BOY KING LEADS MODERN CRUSADE

Yugoslavia's Peter II Symbolizes Fierce Spirit of Independence

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 27 (AP)—Thrust into leadership of Yugoslavia six months ahead of schedule, King Peter II symbolizes the fierce spirit of youthful independence which protected capitulation to Germany by the nation's elder statesmen.

The 17-year-old king is in the vanguard—perhaps unconsciously—of a modern children's crusade, a part of the revolutionary movement which overthrew the Yugoslav government today.

Youth at the pace: Dispatches from Belgrade have told of students rising in schools, wrecking their desks in protest against Axis demands.

Schoolboy Demonstrations—One story relates how boys hung a picture of Adolf Hitler on a classroom wall and pulled it to shreds.

The hot-headed Serbs are bred in an atmosphere where disputes are sometimes settled with fists and they traditionally learn to argue politics before they learn to read.

An American visitor tells of being introduced to the eight-year-old son of a Serbian.

"Say something in English to the nice man," the father told the boy.

"Can I say a dirty so-and-so," piped the child.

"That defiant phrase has thrilled the hearts of Bohemian students in cities recently as sponsors refused denunciations of Hitler, Munich and their own leaders."

Peter himself has spent a quiet life learning his duties and has had no part in the student disorders. He normally would not have taken over leadership of his country until his 18th birthday anniversary next September.

Fleets of Devildry—But observers point out that the student population is fired with strong nationalism, and that Peter is both young and their born king. Demonstrators welcome him.

The schoolboy demonstrations against Axis affiliation—topped by an ultimatum to the minister of education and the closing of high-grade schools—provided, moreover, a vivid demonstration of some parents' feelings.

The parents feared arrest, but wanted it known that the act was unpopular.

Serbian kids have never been lacking in devildry, however, even in normal times.

Several schools are burned at the end of every academic year, some because of academic irregularities because their weren't promoted.

And in Belgrade, today students have been known to stoop their teachers.

SCHOOLS PLAY DEFENSE ROLE

Demand for Skilled Workers Sets Nation off on Training Spurge

By W. B. RAOSGALE
WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—The booming demand for skilled workers in defense industries has set the nation off on an educational and training spurge that is unmatched in history.

Schools in many cities are on a 24-hour-a-day basis. Three or four shifts of students pour into and out of them daily.

The combined efforts of all educational agencies of the land put 10,000 teachers and training equipment. In hundreds of industries both are being loaned by the industries that need trained workers. At the same time dozens of task schools have sprung up.

Laboratories are swamped by requests for books on vocational and technical subjects.

Program Leaps Forward—When the training program was planned by the office of education, figured to train 700,000 workers for the defense industries by the end of June, 1941. The estimate now calls for a million to be trained by then and the program is being hastened steadily.

An even greater types of courses are offered in addition to the special technical courses of college grade for engineering.

The way for a person to find his way into one of these free courses is through his local employment office.

Three general divisions cover the dozen types of vocational courses. First that for the person who once did mechanical work but whose skill needs brushing up. Second that for the man who has a job but wants to qualify for something better. Third that for the inexperienced person who wants to get started.

WPA workers and persons chosen by the employment service from its job hunting files fit into the first course.

Trained for Advancement—The second type breaks down into several sections. Workers at defense plants are trained at their own plants.

spare time for the jobs of the men just ahead of them. Persons in other industries are equipped for better jobs in defense industries. Apprenticeships are opened up. Streamlined engineering courses are given to well-qualified workers in defense industries in evening classes. Full-time engineering courses are given those qualified to take them. A wide variety of courses are open to the man with no experience who wants to learn a skill. In many cases the firm are being hired as fast as they can be trained, but often they are leading both teachers and equipment to hurry along the process. Many a retired worker has been called back to duty and set to teaching youngsters the trade he had surrounded.

Pull-through, many industries have set up schools of their own. The Newport News shipbuilding industry has created many such schools. Teachers in the all but lost art of all the qualified experts in this country can be relied on for the time of one hand. But men want to work in munitions plants. An instructor is being borrowed to conduct a training course for teachers at Washington University in St. Louis. The teachers will go back and spread the news. This is one phase of the nation's training program by which 1,000,000 new engineers by the end of June.

MR. WALLACE PROVES IT: While no surveys or samplings are at hand to sustain the premise, it seems a safe bet that the nomination for America's forgotten man could be conferred without a second bid upon the vice president of the United States.

He is mute in the midst of fiery senate debates. He remains inconspicuous in the heightening tempo of the war news. His chief responsibility is to appear in person for the news reels. Doña—a year men work in night and day shifts to step up defense production and the news print output. Amid all the Washington tumult, Mr. Wallace remains aloof, appearing in a remote, detached and solitary figure.

Perhaps Mr. Wallace at length revolted against the obscurity to which vice president he is being appointed. He has called that some dramatic episode was voted for to galvanize the American people into a realization that they had a vice president. At all events, Mr. Wallace has crashed the news. The other day on the way to a hearing he was called on legislation to legalize the purchase of Argentine beef for the navy, which all along has subsisted solely on the domestic brand. The count reached 32-32.

As a result of the count, he turned toward the rostrum. Here was a chance for the vice president to break the silence his office imposes, to vote yes or no as the occasion and the administration demanded. Alas, Mr. Wallace did not. He was called on by a friend of the good neighbor policy, in the senate restaurant.

News wires hummed and half an hour later the vice president of the United States had been called on to appear in a brief moment in the space usually monopolized by the time-table of Mussolini's latest retreat. It was the first time since Vice President Dawes was called napping in 1925 that a vice president did not miss Page One. There ought to be recompense for Mr. Wallace in that.

AIR WAR PARITY: The authoritative Nazi commentary service, in explaining its boast of a Nazi superiority of three to one over Britain in the air, virtually confessed that by the end of 1941 there will be parity.

For production of 15,000 war planes in the United States, export of one-half of them to Britain and equality in production between Britain and Germany this year, the agency said that as a result of difficulties in Britain, Britain will still be outnumbered three to one.

This is, indeed, a new tune. The boast no longer is that the end of the year will find Germany stronger than Britain in the air on a par with the British. It is that the British planes have to fly farther to bomb German cities than Nazi planes from the so-called invasion bases have to fly to bomb British cities.

The greatly outnumbered RAF was able to retain mastery of the air over Britain last fall, the agency does not even suggest that the Nazis can wrest it from the greatly outnumbered British air arm. Its claim that the British are able to strike harder at the front than British British air arm strike at Germany is obviously correct. Distance does count in bombing raids, and Britain is at present at a great disadvantage in its counterattacks.

But, Britain has one advantage that it proved it can take it, and race toward parity in the air while it is doing it. Germany has a great disadvantage: it has installed the bitter feud of Nazi and Fascist ideologists, British orator and craft politician, presents a temptation to speculate on the state of affairs in the Balkans at the time of his passing.

area where political gulls is a vantage, and often his reputation was of low ebb. But, was usually on the right track, and for that, and for the enemies he made, his memory will be honored.

LAND PRODUCTION: Although the census bureau did not attempt to interpret its finding that it now takes 4.7 acres less to produce food for the average American than it did in 1909, it is assumed that it is the use of land productively, more than of people eating less. Notwithstanding the perplexities of the agricultural problem, it is not likely that "Let's eat" will soon be a mockery in the words of a well-known author.

The average farm of today has 174 acres and provides food for 21.6 persons, whereas the average farm of 90 years ago had 203 acres and produced food for 16 persons. There is another, a word of note—the average farm of 30 years ago just about had its 10 months to feed.

Other Points of View: A SHIP MUST BE SUNK SOON: "Vladimir," a Russian ship, is being especially adapted to convoy work. It will be transferred to Britain in a few days and there are indications that it will be used to carry out a special mission. It is a ship of 10,000 tons and is being especially adapted to carry out a special mission. It is a ship of 10,000 tons and is being especially adapted to carry out a special mission.

BAITS IN THE GARDEN: The martial music has been cramping up in American life ever since the war got under way. It already has influenced fashions in dress and home furnishings, and the very air is thick with it. The counter-attack with a vengeance, attended this time by all the theatrical paraphernalia of the profession.

THE DEAD HAND: It is related of the first John Jacob Astor, who founded the dynasty, that the ship on which he emigrated to America was wrecked. He was in a maverick state so furious that work seemed to be done in the ship. He was in a maverick state so furious that work seemed to be done in the ship. British War Plans Call for Millions of U. S. Soldiers

WASHINGTON—Whether the British Government's war plan can be carried out, military experts here do not believe that the landing of the British Expeditionary Force in France, the Belgians, and the Dutch, how can they be expected to land in France? The British war plan is a bold one. It is a plan that calls for the landing of millions of U. S. soldiers in France.

This contribution of American troops has been a major factor in the success of the British and American interventionist propaganda campaign which has succeeded in overrunning this country into the war. The nation may not yet be aware of the magnitude of the plan. The British war plan is a bold one. It is a plan that calls for the landing of millions of U. S. soldiers in France.

Except by such use of transatlantic cables, the British war plan is a bold one. It is a plan that calls for the landing of millions of U. S. soldiers in France. The British war plan is a bold one. It is a plan that calls for the landing of millions of U. S. soldiers in France.

As far as the present item of men is concerned, army critics calculate that the British war plan is a bold one. It is a plan that calls for the landing of millions of U. S. soldiers in France. The British war plan is a bold one. It is a plan that calls for the landing of millions of U. S. soldiers in France.

The British themselves recognize this—probably much more clearly than do the Americans. The British war plan is a bold one. It is a plan that calls for the landing of millions of U. GERMANY FACES TWO-FRONT WAR

Yugoslavian Revolt Grave Threat to Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis

By KIRK L. SIMPSON
A seventeen-year-old fire under the Balkans has ignited a fire under the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo axis that Herr Hitler may never succeed in putting out.

The Yugoslavian revolt against enforced alignment with the axis is personified by young King Peter, still short of his legal majority. It is actually spear-headed, however, by the Yugoslavian army, nearly a million strong and two-thirds of it already posted in strategic positions to meet a German invasion.

Headquarters of the revolt is that of the king, his diplomatic advisers and his generals are actually confined to the palace before the cheering in Berlin over the visit of Japanese Foreign Minister Matsukata and Yugoslavian army into the axis had died away.

The two-front war Germany has sought to avoid is obviously knocking loudly at her vulnerable Balkan back. It is not alone against the hearted Yugoslavian fighting men, Serbian and Montenegrin mountaineers as valiant in war as their Greek neighbors, with whom the Nazis may have to deal.

Any realistic appraisal of the suddenly altered Balkan war equation must reckon with other factors. It must visualize victory for the British-Legions from North Africa perhaps, and the Italian army in the valley to Yugoslavia aid. It must see two-million Turkish bayonets engaged in the fight. The axis must weigh, too, the Russian entente and the fact that Red army units are massed, backed by the British, in the Caucasus, dangerously close to the German-held oil fields of Rumania.

German plans to take the Balkans there is as yet no indication of what Germany plans to do. The time being she has contented herself with sending an "urgent" request for an explanation.

The protocol of the new meaningless Yugoslavian pact of adherence to the axis contained a clause like a Nazi joker clause. If that is the situation in Yugoslavia, it is more than justified. It is more than justified.

In return for a tongue-in-cheek Nazi promise not to march into Yugoslavia to attack Greece or for any other purpose there was enacted a Yugoslavian promise to suppress anti-Nazi or anti-axis demonstrations in Yugoslavia. Before the ink of the signatures of the Belgrade agency officials was much more than dry, these promises were reported in exile or prison and Yugoslavia actually is not yet legally out of the axis orbit war.

British Warplane At Idaho Falls

IDAHO FALLS, March 27 (AP)—Mechanics worked on the motor of a British plane today at the municipal airport, as attendants disclosed that the fleet ship made a forced landing when engine stalled over mountains east of here.

They quoted the pilot, Bob Blair of Los Angeles, as saying, "This field sure looked mighty good."

The ship was en route from Salt Lake City to Butte, Mont. when engine trouble developed. Factory representatives were on the scene today.

Convoy Reported For French Ship

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The Berlin radio in a broadcast heard by NBC reported last night a large French merchant ship was conveyed by French warships under orders to protect her from the British, even if they must use their guns on voyages from French West Africa to Casablanca, Morocco.

The French Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan recently threatened to use his warships to convoy French ships with food through the British blockade but that for there had not been an incident involving British naval vessels and such French convoys.

Army Closed for Rejected Draft

BOISE, March 27 (AP)—Men rejected as selective service enrollees "are not considered suitable" for enlistment in the regular army, Idaho draft headquarters said today.

LI. Col. Norman B. Adkison, executive officer, said the ruling was received from the adjutant general's office in Washington, and answered complaints, particularly from north Idaho, that men liable to meet draft physical examinations were allowed to enlist for three years, drawing more pay with quicker promotion.

The Day in Washington

(By The Associated Press)
Secretary of Labor Perkins turned over to the new national defense mediation board four cases involving strikers in defense industries, including the International Harvester strike.

Secretary Knox and William S. Knudsen, defense director, told the CIO that their message to the Alcoa-Chalmers company to resume production was not an ultimatum, but an appeal to the patriotism of workers and management.

President Roosevelt signed aboard his yacht in southern waters the $700,000,000 appropriation bill to aid nations opposing the axis.

The United States promised the new government of Yugoslavia effective material aid in fighting off aggression.

The United States, by the signing of papers at London, acquired formal leases for naval and air bases in the Atlantic and Caribbean from Great Britain.

The house passed legislation to continue for two years federal regulation of bituminous coal prices.

Vote for City Officials Who Will Cooperate

The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, in undertaking its annual activities fund drive, has chosen as its main objective a modern airport for the Magic City.

We should like to remind the people that a modern airport would be our main objective for Twin Falls should we be elected next Tuesday, and we would stand ready at all times to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce and all other civic organizations to achieve this common goal.

After all, the people are principally interested in electing to city office those men who will best serve the community. It was during Mr. Chapin's administration, and with the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, that the land for our airport was purchased and the first budget was set up for preliminary improvements.

It was during his administration, and with the co-operation of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, that our ball park was constructed.

Many other achievements were recorded during his administration and all were brought about as the result of co-operation with interested organizations. Working with Mr. Chapin throughout that time were Paul B. Taber and Leonard Avant, who now are running with him on his ticket as candidates for councilmen.

That should be sufficient evidence that Chapin, Taber and Avant stand ready, eager and willing to work with all civic organizations for the city's general good policy quite in contrast to that of the present mayor who has chosen repeatedly to criticize and minimize the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

If elected these men will endeavor to secure every public improvement that's feasible and will do their best to avail the city of all possible federal aid, bearing in mind that such projects will be of great benefit to all who are dependent upon relief work.

If the voters elect Chapin, Taber and Avant, they will be assured of good city government—efficient, progressive, and reliable in every respect.

Portland Leaders Serve as Councilors to Senior Class Members

By PAUL F. EWING
PORTLAND, Ore., March 27 (The Special News Service)—Not even day-dreams are safe with the realistic of America's public school on the loose, and Portland's are worst of all.

Only a few short years ago, Johnny could day-dream undisturbed of becoming a sailing ship aviator or a youthful Dr. Arrowsmith. Now, in schools here and in several other cities, that's a hard chance.

The worst of it was that Johnny might try to do just that, his heart filled with facts and very few facts, only to find too late that he had little natural aptitude for and less enduring interest in his profession.

Usually he didn't even suspect that aviators, to get anywhere, had to know mathematics, navigation and plane design, that would-be doctors, to gain admittance to medical schools, had to stand high in their classes.

Two men started the debanking system.

J. W. Edwards, assistant superintendent of the Portland public schools, decided four years ago that day-dreaming Johnny should have someone who could talk to him like a Dutch uncle—someone near the top in the profession Johnny had chosen who could see its faults and virtues.

He planned that each senior student in Portland's high schools should have just one Dutch uncle—and to keep the plan from becoming burdensome to the volunteers, each Dutch uncle should have just one student.

"Youngsters of the present day need something like that," the youthful Edwards said.

"The kids have little chance to get practical experience in the line they hope to follow, so they need to learn about it from someone else before finally making up their minds."

Dr. Ralph Taganide, the superintendent of schools, thought the plan was good. He mentioned it to a civic club. The members were enthusiastic.

With Taganide's able backing, the Dutch uncle program boomed. Virtually all members of Portland's civic clubs and other groups now are councilors.

"This program gives the kids direct contact not so much with their own local leaders in their fields," said Robert Oranson, Case school board member and member in charge for Dr. Taganide's "Big Thunder" and "White North," who also is active as a Dutch uncle.

The last time school of approximately 70,000 young trees will have the university cooperative nursery on Sunday, April 6, for delivery to purchasers by contractors outside of the state.

Mother's Death Ends Adventure

LOS ANGELES, March 27 (AP)—Three teen-age youngsters, who left Newcastle, Ind., in a "borrowed" car on a gay gambling spree to the cinema capital were ready to start homeward today after receiving word of the death of the mother of one of them.

"Mother, heartbroken and wept, died tonight," read the telegram received by Norma June Coelett from her aunt.

It arrived at juvenile hall where Norma and her two companions, Richard Nicholson, 17, and Edgar Ray Sutton, Jr., 16, also of Newcastle, were being detained.

They had been charged with stealing a bottle of milk from the front porch of a suburban bank home. They started with only $3.50 in their pockets.

PAYETTE, Idaho, March 27 (AP)—Fruit growers of southwestern and south-central Idaho will hold a hearing at Caldwell Monday on a proposed marketing agreement.

The suggested pact provides for a central committee, regulation of grades and volume shipped and minimums for handlers.

COAL REGULATION MEASURE OKED

House Votes Two-Year Extension of Price-Fixing Law

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP)—Reluctant to consider any amendments by acting virtually without opposition, the house voted today to extend for two years the federal regulation of minimum prices for all soft coal.

Meanwhile, the senate approved a bill, endorsed by the United Mine Workers of America, for annual federal inspection of coal mines. An amendment eliminating educational requirements for inspectors will send the bill back to the house for action.

Scattered efforts to amend the extension bill were checked down. They included an attempt by Representative Gehrmann (Prog-Wis) to exempt from minimum prices all consumer cooperative organizations.

Another by Representative Harnack would exempt from minimum prices coal purchased by municipalities for use in city water works.

As sent to the senate the only change made in existing law related to the consumers' council of the coal division. The extension bill called for establishment of the council's office—now part of the interior department—as an independent agency.

Just one month's time remains for the senate to act on the bill before the Duffy coal act, passed in 1937, would automatically expire on April 28.

The senate amendment to the inspection bill (HR 2083) removed a requirement that federal inspectors be mining engineers or show evidence of educational equivalents. That change would make the requirements for inspectors only five years actual mining experience.

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—Labor-management negotiators today reported no decisions after 10 days of steady discussions of wage increase and other demands made upon the nation's major soft coal operators by the United Mine Workers of America (U. M. W.).

Both sides said they would welcome an agreement by Monday night when the present contract covering 330,000 miners in the 8-state Appalachian area expires.

Thomas Kennedy, secretary of the U. M. W. conference and secretary of the union, said that the wage question—to which negotiators have devoted their entire time this week—was settled. The other questions could be disposed of readily. The members ask a $1-a-day raise.

DOUGLAS, Ark., March 27 (AP)—Disappointed in his ability as a navigator because he aimed at El Paso and landed in Mexico, 60 miles below Wilbur Shaw, the speed king, returned to the United States today, embarrassed and sorry about all the trouble it caused.

Shaw, whose disappearance on a flight from Dallas caused the death of 12 hours of anxiety before, word finally got back to the border that he was safe, spent the night with American mine owners at Nozarco, Sonora, after making a forced landing in a field—the only one for miles around.

Last heard from late yesterday when he reported by radio that he was lost, with only 15 minutes supply of fuel left, Shaw set his plane down just before dark, placed a guard over it "to keep the cows from eating it up" and spent a "delightful night in one of the few American homes in this vicinity."

"He flew back to Douglas shortly after noon, having waited five hours for gasoline to be packed on burros from the Nozarco mine to his plane."

Sugar Makers Ask Irrigation Ruling

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 27 (AP)—The Utah-Idaho Sugar company asked the Wyoming supreme court today to rule on the question of whether it can divert irrigation water from reservoirs in Wyoming for use on lands outside the state.

The company seeks to divert water from Two Ocean and Emma Mathias reservoirs in Teton county, Wyo., into Bonneville county, Idaho.

An application for such diversion was filed by the Snake River Land company, and was denied by State Engineer John D. Quinn and the state board of control in 1932. The company appealed the board's decision to the Teton county district court, which upheld the board.

The sugar company based its claim on the fact that it obtained title to the original permits for the construction of the reservoirs and their water rights.

YUGOSLAVIA GETS BRITAIN'S PLEDGE

Churchill Promises to Make Common Cause in Fight Against Axis

LONDON, March 27 (AP)—Winston Churchill pledged "all of Britain's might" to "make common cause" with the new Yugoslav government. He said that government is prepared to fight the axis—and other informed sources at once pictured this help as a naval-military-aerial movement to harry the whole German front flank in the Balkans.

This, they said, could be accomplished by British battle fleet sweeps in the Adriatic by the transfer of imperial troops through Suez, India, Ceylon, and Australia, by the action of British warplanes already based in Greece.

The German left flank rests now on the Black sea in both Rumania and Bulgaria; the right flank at the moment about the Yugoslavian frontier; the whole pointed down toward the Aegean.

How to Hitler British informants called Yugoslavia's turn-around "the first major political defeat sustained by the Germans on the continent." A blow in the face for Hitler in the presence of the Japanese foreign minister (Yosuke Matsuoka, who is now in Berlin).

Should Yugoslavia go through with her apparent intention to resist the Nazis it was added, this would cause matters in the southeast would be radically changed; the German high command would be put in the position of having to move with a flank uncovered—a dangerous maneuver—if it moved at all.

Prime Minister Churchill's announcement of the sharply changed situation in Belgrade came at the end of a speech before the conservative party central committee in which he had reviewed British successes to date, pulling at the top of his list a supreme event—the rescue of the Jews from the routing of the spirit of the great American nation and the most intimate association with the common cause.

"It is this morning," he added, "the Yugoslav nation found its soul."

Battle in Atlantic The prime minister's expressions on the war in general embodied a declaration of confidence that the battle of the Atlantic would be won decisively "before many months have passed."

He declined again to attempt to "catalogue" the exact extent of the new British successes, saying in effect that the first job was to win.

He mentioned a number of notable victories—in which he put the "deliverance" from Dunkerque; the RAF's victory in the Hitler's invasion plans; the "frustration" of the Nazi attempt to "cow" the British from the air; "the destruction of Italian power and empire in Africa."

Homer M. Davis Speaker During Kiwanis Club Session Here

A detailed discussion by Superintendent Homer M. Davis of Twin Falls schools on his recent trip to Atlantic City to attend the National Association of School Administrators convention occupied Twin Falls Kiwanians during yesterday's club meeting at the Park hotel.

Superintendent Davis emphasized that a definite theme predominated at the session and told of addresses by a number of leading educators. He brought out to the convention that the nation has two major lines of defective military which projects it from without, and development of high morals as a defense force within.

Education during yesterday's session identified with morals and for this reason is of particular importance at this time.

"Introduction of practical preparation for the problems of life is a striking particular element in the schools of the country," Mr. Davis commented.

Visiting Kiwanian at the session was Rev. E. L. White of Filer, and Mayor John Koehler of Twin Falls was a guest.

Birthing "city unity," Eugene Scott is the "most recent city election candidate to outline the platform upon which he will stand as an independent aspirant for a city council position.

Referring to the uncertainty of availability of unemployed labor, Mr. Scott said:

"Because of the national problem now confronting us I do not feel that the city of Twin Falls can make too permanent a program during the next two years. For instance, unemployment problem may change to a lack of workers which would make a direct change in our present plans for improvements."

To meet this situation, number of small projects should be planned, he said.

"One thing we must keep in mind in times like these, is that national government is well as in the national government," he added.

CHADS SEEN IN SPENDING SPREE

Taft Says 'Plenty of People in Washington Welcome Debt'

CINCINNATI, March 27 (AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) declared tonight that $5,000,000,000 of new federal money to be lent by American democracy is to survive.

In an address prepared for the earlier Press club, Taft forecast federal expenditures of $2,000,000,000 in the fiscal year starting July 1 and asserted that the administration had proposed no policy to meet anticipated deficits except to borrow money.

"The defense program is essential; it must be done," Taft said, "but only the new dealers welcome it as a blessing in itself and a road to permanent prosperity. Everyone who is not blind knows that it can only be a temporary palliative of the economic situation, and is likely to produce a fractional more harmful than the boom is helpful."

"If the people of the United States permit this, crisis to be handled in accordance with the ideas of economic crack-pots, this war will be more fatal to this country than it ever will be to Germany."

The government's borrowing and spending policy, the senator contended, would result in inflation unless "drastic measures" were taken to counteract it.

"War or no war," he said, "we must organize today to keep the country on a sound financial basis, and we will have to do it without great encouragement from the administration. That administration has been permissively—year by year—the theory that public spending is a good thing in itself that deficits are a blessing in disguise. It is not concerned about the size of the public debt, or at the rate at which it is increased in any year."

New Dress Shop For Twin Falls

Opening this morning at 153 Main Street west is the Roanah Shop, featuring women's ready-to-wear dresses and a complete shoe department, the management announced last night.

The completely remodeled interior of the establishment is of distinctive design, which also appears at the entrance where redecoration has been carried out. Fluorescent lighting is used throughout to enable customers to view dresses in illumination which approximates natural lighting.

Opening of the Roanah was advanced to this date to accommodate the Easter shopping demand, and the concern specialists in providing a large display of dresses.

Mr. Cecilie Reymann, manager of the Roanah store is here for the opening, as is Miss June Pedersen, representative of the company. A manager will be selected locally in the near future.

Public to View Minstrel Show

Students of Twin Falls high school will entertain at a minstrel show tonight at the school auditorium. Final arrangements for the event were made last night.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock, with Miss Marjorie Albertson directing all choral numbers.

First part will be given by the choir, the event to be the members' first appearance in their new choir robes. Miss Albertson yesterday announced numbers to be presented by the choir.

Commenting upon the event, Mr. Day expressed the opinion that it would surpass all previous performances because of the growing interest in scouting among youth, as well as the public.

Hoyt's Compound Worked Miracles

Says Mr. Burnham

Retired U. P. Conductor Says He Was Relieved of Indigestion, Kidney Distress and Nervousness. Now Eats, Sleeps and Feels Better.

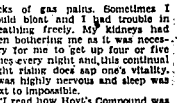

Mr. W. S. Burnham, 228 So. 3rd, Boise, Idaho, states:

"For a long time I have been troubled with my stomach. I suffered with acid indigestion, and my meals seemed to turn sour. I felt of acid and I would have severe atacks of gas pains. Sometimes I would vomit and I had trouble in breathing freely. My kidneys had been bothering me as it was necessary for me to get up every five times every night and this continual night rising does not aid one's vitality. I was highly nervous and sleep was next to impossible.

"I read how Hoyt's Compound was helping others and I decided to give it a trial. It has worked miracles in my case. It sure feels good to eat what you want and not have gas pains and bloating attacks. My kidneys are just about normal now. That nervousness which kept me awake at night has left me so now I can really get a good night's rest. Put Hoyt's Compound to the test and let it prove its merit."

Hoyt's Compound is sold and recommended by the Majestic Pharmacy and all Drug Stores in this entire section.
