Governor retaliates with vetoes

Kempthorne nixes bills after defeat of GARVEE bond plan

By Julie Pearce
Times-News writer

BOISE—Some of the governor's staff were shopping early Thursday morning for a new container of red ink.
The reason? After signing a meth-lab cleanup bill, Gov. Dirk Kempthorne had a stack of 47 House bills ready to veto.
It was get-even time. And one of his targets was Rep. Leon Smith, R-Twin Falls, who led the charge Wednesday against Kempthorne's proposal to use GARVEE, or Grant Anticipation Revenue Vehicle bonds, to pay for 13 road projects statewide. One of the projects is a dual bridge across the Snake River Canyon west of Twin Falls.

Though Kempthorne said he took the "macro approach" in selecting the eight bills he vetoed Thursday, five of the eight had been sponsored by lawmakers who trounced Wednesday evening Kempthorne's bond plan. They contributed to the 9-5 vote to hold Kempthorne's $1.6 billion "Connecting

Schiavo dies

Ray Robert of Mountain Home, Ark., wipes tears away as he loses on a portrait of Jesus during a prayer service Thursday in front of Terri Schiavo's hospice, where Schiavo died earlier in the day in Naples Park, Fla.

Passing doesn't bring end to right-to-die dispute

The Washington Post

OBITUARY

A long, unprecedented court battle

TERRI Schiavo slipped away Thursday, dying with a stuffed animal tucked under her arm as a national debate raged about the ethics, politics and spiritual significance of her life and death.
She was pronounced dead at 9:05 a.m. on a breezy central Florida morning, a bouquet of lilies and roses—a gift from an anonymous supporter—scented the room and demonstrators on the sidewalk praying for her soul. Schiavo's husband, Michael, cradled her in those last minutes—13 days after her feeding tube was removed, his attorney George Felo said.
Her parents, Robert and Mary Schindler, whose emotional appeals for political intervention carved unforgettable images of the case, were not at the hospice. Schiavo's sister, Suzanne Vladamiro, and her brother, Bobby Schindler, were banned from the room by Michael Schiavo after a loud confrontation between Schindler and police in the hallway about 15 minutes before her death.

Once the room was cleared, Felo called Schiavo's passing a "calm, peaceful and gentle death." Her parents' spiritual adviser, the Rev. Frank Forcino, his eyes moist and red, called it "a killing."

"Millions of Americans were

Schiavo, 1984 and 2001

saddened by Schiavo's death," President Bush said. He lamented that Schiavo could not have been kept alive by a law he signed after it was passed by Congress during a historic Palm Sunday session. "The essence of civilization," Bush said, "is that the strong have a duty to protect the weak."

Autopsy won't answer all questions in Schiavo case.

Some of America's most powerful figures and institutions have been debating whether to try a new pellet feed.

"We used their product for a two-month trial and felt it was as good as what we were mixing, so we began using it and almost immediately began to see a decline in the health of our cows," he said.

Whiteley said while the cause was not obvious, they found themselves supplementing their old rations trying to keep the cows healthy on the pellet feed.

S. Idaho ag officials say crickets will come calling

Infestations may threaten rangelands, crops

By Terry Smith
Times-News correspondent

BOISE—Large outbreaks of Mormon crickets and grasshoppers are expected once again to threaten rangelands and crops in parts of southern Idaho.

"We're anticipating a busy year, based on the surveys we did last fall," said Ron Simko, program manager for the Idaho Department of Agriculture.

Authorities are particularly concerned about Mormon crickets in southwest Idaho,

BURLEY—The owners of an Oakley dairy walked away from the Cassia County Courthouse this week with what officials said may be the county's biggest judgment ever awarded by a civil jury.

Acme Dairy, which sued Cargill Animal Nutrition, was awarded $7,666,005 for what jurors determined was purposeful misrepresentation.

Bundy Robinson and Robert Whiteley and their partners sought damages for dairy losses resulting from feed pellets, purchased from Cargill, that caused deaths, inverted udders (poor health and low production) cows, lack of reproduction, immunosuppression resulting in salmonella and pneumonia in their dairy herds and numerous other residual problems, including an extensive loss of profitability.

Cargill disagreed with the jury's findings.

"We are disappointed in the verdict, and we are considering what our next steps will be, including appeal," said Mark Klein, director of communications for Cargill Animal Nutrition in Minneapolis.

Cargill's attorney was on a trip to Chicago and could not be reached.

Whiteley said the problems began when Cargill asked him to try a new pellet feed.

"We used their product for a two-month trial and felt it was as good as what we were mixing, so we began using it and almost immediately began to see a decline in the health of our cows," he said.

Whiteley said while the cause was not obvious, they found themselves supplementing their old rations trying to keep the cows healthy on the pellet feed.

"Out of frustration, we canned Cargill and went back to our original ration and saw an almost immediate improvement," he said.

"But the damage was done and it has been residual since

Panel rips intelligence agencies

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON—A damning report by a presidential commission concluded Thursday that the "United States knows 'disturbingly little' about nuclear and biological threats from dangerous adversaries, years after the Sept. 11 attacks and the nation's intelligence misstep on Iraq weapons."

Urging dramatic changes in the U.S. spy agencies, the commission called crucial intelligence investigations on Iraq "less than satisfactory" and said, "the time is now."

Though he initially opposed the panel's creation, President

Bush promised immediate action at a news conference with retired Judge Laurence Silbermann, a Republican and former Democratic Sen. Charles Robb of Virginia, the commission's co-chairmen.

"To win the war on terror, we will correct what needs to be fixed," Bush said.

The commission offers 74 recommendations, aimed at changing the structure and culture of the nation's 15 spy agencies. It called for more clarity in the powers of the newly created national intelligence director, and over top of national security efforts for the Justice Department and House of Representatives intelligence collection and analysis.

There is no more important intelligence mission than understanding the worst weapons that our enemies possess, and how they intend to use them against us," the commission said. "Those are their deepest secrets, and unlocking them must be our highest priority."

The report, approved unanimously by the bipartisan nine-member panel, followed the failure of U.S. troops in Iraq to turn up any weapons of mass destruction. The "evidence of weapons acquisition" was "less than satisfactory," the report said. It also criticized the failure of the intelligence community to keep up with the "evolving threat of terrorism."

where large infestations occurred last year. Hard hit was Owyhee County with some 1.65 million acres infested.

"We think that for now the crickets problem will continue to be significant," said Dave McNeal, state plant health specialist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In addition to Owyhee County, authorities will be closely watching Mormon crickets populations in Elmore, Gooding, Washington and Ada counties.

Veto

 Idaho's plan in the House Transportation and Defense Committee.
 "I just signed a bill that shows what can happen when you cooperate," Smith said. "I'm not sure, referring to the lab cleanup bill that he worked on with Sen. Denton Darrington, R-Deer." "Yesterday there was an action in one of the House committees where I don't feel we had that cooperation," he said, alluding to the transportation committee.
 "I'm determined that we are going to connect Idaho," Kempthorne said, before dipping his veto stamp into fresh red ink and flamboyantly slamming it down on the recently passed bills.
 In response, Rep. Leon Smith, R-Twin Falls, said, "Well, let him get done vetoing everything. Then we'll spend a day re-examining them."
 The House would have the votes necessary to override the governor. But the Senate, which passed the governor's plan in a 30-4 vote, wasn't intended to do any overrides, said Sen. Majority leader Brad Davis, R-Idaho Falls.
 Smith, a former chairman of the state Transportation and Defense Committee, who oversees

He says it would put some "sideboards" on Kempthorne's plan. But before vetoing House bills, Kempthorne had already rejected the main points in Smith's plan that are different.
 One thing Smith wants is a cap on the amount of federal highway dollars coming to Idaho that can be spent on debt service. Smith wants no more than 20 percent. Kempthorne's plan calls for 42 percent for two years with a 33-percent average.
 Smith doesn't want excessive federal funds usually dedicated to road maintenance to go toward paying interest. But Kempthorne said capping the interest paid out at 20 percent could prolong the time for getting to the projects, which would add to the overall cost due to inflation. He also pointed out a 20-percent cap puts projects at risk of being cut off before they are finished due to insufficient funds.
 Another issue Smith has with Kempthorne's plan is that it departs from the usual protocol of the Idaho Transportation Department. The 13 projects would be approved in the Legislature's House of Representatives instead of being put on the schedule that the agency uses.
 Kempthorne said the "Bedke amendment" would take care of the problem. Rep. Scott Bedke, R-Oakley, who oversees the transportation budgets on the Joint Finance Appropriation Committee, had worked with the governor earlier in the session to add more oversight to the GARVEE expenditures in IFAC.

 Bedke, who also sits on the transportation committee, tried Thursday to get opponents on the committee to visit with the governor and reach a compromise, but Smith said, "I think the mood is very acrimonious."
 Meanwhile, three crucial bills that had been sponsored by the governor and reach a compromise, but Smith said, "I think the mood is very acrimonious."
 "Every bill that comes down here is veto fodder," Kempthorne said.
 Legislators had hoped to adjourn the 2005 session either Thursday or today, but now lawmakers are bracing for a longer session. The governor would have released the already-lies in Boise. He can dig in "for as long as it takes."

Pope's medical condition worsens

Chicago Tribune
 VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican said Friday that Pope John Paul II's condition was very serious, hours after he suffered heart failure.
 Vatican spokesman Joseph Navarro-Valls said in a statement that on Thursday afternoon the pope's heart stopped momentarily during treatment for a urinary tract infection.
 "This morning the condition of the Holy Father is very serious," the statement said.
 However, it said that the pope had participated in a 9 a.m. Mass and that the Holy Father is conscious, lucid, and serene.
 The pope's condition worsened and the most recent complications caused by the infection he contracted in February.
 "The pope is nearing the end of his life," Austrian Cardinal Christoph Schoenborn told reporters in Jerusalem. The Austrian news agency APA said the pope was "stable" only rarely and was responding to the medical treatment. But a source of the pope's medical team said the pope was "stable" only rarely and was responding to the medical treatment. But a source of the pope's medical team said the pope was "stable" only rarely and was responding to the medical treatment.
 "He is being treated with appropriate therapy based on antibiotics. His clinical state is being very closely monitored by the Vatican medical team which is treating him," Valls said.
 But concerns are growing that the pope, whose recovery has been slower than expected since he was released from hospital nearly three weeks ago, is approaching the final stages of his long struggle with Parkinson's disease.

Dairy

 (2002). We are still seeing the damage in offspring of the cattle we had on the feed."
 The problem appeared to be related to the Cargill feed, but it wasn't until another member of Acme's High Desert Milk Cooperative shared some information that he discovered about "mis-mixed" feed at Cargill that Robinson and Whiteley began looking into the mispropriety.
 "We're in the cooperative talk often," Robinson said.
 "One of our members went to the feed mill and toured it while they were mixing his batch. He discovered the ingredients were put in the batch were not what the company had indicated. He told us about that and we determined to investigate the feed we had used." Three years later, their concerns went before 5th District Judge Monte Carlson and a Cassia County jury, which after eight days of testimony from veterinarians, animal nutritionists, company officials, dairymen and the plaintiffs, resulted in a $7 million-plus settlement.

 "We really want to thank those citizens who, for more than a week, served on the jury, sorting through tons of technical information and listening intently to the testimony, so they were able to determine a proper outcome," Robinson said.
 "Neither myself nor Robert has ever sued anyone for anything before and I appreciate their effort to carefully sort through everything in order to make a fair and informed decision."
 Robinson said while that sounds biased because the case was settled in their favor, he wanted to be certain others understood their chief belief is that they know what caused the death of hundreds of their cows, a decline in milk quality, a loss in reproduction and a huge profit loss.

 "The money is secondary," Robinson said. He pointed out the analyst who provided testimony concerning Acme's losses told the court the $7 million figure was a "very conservative estimate."
 "At a dairy you have a new problem almost daily, and when an operation this size has problems, they are monumental. It's a relief to know what the cause was. We'll be digging out of the financial mire for some time."
 Robinson said the dairy's extensive health, nutrition and financial records created a fairly cut-and-dried case.
 He said other lawsuits are pending in the area on the same issue. While he said those who suffered losses for the misrepresentation are justified to seek remuneration, he is concerned that many might use this precedent as a reason to sue whenever anything goes wrong.

Crickets

 Authorities are concerned about Mormon cricket populations building up in southeast Idaho in Oroville, Power and Hannock counties.
 While Mormon crickets are found mainly on rangelands, they also threaten adjacent cropland.
 "They could be a massive problem if they get into crops, especially grain," McNeal said. "Hopefully the suppression program will keep them from that."
 Grasshopper infestations were not typically widespread last year but occurred in nearly every county in southern Idaho. Authorities said the populations in southwest Idaho are worrisome because the history of grasshopper outbreaks indicates that they start in this area and spread elsewhere over the course of a few seasons.
 Also of concern are grasshopper populations building up in northern Idaho in Payette, Gem and Shoshone counties.
 An area is defined as infested if it has more than eight grasshoppers, or more than three Mormon crickets, per square yard last year. 200,000

Doctors: Autopsy won't provide definite answers

Knight Ridder News Service

MIAMI — Terri Schiavo's autopsy could shed light on whether she was in a persistent vegetative state, but it is unlikely to provide definitive answers, doctors said Thursday.

The diagnosis of persistent vegetative state — when a patient has no thoughts or awareness but can make random gestures and facial expressions — is based on an examination in which a doctor attempts to interact with the patient in simple ways, such as giving commands like "touch my hand" or "open your mouth."

In most cases, there is no way to diagnose the condition solely by looking at scans of the patient's brain.

Terri Schiavo
in 1980

autopsies at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine.

"You compare what you see to known cases of persistent vegetative state," she said. "If the damage that you see is compatible to — or more severe than — what's been seen in previous cases, you can infer that the brain damage in this case was severe enough to cause a persistent vegetative state."

Vegetative patients typically have extensive damage to the cerebral cortex, the brain's wrinkled outer section, which controls higher mental processes such as thought, speech and consciousness, Crain said. The thalamus, which relays messages to and from the cortex, is often damaged as well.

But Dr. Alan Weitzsaeck, medical director of brain injury at Craig Hospital in Colorado, cautioned against drawing definitive conclusions from the autopsy.

"The postmortem of the brain cells, brain wires and brain tissues is just going to confirm how much anatomical damage is present, but it does not confirm whether her diagnosis was persistent vegetative state or minimally conscious state," he said.

Patients in a minimally conscious state look very similar to vegetative patients, but have some awareness and can consistently respond to simple questions.

The Pinellas County Medical Examiner's Office said Thursday that Schiavo's autopsy would include X-rays. The move could help resolve allegations that Schiavo had been abused by her husband, Michael, by determining whether she had previously undiscovered bone fractures, said Dr. John Butts, chief medical examiner for North Carolina.

Schiavo

ment. "The time will come for the men responsible for this to answer for their behavior, but not today."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., described DeLay's remarks "reprehensible" and questioned whether he was advocating violence against judges who ruled against Schiavo's parents. "At a time when emotions are running high, Mr. DeLay needs to make clear that he is not advocating violence against anyone. People in this case have already had their lives threatened."

DeLay spokesman Dan Allen said the House leader was not advocating violence but was "stating disappointment at the way the judiciary ignored the intent of Congress and the president."

The political drama swirling over Schiavo — who died three days before her husband's birthday — was matched by the religious passions her case stirred. The Vatican took a particular interest, issuing statements that narrowed the range of acceptable conditions under which a Catholic can stop tube-feeding. After Schiavo's death Thursday, Jose Saramita Martins — head of the Vatican's office for sainthood — called the removal of Schiavo's feeding tube "an attack on God."

Within moments of Schiavo's passing, the plaintive notes of "Amazing Grace" filled the air, twisting out of a scuffed trumpet as an impromptu choir formed outside her hospice. A man slumped against a metal post, shaking his head and murmuring a prayer. A woman in a purple nurse's smock sobbed, unable to speak.

Demonstrators heeded posters into the air of the Virgin de Guadalupe, the Virgin Mary image most beloved by so many of Florida's Hispanics. Others knelt and bent their foreheads to the ground.

"I ask God to have mercy on the soul of our nation," said Joe Rogers, 61, a defense contractor from Ohio.

Addressing the demonstrators, with her father and brother by her side, Vitadamo urged calm. "Threatening words dishonor our family, our faith and our sister, Terri. We would ask that all of those who support our family be completely kind in their words and deeds to others."

As the demonstrators wept and prayed, a national conversation about living wills was taking place, spurred by the ambiguity and pain caused by Schiavo's lack of written instructions about life-sustaining care. Conservative activists were vowing to exact election-time revenge on the judges and politicians who stood in the way of reinserting the tube removed from Schiavo's stomach 13 days ago.

"There will be hell to pay," said Randall Terry, the Operation Rescue founder, who became the spokesman for Schiavo's parents.

No political figure is more entwined in the case than Gov. Bush, who told reporters this week that the Schiavo case is the toughest issue he has faced in nearly seven years as governor. Bush pushed a measure through the Florida legislature — which was ruled unconstitutional — that allowed him to order her feeding resumed six days after her tube was removed in 2003. But some demonstrators were calling him a "traitor" on Thursday because he refused to defy a court order that he did not have authority to take custody of Schiavo.

Terry's death is a window through which we can see the many issues left unresolved in our families and in our society," the governor told reporters Thursday.

Congressional leaders and lawmakers in statehouses across the nation also were pledging to convert the emotions and the rhetoric of Schiavo's case into new laws for families divided by end-of-life issues. Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., who two weeks ago said there was doubt about whether Schiavo was in a vegetative state after reviewing videos of her, has indicated that Congress should revisit feeding-tube issues raised in the Schiavo case. "May God bless her memory," he said.

The last half-hour of Schiavo's life, much like the last seven years, turned into a family brawl. Her brother, Bobby Schindler, who lobbied Congress and conservative Christian groups for years to save her, argued with police when he was asked to leave her room so that hospice officials could assess her condition. Pavone said Schindler complained because he was told he was being banned from the hospice as Schiavo neared death.

Michael Schiavo's "heartless cruelty continued until this very last moment," Pavone said.

Felso countered during a news conference later in the day, saying Schindler was kept out because he had become loud and confrontational and Michael Schiavo wanted his wife to die in an atmosphere of "love." The bitter back-and-forth colored the moments after Schiavo's death, underscoring the intractability of a family fight that has consumed nearly half of the 15 years since that day in 1990 when oxygen stopped flowing to her brain after a heart attack.

UI athletics, academics should share budget pain

The headline Thursday said it all: 'UI' departments will pay more to cover debt while athletics gets break.' The student body ultimately suffering at the expense of University of Idaho athletic department boosters and donors comes as no surprise. This sort of thing has been happening at universities nationwide for years and years - as demonstrated by the many basketball schools inducted these past weeks with March Madness. That doesn't make it right, however.

debt. That amounts to a $40.9 million increase next year in the athletic department's expenses.

An increase to 6 percent would cost the athletic department hundreds of thousands of dollars, said Athletic Director Rob Spear. His department would be willing to pay the same rate as other UI departments, he said, but not while the university is moving into the NCAA Division I Western Athletic Conference.

Our view: The

Vandals athletic department should pay a more proportionate share of the University of Idaho's $20 million debt.

What do you think?

We welcome viewpoints from our readers on this and other issues.

Spear isn't alone when it comes to wishes. Many bald men they had hair. And there will be students in years to come who will wish they could get into graduate schools or get jobs that might not be available to them as a result of academic budget cuts at UI.

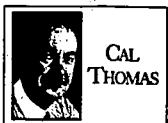

And don't get us started about using competitive as an adjective for Vandals athletics, the football team in particular, which has lost 60 games and many thousands of dollars in the past nine years.

Spear and other athletic department boosters and supporters say that moving to the WAC is financially lucrative to the university. Vandals' athletics pump $28 million into the Moscow community, they say, and pay $2.1 million annually in tuition and fees on scholarships for the athletes.

"The last thing we need is this animosity between the academic side and the athletic side. It's unhealthy," Spear said.

We couldn't agree more. But it's easy to see why faculty members at UI are upset. And we can't help but wonder about the university's priorities.

Theresa Terri Schiavo, who was confined to a hospital bed, unable to speak and condemned to death by federal courts that refused to intervene to save her life, has been transported to a new life where she will be able to communicate in a powerful new way. She will quickly become a saint to the pro-life movement as well as a metaphor for what is wrong with our federal and many state courts. Possibly her death might add momentum to President Bush's quest to get judges confirmed who believe in the fundamental right to life for all categories of human existence. Instead of judicial free-lancers who speak of a "living Constitution" even while they arrogantly preside over a prejudicial reading of that document and sentence new categories of life to death.

While opinion polls showed overwhelming majorities in favor of "pulling the plug" on Terri Schiavo, it appears that despite extensive coverage of her condition, many Americans did not fully comprehend significant details of this case or fully appreciate where it will lead.

This will not be the end of such cases, but the beginning, or more accurately, a continuation of the line of death that began in the womb in 1973 with Roe v. Wade and will now quickly advance toward the "retirement" villages. The angel of death that moved through ancient Egypt at the first Pharaoh was called "the destroyer." Our courts are his modern incarnation.

PERSISTENT VEGETATIVE STATE

No life is safe because every life now depends on the whims, desires, comfort level and pleasure of others. From an "endowed" right to life, we have quickly moved to a court-imposed right to die. Increasingly we do not speak of life at all, but death. America truly is, as the suffering Pope John Paul II has described it, a "culture of death."

In the immediate aftermath of her death, there was a dispute between the Schindler and Schiavo families about access to Terri in her final moments. When the focus is on death and not life, it is difficult to detect common decency's pulse.

In commenting on Terri's death, President Bush, who signed legislation that attempted to keep her alive, said, "The essence of civilization is that the strong have a duty to protect the weak." Duty? Who speaks of such things today? Didn't Michael Schiavo have a duty to protect his wife instead of abandoning her and fathering two children by a woman to whom he was not married? How thick is that? Had Terri been given an MRI or PET scan that proved she was effectively "brain dead," the controversy might have ended.

This case will serve as a rallying cry for pro-life and other social conservatives. Expect "Remember Terri Schiavo" bumper stickers to appear soon. Expect conservative Republicans to make her death case of the campaign to win approval of federal judges. Watch liberal Democrats squirm, though some of them voted, along with conservatives, for the bill granting power to the federal courts to consider Terri's case. That judges refused to save her, or even grant a hearing to consider new facts, is another blot on the federal judiciary. It is a stain that won't be removed until those responsible are replaced.

There is another possibility. What if the polls are right and the public sees the removal of Terri feeding tube as an act of mercy and not murder? What then? In that case, we will know that the problem is not at the top - with judges and politicians - but in ourselves. We will see that our secularism, merely, reflects the secret desires of most hearts to worship the god of materialism, personal greed and pleasure. In that case, we will be getting our just deserts, as courts - at the urging of relatives wishing to preserve their inheritance or be relieved of "burdens" - dispatch the angel of death to more of us who are not ready to die.

If you're bad, we'll make you a star

The next worst thing to hearing of yet another child abducted by a known molester is yet another tutorial by the newest media darling - pedophile pundit Jake Goldenflame, who the lesbian name seems more suited to pom credits than serious commentary.

Goldenflame is nearly as ubiquitous as porn these days, recently inescapable as television news producers leave no rock unturned to find fresh voices to opine on current events. Where the daily breaking story is a disgraced child who else can put a registered sex offender?

Thus has Goldenflame become the Talking Head du jour. A self-described "recovering pedophile," the convicted child molester - whose victims have included his own 3-year-old daughter and numerous boys - is also an author and, therefore, we must infer from his uncorroborated omphreance, an "authority."

Just as the cannibalistic Hannibal Lecter ("The Silence of the Lambs") became a source of insight into the perverse mind of a murderer who skinned his victims to sew a new skin for himself, so we turn to Goldenflame for advice about how to handle those baffling deviants who prey on children.

When some sicko decides to drop a human being into a plastic shredder, might we expect to see members of Saddam Hussein's fedayeen death squads interviewed for their unique insights into the mind of a torturer?

Simply put, I don't care what Goldenflame thinks. About anything. I don't want to know his name (unless he moves next door, much less learn he's into my living room. Yet here he is chatting it up with our friends at Fox and Joe Scarborough on MSNBC. Even Oprah invited him over as though Goldenflame were just another half-fell-low-well-met with some intriguing angles on quirky behavior.

His marketing niche is that he, unlike most in his disturbed tribe, supports Megan's Law, which requires convicted sex offenders to register with their states live in so people can find out when the candy man moves into their neighborhood. The law was passed after Megan Kanka, a 7-year-old New Jersey girl, was raped and killed in 1994 by a convicted child molester's neighbor.

It's not so much what Goldenflame says that's objectionable. What he says, in fact, is true - that sex offenders can't "cure" and must be carefully monitored. So true that it's commonly known among experts, who have managed to become authorities without consulting critics.

Goldenflame's own technique for avoiding re-offending for the past 14 years is to avoid temptation. In the same way that alcoholics steer clear of circuses, a stance that would tempt them to drink, molesters like Goldenflame try not to be around children. Megan's Law is one more layer of defense in a world populated by millions of detectable innocents.

No, what causes that creepy feeling, putting one in mind of rough loofahs and gritty soaps, is that Goldenflame is invited to the discussion at all. Why is a sex offender given an audience? Why are we willing participants in this moral farce?

We've long ago become inured to the blurring of news and entertainment. Now we've moved to a new level of cognitive dissonance in which the vilest forms of humanity's granted polite entry into the public parlor. Without our notice, the perverse and the sublime commingle in the uncomfortable anatomy people until, inevitably, the abnormal becomes normal, the bizarre ordinary, and evil has an agent.

I don't begrudge Goldenflame his rehabilitation, but I'd rather he do it on his own time. His self-cutting is a form of therapeutic confession that purges his own demons while imposing them on the rest of us. He feels better and we need a bath. Our passive complicity constitutes, if not tacit approval, at least a level of involuntary involvement that is both voyeuristic and prurient.

It's not hard to see why Goldenflame in 2003: "I've been 12 years since you've been out of prison. Have you had the urge to molest?" And he says, "Yes." It's not hard to see why that turns me on. Suddenly, we're all in the game. Implicit is a wink and a nod and the sense that we're all essentially the same. Just folks talking about their... that.

So goes American celebrity in the 21st century. It matters not what you do or what you are, only that you can hook a camera in the eye without blinking. In such a world, Jake Goldenflame isn't your worst nightmare. He's a magician. And we - dozing under the seductive spell of moral relativism - his unflinching fools.

LETTER

Schiavo's passing is likely a blessing for her.

In regard to the media case with Terri Schiavo in Florida: Her body has lain idle, unable to tend to itself for 15 years, unable to communicate with friends or loved ones, having nothing to look forward to, not even a good meal. Life would be lacking the pleasure and joy we feel every day. I am sure this scenario has played itself out many times in the past, only without the news media. I feel her husband wants to get this behind him and get on with his life. I also feel that her parents cannot face death and must be totally afraid of death.

There are situations much worse than death. If she can't hear and feel and sense time, then I can envision this lady laying in bed all day long for 15 years with total boredom. Her only joy would be when someone is there with her, and she is not able to communicate. To me, her smile is the same that you see on mentally challenged people, whether she can sense you're there or not.

As the news shows, people are calling this murder and barbaric. I think other wise. I tend to think it is barbaric to keep one's spirit entrapped in a body that cannot function or communicate. ROCK NEFF, Malibu

AROUND THE VALLEY

Officials await autopsy results

SHOSHONE — Officials continue to wait for autopsy results from a human remains found in the ashes of a mobile home fire in Lincoln County last week.

Firefighters were called to a blaze in north Shoshone around 1:30 a.m. on March 24.

Inside the home, fire personnel found the body of a male.

Shawn C. McDaniel told the Lincoln County Journal his department was "treating" the discovery as a homicide and called the fire "suspicious."

He advised a call Thursday from The Times-News to the prosecutor's office.

Prosecutor E. Scott Paul declined to comment on whether there are any suspects or if any arrests have been made.

T.F. district appoints new principals

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School District announced new principals for Jerome and Morningstar Elementary Schools on Thursday.

O'Leary Junior High School Principal Bill Brulotte will succeed East Anderson at Jerome after he retires at the end of the year. Sewboth and Harrison Elementary Vice Principal Jim Brown will take over for Dennis Smith, who is retiring from leading Morningstar.

Brulotte started with the Twin Falls School District in 1989 as a math teacher. From 1994 to 1996 he was vice principal at Lincoln and Morningstar. He then served as an assistant principal at Coeur d'Alene High School and spent four years with the Peace Corps in Kenya.

He returned to Twin Falls in 2001 serving as assistant principal at Morningstar and Sewboth. In 2002, he became principal at O'Leary.

Brown joined the Twin Falls School District in 1983, serving as physical education and health teacher and as athletic director at O'Leary. For the 1999-2000 school year he served as physical education teacher at Lincoln and vice principal at that school and Sewboth. Since 2002, he's been vice principal at Harrison and Sewboth.

The district has started its search for new administrators to fill Brulotte's and Brown's former positions.

West Minico Middle School reopens

PAUL — West Minico Middle School will reopen today.

The school had been closed since a small fire Monday afternoon closed part of the building with smoke.

The fire was confined to a clothes dryer and no one was hurt.

Houseer promoted to assistant fire chief

WENDELL — The Wendell Fire Department recently announced the promotion of Crystal "Pete" Houseer to assistant fire chief. She succeeds Bud Bittner, who has accepted the position of captain.

Houseer, who joined the Wendell Fire Department in 1987, brings several years of experience to the position. In addition to her time with the department, she currently holds an associate's degree in natural science and a bachelor's degree in biology. Houseer also has earned several firefighting certificates, including those concerning automobile extrication and hazardous materials. She also is a licensed emergency medical technician.

School replaces tickets for some Traffic violators get a chance to prevent blemish on records

By Rebecca Massey
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Few people can boast of a spotless 74-year-old driving record. But this week, Lemtana Anderson, 88, found himself dining in a classroom full of traffic ticket recipients.

"I was driving too fast in a school zone," she said.

Indeed, Anderson was caught driving 56 mph in the 20-mph zone near Oregon Trail Elementary School.

"I always watch that," she said. "I drive by their every day and never had that happen. I was supposed to be somewhere at a certain time. I wasn't concentrating."

On Wednesday night at Twin Falls High School, Anderson joined 23 other people for the first driver education/safety class, taught by the Twin Falls Police Department. Officials hope the evening course will teach people good driving habits — and ultimately help make city roads safer.

"We're here to learn to be better drivers," Staff Sgt. John Wilson told the group. "Most of us aren't bad drivers. You just got caught by a cop. Maybe you didn't know what you did was wrong. This is an education."

Wilson noted that rarely does an accident occur without a violation of law, whether it's following too closely or running red lights.

Many in attendance, however, were motivated by other incentive: upon successful completion of the class, the moving violation won't show up on their records and they won't have to pay the tickets.

(The officer) said you can either go to school or pay the fine," Anderson said. "I thought going to school was the cheaper way."

Anderson's ticket would have cost her about $136. By paying the $50 class fee, she saved herself $86.

Money from the class will go into the city's general fund, Wilson said, except for $10 from each person, which will go to the Idaho Peace Officer Standards and Training Academy for law enforcement training.

Most motorists who get tickets can take the safety class, as long as they have local and consistent ties to Twin Falls.

People who get ticketed for driving under the influence or those who have records of failing to appear for court hearings cannot participate.

"The majority of people who receive tickets in Twin Falls would be eligible," Wilson said. The police department's goal is to have one class per week.

"It makes me sick to think I did that," Anderson said. "I'll go 5 miles per hour when I go by there."

Sitting in the seat in front of Anderson on Wednesday was Veeta Roberts, 75, of Twin Falls, who also has had her license since she was 12 years old, with many a blemish on her record.

"I was speeding in a school zone," Roberts said. "It's strange because that's one thing I really observe."

Roberts was driving 30 mph near Harrison Elementary School.

"By the time I saw the sign, it was too late," she said. "I told the officer I had never been stopped, never been pulled over, but he wasn't sympathetic."

Even before the class, the women set themselves as chairmen.

"It makes me sick to think I did that," Anderson said. "I'll go 5 miles per hour when I go by there."

HELPING PATIENTS

Waiting for onlookers and customers Thursday at the Cancer Patient Emergency Assistance Fund, Shirley Ordway crochets a scarf, one of a set of 13 she is making for her daughters, granddaughters and daughters-in-law. The show, held at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, benefits the fund handled by Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Auction will benefit people who need medical care

By Sandy Miller
Times-News writer

FILER — Mary Jones' best friend would have celebrated his 46th birthday on Thursday. But he never made it past 44.

He died of bone cancer two years ago.

Jones said it never should have happened.

"He'd had two treatments and couldn't afford any more," Jones said.

He left behind a wife and four children.

"He was my childhood friend, just my dearest friend," Jones said. "He was the kindest person."

That never would have happened had his friend lived in Idaho and been treated at the Mountain States Tumor Institute at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. The facility never turns anyone away for lack of ability to pay, said Andy Hall, an oncology social worker at Mountain States. And when Jones heard a special fund to help cancer patients was getting low, she made it her mission to do something about it. So she called on some of her fellow crafters, and booked the Twin

Crafts for a cause

The Craftsers Boutique is sponsoring a craft fair and silent auction from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. today, through Sunday at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds in Filer. Money from the silent auction will benefit the Cancer Patient Emergency Assistance Fund, a program of the nonprofit Magic Valley Regional Medical Center Foundation that helps cancer patients pay for medications as well as basic needs such as

Wind conference touts the benefits of renewable energy

By Michelle Dupont
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Carpe ventum. No, it's not a type of fish. Rather, it's the motto of a recent conference to seize the wind.

Or at least that's what Larry Flowers, a spokesman for National Wind Technology Center, told about 80 people gathered Thursday for the Wind Power Workshop in Burley.

"Wind is now mainstream," Flowers said. "It's not a California phenomenon. It's a national phenomenon."

The large turnout indicated many residents intend to see wind as an Idaho phenomenon. The Idaho Energy Division and Idaho Electric Cooperatives held the event to provide information on those interested in wind generation — from farmers looking to install a turbine to power their irrigation pumps to investors, funding for large wind farm possibilities.

Gary Callahan of Idaho Power

Division outlined Idaho's wind-production potential.

"We've really got a really nice wind resource in Idaho," Callahan said.

In terms of wind-generating capacity, Idaho ranks 13th in the nation, he said. Despite the state's 1.5 million acres and 91,533 megawatt generation potential, Idaho only generates about 11 megawatts in wind power. One megawatt can power 650 homes.

Traditionally, states such as Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Arizona have enjoyed low energy prices and thus have pursued alternative energy sources, Flowers said.

"Now wind energy is more affordable," he said.

"Wind energy can cost about 1 cent per kilowatt hour less to generate than 'new' gas and coal-generated electricity," Flowers said. And, electricity produced through wind power doesn't require fuel, which can cause fluctuations in the cost to generate it.

"People like wind and renewables provided it's not going to have a significant impact on their rates," he said.

However, Flowers said, wind power does have drawbacks. It can be costly in the initial phases of a small project, can provide challenges with standardizing connections to power lines and can be inconsistent in power generation, he said.

Burley resident Leroy Swinlock knows all about the fickle nature of wind — Jarlomek operates a 20-kilowatt wind turbine on his property and wants to build a 10-sq-watt wind farm west of Burley.

In the past three days, Jarlomek's turbine produced 3,400 kilowatt hours of power — more than the windmill generated by the Jarlomek two months ago, he said. Still, wind power is not a sure thing, Jarlomek said. Jarlomek's monthly electric bill ran between $100 and $300 — money he now saves, for the most part, by using his turbine.

"It is not designed to make a profit off of. It's designed to eliminate a power bill," he said.

Larger projects — like Jarlomek's 10-megawatt farm or the 10.5-megawatt Fossil Gulch Wind Park near Hagerman — are designed to turn a profit.

And, that's just the kind of project the city of Pocatello seeks.

"Why would the city of Pocatello be interested in wind power?" asked city spokesman Dan Sharp. "It's all about the money."

Sharp described Pocatello as a railroad college town that doesn't generate enough money from livestock. The city is considering a 10- to 50-megawatt wind park that could solve much of the city's money problems, he said.

"Capital generated from wind sales can be used in the general fund," Sharp said. "Revenue would replace taxes."

County could get an economic "shot in the arm" from taxes paid by the Windland Inc. wind park proposed for Coterrell Mountain near Albion, said Clay Handy, county commissioner.

The county will also consider ways to encourage wind power generation through wind-energy friendly zoning that would allow the use of special-use permits for wind turbines on private lands, Handy said. Also, Cassia County will look into cooperatives — a move that could change residents' attitude toward wind.

"When the wind blows, everybody's smiling, which is not the case right now," Handy said.

Marcella Rose Schroeder

MERIDIAN — Marcella Rose Schroeder went to meet her Lord on March 29, 2005, after a brief illness. She died at home surrounded by her family.

On Sept. 8, 1935, in Lincoln, Neb., Marcella Rose Holten was given to this world for what would be an incredible journey.

Her journey started with a move to Idaho at the age of months old and settled into Clover by the time she was in the third grade. She attended Clover Lutheran School subsequently graduating from Fair High School.

She married Myrl Schroeder on Aug. 23, 1953, in Clover, Idaho, at Clover Trinity Lutheran Church, the very place where she met Myrl as a young girl.

Marcella was a quick-witted, devoted wife and mother of four children. Along with being a loving homemaker, Marcella also played an active role as partner in family businesses.

She was a huge supporter of Lutheran Camp Perkins as well as The Liberty Quartet Singers. Marcella also achieved titles of National Champion Snowmobile Racer and Water Ski show performer.

Surviving her are her husband, Myrl; and four children, Jeff Schroeder and wife, Carol, Val Dean Schroeder and wife, Patty, Debra Rambo and Terri Schroeder, grandchildren, Alissa Aldrich and her husband, Brian, Laura Hendricks and her husband, Ryan, Alana Schroeder, Brooke Caldron and husband, Angel, Mike Ball, Myrl Schroeder, Ballie Schroeder, Amanda Rambo, Nick Rambo, Ashli Schroeder and Rikki Fix; great grandchildren, Bryn Caldron, all residing in the Boise area.

Marcella is at peace in heaven, wrapped in the arms of Jesus watching over us all.

A funeral will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 2, 2005, at the Friendship Celebration Lutheran Church, 765 E. Chinden Blvd., Meridian, with Pastor Tom Hausch officiating.

Burial will follow at Cloverdale Cemetery. A viewing will be held from 4:00 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. and her family will greet friends from 6:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. today, Friday, at the Alden-Waggoner Funeral Chapel, 3400 Fairview, Boise.

There will also be a viewing from 9 until 9:45 a.m. the morning of the service at the church.

Marcella's family suggests memorials be made to The Lutheran Camp Perkins, P.O. Box 1963, Hailey, ID 83333.

Betty Geneene Caldwell Friesz

BOISE — Betty Geneene Caldwell Friesz, age 74, went to be with her Lord and Savior on March 30, 2005, after an extended illness.

A funeral will be held at 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 2, 2005, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church located at 811 S. Latah in Boise, Idaho. Concluding services will be at Dry Creek Cemetery.

Arrangements under the direction of Alden-Waggoner Funeral Chapel, Boise.

Betty was born on Aug. 14, 1930, in Twin Falls, Idaho, to Leander William and Dorothy Marie (Willis) Christopherson. Betty attended schools in Gooding, Idaho, and graduated from Twin Falls High School in May of 1948. Betty married Barney J. (George) Caldwell on May 30, 1948.

They lived in the Twin Falls area until moving to Mountain Home in 1955 where they resided until moving to Boise in 1958. Betty and George attended Central Assembly for many years as well as Northview Assembly.

Betty returned to school in 1968 to become a registered nurse. 1970 was a special year for our family.

Betty graduated from nursing training as an RN, daughter, Dorothy graduated with her husband, Edna, signed the birth record, Betty graduated from high school.

Betty worked as an RN at a local doctor's office as well as nursing homes, and then retired from the Idaho State Veterans Home in 1994.

After 42 years of marriage, Betty lost her husband, George, and Jack Friesz lost his wife, Elva, after 40 years of marriage.

Betty and Jack met and married in 1993 and spent nearly 12 wonderful years together. After their marriage, Betty and Jack attended Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Betty had a love for hobbies such as reading, cross-stitching, knitting and camping.

Betty is survived by her husband, Jack of Boise; two daughters and their husbands, Dorothy and Richard Kindall of Boise and Recta and Marvin Hussey of Star; one son, Milan (Mitch) Caldwell of Nampa; two stepdaughters and their husbands, Debbie and Ken Fischer and Lynda and Brian Martin, both of Boise. She is survived by 13 grandchildren, Sheri and Ryan Kindall, Melissa, Kevin and Kim Hussey, Ben, Nic and wife, Christi, Dan, Melynda and Michal Fischer, Alex and Andy Martin. Betty was richly blessed with three great-grandchildren, Riley Hussey and Hunter and Dakota Fischer.

Other survivors include her stepmother, Violet Christopherson of Twin Falls, Idaho; her sister and her husband, Sandra and Jim Powers of Merion, Wash.; a sister-in-law, Marion Christopherson of Rustic Rock, Colo.; one aunt, Lorel Christopherson of Black Canyon City, Ariz.; as well as numerous cousins, nieces and nephews.

Betty was preceded in death by her parents; her husband, George; and her brother-in-law, Gary Christopherson.

The family suggests that memorials be made to the Call to Duty Fund at any U.S. Bank branch or the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation, 1674 Hill Road, Boise, Idaho.

The family would like to extend their heartfelt thanks to the doctors and staff of the St. Luke's Medical Center, Alphonsus Hospital for their compassion and the care given to our loved one.

Edna Gillette

PAUL — Edna Gillette, loving mother of LaMar Gillette, Renae Renz and LuDean Warren, returned to her father and the open arms of her loved ones on March 29, 2005.

Edna, the daughter of Royal James and Mary Ann Rowley, was born on Nov. 28, 1917, in Idaho Falls, Idaho.

As the eighth child in a family of 10 children, she grew up and attended school in Shelley, Idaho.

At the age of 16, Edna left her home in Shelley, where she moved to Idaho Falls, and after marriage, moved to the Minidoka area where she lived the rest of her life.

Edna married Ellis Gillette, the love of her life, on June 5, 1938, in Idaho Falls, Idaho. "It was love at first sight," was the detail given by Edna whenever she reminisced about their first meeting.

Edna and Ellis were members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and their love was renewed when they were sealed in the temple on Sept. 15, 1982. Edna and Ellis were married for 57 years.

Their lives were parted when Ellis passed on March 8, 1996.

As Edna continued through life, she found a renewed sense of faith in the Baptist Church.

She was baptized on Easter Sunday in 2001 and cherished her faith to her final day.

Her role as a mother and grandmother was of the highest importance in Edna's life.

Edna has three children, 11 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. Her devotion and love for her children and family was seen in every decision she made.

Her family cherishes this most about her and wants her to know that it was her role as the matriarch of the family that has guided them to be the loving, joy, devoted parents they are today.

Edna was also extremely involved in community service. Throughout her life, Edna served for 16 years as a member of the Pink Ladies Quilting Committee.

She donated her time to the Red Cross, participating in countless blood drives. Edna was a leader of 4-H clubs and was active in the PTA.

Even as recently as the past few years, Edna was an active member of the Home Extension Club.

Edna loved crafts and, throughout her life, excelled at many hobbies. She was an amazing cook, an avid Kewpie collector and loved playing games, crocheting, gardening and watching television, especially Perry Mason and Lawman.

Edna has been preceded in death by her parents; eight brothers and sisters; her husband, Ellis Gillette; and her great-granddaughter, Kaylyn Benitz.

Her funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Monday, April 4, 2005, at the Paul First Baptist Church, 25 N. Fourth St. E., Paul, Idaho. Burial will be officiating. Burial will be in Paul Cemetery.

Friends, family and loved ones are also encouraged to attend a viewing from 4 until 8 p.m. Sunday at Rasmussen Funeral Home, 1350 E. 16th St., Burley; and from 10 until 10:45 a.m. Monday at the church.

OBITUARY

Evelyn Lucille Scholl

TWIN FALLS — Evelyn Lucille Scholl, 89, of Twin Falls, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon, March 29, 2005, at her home in Chapparrille House in Twin Falls.

Evelyn was born on March 14, 1916, in Princeton, Ore., the daughter of William J. and Elsie M. Petersen. As a small child she moved to Parma, Idaho, where she lived on her parents' produce farm. She attended schools, graduating from Parma High School in 1934. She furthered her education at Mercy Hospital in Nampa, where she obtained her Registered Nurse certificate in 1938. On Aug. 20, 1940, Evelyn married Frank James Scholl in Caldwell, Idaho. Evelyn worked for Mercy Hospital for a number of years before semi-retiring to take care of her husband who suffered a stroke at an early age. Following his death in 1964 she went to work in nursing homes for a short time and then did private home health care.

Evelyn was awarded the "Mother of the Year" in Nampa in 1956, for her dedication to her three children who were legally blind. She was also a member of the Gem State Blind Association, as a sighted member, where she was chairman of the candy sales for the blind for many years. Evelyn was on the Alter Society for St.

Paul's Catholic Church as well as a member of the Catholic Daughters of America. In 1979, Evelyn moved to Twin Falls where she attended the St. Edward the Confessor Catholic Church.

Evelyn loved spending time with her family especially her grandchildren.

She enjoyed making "scrapsbooks", using recycled greeting cards, magazines and calendars she would make these works of art for her grandchildren and friends at Chapparrille House.

Evelyn is survived by her four daughters, Pat (Bob) Whitlow of Gig Harbor, Wash., Nita (John) Sharp of Meridian, Bobbie (Skip) Ronneberg of Chico, Calif., and Linda (David) Heidemann of Twin Falls; two sisters, Rusty Gales of Sequim, Wash., and Vickie Benzin of Woodburn, Ore.; as well as three brothers, Dick Grant of Stewartstown, N.H., Harry Grant of Lomita, Calif., and Gordon Grant of Portland, Ore. Also surviving are seven grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren and one great-great-granddaughter.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband, Frank James Scholl; one daughter, Baby Girl Scholl; and two sisters, Ethel and Elsie.

A funeral mass will be celebrated at 11 a.m. Friday, April 1, 2005, at St. Edward the Confessor Catholic Church with Father Boniface Lautz celebrating. A family burial will take place on Saturday, April 2, 2005, at Mt. Calvary Cemetery in Nampa, Idaho. Services are under the direction of Reynolds Funeral Chapel, Twin Falls.

The family suggest in lieu of flowers, memorials be given in Evelyn's name to the University of Utah Kidney Transplant Center or the Bonaquilla Mission Club. Contributions may be given to funeral chapel of St. Edward the Confessor Catholic Church, P.O. Box 1142, Twin Falls, ID 83303.

Six police chief candidates named

By Rose Marie Parsons
For The Times-News

RUPERT — Three Mini-Cassia residents are among the final six candidates for Rupert police chief.

Dave Pinther of Rupert, Dan Soto of Heyburn and Randy White of Rupert each made the latest cut for the position, Mayor Audrey Newerth announced Tuesday.

Brian Hansen of Twin Falls, Dean Larsen of Jerome and Rodney Mosher of Clinton, Utah, are also being considered for the job.

Pinther has 11 years of law enforcement experience and is self-employed as an owner and operator of the Trading Post in Rupert.

Soto has 28 years' experience in law enforcement and is a detective with the Heyburn Police Department.

White has more than 20 years of law enforcement experience and is currently a detective with the Minidoka County Sheriff's Office.

Hansen, Larsen and Mosher each have at least 20 years' experience in law enforcement.

Hansen works for the Idaho Department of Corrections, Larsen is with the Jerome Police Department and Mosher works for the Salt Lake City Police Department.

The next step in the selection process will include interviews with three panels next week. One panel will include Newerth, city councilmen and City Administrator Roger Bagley.

Another will be made up of citizens and community leaders.

The third panel will include police departments and, according to a press release issued by the city.

The six finalists were chosen from a pool of 23 applications by a subcommittee formed by Bagley and City Councilmen Steve Barnes and Mike Brown.

Residents may call Bagley at 436-9600 for more information about each of the candidates.

Soldiers make climbing gym out of plywood

KIRKUK, Iraq (AP) — Life in Iraq has Bravo Company soldiers climbing the wall.

That's OK. That's what the Idaho soldiers had in mind when they built it.

"I planned it before we left Idaho," Cpl. Warren Wing of Boise said of the 16-foot-tall climbing wall he and his climbing buddies in 3rd Platoon built with lumber and plywood. The wall is at the Kirkuk patrol base that is home to the 100-plus soldiers of Bravo Company for their year in Iraq.

The plywood climbing wall goes up vertically 12 feet, juts out horizontally for four feet before turning vertical again for the top four feet. The overhang is the crux move — the hardest move on the wall.

Next to the wall are practice areas where soldiers can hang from holds and do pull ups to strengthen their hands and arms.

A plywood "chimney" — a narrow, three-sided chute in progress, 50 is an 18-by-20-foot horizontal "tunnel" wall.

"It's actually a climbing gym that we're building here,"

The Cancer Patient Emergency Assistance Fund was created in 1997 to support cancer patients who face financial hardships. Wing said.

Wing has been climbing for about two years. His 8-year-old daughter, Cheyenne, got him started.

"She saw a wall and wanted to climb, so I figured I better learn how," he said.

Wing's fellow climber, Spec. Jacob Smith of Boise, built the frame for the wall and the other structures used to suspend the practice holds.

"It was my design and he put it together," Wing said. Bravo Company Spec. Chris Chesak of Boise has been in the climbing industry who gave soldiers discounts on gear and holds, as well as free ropes.

Wing held the guide rope as he climbed.

After a few minutes figuring out the holds and the best route up the wall, Reval made it to the top. He straddled the wall and punched his fist into the air. Wing lowered him down.

"Thanks for the little thrill," Reval said. "That just made my day."

"When (Wing) told me he was going to build a climbing wall, I said he was crazy," Chesak said. "He's a great guy. When he gets something in his sights, he goes after it and pulls everyone in with him."

Wing spent $1,000 to buy the holds and hardware for the wall, and fellow soldiers kicked in more money.

"We easily got $3,500 in equipment," Wing said.

Spec. Lucas Reval of Boise took a break from doing mechanic work on Humvees to do the wall.

"I've always wanted to do it," Reval said. McKenzie strapped Reval into a climbing harness. He pulled off of his suicide desert combat boots and slipped into climbing shoes.

Get Real!

You don't have to knock yourself out to prevent diabetes.

It's about small steps: losing 10 to 15 pounds if you weigh 200 pounds, walking briskly for 30 minutes most days, and making healthy food choices.

It's about big rewards: living a longer and healthier life...and avoiding serious health problems such as heart attacks, strokes, blindness, kidney failure, or amputation.

Take the first step today. If you're over 45 and overweight, you may be at high risk for diabetes. Talk to your health care provider.

BLM holds screenings for Safety Week

SHOSHONE—The Bureau of Land Management will celebrate Safety Week with health and wellness activities Monday and Tuesday in the Free Ready Room at the BLM's Shoshone Field Office, 400 W.F.S.

Blood pressure checks and draws for blood screenings will be conducted from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Tuesday by St. Benedicta Family Medical Center staff. Screenings require a 12- to 14-hour fast. Costs are $10 for a lipid panel, $20 for a prostate capser screen and $17 for a dry-rod screen. Blood pressure checks are free.

Magic Valley in brief

Blood screening results can be picked up from 4 to 6 p.m. Tuesday. Results are confidential and will be handled only by St. Benedicta staff.

Results not picked up will be mailed. Staff members will be on hand to discuss results and recommendations. For more information, call Tera Hagen at 732-7205 or 732-7200 and ask for a member of the safety committee.

Rose society will hold seminar on Saturday

FILER—The Filser Rose Society will hold a Spring Rose Pruning Seminar at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Memorial Rose Garden at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds.

Learn how much to prune, which cuts to make and how to do directional pruning with experience, intermediate and novice rosearians in a hands-on pruning demonstration. Anyone interested in roses or with questions about pruning them is encouraged to attend. Bring leather gloves and pruners.

For more information, call George Leppert at 328-3288 or Shari Hart at 328-0877. —compiled from staff reports

U.S. comes in tardy with report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Talk about turning in your homework. The government just finished a report on Internet traffic that Congress requested seven years ago.

Lawmakers had demanded the $1 million study, ultimately called "Signposts in Cyberspace," under a 1998 law passed almost at the dawn of what became the Internet boom, the law required the Commerce Department to seek a study about Web addresses and trademarks by the National Research Council and wrap up the report within nine months.

The council published its findings Thursday, two presidential administrations later and years after the implosion of what had been a bustling Internet economy.

"Time got extended," said Charles Brownstein, director of the research council's computer science and telecommunications board.

In the intervening period, Google emerged to dominate the Web, technology executives made and lost billions, lawyers shut down Napster over music piracy, high-speed Internet connections soared and the number of Web addresses climbed from 2.2 million to more than 65 million. The job of commerce secretary, the top U.S. official responsible for overseeing the study, turned over three times.

"This was eagerly awaited for about 6.5 years ago," said Rep. James Sensenbrenner Jr., R-Wis., who ordered the study in 1998 as chairman of the House Science Committee.

"Technology has marched on. The National Academy of Sciences just wasted one million of the taxpayers' dollars. I guess they get an 'F' on this one," said Sensenbrenner, now chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

World Bank board OKs Wolfowitz

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Bank approved Thursday as its new president Wolfowitz, the deputy defense secretary who helped plan the Iraq war, will begin his five-year term on June 1.

"Nothing is more gratifying than being able to help people in need and developing opportunities for all the people of the world to achieve their full potential," Wolfowitz said after winning unanimous approval from the World Bank's 24-member board.

The bank's stated mission is to fight poverty and improve the living standards of people in developing countries. It has around $20 billion a year to develop countries for various projects, including roads, schools and fighting AIDS.

The installation of Wolfowitz enables the Bush administration to put its imprint on the bank, which employs some 10,000 people worldwide.

Dandruff's in the air: Flakes, fur found in air pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Want to help reduce air pollution? Try dandruff shampoo.

Well, that may be stretching the point. But a researcher has discovered unexpectedly large amounts of dandruff and other flaking skin, fur, pollen and similar materials in air pollutants known as aerosols.

Aerosols, tiny particles in the air, are widely studied because they are an important factor in regulating climate, variously absorbing heat to warm the air and reflecting sunlight to cool it. They are also important in forming rain and snow.

But the amount of cellular material — bacteria, plant fragments, spores, fungi and so forth — had been thought to be only a small proportion compared with mineral dust, clay and sea salt.

Now, Ruprecht Jaenicke of the Institute for Atmospheric Physics at Mainz University in Germany has studied air samples and discovered that biological materials can range up to 25 percent of aerosols in some areas, and as high as 40 percent in others.

His findings are reported in Friday's issue of the journal Science.

The source of many aerosols has been unexplained and this could provide the answer, Jaenicke said.

Jaenicke reported that the percentage of biological materials in aerosol pollution topped 40 percent in Mainz in September and 30 percent in October.

And a study at Lake Baikal, Russia, showed more than 30 percent in September.

He said he did similar studies of the air over ocean environments, on mountains and in ice cores.

There was no strong annual cycle, he said, although pollen was more abundant in spring while decaying cellular matter was more common in fall and winter.

He estimated that the amount of biological particles in the air, worldwide, annually is 1,000 teragrams. A teragram is somewhat more than a million tons.

By comparison, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, established by the World Meteorological Organization and the U.N. Environmental Program, estimated biological particles at 56 teragrams, compared with 3,300 teragrams of sea salt and 2,000 teragrams of mineral dust.

Suicide car bomber targets religious pilgrims

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — A suicide car bomber blew himself up Thursday near an Islamic shrine, killing five Iraqis in the latest attack on Shiite Muslim pilgrims marking a major religious holiday.

The blast in Tuz Khormato, 55 miles south of Kirkuk, killed three civilians, including a child, and two soldiers helping guard the shrine, police reported. Sixteen people were wounded, hospital officials said.

Fighters from the Sunni Muslim-led insurgency staged a string of attacks on Shiite pilgrims in the days leading up to the festival, which marks the end of a 40-day mourning period for Imam Hussein, grandson of the Prophet Muhammad and one of Shiites' most important saints.

The day's biggest gathering was in the holy city of Karbala, where hundreds of thousands of pilgrims visited two shrines, marched in honor of Hussein and beat their chests with their fists in a sign of mourning.

Seeking to head off attacks, police in Karbala closed streets to vehicles, set up checkpoints and frisked people for weapons. No major incidents were reported.

Late Wednesday, gunmen ambushed a truck carrying pilgrims near Hillah, 60 miles south of Baghdad, and killed one person, and an attack earlier in the day killed a pilgrim in southern Iraq. On Monday, two attacks on pilgrims left at least 10 dead, including two police officers.

Ukrainian President Viktor Yushchenko, meanwhile, said his country's troops will leave Iraq by year's end. Ukraine had already said it would begin pulling out its 1,650 soldiers, the fifth-largest contingent in the U.S.-led coalition, but had not set a timetable for completing the withdrawal.

A number of nations have pulled out of Iraq, pressured by criticism of the mission at home and threats from militant groups in Iraq, which have kidnapped and even beheaded some foreigners.

In Romania, which has 800 soldiers in Iraq, Prime Minister Calin Popescu Tariceanu refused Thursday to say whether he would consider withdrawing his country's troops after kidnappers released a video showing three Romanian journalists who were abducted in Baghdad.

The video, aired Wednesday by Al-Jazeera satellite television, showed the three Romanian journalists and a fourth unidentified person — possibly an American — with guns pointed at them.

Spring break alternative

More students shun fun in sun while helping others

CHICAGO (AP) — It's spring break, but there's no beach and no kicking back for Alice Tin.

The 17-year-old junior from a boarding school in suburban Boston is dipping raw chicken in flour, getting it ready to fry in Chicago, a city that serves the homeless and others in need. Fifteen-year-old Renda Davis is among those delivering lemonade and meals. And Matt Kampu, 17, is in the back doing dishes.

They're on what's known as an "alternative spring break," a growing trend among college and increasingly high school students who spend their vacations building houses, helping hurricane victims and doing other projects ranging from destigmatizing AIDS to learning agriculture to literacy.

They're part of a high school students spend their recent break in Chicago learning about poverty and homelessness with the Civic Education Project, a nonprofit at Northwestern University that organizes spring and summer programs for high schools. Among other things, they trained as vendors for a newspaper written and sold by homeless people; volunteered at an after-school program in a low-income neighborhood; and sorted and repackaged items donated to the Greater Chicago Food Depository.

"I don't see it. I'm giving up spring break. I feel like I'm taking advantage of a good opportunity," says volunteer Brenda Chu, a 15-year-old from Plainboro, N.J., who attends a boarding school in Deerfield, Mass.

For others, learning more about homelessness was personal.

"I'm faced with this issue daily, as was less of a choice, but I'm here and something that needed to be done," says Whitney

Britney Smith, from Chicago's North Lawndale High School, checks a food order during her volunteer work Thursday at a Chicago cafe that serves the homeless and others in need.

Smith, a 16-year-old who lives on Chicago's impoverished West Side.

A high school junior, she is hoping to attend Boston College and become a lawyer who deals with public policy and, very likely, issues related to poverty.

What began with a few students from Vanderbilt University organizing volunteer trips in the late 1980s has grown to nearly 40,000 students choosing to go on an alternative spring break each year, says Jake Brewer, He's executive director of Break Away, a nonprofit organization in Tallahassee, Fla., that began in 1991 and now has more than 120 student chapters, most of them at colleges but a few at high schools.

Each year, his organization puts its chapters in touch with organizations that need help, from Habitat for Humanity and The Nature Conservancy to lesser-known nonprofits in other countries.

Some students camp or stay at churches. Others are put up at places such as Hostelling International, which has become a partner with Break Away and other alternative break organizations.

Mother charged after boy shoots brother

HOUSTON (AP) — The mother of a 4-year-old boy who shot his 2-year-old brother in the head with a handgun has been charged with a weapons count, police said Thursday.

Tameka Michelle Jones, 29, is scheduled to appear before a judge Friday to answer a misdemeanor charge of making a gun available to a minor.

The 2-year-old was shot after an argument with his brother over a toy on March 12, and he remains in critical condition. He has shown signs of improvement this week, said Child Protective Services spokeswoman Gwen Carter. The 4-year-old is being cared for by his grandparents and receiving counseling.

PAINT MAGIC is in its 20th year of serving residents in the Magic Valley. Our goal is to paint the exteriors of 20 homes for qualifying seniors and the disabled who are on a limited income. . . . and we need your help.

If your business or organization would like to provide a "paint team" to prep and paint one of our deserving houses, just let us know. We will provide you with all the information needed to become part of the program. A team consists of at least 15 people who are committed to painting a qualified home. You will receive guidance from the Paint Magic Leadership and Paint Professionals. They will be able to guide you and answer any questions or hopefully solve any problems you may have.

Injured veterans deserve thanks

DEAR ABBY: We live in the Tampa Bay area, where two VA hospitals are located. Many members of the military have returned from Iraq and Afghanistan with mental and physical problems. In our community, we encounter these veterans every day.

Two weeks ago, we were in a fast-food restaurant and saw a young man on crutches with two shiny metal prosthetics on each arm below the elbows. The following week, we were walking down the street and ahead of us was another young man. This one had shiny prosthetics on both legs below the hips and was walking with a cane.

My husband and I wanted to approach and speak to these young men, but we held back. We weren't sure how they would accept a stranger's attention to them.

We, as a country, made many mistakes when our veterans returned from Vietnam. Many of these wounded young veterans will be returning to their families and communities now and in the near future. I feel the American people need some guidance on how to handle this situation. Can you help us?

DEAR ABBY
Abby Phillip

—PATRICIA AND BILL, SEMINOLE, FLA.

DEAR PATRICIA AND BILL: Put yourselves, for just a moment, in the position of the young men you have encountered. Would it not be meaningful to you if someone saw what you had sacrificed in the line of duty, and verbalized appreciation for it? Some decisions are better left to the heart than to the head — and whether or not to return in a case like this is one of them. I say, go for it. It could give a deserving young person a tremendous boost.

DEAR ABBY: I am in a relationship with a guy who does not like to kiss. We act like an old married couple. He's not affectionate or romantic in any way at all. He'll hold my hand in public, but that's his way of showing it's because of depression. He loves to work, but I think it's to cover his depression.

He tells me every day that he loves me, and we never fight. We actually get along very well. Are some men just not affectionate? I would like to be, but I know he's not that type. My parents are not affectionate people, and they have been together for 38 years.

My boyfriend has told me that he knows there is something wrong with him and that he needs counseling about his behavior. We have a lot in common and see each other every day, so we are definitely serious. We laugh and click in ways other than being romantic and passionate. Is there any hope?

—STARVED FOR AFFECTION IN BIRMINGHAM

DEAR STARVING: There is hope, but only if your boyfriend is willing to get the counseling he says he needs. As it stands, your needs do not appear to be high on his list of priorities. Because it does not appear that a marriage without physical expression would be satisfying for you, it may be that you and he are destined to be the dearest of friends — but not mates. If he truly cares as much about you as you care for him, he owes it to you to level with you.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband and daughter picking out carpet for their living room while I was out of town? Not only that, they picked a color I don't like. I am very hurt and disappointed — not to mention angry.

—DONNA IN OHIO

DEAR DONNA: I don't blame you for feeling angry. As woman of the house, the choice of carpet should have been decided between you and your husband. You wouldn't blame you if you refused to accept delivery and installation.

N.Y. sewer alligators have their own accents?

This day in history: April Fool's Day. The French used to celebrate New Year's Day on April 1. When France adopted the Gregorian calendar in 1564, not everybody got the word, and some continued to celebrate New Year's on April 1. Folksters mocked the cluckers by inviting them to non-existent events and giving out absurd presents: anyone who fell for the joke was dubbed a poisson d'avril ("April fish"). It was so much fun, we still do it today.

With more than 10,000 alligators in New York's sewers, researchers have found that they can identify the borough of most by their distinctive accents. For example, the mating calls of alligators in Brooklyn sound a lot like "hey baby, hey baby" in upper Manhattan, they sound more like "who's your brooker?"

A peanut is both a pea and a nut. Its close relatives are the emu, the umlaut and the diphthong.

Different breeds of dogs attract owners with markedly different levels of intelligence. For example, in an average year, 134 dog pooches die from being dried in microwave ovens by ignorant owners. In contrast, not even one Saint Bernard has perished in this manner.

"Rule of thumb" came from an old colonial custom that men could legally break the thumbs of their wives if they didn't serve a hot meal with a fruit cup three times a day.

What is xanthan gum, found in many candies, gums and baked goods? It's just a fancy name for scrambled spider eggs.

Not only can cockroaches live through a direct nuclear blast, they can also survive heavy metal concerts and all three hours of the Academy Award broadcasts.

Earwigs are called that because they love to crawl into people's ears and pretend to be tiny patches of hair.

Try it yourself! In most people, the circumference of their dominant index finger is exactly the same as that of their left nostril.

Look out below! About 37 million years ago, flocks of elephants flew gracefully across the sky. Their massive ears are in fact vestigial wings, and their trunks doubled as propellers.

Satire was named after funny-guy existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre. Comedy was named after Frederick Horatio Komeedy of Cincinnati. But tragedy? It wasn't named after anybody.

Practical jokes may sting Aquarius

IF APRIL 1 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: The year ahead is all about learning to differentiate between hopes and promises. The middle of April and the last half of July can bring quickly moving opportunities that can easily escape your grasp unless you remain alert. Be as open-minded as possible because well-meaning strangers could give you a helping hand even if commitments are not kept. Near Christmas you can see permanent government in the direction of your life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Innocent horseplay could cause some discomfort if April Fools' Day jokes go beyond the bounds of good taste. Do all you can to avoid misunderstandings and don't push your luck.

TAURUS (April 20-March 20): Don't expect others to get a big laugh from a humorous story; it could cause offense. Tune the urge to tell fish stories and don't take the good will of others for granted.

GEMINI (March 21-June 20): Be a good sport. Social pressures could push you into a corner. To reach your goals may require sitting through boring lectures or dealing with people you don't really care for.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't let your heart rule your head or vice versa. There is a tendency to go overboard and exaggerate abilities or blow small problems out of proportion. Family matters should be left at home.

HOROSCOPE

Jeraldine Saunders

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Every charity in town seems to have your name on its list, but it pays to be choosy about making donations right now. There is a tendency to make poor choices about money and love today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money really can't buy you love — and no matter how you look at it, you are likely to make a mistake if you put your money where your mouth is today. Hold off on big purchases or agreements.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be good humored about April Fools' Day silliness but don't lose your dignity by playing the fool when your heart or wallet is at stake. Promises and pledges made today might not be sincere.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be just as skeptical about romantic enticements as you are about an April Fools' Day joke. Commitments and promises could be just a means to an end and not have real substance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Indulging in a streak of laziness to the exclusion of all else could land you in the proverbial doghouse. Stick to the status quo and avoid the temptation to indulge your fancies.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Exaggerated claims and boasting can undermine your reputation, so stick to the truth when dealing with business contacts. Purchases can cost you more than they are worth under these stars.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Practical jokes can hold an unpleasant sting if you are not careful. Keep your wandering eye front and center and avoid new projects or romances. Big spenders get the short end of the stick.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lock up your purse and hide your credit cards — you are apt to spend more than expected if you go shopping today. It is good to be generous but silly to be wasteful of hard-earned dollars.

Budget plan has Spam

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Lawmakers want to slip a secret ingredient into the state budget.

Along with tax increases on cigarettes and hard liquor, the recently released Senate budget proposal would slap a higher tax on canned meat.

Spam, Vienna sausages, potted ham, chili con carne — no tinne meat would be spared the higher tax rate. While business tax is paid by the producer, taxes have a way of trickling down the food chain.

One taxpayer was outraged. "They're actually raising taxes on poor people who can't really afford it," said Richard Wilson. "You know they don't have much money if they're eating chili out of a can."

With a budget shortfall of $1.6 billion for the upcoming two-year budget cycle, legislators say they'll take money where they can get it — including a tin of meat.

Battered roads hamper quake relief effort

GUNUNG SITOLI, Indonesia — Angry and hungry survivors were demanding help from Indonesia's government on Thursday, three days after an earthquake leveled homes and slowed the delivery of aid over roads and bridges battered by the tremor.

Indonesian President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono, stood in pouring rain in the town of Gunung Sitoli on Nias Island, and hugged a child as she wept uncontrollably and told him she had lost her brother and sister in Monday night's powerful magnitude-8.7 quake.

"Be patient, we will help you," Yudhoyono's wife told another crying girl.

After being confronted by a group of hungry and angry survivors, senior officials conceded the government had responded slowly to the humanitarian crisis. "Bad damage to roads and bridges and bad weather are disturbing distribution of aid and the relief effort," Yudhoyono admitted on a visit to the hardest-hit Nias Island, where most of the estimated 400-500 killed in the quake died.

Three days after the disaster, many survivors afraid their homes could collapse in one of the numerous aftershocks jolting the region huddled outdoors or in mosques waiting for food to arrive.

Prince Charles reveals unease with the press

LONDON (AP) — On the idyllic slopes of Switzerland, Prince Charles revealed a degree of awkwardness with the media that seemed, in one uncomfortable moment Thursday, to capture the essence of his failure to win British hearts.

"Bloody people," he muttered in comments captured by microphones. "I hate doing this." A week before his second wedding, gaffes by Charles — sitting alongside his much more poised son, Prince William — underscored doubts about whether the heir to the throne has the media savvy to be an effective king.

Since announcing he was marrying longtime love Camilla Parker Bowles, Charles has been embroiled in a series of embarrassments, including being forced to change the site of his wedding from Windsor Castle to the decidedly more plebeian town hall and the revelation that his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, won't be at the nuptials.

Some Britons have suggested the line of succession should skip Charles and go directly to William — who at age 22 handles public appearances with greater panache and shares some of the charisma of his mother, the late Princess Diana. On Thursday, in fact, it was

William who gave Charles direction during the press opportunity rather than the other way around.

Prince Charles

After being urged by a journalist to look like you know each other, Charles put his arm around William and his younger son, Prince Harry, then — looking bemused — mumbled to William: "What do we do?"

"Keep smiling," William replied. "Keep smiling." The butt of Charles' royal irritation was BBC reporter Nicholas Witchell, who asked the 56-year-old prince whether he was looking forward to his April 8 wedding.

After replying sarcastically that he was "very glad you have heard of it anyway," Charles whispered to his sons: "These bloody people, I can't bear that man. I mean, he's so awful, he really is... I hate these people." The British media quickly went into attack mode with The Evening Standard scolding Charles over his "petulant outburst."

A little bit of soul

The Cultural Heritage Choir includes Melanie DeMore, Rhonda Benin, Linda Tillery, Lamont Van Hook and Eloise Burrell.

Cultural Heritage Choir brings black music to CSI

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — She's sung opera, rock 'n' roll and R&B, but Linda Tillery's roots are soul. Before becoming a prominent figure in women's music in the 1990s, the San Francisco native began her singing career with the gender-integrated psychedelic/soul band the Loading Zone, which was modeled somewhat after Sly and the Family Stone.

After two albums with that band, Tillery released her solo debut, "Sweet Linda Divine," in 1970 to enthusiastic reviews and high praise. She spent most of the '70s singing and playing drums on more than 40 albums, including efforts by Mary Watkins and Teresa Trull.

In later years, Tillery collaborated with female musical powerhouses June Millington, Deidre McColla, Barbara Higbie and Margie Adam.

In 1985, Tillery released "Secrets" on her own 411 label, distributed by Redwood Records. It returned her to center stage.

In recent years, she has assembled a large band, Skin Tight, which plays jazzy, funky blues, as well as briefly joining the Zasu Pitts Memorial Orchestra.

She has also branched out into areas like radio, film, theater and television commercials, worked for the National Endowment for the Arts, and appeared with artists ranging from Santana to Kenny Loggins and Huey Lewis to the Turtle Island String Quartet.

Bobby McFerrin and Holly Near.

In 1992, Tillery decided to form an outlet for her desire to perform the traditional spiritual music of African-American slaves and their descendants. The Cultural Heritage Choir today includes Tillery and fellow Bay Area vocalists Rhonda Benin, Eloise Burrell, sometime solo artist Melanie DeMore, Lamont Vanhook and Emma Jean Foster-Flege.

The group has released the albums "Good Time a Good Time" and "Front Porch Music." "All the music I love and have ever sung is connected, and all of it can be tied together by following the migration of an African-American family that started in the South and moved northward to places like Chicago go and New York, and had their lives shaped and dominated by slavery, religion and survival," Tillery said.

Her five-voice choir sings "foot-stomping, hand-clapping" music that mixes secular sounds — classic R&B — with spirituals, work songs and slave chants from the South Carolina sea islands. "I have four or five different musical personalities," Tillery told the San Francisco Bay Guardian. "The Southern singer, the folk artist, the Motown singer."

I do, I don't: Wetco explores 'Altar Egos'

The Times-News

BUHL — Think there's such a thing as a "simple wedding"? Al Hoffman would beg to differ, and he's taking that opinion on-stage.

Hoffman will direct a West End Theater Company production of Texas playwright Pat Cook's "Altar Egos: The Dots and Dots of an American Wedding" on Thursday and April 8-9 at the West End Senior Citizens Center.

"All we want is a simple wedding," agree Mark and Coleen as they get engaged," Hoffman explains. "And their simple wedding stays simple ... for about two minutes."

Then the families get involved. There are the McMasters, who think the Frobiushers are stuck up, while the Frobiushers perceive the McMasters are a bunch of hillbillies. The bride's father keeps offering the soon-to-be-wedded couple thousands of dollars toelope. "No questions asked." The two mothers are chiding over the rehearsal dinner seating chart, while the bride and groom wonder where it all went wrong.

"Throw into this mix football referees, tallers, circus ringmasters, caterers and even an interpreter and you get just some of 'Altar Egos,'" Hoffman said.

The cast includes Candice Hutchinson, Zach Lloyd, Billy Perry, Joel Hurley, Bonnie Berke, Paul Olsen, Katie Busby, Jessica Adams, Tyler Hutchinson and Tamara Jackson.

"The production of this particular show was actually inspired by a couple of friends of mine who were recently married," Hoffman explained. "And it's uncanny how true-to-life this show can be. There is so much emphasis placed on the actual ceremony, who's involved, how things are done, that sometimes the whole point of a wedding can be lost before it even takes place. I think that's what this play will show the audience. In an outrageous yet realistic fashion."

If you go ...

- What: The West End Theater Company will present Pat Cook's comedy "Altar Egos: The Dots and Dots of an American Wedding" in dinner theater.
- Where: West End Senior Citizens Center, Buhl.
- When: Thursday and April 8-9, 7:30 p.m. (dinner starts at 6:30 p.m.).
- How much: Thursday's show is dessert-only, no reservations are necessary and all tickets are $8. Tickets to the April 8-9 shows are $15 per person or $25 per couple; and reservations must be made by Tuesday.

Ketchum troupe presents 'Laughing Wild' at theater

The Times-News

KETCHUM — Playwright Christopher Durang grew up Catholic and funny, which turned out to be a career path.

The 55-year-old actor and writer has written more than two dozen comedies, including "Laughing Wild," which Off Center Stage — a new theater group in the Wood River Valley — will perform at the next Stage Theater for the next two weeks.

Lucy, psychobabble, nightmare and Catholic dogma are a few of Durang's themes.

"Laughing Wild" consists of two monologues, the first by an unnamed madwoman, played by Jana Arnold, and the second by an unnamed male bisexual anger-management therapy patient, played by Jonathan Kane.

The only interaction between the characters is an encounter they've had in the supermarket.

The second part of the play brings the characters together as they describe and reenact the dreams they've had about one another since that incident. The two characters have been having identical dreams.

Christopher Durang

Like Durang's best-known play, "Sister Mary Ignatia Explains It All For You," "Laughing Wild" is about delusions and unrealistic expectations.

"Durang has performed, for both stage and screen. As an actor, he appeared in "Laughing Wild" in Los Angeles and "The Marriage of Bette and Boo" in New York (for which he shared an acting ensemble Obie Award). He also appeared with Julie Andrews in the Stephen Sondheim review "Putting It Together" and with Sigourney Weaver in the Bertold Brecht-Kurt Weill parody "Das Lusitania Songspiel," which he co-wrote.

On the boards

- What: Off Center Stage will present Christopher Durang's "Laughing Wild."

Queen Latifah stars in comedy 'Beauty Shop'

New to the valley

'Beauty Shop'

Like its predecessors, 'Beauty Shop' is a warmhearted comedy, and it has a realistic sense of a determined woman's struggle to make a better life for her family. With Queen Latifah, Alicia Silverstone, Andie MacDowell, Mena Suvari and Alfre Woodard. PG-13 for sexual material, language and brief drug references.

'Sin City'

Robert Rodriguez and artist Frank Miller co-directed this noir saga based on three of Miller's graphic novels. Bruce Willis, Jessica Alba, Rosario Dawson, Elijah Wood, Maria Bello, Benicio Del Toro and Mickey Rourke star.

'The Upside of Anger'

Joan Allen plays a suburban mom raising four daughters whose life becomes more complex when she falls for a bullplayer-turned-radio DJ Kevin Costner. Written and directed by Mike Binder ('Indian Summer'). R for language, sexual situations, brief comic violence and some drug use.

Continuing

'Be Cool'

John Travolta returns as Chili Palmer in this anything-but-cool sequel to 1995's 'Get Shorty,' with the music biz world subbing for Hollywood and lame in-jokes replacing the wit and swagger of its predecessor. With Uma Thurman, Harvey Keitel, Cedric the Entertainer and cameo from music and non-music folks. PG-13 (profanity, innuendo, violence).

'Because of Winn-Dixie'

A lonely young girl names her new dog after the supermarket where she found him. With Anna Sophia Robb and Jeff Daniels. Directed by Wayne Wang. PG for thematic elements and brief mild language.

'Beyond the Sea'

Kevin Spacey stars in — and directed — this strenuously exuberant meta-biopic of '60s songman Bobby Darin. Replete with overblown production numbers and chunky dialogue, the film is notable for Spacey's dead-on vocal impersonation of the late singer's jaunty tunes. PG-13 (language, adult themes)

'Constantine'

Keanu Reeves stars as the title character, based on the Hellblazer graphic novels about a man who has literally been to hell and back and helps a policewoman investigate her sister's death. Directed by Francis Lawrence. R for violence and demonic images.

'Guess Who'

In a comedic spin on 'Guess Who's Coming to Dinner,' Bernie Mac is a little uneasy about the man who's marrying his daughter — Ashton Kutcher. Zoe Saldana co-stars. Directed by Kevin Rodney Sullivan ('How Stella Got Her Groove Back'). PG-13 for sex-related humor.

'Hotel Rwanda'

Don Cheadle is superb as the real-life hotelier who saved more than 1,200 countrymen during the massacre of nearly a million Rwandans in 1994. PG-13 (violence, disturbing images, profanity)

'Hostage'

An ingenious thriller that draws upon Bruce Willis' ability to handle action and sensitivity simultaneously with complete credibility in circumstances that test his small-town Ventura County police chief skills and character to the limit. Three envious youths take a wealthy family hostage, but that's just the beginning of trouble for Willis in this high-style jolter, directed with authority by 'The Nest's' Florent Sirri in his American film debut. Always tense, 'Hostage' is also very violent, but Sirri intimates more than he depicts. With Kevin Pollak, Jimmy Bennett, Michelle Horn, Ben Foster, Jonathan Tucker and Marshall Allman. R for strong graphic violence, language and some drug use.

'Ice Princess'

Michelle Trachtenberg is thoroughly winning as a whiz at physics whose study of the aerodynamics of ice skating brings her face to face with the reality that she would rather be a skating star herself than a Harvard student. For all the many sequences featuring lovely young figure skaters, the film is really about thwarted mothers who blindly determine that their daughters will fulfill their dreams — whether the girls share them or not. Joan Cusack is Trachtenberg's formidable bluestocking mother, and Kim Cattrall plays a former renowned figure skater with a Tanya Harding streak. Intent on making her daughter (Hayden Panettiere) a champ on the ice whether the girl likes it or not. A good mix of dreams and grit. With Trevor Rhumas. (1:38) G.

'Man of the House'

No groundbreaker — nor is it trying to be — this good-tured comedy is about an ultra-macho, straight-arrow Texas ranger (Tommy Lee

Jones) protecting five University of Texas cheerleaders (Christina Milian, Paula Garcer, Monica Keena, Kelly Garner, Vanessa Ferlito), the witnesses to a murder. When Jones moves in with the girls, he and his charges affect each other in unexpected ways — the girls even sharpen him up for his date with elegant English literature professor Anne Archer. Director Stephen Herek keeps things moving and there's some lively music, but the emphasis on the amusing and affectionate relationships between Jones and the girls. Cedric the Entertainer is on hand for lively comic relief. (1.39) PG-13 for violence, sexual content, crude humor and a drug reference.

Michael Radford's condensed version of Shakespeare's most morally challenging play is crisp and lucid. It boasts remarkable performances by Al Pacino as the ferocious Shylock who has been so grievously wronged that his revenge must be right, and Lynn Collins as a formidable Portia who hypocritically entreats Shylock to show mercy even though she shows him none. R (nudjv)

Clint Eastwood directs, and stars with Hilary Swank and Morgan Freeman. In this heart-breakingly great movie about a diner waitress determined to be a prizefighter. The time-honored conventions of the boxing movie are served up with absolute finesse, but then the pic goes deep and dark into themes that strike at the core of human experience. PG-13 (violence, language, adult themes)

The story catches up with FBI agent Sandra Bullock shortly after she successfully disarmed a threat against the Miss U.S. Pageant while working undercover as a contestant in Miss Congenerality. Having become a media celebrity following her heroic pageant exploits, Gracie has been spending more time lately at the salon than the shooting range, working the talk show circuit and promoting her book. When her friends, pageant winner Cheryl and emcee Stan, are kidnapped in Las Vegas, Gracie's all-out efforts to jump back into action to save them puts her at loggerheads with the FBI top brass who don't want to risk losing their mascot and fear she might not be up to the job anymore. PG-13.

This endearing comedy allows Vin Diesel to remain an action hero while giving him the chance to expand his range as a Navy SEAL assigned to protect the five children of a freshly assassinated scientist. Diesel, director Adam Shankman and writers Thomas Lennon and Robert Ben Garant understand that when a strong man discovers his gentle side he can be truly touching — but a lot of humor and adventure also happen along the way. With Lauren Graham, Faith Ford, Brittany Snow and Max Thieriot. (1.35) PG for action violence, language and rude humor.

This white elephant of a movie that humbers from dripping catacomb to drooping chandelier was adapted by Joel Schumacher from Andrew Lloyd Webber's Broadway blockbuster. The dewdrop in this moldering enterprise is Emmy-Rossum-as-Christine-Beauty to the Phantom's Beast. PG-13 (Violence, threat of sexual violence)

The Hundred Acre Wood used to be such a nice, quiet neighborhood. Then one morning the relative calm enjoyed by Winnie the Pooh and his patchwork of friends is shattered by an intruder. A really big intruder. A really loud intruder. Thus is the setup of the third in the series of new animated films based on the characters created by A.A. Milne, following 2001's The Tiger Movie and Piglet's Big Movie in 2003. An innocuous introduction to diversity for the preschool set, the movie features some charming songs by Carly Simon and is warmly animated so as to evoke nostalgia in their parents. The Heff Humphs are seamlessly incorporated into the milieu, gently fitting in with all the familiar elements. (1/77) G helmed the original two Japanese films, comes aboard for the American sequel, which picks up six months after the 2002 hit ends. Naomi Watts and David Dorfman are joined by Sissy Spacek. PG-13 for violence/terror, disturbing images, thematic elements and some language.

Director Hideo Nakata, who

'Ice Age' director Chris Wedge, with co-director Carlos Saldanha, delivers a completely mechanical universe populated entirely by bots, including an idealistic inventor (voiced by Ewan McGregor) out to change the world. Halle Berry, Greg Kinnear and Mel Brooks also lend their voices. PG for some brief language and suggestive humor.

In director Clare Kilner's icky inversion of 'Pretty Woman,' Debra Messing hires gigolo Dermot Mulroney to squire her to her sister's nuptials. PG-13 (sexual candor, posterior nudity, profanity)

Adapted from Gerald N. Lund's best-selling series, The Work and the Glory is a moving the story set against the backdrop of religious intolerance on the American frontier of the early 1800's. Recently moved to populate New York from the comfort of their Vermont hometown, the Benjamin Steed family makes their way into the established social structure of Salamanca. In their attempt to settle peacefully into the new community, they find that the help they have hired to clear their land is at the center of a religious controversy — a controversy that threatens to tear the family apart. PG.

CSI quartet sets campus visits

TWIN FALLS — Four College of Southern Idaho men's basketball players will make campus visits to NCAA Division I schools this month.
Jamal Brown will visit Oklahoma State, home of former Golden Eagles coach Eddie Sutton, on April 8 and 9. Also on those dates, above-mentioned Williams will tour Southern California and Bruno Claudio will visit Kansas State. Mohamed Kone will travel to Waco, Texas to visit Baylor on April 14 and 15.
Already making verbal commitments for next season have been point guard Sham Davis to Indiana and forward Kirk Burn to Mount St. Mary's (Md.).

T.F. Babe Ruth tryouts are Saturday

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Babe Ruth Baseball observation day will be 9 a.m. to noon Saturday at the Harmon Park swamp field. Check-in begins at 8:30 a.m. for players ages 13-14 who have already registered. Those who haven't registered can do so then.
Players not bringing their own equipment. All will be provided and placed on a team.

For more information, call Linda Britman at 734-2633 or Brent Jussel at 734-6384.

Filer Rec holds signups next week

FILER — The Filer Community Recreation District will have registration for their summer recreation program on Thursday and Friday, April 7-8, from 6:30 - 8 p.m. in the Filer Middle School.
Baseball, softball, T-ball, and swimming lessons will be offered through the program. The cost of each activity is $30, with the exception of T-ball, which is $25. There will be an additional $8.50 fee for insurance if necessary.

Orndorff, Jernigan plan to stick together

By Kevin Colbert
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Sidney Orndorff and Delicia Jernigan will likely be leaving the College of Southern Idaho the same way they came in — together.
They've been playing basketball together since sixth grade. They've known each other even longer than that.
For Orndorff and Jernigan, the future looks like it will include at least two more years side by side on the court.
After being the foundation of the CSI women's team's amazing run of success over the past two seasons, the two friends in hoops will likely continue their careers together at the NCAA Division I level next season.
“We definitely want to go together and just try to find the situation that is best for both of us,” Orndorff said.
For now, that situation may include a two-year stop at Stony Brook (N.Y.), Sacramento State (Calif.) or Eastern Washington, where former Jerome High School girls basketball coach Michelle Skyles is now an assistant.
“I know Sidney wanted to stay west coast, but I've talked her into taking a few visits to the east,” Jernigan said.
“Way east,” Orndorff chimed in with a smirk.
Jernigan tore both her anterior cruciate ligament and medial collateral ligament in her left knee at last year's national tournament. She had already missed much of the 2003-04 campaign after injuring the planter fascia in the bottom of her foot. At that time, the possibility that both her and Orndorff would be able to continue their careers together was slim.
“I think that we thought that was the way it was going to have to be,” Jernigan said.
But, oh, what success can do. The Golden Eagles notched two Scenic West Athletic Conference championships in the past two years and finished seventh at the national tournament in Salina, Kan. last year before being ranked No. 1 for much of this season. CSI also finished second in Salina last weekend, the best-ever finish for the women's team. Orndorff was named the Region 18 player of the year, averaging 13.0 points and 5.4 rebounds per game. Jernigan was an honorable mention selection within the region and the region tournament Most Valuable Player.

“Doing well helped a lot, especially at a lot of the year because a lot of schools are interested in us together,” Jernigan said. “There are certain schools that wanted one of us, and then we'll bring up ‘Well, I'm interested in playing with so and so,’ and they'll say, ‘OK. We like her, too.’”

We're not in Kansas anymore — whew

If there's one problem with hotel rollaway beds, it's their tendency to roll away.
After three nights spent not sleeping on the cruelest instrument of torture since the invention of the iron maiden, there's no way I thought I'd ever miss resting on a mattress thinner than a Salina, Kan. phone book, or the metal bar under it, strategically set to twist my lower back into the shape of the fungus-covered turntable in Laguna Seca.

Eric Larson

But after getting back from the third night of covering the College of Southern Idaho women's basketball team during last week's NCAA National Basketball Championships, I returned to Salina's Baymont Inn to find my bed gone.
The front desk greeted my question about the bed with a resounding, “We have a roll-away!”
For the next two days, house-keeping disapproved — any knowledge of the whereabouts of said rollout. For all I know, it's rolling its way to Chicago, seeking out a better life.
But can you blame it?
After spending the better part of seven days in the Sunflower State, I've decided that Kansas is unfinished. In Colorado, the movement of tectonic plates creates the majestic Rocky Mountains. In Kansas, it created boredom. Mile after mile of similar hills separate similar towns with similar water towers and similar grain elevators. If

Eagles take on struggling Colorado Northwestern

By Kevin Colbert
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It's not quite a bye week, but it's as close as the College of Southern Idaho baseball team will get the rest of the regular season.
“That's” because the Golden Eagles will be taking on Colorado Northwestern Community College this weekend, a team that has struggled this season, to say the least. CSI will meet the floundering Spartans for a pair of Scenic West Athletic Conference double-headers today and Saturday in Rangely Colo. The teams take the field today at 1 p.m. while the games begin at noon on Saturday.
CINCC (5-26 overall, 1-19 SWAC) enters the series having lost its last 11 games and 23 of its last 25. The Spartans last win came on March 11, when they scratched across two runs in the top of the seventh inning to win 4-3 at the College of Eastern Utah.
Colorado Northwestern has been outscored 205-69 this season. The Spartans have been held scoreless 13 times and have been outscored 83-10 during their current losing streak.
CINCC has also had its problems off the field, having to dismiss several players from the team.
“They're really struggling right now,” CSI head coach Boomer Walker said. “That's actually kind of scary because there's no way they should beat us, there's absolutely no way. It shouldn't even be close.”
One bright spot for the Spartans, at least from the pitching mound, has been freshman right-hander Javier Soto. He has earned just one game, but has a 1-1 record and a 3.28 ERA.
“He's throwing well for them,” Walker said. “Right good on that team, but I don't think he could crack the top four in the starting rotation for us or for the other teams.”
CSI (19-14, 12-7) is on a four-game winning streak, but only managed to sneak three games in against CEU in Price, Utah

Bruins sneak by Spartans

RUPERT — Nonconference or not, it's hard to get out of Rupert with a win over the Minico Spartans softball team.
It took eight innings and an emergency appearance from freshman ace Amber Peterson before the 8-0 Twin Falls Bruins escaped Minidoka County with a 6-5 win in the eighth inning Thursday afternoon.
“I told the girls near the end of the game, ‘I'm not sure you guys know it, but we're in a battle here,’” Bruins head coach Nick Baumert said.
With the Bruins holding a 5-2 lead in the bottom of the seventh, Bruins pitcher Cassie Gonzalez ran out of gas after taking out, allowing a Rachel Nelson advanced to third on a Stan Standley sacrifice bunt, then came home off Kia Scruggs' one-out sacrifice fly to make the score 6-5. Then, Meghan Boettcher robbed Jack Lee of a line-drive hit with a full-extension slide. Petersen struck out the side in the bottom of the ninth to preserve the win.
“I can't complain about today,” Minico head coach Jackie Ranzick said. “The girls came back and competed well against a quality team like Twin Falls. I think the girls took a big step in overcoming our early errors, still playing hard and coming back. There's something we haven't done.”
Though Petersen earned the win, Twin Falls' Gonzalez pitched well over the seventh, giving up a total of five runs —

State golf teams convene for Jerome Invitational

By Brad Guire
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — This year's Dale Mower Jerome Invitational will be a split affair.

Twelve Class 5A boys golf teams will tee off at the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course, while the 4A, 3A and 2A schools will play at the Jerome Country Club.

The meet in Twin Falls will serve as a practice run for the 5A state tournament, according to Twin Falls coach Paul Stover. Stover said that the invite is a good way to get a feel for what the game is like. It's also a plus to have a few seniors (Cory Fisher, Zach Mathers and Cody Faught) who have seen state action.

Class 5A schools playing at the invite are Boise, Borah, Capital, Centennial, Eagle, Highland (Pocatello), Idaho Falls, Meridian, Mountain View, Skyline, Timberline and Twin Falls. Coeur d'Alene, Lake City and Lewiston high schools are not participating.

Jerome's Zach Dietz and Nathan Cook will also have the home course advantage against the other 4A teams.

At the season-opening Region 4 & 5 tournament at Rupert, Jerome missed overtaking Pocatello by two strokes. Jerome golf coach Rick Burke is looking forward to see how the Tigers stack up with the rest of the state.

The invite begins with a 9 a.m. shotgun start.

This week's sports picks

FRIDAY

• Jerome at Minico baseball, 4 p.m.

• The Spartans host the Tigers at Rupert for their Class 4A Great Basin West Conference game.

• Burley at Jerome softball, 4 p.m.

• Also engaging in Great Basin West action are the Burley Bobcats and the Jerome Tigers.

SATURDAY

• Borah at Twin Falls baseball, noon doubleheader.

• The Bruins face the Borah Lions in a rematch of last year's state tournament third-place game. Twin won the last game 18-5, but face a tough task against senior first baseman Brian Champ in Saturday's doubleheader.

• High school golf

Jerome and Burley will send boys and girls golf teams to the 4 & 5 District 4A meet in Pocatello.

The boys will play at Juniper Hills at 10 a.m., while the girls will play at Rivendell at 10 a.m.

Jerome coach Rick Burke said the girls look competitive and have a great "one-two punch with Jordan Burnham and Christina Paulson."

TUESDAY

• Wood River at Burley baseball, 4:30 p.m.

The Wolverines visit the Bobcats in a Great Basin West matchup after going 2-2 at the Buck's Bay Spring Classic in Boise. Burley most recently lost both games of a doubleheader against Skyline.

• Jerome at Twin Falls softball, 3:30 p.m.

The Bruins host Jerome at home, and have a chance to stay undefeated if they can drop Minico and Bishop Kelly earlier in the week.

WEDNESDAY

• Twin Falls JV at Jerome baseball, 4:30 p.m.

The cross-canyon rivals meet for the second time this season. Previously, the Tigers defeated the Bruins junior varsity 11-1.

THURSDAY

• Minico at Burley baseball, 4:30 p.m.

Great Basin West conference play continues as the Spartans head to Burley.

• High school track and field

Carey High School will host a track and field meet at 2 p.m., featuring Bliss, Camas County, Castelford, Community School, Dietrich, Hansen, Murtaugh, Rial, River, Richfield and Shoshone high schools.

Tracksters flock to Jerome's Dunne/Andrews

By Eric Larsen
Times-News writer

JEROME — It's time to see who kept working through spring break and who focused more on long naps than long jumps.

Friday's Inaugural Dunne/Andrews Invitational at Jerome High School Friday marks the restart of the area high school track schedule as some of the area's top programs head to Tiger land as the track season hits its stretch run.

"We used to host a big tournament years ago, but it kind of fell by the wayside," Tigers boys' coach Ken Nordquist said. "This is the inaugural one to honor Tim Dunne and Skip Andrews, who both recently retired after working here for a number of years and had a huge impact on Idaho track and field."

The competition on the girls side should be particularly fierce Friday as host Jerome will host the starting line against Twin Falls, Gooding and Filer, among others. Led by standout sophomore distance runner Carissa Lee, along with 11 other returning state qualifiers including senior sprinter Jena Burka and jumper Brittany Hamblin, the Tigers are strong throughout their roster.

There will be no easily won events against the Twin Falls girls, who suit 12 returning state qualifiers of their own, including standouts Brittany Ward, Aspen Clontz, and Chelsea Irons. Though they earned a second-place finish at last year's Class 5A state meet, the Bruins girls could be even better this season. The Gooding Senators girls may not have the numbers Jerome and Twin Falls have, but they do sport a number of returning state qualifiers, including three-quarters of their state champion 4x100 relay team. Led by senior Ashley Abramowski, the Senators Jerome runner Carissa Lee nears the finish line at the Jerome Cross Country Invitational last year at the College of Southern Idaho campus. Lee won the meet with a time of 20 minutes, 35 seconds.

Meet of the Week

should have little trouble finishing near the top of Friday's standings.

The Filer Wildcats have a number of strong female athletes, including seniors Rachel Jaymes and Lindsay Helmes. Throw in Wendell's Jaymie Goodbody and Burley's Stephanie Johnson in the mix, and there will be no lack of fast finishes.

"Twin Falls looks tough and Filer is always a real strong team," Nordquist said. "Wendell is always good in track also, but we should be able to go toe to toe with them all."

Though a number of teams including Minico, Kimberly, and Declo will be in action elsewhere, a group of smaller school athletes also looks to compete. Buhl's strong class of female distance runners should push the pace in the longer runs, while Oakley and Glenns Ferry both suit up a number of quality athletes. Athletes from Murtaugh and Shoshone will also heat up the action.

On the boys side, Jerome will hope more state experience can battle Twin Falls' young talent. No area runner is likely to take any wins from Bruins junior sprinter Brody Miller, so the Tigers will have to hope their quality relay teams can score some points. Seniors Britt Thiesen, Ryan Musgrave and Ted Tolman will look to lead the Tigers, while Twin Falls' Brandon McNew, Justin Turley, and Brandon Stokes look to be the front-runners in the Bruins' youth movement.

With Tyler Pickens and Kurt Nelson leading the way, Gooding will be strong in the distance events, as usual. The Glenns Ferry boys looked strong in the relays two weeks ago in Gooding and could continue to be competitive, while a young Buhl team looks to "keep improving. High jumper Evan McBride gives Oakley a chance for points every time he hits a rubberized surface.

Filer's Brad Silverstein should net his fair share of points for the Wildcats, while Shoshone's Cory Knip will be tough to beat in the distances.

"For the Magic Valley, it's really the class event," Nordquist said. "It's a big test, but I just hope that we're better than what we were the last meet. Hopefully our kids can come out and run wild in front of their home fans and do Jerome proud."

Field events and the 3200-meter run will start at 2 p.m. at the Jerome High School track, while the other running events are set to begin between 3:30 and 4 p.m. Admission is free.

BRIEFLY IN MONEY

Down payment help available

TWIN FALLS—Starting today, eligible home buyers can get up to $10,000 in down payment assistance through a new program from Idaho Housing and Finance Association.

The Bush Administration, together with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, launched the American Dream Down Payment Initiative, which offers assistance based on need and income. IHFA will administer the funds in Idaho.

"ADDI" funds are primarily for those in mobile home parks, public housing units and current Section 8 voucher holders," said Julie Williams, IHFA vice president of Community Housing Services. "Families earning below 80 percent of the median area income and first-time home buyers, or families participating in an Individual Development Account program, which sets aside and provides matching funds for education, employment and housing, also qualify."

Obtaining the resources to meet down payment and closing costs is the most significant obstacle to home ownership among lower-income families, Williams said.

For information, call IHFA at 1-877-4GRANTS or check its Web site at www.ihfa.org/addi. Information also is available on other HUD home ownership assistance programs, check HUD's Web site at www.hud.gov.

College offers free job-seeking class

TWIN FALLS—Need to upgrade your job-seeking skills?

People interested in starting a new job or moving up in current employment, or simply building confidence to get the jobs they've always wanted, may attend a free "Job Seeking Skills" workshop offered by the College of Southern Idaho Center for New Directions. Participants will learn the basics of job seeking from a career facilitator. Some of the skills are application processes, resume formats, cover letter impact, interview techniques and follow-up with a potential employer. The free workshop is for anyone who feels a little shaky about their job-search skills. It's scheduled for 2 p.m. April 11. Students must call or come to the center to sign up; call 732-6680.

Center offers career planning workshop

TWIN FALLS—The Center for New Directions at the College of Southern Idaho is offering a free "Career Planning Workshop" for people who are considering training, trying to decide on a program or thinking about a career change.

The workshop will help participants learn about the labor market, training programs and wage potential, identify their interests, investigate careers and make a plan for success.

The center will offer the free workshop in two parts—10 a.m. to noon Wednesday and 10 a.m. to noon Friday. Career tests are also free. To sign up, call 732-6680 or 1-800-689-0274, ext. 6680. Registration deadline is Tuesday.

Underwriters will hold meeting Tuesday

TWIN FALLS—SAIFA (formerly Southern Idaho Life Underwriters) plans its meeting and lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Elbowing Restaurant on Kimberly Road in Twin Falls. Ed Glennon of Glenon Financial Group will give a presentation on "Disability Insurance—The Forgotten Market."

The meeting is free to the public, and lunch can be purchased.

Realtors will hold membership lunch

TWIN FALLS—The Greater Twin Falls Association of Realtors will hold its general membership lunch 11:30 a.m. Tuesday at the TFC Club.

Members of a building task force will present the proposal for a new building center for the association. Reservations must be made by noon Monday; send a list of members planning to attend by fax to 734-5707 or by e-mail to marselle@twinfallsrealtors.com.

April Fool's pranks can boost morale

The Washington Post

Today marks a huge holiday for some people. After days or weeks of scheming, it's finally time to put the plan to work. It's April Fool's Day. Even (or maybe especially) in the office.

Tony Knight and his former co-workers used to live for this day. One year, April Fool's marked the start of the coffee-mug prank. Fill the mug with water, put shrink wrap over the top, and quickly flip it over on a coworker's desk. When he or she picks up the mug to use it, yes, water everywhere. Believe it or not, people kept falling for that one long after the first April Fool's Day attempt.

The employees also once took the tires off a co-worker's El Camino. He just happened to be the sales guy with many appointments that fine April Fool's Day. The intern had to drive him to all his stops. His tires eventually reappeared on his car that evening.

"We were all right out of college. It was almost like a fraternity and sorority," said Knight, now a senior account executive with a different company.

Mariann Stopyra was assistant to the senior vice president of International operations several years ago at a manufacturing company in Columbus, Ohio. One April her entire 10-person department all showed up, watched the boss drive into the parking lot and gave him enough time to get to his office. Then, from a different floor, they all called him, one after the other (some at the same time).

Stopyra claimed her dishwasher flooded her kitchen. One co-worker called in sick; another called shortly after her to say he had caught what she had. Another called to say his cattle got out of the fence and he had to round them up. When the employees went upstairs with a box of doughnuts as a peace offering, they saw their poor boss running around, answering all the phone calls.

"It's a great holiday," said

Stopyra, now director of human resources for Pathcore Software Corp. Even though she's in charge of a department that essentially writes the company rules, Stopyra maintains that office jokes can be good.

"I think people pretty much know they can do some pretty dumb things without stepping outside the typical bounds of harassment," she said. "You gotta have fun."

SHRINKING ALBUMS?

In digital-photo era, will shoe boxes be full again?

The Associated Press

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Jesse Eisenberg came within a technological whisker of losing all her honeymoon snapshots. The 31-year-old lawyer's digital images, stored on an online photography site, vanished while she was in the hospital, leaving her first child. She had given up all hope of retrieving them when they suddenly reappeared on her computer more than a month later.

"I can't believe we got them back," she exclaimed. "Oh my God, I'm going to be printing all day today."

It's a refrain that sets the photo industry's heart racing. As the digital revolution sidelines film, the photo industry is having to rely more heavily on high-margin services and supplies — inks, chemicals, paper — that go into making prints.

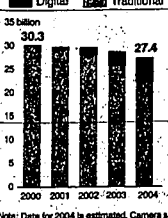

"Yet the picture is not quite as it seems. While there's no hint of a fall in the desire of Americans to freeze-frame the world around them, the overall number of images converted into

The number of photos converted into prints has declined due to an increased popularity of digital photography and a younger generation's lack of emotional attachment to need for prints.

prints has been slipping since the dawn of the 21st century. The drop-off coincided with the lightning transition to a world without film. A few years ago, there wasn't a framework in place to help digital shutterbugs print easily or cheaply. Digital cameras are now in about 43 million homes in America, and that 40 percent penetration could reach 70 percent by 2007. The more mainstream they become, some analysts argue, the more likely that old printing habits will re-establish themselves.

"Everybody treasures memories, and what makes memories more vivid than a photograph, a print?" said Ulysses Yarnas, Buckman, Buckman & Reid in New York. That impulse, he thinks, "will not fade, it's human nature."

Bolstering Yarnas' belief is a recent frenzy of acquisitions of online photo startups, which are projected to churn out 700 million prints this year, up from 400 million in 2004.

Others dismiss the notion of shoe boxes filling up to the brim again as wishful thinking.

"The pie isn't necessarily going to get any bigger," said Frank Ballagueron, an industry consultant in Eagle, Idaho. "But the pie is going to be sliced up in many, many different ways."

"In the digital era, you can see your pictures immediately, share them instantaneously. Please see PHOTO, Page D8

Deb

Teen clothing retailer Deb Shops Inc.'s fourth-quarter earnings rose 23 percent from the same period last year.

The Philadelphia-based retailer reported earnings of $10.6 million, or 76 cents per diluted share, up from $8.6 million, or 61 cents per share, a year ago. Net sales were $62.6 million, compared with $60.7 million a year ago.

For the entire year, Deb's earnings were $17.5 million, or $1.30 per share, up from $12.8 million, or 93 cents per diluted share. Sales rose 1.7 percent to $303.8 million.

Deb, which operates 323 stores under the names Deb and Tops 'n Bottoms, said it expected fiscal 2005 earnings to be between $1.38 and $1.48 per share, with projected sales of $305 million to $315 million.

"Financially fiscal 2005 was a very rewarding period for our company," said Barry Susson, Deb's chief financial officer. "We are particularly pleased with our ability to deliver a 40 percent increase in net income and diluted earnings per share on relatively flat revenue growth for the year."

Like many other retailers have done, Deb said it is reviewing its accounting for store leases, but it has not determined the amount of any changes. It previously stated financial results.

Car buyers 'upside down' on thousands of car loans

NEW YORK — A growing number of new car buyers are finding they owe more on their existing car loans than the vehicles are worth as trade-ins.

The phenomenon, known as being "upside down" on a loan, is the result of a confluence of changes in the ways Americans buy and finance their vehicles.

To begin with, the prices of new cars and trucks have been held down as manufacturers offer incentives and rebates to lure purchases. As new car prices flatten, so do resale values. Buyers, meanwhile, are choosing increasingly longer-term loans, sometimes extended over 84 months, to reduce monthly payments.

"The result is that a consumer who trades in a car that isn't fully paid for can end up wrapping the loan balance into the financing for a new car, greatly

Increasing the cost. Or, if a car is destroyed in an accident before it's paid off, the insurance settlement may not fully cover the outstanding loan.

The amounts consumers are upside down are substantial, experts say.

More than a quarter of buyers are upside down when they come in, and the average is nearly $3,800, said Bob Kurlik, a vice president with Edmunds.com Inc., an auto information publishing company. Please see LOANS, Page D7
