TWO DEMOCRATIC REPRESENTATIVES CALLED BY DEATH

Congressman Rutherford and Quin Succumb to Heart Attacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Democratic members of the House of Representatives, Percy E. Quin of Mississippi and Samuel Ruth erford of Florida, died today. Both had suffered heart attacks. Senator Rutherford, 73, at his hotel, where he had been undergoing treatment for a heart ailment, succumbed at 7:15 a.m., and Quin at 8:20 p.m.

FRIEND OF HOOVER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — George L. Livingston, 68, a former member of Congress and a close friend of President Hoover, died yesterday. He had been a member of the Senate committee on elections of the president, vice-president and representatives in Congress.

The death came to five of the Democratic majority in the House. The standing now becomes: Democrats, 218; Republicans, 222.

Both deaths were sudden.

Rutherford was preparing to leave when the heart attack occurred. His wife heard him fall and ran to his room in another hotel. She reached the room.

Quin had been under treatment for another ailment. The heart trouble had been almost instantly fatal. Doctors said Quin had been 62 years old.

Quin was his home in the Mississippi district originally from Rutherford, who was 62 and was first elected from the 9th Georgia district in 1924. He had served in the Congress for 12 years and was a member of his home town, Smyrna, Georgia.

Jess Strange Given Decision Over Brock

Buhl Man Claims He Was Fouled; Refuses to Go On

Jess Strange, 125-pound take-and-breaker, formerly of Twin Falls, but now living from Salt Lake City, won in decisive over Eddie Brock, 169, Buhl man, in the 160-pound class-crate main event at the local boxing card staged at the local Memorial building here Wednesday night. Strange was awarded a 10-round decision, after having had 388 for each round.

A foul and refused to continue a foul. Examination by a physician failed to disclose any evidence that Brock had received a blow.

Ted Stroh, 170, Twin Falls colored boxer, underlining for Jack Dozier, Pocatello, who failed to arrive because of snow, drove with his manager to Guy Nelson, 144, Twin Falls, in a six-round semifinal. Nelson displayed fast footwork and clever boxing, but seemed to lack the power to deliver a knockout blow.

Bill French, 167, Twin Falls, drew with Rommel Street, 172, in a five-round bout. French Street substituted for Strange, who was originally scheduled to meet French. Another preliminary, however, between Bill Hill, 136, the local boxer, and Eddie Lewis, 130, resulted in a draw. Keith Hunter, 130, and Ted Adams, 131, both of Kimberly, drew in the first-round bout.

French and Travis had their hands full during the first two rounds of the main event, as Brock and Strange continually exchanged blows. Both fighters failed to dive into another close embrace in which both delivered many effective body blows. At the opening of the third round, however, French and Travis separated, and the fighters would dispense with Travis' services as far as breaking up the bear-hugs was concerned. French, however, formally opened the 1932 Olympic winter games.

"Hundreds of years ago," the Governor said to him, "it was the custom of the nations to cease warfare among nations while holding games that surround this little village in the heart of the Adirondacks."

Governor Roosevelt today formally opened the 1932 Olympic winter games.

Nearly 5,000 spectators, bundled in heavy coats, filled the open stands of the Olympic stadium when the grand march of the contestants was held against the glistening snow.

As the 250 contestants representing 17 nations, passed the reviewing stand, they were saluted by the national anthems of all.

The weather was biting cold, clear and with just enough breeze to rattle the delegation flags and give the circled Olympic banner game.

DEMSEY SIGNS FOR BOUT WITH KING LEVINSKY

Ex-Champ and Conqueror Of Louhghran Scheduled To Meet February 18

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jack Dempsey has signed for his first "fight" since he failed to defeat Timney in Soldier Field, Chicago, in 1927. Dempsey will meet King Levinsky, who ranked No. 7 among the heavyweight by the National Boxing Association's latest compilation at the Chicago stadium Feb. 18, and 8-ounce gloves will be used. Levinsky will agree to them.

"This is going to be a fight," said Dempsey, "but it will be a man's man's." It will be an exhibition in name only. Dempsey is going to knock out Levinsky before the latter can get his hands around him 50 per cent of the receipts for all appearances, but he had to cut back on either the Chicago stadium or Los Angeles, where Levinsky is drawing the card, but Levinsky's handlers dictated terms if Levinsky was the big attraction.

Dempsey has been guaranteed $7500 with a privilege of 15 per cent of the gate receipts. Matchmaker Nat Lash predicted today

Dempsey will draw well, but the stadium attendance about 21,000 persons and about $100,000.

In taking on Levinsky, Dempsey is making his heavyweight debut for the first time since he began his exhibition tour in Reno, Nev., last August. Levinsky had Tommy Conroy in the floor three times in New York, but Dr. Pauline Gengler and lost to Max Baer in his last three fights.

Levinsky, who ever wrote his speech, is correct. If we were living in a Utopia it would be a beautiful thing to bring all the different nations together, and allow them via an interpreter, to swap nones and discuss high ideals.

Theoretically, the Governor's speech, whatever wrote his speech, is correct. If we were living in a Utopia it would be a beautiful thing to bring all the different nations together, and allow them via an interpreter, to swap nones and discuss high ideals.

But unfortunately we do not live in a Utopia. You will realize that and also you will realize on all the unpleasant goings-on that have taken place at Olympic games. Olympic games are there to bring the world together, and the ome of friendships. The boys usually smile when they meet, and smile when they part.

Armed cars of the Shanghai volunteers, nicknamed "dry soldiers" of all nationalities, are shown here in a recent demonstration as preparations were made to defend the city against the Japanese invasion. Note the machine guns in the turrets of the cars.

TAXES

WHILE discussing taxes, expenses and governmental costs, there are a number of viewpoints to constantly keep in mind. One of these in particular was recently pointed out in these columns. Attention was called to the necessity of keeping distinctly separate the essential fixed costs of the constitutional offices, in contrast to the costs of new services which have been added from time to time for the benefit, convenience, pleasure or protection of taxpayers, such as instance as county agents, fairs, weed bureaus and hospitals.

It was pointed out that when it became necessary to curtail or decrease the total cost of a taxation unit, care should be exercised that an essential department was not penalized at the expense of an auxiliary department. In other words, not to attempt to solve a hospital problem, for instance, by reducing salaries of deputies in the assessor's office.

Now there are other factors worthy of consideration by those who are attempting to give the subject of government costs serious study. Each department should be considered as a separate entity and these new branches of public service should be judged solely on their individual merit, the service they render, in comparison to their expense.

It costs money, for instance to conduct the sheriff's office, but no one will suggest that the office be done away with in order to save the cost of its upkeep, which incidentally is comparatively low. In the instances of these public service departments, at the same time there is a study of their costs, there must be made a study of their merit, their worth. They must not be condemned because they cost money; the point to determine first is their necessity, and then seek to operate them at the minimum cost.

May any faults they might have lie either in their operation or some other factor; they might be rendering a service which the community could ill afford to dispense with. On the other hand they might not have any of these advantages.

Anyone can say that a thing costs too much, or is "too high." If the costs of any service really is too high, but if the service is at the same time indispensable, then the solution is not to eliminate the department, but to bring it up to its highest efficiency at the lowest possible cost. In other words the test should be its worth, merit, efficiency, indispensability.

There are some things we can get along without. Others we must have, only we want them at the lowest possible cost. This applies to crime prevention, to health, to food, to fire protection, careful administration of public affairs and other items which are readily recognizable.

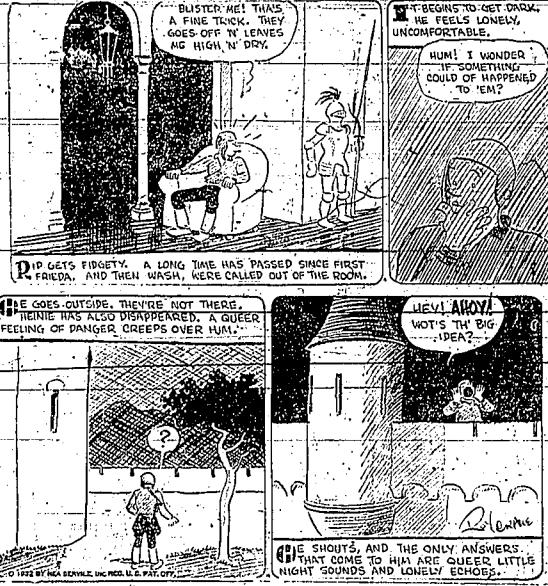

Beyond that there will be disagreement as to just exactly what is indispensable, with many arguments both favorable and unfavorable immediately available.

For instance, it is argued that the county fair being the one show-window for this agricultural empire will more than pay for itself in building morale and in promoting the prestige of this region; that the county agent work in this county is desirable for similar reasons and in the assistance rendered in marketing, crop production, choice of crops, farm data and general stimulus to the chief industry of the section which is farming and livestock raising; and the noxious weed bureau has its defenders, who state its work is of incalculable benefit to land values, productivity, purity of seeds and for other reasons; and the county health unit is defended on grounds that since its institution here the health of the people is appreciably better, there has been a minimum of epidemics, and the dreaded spinal meningitis which in the period November 12, 1928, to May 15, 1929, took a toll of 23 lives out of 44 cases, has practically been eliminated. It is stated that during that period which was previous to the installation of the unit, the cases which were cured for at the county infirmary resulted in the county having to bear in unpaid hospitalization bills alone some $3600, and further that all the benefits which accrue from the unit are secured at an annual cost to the county of only $6280, which is 56 per cent of its cost, the remainder coming from the Rockefeller Foundation, the United States public health service and the State of Idaho.

Without belittling the work or the need of any of the other activities of the county, it is only fair to say, that left to the people as a whole there would be no hesitancy in predicting their demand that the health work of the county be maintained. Everyone recognizes the necessity of the hospital for instance. Some feel the county could advisably dispose of it for operation under private ownership, but none would recommend its being dispensed with.

So in determining the 1932 program in this community, which will be reflected in the budget hearing next Monday, it will be well if each department be analyzed on its individual merit as compared with its net cost, and that above all there be no ill-considered action which would result in the saving of mere dollars at the cost of human lives.

A gasoline pump—that drained a canteen?—that drained a man's life?—that drained him in order to save the state investigation of filling station methods at Richmond, Va. J. H. Meek, director of the state health department, said that the drainage pump left enough gasoline to take the motorist several miles away, 10 or far for repairing.

Among other observations are methods of making performances from war-time to the present day, and special "seats" to those which prefer seats to destruction: ways to make balloon rooms smell like flower conservatories.

CHAPTER II

DURING the hot morning at Myra's words, lured with Ellen Myra had said that the Rositer house, warm always to just one lady ahead of the porousness, Myra had said that the Rositer girls could never find men financially equal to marry them. With a pangs.

In her heart Ellen thought of Myra, engaged for years to Bert, was put with her with all the love and care, the break she never came. She thought of little Mike.

In an age of deterioration Mike must have had his chance. But what was that chance to come?

What was Mike to do? To go to college as other boys did? Was he not educated? All of the Rositors did well in school, ease and beauty and luxury in life. All of them deserved those rights.

As she mechanically cut lengths of 19-cent orange flannel for women who for some inscrutable reason wanted outfit flannel in midsummer, the girl's mind returned continually to that morosing conversation. Were they indeed of the Rositors? Did they indeed have in their home what was needed? When the present of that family was poverty.

"What's eating you?" Jenny Elkin, her counter mate, asked once.

"Nothing," Ellen replied sullenly.

But the soft weary and dreary gaze held her head aside from the floor and the relentless complaints of shoppers that she heard more for their money than their money would buy. "Like us," thought Ellen bitterly.

With a start and the lunch hour she cleared. As she combed her hair and powdered her damp face, she also observed that she had a bad cold, full of cough.

She was so fatigued, however, well off than herself, many of them telling, next the age of romance and past the possibility of attracting future.

Bert, too, was ill, but very infrequent. His mother, Ellen, suffered from a chronic disease, which she called "the bone disease."

EATON — FISHING. — All day long every day, Bert, the fisherman, fished. He was almost eager how for the coming adventure. After all, the water was cool, the sun bright.

FEDERAL WORKERS NUMBER MILLION

Only 4 Cities Have More Population Than Uncle Sam Has Employees

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The names of 1,023,272 fulltime workers to be found in Uncle Sam's payroll. They receive an average annual wage of $1,275, or $104,000,000, according to a compilation just completed by the Bureau of the Budget.

This army of federal employees exceeds the population of any one of the 48 states in the union. It is greater than the combined population of New Mexico, Nevada, Oregon, four cities in the nation, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Los Angeles, have as many citizens as the government does.

An average of one out of every 11 people in the United States work for the United States govern-

The Government pays its bills until last week when the bulk of the budget completed its survey, no agency of the government had more than the vaguest idea of how much Uncle Sam paid out in salaries each year.
