

JUNGLE TRAPPER THINKS HE FOUND NOTED EXPLORER

Stephen Rattin Tells Interesting Story Concerning White Man

By STEPHEN RATTIN
(Written for the United Press

Note: Stephen Rattin, Swiss big game hunter and trapper, with 14 years experience in the jungles of South America, has returned from civilization with a sensational report that he had found Colonel H. P. Fawcett. Fawcett, a famous explorer, had been missing in the Amazon jungle seven years since he started out to find a "lost civilization." Rattin's story obtained by C. A. Powell, and signed by Rattin for Powell, follows.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, (UPI) — Englishman!

That one word, uttered half-jokingly, while map-gazing in animal skins and bold costume by Indians in an inland jungle-village, gave me the first hope I had found Colonel H. P. Fawcett.

Gordon Fawcett had been missing for seven years since he entered the jungles with several others to seek a "lost civilization."

And that one word, meaning as it did, was enough to hold me in that village ten more days, to get another chance to talk to the white Englishman whose face had been darkened by long experience in the jungle. An Indian headman prevented more talk at our first meeting.

Southern Indians

I went into the northern jungles of the state of Mato Grosso (great jungle) last October to recruit men for my own trapping expedition and reached the settlement of Cardoso, headwaters close to the frontier of Amazonas, where the Indians who had been the Nixon and Madoff (man) Marimoneque of the Muriazezoos state.

When I was taking supplies, Gordon Fawcett, a white man, in station uniform, heavy, with white hair and a beard, apparently about 65 years old, He did not approach me although I had been in the same village. Later I asked him if he spoke Portuguese and he whispered the one word falteringly:

"Gordon."

The headman intervened and ended the conversation immediately, ordering the white man away, but my curiosity was aroused. I followed him, however, and the day after I determined to solve the mystery if possible and win the confidence of the Indians so they would allow me to talk with the white man.

Said He Was Fawcett

I sat down opposite to talk with him after four days. He told me he was Col. Fawcett and asked me to communicate with any British government and with a "former name" Fawcett.

This was all the information I could get except that he had been held prisoner for over five years.

He had been captured long ago and died the year before. His companions were his son, Jack, and an Englishman named Reddick.

When I told me that he became an emotional he could not continue speaking. He sat, motionless concerning the tragic adventure which had taken place in the Indian land. He was almost as dark as an Indian. It was obvious that he was a white man.

Dominated by Chief

He did not appear to be suffering from any physical ailment, though obviously he was completely dominated by the native chief.

I promised him I would deliver his message and set off for Barreiros, achieving there what I reached Barreiros, after many days slow travel through the jungle that found no British official.

After six weeks, however, and after six weeks difficult journey, made my report to the British general, Arthur Abbot. He considered my report the most definite and best found of Col. Fawcett's fate.

I believe, the man I saw in the jungle was the missing explorer.

Rattin speaks several Brazilian dialects as well as the difficult Guarani language. He has been known to have spoken Spanish and French, however, proven him from being held captive at the Indian village. He said, however, he never had need to sheltered by the natives during his 14 years' experience in the jungles.

THEY DIDN'T BECOME DISCOURAGED

Stephen Rattin, seeing his first railroad train taken 12 years ago, was not disheartened by the long and difficult road to a success which seemed to lie remote.

Today he is one of the most trusted of the nation's political leaders. He has won the complete dedication of his youth and his Kentucky friends hope he may gain the Democratic presidential nomination.

Ramsey MacDonald, by opposing Britain's participation in the great war, was reviled as a traitor by his war-inflamed countrymen. He was not disengaged.

Today he is the head of the British government and upon him is centered the hopes of the nation for delivery from its crushing problems.

Gandhi, scrabbling to escape being run down by the victory's carriage, did not lose hope, although the road to success seemed least by insurmountable obstacles.

Today Gandhi has the largest personal following of any living man. In England he is feared because of his influence in India and respected because he is proof against all diplomatic hollies.

FRIENDLY GERMANY

IT WAS interesting to read the recent cable dispatches telling of the elaborate celebration which the German government held to commemorate the bicentennial year of George Washington's birth.

The ceremonies were held in the historic Reichstag under the patronage of President von Hindenburg. Chancellor Brueining delivered the chief address, the stars and stripes were abundantly displayed and a German military band played "The Star-Spangled Banner"—the first time that tune ever sounded in those halls.

This would seem to indicate that the bitterness of World War days is about forgotten, as far as Germany and America are concerned. The traditional friendship between the two nations, tragically interrupted by the war-madness of the last Hohenzollern, has been resumed. Let us hope that it will never again be broken.

THAT NEW HAMPSHIRE PRIMARY

THE results of the Democratic presidential primary in New Hampshire have not only stirred up new talk about probable outcome of the summer's Democratic convention; they have also emphasized the way in which the presidential primary has failed, in recent years, to function as it was meant to.

New Hampshire's primary election did give the voters a chance to express themselves on two of the outstanding Democratic candidates; but there were plenty of avowed candidates whose names weren't placed before the voters, and in most states the voters, won't even get the chance the New Hampshire voters got.

State after state, the primary this spring is simply going to be a form-uninstructed-delegations will be chosen, or delegations pledged to some "favorite son" who doesn't pretend to stand a show of being nominated. As a result, the ordinary voter will have very little to say about who is nominated in Chicago.

SALES TAX FACTS

WHEN the manufacturers' sales tax comes up for discussion, you might like to mull over some figures recently submitted by the People's Lobby, at Washington.

Pointing out that this tax is designed to raise around $550,000,000, the lobby reminds us that in 1930 there were 736,357 Americans whose incomes were more than $5000 apiece. These incomes totaled $10,198,000,000; and the men who draw them would have to spend just half on manufacturers in order to contribute as much as $100,000,000 under this tax law.

That, obviously, leaves something like $450,000,000 to be collected from the people who earn less than $5000 a year. The lobby estimates that fully $200,000,000 of it will be paid by those earning less than $1800 a year.

Unless those figures can be controverted, it will be hard to make the sales tax look like an equitable measure.

THE REAL PROBLEM

AN atom, in case you don't know, is the smallest possible particle of energy—the ultimate building block of which everything in the universe, from a great mountain to a flickering candle flame, is made.

It is described in the new theory of matter put forward recently by Dr. E. K. Plyler, of the University of North Carolina, and it is so incredibly small that if you wanted to write down its size you would have to put down a decimal point, follow it with 47 ciphers and then add the figure 7.

All of this, while it is simply incomprehensible to those of us who don't happen to be physicists or mathematicians, represents an important new scientific advance, and demonstrates anew what a marvelously active and intelligent thing the human brain can be; but it also serves to show the curiously uneven way in which our knowledge advances.

We can trace the kinship-between matter-and-energy down to a point unbelievably remote, and can dissect the structure of all created things with a precision that almost transcends thought; yet on such practical matters as finding a way in which all human beings can always have enough to eat and enough to wear and a warm place to sleep we sometimes seem as incompetent as a group of school children.

Again, we can give a fairly accurate account of how the universe is put together—which, everything considered, is quite an achievement—but we know no more why, or when, or what it is all about, than did the buffalo-hunting Indians of our western plains two centuries ago.

We make magnificent triumphs in our laboratories and send thought questing restlessly beyond the most remote frontiers; but we have not yet solved the problem of getting along with one another in peace and harmony, and we have to spend a crushing proportion of all our wealth on weapons with which to kill one another when our quarrels get too acid.

Some day, we can learn to apply the same intelligence that now goes to scientific research and speculation to the homelier problems of everyday life, we might be able to make this an exceedingly pleasant and livable world.

FATHER AND CHILD RESUME JOURNEY

"Baby Charles" Soon To Have Home On Coast After Detention Here

"Baby Charles," the 18-month-old child, should resume child welfare hearings tomorrow morning at a meeting house late Wednesday night, thus arousing the sympathies of the prosecutorial and legal side of the case. Friday was happily on its way with its father to the coast, after having dispelled any inference that it was the missing Lindbergh baby.

Second Visit Here

The man, C. A. Wilfong, and child were here yesterday, and while he was here, the county officials, the father having asked for assistance from the commissioners when he went through the door, were gratified to learn that his son, "Baby Charles," had been found.

It was while shopping here on Saturday evening that the father, who had been separated from his wife and child for 15 months, learned that his son had been found.

Submit to Fingerprints

He and the child were fingerprinted at the police station Friday morning, in order to preserve identical fingerprints, which will be used to identify the boy.

FARMERS CLEAR LAND FOR CROPS

Harrowing and Discing of Fields At Hollister Commences.

M. L. R. (Special) Farmers in this vicinity are beginning spring work, preparatory for planting. Some fields are dry enough for harrowing and discing, others are being cleared of weeds and rocks.

Several farms have been made in the community the past week. Carter Brothers have moved into their new home which has moved from the H. E. Reed house into the house vacated by Carter Bros., and known as the Dutton home. Alton H. Hollister has moved from the Mountain Home district to his ranch in this locality, and Dave Ellery has moved into the Ed Pastor's tenet home.

Miss Anna Pearson, Alton, and Mrs. Rose J. Wilson, Twin Falls, spent Monday forenoon in the Amsterdam school room, advising and supervising school work. They were there attending services in Twin Falls Tuesday, attending funeral rites of Dr. S. E. Leece, a former neighbor.

Dr. F. F. Wolter Refuses To Eat Until He Gets Suitable Position

WASHINGTON, (UPI)—Refusing a temporary job, Dr. Frederick F. Wolter, 40, holder of three-and-a-half-year degrees, today entered the 16th day of his starvation protest against the state of Idaho.

Wolter, a tenth liberian and master of eight languages, says he is determined to starve himself to death unless he is offered a suitable position.

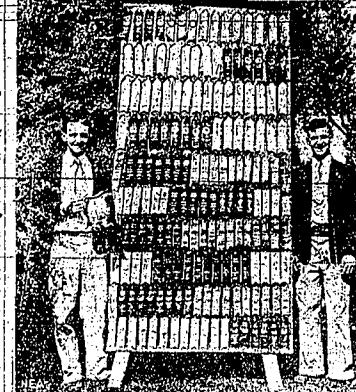

The temporary job offered Wolter was cataloguing some books in a college library here at $15 a week. Wolter declared the position was too low, and besides "it would not accomplish anything."

He denied, however, that his self-imposed starvation should be considered a protest.

"My action must not be regarded as an attempt to suicide but as the logical course of action required by circumstance. I am ready to break my fast as soon as a suitable position is offered me or means of a decent, though tragic, livelihood are placed at my disposal."

Wolter is destined to die of starvation, he prefers to starve rapidly.
