REASSURING

THERE is no denying that Idaho and Idahoans know they have a governor — a real governor, in the person of C. Ben Ross.

He has been on the job a bare four months, yet he long ago proved he had an uncanny familiarity with statecraft, a wide acquaintance with the affairs of the commonwealth and her people, and most of all a sympathetic appreciation of Idaho's diverse problems — especially agriculture — for Mr. Ross is a farmer.

Imagine the test presented to a man in Governor Ross' position as a representative of a party which had not had a single state office in twelve years; he was faced by Senate and House in control of the opposite political party, and with every other state elective officer, including the supreme court and the national congressional delegation, as well as the federal administrative and judicial officials, also of the opposite party.

He assumed the gubernatorial chair the first of the year simultaneous with the convening of the legislature, with all the burdens incident thereto, and in addition had the task of filling numerous important state posts with men and women upon whose ability and fidelity may rest ultimately the success of his administration.

Carrying out his campaign pledge, he has traveled the length and breadth of the state with his Commissioner of Public Works, Alvin Harbour, unraveling vexatious highway, road and building problems, to the satisfaction of the individual communities, so far as is possible and practicable.

Any one of the several tasks mentioned would be enough to keep the average man busy, but these things he is doing in addition to a world of detailed administrative duties, meanwhile keeping numerous speaking engagements over the Gem State.

Here we have an example of a hard working, conscientious, capable governor, filled with zeal to serve Idaho as she has never been served before.

In these times of efficiency and economy, of liquidation and stress in the world, it is good that Idaho has a painstaking, alert chief executive, sympathetic to the problems of the taxpayer and understanding the situation of agriculture. The entire personnel of his administration is becoming thus amenable.

Ross has already sold himself to the people as governor. It is reassuring and reassuring to know he is where he is.

THE INVENTOR'S POWER

EUROPEAN royalty seems to like American automobiles. Prince Charles of Belgium, visiting America, plans to make the Ford plant one of the items in his list of things to be examined. Ex-King Alfonso of Spain is supposed to have in the back of his head a plan for coming to America and studying automobile manufacturing intensively. Prince Nicholas of Rumania found Detroit the most interesting place in America on his last visit here.

All of this is only natural; perhaps, since American automobiles are very good cars, and American automobile factories are extremely interesting places. Besides, an interest in things mechanical is one of the prerogatives of royalty. Louis XVI of France, who lost his head in the revolution, was an expert locksmith. Small Michael of Rumania has a machine shop in his palace. Complicated gadgets seem to have some especial affinity for kings.

More interesting, however, is the way in which the monarchial-automotive lineup represents a mingling of new and old. The automobile is the very symbol of the modern era; the king is an anachronism, as Alfonso can testify. By their interest in motor cars, the kings are recognizing the mechanical forces which are sweeping them out of existence.

The part that has been played by mechanical devices in the development of modern civilization is generally overlooked.

It was gunpowder and the musket that ended the age of chivalry, by giving the man on foot a weapon that made him the peer of the man on horseback.

It was the compass that enabled the old mariners of Spain, Portugal, England and Holland to explore the world and open up new trade routes and new areas for colonization.

It was the steam engine that made it possible for the nations to exploit these trade routes and settle these colonial areas; the steamship that brought distant lands close to the exporting centers, the steam-driven factory that gave the steamship its cargoes.

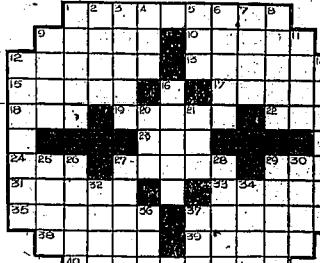

Another mechanical device, the printing press made possible the intellectual progress of the last five centuries, brought the American and French revolutions into existence and made democracy possible.

Now, today, it is the automobile that has flavored the civilization of the United States and has thrown a new factor into all of the currents of the old world.

After all, our fate lies pretty largely in the hands of our mechanics and inventors. If Gutenbergs, Watt, and the rest had not lived, the divine right of kings would still reign today, as it stood 600 years ago.

Our country has the newest member of that select company of inventors that has dethroned them.

NEVADA PIQUED AT CRITICISM OF BROAD LAW

State Tells Reformers to Keep
Hawks Off Tax
Muddle

BEND, Ore. (UPI)—Nevada was amazed, annoyed and slightly piqued at the deluge of publicity and comment throughout the nation that has been leveled against the "most progressive state in the Union," since enactment of the wide-open gambling law.

Nevada has never noticed on the rest of the country through news paper columns, and speeches and editorials, that it wants to work out its own destiny, that it intends to stand alone in its independence from the rest of the Union, since enactment of the wide-open gambling law.

"Our people of this state, at least that moderate portion of them, declare they have nothing to apologize for and they only ask that the reformers leave Nevada alone."

Gambling has always existed in this state and the people were interested in it, the reformers say. They are photographers, news writers and columnists, writers arrived in Reno to do their best to write up the fact by the governor to write up the fact that "Nevada has gone Old West."

Reformers are intensely proud of their state and resent any slur upon it. But adverse comments by the reformers, they say, are not because of gambling, but because of the charge that conditions are worse than ever. All are agreed here they are open to criticism and regulation.

"For 15 years now a bunch of prostitute gamblers got together and planned a country to have personal freedom," says a typical editorial. "They are the ones who are responsible for the lending idea was that this new country was to be democratic and was to be a model for all other countries. It failed, so after a couple of lively wars and the birth of the United States was annexed."

"Nevada is in almost info of that grand idea," he said. "If it's necessary to be a frontier state for the sake of the country, then a ploughing commonwealth."

"Nevada is perfectly capable of working out its own destiny without the help of outsiders, who would do well to keep their own back yards clear of rabbits," says Mike like independent.

Woman Arrested

Using those of Mrs. Gresham, in addition to her own, she obtained a three-centuries' amount of gold coins which bear a striking resemblance to the children of Mrs. Gresham, the woman who had the money when fire destroyed her home in 1885.

Mrs. Carlson, with Mrs. Anna Erickson, are charged with giving a frantic to Linckton, 81 year old neighbor, Mrs. Carlson was his daughter and Mrs. Erickson a close friend.

Others Arrested. Because of the mystery surrounding disappearance of Mrs. Carlson, Peter Lindstrom of Chicago, a son, ordered an autopsy and the body was found to be racking with arsenic.

It subsequently was found that Carlson had placed $10,000 in a joint bank account with Mrs. Carlson for convenience shortly before his death, and that Mrs. Carlson had removed it the day after he died.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 19.—An amateur of tide-surfing, G. E. Peck, died Sunday at his home in Fairfield, Mo. Peck lived in the ghost valley for many years. His parents, who had come from Missouri, had sold to complete the Adair County town. Before the town became a ghost town, Peck had a railroad camp, built Mr. Peck's house, and a general store in Belvoir, Mo., and Dugout, Mo., located in Bear Mountain Home, in Fairfield, Mo. Peck died last Friday.

Mr. Peck, a retired carpenter, was exhumed yesterday.

Services were served by a minister of the Evangelical church held at Montpelier, June 5, according to an invitation from that church.

Services were held Tuesday evening.

Mr. Peck, 68, in memory of his wife, Mrs. Orpha Clegg, who died in 1922, arranged that the next meeting will be in charge of the Bad Marion's club.

Mrs. Archibald, Idaho City, wife of Mr. Peck, and his two sons, D. F. Clark, 4, and John, 2, Miss Lois, Mrs. William Bogg and Miss Laura Bohannon.

SNOWDEN BUDGET FOES PREPARING VERBAL BARRAGE

Debate of England's Four Billion Dollar Purse
Starts Wednesday

CHANCELLOR IS STRONG

Labor Party's Determined To Remain in Power

LONDON, April 29 (UPI) — The Labor government, headed by Chancellor Philip Snowden, is continuing its balancing of a budget requiring a reduction in public spending while maintaining its forces ready for the parliamentary debate today.

The chief Liberal whip, Sir Archibald Sinclair, and the Liberal leader, Sir John Simon, both of whom conferred with Macdonald, Snowden, J. H. Thomas and Arthur Henderson at the Cabinet meeting, expected to strengthen the Liberal-Labor alliance which had kept the Socialist party out of the government despite proposed tax or capital gain taxes — a Lloyd George project — and economic policies.

Terms of the budget reacted favorably on him and the stock market, which was again record high, more on the stock exchange, especially among gilt-edged securities.

Fear for Employment — Chief critics of the budget were those who deplored the cuts which reflected Snowden's failure in increasing expenditures for social services and the like, and those who deplored its consequences on unemployment insurance.

While laborers and some 100,000 unemployed persons objected to the budget, the latter because of the increased tax on gasoline, the public reaction appeared favorable.

Snowden, who had been critical of the budget in his speech last year, seemed through the trying ordeal of the budget in excellent shape.

State Officer Is Hostess to Club

BURLEY PIONEER DEALER RETIRES

BURLEY, April 29 (Special) — A pioneer business man of Burley, Idaho, died yesterday morning at the age of 87. Harry Burroughs, who sold his hardware business to R. L. Culver, buyer, manager of a chain of hardware stores in the state, and others located in Pocatello, Hazelton and Rupert. The possession of the business will take place May 1.

Mr. Burroughs will not make any plans at the present time he states. He and Mrs. Burroughs plan to travel to the West Coast this summer, visiting friends and relatives. Edgar Burroughs, his brother, is living at Los Angeles.

The Harry Burroughs company was organized in 1910. In 1911 W. C. Dickey, Jr., and L. H. Swett, partners, joined the firm, and the store was sold to Burroughs and C. H. Boutch, and in 1926, the business was acquired and continued by Burroughs.

George Burroughs, III, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burroughs, will assume the management.

Fire Siren Gets
New Perch After
Tower is Wrecked

BURGESS, April 29 (Special) — After being out of working order last week when the tower on which it was located was demolished, a new fire siren has been put in working order again. It is now situated on a higher perch than before.

It is from three to four times as loud as the old siren, which was located in a favorite spot with the town below, and can be heard over the whole town with frequency independent of wind and color of the sky.

The siren is a favorite feature of the town, and is used in the same way as the old siren.

The interesting feature of the investigation is that the maximum hardness and strength of the alloy obtained only when the dispersion of the metal reaches a critical value.

more to have come up at present with rayon and the charming pieces that have been found for it in the market. This illustration features a model in Woods showing illustrations of self-motif rayon. It is a favorite item with the Woods girls, and is made in the woven rayon with frequent interlacings of gold and silver or the same color. The skirt is particularly attractive at the bottom and is supported by a pointed panel at the sides. It is available at the highest price, $2.50, and is favored by several foreign buyers. It gives a note of chic to this gown in particular.

"I WILL BUY ONLY LEADING MAKE OF TIRES!"

LIKE to know what the well-dressed car is wearing for 1931?

That's easy — take a look at the new and improved Goodyear All-Weather Tread Tire! The most popular tire in the world, now touched with art and made the smartest thing in rubber. Bettered in performance too — on road tests it averaged 24% longer tread-wear than even the wonderful tire it succeeds. That's great news in these times, but here's greater still: you now a cent extra to buy!

SIX IMPORTANT FEATURES
1. Improved Grip — Overcomes
the tendency of the standard tread to grip unevenly.
2. Improved Durability —
3. Improved Ride —
4. Improved Traction —
5. Improved Safety —
6. Improved Braking.
