WAR GAMES

Sgt. Chad Horton of Twin Falls, left, and Christopher Riggs of Meridian ride back to the forward operating base dubbed Warrior after a mock battle at Fort Polk, La., on Thursday. Members of the 2-116th Brigade Combat Team began the day on a humanitarian mission to the mock Iraqi village of Sadiq when insurgents played by military trainers attacked them.

Bravo Company takes a beating in mock battles

By Sandy Miller Times-News writer

FORT POLK, La. — It began Thursday morning as a simple humanitarian mission — to deliver some water to the mock Iraqi village of Sadiq. It ended in a bloodbath. By the time the convoy of soldiers with Bravo Company of the 2-116th Brigade Combat Team arrived, other soldiers were already engaged in a gun battle with some "insurgents" nestled in the tall pines that lined the sides of the dirt road.

"Welcome to the real world guys — almost the real world," said 1st Sgt. Martin Rodriguez. Bravo Company troops hopped from their humvees and five-ton trucks and sprang into action, helping to search the village's compounds — government buildings often used as hideouts by the bad guys. Soon, they too were taking fire from insurgents hiding in the trees on the other side of the tiny town.

They were engaged in a high-tech game of laser tag — the closest they will come to real-life combat before heading to Iraq later this fall. Soldiers wear a special device that when hit with a laser from an enemy rifle sets off a high-pitched noise that alerts the soldier and everyone around him that he's been shot. An O.C. — Observer Controller — arrives and turns off the device, then reaches into the soldier's pocket for the small white card that contains the soldier's fate.

In one small building, Spc. David Hughes of Twin Falls laid on the floor waiting for the O.C. to come and tell him his fate. He'd been standing by the window when he was shot by a sniper.

"Are you going to help me?" he asked one of his battle buddies. "I'm going to die in a minute."

The O.C. finally came and opened Hughes' card. He was lucky. He had suffered a wound to his right leg and although numbness and feeling some numbness, required only a dressing and some help from fellow soldiers, Pvt. 1st Class Scott Jenkins of Twin Falls and Pvt. 1st Class Joshua Talbot of Idaho Falls.

'Supported' on their shoulders, Hughes made his way to a special area to wait for the medics, wondering aloud all the way just how he could have been injured in the leg when it wasn't even in the line of fire. Laser tag is not a perfect science, but it's the closest they can come to battle without really being hurt.

The O.C.'s are not the most popular people in these war games, mainly because they

The Sawtooth Valley would be a benefit both ecologically and economically," said Andy Munter, president of Backwoods Mountain Sports in Ketchum.

Last month, Munter was among 400 business owners who asked Congress to consider funding economic studies to determine the costs and benefits of removing four lower Snake River dams.

The administration's plan for salmon, which was released in September, states that dams do not pose a threat to the existence of salmon and steelhead runs in the Columbia and Snake rivers.

In their letter to Bush, the congressional group outlined their concerns.

Truth Wizards know a lie when they hear it

WASHINGTON — The clues aren't as obvious as Pinocchio's nose, but there's a small group of individuals who can detect the subtle signs that people reveal when they lie.

The vast majority of people don't notice those flickers of falsehood, but psychology professor Maureen O'Sullivan has found a few that can find the fibers nearly every time.

Of 13,000 people tested for the ability to detect deception, "we found 31, who we call wizards, who are usually able to tell whether the person is lying, whether the lie is about an opinion, how someone is feeling or about a theft," she said.

O'Sullivan, who teaches at the University of San Francisco, discussed her findings Thursday at the American Medical Association's 23rd Annual Science Reporters Conference.

O'Sullivan conducts seminars for police officers and others on how to detect lying, and said observing the wizards helps researchers direct further study.

"We hope that by studying our wizards, we'll learn more about the kinds of behaviors and ways of thinking and talking that can betray a liar to an experienced interviewer," she said.

Asked if the wizards could be used in real-life situations, she

After debating, candidates look for edge

LAS VEGAS — President Bush criticized Sen. John Kerry as a liberal trying to hide from his own record Thursday as the two men entered the last, post-debate lap of a close race for the White House. The Democratic challenger said his rival "fights, literally, for the privileged few."

"I believe we need a president who will fight for the great middle class and for those who are struggling to join it," Kerry added.

The ubiquitous polls made the race a statistical tie as Bush and his Democratic rival plunged into the final 18 days of campaigning.

That marked an improvement in Kerry's national standing over the course of three presidential debates — even though Democratic officials

Hospital defends Hispanic health fair

Event that requires no ID prompts radio station duels

By Karin Kowalski Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Regional Medical Center is defending its decision to hold its first comprehensive health fair targeting Magic Valley's Hispanic community.

A press release encouraging Hispanics to attend the health fair noted that "no Social Security numbers or other identification would be required to participate."

That prompted dueling words this week between two local radio stations both owned by Lee Family Broadcasting. A KJAR-AM talk show host blasted the event as a taxpayer-funded giveaway to undocumented aliens and encouraged his listeners to protest the event. Meanwhile, KFTA-AM, a Spanish-language station that had raised $500 to support the fair, encouraged its listeners not to be intimidated by the calls for protest.

Shawn Barigar, a spokesman for Magic Valley Regional, said there are health fairs throughout the year for the whole valley. Sometimes health fairs specifically target men, other times they're for women.

"We do these all the time," Barigar said. "They are available for the good of our community as a whole."

The health fair is meant to target an underserved population and interpreters will be on hand for people who speak limited English.

Barigar said the medical center never asks for identification or immigration status at its fairs, and this one is no different.

Barigar said he has received about a half dozen calls about the health fair.

The medical center has done heart health screenings for Hispanic people before, but this is the first comprehensive health fair to target that population.

"We hope people take advantage of it," Barigar said.

The health fair is sponsored by a variety of agencies, including South Central District Health.

Cheryl Juntenun, the agency's director, said the goal of the health fair is early detection and the prevention of high-cost health care.

Juntenun said the groups that donate to South Central District Health expect it to reach out to minorities because of their increased need. Statistics show that Hispanics don't receive mammograms as often as other segments of the population, which leads to more cases of breast cancer.

They also have higher rates of diabetes and foot problems associated with diabetes.

In the end, prevention costs less than waiting for people to show up in emergency rooms with larger problems and larger bills.

Budget deficit surges to $413B

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal deficit surged to a record $413 billion in 2004, the Treasury Department announced Thursday, injecting the figure into a presidential campaign in which the two parties have clashed over President Bush's management of the economy and the budget.

The number was a significant improvement from the shortfalls that analysts projected earlier this year, including a $521 billion estimate the Bush administration made in February. In March, the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office estimated a deficit of $477 billion.

Both the administration and the Congressional Budget Office had lowered their deficit forecasts as the year progressed, largely due to stronger-than-expected revenue collections.

Even so, the final deficit figure released Thursday easily surpassed the previous record in dollar terms, a revised $377 billion deficit that was run up last year.

In a statement, Treasury Secretary John Snow cited improving economic data and said the budgetary improvement shows Bush is on track to halve the deficit over five years as he has promised.

"All of this shows that the president's tax relief initiatives are having the intended effects," Snow said.

Democrats disagreed. "There is simply no credible way to present the largest deficit in history as good news," said Rep. John Spratt of South Carolina, top Democrat on the House Budget Committee. "The Republicans control the House, the Senate and the White House, but today's news proves again they have failed to control the budget."

FCC won't prevent airing of anti-Kerry film

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission won't intervene to stop a broadcast company's plans to air a critical documentary about John Kerry's anti-Vietnam War activities on dozens of TV stations, the agency's chairman said Thursday.

"Don't look us to block the airing of a program," Michael Powell told reporters. "I don't know of any precedent in which the commission could do that."

Eighteen senators, all Democrats, wrote to Powell this week and asked him to investigate Sinclair Broadcast Group's plan to run the program, "Stolen Honor: Wounds That Never Heal," two weeks before the Nov. 2 election.

Powell said there are no federal rules that would allow the agency to prevent the program. "I think that would be an absolute disservice to the First Amendment and I think it would be unconstitutional if we attempted to do so," he said. He said he would consider the senators' concerns but added that they may not amount to a formal complaint, which could trigger an investigation.

FCC rules require that a program — air before a formal complaint can be considered. Sinclair, based outside Baltimore, has asked its 62 television stations — many of them in competitive states in the presidential election — to pre-empt regular programming to run the documentary.

Some states feel left out

Bush, Kerry give time, resources to battleground areas

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Pennsylvania gets Bruce Springsteen. New York doesn't even get money to buy lawn signs for the presidential candidates.

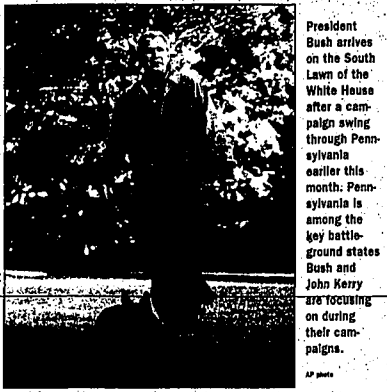

Such is life in those electorally forgotten states that are solidly in either John Kerry's or President Bush's column. For obvious reasons, the real attention this election season is being lavished on the states that are still in play.

So when Springsteen and other musicians launched a 30-city concert tour aimed at ousting Bush, they made stops in battleground states like Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa and Wisconsin.

No Big Apple, no Los Angeles, no Dallas, no Chicago.

"As a young person, there's so many people telling us to vote, but it's almost like our votes don't matter," said Heather Geho of Watertown, N.Y., a psychology major at the State University campus in Albany. "New York state is already set. In one way, it's a mixed message."

That is not to say the candidates have no presence in non-competitive states. Bush and Kerry both work California and New York regularly for campaign cash, and Bush takes time to relax at his ranch near Crawford, Texas. The two also give the occasional high-profile policy address in media-rich New York City, where Bush also staged the Republican National Convention.

If the United States elected the president based on the popular vote, the big states would surely be visited more by the candidates. But the Electoral College system gives smaller states more say in the outcome. (Florida is the exception this year — a big state that is up for grabs.)

The attention heaped on Ohio has resulted in the state getting to host the vice presidential debate, along with dozens of visits from each candidate. New York, meanwhile, got a short, debate-prep stay by Sen. John Edwards.

"It's almost as if the people in a dozen battleground states are really the only campaign for president," said GOP operative Nelson Warfield, a top aide on Bob Dole's 1996 presidential campaign. "If the Republicans wanted to spend every dime they had on New York, they could be competitive there, but that just doesn't make sense when you do this thing in the Electoral College."

Lynne Cheney bashes Kerry

CORANPOLES, Pa. (AP) — Lynne Cheney accused Democratic presidential candidate John Kerry of pulling a "cheap and tawdry political trick," apparently for invoking her daughter's sexuality in his debate with President Bush.

Asked Wednesday night whether homosexuality is a choice, Kerry noted that one of Vice President Dick Cheney's daughters is a lesbian, and said she would probably affirm that she was born that way.

"We're all God's children," Kerry said during the debate in Tempe, Ariz.

Mrs. Cheney made clear she thought Kerry had crossed a line into family privacy when she introduced her husband to a supportive crowd of 800 after a debate-watching party in the Pittsburgh suburb of Coranopolis.

Bombers penetrate Green Zone

Four Americans are among 10 dead

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Insurgents struck deep inside Baghdad's heavily fortified Green Zone on Thursday, setting off bombs at a market and a popular cafe that killed at least 10 people — including four Americans — and wounded 20 others in the compound housing foreign embassies and Iraqi government offices.

The bold, unprecedented attack, which witnesses and a senior Iraqi official said was carried out by suicide bombers, dramatized the militants' ability to penetrate the heart of the U.S.-Iraqi leadership even as authorities step up military operations to suppress Sunni Muslim insurgents in other parts of the country.

Iraq's most feared terror group, led by Jordanian militant Abu Musab al-Zarqawi, claimed responsibility for the twin blasts and said they were suicide attacks, according to a statement posted on a Web site known for its Islamic content.

Later Thursday, U.S. Marines launched air and ground attacks on the insurgent stronghold of Fallujah, 40 miles west of Baghdad, after city representatives suspended peace talks with the Iraqi government over Prime Minister Ayad Allawi's demand to hand over al-Zarqawi.

Residents described the bombardments as the most intensive shelling since U.S. forces began weeks of "precision strikes" aimed at al-Zarqawi's network, though a senior military official in Washington said the latest fighting was not the major invasion that Allawi has threatened.

The attack in the Green Zone was the first time bombers had gotten inside the 4-square-mile compound — surrounded by concrete walls, razor wire, sandbag bunkers and guard posts — and was the deadliest attack within the area since the U.S. occupation began in May 2003.

The U.S.-guarded enclave — home to about 10,000 Iraqis, government officials, foreign diplomats and military personnel — spreads along the banks of the Tigris River in the heart of the capital. The area's trees and other greenery present a sharp contrast to the rest of dusty and arid Baghdad. The zone is centered on Saddam Hussein's mammoth Republican Palace, and there are dozens of smaller palatial buildings, houses, office buildings and a hospital once used by high-ranking members of the old Baath Party regime.

The bombings, which underscored that no part of Baghdad is truly safe, took place about 12:40 p.m. on the eve of the Islamic holy month, Ramadan. Last year, the start of Ramadan was marked by a major escalation of insurgent violence.

Across the Tigris River, two U.S. soldiers were killed Thursday in eastern Baghdad — one when his patrol came under small arms fire, the other in a roadside bombing — the U.S. command said. Two more American soldiers were killed when their Humvee was struck by a rocket-propelled grenade and caught fire during a raid in Ramadi, 70 miles west of the capital, the military said.

Iraqi National Security Adviser Qassem Dawoud said the Green Zone attacks appeared to be a "suicide operation" — as was claimed in the Web site statement. "This cowardly act will not go unpunished," Dawoud said. "We will strike them wherever they are."

U.S. soldiers examine the scene near a street market after bombs were detonated Thursday in the Green Zone of Baghdad, Iraq, killing 10 people.

A waiter and restaurant patrons saw two men enter the Green Zone Cafe clutching large bags. One appeared nervous while the other seemed to be trying to reassure him, they said.

The two men ordered tea and talked for about 20 minutes — a waiter thought they spoke with Jordanian accents. The more confident of the two then walked out and hailed a taxi, the witnesses said. Minutes later a loud explosion rocked the compound.

"It was then that the second bomber blew himself up," said one Iraqi vendor, afraid to give his name. "I fell on the floor, then quickly gathered myself and ran for my life."

The blast left a gaping crater in the pavement where the canopied restaurant once stood. Splatters of blood and pieces of flesh were scattered among the twisted metal, shards of glass and upended plastic chairs littering the scene. Thick, black smoke billowed from the compound.

"People were screaming ... stampeding, trying to get out," said Mohammed al-Obaidi, the owner of a nearby restaurant who was wounded by flying glass from the cafe blast.

Six Iraqis were killed at the cafe and several U.S. Embassy employees suffered minor injuries there, State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said in Washington.

Four American employees of DynCorp security company were killed and two State Department employees were wounded in the blast in a vendor's alley near the U.S. Embassy annex. The outdoor bazaar that caters to Westerners, selling everything from mobile phone accessories to pornographic DVDs.

The Green Zone is a regular target of insurgents. Mortar rounds are frequently fired at the compound, and there have also been a number of deadly car bombings at its gates. Last week a bomb was found in front of the Green Zone Cafe but did not explode.

Al-Obaidi, the restaurant owner, said security in the zone has weakened since Iraqi police took a greater role with the June handover of power. "Before it was really safe. They

(the Americans) passed it over to the Iraqis ... the Iraqi Police. When they see someone they know, it's just, 'Go on in.' They don't understand it's for our safety," al-Obaidi said.

Commandos free hostage

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistani commandos on Thursday stormed a house near the Afghan border where two Chinese engineers were being held hostage, rescuing one and killing all five kidnappers, officials said. The other hostage, died of gunshot wounds.

Interior Minister Aftab Khan Sherpao said hostage Wang Peng died and his body was being taken to Islamabad. Ahmed said the kidnappers shot him.

Ahmed said. "This raised fears that the kidnappers had started violence against the Chinese," he told The Associated Press. "The security forces then stormed and killed all five kidnappers and freed the Chinese."

Trade deficit soars as retailers stock up on Chinese phones, toys

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trade deficit jumped to the second-highest level in history as surging demand for foreign oil swamped a small gain in U.S. exports, the government reported Thursday. America's trade gap with China hit an all-time high as retailers stocked up on cell phones, toys and televisions in preparation for Christmas sales.

The worse-than-expected trade performance in August — a deficit of $9.4 billion — represented a 6.9 percent widening from July's trade gap of $50.5 billion. The record monthly deficit was set in June at $55 billion.

Exports, helped by a rise in shipments of commercial aircraft and record foreign sales of American cars and auto parts, rose by a slight 0.1 percent to $39 billion in August.

However, this improvement was overwhelmed by a 2.5 percent surge in imports to a record $150.1 billion as America's foreign oil bill climbed to the highest level in history. The average price for crude oil jumped to a 23-year high of $36.37 per barrel.

Analysts said the bad news on trade will only get worse in coming months given that oil prices have continued to soar, with crude oil hitting a new record of $54.76 per barrel Thursday.

"The skyrocketing oil prices are sucking the wind out of the economy," said Joel Naroff, chief economist at Naroff-Economic Advisors. "And the worst is yet to come."

Fresno tries to clean up its image

City ranks first in IV drug use

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The nation's capital of intravenous drug use is not New York or Miami, not Chicago or Detroit — but Fresno.

It is an unlikely distinction for a city of fewer than 500,000 people in the heart of one of the nation's richest agricultural regions.

The percentage of people shooting up heroin and other drugs in Fresno is nearly three times the national average, fueled by a boom in methamphetamine use, according to a study issued last month. "This town is so full of meth," said Amy Wilson, 28, who was ordered into rehab after her daughter, now 3.5 months old, tested positive for methamphetamine at birth.

"My grasp on reality was gone," she said. She described drug use in California's Central Valley as "like a cancer."

Law enforcement agencies and treatment counselors say they are overwhelmed by the scope of the problem, which is compounded by HIV and hepatitis C infections that come from sharing needles.

The Fresno area has become home to Mexican drug cartels that operate in its rural expanses, where the farm chemicals used to make meth are readily available and the noxious fumes are less easily detected. According to a 2001 estimate by the Drug Enforcement Administration, 80 percent of the country's meth comes from the cartels.

Amy Wilson sits in her bedroom at a residential treatment facility Sept. 24 in Fresno, Calif. Wilson is in a residential treatment program funded through Fresno County, a move she had to make after her newborn daughter tested positive for methamphetamines.

EDITORIAL

Castleford's arsenic plan means an end to the fight

Unlike Super-Man's hometown of Smallville, Kan., the drama and adventures of Castleford don't unfold in a comic book.

Instead, Castleford's harsh realities are found in city budgets, federal mandates, and costly rules from the Environmental Protection Agency.

It's enough to stagger even Clark Kent. So it's no surprise that the task of fighting Uncle Sam has grown too big for Castleford.

At a town meeting Wednesday night, Castleford residents and city council members opted to pursue a $2.4 million project that will rebuild the water system and provide for arsenic removal in drinking water.

With this turn, the town is making a decision based on compliance and responsibility. But that doesn't necessarily make it right.

The EPA's arsenic standard, which requires dropping arsenic levels in drinking water to 10 parts per billion by 2006, is Castleford's biggest financial hurdle. The town's water is currently at 22 ppb.

Arsenic is a naturally occurring element that filters into water from geologic minerals. Scientific studies link arsenic to forms of cancer are not conclusive. Meeting EPA standards will force Castleford to spend $200,000 for an arsenic removal plant, and another $100,000 annually for operations. This is a town with a tax base of 277 people and a meager annual budget of $189,000.

For those reasons, Idaho's congressional delegation jumped in to help wage the fight. One bill proposed giving Castleford $450,000 for water system improvements.

Another bill proposed extending the EPA deadline for communities with fewer than 10,000 people.

But the town's decision to plow ahead on compliance could deflate those bills.

Castleford's decision may collide with other issues since arsenic removal remains an uncertain scientific mandate. The technology for arsenic removal is raw to say the least. And if future laws require towns to remove nitrates or coliform from water, much higher costs could still be thrust onto rural communities.

Castleford can't be blamed for dropping its gloves in the arsenic fight. It's hard to be the poster child for small towns fighting unfunded mandates. And if local leaders think it's wise to pursue grants while they're available, they're only doing their job.

It's just bad that a small Idaho town's survival depends on the graces of federal bureaucracy. Even the Man of Steel would probably flounder in that fight.

Cheney phobia fizzles away

Dick Cheney. What you see is what you get. It's hard not to like that in a man. Even if you disagree with him.

JEROME CHRISTENSEN

The Vice President spent an hour yesterday morning with 20-some Lee Enterprises newspaper editors and executives in a rather milkily basement meeting room in Davenport, Iowa. Now I'll grant it's hard to accurately take the measure of a man in 60 minutes at 20-some papers, but after sitting in the same room, breathing the same air, you can't help but come away with a better sense of the personality that was previously just a face on the TV screen and a quotation in the newspaper.

On TV, in person, with Dick Cheney, what you see is what you get.

We've all seen this man. The posture never varies — elbows on the table, shoulders hunched, head thrust forward in the head/business suit. And he talks with the same, low, steady, no-nonsense voice and demeanor that, had his career taken a different course, would have made him the most dreaded vice-principal to ever stalk a high school hallway.

Questioning him had the quality of initiating a human Google search — without the lightweight colorful graphics. In an hour he answered eight questions — about eight minutes per answer. He leaned on his elbows, and facts, figures and observations rolled out of him in a steady cascade. It would be easy to dismiss this as the practiced response to the repeated inquiry. But when he worked how this weekend's reelection of Australian prime minister John Howard illustrates international support for administration policy in Latin America and references to this morning's target selection in Fallujah, implications of the flu vaccine crisis and the current price of natural gas into lengthy, detailed replies, the impression of a highly intelligent, intensely engaged individual — in command of himself and the information he deals with — was inescapable.

Whether the conclusions he draws from that information and the policies that result are correct or not, is a separate issue. The truth is, we weren't so much there to learn what the man thinks as to be there to see him thinking. As we were waiting, one of the editors commented, "we're not going to see news made here today, an expectation that all pretty much shared."

We didn't really expect him to say anything new, anything that wasn't already documented, hashed, reshaped and spat out over again. We were there to take a measure of the man, or in the case of those who had met with him before — measure and see what might have changed. To check the human reality against the televised, editorialized image.

Some things I found surprising. He's shorter than I thought... in that sense we see eye-to-eye. We've even built the same. I've seen teenage girls, we could probably swap clothes. His are more expensive than mine.

Some things were slightly disconcerting. The two-inch Swiss army knife on my key chain was detained at the door as a dangerous weapon, but each place at the table was set with two heavy steel forks and a serrated steak knife, roughly the size and heft of a cavalry saber. If this is homeland security, I'm feeling very insecure.

And some things recalled our common humanity. I'll wife, Lynne Cheney, cradled the Lincoln Journal-Star, a Lee newspaper, with helping launch Dick Cheney into public life. The first time his picture appeared in any newspaper was when, as a boy in Lincoln, Neb., he was named "Carrier of the Week."

Somewhat the thought of the CEO of Halliburton humping a bag of Sunday papers down a snowy sidewalk and getting stiffed on collection day gives me a respect for the man I didn't have before.

Agree with him or not.

Bush climbs back in debate finale

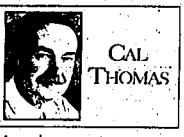

About the candidates' debate, Simon and Gartnerk wrote and sang: "Laugh about it, shout about it."

When you've got to choose, try your way out at you lose."

That cynical outlook from the '60s doesn't apply now. There is much to lose concerning success in the war against those who hate and wish to kill the six — reach almost all government and the way we look at issues — from law to life.

The third debate clarified a number of things for those still in need of clarity. Sen. John Kerry is trying to portray himself as something other than the tax-and-spend, big-government, social liberal that he is. Kerry sees government as a kind of "under-savior." There is little in his words or in his waddly and privileged life about personal initiative, right choices or individual liberty. It's all about what government can do for you, not what you should first do for yourself.

President Bush rose to the occasion in debate number three. He managed to get off some good zingers, especially the one about Kerry's voting record making Sen. Edward Kennedy look like the "conservative" senator from Massachusetts.

CAL THOMAS

Kerry again said he would require any nominees to the Supreme Court to favor abortion. Most candidates (and presidents) have refused to "litmus-test" in the past. One can examine a candidate's judicial philosophy and usually determine his or her approach to the law and the Constitution. Kerry was pandering to his liberal base and establishing a dangerous precedent.

On the war, the president's line that Kerry's approach is about "retreat and defeat" was a good one, and the president-touted last Saturday's election in Afghanistan as a success, which it was. He said again that progress is being made in Iraq, which it is.

On health care, there is much to say that wasn't said. As a senator, Kerry was not known as a champion of market-based competition for health insurance. He now says he wants to allow citizens the same choices Congress affords itself. A market-based system, instead of one controlled and regulated by government, is the best way to keep medical costs under control, along with a healthy lifestyle, which neither candidate talked about. In a self-centered age, never ask what you can do for yourself; ask only what government can do for you.

In listing "reasons" for the high cost of medicine, neither candidate mentioned that the United States has the best health care in the world. One can only wonder at the number of all sorts of maladies and diseases in ways unavailable to the rest of the world. Why do so many want to come here for vital surgery, including citizens of Canada, where socialized medicine is not serving its people well? The best costs more, but the results are better.

Kerry talked about being "optimistic," but there is no optimism as far as his eyes can see. Nothing is good, nothing is working, the future is full of fear and struggle, and we are losing the war on terror. So elect him and he will make it all better.

President Bush believes the United States can help "spread freedom and liberty around the world." This has been American doctrine since we abandoned isolationism when we entered World War II.

The nonpartisan Congressional Quarterly publication looked at Kerry's Senate voting record, which is a better standard than election-year rhetoric for determining his consistency. In the April 24, 2003, issue, David Nather wrote, "(O)n education and health care, two of the most important domestic battlegrounds between Democrats and Republicans, Kerry has a thin record." Nather added, "(Kerry) has not played a major role in the most significant health care debates of recent years..." And, wrote Nather, "(D)uring the six weeks of Senate debate in 2001 on the 'No Child Left Behind' education law... the Senate never debated a Kerry amendment."

Considering Kerry didn't show up for "battle," voters have a right to question his level of commitment to issues. Nearly 10 years ago, Scott Lehigh, a columnist for the liberal Boston Globe, wrote, "Kerry has long had a reputation as more of a show horse than a workhorse."

In just over two weeks, voters will make their own judgment about changing a workhorse in midstream for a show horse in mid-stride.

LETTER

Father should keep tabs on son's guns

I can understand that Mr. Wells is upset that his 10-year-old son was detained by the Minidoka sheriff's department. But I also think that if another child had brought a gun (like, disabled, or a real load or even an unloaded gun) to school, he would probably have been one of the first to want something done about it for the protection of his child!

You said that "it had been a non-functional gun for 23 years." How were they to know that? It is also my understanding that there are to be no weapons of any kind on the school grounds. My interpretation of this means real or not real guns or knives, box cutters or anything else that fits into that category. This is for the protection of all children, teachers, office help and visitors to the campus. In other words, Mr. Wells, maybe you had better check your child's pockets, backpack, etc., before he leaves for school, since apparently he isn't conforming to the rules and regulations that are there for everyone, including your son!

So, Mr. Wells, chill out, because your son needs to take responsibility for his actions. By the picture of the guy, it defines look real, and we should not be asking our law enforcement officers to risk their lives to check and see if it is real or not? They really shouldn't have to look twice!

We do not need a school massacre in Magic Valley! CORENE H. BUEHLER, Twin Falls

Bush's actions deserve a job termination

Please explain that part about our being safer under Bush and Cheney. The facts that I have dug up say something quite different. For months, Bush has been warning us that we may be attacked before the elections. So what is he doing? He has been in control for almost four years. Our ports and our nuclear and chemical plants are open to attack (Chemical plants still aren't subject to federal controls, Wall Street Journal, Aug. 20). No safeguards against enriched uranium-sulfate type bombs of the former Soviet Union. Our ports and borders are in tragic shape. Tons of dope and illegal drugs are smuggled in every year. Bush and Cheney failed to safeguard the United States on 9/11. The 9/11 Commission report said they had missed several opportunities to unravel the plot. We paid the price for our government's ignoring repeated warnings of imminent al-Qaida attacks. This is especially true when Bush ignored a report titled "Bin Laden Determined to Strike in U.S." Bush's action? He went on vacation for four weeks, not even a year on the job. Of course, he could be constantly reelected; however, I want my president to act — not to react. We saw re-act. Seven minutes of nothing and then into the "spider hole" of Air Force One, incommunicado. Fearless leader? No thanks. My ballot says he's fired! MATT SMITH, Twin Falls

Water solutions go nowhere without meters.

The one thing that we all are dependent upon is water.

We have had many commissions that have been working on our water problem for the last 50 years. Fifty years ago, the way we watered our crops began to change from surface irrigation to sprinkler systems. Also, our population exploded. We all need water.

So who is using all of the water? There is only one way that we can tell where every gallon is going and that is with meters.

"O, my gosh, that will be expensive!"

So it will, but there is no other way to tell where every gallon goes. If this ever winds up in court the judge will ask where all the water is being used. How are you going to answer? All they are doing now is guessing. There is only one way to find out where the water is going and is with a meter. Now is the time to bite the bullet and do something constructive.

Former resident longs for a return to Idaho

Sometimes you cut off your nose to spite your face. Two years ago, an associate of mine decided that moving to Utah would be better for forming our NASCAR racing team. I gave up my home and way of life, only to find I was better off at home in Jerome. I truly miss Idaho and the valley.

As I write this with tears in my eyes, I decided when our custom Harley shop was looking for a new place to call home I remember the clear sky and warm feelings from the valley and am looking at coming home to Idaho. When our young folks look at going to the big city, tell them its not all that much better. Our valley, the one where I still call my real home, is Idaho. I lived once in Hagerman, created much there only to have my dreams tear at the seam when those who were in power over me thought I'd be better off elsewhere.

Now that I can call the shots, I'm going where I think its best, home out west in Idaho. It's time we as Idaho folks told those in Utah that what they have to offer is a joke. Let's keep our dollars in Idaho; more importantly, let's keep our kids in Idaho.

Truly a dear friend,

U.S. toppled a lethal, reckless Hussein

May I once again offer a voice of reason to those who may be confused about John Kerry and Iraq.

One of the main facts that main stream media has failed to point out which is a fact is that in 2003, Saddam Hussein's regime was in possession of 500 tons of natural uranium. That is enough uranium, if conriched, to construct approximately 120 nuclear weapons. This really is a fact. Take some time away from the newspapers and news programs and research it for yourself.

Mahdi Obeidi, the man who oversaw Iraq's uranium gas centrifuge program and director-general of Iraq's Ministry of Military Industrialization under Saddam Hussein, has confessed to U.S. intelligence the officials Iraq's program to build nuclear weapons. Until 2003, the materials needed to produce enriched uranium gas were still in Iraq. In the past, Saddam Hussein used nerve agents and poisoned gases against Iraqis, Iranians and Kurds. This is a fact. Iraq had several months leading up to the U.S. invasion to move any other materials for making weapons of mass destruction out of Iraq. You can thank the United Nations for that.

But after all, Saddam focused on killing and torturing Iraqis and others opposed to Iraq. Why should we as Americans care? Maybe he deserves a second chance to finish what he started. Maybe Americans will be added to the list of those gassed or poisoned.

Out of curiosity, where were the human rights activists when it was time to speak up for the lives of those who opposed Saddam or the Kurds or the Iranians? Oh, that's right, they weren't Americans, so it didn't matter.

Maybe I'm wrong. I guess it's possible to believe you can win a war when you don't really believe in the war in the first place. I guess it's possible for John Kerry, who has opposed and votes against war of any kind, to be better at winning a war than someone else who sees the merits of necessary war. Didn't we win in Vietnam?

Didn't John Kerry contribute to that victory? Oh wait, what's that you say? We lost in Vietnam? U.S. troops had lost morale because of opposition and protest back home? I never knew.

Why judge John Kerry for being opposed to war? After all, except for communism, fascism, Nazism and slavery, war has never solved anything.

Stinker Station hit by male robber

TWIN FALLS — Police were still searching Thursday night for a man who robbed a gas station Wednesday. A man in his mid-30s entered the Stinker Station on 2254 Addison Ave. E. around 9:15 p.m., said Staff Sgt. Mike Covington of the Twin Falls Police Department. The perpetrator demanded money from the clerk and left with an undisclosed sum. He did not display a weapon, Covington said. Anyone with information on this incident is asked to call the Twin Falls Police at 735-7200.

Group sets up connection for troops

BURLEY — An open house is scheduled Saturday to unveil a new computer system dedicated to sending and receiving e-mail from local men and women serving in the armed forces.

The system, a joint effort of Greener Valley Computer and Safelink, will be open to the public at 4C's, 1635 Overland Ave.

The Barbarian Wives Club will hand out checks during the open house to families of the National Guards 2-116th Bravo Company.

Several events have been held and approximately $30,000 raised to help bring the troops home on leave prior to their expected deployment to Iraq in December.

The open house will run from noon to 5 p.m. at 4C's. Refreshments will be served.

Speechwriter will speak at CSI

TWIN FALLS — Paul Glasris, editor-in-chief of the Washington Monthly and former presidential speechwriter, will be the speaker at the second session of the Eagle View Lecture Series, set for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Union Building at the College of Southern Idaho.

Glasris' topic is "Behind the Scenes of the West Wing: Tales from a Washington Insider." His objective will be to take listeners beyond the headlines of presidential politics and explore the implications of future events.

A pre-event activity, "Pump up the Vote," is scheduled for 6 p.m. It will feature live music as it encourages students to vote and get involved in the political process.

Glasris covered politics for several of the nation's leading publications before joining the Clinton administration as a speechwriter in 1998.

For the next three years, he wrote or co-wrote more than 200 speeches on subjects ranging from health care and the budget to the Democratic Convention and State of the Union addresses.

Admission is free. The public is invited.

Recreation district will meet on Tuesday

JEROME — The Jerome Recreation District will hold its monthly board meeting at 7 a.m. Tuesday in the conference room at the Jerome Recreation Center, 2032 S. Lincoln. The public is invited. For more information, call 324-3389.

Clubs will host a Halloween carnival

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho clubs and organizations are hosting a free Halloween carnival for all area youngsters from 4 to 7 p.m. Oct. 29 at the Boys and Girls Club, located on Frontier Field Road on the CSI campus.

CSI students will staff activity booths, giving out candy and prizes. Kids will be treated to games, contests, face painting and various seasonal festivities, all for free.

Children are encouraged to come in costumes. Families are invited.

For more information, call the CSI Student Senate at 732-6690.

City stares at $2.48 million price tag

Proposal would lower city's arsenic levels

By Sandra Wisecaver Times-News correspondent

CASTLEFORD — City residents here appear to support a $2.48 million proposal to lower the level of arsenic in their drinking water and modernize the city's water system.

During a public hearing that was attended by 54 Castleford residents Wednesday, 28 cast their vote in a straw poll for the $2.48 million proposal while five votes were split between two other alternatives. About 20 residents did not vote.

The hearing was held to gather input on five proposals to address the removal of arsenic and upgrade the city's water infrastructure. The council will consider the unofficial straw poll results at a meeting next week before making a final decision. The time and date of that meeting has not yet been determined.

City officials say they hope to be on the leading edge for grant dollars but far enough behind the curve to be in-line for more affordable arsenic removal technology should it be developed. "We want to survive," Mayor Rita Ruffing said. "We want to bring new growth to the city. But we want to know if we can survive until we see what kind of match we can get for the project."

A federal mandate calls for all municipal water systems to have arsenic levels no higher than 10 parts per billion by Jan. 23, 2006. Castleford's drinking water has been measured to have an arsenic level of 22 ppb.

The $2.48 million proposal calls for the construction of a central arsenic treatment system, a 1 million-gallon water storage tank, a 4,500-gallon-per-minute booster pump

Tracker

- Last we knew: Castleford must come up with a plan to lower the level of arsenic in its drinking water by January 2006. The latest: During a straw poll held Wednesday, a majority of city residents voted to pursue a $2.48 million plan to lower arsenic levels and upgrade the city's water infrastructure. What's next: The City Council is expected to make the final choice among five proposals next week and then begin plans to put a bond issue on the ballot.

the entire project, that would cost each resident an extra $14 per month on his water bill. A 20 percent match would cost an extra $28 and a 30 percent match would cost an extra $42. Please see WATER, Page B3

FLU SHOT BLUES

Animal officer turns in gun; gets new one

By Chip Thompson Times-News writer

RUPERT — When you're the only one doing a job, it can be tough fielding comments and criticism from those who think it should be done differently.

Minidoka County Animal Control Officer Steve Mani says that was the case at last week's meeting of the animal control board.

During the course of the meeting, Mani listened while a citizen complained about a dog's treatment at the shelter and board members and officials questioned the need for him to carry a side arm while on duty.

Mani turned his gun back over to the city of Rupert last week and was issued a new firearm four days later by the Minidoka County Sheriff's Department.

Mani defended his need to carry a gun after Rupert City Administrator Roger Bagley told the board that the city's insurance carrier would not accept liability because Mani is employed by the city but supervised by the county.

As a reserve officer for the Rupert Police Department, Mani's gun, radio and bullet-proof vest were allowed by the city because they had been issued by the department. But when Mani resigned his position recently to spend more time with his family, Bagley said the issue of liability became a concern.

"The insurance company has made it very clear to us that they want something resolved," Bagley said Thursday.

There are three options, Bagley said, for resolving the liability issue. Mani could stop carrying a gun, Minidoka County could take over Mani's employment from the city or Rupert could take over supervision of Mani's duties.

But Mani said that, because each of the entities has signed a joint powers agreement for animal control, all three cities and the county would be liable anyway. Both Bagley and animal control board member Robert Christensen argue that Mani does not need a side arm to do his job, but Mani disagrees. He says that he covers a lot of ground in the county and comes across some dangerous situations.

"You don't know if it's a meth lab behind that door or if the guy's just having a bad day when capturing a dog, Mani said.

"Meth labs and dangerous people are everywhere," Bagley said. "If you take that argument to its logical end you'd have to arm everyone in a uniform."

Mani said he faces vicious dogs on a regular basis as well and that his former partner, Mike Wolff, who was laid off Oct. 1 due to budget cuts, had twice needed his side arm to shoot dogs that had attacked him.

"In my experience you don't find a lot of animal control officers who carry a side arm,"

Bagley said. "We have meter readers who get bit, too, and they don't carry side arms."

Bagley said that when confronted an animal control officer should step back and seek the assistance of the police. Christensen encouraged his colleagues on the board to vote against having the officer carry a gun. But on Thursday he said that the decision shouldn't be left to the board but to the liability entity. Christensen is also a member of the Rupert City Council and said he needed to do what was best for the citizens of Rupert.

"I don't do his job. I don't know what he's running into out there," Christensen said. "But very few animal control officers around the country carry side arms."

Local man charged with stealing car, Hot Tamales

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man is facing charges of grand theft and burglary in connection with goods — including frozen beef patties, and 20 boxes of Hot Tamales — discovered missing from an auto recovery.

Justin Raymond Beeson, 19, was charged in 5th District Magistrate Court Thursday with the two felonies.

An affidavit written by Twin Falls Police Detective Chris Feldner describes the series of events leading up to Beeson's arrest.

On Aug. 30, officers with the police department were called to the Magic Valley Speedway for a report of a burglary and vehicle theft.

Speedway owner Steve York told police that when he arrived at work, he found the company's pickup truck, a 1992 Ford Ranger, missing and discovered that every building on the property had been burglarized.

He told police that he noted items stolen from buildings included food, alcohol, soft drinks, NASCAR coffee mugs, Magic Valley Speedway hats, checkered flags and frozen hamburger patties.

York also said the sheriff's department informed him they had located the truck near the landfill.

In the stolen truck officers found a cell phone that York said didn't belong to him. By tracking phone records, police were led to an apartment where Beeson lived and where his friend Roy Winkle had stayed for a few days.

While came to the police department for an interview. It said Beeson asked him to be a lookout while Beeson went to steal beer and other items from the Speedway. He told officers they were at the site for about 30 minutes going through buildings and putting goods in Beeson's truck.

After they had filled that truck, the pair decided to put more things into the Speedway's truck.

They drove out to the desert, transferred the items into Beeson's truck, and left the Ford Ranger where sheriff's deputies later found it.

Jerome organization seeks donations

Task force aims to raise money for centennial party

By Dixie Thomas Reale Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Before you can throw a party, you've got to have money.

That was the main topic of concern addressed at Thursday's Jerome Centennial Task Force meeting. Group members agreed to form a subcommittee to begin fund-raising.

"We needed to start raising funds yesterday," Jerome City Administrator Travis Rothwell said. "We have no budget, no funds, nothing." The volunteer fund-raising subcommittee is made up of Rothwell, Elizabeth Thomas, Linda Hindum, David Farnsworth, Kellee Traugbner, Rob Lundgren, Sandra Moore-Futrell and Amy Rothwell.

Blair Crouch and Marlin Eldred also volunteered to form a marketing committee to help raise funds and seek publicity.

Crouch said that although he's "not a computer geek," he knows several of them who could help set up a centennial web site.

The site could be used for fund-raising, volunteer solicitation, information dissemination and other purposes. Crouch suggested the site be linked to the other Web sites, including the Chamber of Commerce, the city and county sites and other nearby communities that are planning centennial celebrations.

Task force members agreed that a centennial theme and logo — which could be placed on fund-raising items such as mugs and T-shirts — should be chosen through a design contest, possibly among children.

Since the task force already has settled on three big events during the centennial year, Hindum suggested asking businesses what events they would like to sponsor.

Lundgren said the task force needs to make up fund-raising packages that offer specific benefits to correspond with specific donation amounts.

Authorities charge Home Depot employee with theft

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Prosecutors have filed charges against an employee of a home improvement store in connection with approximately $3,000 in fraudulent refunds.

Elizabeth Rose Jones, 21, of Twin Falls, made an initial appearance in 5th District Magistrate Court Thursday to face one count of grand theft, a felony.

On Oct. 13, an officer with the Twin Falls Police Department was called to the Home Depot store at 1658 Pole Line Road E. for a report of an employee theft, according to an affidavit written by Officer Robin Parker.

The store's district loss prevention manager, and human resource director told police that Jones was making fraudulent refunds and keeping the money, an accusation she admitted to in the affidavit says.

She added that she learned how to do such a transaction while working at a Home Depot store in West Jordan, Utah.

Jones said she took probably more than $3,000 and used the money for groceries. She learned how to do such a transaction while working at a Home Depot store in West Jordan, Utah.

Her preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 22. Bond was set at $1,500.

Girl who survived eight days in wrecked car improves at hospital

SEATTLE (AP) — The father of a 17-year-old girl who survived eight days stranded in her crashed car says she is joking with her doctors and beginning to act like a teenager again.

"She has a very dry, witty sense of humor, which gives me a great deal of hope," said Todd Hatch, father of Laura Hatch, who was found on Sunday, conscious but badly hurt and severely dehydrated. "That's the girl I knew two weeks ago. She's just an extremely clever young lady."

She was still listed in serious condition Wednesday at Harborview Medical Center in Seattle, where she was being treated for dehydration, a blood clot in her brain and broken bones in her face.

The girl was last seen at a party Oct. 2 in the east Seattle suburb of Redmond, where her family lives. After repeated searches, relatives had almost given her up for dead and King County sheriff's deputies had all but written her off as a runaway.

until she was found in the back seat of her wrecked 1996 Toyota Camry, 200 feet down a ravine of a winding road in Redmond.

Although sheriff's officers, family, friends and volunteers had searched for her, she wasn't found until a family friend awoke after vivid dreams with an urgent need to look for Laura. The woman, Sha Nohr, drove with her own daughter to the area of the crash, prayed for guidance, and then spotted the car down the ravine.

Her father said Laura is now concerned about how her nut looks, complains about pain and apologized to her parents for losing her dental retainer.

"We know that means her body is healing and she's responding and making progress," he said. Her family is also starting to recover. An older brother and sister returned to college Wednesday — one to the University of Washington and the other to Western Washington University in Bellingham — after missing 10 days of classes. Her mother, Jean Hatch, is "doing much better. Four days ago I didn't know how she was going to make it," said Hatch, who added he needs to get back to his job as a financial manager at a real estate company. The couple have five children, including Laura's twin sister, Karen.

Laura's doctors have told her family she could have died for many reasons, ranging from exposure to dehydration to the blood clot in her brain.

Dr. Richard G. Ellenbogen, chief neurosurgeon at Harborview, told reporters earlier this week "she's in amazing shape for someone lost for eight days."

Her family is calling both Laura's discovery and her survival miraculous.

"We have been prayed for by people all over the Earth literally," Hatch said. "In this case, in a very tangible way, their prayers and our prayers have been answered."

Utah governor warns state could be stuck with nuclear waste under deal

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gov. Olene Walker warned Thursday that a temporary nuclear waste storage facility in Utah could start taking shipments before the state has approved a final destination for the waste.

It's a move, Walker said, that could doom the state to a life sentence of storing and bearing the safety risks of spent nuclear fuel.

Speaking before the U.S. Nuclear Waste Technical Review Board, Walker said the storage facility planned for the Skull Valley Indian Reservation could begin operating four years before federal officials have approved the troubled Yucca Mountain storage facility in Nevada — the proposed permanent repository for the nation's nuclear waste.

If the Private Fuel Storage site is finally licensed in the Skull Valley area, it could accept up to 40,000 tons of nuclear waste shipped from across the country by trains. Utah has no nuclear power plants.

"The citizens in Utah and states along the transportation corridors will be asked to trust the federal government at the same time the government is testing the reliability of that commitment," Walker said in prepared remarks.

Walker questioned whether the Yucca Mountain site waste dump would ever open, but the state of Nevada's vigorous opposition and finally be allowed to accept waste from all over the country.

Even if it does become licensed, she said it might not be able to accept the waste temporarily because of capacity troubles.

However, John Parkyn, chairman and CEO of Private Fuel Storage LLC, said Utah officials shouldn't let hang-ups at Yucca Mountain affect plans here to store the waste.

"Part of our job is to solve a national problem as a nation," he said.

The Goshute waste storage site has been equally embattled, spiderwebbing through the court system and regulatory commission meetings since 1997. Parkyn said the final federal rule was convincing because regulators said the site wasn't in danger of a jet fighter crashing into it. The Air Force flies thousands of training missions each year over the sprawling Utah Test and Training Range near the reservation.

Still, Parkyn said the site wouldn't be able to start accepting waste until 2007, instead of 2005, as Walker suggested.

Parkyn enumerated, in a slide presentation, safety precautions site officials were taking to put worried residents at ease.

He described high-tech trains, built from scratch to meticulous mechanical specifications for the single purpose of hauling the waste, that would communicate more than 20 aspects of the train's operating condition live via satellite to operators. He said the spent fuel rods would remain in specially designed and federally regulated casks the entire time — during transport, and in storage at the facility — to further reduce the risk of an accident.

Parkyn also disputed Walker's suggestion that the waste wouldn't ever leave Utah, stressing that, "We're simply a temporary or interim storage site."

County employee faces charges of destroying files after a suspension

By Chip Thompson
Times-News writer

RUPERT — A Minidoka County employee charged with destroying computer documents after being suspended from the sheriff's department claims the charges are nothing more than harassment.

Cassie Walton was notified in May after allegedly discussing an ongoing investigation at a bar, County Clerk Duane Smith said Thursday.

But Walton said that following the suspension she threatened a lawsuit against the department and received a financial settlement in June without going to court. Under the terms of the settlement she is not to discuss the case publicly, she said.

Smith said that Walton was never fired and suffered no loss of pay because she transferred to the county's planning and zoning department. He called the move a "lateral transfer" and said it's very common in the county.

A criminal complaint was filed against Walton Aug. 18 for allegedly deleting files from her computer in the sheriff's department sometime between May 11 and 12, according to court records.

"The complaint claims that Walton told a co-worker 'there's going to be a mess here, just be ready,' after she learned she'd been suspended. The files were seen by Walton's replacement on May 11 and were missing May 12, but they were restored within two days, according to court documents."

Walton admitted deleting files, according to court records, but only those bearing her signature and she said all necessary files were left on the computer.

Following the June settlement Walton said she thought the matter was resolved but pointed to the current charges as ongoing harassment by the department.

A preliminary hearing was held Oct. 11 and another could be scheduled as soon as Oct. 22 to consider amended information.

Buhl sets costume contest date

BUHL — Buhl's annual Halloween Costume Contest, sponsored by the Buhl Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 22.

Youngsters 13 years of age and under can sign up at the Grandstands Sports Grill, 1003 Main, starting at 2 p.m.

Contestants will be given a list of 40 participating merchants at which to trick or treat between the hours of 2 and 6 p.m. Costumes will be judged at each business.

Contestants will be judged in two age divisions: 5 and under, and 7- to 13-year-olds.

All entrants will receive participant ribbons.

The top four winners in each division will receive $50 savings bonds and rosette ribbons. Winners will be notified by phone or mail.

Prizes will be awarded at the Tuesday, Nov. 16 Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting at Grandstands.

MVRMC hosts health fair for Hispanics

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Regional Medical Center will host a health fair for the Hispanic community on Saturday in partnership with other community health providers.

The objective of the fair is to provide a comprehensive set of health screening activities for Hispanic adults and children.

The event will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center's downtown campus, 600 Shoshone St. E.

Offerings at the health fair will include mammograms, vision screening, foot examinations for diabetes, skin cancer screening, immunizations, blood pressure and cholesterol screening and prostate cancer screening.

Information for community resources including health insurance, substance abuse counseling and treatment, and other government programs will also be available.

The keynote speaker will be registered nurse M. Regina Martinez, who will present information on diversity in healthcare at noon at the Twin Falls City Park Bandshell for at the St. Edward's Catholic Church sanctuary in case of inclement weather.

Martinez is a division board member of the American Cancer Society National Assembly and is a nationally recognized expert in Hispanic health issues.

Both the Hispanic Health Fair and keynote address are free and open to the public.

No appointments are necessary.

For more information about the events, call Malena Rodriguez at 737-2163, Hugo Mendoza at 734-3336, or Pascualita Rodriguez at 734-3314.

Policiticians laud military construction bill

WASHINGTON — Sens. Larry Craig and Mike Crapo, Reps. Mike Simpson and C.L. "Butch" Otter, R-Idaho, praised passage of the Fiscal Year 2005 Military Construction Appropriations bill Monday.

Included in the bill was funding for projects at Gowen Field in Boise, Mountain Home Air Force Base and weather-related disaster relief for farmers and ranchers.

"I am gratified that this bill includes vitally important resources for Idaho, including a new base supply complex at Gowen Field and improved family housing at Mountain Home Air Force Base," said Otter, a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

"These funds will greatly improve operations at Gowen Field and help modernize housing for Mountain Home airmen and women. I'm also pleased this bill provides some assistance to Idaho's ag producers who have been hit hard by the ongoing drought."

The bill includes $2.84 billion in weather-related disaster assistance for farmers and ranchers.

The provision provides funds for crop, livestock and quality-related losses in counties designated by the secretary of agriculture as primary or contiguous disaster areas.

Eligible producers must choose between the years 2003 or 2004 to receive assistance.

The two years in combination would qualify all 14 Idaho counties for an estimated $40 million of the overall disaster package for those participating.

Also included in the final bill, which now goes to the president for his signature, are construction projects for the Idaho National Guard's Gowen Field and Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Utah AG wants murder conviction tossed after DNA evidence surfaces

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Attorney General's office recommended Thursday that a judge toss out a 1984 murder conviction that kept a man in prison for 19 years after DNA evidence suggested he didn't commit the crime.

The office had previously defended the conviction of Bruce Dallas Goodman, now 53, on appeal but called to vacate it after an innocence center took up the man's case and returned a DNA report it says exonerates him.

Goodman had been convicted of the brutal murder of his girlfriend, 21-year-old Sherry Ann Fales Williams. The woman was found raped, sodomized, beaten to death and left bound just off an interstate exit near Beaver Utah.

A judge in a bench trial convicted Goodman on circumstantial evidence: a rope used at the Williams up in the same kind used at Goodman's workplace, and a crude, early blood test revealed secretions from a blood type that matched Goodman's — but also about a third of the rest of the population.

Witnesses had reported seeing Goodman in Nevada arguing with Williams in a casino several hours before the murder.

However, Goodman and two defense witnesses had testified he was in California when Williams was attacked.

"No one ever placed him in the entire state of Utah at the time," said Josh Bowland, the staff attorney at the Rocky Mountain Innocence Center who handled Goodman's DNA testing request.

The center obtained two body fluid samples, a vaginal wash and cigarette butt from the crime lab's evidence repository and had a Texas company test the samples against a swab from Goodman's mouth.

The results showed two separate men, neither of them Goodman, and neither of them identifiable.

Assistant Attorney General Erin Riley said the DNA report doesn't prove Goodman is innocent, but that it might shed reasonable doubt on the conviction.

"This is not a case where we think any error occurred," she said. "The prosecution was appropriate, the investigation was appropriate. The evidence they had all pointed to Goodman."

"It's not a case where, 'Oh the state was wrong, and Goodman's version is correct,'" she said.

"His story isn't correct either. But if he didn't commit the crime, we don't know who did."

Riley said the case is murky because the medical examiner determined Williams could've had sex up to 36 hours before she was killed — so the person she had intercourse with was not necessarily the same person who killed her.

Prosecutors had alleged that Goodman killed Williams because she was leaving him to return to her estranged husband and say hi.

If Goodman is exonerated, it would be the innocence center's first success using DNA evidence to overturn a conviction.

Bowland planned file a petition Friday in Beaver County for a judge to vacate the conviction.

With the Attorney General's office on board, it doesn't appear that petition will be challenged, but prosecutors could still decide to retry Goodman — on the charges, Bowland said.

Riley said she didn't think prosecutors would try the case again because it's so old.

The Beaver County Attorney's Office did not immediately return a phone call from The Associated Press seeking comment Thursday.

Goodman got the innocence center's attention last year with a letter proclaiming his innocence — the kind of letter about 40 to 60 convicts send them a month, Bowland said.

Goodman had zealously maintained his innocence at parole hearings, but accepted responsibility for the crime at a parole hearing in 2000, despite saying he didn't remember it.

Bowland said Goodman felt pressured to show remorse for a crime he didn't commit because his client thought that would curry favor with a group of people who could turn a key on his jail cell and finally free him.

Bowland recalled in an interview how happy he was to tell Goodman the news in a jail visit after the DNA tests came back.

"I walked in there, and I was overwhelmed with happiness and joy. I was getting ready to sit down and say hi."

"But the moment the door was opened, he smiled and said, 'See, I told you so.' Before I could say anything, he knew."

Police contacted Beeson, who let them search his room. He presented to them items missing from the speedway, including 12 T-shirts, two boxes of aspirin, 13 American flags, 12 checkered flags, eight racing flags, 20 boxes of Hot Tamales candy, frozen beef patties, a bull horn and dozens of other items.

The value of the stolen items and the damage to buildings is estimated at $3,800.

Beeson's preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 22. Bond was set at $5,000.

Thomas said the Chamber of Commerce should make up a master list of the various businesses and assign responsibility for contacting them to specific people.

This would prevent businesses from being hit up several times by several different people, Thomas said.

"We don't want to wear them out," she said.

Linda Helms said private citizens also need a way to donate to the centennial celebration.

The next Jerome Centennial Task Force meeting will be at 10 a.m. Nov. 4 at the El Sombrero restaurant.

Water

additional $41.

Castleford's problem isn't asserted by itself but that issue has brought the city into the 21st century, said Don Acheson, an engineer with Twin Falls-based Reidel & Associates who presented the proposals.

"It has made us realize that changes have to be made," Ruffing said. "We have to come into compliance with more than just arsenic if we want to survive and grow as a city."

Familications of doing nothing could result in sanctions that would prohibit any real estate transactions.

"If we want to have growth in our community, we're going to have to provide suitable water and fire protection," said Gary Bitt, who owns two businesses and several homes in Castleford.

"I would like to see us drag our feet for a little bit to make sure we are doing the right thing," he told the City Council.

"But I think we are going to need to pick one of these plans and we need to pick a plan that will allow for growth."

One proposal called for point-of-use arsenic-removal devices to be installed in each home and business in Castleford. Another proposal called for the construction of a so-called Lake Castleford — a football field-sized pond at least four feet deep — supplied by irrigation water for fire suppression at the school. Because Castleford School is not equipped with sprinklers, the city must have the capacity to pump 4,500 gallons per minute for four hours.

Castleford should know sometime this spring whether it will get a $450,000 allocation for whether infrastructure upgrades. The allocation is part of legislation that was introduced by U.S. Rep. Mike Simpson, R-Idaho.

Meanwhile, Sen. Larry Craig has introduced legislation to extend the time for compliance and Simpson and Rep. C.L. "Butch" Otter have co-sponsored a bill to exempt communities with populations under 10,000 from the new arsenic rule entirely.

An exemption for Castleford would eliminate the need to construct the arsenic-removal component of the water system upgrades.

Next hurdle

No matter what proposal is chosen, the City Council most likely will have to put a bond issue to vote to raise matching funds.

"When we get to the bond election, we may find out if the people who weren't at the meeting are totally opposed to this," Ruffing said.

"Maybe we just had the people who really want to survive at the hearing."

Even if the bond passes, the city will still need lots of grant dollars or it'll be back to a question of whether Castleford should vacate its articles of incorporation.

The city is still paying $130,400 in debt on a water system that was built in 1975 and a sewer system constructed in 1980.

Castleford, with a population of 277, has a 32.9 percent poverty level — second in the Magic Valley only to Minidoka at 40 percent. The average per capita income is $9,046 — about half the $18,000 state average and about one-third of the $27,000 national average, said Carleen Herring of Region IV Development.

Recent violence shakes Idaho city

CALDWELL (AP) — It was just another Monday for Maria Salenes until there was a thump on the door of her modest home across from the park on the city's northwest side.

"I opened my door and the man fell into my house," Salenes said Thursday as she recalled the experience. "He was breathing real hard. He tried to tell me something, but it was his throat. He couldn't talk at all. It was scary."

The midday drive-by murder Monday of Sigmund Goode only punctuated the rising tension in the heavily Hispanic neighborhood where gang violence is escalating.

"This is the worst I've seen in Toledo," said Juan Toledo, who has lived just a block away for over 30 years. "I didn't hear that gunshot, but I've heard shots on the corner."

The shooting of the 21-year-old Goode was the fourth in a week in the area of working class homes and tree-lined streets where many people still patrol in the morning. Two other men were wounded in the recent rash of shootings, and no one was injured in the other.

But there has also been a string of burglaries recently that has served to intensify the fear. It prompted Police Chief Bob Sobba to call this fall one of the city's worst for violence, and the department, aided by cash from a $121,000 safe neighborhoods grant, has beefed up patrols in broken areas of 31,000 about 25 miles west of Boise in the heart of agriculturally rich Canyon County.

This home in Caldwell was the scene of a drive-by shooting last Monday in which 21-year old Sigmund Goode was killed. The incident is one of several shootings that have worried city residents.

The area has a long history of Hispanic farmworkers migrating annually to work summer cropland, but has since seen many of the families settle there. Gang activity, involving both young Hispanics and whites, has grown with the population.

"The police are doing an awesome job," said Lettencourt, who runs the Azteca Market about six blocks from this week's fatal shooting.

"But you can have as many top cars on the street as you like, and if the cops aren't there at the moment, they can't stop it," said Lettencourt, who has been in the neighborhood for 12 years.

Police Lt. Frank Wyant said the department's efforts have been hindered because many of the witnesses and victims have declined to cooperate.

"We know who the active gang members are and the repeat offenders," Wyant told the Idaho Press-Tribune. "But the problem is catching them in the act."

It has gotten bad enough that Toledo said his wife has begun locking the doors to their house — something they had never done until now.

"You think something's going to happen," he said. "We're afraid. People are afraid." Lettencourt said the violence seems to come in three- to five-year cycles and that this one will subside just as the others have in the past.

President seeks ideas about UI finances

MOSCOW (AP) — University of Idaho architecture professor Nick Reese wants to know why he has not had a raise in three years, while Vandal football coaches make far more than his salary.

University President Tim White is asking for comments from professors, students and the rest of the public as he tries to solve the Moscow school's financial problems.

Tuesday marked the first day for White to receive and review public feedback. Comments must be received by Nov. 15.

"Why does a football coach make three times the amount of a good professor?" Reese asked. "I mean, I can live with the salary I've got — I understand the university's situation and can live with it. But where are the priorities of this university?"

The University Vision and Resources Task Force, formed by White to address the financial woes, recommended a formula to determine the importance of a program to the university's overall mission.

State holdbacks and the botched satellite campus project in Boise have placed the university $36 million in debt over the next few years. It is likely each department will receive a budget cut.

The athletics department still is susceptible to budget reductions, but White recently expressed his commitment to remain in Division I-A and compete in the Western Athletic Conference.

Cemetery policy riles residents

POST FALLS (AP) — Nearly every week, Holly Abey goes to Evergreen Cemetery to check on the gravesites of her brother and niece.

So she was surprised to find that monuments placed on the graves were missing, taken by the cemetery's caretakers.

One was a ceramic angel, baby bracelet and necklace and American flag. Abey tracked down the angel in a city trailer, but it was broken. The bracelet and necklace did not survive, and the flag was indistinguishable from several others.

"There were several flags, but we couldn't tell which one was mine," she said. "They offered to give me one of them, but that wouldn't work too well. The flag was from my father."

Abey is not angry with the city for cleaning up the grounds before winter and removing rotted or broken items. She also understands workers have to remove certain items in the way of mowers and grass trimmers.

But Abey is bothered about not being notified that the items were being removed, especially since she felt they were not an eyesore.

"If I would've known, I could've gone to get them and send them back to my niece and nephew who put them on the grave," she said. "We pay for those lots."

Google offers way to search hard drive

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Google Inc. on Thursday became the first tech heavyweight to tackle the daunting task of uncluttering computers, introducing a program that quickly scans hard drives for documents, e-mails, instant messages and past Web searches.

With the free desktop program, Google hopes to build upon the popularity of its Internet-leading search engine and become even more indispensable to the millions of people who entrust the Mountain View-based company to find virtually anything online.

The new product, available at <http://desktop.google.com>, tips the ante in Google's intensifying battle with software giant Microsoft Corp. and Yahoo Inc., which owns the world's second most popular search engine.

Google's desktop program heralds a momentous step into a crucial realm — the challenge of managing the infoglut that has accumulated during the past decade as society becomes more tethered to increasingly powerful computers.

"We think of this program as the photographic memory of your computer," said Marissa Mayer, Google's director of consumer Web products. "It's pretty comprehensive. If there's anything you once saw on your computer screen, we think you should be able to find it again quickly."

Although its desktop program can be used exclusively offline to probe hard drives, Google designed it to run in a browser so it will meld with its online search engine. Google.com visitors who have the new program installed on their computer will see a "desktop" tab above the search engine toolbar and all their search results will include a section devoted to the hard drive in addition to the Web.

"The desktop search program could be the bridge to a day when Google begins offering consumers the option of storing some files directly on the company's own computer servers," said Danny Sullivan, editor of Search Engine Watch. "It would be the next logical step if this is a success," he said.

As it is, the desktop search program provides Google with a powerful magnet to lure traffic from its chief rivals online search rivals, Microsoft's MSN and Yahoo Inc., both of which have been improving their technology.

"Other major search engines will undoubtedly launch similar offerings in the next few months but they will have to match Google's offering to keep their customers happy or best it to gain new converts," Forrester Research analyst Charlene Li wrote in a report Thursday.

A smattering of lesser-known companies, such as X1 Technologies of Pasadena, already offer desktop search programs. Google is the first company among high-tech household names to try to make it easier for people silt through the information mishmash on computer hard drives. It dispenses with the confinement of Microsoft's current model of files and folders.

Amphibian numbers dwindle worldwide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bye of newt and toe of frog may one day be gone from witches grog. Indeed, not just frogs and newts but amphibians in general are rapidly becoming threatened worldwide, a new study shows.

And while few would miss the evil-broth concocted by the witches in Shakespeare's Macbeth, the rapid decline of animals like toads and salamanders is raising concerns as it worsens, a team of researchers reported Thursday.

"What we're seeing here is completely unprecedented declines and extinctions," said Simon N. Stuart of the World Conservation Union, lead researcher on the study.

These declines are "outside our normal experience," Stuart said in a telephone interview. There are a variety of reasons for some losses, while others remain a mystery, the group reports in a paper being published online by the journal Science.

Amphibians have porous skins and narrow environmental requirements, and their decline may be an indication that something sinister is under way in the environment, Simon said.

"Where amphibians proceed, others may follow, possibly us also," he said.

The researchers reported that 1,356 species, 32.5 percent of the known species of amphibians, are "globally threatened," meaning they fall into the International Union for the Conservation of Nature's categories of vulnerable, endangered or critically endangered.

By comparison, 12 percent of bird species and 23 percent of mammal species are threatened.

Amphibian species are in rapid decline, at least nine species have gone extinct since 1880 and another 113 species have not been reported from the wild in recent years and are considered to be possibly extinct.

Their findings, called the Global Amphibian Assessment, were compiled by more than 500 scientists in 60 countries.

Keeping bones strong

The amount of calcium and vitamin D the body needs changes throughout a lifetime.

A cup of milk has about 300 mg of calcium and 50 IU of vitamin D

SOURCE: Surgeon general's report on bone health

Dangerous bone loss threatens health of more older Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Half of Americans older than 50 will be at risk of fractures from too-thin bones by 2020, the surgeon general warned Thursday, urging people to get more calcium, vitamin D and exercise to avoid crippling osteoporosis.

The bone-thinning disease is on the rise as the population grows — but weak bones aren't a natural consequence of aging, Surgeon General Richard Carmona stressed.

Strong bones begin in childhood, and years of eating right and physical activity can leave even 80-somethings with sturdy bones. Unfortunately, Carmona said, too few Americans follow that prescription, setting the stage for worrisome increases in broken hips and other fractures as more people pass their 50th birthday.

"Osteoporosis isn't just your grandmother's disease," Carmona said in releasing the first surgeon general's report on bone health. "We all need to take better care of our bones."

Osteoporosis affects an estimated 10 million Americans, and each year, about 1.5 million suffer a fracture as a result. Another 34 million Americans have less severe bone-thinning enough to still risk a fracture.

By 2020, about 14 million people over age 50 are expected to have osteoporosis and another 47 million will have low bone mass, the report predicts.

Women are at highest risk, especially white women, and particularly after menopause when estrogen — which also helps keep bones strong — plummets, that osteoporosis affects men, too, and people of all races.

It's under-diagnosed — because many people don't know their bones are thinning until one breaks.

But often doctors are just as guilty in overlooking the risk — even forgetting to check bone density when middle-aged or older patients suffer fractures. Consider hip fractures. About 20 percent of seniors who suffer one die within a year, partly because the break often triggers a downward spiral of inactivity, depression and other problems. Yet the report cited one study that found fewer than a quarter of hip-fracture patients were given calcium and vitamin D supplements to help build up their bones — or a bone-density test to check the severity of their bone-thinning.

Bone health is a balancing act: Cells called osteoclasts dissolve old, worn-out bone while other cells called osteoblasts form new bone. Peak bone formation occurs before age 30, and then the bone-building cells can gradually slow down over the ensuing decades.

While the risk rises with age, other factors can thin bones sooner.

"I always thought I was too young," said Abby Perelman of Connecticut, who was diagnosed with osteoporosis at age 47. Her mother has it, too, and had urged Perelman — who didn't eat much calcium or exercise — to insist on a bone-density test that her doctor hadn't thought necessary.

Harvard student gets prison time

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A Harvard graduate student was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to six to eight years in prison Thursday for stabbing a young man to death in a fight that heightened the generations-old tension between the Ivy League and working-class Cambridge.

Prosecutors had charged 26-year-old Alexander Pring-Wilson with murder in the slaying last year of Michael Colono, arguing that Pring-Wilson attacked the 18-year-old Colono for ridiculing him as he stumbled home drunk.

"Michael Colono made fun of the defendant and it cost him his life," prosecutor Adrien Lynch said.

Pring-Wilson said he pulled a four-inch folding knife and stabbed Colono in self-defense after his cousin brutally beat him.

The jury deliberated over five days before finding Pring-Wilson guilty of the lesser charge. Judge Regina Quinlan could have given him 20 years, behind bars.

The case represented a collision of two worlds.

Pring-Wilson, the son of Colorado lawyers, was studying for his master's degree in Russian and Eurasian studies and planned to attend law school. Colono, a high school dropout, had earned his equivalency diploma and was working as a cook at a Boston hotel. He died the day before his daughter's third birthday.

Defense attorney Ann Kaufman, in tears as she asked the judge to sentence Pring-Wilson to probation, said he had been unfairly portrayed as a product of an elite upbringing.

Shooting suspect enters Florida school

OPALOCKA, Fla. (AP) — A shooting suspect trying to escape police ran into a Catholic school Thursday, forcing police to evacuate about 150 children. No children were hurt, and the suspect and a companion were arrested, police spokesman Frank Gonzalez said.

Police were chasing the suspects' rental truck for blocks before it crashed into a house, police said. The companion was caught, but the other man ran, shooting at officers before running into Our Lady of Perpetual Help school in the Miami suburb of Opalocka, police said. He was soon arrested.

Miami television station WTOG showed footage of small children running from the school. A woman rushed out carrying two children, followed by another woman with two more youngsters. A group of older children were later seen running from the school to another building.

Fris Santos, a secretary at the church, had learned from police that a person with a gun was in the preschool.

"They say to lock the door and stay inside," she said before the last suspect was captured.

The children returned to the school after the arrests.

Officials start counting votes

KABUL, Afghanistan — Vote counting in Afghanistan's presidential election got under way Thursday, five days after a landmark vote meant to cement a new era of stability after more than two decades of strife.

The head of the Afghan-U.N. electoral commission cut the seal on the first box to be opened in the capital, Kabul, to kick off the tallying process there.

Counting began earlier Thursday in the northeastern city of Kunduz.

Officials had stalled the count while a panel of foreign experts sifted through several dozen complaints of alleged irregularities from the 16 candidates, including front-running incumbent Hamid Karzai.

None of their complaints appear serious enough to invalidate final results expected at the end of October.

Cargo plane crashes after takeoff in Canada

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia — A Boeing 737 cargo jet bound for Spain with a crew of seven, crashed in a fireball after its tail section apparently broke off during takeoff at Halifax International Airport early Thursday. All aboard were feared dead.

The MK Airlines jet loaded with lawn tractors and 58 tons of lobster and fish crashed shortly before 4 a.m. local time into a largely wooded area near an industrial park north of Halifax, said Steve Anderson, a spokesman for the carrier in Sussex, England.

The flight had originated from Bradley International Airport near Hartford, Conn., and stopped in Halifax for refueling en route to Zaragoza, Spain.

"Right now, we can confirm that there are believed to be no survivors as a result of the downed airplane," said Constable Joe Taplin of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Twin Falls Shelter 736-2299    Burley Shelter 878-2258    Buhl Shelter 543-4326

The new shelter is nearing completion. However its success is dependent on the community as a whole. Please help either as a volunteer, adoptee, or as an advocate to encourage all citizens to spy and neuter all their pets.

Cooler weather is fast approaching. Preferably your pets get to stay indoors and remember your pets need adequate food, water, and shelter if they stay outdoors.

Proper identification ensures that your pet will find a safe return home if it becomes lost. A license, rabies tag, name tag and phone number, or microchip are forms of proper identification. Report lost or found pets to the nearest animal shelter, place flyers up in your neighborhood, and place a lost or found ad in your local newspaper to help increase the chance of animals finding their way home.

Scientists say malaria vaccine shows promise

LONDON (AP) — Scientists have made important progress in the quest for a malaria vaccine showing for the first time that childhood shots can prevent nearly one-third of cases and slash the risk of severe, life-threatening attacks by almost two-thirds.

Experts say the findings, outlined this week in The Lancet medical journal, provide robust evidence that the dream of developing a vaccine that will get babies through the most vulnerable period of infancy could become a reality by the end of the decade.

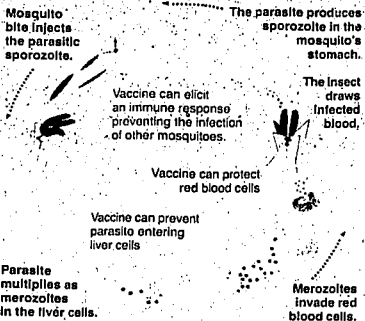

Researchers have been working on a malaria vaccine for more than 20 years, but until now none of the candidates showed promise. If this research bears fruit, it would be the first human vaccine against a parasite.

Specialists agree that, at least for the foreseeable future, there is no prospect of a vaccine that would wipe out malaria like the smallpox vaccine did for smallpox, or even provide lifelong immunity.

However, a vaccine that would turn the disease into a mostly mild infection would make a huge dent in the effort to control malaria, which kills a child every 30 seconds and poses a threat to half of all people on the planet. About 500 million episodes of malaria occur every year, mostly in the developing world. It is the leading killer of children under 5 in sub-Saharan Africa.

"We think a vaccine is important because as quick as you can make new drugs, there's resistance and (delivery of) bed nets has not been as simple as one would have hoped," said Melinda Morse, director of the

The vaccination of more than 2,000 children in Mozambique shows for the first time the feasibility of a vaccine against malaria, according to a new study. The parasite disease is the leading killer of children under 5 in sub-Saharan Africa.

SOURCES: The Lancet; London University Medical Center

Malaria Vaccine Initiative, which backed the latest study. "We've been trying to apply our existing technologies and the number of malaria deaths is rising. We need some new tools."

The vaccine, which GlaxoSmithKline Bio has been developing for 20 years, was tested in 2,022 children aged 1 to 4 in Mozambique, where the mosquito-borne disease is endemic.

After the children were treated with malaria drugs to get rid of any traces of the parasite, half got three shots of the malaria vaccine in three consecutive months, while the other half got other childhood vaccines.

The children were followed up for about six months and blood was taken every few weeks to check for malaria. Any new cases were immediately treated.

The researchers, led by Dr. Pedro Alonso at the University of Barcelona, found infection in 30 percent fewer children in the vaccine group than in the comparison group. The vaccine also reduced the risk of getting sick by 30 percent, the risk of getting repeated attacks by 30 percent, and cut by 58 percent the chance of developing severe malaria.

Crew blasts off for space station

BAIKONUR, Kazakhstan (AP) — A new Russian-U.S. crew headed to the international space station Thursday surging into orbit aboard a Soyuz spacecraft none of the three astronauts has piloted before.

The Soyuz have been the only manned vehicles able to reach the orbiting research lab since the U.S. space shuttle fleet was grounded 20 months ago after the Columbia burned up on re-entry.

Russians Salizhan Sharipov and Yuri Shargin and American Leroy Chiao were flying their first mission in a Soyuz spacecraft — a rare rupture with a tradition of having at least one crewman with previous experience in piloting the capsule.

Company of Fools presents 'Frankie and Johnny'

By Karen Boselick
The Wood River Journal

HAILEY — You never choose love. Love chooses you. That's the premise behind a bitter-sweet romantic comedy opening up at the Liberty Theater on Wednesday. Company of Fools will stage Terrence McNally's blue-collar comedy "Frankie and Johnny" at the Clair de Lune. And, yes, Frankie and Johnny are lovers.

But if you think the play has anything to do with the rest of that song where "he done her wrong," you can just quit whistling it and start humming Debussy's "Clair de Lune" instead.

The play is really a modern adult fairy tale about a short-order cook just released from prison who keeps a copy of Shakespeare in his locker and is smitten by an unhappy waitress he believes to be a kindred spirit.

She, in turn, has been scarred by an abusive relationship and is afraid to open herself up to risk despite Johnny's insistence that there are too many coincidences for them not to be meant for one another.

The story develops over a single night in New York City. "It's really lovely to do an out-and-out romance," said Director Denise Simone. "It's so charming the way this play portrays two people who have been battered by life finding soul-healing love in one another."

The play stresses we all get one chance to connect — we don't get two or three and that we could all die tomorrow so we need to make the most of what we have today.

"It takes place in New York City before 9/11 but we know how relevant that idea is now," Simone said.

McNally wrote the play with actress Kathy Bates in mind, and Bates was Frankie in the original production at New York's Manhattan Theater Club in 1987. The play was made into a Garry Marshall movie starring Al Pacino and Michelle Pfeiffer in 1991, and eventually reached Broadway in 2002, with Edie Falco as Frankie and Stanley Tucci as Johnny.

The Fools' version stars a married couple — Richard Rush and Jennifer Jacoby Rush — who met in an acting class at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City 18 years ago. The couple moved to the Wood River Valley — where Jennifer grew up — two years ago.

Both built a very contemporary New York loft in Hailey where Jennifer operates a small hair salon. Richard, an abstract artist who hails from Chicago, also frames pictures for the Gall Severn Gallery.

Both were involved in the Fools' last production, "Sam Shepard's 'Buried Child,'" with Richard portraying a former All-American football player harvesting giant vegetables no one else can see and Jennifer playing the mother of a dysfunctional family torn apart by a secret.

Both were also involved in "The Laramie Project" and Richard performed in "Dog Logic," "A Christmas Carol," "Waiting for Godot" and "The Tempest."

Their own close relationship has been a blessing in that they can practice their lines practically 24/7. When they talk intimately on stage, they do so with a certain trust that non-married couples might not have.

On the other hand, it's been a challenge to de-intimize since Frankie and Johnny don't know each other as Jennifer Jacoby Rush is Frankie and Richard Rush is Johnny in the Company of Fools' production of Terrence McNally's "Frankie and Johnny at the Clair de Lune," which opens Wednesday in Hailey.

Michelle Pfeiffer was Frankie and Al Pacino played Johnny in director Garry Marshall's 1991 movie version of "Frankie and Johnny."

If you go ...

- What: Company of Fools will present Terrence McNally's romantic comedy "Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune."
- Where: Liberty Theater, Hailey.
- When: Wednesday through Nov. 7. The play will run Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m.
- How much: Tickets are $24 for reserved seating — $18 for seniors 62 and over. For tickets, call 578-9122 or go on line at www.ticketweb.com. Ten front-row seats will be available each night on a first-come first-serve basis. And the opening night on Wednesday is a "Pay What You Can" preview with tickets going on sale at the theater one hour before the performance.

the audience to chat with the actors and director over dessert and coffee — will follow the three Sunday performances.

This story originally appeared in The Wood River Journal, a Hailey newspaper affiliated with The Times-News. The Journal is distributed each Wednesday in the Wood River Valley.

'Forbidden Hollywood' opens Arts on Tour Season tonight

The Times-News
In 1981, a journeyman stock and repertory company actor in New York City hit upon an idea for a send-up of Broadway, its overstuffed clichés and its monumental egos. Boston-born Gerard Alessandrini had a talent for song parody, and he turned it sideways with a vengeance. With a few friends he created "Forbidden Broadway," a side-splitting song-and-dance revue that skewered the Great White Way to enormous acclaim. A dozen years later, he turned his attention to Tinseltown. "Forbidden Hollywood," the sequel, comes to the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center auditorium tonight, the opening event of the Magic Valley Arts on Tour season. The "Forbidden Hollywood" cast revels in its wicked destruction of blockbusters such as "Braveheart" and "The Bridges of Madison County." Disney endures a riotous ribbing of "Aladdin" and its theme-park megalomania. Alessandrini keeps the show topical by constantly updating the material. No movie, brand new or venerable, is safe from his nasty pen. Actors who are satirized include Keanu Reeves, Cameron Diaz, Jim Carrey, Demi Moore, Katharine Hepburn, Jimmy Stewart, Marlene Dietrich, Doris Day, Judy Garland, Marlon Brando, Barbra Streisand, Audrey Hepburn and

Richard Gere stars in 'Shall We Dance?'

New to the valley

'Shall We Dance?'
An unfulfilled man (Richard Gere) is drawn to take dance lessons by the sight of a beautiful woman in a window (Jennifer Lopez). With Susan Sarandon, Stanley Tucci, Bobby Cannavale, Anita Gillette, Lisa Ann Walter, Omar Miller, Richard Jenkins and Nick Cannon. Written by Audrey Wells, based on the Japanese film "Shall We Dance?" Directed by Peter Chelsom. PG-13.

Team America: World Police

"South Park's" Trey Parker and Matt Stone lead a cast of marionettes in this story of international crime fighters who try to prevent a ruthless dictator from selling WMDs to terrorists. R.

Continuing

'Alien vs. Predator'

It's like a cinematic Wesleysmania. Two film heavies, the Slimy Aliens and the dreadlocked Predators, face off in Antarctica. The human characters—and your interest—get lost in the crossfire. PG-13 (violence, gore, profanity, horror)

'Anacondas'

A lower-budget, no-star (save Morris Chestnut) sequel to the 1997 giant snake scare pic, this one takes place in the jungles of Borneo, where an expedition in search of a rare flower meets up with many large and fabled reptiles. PG-13 (violence, profanity, giant snakes)

'The Bourne Supremacy'

The thrill-ride sequel picks up its amnesiac hero (Matt Damon) two years later, when he eludes the crossfire of double-crossing CIA and KGB agents and remains one car chase ahead of formidable intelligence op Pamela Landry (Joan Allen). PG-13 (intense violence)

'Cellular'

An action thriller with much energy but way too much implausibility, which undermines its valid premise of a kidnapped woman (Kim Basinger) managing to connect with a cell phone of slick dude of about 20 (Chris Evans) who wifely measures when he finally realizes her life is at stake with William H. Macy, Jason Statham, Noah Emmerich. (1:29. PG-13 for violence, terror situations and sexual references)

'A Day Without a Mexican'

Director Sergio Aron's fares about whether California would survive the overnight disappearance of every single Latino in the Golden State, except for reporter Lila Rodriguez. With Yareli Arizmendi. R.

'The Forgotten'

Julianne Moore plays a mother who loses her 8-year-old son in a plane crash, only to be told later that she imagined the whole thing. But that turns out to be just the lead-in to the actual premise, which posits that forces more powerful than simple mind-tricks were involved in the boy's disappearance. Directed by Joseph Ruben from a script by Gerald Di Pego, this thriller's plot is as porous as a luffa. But such unabashed ludicrousness can be fun, in a brainless sort of way, especially when it's coupled with lots of sudden defibrillator jolts underscored by crashing cymbals. (1:31. PG-13 for intense thematic material, some violence and brief language.)

'Friday Night Lights'

The film adaptation of H.G. Bissinger's nonfiction book takes us through a season of the Odessa Permian High School Panthers, a.k.a. "the winningest high school football team in Texas history." And it introduces us to pluckin'-obsessed West Texas, where upward of 20,000 spectators show up for Friday night classics. Director Peter Berg and co-writer David Aaron Cohen emphasize genuine local color as well as the terrible pressures both players and coaches have to deal with, but when it comes to crucial details about both the games and the people who play them, no one has hesitated to throw authenticity to the wind. It's real enough around the edges to hold our attention even if it sacrifices accuracy for storytelling ease. Billy Bob Thornton, Derek Luke, Jay Hernandez and Lucas Black star. (1:57. PG-13 for thematic issues, sexual content, lan-

Dilettantes' Hall of Fame honors three

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The Dilettantes of the Magic Valley inducted three more members into its Hall of Fame last week-end.

The newest honorees are Diane Stauffer of Jerome and Sharon Warner and Lorayne Smith of Twin Falls. Stauffer, the Jerome High School librarian, has performed with the Dilettantes since 1978, when she was in the cast of "South Pacific."

Stauffer, a past president of the Dilettantes, has also been involved in make-up, costumes, props and set-building. Warner, the musical director for nine different Dilettantes productions, including the past seven, has been involved with the troupe since 1979. She's been on the Dilettantes board since 1990.

Smith has played with Dilettantes show orchestras since 1963 and has long been involved in the group's publicity. Previous inductees in the Hall of Fame were Rex Reed, Hank Willis, Ernest Moss, Tom and Judy Orscol, Jim Ludham, Fred Schelbe, Bob and Arlene Kyles, Bob Bybee, Mary Walker, Helen Lee, Ila LaGrone, Del and Julie-ene Slaughter, Art Frantz, Jim LaGrone, Roger Vincent and Mary Mead.

CSI holds jazz workshop

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will hold its first jazz workshop of the fall semester starting at 7 p.m. Monday in the Student Union Building.

Basist Aaron Miller and drummer Scott Reusser, both of Boise, will join jazz program director and saxophonist Brent Jensen for a concert in the fire-side lounge, located on the first floor of the Student Union. Miller and Reusser will work with CSI Chamber Jazz students that afternoon and will conclude their visit with the evening performance.

Miller is a CSI graduate who toured last spring and summer with the Glenn Miller Orchestra and is currently working on his undergraduate music degree at Boise State University. Reusser is a professional drummer who teaches and performs in Boise.

CSI bands perform Sunday

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in the CSI Fine Arts Auditorium. "Marches, Mozart and More!" will include a performance of "Magic Valley" by Scott Watson.

The band will open with "Russian Sailors' Dance," by Soviet composer Reinhold Gliere, followed by one of Mozart's lesser-known works, "The Gentle King" and Charles Carter's "Capitol Hill March." In memory of the 40th anniversary of the passing of the American songwriter Cole Porter on Oct. 15, 1964, the band will offer a performance of "A Cole Porter Spectacular," a medley of his favorite songs, arranged by jazz composer Sammy Nestico. The band also will perform "Carroll Capers," by Stephen Bull. This work is dedicated to Carl Salling, the composer of the music to many Warner Brothers cartoons. The band will conclude the first half of the program with Caesar Giovannini's "Overture in B-flat."

Masanka and "Red Arrows March" by Eric Banks and Cecil Bolton. Wing Commander Banks directs the Central Band of the Royal Air Force, and has collaborated with fellow British composer Bolton on numerous works, particularly for British brass bands.

The concert will close with a performance of "Magic Valley" by Pennsylvania composer Scott Watson. This work was jointly commissioned by the Bullhorn Arts Council, Magic Valley Arts Council, Twin Falls Municipal Band and the CSI Wind Ensemble, with funding provided through a grant from Continental Harmony, a program of the American Composers Forum. It received its premiere on July 4 of this year in a performance by the Twin Falls Municipal Band, with the composer directing. "Magic Valley" paints a musical portrait of the area, and will provide an exciting conclusion to this performance of the CSI Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band.

CSI faculty member George K. Halsell will direct the concert. Admission is a suggested $5 donation per person to the CSI Music Activities and Scholarship Fund. For more information, call 732-6767.

ENGAGEMENT

MOYES-COUSSENS

BULLHORN — Patricia Simpson and Earl Simpson, both of Burley, announce the engagement of their daughter, Hayley Ann Moyes, to Andrew Edward Coussens, son of Mrs. John Coussens of Chicago, Ill.

The wedding is planned for 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 16, at Sunrise River Ranch, 400 S. 150 E., Rupert.

A reception to honor the couple will be held immediately claimed recordings. Classically trained in Germany, he fell in love with the boogie-woogie piano at age 13.

By the time Kaeshammer and his family moved to Canada four years later, he was a veteran of the German club, concert and cocktail circuit.

He has released four CDs, including "No Strings Attached" in 2000, with New Orleans jazz legends Eddie Bo, Art Neville and Johnny Vidocovich.

Hayley Moyes and Andrew Coussens following the ceremony at the same location. The couple will reside in Boise.

Breakin' All the Rules

Perhaps if this farce about making and breaking love connections had actually violated a few rules itself — instead of imitating conventional romantic comedies — it might have been funnier.

It's pretty standard fare. Contains obscenity and sexual and bathroom humor.

The Day After Tomorrow

If you can manage to just lean back and let the spectacular silliness of this disaster flick about sudden, catastrophic climate change — Hall in Tokyo! Tornados in Los Angeles! Wash over you, you might have a pretty good time.

It, however, you're one of those who want films to make sense, include character development and be well written, I'm afraid you're out luck. Contains death, destruction of personal property and one mild obscenity.

Raising Helen

When Manhattan go-getter Helen (Kate Hudson) inherits three children from her late sister and brother-in-law, she thinks her life is over.

Contains some bad language and thematic material related to the death of parents and teenage sexuality.

Movies

strang, but between the often-prosaic dialogue, its episodic plot and a symphony score that works so hard to express each moment's every emotional nuance that you might as well give your synapses the night off, it's more likely you'll wind up suffering from, commensurate fatigue than be drawn into the story. Written by Lewis Colick. Directed by Jay Russell. (1:55, PG-13 for intense fire and rescue situations, and for language.)

"Napoleon Dynamite"

The feature-directing debut of Idaho native Jared Hess is a cartoonish paean to its her-nerd anthro hero. It's a simple collection of eight gags and pratfalls that mines the overly familiar turf of awkward adolescence without bringing anything truly original to the experience. Napoleon, played with admirable commitment by newcomer Jon Heder, is a high school student enduring the vicissitudes of growing up in a small town, where he lives with his grandmother and older brother. The movie feels self-satisfied in its attempt to create a portrait of a lovable loser — infusing him with quirky qualities meant to be endearing — but in reality, plays like a revisionist goof, lumping together broad archetypes for cheap laughs while pretending to be the ultimate underdog movie. With Jon Grus, Efrén Ramirez and Tina Majorino. (1:29, PG for thematic elements and language.)

"The Princess Diaries 2: Royal Engagement"

The pleasant sequel to the 2001 hit stars gallant Julie Andrews as Charles, queen of Genovia, and fetching Anne Hathaway as her granddaughter Mia. Whenever Andrews — that incarnation of the sensible and the sensitive — glides on screen, "TIDZ" sparkles. G

"Raise Your Voice"

Hilary Duff plays a Flagstaff, Ariz., teenager who craves to develop her singing voice at an L.A. music conservatory program described as "the best" in the country. The atmosphere is competitive as it is, but the filmmakers needlessly lay guilt and deception upon the poor girl as well, then ask Duff to be determinedly upbeat and resolutely nice in the face of such a challenge. It's too much to ask, but Duff is game if not entirely real. David Keith is her authoritarian and creepily possessive father. With Oliver James, Rita Wilson, Jason Ritter and Rebecca De Mornay. (1:43, PG for thematic elements and language.)

"Resident Evil: Apocalypse"

A survivalist horror flick based on the Game Cube diversion and featuring Milla Jovovich and Sienna Guillory as butt-kicking babes battling a Movie Virus infecting Taccoon City. (monosp violence, gore, nudity)

"The Return"

Russian director Andrei Zvyagintsev's thriller about the harrowing reunion of two boys (Ivan Dobronravov and Vladimir Garin) and their mysterious, long-lost father (Konstantin Lavronenko). Not rated.

"Saints and Soldiers"

A small band of Allied troops trapped behind German lines maneuver to deliver crucial intelligence to the front. Cobain Alfred, Alexander Niver, Peter Holden, Kirby Heyborne and Lawrence Bugby star. Directed by Ryan Little.

"Shark Tale"

This underwater fish tale does not have as much inglorious freshness as audiences have come to expect in computer animation. Not that the film doesn't try hard, especially in the look of the visually lively underwater Manhattan setting. None of the biggest stars in the business — Will Smith, Renee Zellweger, Jack Black, Robert De Niro and Angelina Jolie — tackle this story of the unlikely friendship between two underwater dwellers unhappy with their stations in life, but it's composed of too many standard components. It doesn't have the kind of effortless sophistication that marked "Finding Nemo" at its best. (1:30, PG for some mild language and crude humor.)

"Sky Captain and the World of Tomorrow"

Writer-director Kerry Conran's retro-futuristic adventure film stars Gwyneth Paltrow as a pert and plucky reporter and Jude Law as her former flame Joe "Sky Captain" Sullivan, trying to find the source of giant, sky-high robots menacing the world. The plot is more yesterday than tomorrow, a hothouse homage to the pulp and serial material of decades past, but it is sluggish at best, something that lumbers across the screen with the leaden feet of those iron giants. It's the visuals — an alternate universe animated by a powerful nostalgia for 1939, where the same hands are as likely to use ray guns as fountain pens — that have the capacity to surprise. (1:37, PG for sequences of stylized sci-fi violence and brief mild language.)

"Spider-Man 2"

Tobey Maguire returns to his dual role as mild-mannered journalist Peter Parker and the crime-fighting superhero, who this time does battle with Doc Ock (Alfred Molina). This is a deeply satisfying and involving sequel, one that builds upon the complications of the first but stands on its own. PG-13 (action-film violence)

"Taxi!"

Based on the sequel-spawning French hit of the same name, this comedy stars Queen Latifah as a New York cabbie who can drive and Jimmy Fallon as a cop who can't, trying to stop a gang of nefarious Brazilian supermodels led by Gisèle Bündchen. What follows is a crime-fighting caper full of car chases, weak jokes and scenes so meandering they make "Saturday Night Live" look like a paragon of brevity and wit. Fallon's usual stunned deadpan doesn't do much for him here; and the usually wonderful Lat-ifah is reduced to counteracting his single note with just one of her own. Directed by Tim Story and written by Robert Ben Garant & Thomas Lennon and Jim Kouf. (1:37, PG-13 for language, sensuality and brief violence.)

"Vanity Fair"

Reese Witherspoon plays Becky Sharp in the fifth filmed incarnation of William Makepeace Thackeray's saga of a master social climber. Directed by Mira Nair. PG-13.

"Without a Paddle"

This test-of-manhood comedy about three friends (Seth Green, Matthew Lillard and Dix Shepard) who ride rapids and elude rednecks in the Oregon backwoods is as pungent and puerile as the latrine at a Boy Scouts camp. PG-13 (drug content, sexual, and toilet humor, violence)

Bobcats rally past Jerome

By Eric Larsen
Times-News writer

RUBENIT - Burley's standout forward Eduardo Anguiano broke up 51 minutes of scoreless soccer to seal the Bobcats' Round 1 Great Basin Conference West tournament home win over Jerome Thursday.

After a scoreless first half (kickoff), Anguiano found himself the recipient of a Vlad Puluhac cross in front of the Jerome goal and punched in the go-ahead goal to start Burley's second-half deluge of goals in a 5-0 win.

"Jerome just came out and played great," Bobcats coach Wes Nyblade said. "That's the best I've ever seen them play us."

We got in a passing game in the first half and it just seemed like we forgot which direction the goal was. I thought we played well the first half, but that just made it look like there was no energy out there."

The energy was there in the second half though, as Anguiano's goal opened the flood gates. Only eight minutes later, a Bonifacio Sanchez penalty kick put the Bobcats up 2-0. Sanchez added his second goal of the game in the 77th minute to lead the day's scoring.

"After those first few goals, it was like a punch to the gut," Jerome coach Brent Rogers said. "It took the wind out of us."

The Tigers kept the Bobcats defense working, putting five shots on Burley goal keeper Michael Kelsey. But Kelsey was up to the task, as there was never any doubt a ball would slip by him.

Forward Erick Llanos punched in Burley's third goal 75 minutes in on a long direct kick that caught the Jerome defenders napping. After regulation play elapsed, senior co-captain Tyson Andersen punched in Burley's second penalty kick goal to finish the scoring at 5-0.

"We came back in the second half and showed a lot of heart," "Our kids really wanted a rematch with Wood River Saturday."

The win advances the Bobcats to Round 2 of the tournament and the end of the season against the Woodvornets.

"They have tremendous talent on that team, and we do too," Nyblade said. "It should be a good game. Two quality teams going at it."

Meanwhile, Jerome will have to take the long road in the tournament and will host Minico Saturday in a loser-out game.

"We need to defend our home field and we might be here again," Rogers said. "We'll be ready to come the

CSI hits full stride for weekend trip

By Kevin Colbert
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The College of Southern Idaho volleyball team has let it no doubt. Well, almost.

After using last weekend to play over the only team to have defeated them, the Golden Eagles have one more game before declaring their supremacy in the scenic West Athletic Conference.

That test will come Saturday when second-ranked CSI travels to St. George, Utah to take on

Saturday
No. 2 CSI at No. 13 Dixie State, 4 p.m.

No. 13 Dixie State.
CSI (35-1 overall, 5-0 SWAC) is out to prove that no team in the conference is its equal after avenging its blowout loss at a resounding 30-20, 30-22, 30-28 win over Salt Lake Community College last weekend. Yet, Dixie State (18-10, 3-2) has proven to be still competitive in the teams' previous meetings this season.

The Eagles are 3-0 against the Rebels, but two of those victories have been less than convincing (CSI has twice needed five sets to knock off Dixie, the latest a 30-16, 29-31, 27-30, 30-21, 15-9 victory on Sept. 21 in Twin Falls.

"We have to be a little bit smarter and get a little more game-prepared for them the next two days," CSI head coach Ben Stroud said on Tuesday. "And we have to finish. We didn't do that the last time we played."

But the Eagles did well enough to quiet the Rebels. CSI finished with 92 kills to Dixie's 77.

Cardinals rally past Astros, 6-4

The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS - Rain or shine, the St. Louis Cardinals' big bats always seem to come through in the end.

Albert Pujols led off the eighth inning with a tiebreaking home run, Scott Rolen followed with his second home run and the Cardinals stormed back to beat Houston 6-4 on a miserable Thursday night for a 2-0 lead in the NL championship series.

The weather was awful all evening, with drizzle delaying the start for almost a half-hour and the rain lasting through the final pitch, by the time it was over, with temperatures falling into the mid-40s, no one in the sellout crowd at Busch Stadium was complaining.

Pujols and Rolen connected for the first consecutive home runs in the Cardinals' long postseason possession history. Larry Walker also homered, enough to offset yet another shot by Carlos Beltran and a homer by Morgan Ensberg for the Astros.

Now, the series shifts to Minute Maid Park in Houston Saturday with Roger Clemens set to start for Houston against Jeff Suppan. If the rocket can pull Houston Astros' Jeff Bagwell, right, is tagged out by St. Louis Cardinals' second baseman Tony Womack in a run-down between first and second bases after the Astros' Jeff Kent's strike out in the third inning during Game 2 of the National League Championship Series at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, on Thursday.

the Astros close, then 20-game winner Roy Oswalt will have a chance to even it in Game 4.

Still, the Cardinals hold a commanding edge.

Of 51 clubs that have fallen behind 0-2 in a best-of-seven postseason baseball series, only 12 have come back to win.

Miami edges Louisville

The Associated Press

MIAMI - The Louisville Cardinals drew a flag for excessive celebration in the second quarter, and another in the third.

Against Miami, the displays of jubilation were premature. Led by Brock Berlin and Devin Hester, the third-ranked Hurricanes erased a 17-point deficit over the final 20 minutes and came from behind twice in the fourth quarter to beat No. 18 Louisville 11-38 Thursday night.

Berlin threw three touchdown passes and directed the winning drive, a 56-yard march capped by Frank Gore's 1-yard run with 30 seconds left.

The touchdown capped a seasaw fourth quarter. Hester scored on a 78-yard punt return to put Miami ahead 30-31, but Louisville regained the lead when freshman backup quarterback Brian Brohm directed an 80-yard touchdown drive.

Stefan Lefors threw three touchdown passes for Louisville before departing with an undisclosed injury in the fourth quarter.

The Cardinals (4-1) had launched the game as perhaps the biggest in school history, and they rose to the occasion. The Hurricanes (5-0) narrowly averted only the second loss in their past 21 games at the Orange Bowl to remain in the race for their third national championship since 1983.

Much of the credit belonged to Berlin, the target of 37 shots when Miami fell behind in the first half. He finished 25-of-37 for 308 yards, including a completion on fourth-and-4 to keep the winning drive alive.

Berlin threw touchdown passes of 9 yards to Greg Olsen, 14 yards to Kloeche Parrish and 11 yards to Alfonso Jolla. Miami scored on all six possessions in the second half.

Berlin had the Hurricanes worried until the final play. The game ended with an interception of his Hal Murray pass from midfield, and then a shoving match between the teams.

The Hurricanes trailed 24-7 at halftime and 31-14 late in the third quarter. An early goal-line stand suggested the Cardinals' recent business, as 23 consecutive points in the first half confirmed it.

Bruins look to bounce back

By Kevin Colbert

TWIN FALLS - The Twin Falls Bruins football team suddenly has its back to the wall.

After a loss to Highland last week, the Bruins can't afford another defeat when they travel to Idaho Falls tonight for a 7:30 Region Four-Five-Six showdown with the Tigers.

The game will be broadcast on 1270 AM KFTL.

Twin Falls (5-1 overall, 0-1 conference) would put its playoff hopes under a shroud of doubt with another defeat after rolling through the first half of the season unscathed. That fact alone is motivation enough for Bruins coach Tobe Smith and his squad.

"The week before, we're 5-0, strutting around and thinking we're pretty good," Smith said. "And we are. We just need to shore up some things and make some adjustments."

"We've got to let Highland go right now because every game we play from here on is important. It's critical."

Twin Falls will have to eliminate most of the mistakes that plagued the team against Highland if the Bruins are to emerge with the win. A late fumble by star running back Brody Miller was scouted up and taken to the end zone to give the Rams a 30-31 lead. A Twin Falls unsportsmanlike conduct foul on the ensuing kickoff then set the Bruins 93 yards away from pay-dirt with 1:11 remaining, a distance they wouldn't cover.

"We get the ball with 1:30 left when it's tied and I have no doubt that we're going to go down and win the game," Smith said. "But then the only fumble Brody Miller has all year, the kid

Senators seek tie for SCIC's top spot

By Eric Larson
Times-News writer

GOODING - This is going to have to be one big blowout. After last week's 13-6 road loss to Filer, Gooding looks to get back on track after falling to 2-1 in the Sawtooth-Central Idaho Conference football standings. The good news is they're at home. The bad news is Declo, and the Hornets' 27-game SCIC unbeaten streak is coming to town.

What the Senators have going in their favor is a tough defense that limited Filer's bruising rushing attack to 133 total yards on 40 carries last week. That same type of effort will be important against Aaron Edgar and the Hornets ground attack.

"We hope to regain. We're at 5-1 now and Gooding played pretty darn good tonight," Senators coach Chris Camstock said after the Filer game. "We'd like to ruin Declo's streak."

Gooding's Cody Rogers and Derick Hayden With are two very capable quarterbacks, so big plays through the air shouldn't come as a surprise.

Both teams have some questions to answer after last Thursday's games. Gooding must find a way to move the ball on the ground, as running backs Brad Allison and Whitney Dalton were shut down against Filer. The Hornets will need to take care of the ball better than they did in their 32-13 win over 2-1 Kimberly. Three first-half turnovers kept the game close until Edgar rambled for three touch-

Declo's Justin Bennett looks to evade a Burley defender during a game earlier this season.

Game of the Week

Burley at Minico
 What a mad house. Last year's Mini-Cassia Clash between Burley and Minico was a spectacle of Halloween costumes, swarming fans, and a 34-20 Spartan win at Burley's Budge Field. This year's game at Minico's Spartan Field won't have the Halloween atmosphere, but the scene should be no less electric.

The Spartans enter the game at 3-3 for the season and 2-0 in the Great Basin Conference West standings. A win would wrap up the conference title for Minico and give them the top seed from the conference heading into the Great Eight playoff in two weeks.

"For us, taking the conference has been one of our goals all season," Spartans coach Tim Perriog said. "Our last football conference championship was back in 1968."

The Bobcats are 1-5 on the season, but 1-0 in conference. A win Friday would give them a shot at the conference title next week against Jerome.

"This is probably the biggest game of my coaching career for those reasons," Bobcats coach Scott Palin said. "We let some games slip out from us earlier, but it would be easy to forget about those if we won this one."

But Burley has a lot of questions to answer after last week's 45-0 loss to a Century team Minico defeated 20-21. How the Bobcats fare on the ground, both offensively and defensively, will be the big key to their success.

"We need to limit Dale Sayles. He definitely carries the load for them," Palin said. "We'll need to execute our offense, pound the ball, and complete some passes."

The Spartans lead the all-time series 26-23. Both teams are fairly healthy, though Minico will be without tight end/defensive back Michael Konrad and lineman Shaun McNamus.

"It seems like you throw the records and everything out the window," Perriog said. "This always turns out to be a good one, and having the conference championship on the line makes it a little more exciting."

The Bobcat freshman beat Mimico 22-0 in the mini Mini-Cassia Clash Wednesday.

Oakley at Raft River

The Raft River Trojans look to continue their undefeated season Saturday when area rival Oakley rolls into Malva at 2 p.m. After having a bye week to prepare for the Hornets, the 5-0 Trojans will surely be ready for the challenge.

However, 3-3 Oakley is fielding its most competitive team in years, and the athletic and powerful rushing duo of Evan McBride and Brady Lierman will give the Trojans offense a strong test. The real key for Oakley came on defense. No team has kept the Trojans from breaking big plays this year, hence the string of Raft River home rule wins. It may be a lot to ask to keep C.J. Treckett, Landon Hansen, and the Trojans to short gains, but that's what he will have to stick with them for four quarters.

It's time to win or go home

By Eric Larson
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - District tournaments send newspaper sports departments into mass hysteria, and this week's start to Idaho high school postseason play is no different.

With boys and girls soccer, volleyball, and cross-country all holding district competition and regular season competition in a football full swing, there are more highly anticipated games, matches, and seen so far this year. So without further adieu, here are some events to look forward to.

This week's sports picks

- Friday
- Castletford at Hagerman football, 7 p.m.
- The Wolves travel West for a Magic Valley Southside Conference clash with area rival Hagerman. Both teams are in the hunt for the conference's second seed behind the Raft River Trojans. Two high-powered eight-man offenses could turn this game into a shoot-out.
- Castles County at Carey football, 7 p.m.
- Fresh off their 49-0 drubbing of Shoshone, the Mustangs are ready to face junior quarterback Tyler Cook and the Carey Panthers. Tony Gonzalez and the Camas County offense will prove a tough task for a smallish Carey defense.

- Saturday
- Twin Falls at Idaho Falls boys soccer, 2 p.m.
- The Bruins look to avenge Tuesday's 3-1 loss to the Tigers in Round 1 of the conference. Five boys' soccer district tournaments, Denis Pavlovic, Rene Garcia, Juan Santos and the rest of the Bruins will have to play 80-plus minutes of solid play to advance and face the winner of Skyline versus Highland.
- Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference volleyball tournament.

- Monday
- Great Basin Conference West volleyball tournament, Round 1.
- Top-seeded Wood River hosts Burley at 6 p.m. Monday in the first round of the conference's volleyball tournament.
- Second-seeded Minico faces a dangerous Jerome squad in Rupert in the tournament's other first-round showdown at 6 p.m.

- Tuesday
- 5A district meet, 4 p.m.
- The Twin Falls Bruins travel to Blackfoot for the Region Four-Five-Six district meet against runners from Highland, Idaho Falls, and Skyline. Tyler Jones leads the Bruins boys, while Britany Ward looks to pace the Twin Falls girls. Both are coming off top-five performances at Tuesday's district meet.
- 4A district meet, 4 p.m.
- Burley's Stephanie Johnson likely will battle Century's Bethany McInturf for the top spot in Thursday's district meet in Preston. Ed Christensen and the Bobcat boys look will look for a team berth to the state meet in Soda Springs, but will have to contend with a solid contingent of Jerome runners led by brothers Ted and Troy Bluman. Jerome's Carlissa Lee should also finish near the top of the pack in the girls meet.

- Wednesday
- 3A cross-country district meet, 2 p.m.
- It's deja-vu all over again for area Class 1A, 2A, and 3A runners, as they hit the Gooding Golf Course for the second cross-country meet at that venue in two weeks. The defending state champion Gooding boys will look to get back to state after spending the last two weeks preparing for the course. The Valley girls will look for another strong showing, as will Shoshone's Cory Kneip, one of the area's top male distance runners.

Anguano carries record-setting season into playoffs

By Eric Larson
Times-News writer

BURLEY - If you could put a soundtrack to Burley Bobcats sophomore forward Eduardo Anguano's season, it would be the long, excited yell of "goal" you can hear while watching soccer on television.

The talented striker set a new single-season goal scoring record for the Burley High School program, blasting in 25 scores in 15 games. He also tallied 11 assists, helping the Bobcats to a 13-3 record and a No. 2 seed in the conference tournament of the newly formed Great Basin Conference.

While his 35 career goals in nine years of varsity play stand out, Anguano is slow to take all the credit for his achievements. "It's all teamwork," Anguano said. "Without the team, you can't do anything. It's good to get the school record, but it's something you can't do by yourself. You always have to have someone to help you."

Whether it's fellow forwards Erick Llanos and Bonifacio

Athlete of the Week

Eduardo Anguano

Sanchez, or a member of a strong passing Bobcats' midfield, Anguano's Burley teammates have continually put him in a place to shine - wide open in front of the opposition's goal.

"It's a really tight team, a good team," Anguano said. "We're all friends here."

Along with friendship and communication that reaches across languages, the Bobcats are led by coach Wes Nyblade, a leader Anguano respects.

"He's a great coach," Anguano said. "Probably one of the best I've ever had."

While soft-spoken both on and off the pitch, Anguano carries a lifetime of knowledge of the game. Depending on the teams he has been on, he has played every position, though forward is his favorite. His mixture of speed, ball control, and elusiveness allow Nyblade to move him around the field where needed.

"I've played since I was born," Anguano said. "It's been my sport. It was the only one to catch my attention."

Though he still has two more years of high school soccer ahead of him, he's ready for his team to reach the top of the Class 4A food chain this year. After a year spent playing tournament-quality teams like Wood River and Twin Falls, the Bobcats believe they're ready.

"We want to go far every year this year," Anguano said. "We want to get back there and take care of things."

 picks it up and scores."

The Highland game also marked the second week in a row that a Bruins opponent made up significant ground in the second half. Twin Falls blew a 33-0 lead after halftime against Mountain View two weeks ago before escaping with an overtime win. Last week, the Bruins outscored the Bruins 17-0 in the fourth quarter.

"That's just when it happens to happen," Smith said. "Momentarily it's a funny game."

Idaho Falls (3-3, 0-1) found that it had slipped through their paws in a 29-20 loss to cross-town rival Skyline. Skyline used two consecutive 1st- and 2nd-half drives to extend the entire length of the field and score the winning touchdown as time expired.

Volleyball

• Lindsay Heimkes, Filer
 Heimkes tallied 21 kills in the Wildcat senior night victory over Kimberly Tuesday to help Filer move to 14-13, 4-3 conference record.

Girls soccer

• Margil Driscoll, Wood River
 The Wolverines' attacker added one goal to her season total of 17 in Wood River's 2-0 win over Burley Tuesday, helping her team move to 12-0-1 on the year.

Cross country

• Lisa Romer, Valley
 Romer, a freshman runner for the Valley girls cross-country team capped off a big week of running Tuesday in Gooding. Her second-place finish to Burley's Stephanie Johnson in 20 minutes, 5 seconds led the Vikings to first-place team finish for the meet.

In the first 232 minutes of its season, Seattle held opponents to six points. That is allowed 23 in the next 11 minutes, blowing last week's game to St. Louis in overtime.

Now it's the one-loss Seahawks instead of the unbeaten ones who will try to end New England's record 19-game winning streak on Sunday in Foxboro. It might take a little luster off the matchup, but Seattle is certainly the best team the Patriots have faced since their opener, when they barely held on against Indianapolis.

The Patriots are favored by four points, a number that reflects the Seahawks' ability. That's the home-field plus one, perhaps for the Seahawks' air mileage. SPORTS IN BRIEF

Rockets edge Kings in Shanghai

SHANGHAI, China — Playing in his hometown before an adoring crowd that chanted his name, Yao Ming held the fitness, he missed his first two shots and allowed Brad Miller to beat Yao Ming but repeatedly early in the first quarter. Soon, though, he settled down, finishing with 14 points to lead the Houston Rockets to an 88-81 win over the Sacramento Kings on Thursday in the first exhibition game played in China. "I didn't play a great game. I was really nervous in the first half. It was almost like the first I had playing in my first NBA game," Yao said. "I felt suffocated and I just wanted to find an exit, but I just tried to focus on technical details and things settled down."

In addition to leading the Rockets in scoring, Yao played 27 minutes and grabbed seven rebounds. The teams will play another exhibition game Sunday in Beijing. Yao scored in the seventh minute with a decisive dunk that added two more points on a short pass from Tracy McGrady. He was replaced by Dikembe Mutombo with three minutes left in the quarter as Houston led behind 21-10. Yao returned in the second quarter and quickly racked up eight more points, six of them on free throws and two on an alley-oop from McGrady that drew big cheers from the capacity crowd at Shanghai's city gymnasium.

Shilling will not start Game 5 of ALCS

BOSTON — Boston ace Curt Schilling will not start Game 5 of the AL championship series Sunday because of an injured right ankle, though it's possible he could return later in the series.

Derek Lowe will start in his place — unless the schedule is pushed back by rain that is forecast for Game 3 on Friday night. The New York Yankees lead the series 3-0 in the best-of-seven series.

"We need to get to Game 5," Boston manager Terry Francona said, "but the Yankees are leading the major leagues with 21 wins, listed just three innings and 58 pitches while allowing six runs in Boston's 10-7 loss to the Yankees in Tuesday night's opener."

Schilling said he had trouble with his balance and pushing off the pitching rubber, which cut down on his pitch speed.

Shaughnessy, Vaidsova advance to quarterfinals

TASKENT, Uzbekistan — American Meghann Shaughnessy lost just two games while defeating Yulia Bezyglazova in the fourth round of the quarterfinals of the WIBC belt with a technical knockout of Corrie Sanders in April. Shaughnessy, seeded second, won 6-1, 6-1, Nicole Vaidsova, a 15-year-old Czech, won 6-2, 6-5 while serving sixth-seeded Anna-Lena Groenefeld of Germany. Third-seeded Maria Marrero of Spain also advanced.

Shaughnessy is the highest-seeded player remaining. Play was stopped for about 15 minutes when Bezyglazova deflected the ball into her eye during a serve, but she said the injury hadn't affected the match.

Corretja wins at Open de Moselle

METZ, France — Spain's Alex Carraz won the Open de Moselle, a 62-hole event, on Thursday in the second round of the $446,050 Open de Moselle tennis tournament.

In other second-round matches, French defender Olivier Patience 6-4, 6-4.

Davenport regains No. 1 ranking

MOSCOW — American Lindsay Davenport regained the No. 1 ranking for the first time since early 2002 by defeating Dinara Safina of Russia 6-4, 6-2 in the second round of the Kremlin Cup on Thursday.

Davenport officially will overtake France's Amel Mauresmo next week to move atop the WTA rankings for the fifth time, since she defeated Mauresmo by just 15 points, 6-3/5 to 4/30, after winning the Porsche Grand Prix in Biberstadt, Germany, on Sunday.

"I'm amazed that I was able to get back to No. 1 after a tough couple of years," said Davenport, who has struggled with assorted injuries since last being at the top on Jan. 13, 2002. She also had brief stays at No. 1 in 1998, 1999 and 2000.

Davenport won at Biberstadt when Mauresmo retired with a strained left thigh after losing the first set of the final. Mauresmo also withdrew from the Moscow tournament because of the injury.

Wood River holds off upset-minded Minico

The Times-News

HAILLEY - Minico held last year's Class 3A state championship Wood River scoreless in the first half, but the Wolverines scored two goals in the second half to win a first Basin Conference. West opening district tournament game, 2-0 on Thursday.

Junior outside midfielder Austin McCann scored his 18th goal of the season on a penalty kick in the 57th minute which would be the game-winner.

Senior left midfielder Byron Epp started for Wood River in the 64th minute on an assist from McCann. The shot deflected off a Minico defender into the back of the net.

For the night Wood River had 43 shots on goal and Minico had five.

Wood River, (2-0-1) hosts Burley at 1 p.m. Saturday in the district championship game.

Girls soccer

Wood River 14, Jerome 0

HAILLEY - Top seeded Wood River began its district match towards a state tournament bid with a convincing 14-0 Great Basin Conference West home tournament win over Jerome.

Wood River led at half 9-0. Twelve different players scored for the Wolverines.

CSI

State's 60. The Eagles were led by Tiffany Mousakowa with 27 kills and Eliane Santos with 25. Hilary Morrill and Breana Brent net each had 14 to pace the blocks.

The Eagles could also show their opponent a new look this time around. CSI used a 5-1 formation for the first time this season successfully against SECC, with Bahali Serralla as the lone setter. She finished with one.

Wood River (13-0-1) hosts Minico at 11 a.m. Saturday for the 270-city tie.

Minico 4, Burley 1

PACIE - Minico exploded for two goals in one minute late in the second half to put away upset-minded Burley 4-1 in the opening round of the Great Basin West district tournament Thursday at East Minico Junior High School.

Keisha Lloyd scored in the 76th minute, followed by Dani Ramirez in the 77th to turn a 2-1 slugfest into a commanding 4-1 lead.

Ramirez opened the scoring in the fourth minute while Lacy Vanivery added another in the 39th to give the host Spartans a 2-0 halftime lead.

Burley rallied behind a goal in the 53rd minute by Jessica Alvarez with an assist by laynee Thurston to make it 2-1 and up the pressure.

"The girls played well," said Burley coach Shonie Ogden. "Until the last 10 minutes, it was a 2-1 game."

Minico travels to Wood River on Saturday at 11 a.m. Burley hosts Jerome at the same time in a loser-out contest.

Twin Falls 3, Highland 0

TWIN FALLS - Twin Falls High clinched the No. 3 seed in next Tuesday's opening round with 39 assists.

Stroud said he was relatively sure his team would run a 5-1 again this weekend.

"I think we will," he said. "I thought it made a difference that we ran a 5-1 because we pass so much better with Ashley (Gandault) that it allowed us to get more swings."

One of the toughest challenges for CSI may be to not look ahead to its Oct. 23 showdown with top-ranked Miami-Dade College in Salt Lake City. Stroud, however, knows that this is the week for his team to start putting the pedal to the metal.

"There's some good stuff coming up," Stroud said. "But now we've got to make a final push toward regionals and nationals. It's not time to back off now."

That might be easier said than done tonight when CSI visits Snow College (0-13, 1-0) in Ephraim, Utah. The Eagles should be confident after ed the Region Four-Five-Six tournament with a 25-17, 25-20, 25-21 win over Highland Thursday night in Hann Oymasham.

The Rams (1-5 region) are now the No. 4 seed.

The Bruins were paced by Lauren Davis with 12 kills while Drew Braiver added four blocks. Jessica and Whitney Bond each had 11 assists.

Twin Falls (16-7, 2-4 region) next plays No. 2 Skyline at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Jerome 3, Pocatello 1

HILGOMI - Jerome closed out the regular season with a 25-15, 25-25, 25-17, 20-25 conference win over Pocatello Thursday behind 20 kills and four blocks by Ali German.

Rashaya Lou and Lindzie Kuhn each had seven kills.

A conference game next plays in the Great Basin West district tournament Monday at Wood River against Minico at 6 p.m.

Filer 3, Declo 0

DECLO - Filer defeated Declo 25-15, 25-22, 25-13 Thursday in Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference play to close out the regular season. Both teams next enter district tournament play Saturday in Gooding.

Jenica Redmond served up 26 points to pace Filer while Nicole Darrington added 13 points and three kills.

Dietrich 3, Community School 0

DIETRICH - Dietrich defeated The Community School 25-12, 25-19, 25-14 Thursday to conclude regular-season play behind strong efforts from setter Lori Lutick Weber and Lindsey Shaw.

Dietrich (14-5, 8-4) next plays Monday in the Northside tournament at ISDB against The Community School.

Camas County 3, Bliss 0

FAIRFIELD - Camas County defeated Bliss 25-16, 25-10, 25-17.

Rose Schwarzbach led the Moshers with four kills. Krislen Weatherly had 22 service points.

Camas County next plays Wednesday at ISDB Monday at 3 p.m. in the Magic Valley Northside Conference tournament. Bliss plays Carey later that night.

Gooding 3, Kimberly 0

GOODING - Ashley Abramowski recorded nine kills and 22 service points to help Gooding to a 25-17, 25-19, 25-13 win over Kimberly on Thursday.

The victory improved Gooding to 14-1 overall, but more importantly, 8-0 in the Sawtooth Central Idaho Conference. The Senators will host the SECC tournament on Saturday.

Carly Gates finished with eight kills and eight blocks for Gooding while Brittanee Toone chipped in with eight kills and three blocks. Toone led the Senators with 12 assists. Tennette Lesley Shiman added 10 assists.

Gooding will receive a first-round tournament bye and will play the winner of the game between tween the No. 4 and No. 5 seed at 4 p.m. Saturday.

Valley 3, Wendell 2

VALLEY - Valley clinched the Canyon Conference title with a dramatic 25-19, 25-14, 25-20, 23-25, 15-11 win over Wendell on Thursday.

Jennifer Sirucek recorded 13 kills and Kami Rust, 10 kills for Valley (11-9 overall, 4-0 conference).

After winning the first two games, Wendell (2-2 Canyon Conference) battled back with close victories in Games 3 and 4. The difference in Game 5, according to Valley coach Julian Iscobedo, was his team's defense.

Valley hosts the district tournament on Tuesday and will receive a first-round bye. The Vikings will then play the winner of the match between second-seeded Wendell and third-seeded Glenns Ferry (0-1 conference).

Shoshone sweeps tri-match

SHOSHONE - The Indians looked well-tuned and ready for district Thursday night, sweeping Carey in conference play 25-11, 25-13, 25-13, and then Glenns Ferry 25-13; 25-7 in a triangular at home.

Haley Harris headed up the Shoshone offense in the first match with 43 kills. Kaitie Axelsson was strong as well, contributing 14 assists.

In the Glenns Ferry contest, Amanda Gillford led the way with seven kills.

The third match of the evening saw Carey topping Glenns Ferry 25-13, 25-7.

Shoshone finishes the season at 24-2.

Hagerman 3, Murtaugh 1

MURTAUGH - The Pirates finished up regular-season play with a four-game conference win over Murtaugh Thursday night, 25-11, 25-18, 25-27, 25-19.

Lacey Lemmon led the Hagerman offense with eight kills, eight blocks, and 23 service points.

The second-seeded Pirates (12-2, 13-4 overall) begin the Magic Valley Southside tournament on Saturday at 4:30 p.m. in Hansen. The Red Devils end the season at 7-7 and play their first match of the tournament on Saturday at 3 p.m. also in Hansen.

NASCAR

Sports Editor: Joe Paisley, 735-3249 (Hours: 2-11 p.m.)

Dale Earnhardt Jr., tries to catch up with Kurt Busch at New Hampshire International speedway in Loudon, N.H., in this Sept. 19 file photo. Docking points from Junior for using the s-word in Victory Lane last week at Talladega had severe implications: He dropped from first to second in the points lead, giving up the top spot in the race for the Nextel Cup title.

Chasing the Nextel Cup

A glance at the 10 drivers competing in NASCAR's Chase for the Nextel Cup, in order of points standings:
DRIVER: Kurt Busch
CAR: No. 97 Sharpie Ford
CHASE POINTS: first, 5,685
POSITION CHANGE: None
WHAT HAPPENED: Busch spun out at Kansas Speedway last week but muddled his way through and finished sixth to extend his lead to 29 points over Dale Earnhardt Jr. He has finished in the top 10 in all four of the Chase for the Nextel Cup championship races.
SPEAKING: "Lowe's Motor Speedway is a track where we need to have another consistent run. We tested here last week during the evening in conditions that should be similar to what we see here Saturday evening, so we feel good about what we've learned," Busch said.

DRIVER: Dale Earnhardt Jr.
CAR: No. 8 Budweiser Chevrolet
CHASE POINTS: second, 5,656
POSITION CHANGE: None
WHAT HAPPENED: Earnhardt has a tendency to struggle on flat, 1.5-mile tracks such as Kansas, but still managed a ninth-place finish.
SPEAKING: "My team has worked hard and we've been in the top 10 every week in the Chase, and I'm going to try to do that every week. This is what it will take to win the championship. If we finish in the top 10 every race, no matter where we end up in points, I'll be proud of my team," Earnhardt said.

DRIVER: Jeff Gordon
CAR: No. 24 DuPont Chevrolet
CHASE POINTS: third, 5,606
POSITION CHANGE: None
WHAT HAPPENED: Gordon had a long weekend at Kansas, qualifying 30th and finishing 13th. He trails Busch by 79 points, but hopes to gain ground Saturday night in Charlotte, where he has four victories.
SPEAKING: "There's still a lot of racing left and we're still very close. We haven't lived up to our potential in the first four races of the Chase, yet we're only 79 points behind. We know we're better than that. If we start performing like we're capable of and things start going our way, we can gain some momentum and make a run at another championship," Gordon said.

DRIVER: Elliott Sadler
CAR: No. 38 M&M's Ford
CHASE POINTS: fourth, 5,542

POSITION CHANGE: plus 4
WHAT HAPPENED: The biggest mover in the standings last week based on a fourth-place finish at Kansas. Still, he gained just 10 points on Busch and has a long way to go to get to the top.
SPEAKING: "We haven't changed our strategy so far this season since the playoffs began. We are here to win races and have nothing to lose. With 143 points separating us from first place we are going to have to get as many points as we possibly can but those three other guys are going to be tough," Sadler said.

DRIVER: Mark Martin
CAR: No. 6 Viagra Ford
CHASE POINTS: fifth, 5,535
POSITION CHANGE: minus 1
WHAT HAPPENED: Martin got two flat tires at Kansas after running over debris and ended up 20th. He's now 150 points behind the leader, but could pick up ground at Lowe's. Martin has four wins there, including three in the fall race.
SPEAKING: "I can't wait to get out on the track at Lowe's. I think that just about everybody knows it is one of — and just maybe — my favorite track to race. Hopefully we'll be able to get a grip on it and make a solid run at the win," Martin said.

DRIVER: Tony Stewart
CAR: No. 20 Home Depot Chevrolet
CHASE POINTS: sixth, 5,512
POSITION CHANGE: None
WHAT HAPPENED: Stewart capped a long Kansas weekend with a 34th-place finish. He was leading the Busch race when he was wrecked by Joe Nemechek, and NASCAR is looking into an alleged fight he got into with Mike Bliss after that race. Still, Stewart says he's focused on getting back into the hunt.
SPEAKING: "To be honest, there's only one guy I'm looking at and that's whoever is leading the points that week. The only number that matters is the difference between us. It doesn't matter if we're 40th in points at 150 back or second in points at 150 back, you've still got to gain those 150 points to get in the lead," he said.

DRIVER: Matt Kenseth
CAR: No. 17 DowTool Tools Ford
CHASE POINTS: seventh, 5,505
POSITION CHANGE: minus 2
WHAT HAPPENED: The reigning series champion was not very good at Kansas and finished 17th, dropping two spots in the standings. Still, he can make up ground at Lowe's, where he scored his first career Cup win back in 2000.

SPEAKING: "Lowe's has always been one of my favorite tracks on the circuit and we always seem to run pretty good here. I hope we can run up front and lead some laps here and challenge for a win. We need more than a good finish — we need a great finish — right now, but I know this team is capable of it here," Kenseth said.

DRIVER: Ryan Newman
CAR: No. 12 Alltel Dodge
CHASE POINTS: eighth, 5,453
POSITION CHANGE: minus 1
WHAT HAPPENED: Newman finished 33rd at Kansas and has been inconsistent in the chase. He has finishes of first, 33rd, 16th and 32nd.
SPEAKING: "It's just racing. We do the best job we can and top everything takes care of itself points-wise. This has usually been our strong point of the season the past two years. We'll just do the best job we can and put 100 percent effort into it like we have all year and hopefully things will go our way," Newman said.

DRIVER: Jimmie Johnson
CAR: No. 48 Lowe's Chevrolet
CHASE POINTS: ninth, 5,428
POSITION CHANGE: None
WHAT HAPPENED: The most dominant driver for most of the season saw his title hopes ruined with a 32nd-place finish. He's now 247 points behind Busch, and will need a miracle to win the championship. He's now looking forward to competing in the Busch race on Friday night to forget about the Chase for a little bit.
SPEAKING: "It's going to be something fun to do Friday night. With all the intensity in the Chase for the Championship, getting to do something fun this weekend is kind of me. Plus, as good as we tested there: I think we have a decent shot of doing well," Johnson said.

DRIVER: Jeremy Mayfield
CAR: No. 19 Dodge Dealers/UAW Dodge
CHASE POINTS: 10th, 5,428
POSITION CHANGE: none
WHAT HAPPENED: Mayfield finished fifth at Kansas, but gained just 10 points on the leader. He's just 10 points out of fifth place, but too far out to have hopes of winning the title.
SPEAKING: "We feel like we're chipping at the surface. We've got a long way to go yet," Mayfield said.

Johnson's title hopes slip away

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — In any other season, Jimmie Johnson would have been the runaway winner of NASCAR's championship. But this isn't any other season. It's the first year of NASCAR's new points system, and Johnson is on target to be the biggest loser under the new formula.
"The most dominating driver for most of the year, Johnson has limped through the last two races of the Chase for the Nextel Cup Championship. His wreck last week at Kansas Speedway gave him a 32nd-place finish, effectively ending any shot at winning the title."
Johnson is now ninth in the standings, 247 points behind leader Kurt Busch.

"I've been against the points system, but, you know, in the big picture, it spreads the love out further throughout all the race teams," he said. "You have more people being focused on throughout the season, more exposure for everyone as a whole, which is only going to help our sport."
"So I see the positives to it," Johnson has had a positive outlook — breaking into NASCAR's top series in 2002. Any speed bump in the road, Johnson attacks with grace. So there's no reason to believe behind his Hendrick Motorsports team will give up over the final six races of the season.

"The title could change for Johnson this weekend at Lowe's Motor Speedway, where he's been the most dominant driver by far lately."
He earned his second-straight Coca-Cola 600 victory here in May, leading 231 of 300 laps. He's finished second or better in his last five races at Lowe's, the longest top-10 streak among active drivers.

There's little Johnson can do to climb back into the Chase unless the eight drivers in front of him collapse.
So far, Busch has shown no signs of doing that. He scored yet another top-10 finish at Kansas, giving him one in all four of the Chase races.
But behind Busch are a bunch of Lowe's Motor Speedway veterans aiming to knock him out of the points lead.
Jeff Gordon, who has four victories at Lowe's, is third in the standings and has high motivation to gain some ground.
Gordon and his team were humiliated during the Coca-Cola 600. As Johnson's teammate, an in-swing with the race, Gordon limped to a 30th-place finish that disgusted his entire team.
"We were embarrassed by that performance and it lit a fire underneath us," Gordon said. "We started running better and things just started to click."

In the nine events following that race, Gordon had seven victories, four poles and seven top-fives. In one of those races, at Chicago, he finished fourth using the same chassis the team struggled with at Charlotte.
"Mark Martin was only one in the standings, also has four wins at Lowe's — three of them in the fall race."
The 15 top-five finishes are the most of any active driver on the 1.5-mile track. He's also set a win in the 1998 all-star race and has six victories in the Busch series at Lowe's.

"I can't wait to get out on the track at Lowe's. I think that just about everybody knows it is one of — and just maybe — my favorite track to race," he said. "We've been in Victory Lane four times there in the past and I'd love to get back in the Chase with a win there this Sunday night."
So would Matt Kenseth, a teammate of Martin and Busch at Busch Racing.
The reigning series champion has dropped to seventh in the standings — but could — make up ground at Lowe's, where he scored his first Cup victory in 2000 and won the all-star race here in May.

Signing of 15-year-old raises questions

NEXXTAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Next October, Chase Austin will finally be old enough to drive to the grocery store by himself.

Chase Austin

By then, though, he'll also have a full season of stock car racing under his belt.
When Hendrick Motorsports signed the 15-year-old high school freshman from Topeka, Kan., to a developmental contract last week, it raised the question: How young is too young?

Everyone's going to rush out and sign a 15-year-old unless he's pretty darn good."

"I don't know, when I think back, that I wasn't ready to be signed even at 18," said 22-year-old Blake Beese, another of Hendrick's developmental drivers. "So much has changed over the years in terms of how I've progressed."
Austin, despite not being intimidated, doesn't seem intimidated. He's an unusual situation.

"If anyone were people are coming from," he said. "Sometimes I've thought I'm too young, because there's so much involved with this. But if I saw some other 15-year-old have this chance, I'd want it too."

J.R. Gibbs, president of Joe Gibbs Racing, also doesn't have anyone's going to rush out and sign a 15-year-old unless he's pretty darn good."

Mom hopes daughter drifts from fiancé

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, "Cindy," is 20. She's very attractive, with a great sense of humor. Because of those attributes alone, she could have any eligible young man she wants. However, Cindy has instead made up her mind to "wait for her man," who will be spending the next five years in federal prison for selling drugs. They became engaged just before he went in.

"Only went into the Navy and graduated. She is being deployed to Iraq next month. Before she leaves, she will visit her fiancé in prison."

"I love my daughter, but the love is not mutual. Our relationship isn't the same as it used to be, and I am afraid that I have lost her. I have exhausted every means to stop Cindy from continuing this relationship. Have you any suggestions I might have overlooked?"

— FIGHTING FOR MY DAUGHTER IN NEBRASKA

DEAR FIGHTING: Yes. Stop fighting; it will only drive you

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, every day "as friends" and have a daughter and grandchildren in common.

"Tom comes home to another sister to visit his other, but I have never met his daughter or grandchildren, and he feels no urgency to introduce us. Tom has not met me either."

"I feel that he is leading two lives and is happy in both worlds. If, on the other hand, he is rejected and that this ashamed of me and my relationship, I feel left out on the outside looking in. Any suggestions?"

— NEEDS VALIDATION IN OREGON

DEAR NEEDS: You have a skewed your situation very well. You are on the outside looking in. Whether or not your daughter and his wife will agree under the same roof, they are legally married, and he is not going to let me in. It's not your fault that he has as much as said that if anything happens to him she will be provided for. So you can have a good life for a gestion, I suggest you take your cues from what Ronald does and rather than what he says, and find yourself a boyfriend who is eligible.

DEAR ABBY: I recently read an article about a medical center in Maine that has redesigned its standard hospital gowns to provide extra coverage for patients. (The standard gown, open at the back, violates some people's religious customs and everyone's modesty.)

"I am disturbed that modest hospital gowns have not been considered a priority before now. A patient's dignity should be protected regardless of gender or religious beliefs. Your thoughts, please."

Blind sailors embark on journey

(SAN FRANCISCO, AP) Scott Duncan and Pamela Habek have embarked on an attempt to sail alone around the world, a journey made even more treacherous by the fact that both are legally blind.

Duncan, 38, and Habek, 42, set out Monday in a 32-foot cutter for what they hope is a two-year voyage that takes them down the coast to Panama, across the Pacific and Indian oceans, around the tip of South Africa, through the Panama Canal and back home.

"We can't drive a car at 60 mph, but we can drive a boat at six knots," Duncan said.

With the help of modern technology that includes a talking Global Positioning System and a 10-power video magnifier, the couple is confident they have what they need to avoid sailing into harm's way.

Your phone skills shine, Virgo

IF OCTOBER 15 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY... you are a jack-of-all-trades running like the wind right now with the stamina and ambition to conquer the front of the pack. Your relentless attention will pull off if you maintain a low profile and avoid stepping on the wrong toes in November and meet challenges in late January with the proper respect. Past issues that have remained unresolved might become obstacles next spring unless you take criticism to heart and do your best to put things right. Next September, expect to enter the winner's circle where low and success are intertwined.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): You can be a sensitive and thoughtful leader and set a perfect example. Be gentle on your feet and quick-witted to make the most of your contacts. Warmth and kindness are the best tactics to use when faced with an impasse.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20): Be sure to state your feelings and discuss your concerns. Sympathy and understanding will solve problems and lay the groundwork for successful negotiations. Let go your intuition, where romance is the objective.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You are thinking outside the box today and can make headway by using imaginative techniques. Networking with associates and mingling in new places can give your career and reputation an added boost.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are in the mood to adopt stray dogs or send donations to a shelter. A good deal story may be your heartstrings. Your imagination is at full flow and you can use it to put strained relationships back on solid footing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your confidence is still at high tide, but you should stick with projects already in the works instead of shifting your attention to new ones. Starting over again with a new deal or agreement could create other stumbling blocks.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your phone skills shine today, so touch base with friends and acquaintances. Be the free wire who connects everyone and brings needed information to the workplace. Resolve doubts and lingering questions by being decisive and objective.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Romantic passions might peak under these stars, while it is perfect romantic weather in a candle with a trusted lover, new romances began today could experience future imbalance. If in doubt, don't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Alluring stars may beckon and entice you into the arms of a trusted companion or partner later tonight. Work hard and finish up projects, while your passion for success in the outer world is still in high gear.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your tenacity is much admired but others close could have standing ideas or information that might upset your plans. Listen to unbiased opinions and be open to other viewpoints.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your steady work ethic can win you stand the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune, but you are still subject to the whims of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Cut through sudden extremes by being calmly, logically honest and straightforward. No one will be able to resist your amusing humor and sparkling conversation. Don't let past arguments cast a shadow on present deals.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Realize alternate bonds with ancient messages of love. Send an email or lay flowers. A simple romantic gesture symbolizes much. Expect surprises that make quick thinking a valuable asset.

Spiders outdo terrorists in scaring Britons

(LONDON, AP) Spiders are more scary than terrorists, at least according to a survey of a thousand Britons.

Household creepy crawlies frighten Britons more than do terrorists, an eye for the survey released Monday found.

Terrorism may come second on the list of respondents' top ten fears, according to the survey conducted by BSG Group for Unilever, the parent UK Ltd. The survey was based on telephone interviews of 1,000 aged 16 to 55 across Britain on Sept. 22-26.

Another crawling phobia, snakes, was ranked third, but lower by a year of height. Death came in a surprising fifth place as the nation's greatest fear.

"It's not surprising that terrorist attacks came only second to creepy crawlies," said psychologist Barbara Dawson. "This is because fear of small creatures that scuttle about on four or more legs is a much more ancient, primordial fear, going straight back to caveman days."

Lowe's will employ about 175 workers

TWIN FALLS — National home-improvement retailer Lowe's will open its Twin Falls store in late 2004 and employ 175 jobs to Midge Valley's work force, the company said this week.

The nearly 200,000-square-foot store and garden center will be built on the 20-acre former site of Weston Plaza Hotel and Convention Center. The city building department estimated the Lowe's construction project at just more than $5 million, but the Mooresville, N.C.-based company said its total investment will be about $18.5 million.

The Twin Falls Lowe's will be Idaho's sixth store, including a location under construction in Meridian. The company employs about 150,000 people, including more than 500 employees in Idaho. The nation's second-largest home improvement retailer behind The Home Depot, Lowe's reported $30.8 billion in sales in 2003.

Layoffs won't affect Twin Falls call center

TWIN FALLS — National telemarketing firm Teleperformance USA is laying off workers nationwide, but those cuts aren't affecting the company's Twin Falls facility, the company said Thursday.

"Throughout the nation, we're downsizing and laying some people off," said Iray Prasad, Teleperformance USA corporate spokesman.

But a branch manager at the Twin Falls facility, at 1309 Hillmore St., said Thursday the Twin Falls center is currently hiring.

Mini-Cassia chamber announces nominees

HEBOHN — Six nominees are competing for three seats on the Mini-Cassia Chamber of Commerce's board of directors.

This year's nominees are incumbent Diane Newman, incumbent Marianne Welch, Brent Tolman, Lee Greer, Mike Tilley and Brent Stoker.

Newman is first vice president of the chamber's executive board as well as director of sales at Best Western Burley Inn and Convention Center.

Welch is the owner of Burley gift shop Recollections. She is involved with Burley Area Merchants Association, Southern Idaho Economic Development Organization and the Burley Area Gien Team.

Tolman manages Mini-Cassia's Idaho Commerce and Labor office and is involved with the Mini-Cassia Economic Development Advisory Board.

Greer is co-owner of Greer's Truck Parts. He also serves on the board of directors of the Council of Fleet Specialists, an industry association representing distributors of heavy truck parts in the United States and Canada.

Tilley is the owner of Budget Auto Sales, which has been in business since 1989.

Stoker is a partner in several Mini-Cassia farms, including the Moo Mountain Milk dairy. Ballots were distributed to chamber members and must be returned to the chamber by 5 p.m. today.

Potato Commission launches campaign

BOISE — Fans of television fitness personality Denise Austin will hear the word that Idaho potatoes are a health food.

The second year of Austin's ads for the Idaho Potato Commission are now airing in 31 cities and on the Lifetime cable television network.

"A healthy diet is a matter of balance, so the idea of eliminating an entire major food group, like carbohydrates, just doesn't hold up," says Austin in the commercial, as she knocks down a cube food pyramid.

"The diet is, complex carbohydrates are a critical source of energy."

The Idaho Potato Commission spent $225,000 on the commercials and on sponsorship of Austin's cable TV program, "Denise Austin's Daily Work-Out," commission spokeswoman Lisa Tuminello said.

Idaho's business climate ranked 25th

The Associated Press

POCAHELLO — Idaho's economic climate for small businesses has been ranked 25th in the nation by a conservative small-business advocacy group.

The report, released this month by the Small Business & Entrepreneurship Council of Washington, D.C., compared how state and local governments treat small businesses and entrepreneurs.

Specifically, The Small Business Survival Index aims to determine the costs that elected officials impose on small-business owners and their employees.

The report put Idaho firmly in the middle of the pack, with South Dakota earning the top rating and the District of Columbia coming in last. Nevada and Wyoming also topped the list — holding second and third place, respectively — while Utah lagged behind Idaho at 24th place and Montana ranked 30th.

Mindy Perez, owner of Sheik Design Day Spa and Salon in downtown Pocatello, said Idaho's local and state policy favors bigger corporations at the expense of small businesses.

"The city will go out of its way to get a big business in, but it won't do that for a small business," she says.

According to the report, Idaho's ranking was boosted by low health care and electricity costs, a fairly low capital gains tax, no alternative minimum taxes on individuals or corporations and its status as a right-to-work state.

The state was hurt in the rankings by what the report considered high personal income taxes, high corporate income taxes, high gas taxes and high unemployment taxes.

Some officials disputed the findings, including Idaho's ranking of 14th in the crime category — behind New York and New Jersey.

"We raise our eyebrows when we hear that New York and New Jersey have a lower crime rate than we do," said Georgia Smith, an economic development specialist with the Idaho Department of Commerce and Labor.

Small Business & Entrepreneurship Council spokesman Raymond Keating said many people are surprised by New York's ranking as seventh-best for low crime and New Jersey's rankings as 11th.

"The data was compiled straight from FBI statistics," Keating said, and the number of crimes per resident in Idaho is higher compared to the eastern states.

Idaho was also ranked 26th in workers' compensation rates, behind five other Western states.

But Brandon Bird, the executive director of the Bingham Economic Development Corp., said Idaho has the lowest workers' compensation rates in the region.

"In the West, we're top dog when it comes to workers' compensation rates," he said.

Smith said not to place too much stock in the survey.

"For everyone that rates us in the bottom half, we can still out another that puts us in the top 10," she said.

Though state officials have not had time to fully digest the information, she said, Smith doubts whether the survey weighed factors such as tax credits and incentives that can offset corporate taxes.

DEEP-SEA PROFITS

Bottles filled with Ma He Lo Hawaii Deep Sea Water pass by light boxes as workers inspect the bottles for imperfections at the company's plant near Kailua Kona, Hawaii, on Oct. 1.

Japan thirsts for Hawaiian ocean water

The Associated Press

KAILUA-KONA, Hawaii — Known for its $30-a-pound Kona coffee beans, post $1,000-a-night hotel suites and $1 million ocean-view condos, the Big Island's west coast is now cashing in with another pricey offering: $6 bottled water from the bottom of the ocean.

Desalinated deep-sea water from Kona is the state's fastest-growing export with demand soaring in Japan. Super-cold water sucked up from thousands of feet below the Pacific Ocean's surface is being marketed as healthy, pure, mineral-rich drinking water.

Koyo-USA Corp. already is producing more than 200,000 bottles a day and says it can't keep up with demand in Japan, where it sells 1.5 liter bottles of its Ma He Lo brand for $4 to $6 each.

"We couldn't ask for better sales," spokesman John Frosted said. "At this point, we can't make enough. We have no surplus."

Four other companies are hoping to cash in on the deep-sea water craze, and so is the state, which collects royalties and rent from the bottlers based at the state Natural History Laboratory of Hawaii Authority (NHEHA) property next to the Big Island's Kona International Airport.

The state pumps the chilly water from 2,000 feet beneath the sea, and the companies pay a few cents per bottle to use the official NHEHA logo on their label, certifying the deep-sea water was collected at the state facility.

Koyo, the only company currently selling the deep-sea water from Hawaii, is expanding its plant and has applied to sell the water in the United States. It will sell for much less than in Japan.

In addition to Koyo, Asia's thirst for Hawaiian seawater also has attracted Los Angeles-based Deep Sea Water International, Japanese-owned Enzamin USA, Korean-owned Savers Holdings Ltd., and Japanese-owned Hawaii Deep Marine Inc.

The companies, located on the 870-acre NHEHA site, spent a combined $65 million turning black lava fields into parking lots and factories in 2003. This year, they are investing another $85 million to $100 million.

Besides the startup costs and the expensive desalination process, the companies will spend millions on shipping tons of water to Asia.

"Why Hawaii and pay so much transportation? Because Hawaii water is best," said Yoshiyuki Purano, general manager of Enzamin USA.

He said Hawaiian products have strong brand recognition in Japan for being high-quality, natural and pure.

"Japanese people have a very good image of Hawaii as a beautiful place with amazing, clear seas and gentle breeze," he said. "They have a very good image for Hawaii."

Savers General Manager Guy Toyama said bottled sea water has been around in Japan since the mid-1980s but the Japanese product "cannot match the depth, quality and purity of the water from the middle of the Pacific."

Savers plans to begin construction this month and will

Shop owner shows compassion

Times-News correspondent

JEROME — When recent circumstances left Mary Weber with more month than money at the end of the month, Weber looked to the world of pawn for some short-term financial assistance.

Despite a high and fixed rate of interest, Weber secured a 30-day loan at East Snake River Pawn, 2773 S. Lincoln Ave., to help with her monthly obligations.

At pawn shops, physical goods are used as collateral for cash loans. And according to standard loan agreements, redemption of the pawned property transpires when a loan is repaid on time and in full.

The collateral Weber used in exchange for cash she needed was jewelry.

End of story? Not for Weber.

With a down-turned economy shouldering part of the blame, Weber was unable to

Kroger employees reject offer, authorize a strike

The Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Kroger Co. employees from stores in three states voted Wednesday night to reject the company's latest contract offer and authorized their union to call a strike if necessary, union officials said.

Kroger is the parent company of Fred Meyer and Smith's stores.

The contract, which expires at 10 p.m. EDT Friday, affects 8,500 cashiers, grocery baggers and clerks in meat, produce, and delicatessen departments at 70 Kroger stores in southwest Ohio, northern Kentucky and southeast Indiana.

"Nobody wants to strike. It's just that at some point, sometimes workers say to their employers 'enough is enough,' and they do it," said John Marrone, spokesman for United Food & Commercial Workers Local 1039, which represents the Kroger employees.

Ninety-seven percent of the 5,000-plus workers who voted rejected the contract offer and authorized a strike, Marrone said.

"We are still focused on getting back to the table to start talking again so we can find common ground and get an agreement," Kroger spokesman Gary Rhodes said Wednesday night. "We're committed to the negotiations process."

Marrone said union officials were waiting for a federal mediator to decide whether there would be further negotiations.

Kroger is still feeling the effects of a labor dispute in southern California that ended in February. Business lost in a 4.5-month strike and lockout contributed to the Cincinnati-based supermarket operator's second-quarter earnings drop

Stocks fall on GM earnings, oil Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Investors sent stocks falling sharply for a second straight day Thursday as crude oil prices surged near $55 per barrel and General Motors Corp.'s earnings disappointed the market.

The Dow Jones industrial average, having fallen 153 points over two days, dropped back below 10,000.

Crude oil futures continued a record-setting trend Thursday, with prices reaching $54.90 per barrel in intraday trading.

Crude oil prices rose more than expected, according to a government report, reserves of distillates such as heating oil dropped substantially.

A barrel of light crude for November delivery closed at a record $54.76, up $1.12, on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Or not. Although store manager Greg Minard had the right to put the unclaimed merchandise out on the display shelves to be sold for a profit, in Weber's case, he opted to wait "to give it a little more time," he said.

"Though Weber was considerably late in contacting the store, she did return. As to her surprise, the merchandise was still locked away.

Minard said he had a feeling about Weber — and the call he made was right on the mark.

"Unusual? Not for Minard. "We're in business to help people," said Minard, who has worked in the pawn business for seven years. "A lot of the things people bring in are family heirlooms that have great sentimental value."

And his decision to wait was based on a combination of factors — the person, and her goods.

"It's done me a big favor," said Minard. "Weber, 'I made good on the item a long time ago — but he held onto it — and is still holding it."

"The action that Minard chose is what customer service is all about," said Mark Buchanan, professor of law and international business at Boise State University.

"He was particularly sensitive to her situation, and displayed exceptional customer service," Buchanan said. "From a contractual standpoint, he had a right to keep the goods, and was under no obligation to return the surplus. "It takes a special kind of person to work in this type of business, and his call to give the customer the benefit of the doubt is all about perceptibility," Buchanan said.

"It's not possible to establish that as a precedence, but he made his decision special to this one case," Buchanan said.

And that's going "above and beyond" customer service. "It takes a special kind of person to work in this type of business, and his call to give the customer the benefit of the doubt is all about perceptibility," Buchanan said.

Minard said. "Still, when commerce is concerned, there's a flipside to pawn."

"When merchandise is made available, customers like auto-shop owner Jay Schroe can reap the benefits.

"Tools are so expensive I can't justify buying new," said Schroe, who said he frequents pawnshops hoping to find a bargain.

"In an area where seasonal loans are based on an item's value. And as long as the interest on the loan is paid — up to date, the owner of the shop will continue to hold the goods. But when a loan cannot be repaid, the pawned item can be sold."

"In a sense, (by keeping the merchandise locked away) I may have missed a sale — but that's not what we're here for," Minard said.

And while a margin of profit can be substantial in the pawn business, there's more to the business equation. "We like to help people out,"

THE ACES ON BRIDGE Bobby Wolff

"Fortune does not arrive in pairs, and troubles do not come singly."
 — Chinese proverb

The difference in approach between teams (or rubber bridge) and pairs cannot be better illustrated than by a deal like this one, where declarer's strategies will vary dramatically, depending on the importance of making an overtrick.

Say you were playing pairs, where overtricks are vitally important, particularly if you assume everyone will be playing the same four-spade contract. West starts by leading the king, ace and a third heart, East ruffing deceptively with the spade 10. Since the contract does not appear to be at risk, declarer is likely to overcall with the queen and play the king of trumps. When he finds he has a trump loser, he will have to fall back on the club finesse and go down a trick. Does that mean that declarer has misplayed the deal? Not really; his chance of an overtrick was so much better than the chance of going down by following this line that he was making the right play.

At teams, though, the importance of the overtrick is not nearly as great as the value of making a game contract. While the chance of running into the hostile distribution that actually exists may be small, you can avoid any risk of going down by four spades. The way to do that is simply to discard the club jack at the third trick. Now you can ruff two diamonds in dummy at your leisure and draw trumps in comfort. You will make 10 tricks with no problem.

ANSWER: Bid four diamonds. This is not a slam try, but an attempt to tell partner where you live, helping him work out what to do over the inevitable four-spade bid from one opponent or the other. Particularly when the opponents have spades and you have hearts, you may need to plan the auction to get partner on the ace.
