TWIN FALLS – The Twin Falls School Board unanimously appointed Mike Melntyre to the board to replace Ed Reeves, who resigned after pleading guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol.

The board accepted Reeves resignation at its Aug. 25 meeting and received two applications to replace him – one from Reeves wife, Shawna.

The position represents Zone 2 in the southwest part of the district.

Mike McIntyre represented that zone for six years before being ousted by Reeves in a 21-20 vote in the 2003 election.

McIntyre's application letter simply stated his experience and asked for the position. Shawna Reeves' letter detailed her involvement with the district as a parent and her budgeting and finance experience from working as the head buyer for a local jewelry store chain.

Superintendent Wiley Dobbs said he was impressed with both candidates. Vice Chairman Vera Redman said she supported McIntyre because he only barely lost the election and has served before.

"Mr. McIntyre has already proven himself as a board member." Redman said.

Board Member Chad Hafer said he felt comfortable working with McIntyre.

McIntyre will serve the rest of Ed Reeves term.

Other Items on the agenda included.

Teacher contracts - The school board approved an agreement between the district and the Twin Falls Education Association on teacher contracts. The contracts include a one percent base salary increase for teachers and increases for experience, but not for education.

States and elsewhere said they did not believe the blast Thursday near the Chinese border—which raised a cloud more than two miles wide — was a nuclear test.

But a Bush administration official said the United States has indications that the North is trying to conduct a test. The explosion and concerns over Pyongyang's nuclear ambitions set off a heated back-and-forth between the White House and Democratic rival John Kerry. North Korea denounced the speculation over a nuclear test as part of a "smear campaign" against it, aimed at diverting world attention away from never revelations about past South Korean nuclear activities. The North's official news agency KCNA explained the explosion saying "blastings at construction sites of hydropower stations in the north of Korea" had taken place.

Nevertheless, the high concentrations of iodine-131 warrant full investigation by the government and its scientific agencies. Expanding RECA payments to Idahoans should be made when the cause-and-effect link isprovable.

But nuclear opponents—including some downwinders—will use any compensation to try and scuttle the entire scope of nuclear programs. That would include INEEL which becomes the Idaho National Laboratory next February. In its future mission, the Idaho National Laboratory is slated to play a significant role in developing electricity and hydrogen for fuel cell research.

Donna Pence's local roots provide strength on issues

Nobody has better qualifica-tions than Donna Pence to be elected state representative B position for legislative District 25.

Born and reared in Richfield, she went on to earn a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Idaho and a master of education degree from Idaho State University. She then married fellow student Lew Pence. They and their three daughters have devoted themselves to Idaho and its people beginning with Lew's work in the Natural Resources Conservation Service. That work took the family to Pocatello, Buld, Boise and Cooding, in all of which Donna taught school and tirelessly worked on behalf of girls sports for equality of facilities and schedules, as well as taking leading roles in community and church. Their daughter, Lynn, works a range conservationist with the Burcau of Land Management. Daughter, Kim, works a products engineer and is presently a stay-at-home mom. And daughter, Dusty, is a fuels specialist with the Forest Service.

On part of the family's 60 acres, Donna developed and managed a tree farm, from which management she has developed a deep understanding of marketing, finanching and solving labor problems of small farmers and businesses. Her family's love of the outdoors is expressed in hiking, hunting, rafting, fishing, cross-country and downhill sking, mountain biking, horseback riding, canoeling and camping. Form such activities, she has learned the economic value of

A Patient's Perspective

When Tenny Garner, one of Twin Falls' top loan officers and a mother of three children, needed a hearing aid, she turned to one of the towns top hearing aid practices, Professional Hearing Aid Services.

"After saying "what" and asking people to repeat themselves for 10 years, I finally made the decision to get a hearing test," she says. "Not to mention, my littlest daughter, now 11 years old, kept saying to me, "Mom, I don't want to have to say it three times."

"For years, my kids kept telling me to get a hearing aid. My hearing aids stopped that irritation in my family."

Tenny, age 56, has been wearing her hearing aid for a high-frequency hearing loss for nearly a year. "My hearing loss was embarrassing," she explains. "But now I hear everything. I no longer have to ask people to repeat themselves." Like many people who have had others tell them about their hearing problems or who have recognized their hearing difficulties on their own, Tenny started with an inexpensive hearing enhancer. She then moved on to the more advanced hearing aid technology. "I'll wear them the sets of my life," she proclaims, "and upgrade to more advanced hearing aid technology as I need to."

She is so pleased with the hearing aids provided by Professional Hearing Aid Services, she tells everyone. "I even take them out to show people and say, see how small? And ask them to try it!" She also tells everyone to go to Professional Hearing Aid Services for their hearing healthcare. "They take care of you!"

sar.000 one-year emergency levy during a special meeting: Saturday.

The district was eligible for $106,000 in levy funds, but the board decided it could make do with $47,000. said Superintendent John Garner. The district has about 43 more students than it had last year.

The owner of a home with an assessed value of $50,000 and a homeowner's exemption would pay about $13,30 for the levy. A $100,000 assessed value business would pay about $26.60.

The district will use about $10,000 for a Waterford computer and software for a kindergarten class, about $12,100 for student supplies and about $11,000 for a part-time secretary to help with testing and other office work.

Emergency levies do not require a public vote. The district has until Thursday to file the levy paperwork with the county.

Judge dismisses drug-testing suit

TWIN FALLS - Citing lack of time to pursue the case, parents of a Twin Falls Fligh School student have dropped their lawsuit against the school district. Ioe and Denise Stanzak flied the suit in connection with the Twin Falls School District's random drug testing policy for students in extracurricular activities. The Times-News recently learned.

The sult was dismissed withour prejudice by District Judge John Butler on July 9, according to court documents.
Joe Starzak said Monday that he does not have the time and energy to pursue the issue further.

On Monday, Superintendent Wiley Dobbs reiterated his belief in drug testing, saying that such a program gives students a "more powerful way to say no."

He also said that because of

"There's no animosity for the family from the district," he added.

added.
Stanzak filed the suit in 5th District Court in Twin Falls, saying the district's policy was too broad and violated students' rights. He had alleged that his daughter's refusal to sign a form consenting to random drug testing harmed her grade in band class, an academic class whose students also take part in extracurricular band activities.

The School Board approved the policy after the U.S. Supreme Court voted 5-4 in June 2002 that public schools could randomly test students who 'voluneered' for extracurricular activities. The rational was that student safety is more important than student privacy.

Bill Allred, pollution prevention manager for the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality, proposed Monday that Minidoka County commissioners help form a citizens committee to draft a groundwater management plan for the county.

Minidoka County ranks ninth in, the state for levels of nitrate in groundwater, Allred said, but with proper information there's plenty that ordinary residents can do to reduce these levels.

"If we can work with people to solve the problem, that's what we'd rather do than come in with a regulatory approach. Allred said.

The committee would be made up of around, 20 residents who would spend a year putting together a groundwater management plan and published it for public comment in March.

Appellate court ruling stops plan to restore Idaho forest

COEUR d'ALENE (AP) - The U.S. Forest Service has mu COLEUR GALLENE (AP) - The U.S. Forest Service has put most of its projects in the Idaho Panhandle on hold following a federal appellate ruling last month that could dramatically change the way federal land managers approach timber sales.

sales. Environmentalists called the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision the most far-reaching thas won while a spokesman for the Idaho Panhandle National Forests said it could delay some projects and significantly disrupt others.

Dave O'Brien, said the government is still assessing its options in response to the ruling.

A three-judge panel of appel-late court blocked plans to log about 1.400 acres of the north-ern Idaho drainage fed by Iron and Iloney creeks and use the cash from the sale of 17 million board feet of timber to restore the damaged forests. In reversing a district court ruling, the panel held that the Forest Service failed to ade-quately assess the cumulative impact of past logging opera-tions.

The timber sale would have linanced removal of 76 miles of old roads, replanting of traditional larch and white pine stands and restoration of fish stands and resources habitat.

Feds approve pollutant limits on 200 miles of the Snake River

BOISE (AP) – The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has approved limits on the amount of pollutants released into the Snake River where it flows along the Oregon border. The stretch runs about 200 miles from Adrian, Ore, to where the Snake River meets the Salmon River, it does not meet water quality standards for temperature, nutrients such as fertilizers, sediments and a number of posticides.

Limits are called "total maximum daily loads," or the maximum amount of the contaminants the river can safety take in each day. The limits call for significant reductions in phosphorus and lower water temperatures in some areas.

The Clean Water Act requires the states to restore and maintain the water quality in their rivers. They identify those that do not meet standards and prioritize their cleanups.

The TMDL process was long tedious, and sometimes contentious." said Marti Bridges. TMDL program manager for the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality. "Idaho DEQ looks forward to working with stakeholders throughout this basin in the years to come, effecting water quality improvements that will enhance the natural environ-ment and help maintain the economic vitality of local com-munities." she said.

Many of the reductions will be tied to reducing the amount of sit pouring in from tributaries including the Boise. Payette and Weiser rives.

Weiserrivers.

The daily limits were developed to mesh with the states' schedules and to run concurrently with the relicensing of Idaho Power Co.'s three hydro-electric dams in Hells Canyon.

The states have worked for more than two years to Identify pollutant levels and held more than 40 meetings with the public and stakeholders. A bi-state pub-lic advisory team met monthly from December 2001 through May 2002. The states also held comment periods before sub-mitting a TMDL draft to the EPA in July 2003.

Group claims park misuses cell tower revenue

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) - An environmental group claims the park is illegally using the money it collects from renting out land for use by cellular telephone companies.

Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility said Monday that Yellowstone officials are using the money to pay for employees slaries and other park expenses, even though that money, barring a special exception, is supposed to go to the U.S. Treasury. Investigators: Woman bought house, cars with stolen identity

BOISE (AP) — A woman has been charged with grand theft and identity theft after using another persons identity to purchase a home in the expensive Hidden Springs development.

Authorities said Kerry Lindsey, 35, apparently appropriated the identity while working for a mortgage company in Arizona, where she had access to sensitive information. Investigators say she used the information to buy the house, cars and other large trems in boise. Boise Police Detective Wades Spain said the person whose identity was stolen and the bank where the home mort-age was secured both realized what was happening and the bank notified police.

Oddly though, both are most active between 3-5 p.m., the hours a recent Boys and Girls Club ad claims are the most important to youth development. While area athletes and coaches are practicing or en-route to events high school sports witers—at am e— are left in Jurch during those hours. Calls arent returned, faxes arent sent and traveling to a game or finishing reviews are the most productive options left.

Productivity is all fine and dandy, but it can wait, until I've doled out what sports in the Magic Valley have been seriously locking—nicknames.

Sticking close to The Times-News office; our search for a news room leader will hopefully yield what any good damanging editor provides—dominating rage.

Whether accurate or not, anagrams dole out some interesting nicknames. Like Twin Falls Bruins pitcher Matt "the smart man". Hurricane Ivan forces postponement of game IATTIESBUIG, Miss.—The uncertainty of approaching Hurricane Ivan forced post-ponement of Thursday nights again the transport of the Indiana of Thursday nights again to the Indiana of Thursday nights again to the Indiana of California and Southern Missasippi. "Our urmost concern at this point is the safety of our student-athletes, caaches, staff, fans and community. Southern Miss athlette director Richard Giannian said in a statement Monday night, "We don't know the exact path of the hurricane of the potential damage it may cause and had planned to make a decision Tuesday morning." Cal athletic director Steve Gladstone issued a statement and planned to make a decision Tuesday morning. Cal athletic director Steve Gladstone issued a statement earlier Monday saying the gather than the same had been postponed and, would probably be rescheduled in December. Southern Miss officials said-the makeup date will be announced by Wednesday. Rescheduling the game, the Golden Eagles' home opener, for this Saturday means Southern Miss would miss out on $140,000 in television revenue. ESPN, which was scheduled to broadcast the game Thursday night, said it could not televise a makeup game Saturday because its lineup that day isful Illansen said.

Playing on Tv in December remains a possibility, but Hansen said ESPN Officials haven't promised anything.

Starting tailback returns to Southern Cal

returns to Southern Cal

LOS ANGELES — Hershel Dennis, the starting tailback for national champion Southern California last season, returned to the Trajans on Monday after sisting out two games for violating teum rules. USC conch Pee Carroll said he was uncertain whether Dennis would travel with the top-ranked team for Saurday night spame at BVU.

Carroll said the disciplinary action sent a message to the entire team, although he wouldn't go into detail.

Dennis, a 5-foot-11, 200-pound junior, was USC's-second-leading rusher last season, gaining 661 yards on 137 carries with three touchdowns. He also caught 10 passes for 62 yards and one TD.

Dennis shared the tailback position with then-freshmen tenDale White and Reggie Bush a year ago, with the trio combining for 1,1936 rushing yards to help the Trojans win 12 of 13 games and The Associ-ated Press version of the national championship. White gained 201 yards on 29 carries and Bush picked up 111 yards on 21 carries in USCs first two games — a 24-13 detory over Virginia Tech on Aug: 28 and a 49-0 triumph over Colorado State last week-end.

end, Dennis said Carroll told him last Friday that he would be re-instated Monday.

DOWNTOWN RENOVATIONS

Eddy Macklin of Hallstone Drywall and ustics works around the front windows of the former Christian downtown Twin Falls on Monday. The building is being turned into three related home decor shops.

Agency waits on funding

TWIN FALLS - Two down-

TWIN FALLS - Two down-town renovation projects night get money from the 'flwin Falls Urban Renewal Agency, but the agency on Monday wasn't quite ready to fund either project.

Faliet Gorringe, who is renovating the historic Roper's building at 125 Main Ave. W., came before the agency to ask about incentive funding for her project; Gorringe and her Dusiness partners will open a home furnishings and interior design store in the old building – with three distinct storefronts – in mid-October.

Gorringe has already spent nearly $50,000 to uncover and restore the buildings original brick facade, and the entire project will "be in the neighborhood of $200,000," said agency chairman Curis Eaton.

The project had already been discussed in a prior meeting of the agency's special projects committee. Eaton said.

Following its own rule of thumb, the agency could fund up to 10 percent of Gorringes new property taxable investment. But Eaton on Monday advocated the agency consider giving Gorringe a bigger gift.
The 10 percent rule is really restrictive ... it should be within the discretion of the Urban Renewal Agency to be able to give more than that, he said.
Chairman Richard Suvers agreed.

Chairman Richard Silvers agreed.

"She's invested more than that 10 percent in the facade alone," he said.

The agency decided to continue to discuss—funding options in another special projects meeting, and the project will be discussed at next month's regular board meeting.

Another downtown improvement project, the City Park band shell, drew much discussion but no solid results quest funding to improve and enlarge the structure.

Monday. Sandra Hacking of the Twin Falls Municipal Band spoke before the agency to re-quest funding to improve and enlarge the structure.

The project is at a standstill, the city asked for bids for the renovation in July but has received none. Without a clear estimate of cost, the city did not include the renovation on its list of projects for 2004-05. Hacking said the city band estimated the project would cost "between "$25,000 and $50,000," But the city has estimated the project at closer to $70,000, said Gary Evans, the citys finance director.

The city band had raised just over $22,000 for the project by Monday, Hacking said.

Dave McAlindin, the city's economic development director suggested that the agency ask the City Council to spend some of its discretionary funds on the band shell renovation, that it direct the band to conthue its own fund-raising and that it give a gift out of the agency's own collers.

City Councilman Shawn Barigar, the city's liaison between the council and the Urban Renewal Agency agreed to get more information on the project from the city's engineering department and discuss the proposal with the City Council.

"The council is very support, get of the band shelp project," Barigar said.

In other Urban Renewal Agency business, McAlindin said a firm commissioned by the Idaho Department of Invironmental Quality to perform a study on some agency-owned property near Rock Creek Canyon found no environmental problems with the land.

Limit your outlay on property if you are about to move

Question: My husband and I live in a two-bedroom condo that we plan to sell within the year. The rug is dirty and the kitchen looks outdated with 20saction flows outdated with 20-year-old appliances, so we're thinking of borrowing some of the equity to put in floor tiles, change the counters and buy new appliances.

I want to get a good price for new appliances.

I want to get a good price for our home while investing as little as, possible. Do you think we're going in the right direction?

Answer: Few remodeling projects pay for themselves, let alone turn a resale profit, so you're smart to want to limit your outlay if you're about to move. Stick to the projects that are done easily, and easily re-versed if the buyer doesn't like yersel if the object documents were your style.

The kinds of updates that are almost sure to pay for themselves include a general de-cluttering, a deep cleaning and, if needed, a new coat of interior paint. Anything that increases the amount of light that gets into your home is also good: cleaning windows, regood: cleaning windows, re-moving heavy window treatments, deploying extra lamps. If you have a yard, a little cash invested in fresh flowers and landscaping often pays dividends.

and landscaping often pays dividends.

If the rug is still stained after a steam cleaning, you might need to replace it, but think twice about taking on an ex-pensive project such as installing tile or hardwood in its place.

place.

Kitchen projects are a bit trickler. Real estate agents will tell you that good kitchens sell homes, but you're all but certain to lose money on a major remodel. And who would wan to endure the hassle and mes only to move? Fortunately, updating battered counters, ancient appliances and beat-up flooring costs a lot less than ripping out all the cabinets and starting fresh.

Of course, you can overspend even on these projects, so check with several of your condo neighbors and snoop around at a few open houses in your neighborhood to see what those kitchens look like. These homes are, after all, your competition for selling your place.

If most, of your potential competitors have mid-priced Kenmore appliances, for example, there's no need to buy high-end Viking equipment.

But, if you're seeing granite counters everywhere you visit, you might want to upgrade plastic laminate counters to a higher-quality material.

Because your need for cash is relatively short-term - you'll be paying off the loan within the year - a home equity line of credit is the next best thing to using cash, lust remember to keep a lid on your spending, if you go overboard, it means you'll have less money to spend on your next home.

MIAMI — The buzzword in the world of computers and consumer electronics is "con-consumer electronics is "convergence."

That's when the PC migrates from the home office to the living room and becomes the command center for a new digital experience, blending photos, music and video.

HP will pull the curtain on a digital entertainment center that has the brains and the central nervous system (the processor and chip set) of a PC in a package that looks less like a computer and more like an electronics device for the den.

HPS digital entertainment center comes equipped with a digital video recorder; a DVD player and burner and a storage unit, which is removable so a new one can be added when it's filled with movies, songs or photos.

Fallingfla

Drop expected for flat-panel monitor prices

By Jim Fuquay Knight Ridder Newspapers

FORTWORTH, Texas — Of all the things folks love about consumer, electronics, constantly falling prices probably ranks right up there with big-screen elevisions and MP3 players. But in the past year, flat-panel computer monitors refused to go along, computer monitors refused to go along. Now the space-saving dis-plays are getting into line. Retail prices started sliding in July, and wholesalers report that produce most of the screens fell 5 percent to 10 percent in July. That is-expected to result in falling prices for the rest of the wear.

DisplaySearch, an Toyas-based research for DisplaySearch, an Austin, Texas-based research firm, said wholesale prices for all LCI (liquid crystal display) flat panels 10 inches or larger fell 3 percent in July, and the firm expects them to fall another 3 percent amonth dugust and 2 percent amonth dugust and 2 percent amonth the rest of the year. DisplaySearch President Hoss Young said it takes about 60 days for those lower costs to work their way through the retail chain, but prices are definitely coming down. He thinks 15-inch monitors which averaged about $332 in the first quarter of 2004 — could sell for $239 by years end, with some promotional models as low as $249.

sell for $299 by years end, with some promotional models as low as $249.
With prices just starting to come down, "it's a good time to wait" if you're looking to purchase a new flat-panel monitor, said Paul Semenza, vice president at ISuppil Corp., a technology research firm based in El Segundo, Calli.
Waiting is exactly what consumers started doing as prices began rising in April 2003 and kept going up for more than a year. The higher prices finally took their toll in the first quarter of 2004, when flat-panel sales dropped for the first time in three years. And while sales of traditional cathode-ray tube (CRT) monitors had been declining every quarter, they stabilized in the first quarter, he said.

stabilized in the first quarter, ne said.

Semenza's said iSuppli's research shows that the average retail price of a 15-inch LCD monitor rose 13 percent from 5293 in the first quarter of 2003 to $332 in the first quarter of 2004. In the same period, the average price of 17-inch LCD monitors was nearly unchanged, slipping $2 to $425 in 2004.

A' 17-inch CRT monitor, meanwhile, can be had for close to $100.

to $100.
"The CRT may be big and ugly but its a good value." Semenza said.
Not surprisingly, most consumers have opted for the cheaper CRTs.

Basic recognition.

sumers have opted for the cheaper CR3.

Basic economics also explains why flat-panel monitor prices rose in the first place. The same LCD panels that make computer monitors make LCD TV sets. With LCD televisions selling for thousands of dollars and computer monitors selling for hundreds, the choice for LCD manufacturers was clear. Those flat-panel makers, concentrated in Taiwan and South Korea, churn out LCD panels in sizes as large as 2-meter squares, then cut them to meet customer demands, Se-meter squares, then cut them to meet customer demands. Sc-menza "sald. The "top seven-manufacturers, he said, supply more dian 85 percent of the world supply, estimated to be worth $65 billion in 2004. "The panel makers looked at the TV market and started con-verting. They could throw up a 30-inch panel and make a lot more money than selling 15-inch desktop computer monitors, sald Gene Ornstead, director of TV products for ViewSonic Gorp, a big marketer of computer monitors and more recently LCD TV sets.

As a result, the supply of smaller computer monitor panels dried up, and prices spiked.

"Every month we saw panel prices increasing," said Erik Wil-ley, senior product manager at ViewSonic. "We held off price increases, but the margin was getting, squeezed," and the company and its competitors raised prices to retailers.

There was only one problem with the strategy. LCD TV sales didn't rise as much as hoped. Although consumers like having a flat-panel TV set they can hang on a wall; projection TV sets are also getting thinner and cost a fraction of LCD or plasma televisions, another 'flat panel technology." It was sticker shock for consumers — a $3,000 price tag for a 30-inch LCD TV, That ddidn'ty.

"It was sticker shock for con-sumers — a $3.000 price tag for a 30-inch LCDTV. That didn't fly, so now there's a push back into monitors." Semenza said. "We see good supply com-pared to a few months ago," said Willey of computer moni-tor panels. And Semenza said Suppli estimates that world-wide capacity of LCD panels will rise more than 50 percent next year.

will rise more than 50 percent next year.
And that means lower prices. iSuppli forecasts that the average retail price of 15-inch LCD monitors will fall 5 percent by the fourth quarter to $315, while 17-inch monitors will diprocarly 15 percent to $355.

"We see the 15-inch monitors will deprocarly 15 percent to $355.

"We see the 15-inch monitors will diprocarly 15 percent to $355.

"We see the 15-inch monitors will diprocarly 15 percent to $355.

"It is said Ornstead." Within the next year. 17 inches will be the No. 1 seller, and 19 inches will be the upgrade," he said.

Stern also said Movielink. an Internet movie-rental service, is offering four "uncensored" episodes of his. El television show. The downloads, costing $4.95 each, can be viewed for 24 hours. Stern earns $1 a show, the movie service gets $2, and Viacom will take in the balance, according to a report by radio industry. newsletter Friday Morning Album Quarterback. Majority of e-mails

So, the only way "to grow the market is to focus on multimedia applications which need bigger hard drives and more processing power." Kishore said:
The one sticking point for consumers could be the helty price tags some of the new items carry. For instance, HP's instant home cinema will sell for just under $2,000. Its TVs will range from $2,500 to $5,000. The company didn't disclose suggested prices for its digital entertain-

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

How much one has to say in or "How much one der to be heard when silent." — Elias Canetti

Do not forget the auction—and especially the inferences, positive or otherwise, arising from it.
For example, when North opens in fourth seat and freely raises the one-spade response to two spades, he suggests four-card trump support. South could make a game-try with three clubs, but he could just as sensibly make the simple jump to the spade game, hoping to find at least reasonable play for his contract.

When you hold three or four small cards in partner's suit, it is a good idea to lead low if you have not supported him, but to lead the top card if you have raised him.
Accordingly, West leads the heart cight. East wins the opening lead and shifts to a trump.
South knocks out the club ace, ruffs the heart return, draws a second trump. ruffs he last heart, and drives out the club king. On lead, East plays a third club, South takes the jack, ruffs his last club in dummy, and pauses for reflection. Who has the diamond queen?

This is not a tough one if you

queen?
This is not a tough one if you think about it correctly. East has shown up with the club king and seven points in hearts. He cannot hold the diamond queen, or he would have opened the bidding — so West has the missing queen. If you remember the bidding, you will often find that the negative inferences that can be drawn are as helpful as the positive ones.

ANSWER: Double, a call that simply shows cards and is optional, rather than being 100 percent for penalties. It would be premature to rebid spades or to support clubs — after all, partner could have only a three-card club suit. Better to show values and let partner remove the double if he is really suitable for spades.
