

CLARK SEEKS $4,000,000 IN NEW REVENUE

Idaho Governor Submits Budget to Legislature; More Money Asked to Match Federal Funds

(By The Associated Press) BOISE, Jan. 20—Expenditures of approximately $10,500,000 from the state's general fund in the next two years were requested of the Idaho legislature with submission of Governor Clark's budgetary requests today.

Total general fund requests shown in the budget were $15,500,000, but Clark said in an interview that he would ask for more public assistance in order to obtain all federal matching funds.

Receipts available during the biennium were estimated at $12,500,000, leaving a total of approximately $4,000,000 to be raised from new or increased sources of revenue.

In his initial message to the legislature, Clark asked an "additional $2,000,000" to be added to the state revenue, to take advantage of federal matching funds.

The request appropriated $12,527,814 for 1939-40.

Ad Valorem Tax Of the $12,527,814 estimated in 1941-42, $4,000,000 would be drawn from an ad valorem tax and the remainder from other sources such as the various excise taxes and liquor revenue.

In addition to the general fund expenditures, there was $2,740,025 estimated as receipts from special taxes on the motor vehicle, which was expected to return $131,341.00 on the basis of the present rate of levy of five and one-tenth cents.

The total to be spent by the state during the biennium was estimated at $17,500,000 if the budget figures were fulfilled.

Public assistance funds are used for public welfare, public works, the department of finance, the industrial accident board, the state board of corrections, the bureau of aeronautics and civil aviation.

Largest expenditure was indicated for the state highway program, where $30,727,814 was estimated as necessary.

The request also included $2,000,000 representing diversion of gas tax funds to the counties for two years to make up the loss of revenue from automobile license fees.

Public assistance figures printed were estimated at $5,250,738, compared with $4,500,000 for the previous biennium.

Clark explained the more than $1,000,000 increase to add to the public assistance program, as the possible allowing maximum grants for old age dependent children, blind and three children.

Vote Split on Party Lines to Abolish Commissioner's Office

BOISE, Jan. 20 (AP)—An Idaho house of representatives today passed three Democratic administration measures abolishing the office of tax commissioner and transferring tax collection duties to the state auditor and department of law enforcement.

The house also passed unanimously a Senate bill giving the tax commissioner power to lease or sell state lands subject to a lease or sale to the public.

The house heard more than an hour and a half, during which Republican and Democratic members argued the merits of the bill.

Republican representatives demanded the verbal assault on the measure, first of a controversial nature to be heard before the committee.

At 3 o'clock, the house adjourned for the day.

Council Again Rejects Housing Project Site

Mayor Declares Low Rental Building Program Only Delayed by Action

Rejection for the second time in two weeks of an ordinance to bring property within Twin Falls city limits for construction of a housing project today terminated a stormy session of the city council last night.

Attended by nearly 60 interested persons, the sessions opened with announcement of a "referendum" vote of 231 for and 484 against annexation of the 20 acres to the east quarter of the city, and then turned to a statement by Mayor Joe Koehler of his position in the controversy.

Mayor Koehler voted in favor of the ordinance, Commissioner Carl Ritchey, owner of the 20 acres involved, reserved his vote and Commissioner Leonard Adams, Paul Trabor and Alvin A. Dean all voted "no."

Following a report by Al Reed, director of Southern Idaho advertising committee, the body went on record as favoring use of any surplus money from the Twin Falls-Jerome toll bridge bonds and interest for the advertising committee.

Fantasy Provides Motif for Twin Falls Green, Gold Ball

Depicting the dream of youth, a fantastic winter setting is planned for the Gold and Green ball of the Twin Falls stake. M.A. of the latter day Saint's church. The committee in charge are: Rose Lynn Luke and Mary Sue Simmons, twelfth girls wearing white skaters' tog, carrying fluffy white pillows, grow weary at the close of day and lie down to rest, as the fantasy opens. Then, as Howard Corless, tenor soloist, sings "Sweet and Low," the children fall into a deep sleep. In their first dream they see several of their little friends in a snow-laden dance, directed by Mrs. Ruth Holland and Mrs. Leota Boling. Appearing in this number are Maurine and Jerry Randall, Zo Ann Garrett, Evelyn Watson, Virginia Berzer, Donna and Jean Young, and Rayleen Orchard. "The Curtain of Night" is pulled back by an unseen hand and the children behold a "Land of Dreams" beautiful snow-capped mountains, glistening ice-filled high peaks, as the Will Weight orchestra plays "Beautiful Dreams." Upon the snow-capped mountains appears a beautiful scene. Mrs. Ge-

ANOTHER BIG ADVANTAGE FOR YOU IN SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS

THE SMOKE OF SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS GIVES YOU EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR—AND 20% LESS NICOTINE than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—less than any of them—according to independent laboratory tests of the smoke itself

FOR many a year your taste and your tongue told you there was something distinctive about Camels... something you just couldn't seem to find in any other cigarette.

Then scientific research told you Camels were slower-burning. You learned that this slower way of burning meant more mildness, more coolness, and more flavor in the smoke.

Now, new tests—impartial laboratory tests of the smoke itself—confirm still another advantage of Camel's slower burning: Less nicotine in the smoke. Less than any of the four other largest-selling brands tested—28% less than the average!

And when independent laboratory tests reveal such a distinct advantage for one brand of cigarettes over all the others tested—that's worth your looking into—right now!

Try the slower-burning cigarettes... Try Camels. Compare them... compare them by smoking them. The smoke's the thing!

BY BURNING 25% SLOWER than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

"SMOKING OUT" THE FACTS about nicotine. Experts, chemists—and impartial laboratory machines—analyze the smoke of 5 of the largest-selling brands... find that 5 packs of slower-burning Camels contain 28% less nicotine than the average of the other brands tested—less than any of them!

PRELIMINARY FARM PROBLEM. Despite general improvement in the nation's economic situation, the farm problem still looms as a major consideration for congressional attention. The Department of Agriculture for the first time in more than a century, America's agricultural interests are indeed in a difficult spot.

Of course the industrial upturn resulting from the expenditure of billions of dollars for national defense will tend, though indirectly, to give the farmers a lift. This year's farm income already promises to be somewhat better than that of the last several years.

But the question of how best to handle anticipated surpluses of agricultural products remains to be answered in a genuinely effective manner. It is to be hoped that a sound solution can be found without expanding the federal deficit.

SON OF THE WEST. A lovable dust-bowl tramp who started life as a cowboy in the Territory of Oklahoma, and wound up as Kenya's most famous professional hunter, is dead in Africa. Cotlar lived the life that is visioned by every boy when he reaches the age when it is time to get away from home.

He was in his seventies when he went down, fatally gored by a rhino. True to tradition he had sent a bullet to its mark before the beast horned him. The rhino fell on him and he was killed.

As he told it under the starlit night's tents, it was in 1910 that Cotlar and his wife landed in a swampy area and walked right through their shoes. Probably the fact that Oklahoma territory had just become a state motivated his departure to the wilds.

AMERICA'S BUSY INVENTIONS. Reports from Washington indicate that one of the headaches of the national defense program is the deluge of inventions that has descended upon officials of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force. It would be easy to say that the deluge is the result of the pop-in-to the bureaucratic wastebasket.

"LOCK, DAM AND PORK BARREL." The Sagle-Cooper project in South Carolina is one of those grandiose federal schemes for bringing the "boons of electricity, navigation and reclamation" to the people.

Other Points of View

IDAHOANS FIRST. From the Idaho Statesman at Boise comes what is considered the greatest admission that has been made in the history of the Democratic majority in Idaho since the state's admission to the Union as one of the best from-point-of-view impartial and beneficial legislation.

It is a mistake to assume that a lawmaker must make a record as an uncompromising and aggressive fighter. The man who looks to the welfare of the people, for the benefit to be taken with the least effort, and the party members will be sure to get the benefits of far-reaching public service.

THE TOWN MEETINGS REVIVED. The old town meeting, continued in spirit still in some New England states, by which the first problem of the town was presented, has been revived.

It is a mistake to assume that a lawmaker must make a record as an uncompromising and aggressive fighter. The man who looks to the welfare of the people, for the benefit to be taken with the least effort, and the party members will be sure to get the benefits of far-reaching public service.

WASHINGTON. HOSS, President Roosevelt, has assumed such command over military and naval affairs that it is difficult to see how he could be anything but a success.

Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, according to talk on Capitol Hill, are in agreement that the United States should support the British in their fight against Hitler.

YESTERDAY: There are a lot of problems in David and Polly's young lives, but the chief one is how and when they can get married. The answer is in the next issue. Polly is talking with her Aunt Susan.

Chapter 18
The Kiss
"Maybe I could take it home," said Susan. "You manage it somehow, boy. So you and David could get married. Live in the Wildcat cottage. Get after that ramblin' man, boy."

"Polly's not ramblin'!" said Polly. "I'm a girl, and you know perfectly well you couldn't look after her. Suppose you had a little stomach ache at the middle of the night. What'd fix breakfast for the messengers in the morning? Who'd look after their rooms?"

"Aunt Susan smiled. "I reckon you're right, honey," she said. "It's just too bad I can't look after this David's Aunt Susan."

"Stop talking like an old ally," said Polly. "I'm going down to the plant now to see David, and tell him about this. I would do that, if it were you."

"Aunt Susan said, "I've found a way to let him know I still love him. So he wouldn't start going around with other girls. Polly said nothing to this. And a short time afterwards she was walking on the bridge, and she was talking to David, talking to him anxiously of the new work she was to begin the next morning. How handy the two weeks' salary was going to be."

"It means you won't be able to play bridge up at Margos," said David. "You know she's expecting you."

"Yes," said Polly. "But what's an evening bridge, when you have a job? You can tell Margos I'll have to call it off—since she sent the invitation through you."

"I'm certainly going to miss you," David went on. "Not being able to see you tonight and there'll be no one to drive Peter out after work."

"You can drive him out after work," said Polly. "You know how he behaves. He's a good boy. Peter can get in a swim after supper, or swim first and have your supper afterwards."

"Sure. But it won't be nearly as much fun without you. We'll feel best of both. Besides, you'll be home."

Polly took hold of David's arm. She stood looking up at him, remembering her aunt's words. Suddenly she arose on her tiptoes, and kissed David's cheek. "I was surprised. But quickly took hold of himself, and caught Polly by the arm. He kissed her directly upon the lips."

"Darling," he said, "that's the first kiss we've had in ages."

"About a week," said Polly. "Anyway, it seems like ages to me."

Polly pulled away. "I've got to go now, David," she said. "I've got some things to do. I'll be home to see you. I want to get in everything that Aunt Susan wants me to do. I have to be at the theatre at nine in the morning."

David walked with her to the wide gate of the lumber yard. "I sure do hate to see you working while Peter and I are having fun," he said.

"It's only for two weeks—worse luck!" said Polly. She hurried off through the gate, calling back: "Don't forget to tell Margos I'm sorry I can't come up for bridge."

"I won't," said David. He turned and went back to the office. There he telephoned Margos and explained about Polly.

"How nice she has a job," Margos said. "And don't worry about the bridge. I'll get someone else to play. Dad's got his heart set on playing."

"Good," David said. "I wouldn't want him disappointed. He said: 'I may be a little late setting you in your place. You see, I want to take Peter out for a ride after work. Now that Polly will be out after work, I'll be able to get out to the pool as when I take him.'"
