Boston Beats Highly Touted Washingtons 18 to 3

NEW YORK, Apr. 21 (UP)—The 1939 major league race entered its second week today with Washington, New York and Cleveland tied for first place in the American league and St. Louis at the head of the National.

The opening week of competition closed yesterday as Brooklyn and Cleveland made their first games of the season. The Indians won from the Philadelphia Phillies, 10 to 5, while the Red Sox defeated Pittsburgh, 7 to 6.

Shane Makes Debut Joe Shantz, formerly with Cleveland, made his national league debut for the Robins and held the Phillies to 10 runs. Bill Jike, Brooklyn's pitcher, pitched a Philadelphia no-hitter for 15 hits.

Nick Culpot's home run with two on, two out and the score tied at three all in the fifth inning, featured the Red Sox victory of the year. Two errors by Tamm gave the Reds their first three runs.

The New York Giants and Boston Braves played the first game of the season, the Giants winning the morning game 4 to 3 and the Braves the afternoon contest, 1 to 0.

Ellievers Battle The second game was an old-fashioned hurling duel with Soek's solid hitting and Hubbell's fine pitching leading to a 2-1 New York win.

Baltimore's sixth inning home run provided St. Louis with the winning margin in a 3 to 2 game with the Chicago Cubs.

Dabo Ruth was the outstanding performer of yesterday's play. His two home runs, each with a man on base, gave the New York Yankees a 5 to 4 victory over Philadelphia.

The Boston Red Sox showed the same foundation in a three-way tie for the American league leadership by pounding out an 11 to 2 victory. Boston led off three Washington pitchers.

THE JEFFERSON MEETING
The fact that Democracy is vibrant was well evidenced in Twin Falls today with the gathering here of large numbers of the frank and free from all over the state, come to do honor to their patron saint, Thomas Jefferson, to see and hear C. Ben Ross, the first Democratic governor of the state in twelve years and to reveal their loyalty and devotion to their party.

DEATH IN THE JUNGLES
ONCE more there has been trouble in Nicaragua, and some more American marines have been killed. The list of young Americans who have given up their lives in those Central American jungles during the last two decades is getting rather long; and nothing is more curious than the way in which our attitude toward it has changed.

A generation ago we accepted, almost as a matter of course, the regular Kipling viewpoint on such matters. We were proud to be called "jungle boys" and we liked to think of our marines as gallant young men who were dying in lonely wilderness in order that the "lesser breeds without the law" could share in the blessings of American civilization.

It was all very romantic. It relieved us, besides, of the necessity of thinking very deeply about the rights and wrongs of our conduct. To be self-righteous is to be unworried. The marines who stopped bullets in Nicaragua, or Haiti, or anywhere else about the Caribbean Sea, were heroes who died for a lofty cause.

But it doesn't seem so simple these days. We have uncomfortable feelings whenever we learn that some marines have been killed. We want to know why we want to know who sent them there, in the first place, and whether the job they were doing was worth the price of their lives.

This doesn't mean that we are any less ready to give to the slain marines their just dues. They were gallant lads, and they faced death, as they always have, without a whimper. It does mean, however, that we, their countrymen, are less ready to accept vague assurances that it was quite fitting and proper for them to be killed.

All in all, the business of getting at the rights and wrongs of the things seems to be much more complex than it used to be. Our confidence in our own eternal righteousness has been shaken. The old injunction, "civilize them with a Kipling" fails to satisfy us.

On the whole, this is a good sign. Probably the chief defect of the long era that blazed to a close in the World War was that it was too uncritical. It was too prone to accept slogans and phrases without examining them. To be sure, it had the courage of its convictions. It would die for its beliefs, very readily. But to die for a cause may be less noble than to live and find out if the cause be a good one.

So we don't accept the deaths of our marines in Nicaragua as complacently as we used to. The marines themselves ought to be thankful, for if we keep on doubting and asking questions, the time will come when it is no longer necessary for marines to die in lonely Central American jungles.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES
FIRST, WHEN BOOTS WAS FORCED TO LEAVE BEHIND THE LITTLE LIFE RAFT, SHE WAS SAFETY, THE SERIOUSNESS OF THE SITUATION WAS LOST UPON HER! SHE WAS BOOVED UP BY HOPE—AND A FEELING OF ADVENTURE. BUT NOW, THAT FEELINGS HAVE GONE AWAY TO ONE OF EXHAUSTION, HUNGER AND FEAR.

Records Fall

but, but several were turned away. It was noted that among those present was a delegation of more than 50 from Pile, 25 from Jackson, and from all the other towns in south central Idaho, as well as from Pocatello, Boise and Mountain Home. Democratic representatives included James H. Papp, Boise; A. F. James, Garding; H. G. Manning, Piler, and H. C. Bonner, Hilday. With the latter was C. Fred Hoy, Nephew.

The appearance of Governor H. H. H. here was the chief event of the taking over the office. The governor was in the chair, and he was in a happy mood as he recounted his experiences to date in the governor's chair. He paid glowing tribute to the citizenship of Jefferson in contrast to the latter's contemporary, Hamilton, asserting that today the same lines of demarcation exist between the two schools of political thought.

Presiding over the election of next year, several speakers predicted the reelection of Mr. H. H. H. as president of the United States, and that today the same lines of demarcation exist between the two schools of political thought. Mr. Chapman relieved Governor H. H. H. of his duties and handed him the keys of the state, and he was paid tribute to as the "careless honest."

NEW YORK MAYOR IN COUNTERCHARGE AS PROBE REPLY

Brands Committee Members As Soviet Sympathizers and Un-American

ALBANY, N. Y., Apr. 21 (AP)—Mayor James J. Walker of New York has answered infamance charges against him and his administration with a blast of counter charges.

His response to the demand of the city affairs committee today for his removal—studied today by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt—was a detail of charges against him, together with an attack upon the committee's leaders as fascists.

The Rev. John Haynes Holmes, one of the leaders of the reform movement, was listed by Walker as leader of a group of "Soviet sympathizers"—a man who endeavored during the war to break down American resistance behind the lines.

The accusations against him, the mayor said, were false and unparliamentary, and he asked that the governor, in reaching a decision, reconsider "the source" of the attack on the mayor.

Mayor Walker charges that the accusations submitted to the governor under the signature of Dr. Holmes, chairman, and Ralph Stephen, E. Wise, vice chairman of the city affairs committee, were false, unwarranted, without specification of details, vague, indefinite, propaganda, upon which a previous political campaign had been staged and based on insinuations within the administration for which Walker was responsible.
