

Why we spend $2,000,000 to put CAMEL cigarettes in the new HUMIDOR PACK

We have been in the tobacco business a long time down here at Winston-Salem and we take a lot of pride in the quality of the cigarettes we make.

While we have spent a good many million dollars advertising Camels, we've always held to the old fashioned idea that the thing that really counts is what we put into our cigarette and not what we say about it.

If we know anything about tobacco, and we think we do, Camels contain the choicest Turkish and the mellowest, ripest domestic leaves that money can buy.

In fact we have every reason to be proud of the quality of Camels as they come from the factory, but the remark of an old friend of ours from Denver some time ago emphasized a point that has been the problem of the cigarette industry for years.

As he inhaled the smoke from a Camel we gave him in our offices one morning, he sighed with very evident enjoyment and then asked jokingly, "What is this, a special blend reserved for Camel executives?"

"Certainly not," we told him. "This package of Camels was bought at the corner store this morning."

"Well," he said, "I've been a dyed in the wool Camel smoker for a good many years, but upon my soul I never got a cigarette as good as this in Denver. If you would give the rest of the world the kind of Camels you sell here in Winston-Salem, you ought to have all the cigarette business there is."

THAT statement simply emphasized again, the cigarette industry's most important problem. The more we thought about it, the surer we were that he was dead right, and that somehow, something must be done.

Denver wasn't getting a fair break. Neither in fact was any other town. The only people who really knew how good Camels could be, were the folks right here in Winston-Salem.

That was due to a factor no cigarette manufacturer had ever been able to control.

Naturally there is no difference whatever in the quality of the tobacco in Camels, whether you buy them in Winston-Salem, Denver or Timbuctoo. But up to now there has been a very real difference in the condition of the cigarettes by the time they reached the smoker.

The flavor and mildness of fine tobacco depend upon the retention of its natural, not added, moisture content which is prime at about ten per cent.

In spite of our great pains always to make sure Camels left the factory with just the right amount of natural moisture, no cigarette package had ever yet been designed that could prevent that precious moisture from drying out.

THERE are three things about a cigarette that can sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat.

(1) Cheap tobaccos.

(2) Particles of peppery dust left in the tobacco because of inefficient cleaning methods.

(3) A parched dry condition of the tobacco due to loss of natural moisture by overheating or evaporation.

Always certain of the quality of our tobaccos we had already made Camel a "dustless" cigarette by the use of a specially designed vacuum-cleaning apparatus exclusive with our factory.

Now, if we could perfect a package that would actually act as a humidor and retain the natural moisture content, then Yuma, Arizona, could enjoy Camels as much as we do here at Winston-Salem.

We knew what we wanted. We tried many things. We asked the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory to help us.

After many experiments and humidity tests covering all methods of packing cigarettes came the detailed report of which this is the net:

(A) No existing cigarette package, including those wrapped in glassine paper or ordinary cellophane gives anything like adequate protection against evaporation.

(B) All cigarettes are parched and to dry out rapidly from the day they are released from the factory.

(C) Only a waterproof material with a specially devised air-tight seal could give the desired protection.

(D) This measure, while costly, could be relied on to keep Camels in prime condition for at least three months in any climate.

If you have a technical bent, the graph below made by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory will show you the exact results of their exhaustive study.

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory Report No 150473-Jan 2193

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

YOU may be sure we gave this report a lot of careful study. We checked it and re-checked it and then we went ahead. We tried this device and that. At last we met success. The air-tight wrapping involved the designing of special processes, special machines.

That costs a lot of money, more than $2,000,000 the first year, but after you have tried Camels packed this modern new way we are sure you will agree it is a fine investment.

For some time now every Camel that has left our factory has gone out in this new Humidor Pack.

We have said nothing about it until now, to make sure your dealer would be able to supply you when the good news came out.

Camel smokers of course have already discovered that their favorite cigarette is better and milder now than ever before.

If you aren't a Camel smoker, try them just to see what a difference there really is between harsh, dried out tobacco and a properly conditioned cigarette.

You can feel the difference, you can hear the difference and you certainly can taste the difference.

Of course we're prejudiced.

We always have believed that Camel is the world's best cigarette.

Now we know it.

Just treat yourself to Camels in the new Humidor Pack and see if you don't agree.

GASOLINE

THE average American motorist can drive nine miles farther on a dollar's worth of gasoline today than he could a year ago we are told in a survey of gasoline prices conducted by the United Press.

Price wars, overproduction in the oil industry and other economic conditions have combined to force down gasoline prices to a level approximately two cents lower than a year ago.

In several parts of the country where price-cutting wars are raging even greater reductions have been made.

The average price of low test gasoline was reported as 17.2 cents a gallon compared with 19.2 cents last year. These figures do not take into consideration the state tax.

In California and Oklahoma City, where the most serious gasoline wars are being fought, the price has been reduced to as low as 11.5 cents and 10 cents a gallon.

Enormous savings to automobile owners were indicated in many districts where prices are no firmer after price wars earlier in the year.

The total savings of American car drivers each hundred miles aggregate more than $3,500,000.

Every time a motorist drives 1,000 miles he saves enough over his last year's fuel bill to buy gasoline for the next two hundred miles.

Prices have been reduced four cents from last year's level in northern California due to cut rate competition while the product is eight cents cheaper in the southern part of the state.

Reductions by independent distributors were followed by a four cent reduction by Standard Oil. Independents then brought their prices down to as low as 11½ cents compared with the major companies' price of 14½ cents.

Prices in Oklahoma City dropped as much as six cents. Some stations are now selling gasoline for 10 cents a gallon. The major distributors, however, have held to a level of 12 cents.

At Sheboygan, Wisconsin, prices have dropped to 18½ cents. Low prices also are in vogue in Kansas, Missouri and Boston. Boston prices have been stationary at 15 cents a gallon for a year.

The highest rates are being charged in Pennsylvania and Wyoming, the survey indicated. The usual quotation in these states was 19 cents a gallon for the low test product.

The greatest price reductions in a field where no price war has been conducted in the past 12 months was Indiana, where the level dropped four cents to 16½ cents a gallon. Oil company officials said the reduction was made "to meet economic conditions."

Interested as everyone is in gasoline, the only hope ever expressed concerning it is that it will be cheaper.

WELCOME HOOPSTERS

TWIN FALLS welcomes today the participants in the annual south central Idaho basketball tournament, the first district event of this sort to be held here in years.

The reason the tournament comes to Twin Falls at this time is because there is now a gymnasium of adequate proportions for such important contests—built at considerable expense, but which will likely be taxed beyond capacity on occasion this week.

Twin Falls' community is hopeful that the tournament will be outstandingly successful and that sportsmanship will continue to be the paramount feature of the games. An enormous public interest has been developed in basketball in these parts, and on account of the participation of girls in the game may perhaps be said to be the major inter-scholastic sport of this section.

May the best team win!

BLACK AND WHITE DAY IS LOOMING

Committee Will Report to Directors of Cassia Holstein Breeders Assn. On Plans

BURLEY, March 5 (Special) — Organization of the Cassia County Holstein Breeders Association has been effected here with the selection of the following directors: Thross Jacobs, L. A. Glidick, M. V. Miller, Wm. C. Gandy, Chester Darlington, Capt. Charles Shaw.

These directors are scheduled to meet March 14 at the home of Capt. H. E. Lelach, 14-A Gillett and James Haugh, who was appointed to the position as a place to hold the meeting of the Black and White day.

The formation of this Cassia Holstein Breeders Association, or Mid-Cassia-Holstein association, made up of breed fanciers of both Milner and Cassia counties, the largest being considered, immediately, with the members so far added, and it is intended that they will also form a similar organization on the north side Minidoka project. Last year a similar organization held its meeting in connection with the Black and White day, the two shows taking up two days. Whether the dairy show in "do-in" held this year has not been decided, although fanciers of two other breeds, Guernsey and Jersey, have been favoring such a show. One of the main benefits of such shows it is said, is the fact that it attracts local overalls and repaired to readiness to begin plowing as soon as conditions permit.

Directed by 4-H club boys and girls for exhibits and contents in the county and district fairs held in the fall.

Farmers Prepare For Spring Sowing

ANGRIMDAM, March 5 (Special) — Farm work is being started in this locality such as burlaring of weeds and picking rock, timber and brush off fields, and then overalls and repaired to readiness to begin plowing as soon as conditions permit.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kunkel and family, Mr. and Mrs. Emma Kuhn, Mrs. A. J. Kunkel and Mrs. Elizabeth Kunkel, were among those doing work in the area. The Kunkels and visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holzmeier and family, all members of the 4-H club boys and girls, members of the board of directors of the Salmon River canal association, were among the visitors of the directors which was held at the canal office in Hollister Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Jeanette Peters returned home Sunday after spending the week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Anna Kunkel, in the town of Knoll.

IDAHO GROWERS MARKET 20,000 CARS OF SPUDS

New Loading Record Predicted
For This Year; Price Hold
Low Level During Week;

Pain Volume of Shipments

IDAHO FALLS, March 5.—Idaho potato growers have shipped to market over 20,000 cars of spuds during the current season. Present movement and the general opinion of the relative amount of starch held by growers indicate that a record will be broken in the state this year. Prices during the greater part of the marketing season have been stable, but last few months, ranging around cost and less, but growers have been holding prices, and have had little hope for a general increase in potato values during the balance of the season.

Carries, which at upper valley points of Idaho early this week were of fairly good volume, but a considerable amount of the crop has been held back for shipment or in joint account with terminal market dealers. Demand for Idaho spuds has been strong, with out the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys, but southern territory has shown a limited demand for these potatoes, which are for the most part a cheaper class of tuber.

The cash market on average has been stable, with the exception of one Russell, and 40 to 45 cents on number two white. The price of the smaller grade tubers was moving at 50 cents. These prices, reduced to a bulk basis, have resulted in a net return of around 20 cents per bushel after deduction of cost of delivery, of best quality, 45 cents on thirty dark-colored stocks, and occasional 60 cents on others. All merchandise to be packed in special bags. Number two sold around 15 cents per bushel. In general sections of the upper valley, dealers were working largely on a loaded car basis, but growers after finding no buyers, have given up and accomplished. Most of this community work has been handled by smaller dealers, who have been unable to find buyers for the lower valley points required a fairly good eastern demand for tubers but the market sagged slightly over the last week end and is brought around 50 cents each with a few of the best at 70 cents. Number two tubers sold around 40 cents, and 45 cents on 50 cents. Bulk stocks changed hands slowly in the fluey-tumper market, with the result of handling costs under the depressive conditions of the selling market.
