix of ranching and environmental interests attended a meeting Tuesday night that turned into a discussion about hard feelings and distrust over public land use in Twin Falls and Cassia counties.

The purpose of the meeting wasn't well understood as little information was available beforehand. About 30 people attended. Several started things out with questions about what was going on. They made it clear that they believed all people with interests in public land - not just local ranchers - should be included in discussions about any potential changes in management policies.

It must be a collaborative process with all stakeholders at the table, said Duane Reynolds of the Sierra Club.

Buzz Fawcett, a former aide to Gov. Dirk Kempthorne, is based in Washington D.C. with the law firm Perkins Coie LLP. He and Bob Maynard, who works for Perkins Coie, have been hired by Idaho to implement recommendations made about three years ago to bring more state influence into management of federal lands in five areas of Idaho. The recommendations were a product of the Federal Lands Task Force, a project funded by the Idaho Legislature.

The recommendations targeted four areas in northern Idaho timber country. The fifth area involves 1.3 million acres of land managed by the Bureau of Land Management and Sawtooth National Forest in Twin Falls and Cassia counties.

"We are here. We are interested in your views," Fawcett said in answer to concerns that only special interests are being included in discussions.

The original Cassia/Twin Falls proposal called for shifting all of the acreage to a land trust that would be managed by state appointees. The land still would have remained in federal ownership. It was described as a way to pull the land out from under cumbersome federal management to allow for more on-the-ground action - both for use of resources and environmental protection.

But the consultants said they aren't wed to that proposal and that they wanted to gather other ideas.

In response to a question by Cassia County Commissioner Dennis Crane, most people in the room raised their hands in agreement that solutions are needed to

Searchers pull body from reservoir

By Rebecca Meany Times-News writer

ROGERSON - Against a desolate, wind-whipped background, searchers Tuesday pulled from the water at Salmon Falls Creek Reservoir the body of a drowned teen.

Bradley DeCarr, 16, was reported missing Dec. 3 at Drexler Park. Searchers had spotted his body underwater, but recovery efforts were hampered by rough weather and malfunctioning equipment.

Boats hit the water Tuesday around 11 a.m. Searchers, including four divers from the Minidoka County Sheriff's Department dive team, located the body and were able to maintain a steady position in the choppy water long enough to make contact, said Nancy Howell, Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department spokeswoman.

"The boat was moving around so much we couldn't get a fixed location," she said. Gene and Sandy Ralston offered the use of their boat and equipment, including Side Scan Sonar - through Idaho Mountain Search and Rescue Unit, Inc. The sonar equipment can look sideways and uses sound echoes to locate underwater images.

"We had our underwater camera in our boat," Howell said. "Searchers kept going up and down between the bridge and the reservoir until they found him."

To keep warm, two divers stayed in the command unit, a 1977 Pace Arrow belonging to the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department, until they were needed to retrieve the body. The other two divers operated the camera.

The body was found about 40 feet down. Divers had gone as far as 90 feet down looking for the teen, Howell said.

Divers wore wet suits and stayed in the water for just over 10 minutes at a time because of the cold. Ambulances were on hand to help their recovery as they emerged from the frigid water.

Some divers use dry suits, which are often made of neoprene and are better at keeping water from getting under the suits. The suits are too costly for many smaller search and rescue teams. Some models run as high as $3,000.

Divers pulled the body out around 1:30 p.m.

Two friends, one of whom was with DeCarr the day of the incident, saw the search vehicles traveling down the road and came to watch the recovery, Howell said. Officials notified them when the body was about to be pulled from the water so they would have a witness that portion of the recovery.

Family and friends of DeCarr had been disappointed at the pace of the search, the lack of information available and the faulty equipment that created setbacks.

"I just don't understand it," said Brenda Webster, DeCarr's aunt, who lives in Lynden, Wash. "It was three hours before they began

World remembers 100th anniversary of Wright's first flight

Knight Ridder News Service

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - Wilbur and Orville Wright awoke early the morning of December 17 a century ago to find water frozen in a pot and wash basin inside their decrepit camp shelter near Big Kill Devil Hill.

They lit a stove Orville had built, warming their sore joints as the embers flared, and firing up their Orville-built French drip coffee pot. Through the thin-plank walls, they could hear the blustery wind, gusting 22 to 27 mph, making it feel like 4 degrees at full assault.

Flight in Magic Valley

completed high school achieving something humans had long dreamed of and many had died trying.

A moment frozen in time that 100 years later has drawn the world to the same narrow strand on the North Carolina Outer Banks to pay homage to an invention - and the indomitable spirit of its inventors - that has influenced about every facet of life.

The global celebration culminates Wednesday, with the attempted flight of a reproduction of the plane that propelled the

Ring

Continued from A1. "The fans of these movies are very loyal," Harris said Tuesday afternoon.

How loyal? It was 21 degrees here Monday morning.

Harris' showtimes sold out for the midnight screenings by the time Twin Falls Cinema resumed selling advance tickets Tuesday evening.

Multiplex that by thousands of screens nationwide: The prospect of staving up until 3:30 in the morning didn't daunt fans like Sylvia Fortner at all.

Sylvia, who's an 11-year-old fifth-grader in Kimberly, was bound for the Twin Falls premiere Tuesday night with her mom, Maggie, who teaches at Twin's Robert Stuart Junior High School.

And one of Maggie's students was planning to turn up for the opening in costume and with painted ears, just like the elves played by Orlando Bloom and Liv Ullmann in the movie.

"I'm really looking forward to it," she said.

Sylvia read J.R.R. Tolkien's books on which the "Ring" movies are based and liked them, but her mom didn't warm up to the world of Middle-earth until the films came out.

"Until I saw the movies, I thought the books were kind of boring," Maggie said.

"They attract audiences across the board," Harris said. "Families, kids, young people."

Harris reckons that "King" could outdo the two monster Disney hits from last summer, "Pirates of the Caribbean" and "Finding Nemo."

It certainly will if Sylvia Fortner has anything to do with it. She saw "Fellowship of the Ring," the first movie, five times, and made three trips to watch its sequel, "The Two Towers."

It's not only external evils that are festering in the Ring, but also internal dissension and the corrupting influence of the One Ring, Isildur. The course of future history is entwined with the fate of the Fellowship.

The "Two Towers," released in December 2002, begins in the hills of Eryn Mui, where lost Hobbits Frodo and Sam (Astley) discover they are being followed by the mysterious Gollum (Andy Serkis). A mercurial creature who has himself been warped by the Ring, Gollum promises to guide the Hobbits to the Black Mountain. But the Ring is not only external evils that are festering in the Ring, but also internal dissension and the corrupting influence of the One Ring, Isildur. The course of future history is entwined with the fate of the Fellowship.

And I'm hoping I get the video for Christmas," she said. "Return of the King" back really, is the length," Harris said. "It's a 1 1/2-hour movie, so exhibitors can't show it as many times."

The story so far...

In the "Fellowship of the Ring," released two years ago, the young Hobbit Frodo Baggins (Elijah Wood) inherits a ring: it's the One Ring, an instrument of absolute power that could allow Sauron, the dark lord of Mordor, to rule Middle-earth and enslave its peoples.

Across Middle-earth Aragorn (Mortensen), the Elf archer Legolas (Bloom) and Gimli the Dwarf (Rhys-Deywis) encounter the besieged Rohan kingdom, whose once great King Theoden (Bernard Hill) has fallen under Saruman's (Christopher Lee) deadly spell through the manipulations of his spy, the sinister Wormtongue (Brad Dourak).

Miranda Otto, the niece to the King, recognizes a letter in Aragorn. And though he finds himself drawn to her, Aragorn is constantly reminded of his enduring love for the Elf Arwen (Liv Ullmann) and the pact they made together.

Gandalf (McKellen) has been reborn as Gandalf the White following his epic, acolytic fight with the Balin, and renews Aragorn of his destiny to unite the Rohan people with the last remaining stronghold of Human resistance, Gondor. In their parallel journeys, they stand against the powerful forces spreading from the Two Towers, Orthanc Tower in Isengard, where Saruman has built a lethal army of 10,000 Storc, and Sauron's fortress at Barad-dour, deep within the dark lands of Mordor.

"And I'm hoping I get the video for Christmas," she said. "Return of the King" back really, is the length," Harris said. "It's a 1 1/2-hour movie, so exhibitors can't show it as many times."

Wright

Continued from A1. world into powered flight. Researched and built to the nth degree by the Virginia-based Wright Experience, the plane will roll down a launch rail Wednesday morning, at 10:35, the moment the real 1903 Wright Flyer went airborne, Orville at the controls.

They were a perfect team, these two well-read brothers of simple tastes, always bouncing ideas off each other and keeping a strict code of equal work and equal credit. They were practical and family-minded too, wanting to be home in Dayton, Ohio, by Christmas. Yet they were absolute risk takers, determined to fly their spindly wood-wire-and-muslin machine - propelled by a 12-horsepower engine - before they left for home.

By a coin flip, Orville was on deck to take the controls first that morning.

"They weren't going to go anywhere until they flew that airplane, or suffered some catastrophe that guaranteed they were not going to fly," said Wright brothers biographer Tom Crouch, senior curator at the National Air and Space Museum in Washington.

"These guys were engineers who had run the numbers and knew what it took to get off the ground."

Since 1896, they had been interested in flight, studying what went wrong in a glider accident that killed German aeronaut Otto Lilienthal.

The brothers began building kites, then built their first glider in 1899, and found the Outer Banks to be their increasingly more sophisticated aircraft.

On Monday, Dec. 14, a clear and cold but calm morning, they pushed the plane from its hangar. After attaching the rudder and elevator, they hung a red flag, a signal to crew members from the nearby Kill Devil Hill Lifesaving Station to help them move the Flyer.

With little wind, they had to take off from a slope off the dune, along a wooden 40-foot launching rail.

Their plan was to start from ground level, not from the dune, for the Wrights to claim the first powered flight. Scattered near the plane was a wooden bench, a grease-and-oil can, shovel and a box of batteries that helped crank the engine.

After pulling out the Flyer, they reached the rudder and elevator. Up went the flag for lifesavers to come help.

As three of them - A.C. Etheridge, Willie Dough and John T. Daniels - trudged across the beach, hands in pockets and jacket collars pulled high, Orville set up his Kormora-V camera on a tripod. He trained the lens at the end of the launch rail, where if he was successful the plane would lift.

The crew members came with a teenager named Johnny Moore, and a Mantee-man named W.C. Brinkley happened to be walking by and stayed to help. Kitty Hawker Bill Tate, who had urged the brothers to come to the Outer Banks in 1890 and had helped with many of the glider flights, stayed home that day, certain the fierce winds would keep them grounded.

The plane would have to start from ground level, not from the dune, for the Wrights to claim the first powered flight. Scattered near the plane was a wooden bench, a grease-and-oil can, shovel and a box of batteries that helped crank the engine.

The incident compounded the agony for an already-grieving family. Webster said they were searching for the death of DeCuer's grandfather, who was buried four weeks before the teen's death.

As the search for the teen went on, the family's frustration increased.

"It was a 13-day waiting game, and we couldn't put any closure on this," she said. "Some of the sadness turned to relief, however, as news of the retrieval."

"We are just so thrilled at having his body," Webster said. "DeCuer's wishes were that he be buried in Twin Falls with the parents from his Baptist church-officiating," Webster said. "If you can believe it or not, we were talking about that with my friends not too long ago," she said.

Employers' legal fears may have allowed suspect to get other jobs

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A former nurse who claims to have killed as many as 40 patients over the past 16 years was fired from at least two hospitals and was even the subject of a murder investigation. But Charles Cullen kept managing to land another job.

Authorities say the case underscores serious flaws in a system in which hospitals report only limited information about nurses to other prospective employers for fear they might get sued. A severe nursing shortage may have also played a part.

"Short of an actual conviction for a criminal act, there is nothing that needs to be reported when someone is fired," said Dr. William Cors, Somerset Medical Center's chief medical officer. "That needs to change."

Cullen, 43, is charged with murdering a Roman Catholic clergyman and attempting to kill another patient at Somerset Medical Center. More charges could follow after prosecutors complete their investigation of Cullen's claims that he killed 30 to 40 patients at nine hospitals and a nursing home in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Prosecutors say he gave the identity of all patients lethal drug overdoses to end their suffering.

Despite Cullen's spotty record, officials at Somerset had found nothing wrong after checking his credentials. That is because most hospitals will only confirm the dates of employment for a former worker and will not make a positive or negative recommendation.

"We validated that he had an active New Jersey nursing license," Cors said. "We had reference checks—from a previous employer. It was your standard." He worked from this date to that date without any recommendation either way.

Similarly, Donna Leusner, a spokeswoman for the state Department of Health and Senior Services, said hospitals are only required to report to the state agency suspicions of criminal activity that endangers the lives of patients or employees.

Charles Cullen, 43, of Bethlehem, Pa., is shown in a courtroom in Somerville, N.J., Monday, Cullen, 43, told authorities he administered drug overdoses to put 30 to 40 'very sick' patients out of their misery over the last 16 years in nine hospitals and a nursing home in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Cors said the health-care industry needs to be able to share information about fired workers, either through voluntarily changing reference policies, or through legislation compelling hospitals to do so. Somerset officials have already spoken with several New Jersey legislators asking for new laws to improve reporting requirements on fired workers.

"It's not acceptable to be so afraid of our shadows that we can't pass along information of concern because we're afraid of getting sued," Cors said.

Cullen had bounced from hospital to hospital.

In August 1997, he was fired from Morristown Memorial Hospital for "poor performance," said Joan Lebow, a spokeswoman for the hospital's parent corporation.

He worked at Sacred Heart Hospital in Allentown, Pa., for only two weeks in July 2002 before being fired for "interpersonal problems with existing employees."

Sacred Heart spokesman Chris Scoll said hospital officials had checked his references before hiring him, but in most cases, all they learned were the dates of his employment.

"If somebody called here, that's what we would do, too," Scoll said. "We would give their dates of employment, and nothing else. It's basically a confidentiality issue."

In some instances, previous employers recommended Cullen. A spokesman for St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem, Pa., where Cullen worked from June 2000 to June 2002, said the hospital got positive references from Lehigh Valley Hospital and Liberty Nursing home in Allentown.

Bush signs so-called 'can spam' legislation into law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush signed legislation Tuesday meant to stem the flood of unwanted e-mail pitches that irritate Internet users and drain the economy.

"Spam, or unsolicited e-mails, are annoying to consumers and costly to our economy," White House spokesman Scott McClellan said after Bush signed the bill.

"This will help address the problems associated with the rapid growth and abuse of spam by establishing a framework of technological, administrative civil and criminal tools, and by providing consumers with options to reduce the volume of unwanted e-mail."

The bill was among several Bush was signing during the day. He signed several others previously but was posing at official signing ceremonies for them throughout the day.

In the Oval Office on Tuesday morning, Bush signed the so-called "can spam" legislation. Passed by Congress earlier this month, the measure outlays the persistent techniques used by e-mailers who send tens of millions of messages each day to peddle their products and services.

The bill supplants anti-spam laws already passed in some states, including California.

It also encourages the Federal Trade Commission to create a do-not-spam list of e-mail addresses and includes penalties for spammers of up to five years in prison in rare circumstances.

FDA mulls changing rules for morning-after pill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emergency contraception — the morning-after pill — should be available without a prescription, on pharmacy shelves next to the aspirin and cough medicines government advisers said Tuesday.

The nation's largest gynecologists group had urged the move, saying it would greatly increase women's ability to get the pills in time to prevent pregnancy within 72 hours of rape, contraceptive failure or just not using birth control.

Used widely, emergency contraception "could cut in half the nation's 3 million unintended pregnancies each year, and in turn prevent hundreds of thousands of abortions, proponents told scientific advisers to the Food and Drug Administration."

"There is a public health imperative to increase access to emergency contraception," said Dr. Vivian Dickerson, president-elect of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

The FDA's advisers agreed, on a 27-4 vote, that the Plan B morning-after pill should be sold over the counter. A key consideration, they cautioned, would be clearer wording on the package so that women understand:

- Use it as soon as possible after unprotected sex. Although it's highly effective for 72 hours — cutting a woman's chance of getting pregnant by up to 89 percent — it works best in the first 24 hours.

- Like other hormonal contraceptives, it does not protect against sexually transmitted diseases.

- It is a backup contraceptive, and should not be used instead of routine birth control.

Cost could deter some women from using emergency contraception too regularly. Each one-time-use pack today costs $20 to $30, about as much as a month's worth of regular birth control pills. It's not clear if the over-the-counter price would change.

Saddam loyalists battle U.S. troops

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) - Saddam Hussein loyalists rioted in Baghdad, ambushed a U.S. patrol in Samarra, stormed the office of a U.S.-backed mayor in Fallujah and battled American troops in Ramadi - making it clear that Saddam's capture has not quelled violence in Iraq.

As guerrilla attacks continued Monday night and Tuesday, the 4th Infantry Division snared a leader of the insurgency and 78 other people in a raid north of Baghdad, not far from where Saddam was captured three days earlier.

A roadside bomb wounded three American soldiers in Saddam's hometown of Tikrit, and a pro-Saddam demonstration in the northern city of Mosul ended in violence, with a policeman killed and a second injured.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Richard Myers, said in Baghdad on Tuesday that military planners were preparing for American troops to stay in Iraq for up to two more years despite capturing the former Iraqi leader.

The 4th Infantry Division raid in the village of Abu Safa, near Samarra and about 60 miles north of Baghdad, began late Monday after insurgents in Samarra ambushed U.S. forces. The U.S. military said its troops killed 11 of the attackers, who released a flock of pigeons to signal one another that the American patrol was in range. No Americans were hurt.

By early Tuesday, U.S. troops arrested Qais Hattam, the No. 5 fugitive on the 4th Infantry's list of "high value targets," said Capt. Gaven Gregory of the division's 3rd Brigade. The guerrilla leader was described as a major financier of insurgents who have been fighting the U.S.-led coalition for months.

Maj. Josslyn Aberle, spokeswoman for the 4th Infantry, said all those captured in the raid were in one room and apparently conducting a meeting to plan future attacks.

Ranchers

Continued from A1 federal land management problems. Twin Falls and Cassia counties are being given the chance, he said.

"We can set the table for this community to solve the problem," Fawcett said.

Changes in management structure would require enactment of federal legislation.

Rancher and state Rep. Scott Bedke, R-Oakley, has suggested combining management under a single agency. Until local solutions are reached, Bedke said both sides of the debate will continue to wait for political winds to shift to further their interests.

"We'll always be looking to the next election," he said.

Other options suggested by people interested in seeing change included a local committee to advise federal agencies on management issues and to facilitate improved relationships. Twin Falls attorney Curtis Webb said he wasn't convinced an advisory committee would work.

CIA interrogates Saddam

Agents work to capture other guerrilla leaders

Saddam Hussein

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA is taking the lead in overseeing the interrogation of former Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said Tuesday.

Central Intelligence Agency head George Tenet will decide who will interrogate Saddam and what information they will seek, Rumsfeld said at a Pentagon news conference.

Rumsfeld would not say whether Saddam had offered any information of value.

"Characterizing his general relationship with his captors, probably the best word would be resigned," Rumsfeld said.

The defense secretary said Saddam was being "accorded the protections" of prisoners of war but was not formally designated as a POW. Rumsfeld defended the Pentagon's release of a videotape of Saddam after his capture, saying Iraqis needed to see proof that the former dictator was "off the street, out of commission." The Geneva conventions governing treatment of POWs bans such prisoners from being displayed publicly as objects of ridicule. While some critics have said the Saddam videos did that, Rumsfeld disagreed.

"He has been handled in a professional way," Rumsfeld said. "He has not been held up to public curiosity in any demeaning way by reasonable definitions of the Geneva convention."

During the questioning, U.S. intelligence agencies are turning their efforts toward rounding up remaining principals of Saddam's regime who may be playing a more direct role than the now-captured former president did in running guerrilla operations in Iraq, officials say.

Some insurgents evidently kept Saddam informed about their activities "on the chance that someday he might be able once again to be their patron," Brig. Gen. Martin Dempsey, commander of the 1st Armored Division in Iraq, told CNN on Tuesday.

Intelligence stemming from Saddam's capture has led to arrests of some of Saddam's supporters who provided money to the insurgents, Dempsey said.

"Within the first 24 hours of the capture of Saddam Hussein in which we were able to analyze and we captured some high-level former Baath leaders that again we consider to be the network that was providing the financial support for the cell structure in Baghdad," Dempsey said.

A former Iraqi general was among those detained, a senior defense official said Monday, speaking on the condition of anonymity.

Officials in Washington said the interrogation effort has made little progress, however, in gaining information as to whether Iraq had weapons of mass destruction or ties to the al-Qaida terror network — among the chief stated reasons for the U.S.-led invasion of his country. They described Saddam as compliant but unhelpful.

Lawyer argues Malvo was 'cult of one'

CHESAPEAKE, Va. (AP) — A jury in the murder trial of Lee Boyd Malvo got the case Tuesday after his lawyer argued the teenager was completely under the spell of mastermind John Allen Muhammad when he took part in the Washington sniper shootings.

Defense lawyer Michael Arif said Malvo, desperate for a father figure, found the wrong man to emulate in Muhammad and eventually became "a cult of one" with Muhammad as his leader.

"Lee could no more separate himself from John Muhammad than you could separate from your shadow on a sunny day," Arif told the jury.

But prosecutor Robert F. Horan Jr. said Malvo was as responsible as Muhammad, calling the pair "peas in a pod."

"Their belief, as wild and vicious as it was, was that if they killed enough people, the government would come around" and meet their demand for $10 million, Horan said.

Malvo's attorneys have argued the 18-year-old was temporarily insane because of Muhammad's brainwashing, causing him to blur the distinction between right and wrong.

In closing arguments, Arif told the jury that Malvo was "the last victim of John Muhammad."

But Horan said Malvo and Muhammad both share the blame.

"Their willingness to kill, and do it for money, is common to both of them," he said.

Malvo is charged with the Oct. 14, 2002, slaying of FBI analyst Linda Franklin during a three-week rampage in the Washington, D.C., area.

Taxing services may help state fuel revenue coffers

When the Idaho Legislature passed a one-cent sales tax increase last spring, it decreed the increase would sunset in the summer of 2005.

But a sunset is usually followed by a sunrise. What will a new day of tax reform mean to Idahoans?

Between now and July 1, 2005, legislators will probably keep talking about a sales tax on services. The basic idea is to lower the overall sales tax from its current 6 percent rate, down to 2 percent or 3 percent. The state would replace the lost revenue by taxing currently exempt services. (Legal, medical, construction and auto repair services are potential examples.)

Some legislators think those changes could prevent further program cuts in the 2005-06 fiscal year. Some even predict additional revenue for the state. State data show spending on untaxed services has over the past 14 years, from $4.7 billion to $14 billion. Spending on taxed goods has only doubled in that time.

Lawmakers have nothing to lose by reviewing the possibility of taxing services. Various industries will certainly defend their sales tax exemptions. But if services are the fastest-growing economic sector, shouldn't they share the tax burden?

House Speaker Bruce Newcomb, R-Burley, seems to grow more receptive to taxing services as time passes. Newcomb has doubts that the state's economy is on a swift recovery.

For that reason, he opposes reducing the sales tax in the coming session. Some conservative lawmakers have proposed a half-cent reduction, from 6 percent to 5.5 percent, for the 2004-05 budget.

In our view, Newcomb is right not to fiddle with the sales tax before 2005. The state is still in recovery mode, and it makes no sense to tear down a

Our view: Legislators should continue examining the best ways to address the one-cent sales tax sunset.

What do you think? We welcome viewpoints from our readers on this and other issues.

new tax structure that has helped the state build a $30 million surplus, when other states are still fighting red ink.

Newcomb's other proposal, to reduce the one-cent sales tax increase by a quarter-percent each year until 2009, also is worth considering.

For now, though, state leaders should wait, watch and consider the following points:

Keep the 2004 session short. Thanks to a $50 million federal government windfall, and the current $30 million tax surplus, the upcoming Legislature should be a much easier session than last year's. That will save Idahoans' tax dollars, and their patience. If the tax structure ain't broke, don't fix it.

Watch the market. The rebounding stock market is excellent news for Idaho. The public employee pension fund is up to $7.3 billion, and the state's permanent endowment fund has rebounded to a balance of $735 million. Both balances are close to their pre-2001 levels. Investment growth is good news for schools, colleges and state worker benefits.

Try again to raise alcohol taxes. Beer and wine taxes have been stagnant for 30 to 40 years. Raising these tax rates (if only to keep pace with inflation) is long overdue. Adding a tax to soda beverages and cable TV would also generate income.

University centers can work

The mishandled University Place project has plunged the University of Idaho into a legal and ethical morass. But taxpayers, legislators and members of the State Board of Education should not sour on the concept of satellite university centers.

Without such a center, southern Idaho may never receive the higher education opportunities it deserves.

The Magic Valley remains the most underserved region in the state, in terms of four-year college degree programs. The university center concept can work, and it is sorely needed at the College of Southern Idaho.

Idaho leaders should clear up the University Place fiasco and apply its lessons to properly funding satellites elsewhere. CSI officials, and local residents, need to remain dedicated to that goal.

Saddam's capture boosts Dean's rivals

"Don't gloat" was surely the advice President Bush got after Saddam Hussein's sensational capture. So, in his best just-the-facts-in-a-demeanor, leader-of-the-Free World announced Sunday that the disheveled, deposed dictator of Iraq "will face the justice he denied to millions."

If ever there was an instance of patience paying off, this was it. Just listen to some of the president's would-be critics, such as retired general and former Bill Clinton official Barry McCaffrey, who said the president demonstrated "tremendous political and moral courage" throughout the Iraq ordeal. Of Saddam's capture and the continuing success in the war on terror, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said, "It means the overwhelming re-election of George Bush, so he it, I say, fine."

Today's GOP tip sheet will no doubt note that taking down Saddam and his entire regime took less than nine months from start to finish - light-years better than what any Democrat had predicted. Especially Democrat Howard Dean, who bet his presidential hopes on a Bush failure in Iraq. Now, Saddam is in U.S. custody, and Dean's political fortunes are flapping in the breeze. At least for the moment.

But this weekend's break-through could leave Bush with just a temporary boomlet if he doesn't quickly bring the Iraqi insurrection to a complete end. It is still looking like a somewhat Pyrrhic victory if Baghdad is still belching bombs and body bags come Election Day.

Bush could also easily misplay what is now a strong hand by drawing down U.S. troop levels too quickly or turning power over to an Iraqi government incapable of maintaining order. The president has been pushed constantly to get on with his exit strategy. This is not the moment to get hasty. He must stick to his original pledge to stay in Iraq as long as it takes to do the job and not a day longer.

RICHARD SCHWARTZ

The psychological impact of putting the bloodiest tyrant of our time behind bars cannot be overstated. Bush's command of the global stage is now greater than ever, as are his odds of re-election.

bloodiest tyrant of our time behind bars cannot be overstated. Bush's command of the global stage is now greater than ever, as are his odds of re-election. Saddam's capture may boost the fortunes of the three legislators cum presidential candidates who voted for Bush's war resolution last year: Sens. John Kerry and Joe Lieberman and Rep. Dick Gephardt have been playing catchup with Dean, who opposed the war from Day One. Now having supported the war isn't such bad politics after all. Their poll numbers should improve as Dean's decline. One other political loser in all this is Al Gore, who stiffed former running mate Lieberman last week to endorse Dean and thus became a major shareholder in the anti-war wing of the Democratic Party. He tried to time the market, and he lost.

Recent ruling casts shadow over free speech

DAVID S. BRODER

McCain-Feingold for the past 13 months while the legal challenge was being heard.

In this new "golden era," President Bush is on his way to breaking the all-time record by raising almost $200 million for his re-election campaign, while two Democrats for the first time have rejected the public financing system which limits spending for the nomination. Meantime, millionaires such as George Soros and major interest groups are pouring money into supposedly independent political organizations, which will replace party "soft money" spending on voter registration and turnout programs.

The question, then, is whether the limited purifying effects are worth the restrictions on political activity embodied in the act, or whether Justice Antonin Scalia is right in contending that "the justice is not worth the squeeze."

Unlike Scalia and the other dissenters, I think the court got it exactly right in upholding the ban on the unlimited, frequently six-figure "soft money" contributions to the parties from business, labor and wealthy individuals. Corporations and unions have been barred from contributing to federal candidates for decades and the courts have long sustained the constitutionality of limits on the size of individual contributions. The "soft money" loophole was created by administrative action and was then ruthlessly exploited by both political parties. Shutting it down was an overdue step.

Far more troubling are the law's restrictions on broadcast advertising about federal candidates in the period leading up to a primary or general election. Such ads - "Tell Sen. Jones he's wrong on this issue" - are indistinguishable in effect or intent from ads saying, "Vote against Sen. Jones," the court ruled. So it upheld the new restrictions saying that groups of any sort that buy them must adhere to the same limits on contributions and disclosure requirements as parties and candidates.

Such independent ads are a pain to the candidates - a wild card in their election campaigns. But I must agree with Scalia that the restrictions Congress has placed on them are a boon to incumbents and a limitation on core First Amendment rights of speech and association. If I join the National Rifle Association and the Friends of the Earth and find that they cannot use my annual dues to say in a TV spot that Representative Smith has been voting against our interests, but first must solicit me for a PAC contribution, my rights have been restricted. Journalists and others who depend on the First Amendment have reason to question the cost of this reform victory.

Paul Simon, the former senator from Illinois who died last week, was a notable gift from journalism to the political world. As a small-town editor/publisher in southern Illinois, he fought corruption, and he continued that fight in the Illinois Legislature and in his work as a progressive senator. Fiercely independent, but gentle in manner, Simon was living proof that good character is the best guarantee of integrity in office. He taught by example, and his books will carry that message to future generations.

Beware of phone solicitors during the holiday season

In the midst of the season of giving and good cheer, be wary of phone solicitations. I got a call from a person representing the Fraternal Order of Police requesting donations. Being a charitable person to work for causes, I asked what percentage would be going to the FOP and, reluctantly, he said 15 percent. So don't be duped. Ask the same questions. Legally, they must inform you. My check would help pay his salary and the FOP would gain little.

Plus, a generous dose of flea and tick treatment has practically eliminated the itching and twitching. junior dog treats and to be denuclearized." I looked into those brown, hopeful eyes and softly answered, "Well Shep, two out of three ain't bad."

Shep is pretty smart for a Republican, for alone a dog, I can't think of too many people who wouldn't like his jobs made easier, their rewards greater or to just feel better about the hand they'd been dealt. This holiday and winter season is bound to find a lot of people in need. Their challenge is our opportunity.

While we're shopping, it's fairly painless to set aside some cash, a few small gifts, or some groceries, for the charities and care centers and shelters and food banks that count on our goodwill, to accomplish their good deeds. In addition, make sure you have some money when you take that plastic out shopping, so you have something to put in the kettle whenever you see those folks freezing their tails while ringing their bells. Every time I do that, I find one more person smiling at me and wishing me "Merry Christmas." I like that.

No cash? No problem! There are going to be a lot of people overburdened with presents or groceries and/or children. Offer to lend a hand. In one motion, you can slow down their cars and make your dog treats yummi-

er. Speaking of cars, there are bound to be some stuck or broken down. Stop and help if you can, but in case you can't stop, phone it in to make sure help is on the way. Even Shep won't chase parked cars. Otherwise, he'd just go crazy in the parking lot at the mall. Anyway, Feliz Navidad, and if you don't get all you wished for, remember two out of three ain't bad. Officials identify victim in canyon fall

TWIN FALLS - The death of a man who fell into the Snake River Canyon was ruled an accident, said Jerome County Coroner Gerald Ostler.

Michael Dee Blackmon, 28, of Jerome, was with friends around 5 p.m. Monday when he fell, according to a news release issued by the Jerome County Sheriff's Department.

It is believed no one witnessed the incident, said Capt. Gerald Brant.

Blackmon's body was found about half a mile east of the Perrine Bridge on the north side of the canyon, Brant said Monday.

"There were quite a number of people out there looking for him," he said.

Agencies involved in the search included the Jerome County Sheriff's Department, Jerome County Search and Rescue, the Jerome Police Department and the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department.

A boat was used to retrieve the body, Brant said.

The incident is still under investigation. Anyone with information is asked to call Capt. Brant at 324-8845.

Commissioners to decide on ambulance district

TWIN FALLS - County commissioners will make a decision on whether to approve an ambulance district at 2 p.m. today in commissioners' chambers on the fourth floor of the County Courthouse at 425 Shoshone St. N.

The ambulance district would raise $401,650 next year by levying a tax on property owners. Only structures would be taxed, not bare land. A resident with property valued at $100,000 could expect to pay an additional $19.72 a year on his property tax bill.

Magic Valley Regional Medical Center officials say the hospital is losing money providing the service. They estimate they'll have to find $526,650 to keep the ambulance service afloat from line in the district and operate the 24-hour ambulance stations. Operating losses account for $326,650. $150,000 will be needed for capital expenses, and $50,000 will be given to the five area volunteer quick responder units that stabilize patients until ambulances can arrive.

To make up the $526,650, $401,650 would come from the ambulance district and $125,000 would come from the hospital. County commissioners would serve as the district's board of directors.

BLM holds meeting on Jarbidge grazing

TWIN FALLS - The Bureau of Land Management will hold a public meeting today from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. about proposed changes to grazing permits in the Jarbidge area.

A formal presentation is not planned. The meeting will be held in an open house format to review proposed changes on 18 grazing allotments under the management of the BLM's Jarbidge Field Office.

Up for review are existing grazing permits and a proposal to include in those permits rangeland where grazing has been permitted on a temporary basis each year for many years. Allotments in this area have been the subject of environmental lawsuits.

The meeting will be held at the KMVT Community Room, 1100 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. in Twin Falls. For more information contact Jeff Steele at the BLM's Jarbidge Field Office in Twin Falls, 736-2350.

Admission to county fair may increase

By Julie Pence Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The bills to run the Twin Falls County Fair keep growing, but revenues to cover them aren't keeping up.

As a result, you might pay more to go to the fair next year. The Fair Board has begun discussing ways to cover the ever-increasing costs. Fair Manager John Pitz said over the past three years the amount of money needed to put on the fair has grown at about a 4 percent rate, despite actual reductions in the amount paid to salaries. A 4 percent increase is "pretty standard" in any business, Pitz said.

If the board does not bring in more money, Pitz said he anticipates going in the hole by 3 percent or 4 percent after the 2004 fair.

Lyle Masters, who is on the Fair Board, said it appears an increase in the admission fee is likely inevitable. But the board has not gone far enough into the discussion to know exactly what the increase will be, he said.

"There are several options the Fair Board is considering," Masters said. The last time the board raised admission fees was for the 2000 fair, when a 10-year, $700,000 plan to upgrade livestock barns.

Please see FAIR, Page B3.

Students buy gifts for needy children

By Erica Littlefield Times-News correspondent

BUHL - Students from Poppewell Elementary School are making Christmas a little brighter for some of the less fortunate residents of Buhl.

On Tuesday, a group of 23 students from K Kids, a service organization at Poppewell sponsored by the Buhl Kiwanis Club, went to the M.H. King's store in Buhl to buy gifts for needy families.

"I like this project because we get to buy things kids need so they can have a good Christmas," fourth-grader Kaitlin Pepper said.

The Poppewell K Kids club is made up of third-, fourth- and fifth-graders and is over 30 members strong. They worked in conjunction with the Buhl High School Key Club and the West End Ministerial Association for this charitable project.

The ministerial association gave the BHS Key Club and the K Kids the ages and genders of some of the needy residents of Buhl. Then the groups conducted fund-raisers, such as aluminum can and newspaper recycling, to raise money to buy gifts for the people on their lists.

On Tuesday, the K Kids spent the money they worked so hard to raise. Members of the club, along with advisers and chap-ones, went to King's and bought about 20 gifts, mostly for children. Each club member chose one gift according to a specific age, gender and price limit.

After all the gifts were purchased, they were wrapped and will be taken to the ministerial association and distributed for Christmas.

Service is the main focus of K Kids. Along with the Christmas project, so far this year they have made Christmas decorations for a nursing home and conducted an American Red Cross penny drive, a book drive and a canned food drive.

"I like K Kids because we have fun and get to help out the community," fifth-grader Caleb Ussery said.

Bank robber receives eight years in prison

By Shelley Ridenour Times-News writer

POCATELLO - The man who robbed the Burley First Federal Savings Bank in April has been sentenced to eight years in federal prison.

Robert Larry Archuleta's sentence includes six years in prison for two bank robberies - this year and two years for violating the terms of his probation stemming from a 1998 bank robbery conviction.

Archuleta uses Larry as his first name.

Archuleta was sentenced Dec. 10 by Judge Lynn Winmill in U.S. District Court in Pocatello. The sentence also covers Archuleta's May robbery of a Utah bank.

Archuleta, 25, was sentenced after he signed a plea agreement with the U.S. attorney's office, U.S. Attorney for Idaho Tom Moss said. The plea agreement was filed in October. In that document, Archuleta admitted he had robbed the Burley bank on April 28. Archuleta said he gave a bank teller a note that stated he had a gun and demanded she give him money. He walked out of the bank with about $1,600, Moss said.

City of Eden extends last call for alcohol

By Lorraine Cavanaugh Times-News correspondent

EDEN - The city of Eden has adopted a set of new ordinances that will allow bars to stay open an extra hour.

Businesses with liquor licenses within city limits may now sell alcohol until 2 a.m., and bars may stay open until 2:30 a.m. Bars in Eden are allowed to be open seven days a week and sell liquor by the drink.

The City Council approved the new ordinances unanimously, Mayor Larry Craig said.

There are two bars in Eden - The Snug Lounge and the Trophy Club. The new regulations were greeted positively by the owners of the Snug Lounge, who requested the change in September.

The council wanted to allow the Snug Lounge to extend its liquor, beer and wine selling hours, but could not do so without a city ordinance because the state's boilerplate standards set 1 a.m. as the end of alcohol sales.

"That's why we had to have a new ordinance," said Eden City Clerk Edith Utt.

Suzy Harper, who owns The Snug Lounge with her husband Steve Harper, said they requested the change primarily to help generate a bit more income.

Senators debate school funding

By Julie Pence Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Magic Valley legislators might all belong to the Republican Party, but on Tuesday a couple of them made it clear they disagree politically on public school funding.

Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, bucked the state Board of Education for taking over the administration of federal money to be distributed to schools at the end of the 2003 legislative session. Careful to exempt local state board member Laird Stone, Noh said certain other members of the board seemed to have agendas that do not enhance public education.

"There are other members that do not have education first in mind," Noh said.

But Sen. Dean Cameron, R-Burport, came back at Noh, saying the state board has the legal right to manage the money. Though the state Department of Education has managed federal dollars that go to schools for decades, the state board took over administration last spring. The move caused educators and some lawmakers to speculate it was a political attack against Idaho's only elected Democratic state officer, Marilyn Howard, who is the state superintendent of public instruction.

Noh and Cameron sparred at the annual Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce forum in which the chamber presented its top 10 issues it wants considered in the 2004 legislative session. Four other lawmakers also spoke: Rep. Leon Smith, R-Twin Falls, Sen. Tom Gannon, R-Buhl, Rep. Sharron Block, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. Bert Stevenson, R-Rupert.

"I know the superintendent and the state board are a loggerheads," Cameron said. "But you have to change the wording of state law to put the superintendent in charge."

Noh went on, saying it is inappropriate for certain Board of Education members to give directives through e-mail to school administrators while the state already has a duly elected superintendent in Marilyn Howard. And it's all happening while educators are trying to implement the 1,000-page federal mandate of standards and accountability in the No Child Left Behind Act. "This all needs to be coordinated through cooperation in the management realm," Noh said. "This is an impediment we don't need to have."

Block, a former kindergarten teacher, weighed in on standards and accountability. She pointed out that the state Department of Education is addressing the dis-

Larry J. VanKomen, 63, of Buhl, was born in Nampa, Idaho, on March 9, 1940. He grew up on a small farm in Indian Valley, Idaho, with one sister and eight brothers. He still has many good friends in Indian Valley. In 1959, Larry joined the Army and served his country honorably until his discharge in 1963. After leaving the Army, Larry moved to Arizona, where he went into the concrete business. In Arizona he fell in love with and married Judy Hasse-Mead, his wife of 36 years. Larry was a happy man, always laughing and starting a new joke. In the 1970's Larry raised and raced quarter horses. From 1988 to 1994 Larry was part owner and manager of the Stinker Station gas station in bowling alley that he cared for a lot. Over the last four years, Larry developed sugar diabetes, which ultimately took his life on Sunday, Dec. 14, 2003. He was grateful to the doctors and nurses who helped him fight this battle, especially Dr. Sandison, Dr. Alan Nephilary of Twin Falls and the St. Al's Nephilary Center. He is survived by his wife Judy, sons, Larry J. and Randy; daughters, Cary Owen and Darla Paulson; and six treasured grandchildren. Larry had a heartwarming funeral service held. A small memorial will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20, 2003, at the Seventh-Day Adventist Church in Buhl. Cremation was under the direction of Farmer Funeral Chapel in Buhl.

Lewis E. Williams - Meridian

Lewis Edward Williams, 90, of Meridian, passed away Friday, Dec. 12, 2003, after a long courageous fight with lung cancer at the Boise Veterans Hospital. There will be a small service at 1 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 18, 2003, at Riverside Cemetery, Payette. Services and arrangements are under the direction of Shaffer-Jensen Memory Chapel, Payette. Lewis was born Nov. 19, 1913, to James Edward and Maude (Rosson) Williams in Kimberly, Idaho. He had another battle that he did win and that was while in the 635th Tank Destroyer Battalion during WWII. He and his buddies went all the way from Omaha Beach through the Battle of the Bulge, which ended the war. His reunions with them was a highlight of his life.

Before Lew went off to war, he married Lucille Williams in June of 1941 in Hollywood, Calif. They had met in Payette while working together at the Gateway Bar, located at the Payette-Fruitland Junction. That gave him an immediate family: sons, J. Ray Schulz and Billy Lee Schulz and a daughter, Mary-Elizabeth Schulz. After his discharge from the service, Lew returned to the Payette-Weiser area where they engaged in the bar business. They operated a cafe in Chemult, Ore., which was destroyed by fire. Lew entered a veteran's land drawing for acreage in Minidoka County, Idaho, and won 120 acres. He grew potatoes and proved up the land to get title. Their good friends from Weiser, Lavelle and Roberta Barton, owned the 93 Hotel and Casino in Jackpot, Nev. Lew and Audie went to work for them on weekends and later full-time until Lew retired as casino manager. Lew is survived by his wife, Audie, age 95; and daughter, Mary French of Meridian; grandchildren, Herb French of Las Vegas, Nev., Richard D. French of Grantsville, Utah, Lynne French Nicolls of Boise, Jane Raven-Engels of Meridian and Andrea Alexander of Eagle, Kathy, Jerry and Ronnie Schulz of Rockville, Md.; many great-grandchildren and Lew loved them all; one aunt, Marion Royston of Payette, Idaho; and numerous nieces, nephews and cousins. His parents: two sons, J. Ray and Billy Lee Schulz preceded him in death. Most of all he loved his wife, Audie and hated to leave her.

John Edward Drew, 93-year-old Heyburn resident, died Tuesday, Dec. 16, 2003, at Park View Care & Rehabilitation Center in Burley. He was born August 6, 1910, in Heyburn, the son of William Alfred and Flora Romig Drew. He attended Heyburn schools. John married Elaine Hunt Pike on Feb. 27, 1948, in Burley. In 1904, John's parents homesteaded in the Emerson area and John farmed in the Heyburn area his entire life. He and Elaine enjoyed traveling to Quartzsite, Ariz., for the winters. He was the oldest living member of the Burley First Presbyterian Church. Survivors include his wife, Elaine of Burley; daughter-in-law, Wanda Drew of Heyburn; one sisgreat-grandchildren; and seven great-great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents; two sons, Don Drew and Garke Pike; one brother, Walter Drew; and one sister, Dorothy Drew. The service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 20, 2003, at the Burley First Presbyterian Church, 2100 Burton Ave., with the Rev. Dr. John A. Rakestraw officiating. # Sale tax cut could hurt Hansen's coffers

By Margaret Jones
Times-News correspondent

HANSEN - The Hansen School District might face a $31,000 cut in state funding next year, members of the School Board were told this week.

This loss would be due to the potential cut in the state's sales tax from the temporary rate of 6 percent to the former rate of 5 percent.

A group of area school superintendents and principals making up a school improvement committee will interview teachers in schools other than their own for teacher input on school improvements. School Board members also will visit with Hansen teachers for their input on improvements for their district.

Other business at Monday's School Board meeting included:

- Civic Club praise - Shirley Silvers, state advisor, praised school counselor Geanme Choate for her development of the Civic Club. This group of students works on community projects and helps elementary students on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. They also act as role models and eat lunch with the grade schoolers on a regular basis.
- New lift - The board voted to buy a lift-scaffold from a rental agency for $500. The lift will be used to replace lights in the parking areas, maintain fire alarms located in high locations and help with other situations that have been out of the reach of the school's ladders.

• Hands-on experience - The board also agreed to have the school construction class build a storage building for the elementary building for a cost of around $2,200. If the class can't perform the task, board members have the option of purchasing a metal shipping container.

• Cooperation - The School Board heard an update on the cooperation of Hanson Superintendent Dennis Coulter and Kimberly Superintendent John Garner, who have been researching various ways the two schools could consolidate expenses and transportation costs to realize savings.

• Awards - Idaho High School

Athletic Association awards have gone to Jessica Johnson, Alison Loveless, Krystal Kenny, Bonnie Freestone and Fernando Vargas. Kenny has been named KMYT student of the week and awarded a principal's leadership award.

• History lessons - Eighth grade Idaho history studies has taken students to the Stricker Ranch and Rock Creek stage stop. The history class has worked on various projects at the ranch and will be planting a plot of native plants and setting up a Web site.

• Schools out - School will be dismissed early Friday with movies and other activities scheduled for the morning. Christmas vacation will run from Dec. 20 through Jan. 4.

Twin Falls author hosts book signing

Magic Valley In brief

TWIN FALLS - College of Southern Idaho history professor Jim Gentry will sign copies of his new book, "In the Middle and on the Edge: The Twin Falls Region of Idaho," from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at Hastings Book Store in Twin Falls.

Gentry has worked on the book for more than a decade. He says he is excited to meet and speak with customers who are interested in the book and is happy to sign their copies.

The 15-chapter book is 373 pages long, not counting a complete appendix of all Twin Falls elected officials beginning in 1905, a bibliographic essay and topical index.

Gentry starts with the earliest pre-history and exploration of the Twin Falls region and then splits the history of the community into three eras: the development of the community from 1884-1914; World War I and the New Deal from 1915 to 1941; and World War II and the modern city from 1942 to 1990. The period from 1990 to the present is covered in an epilogue. The book is published in paperback and contains more than 150 pictures and maps. Cost is $14.95.

Retail outlets include Hastings Book Store, the College of Southern Idaho Bookstore, Happy Camper and Crowley's Quad in the Magic Valley Mall, and Clos Office Supply downtown. It also is available from the Twin Falls Centennial Commission.

Area reserved for backcountry skiers

FAIRFIELD - Soldier Mountain Enterprises has received a temporary special use permit for the 2003-04 ski season allowing the company to outfit and guide skiers in the backcountry adjacent to Soldier Mountain Ski Area.

A special order is now in effect closing the area to snowmobiles, the Sawtooth National Forest reported. The order closes about 1,500 acres west of Soldier Mountain Ski Area to preserve the area for backcountry skiing. This is the same area that has been closed to snowmobilers for the past eight winters, and this year's special use permit is similar to the one issued last year, the Forest Service said.

The closure will remain in effect until the end of April, or earlier if backcountry skiing ends sooner. A 100-foot wide corridor is marked through the eastern end of the closed area to provide access to the South Fork of Soldier Creek, a popular snowmobiling spot.

Copies of the closure order, with maps, are displayed at the Fairfield Ranger District office on U.S. Highway 20 in Fairfield and at the Sawtooth National Forest headquarters in Twin Falls.

Judge strikes down Bush plan for Yellowstone

Court rules against limited snowmobiling in Grand

Tetons, Yellowstone in favor of Clinton's plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Park Service must revise a plan scrapped by the Bush administration to ban snowmobiles from Yellowstone and Grand Teton national parks, a federal judge ordered Tuesday.

U.S. District Judge Emmet Sullivan said the Bush administration should not have set aside a Clinton administration plan that would have banned snowmobiles in favor of mass-transit snow coaches, which would reduce pollution in the parks.

The administration dropped that plan and decided to instead allow limited snowmobiling to continue under rules that only allowed snowmobiles with quieter and less-polluting engines.

The Park Service had said the cleaner snowmobiles and limited entries would "protect" the park while allowing snowmobiling to continue, even though the earlier snow coach plan was the best way to protect the parks from pollution.

Sullivan said the Park Service did not adequately explain the switch.

"Indeed, there is evidence in the record that there isn't an explanation for the change, and that the study that led to the new rules was completely politically driven and result oriented," he wrote.

Interior Secretary Gale Norton defended the plan late Tuesday, calling it "a reasonable approach" that avoids a complete ban on snowmobiling.

"Allowing the limited use of snowmobiles as a means of access makes possible a wider array of employment opportunities," Norton said.

The Park Service was set to start operating under the Bush rules Wednesday.

Sullivan's ruling does not immediately close the parks to snowmobiling.

Instead, he ordered the Park Service to follow the older rules that will eventually allow only snow coaches - which carry groups of winter visitors - in areas where individual snowmobilers once rode.

A limited number of snowmobiles will be allowed to enter this winter: 493 per day in Yellowstone and 50 per day in Grand Teton and on the John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Memorial Parkway that connects the parks.

"All snowmobiles will be part of commercially guided trips. Yellowstone Superintendent Suzanne Lewis said visitors who made advance reservations to see the park on their own will have to cancel those, she said.

The Bush administration plan would have allowed 950 snowmobiles a day in Yellowstone and a total of 1,140 for the parks and parkway, Lewis said.

In a lawsuit, the Greater Yellowstone Coalition of Bozeman, Mont., argued that the Park Service had ignored its own studies that show a ban on snowmobiles and the use of snow coaches would best protect the park's natural resources.

The group argued that unacceptable pollution and health risks to workers would have continued even with the new emission and entry limits on snowmobiles.

The Park Service countered that the new plan was based on a generation of cleaner snowmobile engines that weren't considered when the earlier ban was drafted.

Sullivan rejected that argument. "The prospect of new technology is not 'new,'" the judge wrote, noting that less-polluting machines were considered and rejected when the Clinton administration was deciding how to reduce the harmful effects of snowmobiling.

David McCray, who owns a snowmobile rental company in West Yellowstone, Mont., said he had invested heavily in the cleaner snowmobiles because he thought his business needed them, but never would have done so if the case was decided earlier this year.

McCray criticized the Park Service for how long it took to write its rules and Sullivan for striking them down the day before the season begins.

"For the judge to throw this out at the 12th hour is unconscionable," he said.

In separate claims, the Fund for Animals and other environmental groups challenged the practice of grooming snow-covered roads for snowmobile and snow coach use.

Those groups claimed the Park Service dismissed studies indicating groomed roads harm bison by creating unnatural corridors for them to move within and outside of Yellowstone.

In response to those claims, Sullivan ordered the Park Service to answer a 1999 petition filed by one of the groups, the Bluewater Network, that sought rules prohibiting trail grooming in all national parks.

Fair

Continued from B1 was implemented. Both admission and exhibitor prices were increased to cover it. At the time, some of the barns had such serious electrical and structural problems that there were state safety inspectors put on them.

Three years being that, admission fees had also been increased, but to offset that hike, fair visitors were allowed to forgo paying $2 for parking.

In 1997, the admission went up $1 for adults, from $3 to $4. In 2000, the board upped it from $4 to $5.

"We try not to do this any more often than three or four years," Pitz said.

A problem in increasing admission fees is that it could easily depress attendance, Pitz said. In 1999, the fair had almost 95,000 in attendance. In 2003, the fair had about 6,000 fewer people paying to get in than in '99.

"It's a big juggling act to try to figure out the best way to pay for everything, but we have to cover our costs," Pitz said.

The cost of running the rodeo has shot up 21 percent over the past three years, and concert entertainment for the 2004 fair will cost $5,000 more than last year, Pitz said.

"We have to pay more to maintain the quality of the fair," Pitz said. "These guys just want more money, and to keep the high-quality cowboys coming, we have to pay it."

At the same time, Pitz said he has restructured the staff so that fewer people are doing more work. And the board is finding less-expensive acts to perform on the free entertainment stage.

Tom Mikessel, the county commissioner who acts as a liaison to the Fair Board, noted the board has always made the fair self-supporting.

"They've been very successful in raising tax dollars, and they'd like to continue in that vein," Mikessel said. "And we as commissioners would like to see that continue, also."

Chief gets surprise honor

By Rose Marie Parsons
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT - Chief of Police Kenneth Fedders received the highest certificate offered by Idaho's Peace Officer Standards & Training Academy Tuesday night at the Rupert City Council meeting.

Fedders was summoned to the meeting without explanation for the surprise presentation. When Mayor Audrey Newirth introduced POST Executive Director Michael N. Bear, she told Fedders there was some concern about training.

Bear said he came from Boise to present the Executive Certificate to Feddes - in person to emphasize the importance of this achievement. Only 44 other police chiefs in Idaho have completed this level of training, Bear told the City Council.

Fedders began his law enforcement career as a dispatcher in Pennsylvania. He later moved to Florida and worked in a sheriff's department while he and his family owned and operated a KOA campground. Fedders moved to McCall in 1996 with the intention of retiring, but he accepted the position of jail commander instead.

Fedders was appointed Rupert Chief of Police in June 2000. He is president-elect of the Idaho Chiefs of Police Association. He also is the chairman of the board for the law enforcement program at the College of Southern Idaho.

At the time of the two spring bank robberies, Archuleta was on supervised federal probation following his release from prison on a 1998 conviction of bank robbery in Springfield, Ore. He was supposed to be living at a halfway house in Nampa when he robbed the two banks this year.

School

Continued from B1 tressing issue of non-English-speaking students having to take accountability tests without knowing the content or being exposed to the curriculum on the tests.

Gannon, vice-chairman of the Senate Education Committee, also noted there are students who will never be able to pass an exit exam required by 2005 for high school graduation.

"What are we going to do for these students?" Gannon asked.

Cameron said he recognized there has to be funding for intervention programs for non-English speakers and others who have trouble with exit exams. But he also said just getting a bunch of educators together to discuss it isn't solving how to distribute federal money to be used for intervention.

"You don't just throw $5 million, $10 million or $20 million at something," Cameron said. Should it be through a district's payment for failure to discuss it? Child Left Behind, through student numbers, or should most of the money go to schools with the most non-English speakers, he asked.

Also Tuesday, the Chamber asked to lawmakers to work on the following issues:

• Idaho Blue Ribbon Task Force recommendations - Lawmakers should continue to work on changing the sales tax policies in the state, such as taxing services and Internet sales.

Cameron said the issue is so complex that he doesn't see any movement during this session. He added there are lawmakers who will sabotage any sort of tax increases, no matter how much research has been done on it or how many people favor it.

• Sales tax reporting on a county-by-county basis - Chamber members said they would find it easier to recruit businesses to the Twin Falls area if they could prove through county reporting of sales that the city provides services for some 250,000 people.

• School consolidation - Lawmakers seemed to agree that offering a choice of schools attracts incentives to eliminate administrators and encourage consolidation of goods and services works better than dictating consolidation.

• Medicaid payments for drugs - The Chamber supports lawmakers efforts as well as those of the state Department of Health and Welfare to reduce what Medicaid pays out for drugs. Seventy-five percent of the money the department pays out goes to 25 percent of its patient load, or Medicaid patients over age 65. One thing the department is doing is encouraging patients to use inexpensive over-the-counter medication instead of expensive prescriptions when both medicines do the same thing, said chamber member John Hathaway, who also manages the Twin Falls Health and Welfare office. He gave the example of acid indigestion medicines. One pill might cost less than 10 cents from a department store, while a prescription could cost $5 a pill.

• More money for the Idaho Department of Water Resources - Chamber member John Haight pointed out that Idaho is in dire straits during the current drought. Water Resources is struggling in keeping up with its workload because of under funding, which could result in the entire Magic Valley shutting down because of all the fighting going on between water users.

Continued from B1 then left that bank. Police created a photo lineup, similar to the one used in Burley, and two tellers from the Ogdén Key Bank identified Archuleta as the robber.

Archuleta was arrested May 4 in the parking lot of a motel in Ogdén.

At the time of the two spring bank robberies, Archuleta was on supervised federal probation following his release from prison on a 1998 conviction of bank robbery in Springfield, Ore. He was supposed to be living at a halfway house in Nampa when he robbed the two banks this year.

Alcohol

Continued from B1 when we do have a little entertainment time to time that extra hour helps us generate a little extra for the bar and for the city, too," Suzy Harper said. "In a small town every little advantage helps us out."

Some concern was expressed about the possibility of more bars, she said.

But live bands will stop playing at 1 a.m. on the few nights that entertainment is provided.

Having that extra hour gives time for the crowd to wind down, too, Suzy Harper said.

The request to increase the hours that they can sell beer and liquor has taken a while, she said. Although approval has been given from the city, the Hansen plan not to change anything until they make sure there is not any legal process they must go through with Jerome County, she said.

In the two years that the Harpers have owned The Snug Lounge business has done fairly well, Suzy Harper said.

"It's been pretty good," she said. "I don't complain."

Volunteering can be cure for holiday blues

DEAR ABBY Abigail VanBuren

DEAR ABBY: You dispensed some wonderful advice in your Thanksgiving Day column. You wrote, "If you're feeling down and want an instant 'upper,' the surest way ... is to do something nice for someone else." I'd like to echo your sentiments and encourage you readers to keep the old drums at bay by volunteering.

Volunteering not only benefits the recipients of service, but often the volunteer feels better as a result of giving back. Volunteering reduces social isolation and disconnection, boosts spirits, combats stress and builds stronger communities, according to the most recent study by the Points of Light Foundation and Indiana University, respondents said that volunteering as a family improves communication, promotes positive values, emphasizes the importance of teamwork, teaches kids empathy, respect, friendliness and tolerance, and creates a new generation of dedicated volunteers.

Please encourage your readers who might be dreading this holiday season to volunteer. Giving to others is the best way to nourish your own spirit.

Everyone has something to give, and the most precious gift isn't money—it's time.

Readers, to find projects in your local communities or wherever you spend your holiday vacations, call toll-free (800) 865-8683 and enter your ZIP Code, or visit www.1-800-Volunteer.org.

Families can find project ideas, activities for kids and other helpful resources by exploring the Web site. Since the holiday season is upon us, don't procrastinate. Reach out and grab the opportunity to help someone.

Sex, fear linked to romance

Those who study sex appeal long have linked fear with romantic passion. Especially fear of getting caught. They say some phobics lose all interest in the physical romance as soon as it's no longer dangerous.

An English exam sometime back at a New Jersey university turned up the curious fact that only about one out of four students in the freshman class could spell "professor."

It was Pliny the Elder who first informed the world that ostriches stick their heads into the sand to hide. It was nonsense in A.D. 50 when Pliny lived, and it's nonsense now. But that misinformation has continually resurfaced through all these centuries, despite countless debunkings. You evidently just can't kill an attractive falsehood.

A moth hears through its hair.

Sagittarius: Complications could be in store for you

IF DECEMBER 17 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY — you were probably difficult and demanding as a child, but as an adult you find your feet. Ambitious and goal-oriented, you could be a scientist, builder or gardener, and often a leader in your field who has special opportunities to shine.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): You're in the fast lane as Mars has entered your sign. Day-to-day routines bring unexpected diversions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): You're busier than usual, and the extra movement makes things exhilarating.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): With your ruler, Mercury, entering retro motion, your thinking turns to how others go about enriching their lives.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): When your intuition tells you someone isn't being on the level, you have to seek out other sources.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your desire for a peaceful existence is interrupted when last-minute details don't work in your favor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): With Mercury in backward motion, you may not realize how those close to you are avoiding home truths.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The Saturn influence is making you stand up for yourself. Taking constructive criticism on board, you stay in control of an emotional or domestic problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you expect favors with zero in return, you're in for a surprise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): At first sight all looks well, but the planetary gods can be complicated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep in mind that jealousy is provoked because you've worked hard and effectively, proving your worth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18):

HOROSCOPE

A brilliant new idea is emerging. Although you're not on schedule, things should go well. You must make an exact plan as a clash of interests could arise when someone may not see eye to eye.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Running out of cool when you hear words of criticism? Never mind, what is being said may be useful.

Randy and Sheila Pollack, died in an auto accident in 1996, just 10 days before he was to receive his bachelor's degree in science from the University of Michigan. Randy Pollack is a Power employee.

Tina Metzler, who works in Power's Halley office, decided to e-mail Power employees and request recipes for a company cookbook. She received responses from as far away as Ireland and Argentina. For several months, she worked evenings organizing and editing the recipes.

The book contains about 500 recipes and is organized into Snacks; Breakfast and Brunch; Breads; Drinks; Soups, Salads, Side Dishes, Sauces, Seasonings and Such; Main Dishes; Desserts; Cookies, Candy Bars and More and Miscellaneous.

The miscellaneous section, which contains recipes for "Slugg-Fritters" and "Spotted Owl," also contains a warning: "Some items are for real and some, well, look for yourself!"

Several of the cookbook pages are devoted to Dutch oven cookery and care of Dutch ovens. The book also contains historical and humorous tidbits about recipes.

Mouth-watering recipes from the 'Power of Cooking'

NUT ROUGH

This is one of those things that you should only make once a year.
It's not hard to make, just hard to only eat a little at a time, says Metzler.

(submitted by Tina Metzler, of the Halley office)
2 cups butter
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1 package milk chocolate chips
1 cup nuts, finely chopped (any kind of nut will do)
Line a 15-by-10-by-1-inch baking pan with foil, extending over the edges. In a three-quart saucepan, melt the butter. Stir in the sugar, corn syrup and 1/3 cup water. Cook over medium-high heat to boiling, stirring till sugar is dissolved. Avoid splashing onto the sides of the pan. Clip candy thermometer to side of pan. Be sure the bulb is well covered and not touching the bottom of the pan. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently till thermometer registers 290 degrees, soft-crack stage, about 15 minutes. The mixture will turn golden brown. Remove thermometer. Pour into prepared pan, spread evenly. Cool five minutes or till top is just set. Sprinkle chocolate chips on top and let stand 2 minutes. Spread chocolate onto top. Top with nuts, press into chocolate. Cool several hours till set. Can place in refrigerator to cool - faster. Holding foil, lift candy out of pan. Break into pieces. To store candy, place in layer of waxed paper in an airtight container.

(submitted by TR Bowlin, of the Halley Office)
BBQ Sauce and Marinade:
1/4 cup hot sauce, available in Oriental section of most major markets
1/4 cup white wine
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup catsup
1/4 cup peach brown sugar
2 tablespoons Chinese five spice powder, available in Oriental sections of most markets
Lots of garlic (I use 5 to 8 cloves)
1 teaspoon onion powder
1 teaspoon liquid smoke
Put everything in and mix well in a glass or stainless steel bowl. Don't use plastic because it will be stained by the barbecue sauce. The secret is to marinate a whole tenderloin in the above overnight. Do not cut it into cutlets. Mix everything well, place the tenderloin in a glass or stainless steel bowl and coat it well, cover with plastic wrap and place in the fridge till you are ready to grill. It will work the same day, but let it marinate as long as you can prior to cooking. When you are ready to grill, get the grill very hot before you put the tenderloin on. Grill-mark the surface of the tenderloin and sear it very fast over this high heat. As soon as it is seared, turn the heat to the lowest setting possible and leave the cover of your grill open to allow it to cool down quite a bit. Now roast the tenderloin over very low heat for about 5 to 8 minutes per pound, turning and basting frequently. You have to watch the heat on this closely. With the high sugar content, it will burn easily. Don't overcook this dish, it is best served medium to medium rare. Use tongs only; never use a fork when you are barbecuing. All those little holes let the juices run out. This is not good. Now the bonus is the leftovers. They are the starting point for another famous Chinese dish: Pork and Soeds. You can slice the chilled leftovers thinly to make the pork portion of that dish. Or slice them julienne style and make Pork and Noodles.

Treat a friend to a birdhouse this year

Know someone who likes to watch the birds outside? Treat that special someone to a birdhouse or a birdhouse for Christmas.

GREEN TRIUMPHIN'S Cathy Walworth

there is no hedge, your gift recipient might want to put one in. A hedge provides people with privacy while it gives birds a good place to nest and hide from the neighbor's cat.

Bird-friendly plants that do well in our climate include pyracantha, barberry, cotoneaster and viburnum. Birds flock to the bright berries on these bushes. There are lots of annuals that grow seed and nectar for countless varieties of birds.

Here are some tips for laying out a well-feathered welcome mat:

Goldfinches gobble up thistle and dandelion seeds with a few bugs thrown in for variety. They'll come to your yard if you provide sunflower seeds and a birdhouse to sip from. Little and brown creepers are almost invisible, but their work isn't: They sweep insects off tree trunks like a broom. They're attracted to suet in feeders because bugs like it, too. Rufous-sided towhees like hedgerows, especially if they find spiders and bugs under dead leaves. They like birdseed and suet in tray feeders to snack on, and love ponds. Song sparrows like moist berry-producing plants and garden water features. In return for providing these amenities, they'll eat insects out of your yard.

Include a bird reference book in your gift pack. "An Illustrated Guide to Attracting Birds," by Sunset is an excellent starter book. Your bird friend can target which species he wants with this book in hand.

The nice thing about birds is that they spread their wealth all around. They won't stay just in your neighbor's yard while hunting for insects. Their songs won't stop at your neighbor's fence, either. The neighborhood will be much improved next spring because of you.

What's bugging your garden? Write to Cathy in care of this newspaper or e-mail her at: caw@pmt.org

Professionals share decorating tips

By Mary Beth Breckenridge Akron Beacon Journal

Recently, Gayle Hinman and Sandy Olson were busy turning the Jackson Township home of Sherri and Dr. Loren Peiry into a floral Christmas fantasia.

Round out the present with a gift certificate from the nursery or garden center. In spring, your birder friend can make the landscape more inviting to birds. If Olson's tool-belt-is-filled-with items like scissors, wire cutters and wire. Among the items in that tool belt was a supply of pre-cut lengths of floral wire for attaching bows and other decorations. The wire pieces were about a foot long, and Hinman and Olson had wrapped them in floral tape in advance. The tape helps keep the slippery wire in place, and it protects woodwork from scratches.

They suggest incorporating several types of wired ribbon into a single bow instead of using one color. As long as the colors and patterns go together, the result is more interesting and elegant. Olson just makes simple loops that she holds in one hand, wires the whole thing together and then fuses with it until it looks good.

Find answers to sticky questions about cookies

By Karen Herzog
Milwaukee Journal Sentinel

Here are some cookies for the holidays.

Joyce Tuetken, of Menomonee Falls, Wis., described this recipe as a "different" sort of Christmas cookie: "I found it in 'The Journal' back in 1974 as part of a Christmas cookie recipe exchange article, and it has been a favorite of mine ever since."

SAUSAGE COOKIES

1/3 cup (2/3 stick) butter
1/2 cup (1/2 stick) brown sugar
1 1/2 cups cut-up pitted dates (about 8 ounces)
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup crispy rice cereal
Coconut or colored sugar
In large skillet, combine butter and sugar; cook, stirring, over low heat until butter melts. Stir in dates. Add eggs; mix well. Continue to cook, stirring until thickened, about 10 minutes. Turn off heat; mix in nuts. Mix in cereal. Let mixture cool. Moisten hands and shape into 5 logs about 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Roll to coat with coconut or colored sugar. Cover and chill in refrigerator, then slice as needed. Makes about 60 cookies, 12 per roll.

Here's a recipe from the new "Baker's Field Guide to Christmas Cookies" by Deed Wilson for a no-bake cookie that dates back to the 1930s. The book notes it's best if aged at least overnight. It's even better after a few days, and some say the cookie hits its peak after a month.

CHOCOLATE BOURBON BALLS

2 1/2 cups vanilla wafer crumbs

(Nilla Wafers or similar cookie)
1/2 cup powdered sugar, sifted
1 cup pecan halves, finely ground in food processor
6 ounces semi-sweet or bittersweet chocolate, broken into pieces
1/2 cup bourbon
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
Granulated sugar

Place cookie crumbs, powdered sugar and ground pecans in large bowl and stir to combine. Melt chocolate in microwave or top of double-boiler over simmering water. Stir in bourbon and corn syrup. Add chocolate mixture to dry mixture and stir well to combine. Let sit 30 minutes. Place some granulated sugar in a small bowl. Roll mixture between your palms into 1-inch balls, then roll in sugar to coat evenly. Place balls in airtight container, separating layers with aluminum foil or waxed paper, and allow flavors to develop by sitting at room temperature at least overnight. You may first place them in small fluted paper cups, if desired. Store at room temperature in airtight container up to 1 1/2 months. Makes 50 balls.

Variations: Substitute dark rum for bourbon to make Chocolate Rum Balls; substitute orange-flavored liqueur for Topsy Chocolate Orange Rum Balls; substitute coffee-flavored liqueur for bourbon to make Toasted Mocha Balls.

Here's a "spritz" cookie with a crispy, buttery texture and delicate almond-vanilla flavor from "The Field - Guide to Christmas Cookies."

SPRITZ COOKIES

2 1/2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup (2 sticks) unsalted butter, room temperature
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup powdered sugar

1 teaspoon almond extract
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 large egg
Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Line 2 cookie sheets with parchment paper. Whisk flour and salt together in small bowl. In large bowl with electric mixer on medium-high speed, beat butter until creamy, about 2 minutes. Add both sugars gradually, beating until light and fluffy, about 3 minutes; beat in extracts. Beat in egg. Mixture should be very light and smooth at this point. Add about one-third of flour mixture and mix on low speed. Gradually add remaining flour, mixing just until blended. (If dough is too stiff from cold butter, it will be hard to press. Butter must be very soft for recipe to work.) Following manufacturer's instructions for your spritz cookie maker, assemble machine with disc of choice. (You also may use a pastry bag fitted with a large open-star tip (such as Ateco No. 824 or 844). Press out cookies 2 inches apart, directly onto cookie sheets. If using a pastry bag and star tip, just scrape dough into bag and press out rosette-shaped cookies directly onto sheet. Bake just until light golden brown around edges, about 10 minutes. Slide parchment onto racks to cool cookies completely. Makes 50 cookies.

Deck your stairways with garlands and vines

By Megan Sexton
Knight Ridder News Service

COLUMBIA, S.C. — A decorated staircase can be the crowning glory touch for your house. Whimsical, elegant, traditional or rustic — any style can work on a staircase.

"When people enter your house, the first thing they see that makes a holiday impression is the staircase," said Burt Hawkins of Burton-Brown Interiors in Irmo, S.C.

You can't go wrong with greenery. And the new lines of prelit artificial garland offer a good place to rest. Holiday fabrics and pine cones can also find a place on the staircase. Treat your garland as a base, wrapping it with ribbons, beads, lights, tassels or ornaments.

If you're using greenery, fresh can go up about a week before Christmas, but can be hung any time, said Jean Clapp, of Michael's in Harrison, S.C. Or you can do a combination — using artificial greenery for the entire staircase and mixing in fresh magnolia leaves, eucalyptus, boxwood or other fresh materials. You may need to put out the fresh pieces a few times before the holidays if you put them up early.

"For a traditional look, there's green garland with bows and berries. For a contemporary feel, add flowers and glitzy gold berries. Or weave through the banister and hang glass ornaments from it.

Strings of popcorn and cranberries or even buttons can work for a casual, homey look. Jolene Smith, of Southern Magnolia Interiors in Columbia, S.C., said she's even decorated small wrapped packages from garland.

"Instead of garland you can use wreaths attached to the railing and hung to the staircase going up. You can put them every three or four feet," she said. You can even hang the flat-backed artificial Christmas trees on the staircase.

Decorating the stairway

- Hang several wreaths up the stairs, spaced evenly along the length of the railing. Or use door swags or bunches of greens, evenly spaced.
- There's no rule that stockings have to be hung at the fireplace. Hang them going up the staircase for an informal, homey look.
- For a simple look, leave the banister bare, and decorate the newel post with a swag, greenery or bows.
- Swag a length of tulle, netting or metallic sheer fabric up your stairs. Decorate with fresh or artificial greens, wired ornaments or bows.
- Attach clusters of beaded fruit to ribbons and twigs. Tie these to the banisters about every 3 feet. You can also purchase red berry garland-to-drape-on-the-staircase alone or on top of greenery.
- If your stairs are wide enough you might display small potted poinsettias, topianes, cedar trees or other plants. Decorate each with a bow. If you're really ambitious, you can stencil words on the risers and add lit candles to every few steps for a special gathering.
- Coordinate your staircase with the rest of your holiday decorating. Contemporary, traditional and everything in between can work on the staircase, too.
- If you drape garlands along a banister, make sure you wire it in place to hold the weight of the other decorations you add to it.

Ballentine, decks her staircases and railings with Mark Roberts Christmas fairies. She has been collecting them for five years and has about 200. The fairies sit on landings and peek out from behind the greenery, gold beads and bright ribbons that line the staircase.

Formal, informal harmonize in Applegate

By Associated Designs

The Applegate's harmonious medley of arched openings, multiple roof lines and stucco detailing create a lasting first impression. Multipaned windows fill most of the rear, allowing full visual enjoyment of a natural setting - lake, river, forest, desert, arid landscaping. Stopped planters and covered walkways unite the house with its detached garage.

This plan is designed to please families who like a blend of formal and informal living environments. Informal spaces flow together on the left, sleeping areas fill the right wing and formal rooms are at the center. Storage is ample throughout.

Hardwood floors and high ceilings grace all of the gathering spaces, with carpeting reserved for the den and bedrooms. If needed, the den could serve as another bedroom or be outfitted as a home office.

Kitchen and nook are window rich, and the gathering room is expanded by a deep window bay. A butcher block work island adds to the plentiful work and storage space, which also includes food and dish pantries. The built-in desk and shelves are conveniently located for managing household business. Doors on two sides open onto two covered decks, and the large utility room is steps away.

Half walls created by posts provide minimal separation between the naturally bright dining room and living room. The dining room boasts a built-in hutch, and the living room is warmed by a masonry fireplace nestled between bookcases.

Another wide window bay expands the deluxe master suite. Other luxuries, in addition to a roomy walk-in closet, include twin lvs, private toilet and a walk-in shower.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Drive, Department W, Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Applegate 10-403 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 400 home plans is available for $15. SIPS homes offer utility savings

DEAR JIM: We heard about SIPS houses at a home show. We are going to build our dream home next year and we are exploring different building methods. What is a SIPS house, are they efficient and do they look strange?

-RON

DEAR RON: Using the SIPS (structural insulated panel system) construction method would be ideal for your dream home. This is one of the most energy efficient house construction methods available and it is extremely durable. Some of the SIPS manufacturers offer lifetime warranties on their homes. The energy efficient utility bills with SIPS should be less than half of those for a standard code stick-built lumber house. They are very airtight giving you precise control over the indoor air quality (allergens, humidity, dust, etc.). The super insulated, airtight walls also block most outdoor noise.

SIPS is a simple construction method where the insulated shell of a home also acts as the supporting structure. This eliminates the need for first framing walls, stuffing them with insulation and then covering the interior and exterior surfaces. This is all accomplished with a single thick, strong panel. SIPS simplicity and strength allows for more architectural flexibility. From the exterior (siding, brick, stucco, etc.) and the interior, a SIPS house is indistinguishable from an ordinary stick-built house. The only difference you may possibly notice at the windows is the thicker walls. Also using vented roof panels makes it easy to build cathedral ceilings. SIPS panels use polyurethane or expanded polystyrene rigid foam insulation sandwiched between two layers of structural oriented strand board. They are available in various thicknesses up to an insulation value of R-45. You can also use them for the floors and ceilings. Panels are available with dropwall or paneling already attached to the indoor surface. The panels, made in a factory, are as long as 24 feet so there are few joints in the walls to leak air. Engineers at the factory take your house plans and make all the panels to the exact sizes needed. They can cut the window and door openings at the factory or it can be done at the site. The panels are attached to each other by various means. Some use tongue-and-groove edges and others use vertical splines for an airtight, strong fit. A unique design uses a cam lock which secures double tongue-and-grooves together. The bottom attaches to the foundation and the top to a header. Once the SIPS panels are designed and made, the actual construction at your building site is quick in any weather conditions. Chases for the electric wiring are already cut in the foam to reduce the electrician's labor costs. With the airtightness, including a fresh air heat recovery ventilation system provides excellent indoor air quality. # Throw another shrimp on the barbecue with this delicious recipe

By Linda Cicero
The Miami Herald

This recipe is from Don Shula's Steak House, circa 1995, and what really makes it wonderful is not only the sauce but the fresh basil. It's a party favorite. I doubled the shrimp portion of the recipe, and you could easily multiply it further. Personally, I think you only need a couple of tablespoons of sauce per serving.

DON SHULA'S STEAK HOUSE FAMOUS BARBECUE SHRIMP

SAUCE:
1 cup quality thick barbecue sauce
1 tablespoon ground horseradish
1 tablespoon honey
1 tablespoon coarsely ground pepper

SHRIMP:

16 large raw shrimp, peeled and deveined
16 fresh basil leaves
8 strips bacon, cut in half
1/2 cup salt, melted
Puree all the sauce ingredients in a food processor or blender. Set aside. Heat oven to 375 degrees. Wrap each shrimp in a fresh basil leaf, then in a half piece of bacon; secure with a toothpick. Place on cookie sheet, brush with butter and bake 8 to 10 minutes, turning halfway through and brushing again with butter. Turn on broiler and brown shrimp both sides (an additional 3 to 4 minutes). Toss with the sauce and serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Star fruit, makes wonderful chutney, to serve with roasted poultry or meat. You could add a cup of fresh cranberries during the cooking period in place of 1 cup of the star fruit to make a holiday relish.

SWEET STAR FRUIT RELISH

8 cups thinly sliced star fruit
1 1/2 cups cider vinegar
4 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg (optional; will darken relish)
Remove seeds from star fruit.

Cover with vinegar and allow to stand overnight.

Drain, discarding vinegar. Combine star fruit, sugar, salt, and nutmeg in a saucepan. Cook over very low heat, stirring often, until thick, about 30 minutes. Allow to stand overnight. Remove cloves. Reheat mixture to a rapid boil. Pack into hot, sterilized pint jars. Wipe jar mouths and adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath canner for 10 minutes. Makes 4 pints.

Pies: A look at the all-American dessert

By Mary-Kathryn Craft
Knight Ridder News Service

Here are some pies, for the holidays.

PENINSULA SURPRISE PIE

1 cup raw cranberries, washed and sorted (frozen are acceptable)
5 1/2 cups apples, peeled, cored, sliced (Everett recommends McIntosh, Fuji, Pink Lady or Braeburn)

1/4 cup canned, crushed pineapple in its own syrup, drained
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed

1/4 cup white sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Crust:
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup unsalted butter, chilled
6 to 8 tablespoons ice water

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In medium bowl or food processor, mix together flour and salt. Cut butter into small pieces and mix into flour. Add water. Chill dough before rolling out. In food processor or grinder, combine cranberries, 1/2 cup apple slices, pineapple, brown sugar, white sugar, orange peel, cinnamon and nutmeg. Process until well-chopped but not mushy. Spread half of the mixture on bottom-of-pie crust. Arrange remaining apple slices over this and cover with remaining cranberry mixture. Top with remaining crust, sealing edges well and cutting steam vents. Bake for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for an additional 35 to 40 minutes. You might have to cover crust edge with aluminum foil to prevent burning.

ABE LINCOLN'S FAVORITE LEMON PIE

Filling:

1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon corn starch
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/4 cup fresh-lemon-juice

2/3 cup water
4 egg yolks
1 whole egg

2 tablespoons melted butter
Meringue:
4 egg whites
3 tablespoons sugar

Crust:
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup unsalted butter, chilled
3 to 4 tablespoons ice water

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. For crust, mix together flour and salt in a medium bowl or food processor. Cut butter into small pieces and mix into flour. Add water. Chill dough before rolling out. To make filling, in a medium bowl, combine corn starch and salt. Add in lemon rind, juice and water. Beat in egg yolks one at a time, leaving the whole egg until last. Blend in melted butter. Pour into unbaked pie shell and bake for 30 to 35 minutes until bubbly and somewhat thick. Remove from oven and let sit for 10 minutes. Heat oven to 450 degrees. To make meringue, beat egg whites until frothy. Beat in sugar, a little at a time, until whites form soft peaks. Spread over pie, making sure to seal edges. Bake 2 to 3 minutes until meringue is lightly touched to brown. Cool in room temperature before cutting.

PUMPKIN PECAN CRUMBLE PIE

Crust:
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 cup plus 1 tablespoon butter-flavored shortening, chilled

1/2 cup ice water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 egg, beaten

1 (16-ounce) can pumpkin
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger

Filling:
2 eggs, beaten
1 (16-ounce) can pumpkin
3/4 cup sugar

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger

2 tablespoons pure maple syrup
1 (12-ounce) can evaporated milk

Pecan crumble topping:
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter, softened

For crust, chill all ingredients, including the flour and vinegar. Combine the flour, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening with a pastry blender until the mixture resembles cornmeal. In another bowl, mix water and vinegar with the beaten egg. Add the liquid mixture, one-tablespoon-at-a-time, to the flour mixture, tossing with a fork to form a soft dough. Shape into three discs. Wrap in plastic wrap and chill in refrigerator at least three hours, before attempting to roll out. (Overnight works best). Hold no more than three days in refrigerator. For longer storage, place in a freezer bag and freeze. Use one disc for a single crust pie. Use two discs for a double crust pie. To roll out for pies, work quickly on a floured pastry cloth. Flip the dough at least once, adding a little more flour to the pastry cloth. Roll out to fit pie pan. (Store pastry cloth in freezer).

For filling, beat eggs until frothy. Add all remaining ingredients in one bowl, given, beating only until well-blended. Pour filling into crust. Bake in 375 oven for 25 minutes.

For topping, mix all ingredients. Remove pie from oven and sprinkle topping over filling. Return pie to oven and bake 25 minutes more or until center is set.

Give leftover fruitcake new life

By Kay H. Corteyou
The Washington Post

Last year I came up with a solution for the Fruitcake Dilemma — what to do with fruitcake other than feed it to the birds. The dessert received rave reviews.

FRUITCAKE BREAD PUDDING

8 generous servings
2 cups milk (full-fat, low-fat or nonfat)
2 to 4 eggs, depending on the size (may substitute twice as many egg whites as entire eggs)
Few drops vanilla extract or brandy (optional)
2 to 3 cups crumbled or cubed fruitcake (can remove candied fruit as you crumble, if you prefer)
Butter for the baking dish
In a bowl, beat together the milk, eggs and vanilla or brandy until well blended. Add the fruitcake and stir to combine. Set aside for 30 minutes or cover and refrigerate for at least 1 hour and up to 8 hours. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Butter a 2-quart baking dish, such as a casserole or 8-inch square or round pan or pie plate. Pour the mixture into the prepared baking dish. Place the baking dish inside a larger baking pan, place the pans on the oven rack and carefully add enough hot water to the larger pan to reach within a half inch of the top of the baking dish. Bake the pudding for 25 to 50 minutes, depending on the thickness of the pudding. A cake tester or toothpick inserted in the center of the pudding should come out clean. Transfer the dish to a wire rack to cool for a few minutes. Serve warm with a drizzle of heavy cream or a spoonful of rum or brandy.

Titans may resort to injured McNair

The Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. - The Tennessee Titans hoped to rest banged-up quarterback Steve McNair this week. Billy Volek's lacerated spleen put an end to those plans. McNair is nursing an injured ankle and right calf, but because Tennessee has yet to secure a playoff spot, he might be called upon against the Houston Texans on Sunday. That's because Volek, a little-known backup, is out for the season after being hurt Sunday while leading the Titans to a 28-26 victory over the Buffalo Bills. That leaves rookie Jason Gesser, signed as an undrafted free agent, as the only healthy option. Gesser has yet to play a down in the NFL. So it looks as if the Titans (10-4) will turn to McNair, one of the NFL's most durable quarterbacks. He has played with injuries often during a streak of 43 straight starts that ended last week. Titans coach Jeff Fisher said it was too early Tuesday to say if McNair would start Sunday. But he said his star quarterback was willing if not altogether healthy. McNair received three hours of treatment Tuesday and was no longer wearing a protective boot on his left ankle. Meanwhile, the Titans were negotiating with former backup quarterback Neil O'Donnell, a 13-year veteran, who was cut after training camp but still has a home in Nashville. Fisher said O'Donnell was flying to Nashville on Tuesday to try to work out a contract. Volek played well in McNair's absence, throwing for two touchdowns and running for another. The injury wasn't announced until Monday night, when Volek was hospitalized. Fisher said doctors believe Volek will not need surgery to remove his spleen. He should be fully recovered in eight to 12 weeks, Fisher said. Tennessee can qualify for its fourth post-season berth in five years with a win or a loss by Baltimore, Cincinnati or Miami.

Tennessee Titans backup quarterback Billy Volek watches from the sidelines during the Titans' win over the Buffalo Bills on Sunday in Nashville, Tenn. It was announced Tuesday that Volek will miss the rest of the season because of a lacerated spleen he suffered against Buffalo.

CSI rattles Chukars

By Kevin Colbert Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - A lot has happened since the College of Southern Idaho's men's basketball team took the floor against Colorado Northwestern Community College a little more than a week ago. The Eagles, however, put all distractions aside for at least 40 minutes Tuesday night in a 96-70 non-conference win over Treasure Valley Community College at the CSI gymnasium. CSI dressed just nine players for the game after guard David Sills was dismissed from the squad due to a violation of team rules, guard Nurudeen Adepoju was forced to return to his native Nigeria to apply for an extension on his visa, and guard Schafer Jackson could only watch the action after spraining his ankle in practice Monday. "We had a tough week, losing a few of our guys," said CSI head coach Gib Arnold. "Everybody's in finals, too, and we're 10 days off (from their last game). You add all that up and there's a pretty good chance you're going to come out a little bit slow." The Eagles trailed 18-14 in the first half, but a second foul called on TVCC star Wade Joseph midway through the frame helped to open the flood gates for CSI. The 6-foot-5 Joseph, who came into the game averaging 19 points per game, was sent to the bench after scoring seven of the team's first 18 points. He finished with team-highs of 19 points and 10 rebounds while teammate Antonio Jordan added 16 points. The Eagles did much of their damage in the paint against the undersized Chukars, especially with Joseph on the bench. Not only did the likes of 6-9 Yusuf Baker, who finished the first half with 15 points on 7-of-9 shooting, 6-10 Mohamed Kone, 6-9 Jason McGriff and forward 6-6 Dante Sawyer have success down low, but the CSI guards were able to penetrate into the teeth of the Chukars defense. Aking Eling did much of the damage on the drive, scoring 12 points and dishing out 11 assists. Baker finished with 21 points and seven rebounds. Guard Dani Hazan scored 19 points while Sawyer added 13 for the Eagles. For as much as the Eagles dominated the paint offensively, they were perhaps even more impressive on the defensive end of the floor. CSI finished with a season-high 20 blocks, led by Kone's eight and Baker's seven. Kone also had 10 points and 10 rebounds. "That was fun," Arnold said. "You look at our team and we have four 6-10 guys and over there, they're 6-5 or 6-6." "When they threw it inside, Kone and Yusuf kept knocking it into the crowd." TVCC (0-5) never came closer than 13 points in the second half. The Eagles led by as many as 32. CSI travels to the College of Eastern Utah Jan. 23 to resume Scenic West Athletic Conference play.

College of Southern Idaho forward Dante Sawyer jumps past Treasure Valley Community College defender Seth Thomas in the first half of their game in Twin Falls Tuesday.

Red Sox, A-Rod meet with union

The Associated Press

BOSTON - AL MVP Alex Rodriguez and Boston Red Sox general manager Theo Epstein met with an official from the baseball player's union on Tuesday to try to move the blockbuster deal for the AL MVP closer to fruition. Gene Orta, the union's No. 2 official, confirmed that the meeting took place but would not comment on its substance. The union would get involved if there was a renegotiation of the record $252 million, 10-year contract Rodriguez signed three years ago; any renegotiation would have to add some benefit for the player, according to baseball's labor contract. Texas Rangers owner Tom Hicks, who has been handling the negotiations with Boston counterpart John Henry, also had little to say. "At this time negotiations are at a tentative point," Hicks said in a statement. "Due to this fact, we will have no further comment on this situation today." The potential swap of the sport's only $20 million men has bogged down over the sheer magnitude of the money involved - more than $300 million remaining on the two contracts, including deferred money - and the Rangers' demand that Boston pay up to $5 million a year for the next six years, in addition to more than $179 million due Rodriguez over the next seven seasons. Boston has said it will not chip in a substantial amount toward Ramirez's salary; even without it, the Rangers would already save about $81 million in the deal. Talk has recently focused on whether the Red Sox would include another player in lieu of cash. "The owners are talking," Rodriguez's agent, Scott Boras, said late Monday night. Epstein declined to comment on the negotiations, and Boston president Larry Lucchino has said the team was going into "radio silence" on the talks until they conclude, one way or the other. Henry hasn't responded to e-mails or calls from The Associated Press. Epstein said he would be returning to Boston on Monday, he said.

Road trips trip up some pro teams

By Hal Bobb Associated Press writer

Winning on the road is a puzzle the Detroit Lions and Cleveland Cavaliers can't seem to solve. And they're not alone. Sports psychologists say the problem is mental. Longtime NBA executive Pat Williams thinks it's simpler than that. Williams knows what the Cavaliers are going through, with 24 consecutive road losses, including 13 this season. He was general manager of the expansion Orlando Magic, who had some impressive dry spells of their own. "We not only lost on the road, but we lost at home, as well," said Williams, now a Magic executive VP. "It couldn't figure out - any other place to play the game." Williams believes it's no mys-

Innovative Nelson hits No. 2 on NBA wins list

The Associated Press

DALLAS - Whatever teams and players he's coached, Don Nelson has always adapted. Lacking a true point guard in Milwaukee, he came up with the "point forward" position. With no big man in Golden State, he went small and won with the exciting "Run TMC" combination. Dallas had nothing going for it when he took over. So Nelson got rid of everyone but Michael Finley, gambled on unproven players Steve Nash and Dirk Nowitzki and nearly wound up the NBA Finals last season. Innovator, risk-taker and a one-time wearer of the fish tie, Nelson is all that.

He's also the second-winningest coach in NBA history, having passed Pat Riley on Monday night, when the Mavericks beat the Toronto Raptors 111-94. "I can't say it's not special, but it doesn't mean that much to me at this moment. Maybe when I get old," the 63-year-old Nelson said, laughing. The 1,111th victory of his 26-year career came in his 3,000th NBA game as a player or coach. To appreciate the feat, consider that it would take 22 seasons of 50 wins just to come close. Nelson's top assistant Del Harris won 556 games over his 13-year career and would still be short if he doubled his win total.

Memphis tops Mean Green to win New Orleans Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Danny Wimprine threw for 254 yards and accounted for two touchdowns as Memphis won its first bowl game in 32 years, a 27-17 victory over North Texas in the New Orleans Bowl on Tuesday night.

Wimprine completed his first 10 passes, two at least 50 yards, and the Tigers (9-4) took a 17-3 lead.

Wimprine's touchdown pass was a 10-yard bullet to Chris Kelley as he crouched in tight coverage along the sideline.

Wimprine—a New Orleans native who had never lost in the Louisiana Superdome in two high school championship games and one previous college game—also ran for a 7-yard score on a quarterback draw, the game's first touchdown.

Wimprine was 17-of-23 and was selected MVP of the game, the first of 28 college bowls this season.

North Texas' Patrick Cobbs, the nation's leader in rushing yards per game with 157, gained 110 yards and scored two touchdowns.

Scott Hall threw for 152 yards, completing several long passes in the second half on two touchdown drives as North Texas (9-4) kept the game close well into the fourth quarter.

Memphis, of Conference USA, made its last bowl appearance in 1971 at the Pasadena Bowl, where the Tigers beat San Jose State 28-9.

North Texas has represented the fledgling Sun Belt Conference in all three New Orleans Bowls and won the game last year against Cincinnati.

The Mean Green made it a 17-10 when Cobbs burst through a hole outside the left tackle and broke free for a 35-yard score.

But after North Texas' defense had played a nearly flawless third quarter, a mistake by that unit allowed Memphis to regain a two-touchdown lead. North Texas appeared to have forced a punt just outside its own 40 when the Mean Green gang tackled LaKendus Cole on a screen play for a loss.

But Adrian Awosom was flagged for a 15-yard face-mask penalty that gave Memphis a first down on the North Texas 21. Several plays later, Cole squirmed his way into the end zone on a 5-yard run up the middle for a 24-10 lead.

Memphis needed the cushion as Hall completed two long passes in a 5-play, 85-yard drive that it 24-17 when Cobbs bowled his way into the end zone from 2 yards out.

Memphis then used up 4:47 on an 11-play drive that ended with Stephen Gostkowski's 42-yard field goal with 2:26 left.

"They're all just numbers," Nelson said Tuesday. "I don't know what numbers mean any more. It's winning your next game that's really only important."

His next game is in Boston, where the retired No. 19 hanging from the rafters honors his playing career.

Nelson spent 11 of his 14 seasons with the Celtics, excelling as a sixth man in five championship teams. He even hit the shot that won the 1969 title.

He went from playing to being an assistant with the Bucks. Eleven games later, he became the head coach and soon became GM, too.

Known mostly for wide-open offenses and a fun-loving personality, Nelson was once considered a defensive guy. In fact, Nellie—as he's widely known—was the first to use the Hack-Shaw defense, prompting O'Neal to call him "a clown" after one particularly abusive outing.

"It's a Hall of Fame coach and it's great to play for him," said Nash, who has gone from third-stringer in Phoenix to two-time All-Star under Nelson.

He'll probably need another extension to get the 182 wins needed to pass Lenny Wilkens for No. 1 on the coaching wins list.

didn't expect any announcements.

"If I were a betting man, I'd say there's nothing major in our future," he said. "We have a real strong club right now. If we just all in to complement what we have."

If the owners are able to work something out, the Red Sox would then need to trade shortstop Nomar Garciaparra. Epstein has said the team's first choice was to sign Garciaparra to a long-term deal "that makes sense for both sides," but Garciaparra turned down a $60 million, four-year offer last spring, looking for a longer and richer deal.

One destination for Garciaparra, if he is traded, would be Los Angeles. Dodgers manager Jim Tracy wouldn't confirm his team was interested except to say, "We're looking for somebody to fit in the middle of our order."

Unbeaten Stanford moves up the rankings

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Stanford is unbeaten and already has a win over a No. 1 team. The Cardinal men have defeated opponents by an average of 11 points per game, including a 27-point rout of Florida International in their most recent game.

And they're doing it without two key players. Josh Childress, the team's top returning scorer from last season, is sidelined with a foot injury, while point guard and current leading scorer, Chris Hernandez, has missed the last two games with back spasms.

But that's not enough for this team of perfectionists — who, like coach Mike Montgomery, always seem to focus on their shortcomings rather than their accomplishments.

After the No. 9 Cardinal (16-0)

College hoops

defeated Florida International 77-50 on Monday night, Stanford players were upset they had 12 turnovers and only 29 rebounds. They know they'll have to be a lot better Saturday when they play No. 13 Gonzaga in the Pete Newell Challenge.

"If I were a fan, I'd be a little displeased," center Rob Little said. "It's hard to focus when you have a ranked team this weekend and a school you've never heard of before."

The Cardinal, who upset North Carolina 1, 1 Kansas earlier this month, jumped from No. 21 in the poll to ninth in just two weeks. Stanford is one of seven teams to receive first-place votes in this week's poll, and the Cardinal received votes from

"We're not anything different from last year," senior forward Justin Davis said. "The year we had playing together prepared us for this year. It's a good thing when a team can play together without the top scorer in there."

Alone in the tiny weight room at Maples Pavilion, Childress rides the stationary bike while his teammates warm up for games only a few feet away. Aside from some shooting, that's about all he can do right now.

Stanford's injured star has been forced to watch his team's early-season success from the bench as he nurses a stress reaction in his left foot.

"You look around and we have 15 guys who are pretty good,"

Childress said. "That's from hard work over the summer."

Childress, who averaged 14.1 points and 8.1 rebounds last season, is expected to return for the start of the Pac-10 season early next month. Hernandez has been battling back problems since he arrived at Stanford last year, but should play Saturday against Gonzaga. He is averaging 14 points, shooting 52 percent from the field and 56 percent from 3-point range, has made 18 straight free throws and has 4.5 assists per game.

"Josh is our best player and Chris is No. 2," said guard Matt Lottich, one of the team's top 3-point threats. "Hopefully we'll still be able to play team ball once they're back and it will make us even better."

Twin Falls Municipal offers reduced winter rates

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course is now offering winter rates at $10 per round. Ten-round punch cards may be purchased for $100 at Donnelley Sports, Claude's Sports, Twin Falls City Hall, and the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course.

The punch cards will only be sold at these locations until Dec. 31. The punch cards expire Dec. 31, 2004.

Iverson's knee could keep him out until next month

PHILADELPHIA — Allen Iverson could be sidelined until January with a swollen right knee and wishes the Philadelphia 76ers would put him in the injured list.

The NBA's leading scorer has missed two of the team's last three games and said Tuesday he thinks he'll miss the 76ers' West Coast road trip that starts Dec. 26 at the Los Angeles Clippers.

The 76ers play four games before then, starting Wednesday at home against the Miami Heat. The Sixers' first home game after their road trip is Jan. 5 against Milwaukee.

Asked whether team doctors have let him know when his knee will be healed, Iverson said: "They can't tell me. Nobody's been able to tell me how long it's going to take."

He's averaging 28.9 points, 6.1 assists and 3.8 rebounds for the Atlantic Division-leading 76ers (12-12). He also is playing 43.7 minutes per game.

Iverson was "hurt in a game against Chicago on Dec. 4, when he slipped and hit the court hard," said head coach Sam Mitchell, but said the knee started to pop on the plane and has bothered him since.

He played 44 minutes the next night against Miami, sat out a game against Detroit, then returned Monday, Dec. 15, from the floor in 44 minutes against Denver on Friday.

Philadelphia lists Iverson's status as day-to-day. He played all 82 games for the first time in his career last season.

Bone bruise keeps Bulls center out 2 to 4 weeks

CHICAGO — Bulls center Eddy Curry will miss two to four weeks because of a bone bruise on his left knee.

In his third NBA season, Curry has never missed 20 games because of injury. He is averaging 13.5 points, second on the team, and nearly seven rebounds. He has made 46 straight starts, including 22 this season.

The Bulls (16-16) also said Tuesday when teammate Antonio Pippin on the injured list following knee surgery last week. He has played in 12 games for the Bulls this season and is averaging seven points.

Curry hurt his knee Saturday night when teammate Antonio Davis fell on him after being bumped by Indiana's Jermaine O'Neal.

A's trade Barrett to Cubs, re-sign reliever Rincon

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Oakland Athletics traded catcher Michael Barrett to the Chicago Cubs on Tuesday, a day after acquiring him from Montreal.

The A's will receive a player to be named from Chicago.

In addition, Oakland agreed to a two-year contract with reliever Ricardo Rincon. The 33-year-old left-hander was 8-4 with a 3.25 ERA in 64 relief appearances last season.

Red Sox acquire infielder Bellhorn from Rockies

BOSTON — The Red Sox acquired infielder Mark Bellhorn from the Colorado Rockies on Tuesday for a player to be named.

Bellhorn, 29, is a career .230 hitter with 37 homers and 106 RBIs in 371 games with Oakland, the Chicago Cubs and Colorado. He hit a career-best 27 homers with 56 RBIs in 146 games with the Cubs in 2002.

Bellhorn played 51 games with the Cubs before being traded to Colorado on June 20. He hit a combined .221 with 10 doubles and 25 RBIs in 99 games.

He became the first switch-hitter in National League history to homer from both sides of the plate in the same inning, accomplishing the feat for the Cubs at Milwaukee on Aug. 29.

Flyers trade Woywitka, draft picks for Cormie

PHILADELPHIA — The rights to restricted-free agent Mike Cormie were traded by the Philadelphia Flyers on Tuesday for Jeff Woywitka and two draft picks.

The Flyers will get a first-round pick in the 2004 entry draft and a third-round choice in the 2005 draft. Cormie, 34, played the last season and will still have to come to terms with the Flyers.

In 69 games for the Oilers during the 2002-03 season, Cormie had 20 goals and 31 assists for 51 points. In 192 career NHL games over three seasons with Edmonton (2000-01 through 2002-03), Cormie has 61 goals and 72 assists for 133 points.

Failed physical puts Viquez trade in jeopardy

CLEVELAND — Indians shortstop Omar Viquez failed a physical in Seattle on Tuesday, putting in jeopardy a trade that would have sent him to the Mariners for Carlos Guillen.

The trade had agreed on a deal to swap the stopper's contract on Viquez passing medical tests. The 36-year-old had two surgeries on his right knee last season.

However, after undergoing a physical and being put through agility drills at Safeco Field by Mariners coach Jerry Riggs, it was informed that he did not pass.

"They called me about an hour ago, and told me that I didn't pass the test on my knee," Viquez told MLB.com on Tuesday night. "It was kind of a shock. I was really looking forward to playing for the Mariners."

Viquez played five seasons for Seattle before being traded to Cleveland in 1993.

Bulls, Raptors swap guards Brunson, Mason

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bulls reacquired point guard Rick Brunson from the Toronto Raptors for guard Roger Mason.

Brunson, 26, was traded to Toronto in a deal that also sent Toronto guard Mason to Chicago. Brunson was a key player for the Bulls last season, averaging 11.5 points and 4.5 assists.

Mason, 25, was a second-round pick of the Bulls in 2001. He has averaged 10.5 points and 2.5 assists in 109 games with the Raptors.

Project Mutual modernizes network

RUPERT - California-based Advanced Fibre Communications Inc. on Tuesday said the Mini-Cassia-based Project Mutual Telephone cooperative has deployed its TelcoVideo and UniversalDSL solutions in parts of south-central Idaho.

The deployment allows PMT to leverage its investment in copper-based transmission facilities. By modernizing its telecommunications network, the nonprofit, community-based co-op can integrate video with voice and high-speed Internet services to offer customers a three-feature package in parts of its service area, including Blaine, Cassia, Jerome, Lincoln, Minidoka and Twin Falls counties.

"Over the coming years, we plan to connect every PMT subscriber to this new video system, and AFC's TelcoVideo and UniversalDSL solutions greatly improve our ability to accomplish this goal," Charlie Cawson, president and chief executive of PMT, said in a statement. "We strongly believe in offering every PMT customer a comprehensive suite of communications services that will enrich their experiences when talking on the telephone, watching television and accessing the Internet."

Founded in 1916, PMT has more than 11,200 access lines, including 3,000 cable TV customers who receive 70 channels of programming over PMT's analog video network.

PMT is installing new digital equipment capable of delivering about 110 TV channels. The new video network will offer music channels, pay-per-view, network events-calendars, local-content insertions, video-on-demand and other entertainment services.

Kraft Foods removes Holden from co-CEO duties

CHICAGO - Kraft Foods Inc. removed Betsy Holden from her duties as co-chief executive officer Tuesday after a series of setbacks involving products, personnel and sluggish sales at the nation's largest food and beverage company.

The demotion of Holden, 49, had been rumored to be under fire at Kraft as the normally steady company struggled through a down period.

Holden remains a member of the board of directors.

Money tip: Transferring debt can have dangers

NEW YORK - Many consumers have taken advantage of credit cards that allow them to transfer debt and pay little or no interest on balances for a specific period.

Transferring balances can become like a game of musical chairs, with the debtor shifting to a new card as the time period for a low interest rate runs out. Used properly, this strategy can keep a consumer's debt payments low and manageable.

But the strategy does have significant dangers. The first comes in the form of transfer fees: hefty one-time charges for transferring balances. The second comes from the significant penalties that can be applied because of a missed or late payment. If you break one of the card agreements, the company can charge exorbitant interest. This may also occur after the grace period runs out and can make a debt balloon in size.

To avoid these traps, look closely at the company agreement when you transfer a balance to a new card. Keep track of exactly when the grace period ends and how high the interest rate will be when it does.

Finally, realize that the strategy of switching balances on one card to the next is not viable over the long term. It only can be used for emergencies and temporary debts.

Agency considers business incentives

TWIN FALLS - Businesses investing in property-taxable improvements in the city's urban-renewal area frequently receive contributions from a city agency.

But when, and how much? For a pair of specific cases, Twin Falls' Urban Renewal Agency meets today to consider those questions.

The investment group and the bank which renovated a building at downtown's central intersection had renewed their request for a bigger boost from Urban

Meeting today

Twin Falls' Urban Renewal Agency and the city's Industrial Development Corp. are two separate entities, but their members are the same people. Both entities will meet at noon today in City Hall, 321 Second Ave. E. The meeting is open to the public.

Renewal's offers. But the agency last month delayed answering, instead directing its projects committee to take a closer look at the renovation expenses first.

Agency members in March had voted to spend $20,000 to help Perrine Partnership LLC, a group of local business people who are directors of Magic Valley Bank, renovate the former Wells Fargo building at Main Avenue and Shoshone Street. Perrine Partnership leases more than half of the structure to Magic Valley Bank. The partnership and the bank remodeled the structure inside and outside, with additional help from the city's own offers for parking, sidewalks and other items.

Perrine Partnership received the $20,000 but asked for a bigger incentive from Urban Renewal, saying that the $1 million project had cost the partnership and the bank $236,000 more than expected.

Today, the agency will consider sending a letter to Perrine Partnership. In its draft form, the letter says the agency will wait on a decision until the property's new property-taxable value is available so the agency can compare that new number to the taxable value before the recent construction project.

"We have plenty of precedent in doing that," said Dawn McAlindin, Twin Falls City Hall's director of economic development.

The letter, if approved today, will restate a rule of thumb that Urban Renewal has used in sizing contributions to other improvement projects in the urban-renewal area, he said. The agency typically contributes up to 10 percent of new property-taxable investment.

Also today, Urban Renewal members will consider whether to pay now some of the money they've promised to S & G Produce Co., which constructed a

Qwest makes changes

People leave the annual meeting of Qwest stockholders on Tuesday in Denver. Qwest Communications shareholders voted to limit part of the company's executive compensation package Tuesday at their first annual meeting since Qwest erased $2.5 billion in profits in an accounting scandal.

Shareholders vote to rein in executive compensation package

The Associated Press

DENVER - Qwest Communications shareholders voted to limit part of the company's executive compensation package Tuesday at their first annual meeting since Qwest erased $2.5 billion in profits in an accounting scandal.

The decision requires that growth in the pension fund be excluded when executive bonuses are calculated. Shareholders also won the right to approve any severance package worth more than three times an executive's base salary and bonus, and voted to limit directors to one-year terms.

All three changes were backed by Qwest management. Qwest provides local-phone service to much of Magic Valley. Qwest founder and Denver billionaire Philip Anschutz, new CEO Richard Notebaert and Frank Popoff—all won re-election to the board. There were no other competitors for the board's three open seats.

Notebaert and Popoff received at least 90 percent approval from shareholders, but Anschutz received only 80 percent. "I'm just a little bit leery of Mr.

Anschutz owning so much of this company and the conflict of interest," said Sandy Sanden, 51, a Qwest technician.

Retirees had called for a revamped board and a policy to make sure a majority of members did not have significant-business ties to Qwest. In a recent letter to shareholders, the Association of US West Retirees said it believed eight of the board's 12 members had such ties.

Qwest has maintained that most of its directors are independent, but a shareholder advisory group, the Glass Lewis & Co., had recommended against re-electing Anschutz, saying his business relationships with Qwest created conflicts of interest.

Anschutz officials have said he acts in Qwest's best interest and has a right to be a director as the company's largest stockholder with a 17-percent stake.

The board remains largely the same one that was sitting when federal regulators and prosecutors began examining whether Qwest artificially boosted its revenue, prompting a restatement that wiped out $2.5 billion in earnings.

New federal housing grant aids first-time, low-income homebuyers

The Associated Press

BOISE - President Bush on Tuesday signed the American Dream Downpayment Act, a bill authorizing financial grants for an estimated 40,000 low-income families to defray down payments and other initial home buying costs. The bill will allow $200 million in grants to help income-qualified first-time homebuyers with down payment and closing costs, the biggest hurdles to homeownership.

Idaho's share of the money is yet to be determined. But Idaho is good for American, good for families and good for the economy," Bush said. "We want more people owning their own home. If you own your own home, you have a vital stake in the future of our country."

Minorities lag behind the rest of the country in home ownership. While 69 percent of all Americans own homes, less than 50 percent of minorities own homes. HUD spokesman Brian Sullivan said the money likely will not be available until next spring. The agency still has to write technical rules on how the funding will be distributed.

Sullivan said the Idaho Housing and Finance Association will be one of the state's main administrators of the HUD funds.

"We can't say how much Boise or Idaho is going to get. The program is authorized at $200 million, but we have to wait for an appropriation" from Congress, he said. The program should be running by spring, he said.

Qualifying for the grants is done through an extensive table that covers household income and the neighborhood where the home is located.

For example, a Boise family of four with a household income of less than $43,600 would qualify for a partial grant. In Blaine County, the income threshold for the same family would be $56,500. In Clark County one of Idaho's poorest counties, the qualification would be $28,000.

Grants may be used for any upfront costs of home buying, including closing costs such as title, escrow and loan origination fees.

Samantha Mattoon of the nonprofit Consumer Credit Counseling Services in Boise said loan programs such as the one signed by Bush Tuesday are helpful but duplicate many commercial mortgages that are designed to meet the same needs. As long as the property is worth enough collateral for the loan, down payments and closing fees can be financed in many retail mortgages.

There's so many loans out there, a lot of people don't need down payments anymore," she said.

However, the obvious benefit from the federal program is that since it's a grant, it won't have to be paid back.

"Many people are unable to afford the monthly mortgage payment," Please see MORTGAGE, Page E3

Books offer sensible financial tips for youths

Getting your kids to read about money and economic concepts might rank right up there with nagging them to practice the piano or eat cauliflower. But it needn't be that way.

While bookstores and libraries are full of titles that explain to adults how to handle children's money issues, there are also many fine books geared to kids. Some of these cover just the very basics; others are comprehensive guides that provide information and advice on all sorts of financial issues.

I tend to look for books that life situations to teach kids about money management in an entertaining way. I've even come across some well-done investment books/ written by teens for teens.

Here are a few picks, which include some titles recommended by children's money experts:

Stocks end higher on strong economic news

NEW YORK (AP) - The Dow Jones industrial average and the Standard & Poor's 500 index rose nearly 100 points Tuesday as upbeat economic reports suggested inflation is under control and better times are ahead for the nation's battered manufacturing sector.

The rally drove the Dow up more than 100 points, and also helped the Nasdaq composite index close higher after being down for much of the session. Analysts said investors were rotating away from riskier tech stocks and into large-cap value companies as they seek to lock in gains before the end of the year.

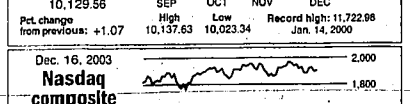

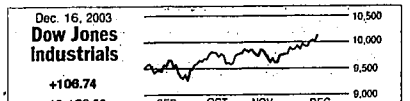

The long-term economic numbers are strengthening, which I think is good, so now let's see if the corporate numbers remain favorable," said Stephen Carl, head of equity trading at the Williams Capital Group. "If we can get the moon and all the stars lined up right, we could see a very good start to the next year." Dow jumping past the 10,000 level and the weekend capture of fallen Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein - also have helped boost investor confidence.

The Dow closed up 106.74, or 1.1 percent, at 10,129.55, its highest level in nearly 19 months. It last closed higher on May 23, 2002, when it ended the day at 10,216.08.

The broader market gauges also closed higher. The S&P 500 reached an almost 19-month high, closing up 7.09, or 0.7 percent, at 1,075.13. It finished higher on May 24, 2002, when it closed at 1,083.82.

And the tech-heavy Nasdaq struggled into positive territory in the last hour of the session, closing up 6.03, or 0.3 percent, at 1,924.29.

A series of positive economic reports contributed to the rally. The Federal Reserve reported a 0.9 percent rise in industrial production for November, well beyond analyst expectations. It was the strongest reading since October 1999, and signaling that the worst may be over for the long-suffering manufacturing sector.

new facility on Locust Street South. The job, owned by S & G - unlike Ferrine Partnership - has received nothing from Urban Renewal so far, McAlindin said.

The agency in July voted 3-2 against paying part of its genetic commitment to S & G Produce before the construction on Locust was finished. The company had asked for early payment of $50,000 - half of the maximum $100,000 that's set aside for S & G Produce in Urban Renewal's budget.

Urban Renewal in the past has made partial payments to projects before completion, as in the case of Dell Computer Corp., McAlindin said in July.

"I think this is a very bad precedent to continue with," McAlindin said.

Today, the agency's board will discuss whether to pay something to S & G Produce before seeing the company's property tax bill.

The agency's members also form a separate city-owned Industrial Development Corp., which meets today to consider documents related to financing for Covina, Calif.-based Hydro Fitting Manufacturing Corp.'s planned manufacturing plant in Twin Falls.

URA Renewal members have talked in private sessions about incentives for Hydro Fitting but haven't yet reached a decision publicly. The form of an incentive will depend on the results of negotiations between Hydro Fitting, its construction contractor and the future plant site's landowner, McAlindin has said.

But the Industrial Development Corp. is ready to proceed on one inducement.

Industrial Development can essentially lend companies its tax-exempt status for industrial development bonds to fund construction of manufacturing plants. McAlindin expects the corporation to issue such bonds, in Hydro Fitting's name, for construction and equipment-purchase contracts.

A resolution of intent and a nonbinding memorandum of agreement under consideration today say that if Hydro Fitting locates a facility in Twin Falls, Industrial Development will provide tax-exempt status for a maximum of $3.5 million for the company's financing of facility construction and equipment purchase. It would be nonrecourse debt, which means Industrial Development and city would not be responsible for payment of the bonds even if company defaulted.

As soon as Industrial Development signs the resolution, qualifying costs incurred by Hydro Fitting can be included in the project cost for tax-exempt financing, McAlindin said.

When the new facility opens, volunteers will no longer have to use the chapel to provide the services.

One employee at the Burley location will continue to operate programs there. The employment service serves LDS stakes in Twin Falls and Burley. Each stake is divided into a number of wards.

The volunteers receive names of people who match with available jobs. And each ward's employment director gives names of ward members who are looking for workers, he said. In 2003 the employment center placed 212 people in jobs ranging from temporary and seasonal to permanent.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE® Bobby Wolff

"Make a plan and you will find she has something else in mind." - Alan Jay Lerner

North and South did well in the auction since four hearts looks to be a distinctly better contract than five clubs. However, South did not play his contract to best advantage.

The defense led three rounds of spades, and South ruffed. He then led a heart to dummy's king and a heart back to his jack, the best approach to playing the suit in isolation, but not in the context of the whole deal.

Let us revisit the trump suit and consider that if trumps are 3, we are in no danger at all. So what we have to do is to protect ourselves against 4-2 splits, knowing from the auction that West is the only player who has spades left to force us with.

If the heart jack loses to the queen, East has two spades left to lead, so he can do better than lead a diamond. We win in hand and unblock dummy's trump, come back to a top diamond, draw all the trump, and claim the rest.

ANSWER: Bid three clubs. You have a little in hand for your raise in diamonds, so when partner asks you to describe your hand, try to do something more constructive than just repeating your support for his suit.
