Bush considers his next step for helping the economy By Terence Hunt Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush is considering new measures to help stimulate the battered economy, the White House said Friday as unemployment and oil prices soared and Wall Street sank. White House counselor Ed Gillespie said flush's advisers are constantly looking at options for new economic proposals.

are constantly looking at options for new economic proposals.

"There's a short window for the president here when it comes to new policy. We understand, that," Gillesple said. "So I guess what I'm saying is, don't rule it out." Gillesple spoke before a Bush speech on the economy, timed around the ceremonial swearing-in of the president's new housing secretary, Steven Preston. In his remarks, Bush stuck to promoting his existing economic policies. The government's $168 billion stimulus package, passed in February, began getting tax rebate checks to people last month and helped to energize shoppers.

"We're beginning to see shoppers.

"We're beginning to see signs that the stimulus may be working," Bush said at the Department of Housing and

But analysts believe con-sumers still are anxious, and a sumers still are anxious, and a weakening job market could make people feel less inclined to spend. Pet projects still abound in Congress

$15B of 'earmarks' were slipped into legislation this year

By Andrew Taylor and Jim Kihnhenn Associated ted Press

WASHINGTON - So much

WASHINGTON — So much for trimming the pork. The practice of decorating legislation with billions of dollars in pet projects and federal contracts is still thriving on Capitol Hill — despite public outrage that helped Hip control of Congress two years ago.

More than 11,000 of those carmarks," worth nearly $15 billion in all, were slipped into legislation telling the government where to spend taxpayers' money this year, eeping the issue at the center of Washington's culture of money, influence and politics. Now comes an election-year encore.

project were two nonprofit and nonpartisan watchdog organizations — the Sunlight

Millions of the dollar support lobbying firms that help companies, universities, local governments and others clients fees that often equal 10 percent of the largesse.

Earmark winners and their benefactors with campaign contributions. For many members of Congress, especially those on the Appropriations commuttees, such as tep. John Murtha, D-members of Congress, espe-cially those on the Appropriations committees, such as Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa., campaign donations from earmark-seeking lobby-ists and corporate executives are the core of their fundraising.

Rules forbid lawmakers from raising campaign funds from congressional offices, but members and their aides sometimes find ways to skirt them.

"I know a bunch of mem-"I know a bunch or members that if you go, in to see them, somewhere in the conversation they somehow say. Well, we were looking through our list of campaign contributors and didn't happen to see you there," said pen to see you there," said Frank Cushing, a lobbyist with the National Group, which lobbies on appropria-tions bills. "Is there a quid pro quo? No, not directly, but you'd have to be pretty dense not to figure it out."

Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa. speaks in Washington in April. Campaign d tions from earmark-seeking lobbyists and corporate executives are the core of fundraising for many members of Congress.

Alaska leads states in project funding

In 2008, six states and the District of Columbia received more $120 per person in special project funding from the governmen file earmarking abuses, the system that now-jailed lobby-ist Jack Abramoff once called "the favor factory" is still run-ning full tilt. Congress dis-closed 11,234 earmarks total-

The explicit campaigs solicitations usually take place in the days following a meeting where an earmark is discussed.

"You can ask any lobbyist in town. You bring a new client in to see a member and everything is nice-nice and you have a good meeting and everybody's exchanging business cards," said another folbyist who focuses on carnars, "Whithin 48 hours, the clients and their lobbyist me—will got a fundraising phone call." That lobbyist requested anonymity, saying there could be no conversation on the subject without it. For all the outcry, most ear-from on the subject without it.

For all the outery, most earmarks have much to commend them, just because a lawmaker arranges a project for his home district doesn't mean it isn't worthy.

But many also go to causes or projects that, on the surface, don't appear all that necface, don't appear all that nec-sessary.

Anti-pork watchdogs, for example, point to the $1.8 million in five earmarks for Chicago's Shedd Aquarium, which ran $8 million in the black last year and has embarked on a four-year, $100 million fundraising campaign. With that kind of money, why should taxpayers fund a $400,000 program ear-marked by Democratic presi-dential candidate Barack Obama to help the aquarium conduct a program aimed at preventing juvenite delin-quency, watchdog groups ask.

Despite such questions and public outrage over high-pro-ing $14.8 billion in bills covering government spending this year, according to Taxpayers for Common Sense, a Washington-based watching group. The White House puts the could at $10 to 100 to they may tout them in hundreds of press releases anyway.

Defenders of carmarks note that the Founding Fathers explicitly gave Congress control over spending, And carmarks make upless than 2 percent of the annual spending bills passed each year.

"Representatives can better judge their districts needs than some bureaucrat," Rep. Namey Boyda, D-Kan, wrote her constituents this year.

Critics say too many carmarks go to a few powerful lawmakers such as Murtha, who by himself and in concert with others carmarked $176 million in 2008 federal spending.

go along in order to get a sliver of the pie, even as many of them ery out for change, "Initially, with great enthusiasm, you fight for your communities," said Rep. Mark Kirk, R-III, who says he's sworn off carmarks until new reforms are put in place. But the return is that you have to support the whole process and therefore, you're supporting everyone else's earmarks.

Examples abound of law-makers winning earmants for specific companies or institutions, and then receiving campaign contributions from the recipients or their lobby-ists.

TPI Composites, a defense contractor, received S2.4 million to develop a new allilon to develop a new allilon to develop a new allilon to develop a will a defense spending bill. The benefactor was Rep. David L. Hobson, an Ohio Republican who sits on the House defense appropriations subcommittee. In a recent poll of 45 Republican-held congressional districts around the country — GOP districts that George Bush carried by an average of 12 points in 2004 — Democrats were favored by a margin of 50 percent to 43 percent, that suggests the Democrats may be poised to pick up a lot of seats in Congress this year.

T.F. County | receives grant for electronic ticketing

By Sean Breslin Staff writer

Next time you get a traffic ticket, don't try telling the judge that the writing is illegible.

Twin Falls County has been awarded a grant that will help fund the purchase of a computer system that police and sheriff's departments will use to issue traffic citations, eliminating the need for handwritten tickets.

Mark Brunelle, director of Twin Falls County Research and Development, said he applied for the grant through the latho Transportation Department's Office of Highway Safety.

The county will receive $45,000 to purchase hardware and software from Florida based Advanced Public Safety to help outfit law enforcement vehicles with laptocomputers and hand-held printers that can print tickets, allowing them to forego the traditional citation pad.

Habitat builds home for family in less than week

For many, homeownership is part of the American dream. And that's the part that Anthony Bohrn, Rebekah Roach and their three children got Friday. "We've made the dream come true for them," said Linda Hemlang, director of the Magic Valley Habitat for Humanity. The organization partnered with the Twin Falls Linns Club to build the family a home in less than one week. Fleming spent nearly an hour thanking volunteers for their efforts before Friday's barbeque for the volunteers and their families.

The project's end result was the effort of more than 250 contractors

Eagle wounded by poacher gets new beak, new look

ST. MARIES — More than three years after a poacher shot off her upper beak, a bald eagle named Beauty can finally live up to her name — with the help of volunteers. A team attached an artificial beak to the 15-pound eagle in mid-May, improving her appearance ant, more importantly, helping her grasp food.

spent 200 hours deslgning the complex beak.

The "grill" was some metal exposed when a bit of the synthetic beak broke off during application. But the new beak is only a temporary fix, designed to nail down precise measurements.

A final beak made of tougher material will be created and attached later, though ther saviors only plan to release her back into the wild. They say that she has spent too much time with humans, and that the final beak will still not be strong enough to tear flesh from prey.

But getting this artificial beak now was key to Beauty's survival. A wild eagle that must be hand-fed by humans would eventually have to be enthanized, especially since her. life span could run four more decades, said Jane Fink Cantwell, who took Beauty to her raptor recovery center in Idaho two years stated that money Cantelled estimated that money would be sufficiently to the state of th

Two weeks after the beak was applied. Beauty continues to do very well and we remain guardedly optimistic for her future, Cantwell said in an e-mail Friday.

She also had trouble drinkling and couldn't preen her feathers.

Beauty was taken to a bird recovered in Anchorage, where she was hand-fed while her caretakers watted in vain for a new beak to grow. Cantwell in 2007 agreed to take the eagle to her Birds of Prey Northwest ranch. Every day she used tongs to feed Beauty food, such as strips of Salmon.

"As an enginer, as a human being first, I was interested in helping it out." Calvin said. Molds were made of the remaining beak and scanned into a computer so the artificial beak could be created accurately.

The nylon-composite beak will help the bird drink and grip food.

Some critics question such an extraordinary effort to saw one bird that is no longer on the endangered species list. But Cantwell pointed out that Beauty has the potential to bread or be a foster mother to orphaned eagles.

Cantwell also plans to use the bird at lectures around the country to teach people not to shoot at raptors. The procedure took place in the garage of Cantwell's neighbor, in front of reporters and guests. Beauty was laid on her back, fully conscious, with a ribbon of veterinary wrap around her wings. Her talons were wrapped in a leather strap.

courtroom questioning Wednesday of Magistrate Ronald M Hart.

During questioning. Hart mentioned that a May 2007 memo from the Idaho Supreme Court admoished magistrates in Idaho to stop dismissing charges in exchange for donations.

That reference opened the door for defense attorneys to reveal how widespread the practice was, including Harris own awareness that such donations had in the past gone to Caribou County's Search and Rescue organization and other public entities. Before the trial started, prosecutors with the attorney general's office had filled a motion that resulted in a rul-

TWIN FALLS — Regardless of where they haul their cars from, the Rocky Mountain Challenge Series' Pepsi 125 is a favorite of drivers in the circuit. However, there are four drivers currently in the top 10 in the point standings who consider Magic Valley Speedway their hometown track.

Since the previous two races at Rocky Mountain Raceway were canceled, how important is it to earn points tonight, with the afready limited schedule in the series? John Newhouse: "I think that its always important to do well, to qualify well and to finish well. Were probably more dominant here than the current points are although we didn't have point leader, although we didn't hav the best finishes the last two races."

Bobby Latham III: "With only nine races in the season, now only seven, its going to be most important. The team is definitely going have to be in tip-top shape in order to have a chance at the championship."

Steve Jones: "Oh, it's huge, Being out those two races, all the points we can get will be valuable."

Big Brown ready for run at Triple Crown history

The cracked hoof that stood between trainer Rick Dutrow Ir.'s high play cold and the sport's first Triple Crown since 1978 was covered with an acryfic patch Friday, ending a weeklong drama.

Of course, that would leave eight other horses to take a short at Big Brown, the early 2-5 favorite. Dutrow seemed even less worred about them, saying. "They're going to have to run the race of their life to win." At 2-0, Ignan-based Cashon Drive is coming off a 534-length victory in the Peter Pan Stakes nearly a month ago on the same Belmont track.

Panel upholds Gatlin's doping ban

Justin Gatlin sold himself as a new kind of Olympic athlete, the kind who didn't dope and didn't have to cheat to win. Though the insists he never intentionally did anything wrong, he nonetheless joined Marion time frame shorter than four years." Gatlin said in a statement. But the reality is his hopes for a comeback this year are all but dead, and so are his chances of defending his 100-meter Olympic title. CAS secretary general Matthicu Reeb portayed the decision as a compromise. "Justin Gatlin wanted to participate in the Beijing Games, the IAAF wanted to see a life ban imposed on him, but the CAS panel has manimously decided that four years was the right sanction," Reeb said.

Oil rises jump more than $10 to new record high

NEW YORK — Oil prices shot up more than $11 to a new record above $139 Friday after Morgan Stanley predicted prices would hit $150 by the Fourth of July. The unprecedented jump is all but certain to drive gas prices well past the $4 mark in the coming weeks. Oils meteoric surge, which pushed prices more than 8 percent higher in a single day, added to a huge increase Thursday to cap oil's biggest two-day gain in the history of the New York Mercantile Exchange. The burst higher—which also came on rising Middle East tensions — also raised the prospect of accelerating inflation by adding to already strained transportation costs.

stronger currencies and others looking for a hedge against the greenback. But it also represented a stampede by bullish traders and optimistic computer models betting that prices still have further to rise. Friday's surge builds on a 55.49 gain Thursday, which was the biggest single-day price increase in the history of the Nymex crude contract. That spike came as the dollar fell after the European Central Bank suggesting it could raise interest rates.

"With oil pushing back up to the mid-$130s, it's the make it or break it point. If we go past that, we set the course for uncharted waters and head up toward $150," said Stephen Schork, an analyst and trader in Villanova. Pa.

Meanwhile, U.S. gas prices at the pump continued to hover just shy of an average $54 a gallon, easing only 0.3 cent from Thursday's record.

MILWAUKEI — Budget cuts to Rod McLean's church youth group jeopardized a summer mission trip to Washington state.

As he wondered how he could help them meet their $13,000 budget, he remembered the upcoming federal tax rebate. He decided to donate his stimulus check—and persuade others at Lake and persuade others at Lake and persuade others at Lake Edge United Church of Christ in Madison, Wis., to do the Edge United Church of Christ in Madison, Wis, to do the same.

"I thought, What a natural," said McLean, a 67-year-old retiree, "If a lot of people can give 10, 15, 20 percent of that, it's not like digging into their normal budgets." He told church leaders of his idea and the "Share the Windfall Fund" was born. This weekerd members of the church will present their checks at a pottuck and help decide which missions, including soup kitchens and homeless shelters, they'll support.

The church of about 900 members in Wisconsin's capital city isn'i alone. From United Church of Christ members, to Lutherans and Quakers, religious groups are asking people to donate at least part of their checks to their groups or other charities.

The federal government hopes to stimulate the econ-only with the $110 billion it's returning to taxpayers this spring and summer. But spring and summer. But many see the extra money as an opportunity for charity.

Sandra Enos, a sociologist at Bryant University in Smithfield, R.I., who special-tees in nonprofits and philanthropy, said donations to food pantries and other local charities can benefit the economy just as much as spending on a new TV or vacation.

"Boy, if you're feeding local people who are hungry, it's like locally spurring the economy, so it's a wise economic choice, it seems," she said.

At McLearls church, if all members give 10 percent of their rebates, the congregation could raise $40,000, saids seemor pastor Paul Shupe. The send the properties include mission work for the homeless and hungry, and the youth group's trip to the Pacific Northwest later this month.

While charity is important, church leaders must also make stree that members who need the money know it's OK to keep it, said Bishop Paul Stummer-Diers of the Greater Milwaukee Synod of the Evangelical Lattheran Church in America. He recently urged ELCA leaders at a national conference to ask congregants to donate — but only if people can afford to do so.

"I'm just feeling there'll be a lot of people in our church that say, 'Geez, the tithing of 10 percent? Since it's kind of a windfall, we can make more," he said.

Using communion as a political weapon

n my religious tradition, the eucharlst (or communion or the Lard's Supper, if you prefer) is referred to as one of the "means of grace," That's a slightly archiae way of saying that the elements of bread and cup are an open window through which believers may know and receive the law and receive the love unrough when believers my know and receive the love and forgiveness of God. In previous centuries, Protestant clergy were known to withhold com-munion from those judged morally unworthy. That practice mercifully has dis-appeared. For Catholic priests who administer com-munion—for Catholic priests who administer com-munion—for Catholic priests who administer com-munion—for Cheuna sacra-ment with a lot more portent—that kind of discipline technically remains an obli-gation. Only it recently has taken on political dimen-sions.

Kathleen Sibelius has vetoed bills that would restrict abortion, and Archbishop Joseph Naumann of Kansas Giy, Kan., sent a letter to Sibelius recently, stating his displeasure that she had continued to receive communion despite an earlier opinion that she should refrain. This will get considerably more attention if Sibelius is cho-sen as the running mate of the presumptive Democratic nominee, Barack Obama, a possibility that has been tossed about.

cossed about.
But it seems the eucharist is even being used — in the hands of an isolated few — as as a cattle prod to force Catholic voters into political line.

Catholic voters into political line.

Such was the experience related by Douglas Kniice, a professor of law at Pepperdine University in California. Kniice is a constitutional expert who was a legal counsel to Ronald Reagan and George 1 LW. Bush, so he can scarcely be regarded as a flame-throwing liberal. He is also a traditionalist Catholic who has endorsed Obama.

In an essay on Catholic

In an essay on Catholic Online, an independent news and reference Web site, Kmler first offered his reasons for supporting Obama He was, he wrote, "drawn to Senator Obama's remarkable 'love thy neighbor' style of campaigning, his express aim to transcend partisan divide, and specifically, his appreciation for faith." He did not expect, he says, "to did not expect, he says, "to be clobbered by co-religion ists."

Kmilec said Catholic bloggers told him he had excommunicated himself for supporting Obama. Then, at a Mass prior to a dinner at which Kmilec was to speak, he said, "a very angry college chaplain excortated my Obama-heresy from the pulpit at length and then denied my receipt of communion."

Kmiec went on to offer some thoughts on how Obama might "unbuild walls" that have been crect-ed on the issue of abortion. He also stated clearly and without rancor why he thought the chaplain was without rancor why he thought the chaplain was wrong. He quotes the U.S. Catholic bishops, who have advised their American flock that it would not be permissible to vote for Chama if the intent was to wote in favor of abortion. But Kniete is convinced that Ohama himself is neutral on the question of governments role in abortion, leaving it to a woman's conscience and medical situation. And there may be reasons to support Obama on grounds of Cartholic social caching, he said.

"Catholic voters are asked to consider what other social goods Obama represents and whether they can thonestly and openly say that they are supporting him for that reason and not his stand on abortion," he wrote.

That is well said. Four years ago, Cardinal Theodore McCarrick of Washington remarked that the communion rail is not the place to hold these discussions. And I think Kintie himself would say that most bishops and priests would not behave as the chaplain did.

The hand that holds out the bread and cup should not be clenched.

DETRIBITED A Detroit woman has found Jesus ... in an alley.

The pastor of-a church in the city says its stolen 8-foot lesus statue was recovered from bushes in an alley about two blocks away.

Patricla Bowers says she notified the church late Wednesday that she had seen the statue the previous day after she had gotten off a bus. Bowers says she didn't realize the green-hued, plaster statue had been stolen until seeing new reports Tuesday night.

The few Barry Randolph says the only damage to the statue is a broken hand, the cross it was attached to suffered major damage.

Crackdown on Zimbabwe opposition extends to ral

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The message from the election campaign posters decking the streets of Zimbabwe's capital is blunt: "Mugabe Is Right," a reference to the president who has ruled for 28 years and seems loathe to give up power. With his rival, Morgan Tsvangiral, banned Friday from addressing political ral-lies in the run-up to the lune 27 presidential election, there is doubt about whether the opposition's campaign posters will even be allowed. Staff members with the opposition Movement for Democratic Change, MDC, on Friday were editing an advertisement for the state-owned

ZBC network, without knowing whether the pro-government network will air it. The ad, with the slogan "Let's Finish It," features Zimbabweans talking about their despair over the situation in their country and promises

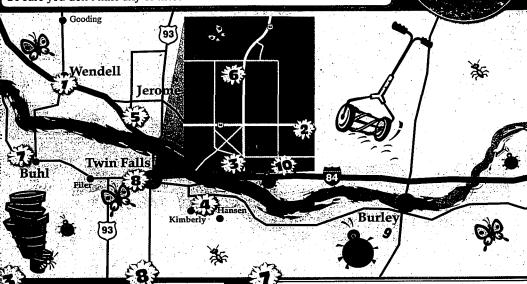

"A new president ready to deliver a new Zimbabwe." After a crackdown by the Mugabe regime aimed at the opposition, Western diplo-mats and aid organizations, analysts think the regime is unlikely to step down if it loses the election. Isvangiral supporters say he won a first round of balloting last month, but the national election commission gave him 48 percent of the vote to month, but the national elec-tion commission gave him 48 percent of the vote to Mugabe's 43 percent and ordered the runoff.

If you are looking to purchase real estate, the services of a REALTORY working for you under a Buyers Representation agreement is invaluable. Here e seven great reasons to tise a REALTOR* when thinking about buying your next property: t) A REALTOR can help you determine how much home you can afford. Often a REALTOR' can suggest ways to accrue the down payment and explain alternative financing methods.

 A REALTOR, in addition to knowing the local market, also can tell you what personal and financial date to bring with you when you apply for a loan.

3) A REALTOR is already familiar with current real estate walues, taxes, utility costs, municipal services and facilities, and my be aware of local zoning changes that could affect your decision to buy.

4) A REALTOR can research your housing needs in advance through the Multiple Listing Service (MLS), even if you are relocating from another city.

A REALTOR* can show you 5) A REALORC can show you only those homes best suited your needs - size, style, features, location, accessibility to schools transportation, shopping and other personal preferences.

6) A REALTOR often can of Artean for dietrial suggest simple, Imaginative changes that make a home more suitable for you and improve its utility and value.

In today's deal it is not easy to see how to bring home four hearts, so I'll give you a clue. The successful declarer lost three successful declarer lost three spade tricks. West led the spade king, which held. South won the spade-ign continuation, East having signaled an initial holding of three spades. Declarer saw that if the diamond ace was doubleton, then there would be a diamond entry to dummy for a club discard after drawing trump. If not, declarer might run into a ruff should be ettack diamonds before drawing all the trump.

tack diamonds before drawing all the trump.
South decided to combine his chances. He played a heart to dummy sking, then another to the ace, noting East's play of the 10 and jack, which strongly suggested West had the last trump.
Now he played a diamond to the king, thoughtfully eyeing West's 10. Either that 10 was from A-10 doubleton (in which case he was sure to succeed whatever he did), or it was the start of a highlow signal. East naturally held off the ace, and now South saw that low signal. East naturally held off the acc, and now South saw that he might well suffer a ruff if he played a second diamond now. So declarer found another line. He drew the last trump, then played a second diamond. Base correctly holding off again. But now South exited with a spade to his 10, won by West's queen. West played the 13th spade — and South countered by discarding diamonds from both dummy and hand! West's forced club return gave South the contract when gave South the contract when dummy's club queen held the 602

Puzzles by Pappocom

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, a every 3x3 box contains the digits 1 through 9. That's all there is to it. There's no math involved.

The grid has numbers, but nothing has to add up to anything else. You solve the puzzle with reasoning and logic. Find the answers for todays puzzle on page E-16.

Building report update "2006 - 2008: A look at the construction projects in the Twin Falls School District"

How time flies! A little over two years ago on March 14, 2006, the district patrons approved the bond levy providing the necessary funds for current and future building projects. The following will provide insights into the progress that has occurred on these projects.

In 2007, Perrine and Morningside Elementary schools received site safety improvements which included parking in addition to loading and unloading zones located off the city street system. Lincoln Elementary also had an elevator installed allowing for all students and staff to have complete access to the second level of the building for educational activities. The cost for the three elementary school projects totaled $ 787,000.

At present there are four projects approved and in differing phases of construction. One year ago, on June 4, 2007, the construction site for Canyon Ridge High School was unveiled and the Ribbon Cutting ceremony was held on location. Construction began the weekend of July 4, 2007, after months of completing paperwork and obtaining approvals from all the agencies that have oversight for school building construction projects.

Currently, we have 36 of 38 bid packages accepted and approved for Canyon Ridge High School and if you happen to pass through North College and Washington St, you will see the tremendous changes taking place. The school, which is approximately 220,000 square feet, is literally "growing out of the ground." The building is on or a little ahead of schedule and is intended to be completed by May 2009. The Board of Trustees has approved expenditures totaling $47,435,467 and the final two bid packages for fencing and communications should cost an additional $1,000,000. To share a perspective with some facts: CRHS will use about 5,000 cubic vards of concrete in the building structure: 400,000 building blocks; 35 acres of grass, trees and shrubs and has a crew of approximately 120 people working on site any given day.

The Bickel Elementary School multi-purpose room is underway and should be completed by October 2008. The cost of the multi-purpose room and an elevator is $1,190.895. The Twin Falls High School football bleachers are being renovated by strengthening the under structure through welding additional supports to reinforce the seating area. In addition to the welding, new seats and foot boards, made of aluminum/metal. will be installed reducing maintenance costs and adding to the strength of the bleachers. The cost for this project is $461,349. The TFHS Chemistry Laboratory/classroom remodels will begin the day after the teacher's finish their work and is scheduled to be completed by the beginning of school in the fall of 2008. The total budget for the remodel is $676,970 which includes fume hoods, air conditioning and equipment upgrades in the classrooms. Due to new regulations, the district must install water (fire) sprinklers in all renovated areas in the high school. The district is allowed to add the sprinklers as remodel projects are undertaken, thereby spreading costs over a longer period of time.

On May 8, bids were accepted for the Perrine

Elementary multi-purpose room. The bids came in approximately $100,000 under the projected budget of $1,100,000. Construction will begin this summer and should be completed within approximately six months. The other elementary school multi-purpose rooms are in the design stage and further remodeling at TFHS, including locker rooms, restrooms and storage areas, are being planned for this fall and readied for the ninth graders to move to the building in the fall of 2009.

Regular meetings are held with the board of trustees, administration, architects and construction management representatives to review the progress of the building projects, determine priorities and make decisions about other projects that are being scheduled into the cycle for bidding and construction. Recently, the bids have been more favorable to the district and it is hoped that future projects will show a similar trend, in turn, helping the budget.

All projects promised in the bond campaign, not mentioned above, are in the planning process and will take approximately 2-3 years to complete. Some of the work is best done during the summer months to minimize the disruption to the educational process. Keep watching and we will continue providing you with up-to-date information on the progress of the projects and what is coming next!

This past school year has demonstrated the positive effect "Extra Help Programs" are having on our Jr. High and High schools. At Robert Stuart Jr. High alone the percentage of students failing classes has dropped from 12% to 5%.

The goal of the Robert Stuart Jr. High Extra Help Program, "Rewards and Remediation," is to reward those students who are doing well and to remediate the students who are struggling, have missing work or need study assistance. At the beginning of the year staff implemented a "No Zero Policy" as well as a new schedule that allows for teachers to do remediation and enrichment activities 30 minutes each day.

Some students are seeing A's for the first time and are not only participating in the rewards programs, but also feeling the satisfaction that comes with acquiring knowledge through hard work. Robert Stuart Jr. High will continue the program next year with the goal to continue to reduce the number of failures and celebrate the success of each student.

An IDeal way to help make a difference in a child's future

Whether it's an infant coming home for the first time, a kindergartner on the first day of school, or a middle schooler at graduation, all children deserve a future full of possibilities. With IDeal — Idaho College Savings Program, parents, grandparents, family, and friends can help give children the future they deserve. IDeal is a 529 college savings plan, which is a tax-advantaged program that helps families invest money for college.

Accounts in IDeal grow tax deferred and withdrawals used for qualified educational expenses are generally tax free. Plus, Idaho residents can enjoy an Idaho state income tax deduction of up to $4,000 a year ($8,000 if married filing jointly). Other benefits include low fees, convenient online account management, a wide variety of investment options, and the flexibility to use the funds at any elicible college or university.

There are also two unique services that can help families boost their IDeal college savings: UgiftSM and Upromise rewards[®]. Ugift is an innovative online tool that lets account owners invite family and friends to celebrate children's milestones with the gift of college savings. Upromise rewards is a free program that allows account owners to boost their college savings through everyday shopping at hundreds of America's leading retailers.

The Twin Falls School District Education Foundation was founded on July 31, 1991, and is an independent, non-profit organization which services the Twin Falls School District #411 by providing scholarships, grants, library gifts, memorial gifts, program support and much more. Their mission, in partnership with the Twin Falls School District, is to "function as an independent entity" and have members who support and promote excellence in education...The foundation encourages, receives and administers funds for various educational purposes."

A variety of community members serve on the Twin Falls School District Education Foundation Board of Directors, "which is limited to a minimum of five members to a maximum of thirty members." All members are volunteers.

Thanks to the generous support the Foundation has received from the community, they have been able to assist in the improving and enhancing of the quality of education within the Twin Falls School District from gifts, bequests, real and personal property and monies. Each gift or donation "provides a mechanism to support and promote excellence in the education of our community's students" and may be program or school specific.

In the past, the Foundation has awarded $1,000 grants to each individual school, provided students with agriculture and music scholarships, provided money to help with elementary teacher classroom supply support, donated new pianos to the high school, supported the speech and debate program and worked with the "Adopt a Class" program. Red Ribbon Week and other essential and worthy causes. All contributions are tax deductible and quaranteed to further the education process.

Please contact the Education Foundation at 733-1161 for more information.

Dear TFSD #411 Parents, Students, Patrons and Staff:

I hope this late spring edition of the District Focus finds you enjoying the sunshine and life in general. We are very proud of our district's accomplishments this school year. Our administrators, teachers, staff members, " students and parents have worked very effectively and our results are impressive. Our students have demonstrated their academic improvement by scoring above state and national averages on numerous standardized assessments. it will be our job to analyze that data and to make plans for even greater success next school year. In addition, our students have excelled in many other areas including music, art, drama. athletics, activities and community service. All in all, the 2007-08 school year was a tremendous success.

It has been said that "students do not all learn in the same way on the same day." Some students need more time and additional help to master educational concepts. Also, some students desire and enjoy educational enhancements during the summer months. The mission of the Twin Falls School District is "to provide a quality education necessary for students to be successful in life." That is why we offer a variety of summer school opportunities for K-12 students. The Twin Falls School District wants to ensure that students have the opportunity to continue their learning and improve their math and reading skills, as well as earn credit for core courses required for graduation. Summer school provides an excellent opportunity for individualized instruction to meet the needs of each student. If a student has not met proficiency on the Idaho Reading Indicator (IRI), Idaho State Achievement Test (ISAT), has earned failing grades, or has not earned credit in a core class required for matriculation and/or graduation; we require participation at summer school. Please note the information about TFSD #411 summer educational opportunities in this copy of the District Focus.

Lastly, on March 11th, 2008 voters in the Twin Falls School District approved by super majority the renewal of the 10-year plant facilities levy. We are so appreciative of our patrons. This vote affirms our community's commitment to provide a quality education and a safe and secure environment for students. We are fortunate to live and work in this wonderful town.

On behalf of the Twin Falls School District Board of Trustees and the District Office Administrative Team, I hope you have a fun and safe summer. We look forward to the 2008-09 school year.

Sincerely.

Dr. Wiley Dobbs, Superintendent of Schools
