THE HAPPY BATTLE By D. R. Churchill. Of happy thoughts of bygone days. Come to me or I'll come to you. Like widening ripples on the pool. (In dancing toward the shore) One scene I never shall forget, But cherish as sublime, When recollections race across The dim-plains of Time.

A DOUBLE BLESSING
Desiring of the support of every merchant in Twin Falls is the drive to be instituted Monday morning by a committee of Twin Falls business men, to solicit donations of foodstuffs to be shipped to the drought-stricken areas of the midwest.

In states where a blistering summer sun shriveled the crops on which thousands depended for their winter's bread, a food shortage exists. In Twin Falls, where a benign Nature brought from the earth bumper crops, farmers are faced with a possibility of having their products over for another year, or else to accept payment for below their value.

With this situation in view, it follows a practical plan to purchase produce from our farmers at the prevailing price to store their products over for another year, or else to have them purchased here for $1.50 per bushel nearly 50¢ if bought in the mid west, according to reports.

By donating money for purchase of produce here to be shipped to sufferers in the blighted states, merchants will promote a double blessing. Not only will the starving be provided with food, but local trade will be stimulated, and our money will remain at home.

WIRELESS IN THE DESERT
Wireless messages are going to fly across the Arabian desert pretty soon, all the way from the Red Sea to the Persian Gulf.

Mecca, the forbidden city, where temple bells chant psalms for those who are believers, will have a wireless telephone and telegraph. King Ibn Saud has entered into a contract with the Marconi Company for 15 stations.

Civilization is sweeping into sacred ground, and now when the caravans start their wanderings, they will be in contact with the world outside.

Of course the old order must always give way to the new, on the eastern desert as well as by the northern lake where Arthur cast his sword when the Round Table broke up forever. Progress is as typical of adventure and romance as any knight that ever wore a crimson doublet and rode a snow-white steed.

But there are many people in the world today who read with a sense of loss the notice that the wireless has conquered the desert. They haven't sat on the golden sands and dreamed through star-strewn nights. They haven't watched the swarthy faces of the white-robed Arabs as they heard the softened magic in the rhythm of their voices. They haven't caught the scent of incense and perfume and incense when the rugs swirl apart where some Arab pulled his tent.

But the very fact that there was an outpost, far to the East, untouched by anything more than the color of their own desires, where caravans were as secluded now as they were in Bible days, has caught the fancy of those who dare to dream.

When life became too practical, too full of realism so necessary for success, they could close their eyes and remember that somewhere the storied land lay untouched.

It will still be there. The caravans will plod their way as they have done for thousands of years, but the sense of slipping off into a medley of silver night and wandering days—all mudders east-aside will change the journey.

Most of the people who long to preserve a little of the old order will never see it. They must spend their time at desks, before machinery, back of the counter. Cairo and Shamilar are as forbidden to them as Mecca itself. But always they have one word in their mind. Some day...

And a wireless message flashing out from the spot where a caravan has pitched its tents, while it makes for safety and efficiency, and will save lives and time in war, somehow spoils the old picture.

So many dreams must live and die in our hearts. No one can say that the world is lacking in romantic progress today. The very fact that voices go drifting around the world and ships fly high above the clouds disproves all of that.

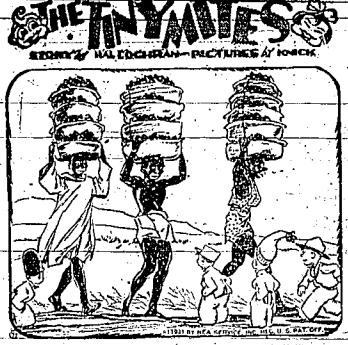

But somehow the desert was a secret world of mystery. And now it, too, has joined the modern improvement society.

MODERN WITCHCRAFT
There is a streak of curiosity in human nature that costs about $125,000,000 annually. John Mulholland, a professional magician, says that this sum is spent every year by people who consult fake fortune-tellers, astrologists, phrenologists and crystal gazers, trying to tear away the veils of the future.

Ever since the Witch of Endor lived in a cave some place near Jerusalem, and found out a thing or two for King Solomon, people have been making the same kind of pilgrimages.

As a rule the fake fortune-teller manages to give some encouraging information. The power of suggestion is strong. People become happier, expectant of something good, and since they are in the mood, perhaps good fortune is caught more easily.

The psychology of money is a powerful factor. Of course, it is a shame to see a $100,000 wasted. But why waste that some small percentage of it comes back to interest. Not because the fortune-teller can read tomorrow's calendar; but because he probably does bring a little happiness when he forecasts a rose-tinted future.

IDAHO STUDENTS RECEIVE LOANS

The University of Idaho, Moscow, Feb. 6. Loans amounting to approximately $200,000 made to students at the University of Idaho, were outstanding last year, a record survey of various financial records revealed. Money available through bank funds makes it possible for many students to obtain loans otherwise would be forced to forego.

The Idaho Trust Scholarship Foundation, a fund maintained by the U. of I. branch of Moscow, makes money to students attending any institution in the state. It is unique in that borrowers are the only security required. Loans have been made to students from the branch of Moscow, secretary since 1923 the bank has funded $100,000.

When a student in Idaho receives a loan from the Idaho Trust Scholarship Foundation, the money is loaned to the student in the form of a check. The student is required to pay back the money in 12 monthly payments of $200.00 each.

The topographic fenders and rear give the car a further appearance of speed and finish.

How burning rivers of lava spilling down from the crater of Mount Yoloago, homeland to the village of Holong, Java, is graphically shown in this remarkable aerial photo. Note the smoking, molten streams cascading along the outskirts of the isolated little community, where the terror-stricken inhabitants for many days were saved from starvation only by food which was dropped in parachutes from planes. Eight villages were destroyed and 100 persons were killed as the volcanic stream raged thousands of acres of fertile land.

Tell Me a Story

A boy was one day minding his father's cows and was feeling very sorry for himself because it was such a dull job.

A game-keeper came running out of the forest and said to the boy, "I have a dog that I would like to sell to you for five dollars. It is a very good dog and it will guard your cows for you."

The boy was so excited that he said, "I will take it!"

When they got there they found the dog had been stolen. The boy was very angry and he said to the game-keeper, "I will not take your dog. I will take your money."

Reduced Interest Rates on City Loans

Finance the total cost of interest and brokerage of monthly payment city loans made at 6% with our 6% rate applied to a $200.00 city loan, your term, for example:

Total interest and brokerage on the 6% loan.....	$716.66
Total interest and brokerage on our 6% loan.....	$210.00
Total saving to borrower, under our plan.....	$506.66

We compare a straight loan, 8%, some amount and term, with our 6% straight loan, same amount and term:

Total interest and brokerage on the 8% loan.....	$320.00
Total interest and brokerage on our 6% loan.....	$187.50
Saving to borrower, under our plan.....	$132.50

Intelligent borrowers will not be misled by any comparison of total interest on a straight loan with total interest on an installment loan for same term, with financing that under the straight term plan the borrower has the use of all the borrowed money for the full term, while under the installment plan he begins repayment of the principal in one month and has the use of an average of slightly over half the sum borrowed for the full term of the loan.

More (ears) More (ears). How about ears for all sports. Cases of itching might be expected and there is a possibility that horseticks could get along with you and your horse. For, but recent violent disturbance in the back-hunting and blocking and tackling industries seem to call for the erection of a kind of "shield."

The Florida tie situation and the recent chaos of piercing "shirts" applied by the police presidents bring this to mind.

rivalry between "Mads" and "Capers" and "Frank" and "Bruce" in the matter of providing some sort of pugilistic party for the tourists in Florida recently became so spirited that even Al Capone became disgusted with the situation and is said to have advised elimination of the proposed "Hisco-Walker" bout at Miami, which was cancelled with "Frank" Maloney-Carson show at Miami Beach.

Capone's alleged voluntary interest in boxing affairs is in itself a suggestion. Why not select Capone, high commissioner of the belt game, awarding him some kind of "honorary" title?

Kidnap? Oh Not? This proposal really is advanced here in a serious way if I thought I heard a noise behind me just then, and you are not intending to joke fun at Mr. Capone here (or any place else). A sport that is so infatuated with racketeers needs a firm hand such as Capone's. A word from the Capone headquarters would mean more to the muscle and chest man than all the state boxing commission, which has gone to the limit.

A Football Callyh During the "recent" "hobby" regarding orthopedians of football, every day was suggested that college president could think of "and college president" "think" of a lot of plans. It was even suggested that the big game between dear old Oregon and "Sticuba" be a private affair held in somebody's cellar. It was proposed that the stadium, with the same, and a few miles away you could hear other college athletic events occurring for relief from the caustic criticism of the very same old grade.

Professor W. Algie, chairman of the board of athletes at Michigan comes to the plate having a "college" of the general principals of athletic propriety-making schools, while the "college" is the college athletes. This comes right down to the "college" coming a year to administer the "college" of the general principals of the game. You see, the "college" of the general principals of the game, you see, we forgot—Dug is mysteriously missing. And besides Mr. Capone might be the "college" of the general principals. Name your own car.
