lan cuts trout habitat

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A re-covery plan finalized Wednes-day sharply reduces the amount of federally designated critical habitat for the threat-ened bull trout in three Western states and eliminates federal re-quirements for such habitat in Montana.

Montana.

The new plan, announced by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, designates nearly 1,750 miles of streams and 61,235 acres of lakes and reservoirs in Oregon, Washington and Idaho as critical to the bull trout's survival under the Endangered Species Act.

No streams or lakes will be set aside by federal mandate in Montana.

The new figures represent about 10 percent of totals announced in November 2002, when the agency announced it planned to designate more than 18,000 miles of streams in the four states and 500,000

Environmental groups im-mediately denounced the plan, saying it could lead to the ex-tinction of the bull trout in the Columbia and Klamath River

Death toll passes 800 in Haiti floods

CONAIVES, Haiti. (AP) — U.N. peacekeepers fired into the air to keep a hungry crowd at bay Wednesday as aid workers handed out the first food in days for some in this city devastated by floods from Topical Storm Jeanne. Meteorologists said the storm could strike the United States by this weekend.
It was too soon to tell where or if Jeanne would hit, but the Deadly floods in Haiti blamed on deforestation, poverty ravaged by ravines.

More than 98 percent of Halti's forests are gone, leaving no topsoil to hold rains. Even the mango and avocado trees have started to vanish, destroying a vital food source in favor of another necessity for the impoverished — charcoal for cooking.

"When you remove vegetation, the topsoil washes away.
The earth isn't capable of absorbing rainfall." said Rick Perera of the international humanitarian group CARE, which supports alternative energy programs in Hald to lessen de-pendence on charcoal. Less tree cover also means less regular rain, since trees "breathe" water vapor into the air. The re-sult is a dropping water table, making for even poorer farmers, the backbone of Halti's economy.

and the tentant of the consistences authority to raise fees every year or two.
Fish and Game Director Steve Huffaker says higher fees are imperative to hire more personnel. The fees would also fund privateland access programs and continue public outreach campaigns. Huffaker, who took over as director in 2002. says he's merely advocating fee increases that were planned by a predecessor four years ago.
Those points still have some validity, and Huffaker has earned points by keeping the peace between his agency and the Legislature.
But Sen. Dean Cameron. R-Rupert, the co-chairman for the foint Finance-Appropriations Committee, makes a key point with any plan to raise sportsmen fees.
"If we're not careful, we're going to be moving to where funding and fishing are a rich man's sport rather than being able to allow average people to enjoy hunting and fishing in the state." Cameron said. Studies and news reports

Studies and news reports in recent years show the number of licensed hunters and anglers in the U.S.— and even in Idaho—has de-clined compared to previous decades. In Idaho, the robust seasons for salmon, pheasants. and deer brought more licensed bust seasons for salmon, pheasants, and deer brought more licensed sports men and their kids than what we hould see today. Part of that lies in our culting and families activity options than in the past. But the decline of fishing and hunting is also based in economic factors. From the high cost of equipment, to the soaring price of gas, to the hike in state park fees—all these costs contribute to the affordability of fishing or hunting trip.

When you make additional increases in hunting and fishing fees, it starts to drain on many outdoors enthusiasts.

And increases in the basic fishing or hunting license is just the start. Hunters have grown more weary of the fees on controlled hunt applications and lottery draw hunt taes.

fees on controlled hunt applications and lottery draw hunt tags.
Politically speaking, many Idaho sportsmen take pride in the fact that their fees provide enough independent funding for Fish and Game, so that the agency isn't dependent upon tax dollars.
But the agency and Idaho sportsmen must be careful that those fees don't create a heavier burden for less affluent hunters and anglers. Otherwise, it won't be prized fish or deer that get away but rather, their fellow outdoorsmen.

Network news: Now it's Rather irrelevant DIUDIO I

Ty as I may I am unable to conjure up a single street of nostigita for the once-fabled network evening news programs. Water Cronkite is a name to me, not a symbiol of reassurance or statistical figure. As for the hallowed idea of 'the six o'clock rowed idea of "the six o'clock news," it means nothing. In my adult life, I've never had time to watch the daily news at 6 or 6:30, at least not with any regu-larity.

I hasten to add that I am not writing this because I believe my viewing habits are interesting—quite the contarry—but because I suspect that they are typical, and growing more so all of the time. There is little to be sald about the amorphous post-baby boomers—anyone born after about 1980 or so but it's pretty clear that as a group we have no emotional attachment to ABC. NBC and CBS.

The networks have known his for a long time and have therefore spent much of the past decade trying to get us to watch news programs to which we don't feel foyal. Hashy wideos, human interest stories, jingly music — none of it has worked, and indeed their effect has been the opposite of their purpose. When the big three effectively stopped covering political conventions, the nation collectively shrugged — and changed channels. C-SPAN and PBS viewership spiked this year. During the Republican convention, Fox got the biggest audience of all, it's only in this context, it

What became clear, as the story wound down to the in-evitable apology on Monday night, was that Rather and his fellow network newsmen are stuck in a Vietnam/Watergate-era time warp. Most of us regard network anchors as faintly pompous talking heads, people who read other people's prose off teleprompters.

They aren't mere journalists' who have to use authentic documents to prove their allegations but rather people whose fame and large paychecks and unchallenged power entitle them to some kind of automatic credibility, even if their documents are fake. I'm sure we'll see this episode as the final collapse of network television's dominance over the news, and the nance over the news, and the final triumph of something else, something that is in some ways better, in some ways esse, something man is in some easy better. In some ways worse.

On the one hand, the media are reverting to a more combattve, pre-television norm, a time when partisanship was normal and you picked up your newspaper in the morning with a clear idea of the writers' opinions — which did at least allow you to compensate for them. On the other hand, in this more competitive, post-television age, partisans expend a great deal of energy fact-checking others, and have more oudets on the Internet, on the radio, in the press and on TV for their findings. Much has been made in the past few years of the networks' filberal bias.
More dangerous, it seems one, was the fact that the networks held a virtual monopoly over the most powerful form of communication.

works heid a virtua monopoy over the most powerful form of communication.

By its nature, television newshas had far greater influence on politics, particularly national politics, than any newspaper or magazine could dream of. For that reason alone, more viewers watching a wider range of channels has to be better for the political health of the country.

I expect the denth throes of network news will be long and drawn out, and there will be tedious weeping and wailing, while it happens.

But once it's gone, think of all that might go with it: the stories that are simultaneously pompous and superficial, the quinosphere that is, at once grave and silly, the too-famous faces, and the too-brief stories. With any luck, the really good television journalists will survive and mignate elsewhere—and the rest of us can channel surf until we find them.

Maybe it's a flash of blue and white or the wave of a familiar hand. No matter what the signal is, as soon as Twin Falls Bruins quarterback Mike Smith sees it, zip – the ball is there.

And there is in the hands of identical twin brother Mitch, a fe-foot-3 wideout that has been Mike's primary target in the Bruins passing game. It's the one-two combination of quarterback and receiver that teams across the country try so hard to build and often fail to do. The passing game is one of feel, timing and chemistry. Many high school teams can't pull it off—Twin Falls can.

"We know what are the similar and chemistry. Many high school teams can't pull it off—Twin Falls can.

the season. He gained 244 yards on 13 receptions in the Bruins' 28-21 victory over Timberline of Boise in Week 3.

"Being brothers. I know hes always watchling me first before anyone else." Mitch said.

It only seems right that Mike to Mitch has resulted in so many completions. Sit down with the two and Mike is often with the two and Mike is often the lirst to talk, but Mitch will chime in to finish a sentence. It's part of a bond that flows though a senior class that is looking for nothing less than a state championship this year.

"My whole life I've only lost three or four football games," Mitch said. "We expect to win.,"That's the thing with this team, "Mike added. The chemistry has always been there." "We might not be the biggest or strongest team in the state.

but we play together," Mitch but we play together." Mitch finished.

That chemistry is what's kept the Bruins together through a turbulent summer and the coaching change from Gary Krumm to Tobo Smith.

"We goof around a lot." Mike said: "At the beginning of the year, it was just a few people, but guys are beginning to un-derstand how we do things. Last year everyone was so senios." "We have fun." Mitch added. "Coach Smith is a much calmer guy."

The Bruins have also benefited from an offense that coach Smith and offensive coordinator Mark Schaal have installed.

orunnator Mark Schaal nach installed.

"I like it because there's more me in it." Mike said. "Its on a numbers system so this year you can go in and never have ran the play before, but figure it out by the numbers. We had that offense as sophomors, so it didn't take long for us to get hack into it."

That offense also gives both Smiths some room to freelance and use their unique bond to their advantage.

"Since (Mike) Knows where I'll be, I'll change my routes more than anyone else." Mitch said. "Last year with Luc (Martin) at quarreback. I couldn't do that Luc's a great QB but I didn't have that chemistry with him."

In last Friday's 35-13 win over Skyview, the Bruins showed that teams can't only worry about the Smiths. While Skyview focused on stopping the Smith connection, junior halfinack Brody-Miller ran over them for 269 yards and three touch-downs.

"Brody's a beast" Mile said.

Declo seizes opportunities against Wildcats

By Nathaniel Garrabrandt Times News writer

FILER - It wasn't a pretty win. In fact, towards the end it got downright ugly. But the Declo Hornets managed just enough finesse to leave Filer Wednesday night with a 2-1 victory. From the very first minute, the game was characterized by a conflict of styles: Declo give-and-go passing vs. Filer/Magic Valley Christian's gritty, physical longball.

"That was the most physical game we've ever played," said Hornets coach Tim Henrickson. "But our midfield worked the ball well."

differently.

By and large, Declo's forays into the Wildcat defense resultated from two or three touch passes that moved the ball the length of the field, culminating in setup passes around the perimeter of the box.

In contrast, the Wildcats relied on very long clearing passes from the defense toward waiting forwards. The problem was that the Declo defense didn't bring offer any cherries.

For the first 39 minutes, it seemed that neither team could effectively impose its style, with the ball spending time equally on both ends. But with patence, good ball-work results in opportunities.

With 20 seconds left in the half, Declo forward Calvin Stone took the ball solo along the right wing, deep into the Filer defense. He then passed the ball to midfielder Eric Olson, who dropped it left again to forward Abel Tapia. Tapia then split two defenders and put the ball in with one second before the halftime whistle. In the second half, Deelo did not need the patience. Vick.

Last Sunday against St. Louis, he took off from the Rams' 16 in ne took off from the Rams' 16 in a mad sprint for the corner of the end zone, lerametrius But-ler dove at Vick's legs near the sideline, sending the quarter-back spinning like a Ferris wheel. The crowd gasped, but Vick popped right back up. Warrick Dunn scored on the next play, giving the Falcons a 14-0 lead.

Dunn scored on une heat pengiging the Falcons a 14-0 lead, on their way to a surprising 34-17 victory.

This is what he said all along during the preseason – a time spent mostly on the bench, sparking worries among the Falcon faithful that Vick would not be ready to run the West Coast-style offense brought in by new coach Jim Mora and co-ordinator Greg Knapp. But it's the running that sets ck apart. He carried 12 times for 109 yards, even though the Rams were intent on keeping Vick in the pocket and making him

"I just want to continue to grow within the offense," he said.

Vulnerable Shock heads into WNBA playoffs

NEWYORK (AP) – The Detroit Shock's bld for a second straight WNIBA championship is looking anything but easy. They're without leading scorer Swin Cash, and they needed a win on the last day of the regular season to grab the final playoff berth.

Under coach Bill Laimbeer, the Shock engineered a worst-to-flist turnaround a year ago, going from the fowest wins to a league-best 25-9 record en route to their first title. They went back to struggling this season, only winding up 17-17 by closing with three straight victories.

Detroit hosts' the New York Liberty in Garne-1 as the postseason starts Friday might. Los Angeles is at Steamento in that night's other game, while the other series begin Saturday. Connection at Washington, and Seattle at Minnesota.

The Liberty (18-16) finished the season with three wins to be seeded No. 2 in the Eastern Conference, one year after missing the playoffs for just the second time.

In the West, the Los Angeles Sparks (25-9) overcame an injury to one of their key players and a midseason coaching change to finish with the league's best record.

They're aiming for a fourth straight rip; to the WMBA Finish: The Sparks won consecutive titles in 2001-02, then lost to Detroit in the championship series last year.

Sparks star Lisa Leslie finished third in the eague in scoring (17.6 points) and first in reboauting (9.9); Mwadi Mabika neveraged; 14.4 points, and guards, Mikid Teasley and Tamocka Dixon barely missed averaging double-digits in scoring to 1.20-10. Let by the leagues teading scorer and defending MVP Lattern Jackson, against the Minnesons Lyd 1.6 Lin. The 6-foot-5 Jackson averaged 20.5 points and hit 45 percent of her 3-pointers, second in the league among players attempting al least 100.

New subdivision could impact Shoshone

By Lorraine Cavener Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — With developers inquir-ing about Shoshone's infrastructure as they prepare to build subdivisions, City Council members say it's time to get seri-ous about studying the city's sewer and water peeds.

Council members say its time to get serious about studying the city's sewer and water needs.

Lauri Maher and two partners outlined a plan for a 55-acre, 100-unit housing complex with some multi-family units at the previous council meeting.

Council members had said the option was available to annex the area south of shoshone near the bowling alley where proposed subdivision is planned.

But before annexation could happen infrastructure improvements would need to be performed.

"I'm wanting to know the status of the sewer and water," Maher said at Tuesday's council meeting.
"I'm trying to get an idea of where the system stands right now."
When Rocky Mountain Hardware wanted to build a factory on the east side of own a grant helped pay for infrastructure upgrades, Maher said.

well?"
The retail shops, restaurants and more, which are planned along with the housing, could bring a number of jobs, Maher said.
City Clerk Mary Kay Bennett told Maher to talk to the Department of Commerce about the possibility of a grant.
Brian Yeager, of Gelena Engineering inc., said his company could assist with an impact study that would evaluate sewer and water capacity.

"If this is about one development it's probably not so important," he said. "But if it's about growth that is, different and would be worth the effort."
With Shoshone being halfway between Twin Falls, and Sun Valley there's a lot of potential for growth, Yeager said.

Board offers steps to ailing U of I

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — A University of Idaho task force on Wednessday released a new big-picture report on how the school ought to move forward in what is sure to be a tough financial future. According to the 161-page report from the University Vision and Resources Task Force. UI should maintain its traditional role as a research institution specializing in technology transfer, biological sciences, natural resources and the environment agriculture and performing arts. Additionally, the plan envisions a "target case" financial scenario in which the university would operate next year on a deficit of about $5.65 million, but would retain about $3.7 million set aside in reserves.

The proposal allocates $3.1 million of the budget reduction to administrative and support services, with about $2.5 million feer-receives.

Where spending cuts are needed, whole programs would be trimmed rather than across-the-hoard cuts to the entire institution.

The 26-member Vision and Resources Task Force consisted of faculty staff and students. University President Tim White emphasized in a prepared statement that the report begins "a process of review and refinement and provides an opportunity for meaningful decision-refinement and provides an op-portunity. for meaningful conversation and decision-making that will have a powerful impact on our university." White has asked for key mem-bers of the university's executive, staff to analyze the report by Oct. 11. After that, another month of comment period from the public will follow. White said he anticipates many specific decisions for changes in academic programs and funding will begin in fiscal 2006, which begins July 1, 2005.

It will meet throughout the summer and submit its recom-mendations in late fall.

The school has faced severe inancial problems for several years and the they worsened last year with the University Place campus in Boise.

Burley Council mulls fine Animal group asks to open up BURLEY — By a somewhat hizarre coincidence. Burley's City Council agreed to pay a line Tuesday to the Environmental Protection agency stordy after Protection agency stordy after EDA-administered funds were approved for the city. But "Burley came out very much on the better end of the deal.

Thesday afternoon, Sen. Larry-Craigs office issued a press release announcing the approval of $2 million by the Senate Appropriations Committee for construction of the city's new wastewater treatment plant. Assuming the bill is passed by the full Senate; the funds would be administered by the EPA.

Thesday evening, city officials voted to pay a $45,000 EPA fine resulting from more stringent requirements included in the city's permit. Mayor fon Anderson said Wednesday.

In effect, the city expects to receive $2 million for construction of the sewer plant, $45,000 of which will be returned to the EPA to cover the fine.

City Administrator Mark Miton explained that the EPA money requires a 45 percent match by the city. Matching funds will come from $25 million in bonds approved by voters in May 2003.

The city has also received $1.2 million in '595' funds that are administered through the Army Corps of Engineer Miton said. These funds only require a 25 percent match by the city. Matching films will come from $25 million in '595' funds that are administered through the Army Corps of Engineers Mitton said. As a result sorner project and the event project.

"You can't let a small amount of money dictate the large amount of money Mitton said le explained that if federal money was applied to the whole project then higher wages would need to be paid for all phases, making the project much more costly to taxpayers.

"We've got to be read flexible to figure out how were going to use it," Mitton said. "Every time a new appropriation comes out we have to build a new bridge from here to there to make it more to there to make it work.

Mayor Jon Anderson said the recent money will be used to reduce the burden on tax payers.

"Hopefully it will mean that any overnums in the project due to higher construction costs will be covered." Anderson said.

"Were extremely hopeful that well be able to pay off some of our bonding quicker, which runslates into tax savings."

Sewer rates were increased to $27.50 for residential customers in 2002 in anticipation of replacing the city's inadequate treatment facility. Bonds are being serviced over a 20 year period by the higher sewer rates and a property tax hike.

The EPA fine stems from the season of a property tax hike.

The EPA fine stems from the fissuance of a new permit, for the facility that was much more stringent. Anderson said.

The city negotiated a mitigation agreement with the EPA under which it would have paid a $25,000 fine and keep the other $20,000 to fund a storm drain recovery system. Anderson said officials thought they, had complied with the agreement but that the EPA continually tightened requirements.

"They agreed and then they asked for a plan, then a detailed plan, then an engineered plan," he said.

asked for a plan, then a cerauea plan, then an engineered plan, he said.

Anderson sald the cost for an engineered plan would have exceeded the $20,000 the city would have been allowed to keep for the project.

The council voted 3-3 on whether to pay the $15,000 fine and Anderson cast the deciding out in favor of paying it.

The city will still look to move forward with a storm drain recovery system, but the engineering will be much less expensive if it's done as part of the whole wastewater project.

"It's something we may or may not do, but under the mitigation agreement we would have been required to." he said.

The city has received about $4, million in federal money, not including funds announced fuesday, over the last two years for water and wastewater projects. Anderson credits Mitton for securing the lands, some of which have never before been awarded in Idaho.

Judge declares mistrial after jury deadlock in pepper spray trial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge declared a mistrial Wednesday when a second jury deadlocked on the question of whether police went too far by swabbing pepper spray in the eyes of bound and nonviolent logging protesters in 1997.

After twice being ordered by U.S. District Judge Susan illston to continue deliberations, the jury sent her a note saying they were "hopplessly deadlocked and that further deliberations would be "pointless."

A trial in 1998 on the same allegations also ended with a

The jury began negotiations on Thesday, but only a few hours later sent Illston a note saying, "Regretfully, there are jurors that are adamantly opposed and resolution does not seem likely." Illston ordered them to return Wednesday, and after a morning of deliberations, the jury asked whether all eight jurors must agree on the outcome. "Your honor, can you change the decision from 100 percent, to majority decision?" the note asked.

Trials can be decided by ma-jority vote of the jury, but only if both parties agree. Attorneys for the logging protesters told the judge they would accept a nonunanimous verdicit attor-neys for the Humboldt County Sheriff's Department refused. Illston then took the lawyers into her chambers to discuss-the issue further. After 20 minutes of closed-door discussions. Illston ordered the jurors to again try to reach a unanimous verdict. Aftervard, attorneys on both broker a settlement, but attorneys for the officers would not agree to stop using pepper spray on nonvoloent protesters as the activists had demanded.

"It's like asking then not to use a gun when they respond to a robbery," attorney Bill Bragg told reporters.
Ten minutes after Illston's second order to deliberate further, Jurors again declared themselves deadlocked.
One of the plaintiffs, Mike McCurdy, 29, said his side wanted to retry the case for a third time.

"That's what's difficult. We all want one thing that we can point to, but it's a combination of things," he said.

Prison occupancy rates show the current population boom seemed to begin in the spring. In January, the prison population throughout Idahos system was 5,898. By June, it had ballooned to 6,312; an increase of 7 percent over just six months. The population is projected to hit 6,461 by June 2005.

Most of the growth came from an increase in the program known as "retained jurisdiction," sometimes called the "120-day rider."

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (AP) — A grade-school teacher has plead-ed guilty to having sex with a teenage boy half her age, but one who was not her student. Lisa Suitter, 35, of Firth, a fourth-grade teacher in Idaho Falls, agreed to plead guilty his week to one count of sexual battery with a minor in exchange for dismissal of seven similar charges and a recommended penalty of five years probation. Her sentencing was scheduled Nov. 22.

Under state law, Suitter will be permanently stripped of her teaching certificate.

Teacher merit pay concept creates compensation debate

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A special state. Board of Education committee hopes to present lawmakers in January with a pilot plan to have at least some of Idahos. 115 school districts begin paying teachers under a so-called merit system.

The effort has created an intensifying debate over teacher compensation. Some private sector interests maintain pay for performance fosters effectiveness by rewarding achievement while educators, including some local school board members, object to pitting Idahos 14,000 teachers against one another for what already is limited cash for school district payrolls. And one business group thinks the debate has gotten-alread of itself.

ins committees is review teacher assessment, retention, evaluation and promotion.

Bank of Idaho President Park Price, who heads that panel, intends to bring teachers, administrators and other educators together to determine the best way to measure teacher performance before considering pay. Unlike the board committee, which wants to develop a proposal by years end.

Price's panel has no timetable.

"Once you have an agreement on the assessment, then you can move onto the pay part of it." he said.

Only a few states and school districts have tried a performance pay system for teachers Brenda Ballantyne, a member of the state boards committee and a former public grade school teacher in Boise who expects to go back into the classroom, believes merit pay will improve the states teacher corps.

"I really think you are going to get higher quality teachers if you pay them what they are worth and for their accomplishments." Ballantyne said. "Your efforts are being rewarded for really working hard.

Red vegetable dye on the outside of pistachlos was a marketing gimmick in the 1930s. Kids wanted the bright red nuts that dyed their lips and tongues instead of the plain old ones. The dye also had a more practical purpose: it covered bruises and scratches normally seen quite easily on the light-colored pistachio shell.

The University of Idaho reported that the $1.6 million grant the university won in 1999 has been approved for funding for another five years. That means about $360,000 a year to help $35 students pay for their first year of college.

The UI is one of 46 College Assistance Migrant programs in the United States.

There also are programs at Bolies State University and Lewis-Clark State College.

The majority of CAMP students receive up to $4,844 that first year Built it is the support system the program provides that students find most helpful.

The CAMP office really is the students home away from home," said program Director Yolanda Bisbee.

Students in the program are required to attend 90-minute study sessions daily. It also helps organize cultural and academic activities as well as month birthday parties and other celebrations.

The result: The retention rate from freshman to sophomore year is equal to or better than the student body at large, about 86 percent, the college reported.

Martinez graduated last spring-with his bachelors de-gree a double major in criminal justice and Spanish. He is tak-ing the law school entrance exams this month. HACKENSACK. N.J. — The holidays will be slightly less joily for retailers this year, but they still should experience growth worth celebrating, the National Retail Federation predicted in its annual holiday forecast released Wednesday.

The NRF expects holiday re-tail sales to increase by 4.5 percent this year compared with 2003. NRF forecasters are cautiously optimistic that retail sales, which cooled off this summer, will warm up as the winter approaches.

Although consumer spending has been inconsistent in recent months, we expect the holiday season to bring more stability to the industry, said NRF-Chief Economist Rosalind Wells in releasing the forecast. "Home-related merchandise and consumer electronics should do well this holiday seasons."

son, and trendy fashions should help spark clothing sales."
The NRF is estimating that retail sales in November and December—the months it defines as the holiday season—will top $219 billion this year. Sales in those two months account for nearly one-quarter of annual retail sales.
The mood of the nation's retailers heading into the holiday 2004 shopping season is markedly more guarded than a ar ago, Last September, NRF esident and Chief Executive President and Chief Executive Officer Tracy Mullin said she was "very optimistic that retailers will eriloy happy holidays" in 2003. This year, her comment was: "Retailers know they will have their work cut out for them this holiday season, but they are up to the challenge."

Oil prices drive stocks lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks tumbled Wednesday as investors saw a surge in oil prices and disappointing carnings from Morgan Stanley as a reason to collect profits from gains of the last month. The Dow fones industrial average dropped 135 points, and all three major indexes saw their biggest losses since carly August.

biggest losses since early August.

The latest spike in oil price was hig énough to spur worries that consumer spending could decrease and oil could surpass $50 per harrel, although stocks had managed to raily in recent weeks despite a steady climb in prices. A harrel of light crude was quoted at $40.35, up $1.59, on the New York Mercantile Exchange. Investors also were nervous about, third-quarter earnings after Morgan Stanley missed Wall Street expectations by a wide margin, and fast-food chain Wendy's International Inc.

posted a profit warning, "Morgan Stanley certainly brought about some profit tak-ing today after the recent munp-in stock prices we've seen over the past several weeks," said Michael Sheldon, chief market strategist at Spencer Clarke LLC.

"The question now for the markets, for the near term, is whether we give back most of the gains since August or just half of the gains, And oll will play a big part in that."

county and state governments, among others. The entire list will be published in a special section in Stunday's paper.

Like last year, the career fair's first. CSI has promoted the event to area high schools. Some high schools offer their own career fairs and planning mortshops, but this event will draw students from Castelord to Rupert, Johnson said.

Last year, Jerrome High School but year, Jerrome High school based a number of students to the event, and several schools this year will follow that example.

schools this year will follow that example.

Debbie Van Engelen, guidDebbie Van Engelen, guidDebbie Van Engelen, guidnec counselor at Twin Halls High School. has been encouraging students to attend for weeks.

Career fairs are a great way to get out and realize how the classes students take in high school can apply to their future careers— and to get an idea of what educational opportunities are available after high school, she said.

Ti gets students thinking past high school on into college. Van Engelen said, "Now we encourage students to think about a six-year or eight-wear plan, not just a four-year plan.

In addition to the employer and education booths, Idaho Commerce and Labor (former) and education booths, Idaho Commerce and Eabor (former) you be service) representatives as well as Resumes Plus will be on hand to critique resimes and give interviewing tips. And will present a resume-building seminar as well-as one on preparing for interviews, studebuker said.

Some employers will interview between the applications and resumes for the spot, while others will take applications and resumes for call-back interviews.

Specialty retailer The Buckle will be looking for part-time employees as well as seasonal workers, said store manager Steve Avalos.

This year, Avalos is looking for potential-internship candidates, particularly students majoring in business management or fashion merchandising, he said. Internswill work closely with Avalos, learning the skills necessary to manage a clothing store, then could have the chance to move up The Buckle's ladder.

Avalos was impressed with the number of applications the store received at last year's fair more than 300 people applied, and he interviewed "about 150." he said. The store bired three applicants.

More than 2,000 people attended last year's career fair studebaker said, and organizers hope for an even larger turnout this time around.

"Till like to see 3,000 to 5,000."

Here is my eye-opening interview with Mr. Jalali. Research studies are noted and referenced in this interview.

Q. Mr. Jalali, how did you develop this remarkable AbGONE" pill with ingredients that target fat and water in the abdomen?

A. It took five years to develop the AbGONE" pill. We started out by reviewing large volumes of research that had been done on why so, much fat is disproportionately stored in the abdomen. This research was conducted at Yale University.

This research found that abdominal fat was different than in the rest of the body. From this initial research, we knew we could develop a pill to reduce abdominal fat.

We also found that there were harmful effects of abdominal excess fat and excess retained water. These included the fact that people with a pot-belly had a greater rete dency to certain health problems. We also found that they had social difficulties and had greater rates of unemployment and divorce.

Q. It has always been the and had greater rates of un-employment and divorce.

Q. It has always been thought in the scientific community that you could not spot reduce fal. Is that not true?

A. The ingredients in Ab-GONE" do not spot reduce or-dinary fat intifermly over the entire body. The ingredients in Ab-GONE" enable the body to reduce excess water and fat in ANGONE "enable the body to reduce excess water and fat in the abdomen that the body could not reduce before. And they help inhibit the excess collection of abdominal fat in the future. Therefore, the ab-domen is reduced in size much better than before.

domen is reduced in size much better than before.

Q. How is abdominial fat different from other fat in the body?

A. Abdominal fut is much more senistive to a certain hormone which enlarges the fat. I will ealmorae shortly.

There are basically two dif-ferent types of fat in the body. The first is outer fat found un-der the skin surface. The sec-ond is intestinal fat which is deep in the abdomen.

Now, this is important.

It is possible to reduce the surface fat in the body but

There are also a number of

A CIA interferes with me-

A. CLA interferes with an enzyme called lipoprotein lipose (LPL). LPL is an enzyme that helps store far in the body!

So, by inhibiting this fat-storing enzyme LPL. CLA can help reduce the execumidation of fat.

CLA also helps the body use its existing far for energy, thereby increasing the rounding of the body.

Q. What is the hormone that causes fat to accumulate disproportionately in the body?

A. The hormone Cortisol has been found in studies at VCLA. Yale and many other universities to directly contribute to the collection of fai in the abdomen. Cortisol is a catabolic hormone that breaks down dead or damaged tissues so they can be eliminated by the body. Lower levels of Cortisol are harmful.

These university studies found that stress directly increases have been linked to increasing abdominal fat. The reason for this is that there are 4 times more Cortisol receptors in abdominal fat than there are in fat in the rest of the body. This is why abdominal fat is much

According to research at the University of California in San Francisco, higher levels of Cortisol and stress canactually increase appetite, especially cravings for sweet foods." So it's a cascading effect causing people to get fatter and fatter.

Therefore it is imperative to stop high levels of Cortisol in its tracks if you want to reduce abdominal fat.

O. So how do you control Cortisol levels?

A. The simplest way is to climinating stress is virtually impossible. The alternative is climinating stress is virtually impossible. The alternative is trusc nutroenticed that studies impossible. The alternative is truse nutriceuticals that studies indicate reduce Cortisol levels. We also put these all natural nutriceuticals in AbGONE". Q. Can you tell me more about these nutriceuticals in AbGONE" shown to reduce Cortisal?

A. Yes I can. There are certain vitamins and minerals certain vitamins and numerais that have been shown to reduce Cortisol levels in high stress situations. But you can't just take a multiple vitamin to reduce Cortisol hecause there's a lot of other things that you need to have in order for them to work.

One of these critical marrients that you need is Phosphatidylserine (PS). Several studies at the University of Naples in Italy and at Cal State University in the U.S. indicate that PS can lower cortisol levels. PS has another good side effect in that it is also a brain power booster. The stopping of excessive Cortisol is also important for your psychological condition. It may help improve mood and reduce anxiety. "

These synergistic nutrients in AbGONE" helps reduce an help reduce anxiety in the hody as aforementioned. So lowering Cortisol levels can help reduce aft in the abdomen also has more Cortisol receptors than does fat in the abdomen. Bating too much sugars also affect abdominal fat which is also addressed in the AbGONE" ingredients.

A. AbGONE" contains a highly absorbable form of chromium, a trace inineral shown to have powerful benefits in regulating blood sugars revels's. Chromium works by helping the body store less sugars a fair.

Q. Are there any other henefits in the AbGONE" ingredients?

A. The assort to the question is a yes. Not only do the ingredients?

A. The assort to the question is a yes. Not only do the ingredients?

A. The assort to the question is a yes. Not only do the ingredients gradually help reduce abdominal fat, but they also have a multitude of health and other benefits. These include anti-oxidant of fects, supporting healthy blood sugar levels, neurological boosting effects, preserving lean body mass, and stepporting optimal water balance.

A lot of the excess pounds that people carry is excess water which is not needed by the body and can be harmful.

AbGONE" also contains an exotic herb, Dandelion Root, that studies have shown can help decrease excess water in the body. "This can really help reduce and show a firm abdomen because large amounts of the excess water is in the abdomen. Men can show the "six pack" and women can get that smooth, firm, flat abdomen.

Therefore, AbGONE" hastriple action ingredients that helps support abdominal fat loss and a healthy body.

Q. Can you summarize these 3 components of the AbGONE" ingredients?

A whole new world for skaters

Skateboarders in southern Idaho are lucky. Small fowns along the Snake River, from Driggs to Kuna have accepted the skateboard culture and aredoing their best to give these ablietes places to play. Dreamland Skateparks out of Scattle has been one of the major players in the incoess. This legendary park building company has built skateparks all over the world but some of their biggest works have been right here in the potato state. Dreamland finished projects in Kuna. Driggs and Hailey with the latter being hailed as one of the finest cement howls in; the country by skatting mags and Web sites.

"This is what we love to do," says Dreamland designer Sage Bolyard. "We live to skate and it shows in the parks we build." The company employs hardcore skateboarders to work as park designers. Even if city officials have trouble raising the money, it seems that Dreamland finds a way to get the project finished. "We're doing ours in stages," says. Bubl. mayor. Barbara Geitzen, The town began construction of its new skate park. On Sept. 15, Geitzen shad that Bubl. had trouble coming up with cash to fund the project. but that recent sales on a donated. HUD. Home and numerous donations of equipment and labor have helped with funding. "Dreamland has been easy to work with," she says. "We're excited to get things sattred. And the kids are really excited."

World class skate parks like.

And the kids are really exci-cled. World class skate parks like the one going in over in Buhl do incredible things for youth development. If young skaters get used to riding enormous features on a day to day basis, their skill level shoots through the roof (Dreamland parks in-clude cement swimming pools and full pipes where boarders can actually skate cement while being inverted or upside down).

while being Inverted or upside down).

"Kuna has only had their park for a year and a half and the kids, out there are really getting good," susp Paul Whitworth, a skateboard technician at Newt and Harold's, a Boise board shop.

An ABC News report in July stated that there are now between 9 and 12 million skateboarders throughout the United States. The Summer Olympics in Athens featured skatehoarding as a demonstration, which opens the door for skating to become a full-fledged Olympic competition.

While there is an estimated door for skating to become a full-fledged Olympic competition.

While there is an estimated 800 skateparks across the country, the sport hasn't evolved from the park. Skating was mastered along streets and sidewalks where athletes and sidewalks where athletes and sidewalks where athletes for art. Along the way many skateboarders galned a stereotype as being drug-using slackers.

I am part of a generation where that stereotype has changed. Boise has developed two separate urban leagues for skateboarding and many Idaho towns are sure to follow suit. Step on a skateboard once and you will realize that people who use board and wheel for recreation are great athletes. Catching air on a board takes some serious skill. Concrete ain't soft. One misstep and a skateboarderould be covered in road rash or broken and full of metal rods.

Skaters in southern Idaho should definitely count their rods.

Skaters in southern Idaho should definitely count the blessings. If small and conservative towns are building places for the next generation to play accepting their culture and values, then you know you're living in a good place.

Idaho's Great Beyond

The 40th anniversary of the Wilderness Act shows Idaho remains a top star in precious lands

By William Studebaker Times News corresponde

What's there to celebrate this year?
The 40th anniversary of the Wilderness Act, and the establishment of the Frank Church Wilderness Area.
The Frank Church Wilderness Area is the largest contiguous wilderness area in the lower 48 states, and it's the very bear of Idaho. It's surrounded by a half dozen other wilderness areas: Selvay-Bitterroot, Gosple-Hump, Hells-Canyon, Sawtooth, and Craters of the Moon.

Moon. Wilderness areas are generally a sportsman's haven, but a haven that has sportsman had its foes

Wilderness areas are generally a sportsmans haven, but a haven that has had its foes.

As Tom Schiermeier, a local taxidermist puts it, "I don't think it's the Wilderness Act Jurting anything right at the moment. There is a wolf problem. They don't go to Thress or McDonald's for Junch. They're killing every day. Somethings got to give, and it's the big game, I'm not sure what to do about it."

Long before the creation of the Frank, Church wilderness in 1964, a battle was being fought between conservationists and entrepreneurs over an assortment of public lands.

Some opposition to wilderness preserves was genuine, Locals, those living in or near the areas being "set asidit, were economically and psychologically displaced. Some opposition was latent greed; folks who wanted second-growth logs and powder gold.

A century before, a greater displacement took place. The native Americans were uproteed from the land upon which they lived and in a historical sense, domesticated/taken from the wilderness as it were.

The Sheepeater Indians (a biand of Shoshone), have come to embrace-wilderness as a reminder of their past 1, as a reminder of everyone's past, One interpreter of the past at Indian Creek on the Middle Fork of the Salmon Riber generously said, "We were all free once." However one might still feel, this year is the 40th anniversary of the Wilderness Act, and it is being celebrated by

Among the celebrators of the Moon. Among the celebrators are sportsmen and conservatives alike.

To the sportsmen's delight, the Frank Church Wilderness has a wonderful cutthroat fisher? There are also herds of elk. mosse, goat, and sheep.

To the conservationists' delight the Frank Church Wilderness harbors the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, and Salmon River — of which parts are in the Wilderness area — is the longest, undammed river in a single state. Its watershed is unique and free.

This wilderness not only provides opportunities for avid sportsmen, but also for those who just want to see animals in their natural habitats.

The late Senator Frank Church said. The great purpose is to set aside a reasonable part of the vanishing wilderness, to make certain that generations of Americans yet unborn will know what it is to experience life on an undeveloped, unoccupied land in the same form as the Creator fashioned it.

It is a great spiritual experience. Yet, the distrist of wilderness mainagement hasn't gone away.

The 40th anniversary of the Wilderness Act is a reminder that sportsmen, everyone should become involved in, in formed about the management of these public lands. We live in a state where natural is still unique. We should celebrate by participating in Idahos role in America's formerly established but newly perceived Outback:

important are wolves? How important is open space? How comforting are the absences of urbanization and rush-time traffic?

aptains Meriwether Lewis and William Clark were concerned that the Teton Sloux would attempt to block the expedition from continuing up the Missouri River. As it was, the meeting between the Corps of Discovery and the Teton Sloux was the most difficult the expedition faced, with arguebly the exception of the shooting and killing of a least one member of the Black Feet nation on the return trip.

non-sportsmen are using air-craft to view wildlife. Investigating a complaint against the department last hunting season I discovered a non-hunter in a motorized para-gilder that disrupted an elk hunt while watching elk.

I'm not a pilot but I know the I'M has rules about low level fly-ing for registered aircraft. Many of these rules do not apply to unlicensed aircraft such as ultra-light and motorized para-gilders. The Airborne Hunting Act. a federal law, regulates the use of all aircraft in hunting re-lated activities, Idaho law also makes it unlawful for hunters to-use hellcopiers and to commu-nicate from an aircraft to the ground.

As a general philosophy, the department wants sportsmen to be successful harvesting fish and wildlife. Using aircraft to scare deer and elk would be counter-productive to that objective and would make little sense.

sense.

Anyone that observes inappropriate or unlawful use of aircraft during the big game hunting seasons should report the registration number of the aircraft to their local sheriffs office, fish and game regional office, or the Federal Aeronautics Administration.

north on the Appalachtan Trail when the route seemed to hit a roadsbock.

Ahead lay-a cluster of jagged, cabin-sized boulders. To the left and right, the steep, rocky walls of two mountains hemmed in the trail. Then something caught her eye: a white arrow painted at the bottom of one of the boulders. The arrow pointed down at the bottom of one of the boulders. The arrow pointed down at a dark gap in the rocks, less than 30 inches wide.

"I thought, What is this? This is the trail? I have to go through there? This is pure unadulerated madness!" said Abramson, who lives in Bethel, Maine.

Abramson, an instructor with the Ontward Bound School, was recalling her first hike through Mahoouse Notch, the notroious section of the Appalachian Trail that is considered by many to be the most challenging mile on the nearly 2.170-mile footpath from Georgia to Maine.

Mahoosus mountains. The trail travels through a boulder-filled obstacle course that hikers scramble over, squeeze between ald slide down. In several places the jumthe of boulders creates caves where hikers must craw on hands and knees, removing backpacks to squeeze through narrow passageways.

The Appalachlan Trail enters Maine from New Hampshire, traversing a heart-pounding series of ascents and descents of 4,000-foot mountains in a region known as the Mahosuc Range. The Maine Appalachlan Trail Club publishes a relief map that shows the range in profile. The spiky up-and-down route resembles an electrocardiogram. Mahosuc Notch lies in the heart of the range. Despite is difficulty, and perhaps because of it, the Notch is a popular hike. Warren Doyle, 54, of Hays, N.C., recently made his 13th hike through Mahosuc Notch.

"It's the slowest mile on the AT.," said Doyle, resting briefly during a rainy day-hike through the Notch in July.

Doyle is a hiker who knows about covering ground, in 1973 he made the first of several hikes along the entire Appalachian Trail. He completed that trip in just 66 1/2 days, averaging more than 30 miles a day.

"It's the risk that makes Mahosuc Notch slow. You go too fast you could really hurry your-self. As difficult as it is, when the rocks are wet it makes it a lot slicker," he said.

Doyle has a fantasy about the Notch.

Youth waterfowl season starts Sept. 25-26

JEROME—Waterfowl season opens October 9 in the Magic Valley Region, but youth, 15-year-old and younger that have taken hunter education, will have a chance to go, hunting September 25-26.

The rules for the youth hunt

Duck-calling class flies back to CSI Outdoors in brief are simple. Hunters must have a valid hunting license, have a migratory bird validation, and be accompanied by an adult 18 years old or older.

The bug limits are the same as for the regular season, five ducks of any kind not including more than one canvasback, one female mallard, one pintual, two rediheads or four scaup. Youth may also take three (seese.

The goal of the program is to give youths an opportunity to hunt waterfowl that have not been recently hunted, which can increase their chance of a successful hunt.

For more information on the youth hunts, contact the Magic

Homeowners set strict pool rules

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "Desperate in Kansas," about unitwiced quests showing up to use their new swimming pool, I had to write. Here's how my wife and I solved the problem when neighborhood children started showing up at all hours. First, we decided that rules would have to be set — and enforced.

would have to be set. — and enforced. We began by having a sturdy fence and locked wrought-from gates installed around the pool area. Then we, linereaged the homeowner's liability limits on our insurance. We asked our aromey to draw up a "liability vaiver" to be signed by the parents of the children in our neighborhood and returned to us personally by the parent or guardian. If there was no signed-vaiver, the child was not permitted to swim.

We allocated two evenings a week, between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. when the neighbors child.

DEAR

ABBY Jeanne Phillips

dren were welcome to use our pool. These were evenings when my wife and I would be home to sit on the patic and watch and referee the children. No swimming would be permited at any other time unless by special invitation.
"Desperate" should try our method. Her neighbors will restee the for spect her for it.

— EXPERIENCED

DEAR EXPERIENCED: Con-sider yourself fortunate that your neighbors abided by your rules. Since I printed that letter, I have heard some horror sto-ries. Read on for a sample:

DEAR ABBY: You suggested that "Desperate in Kansas" put a stop to the drop-ins by becoming assertive, installing a flagpole of signs to indicate when the pool was open, increasing the amount of homeowner insurance, and suggesting the pool be fenced. I don't think you went far enough.

suggesting the poor to the suggesting the poor to the far enough.

When I was in college, part of a constitutional law course I took covered the subject of torts and liability. One particular case we studied stands out in my memory. It involved a family whose swimming pool was surrounded by a 6-foot-high locked fence. While the family was away on, vacation, several youths scaled the fence and went swimming. Unfortunaely, one drowned, and the owners of the pool were convicted of negligent homicide!

The ruling stated that the owners of the pool should have contacted each neighbor and informed them of their plans because a pool is considered an "attractive nuisance." I would urge "Desperate" to contact an attorney who can advise her about local law and liability. At the very least, she should place a "No Trespassing" sign on the lawn, install a locked fence, and send a card to the neighbors explaining the rules.

lawn, install a locked lence, and send a card to the neighbors explaining the rules.

The cost of these measures is minuscule compared to a potential liability suit.

—CHRIS IN PELHAM, ALA.
DEAR CHRIS: Thank you forthe warning. One of my readers sat on a jury for a wrongful death suit with similar circumstances and urged me to inform Desperate! as well as other pool owners that uninvited children using a swimming pool without permission or parental supervision should be reported to the police for trespassing. Better to have it on record than or sky being held liable for an accident.

"Ship me somewheres east of Suez, where the best is like the worst."

Sometimes a deal will look too easy; that is the time to be especially vigilant and to plan for breakers ahead. In six hearts here, you may count 12 top tricks — but what if hearts do not behave?

breakers ahead, in six nearshere, you may count 12 top tricks—but what if hearts do not behave?

When the diamond queen is led, it suggests length, not shortage. So win the diamond king in dumny, then take care to lead to the heart ace and then back to the heart ace and then back to the heart shing. The 4-1 split is a problem, but it need not be an insuperable one. You next lead a diamond from the table, and East must discard. (If he ruffs in, it collapses your frump loser and diamond loser into one trick.) When East ducks, it lets you win the diamond ace, then cash dummy's spade ace and king (pitching your diamond loser) and ruff a spade. Now the club king and ace permit you to lead another spade from dummy to score yet another small frump. In the three-card ending, you have the Q-10 of hearts left and a losing club, which you now lead, ensuring that you can collect the last two tricks, whichever defender takes this trick.

Note that the situation concerning dummy's entries requires you to win the second trump in dummy and not in hand. If you cash the king of trumps and then the ace, the entry position to dummy will not allow you to reduce your trumps often enough for the endplay to succeed. The bidding:

ANSWER: Redouble for rescue. You can't guarantee that you won't be leaving the frying pan for the fire. but when the opponents double you for penalties at a low level, they generally know what they are doing. Redouble suggests both majors and lets partner choose his poison.
