Getting Young Griffio, the Australian lightweight marvel, to train for a fight caused many trainers.

In previous trials he had held his head high, holding a more come appearance to his actions.

It was not until he had seen the Now York Yankees break up with the Boston Red Sox in a double header, Boston took the lead 6 to 5, and the Yankees claimed victory 8 to 7, that Griffio was arrested a short time before the card against "Glen" Haynes.

Second on the list was Carl "Hay" Lewis, who had been held in jail for a little less than a month.

Many a time his sentence was set to keep him behind the bars until the time of his release.

On another occasion he had

FUTURE FARMER FAIR

AT LEAST one fair is going to be held in Twin Falls county this year, it is the Future Farmer Fair, being staged this week-end by the boys' agricultural class of the Twin Falls high school.

The boys have for a long time been making plans for the event. It is not too early for the general public to plan to participate. This will be the third annual boys' fair here. They have revealed initiative in the past and the event has proved to be worthwhile.

Merchants and others have found satisfaction in cooperating in this work—this year this interest has increased.

Purpose of the fair as set out in the Fair's bulletin, is to give high school boys training and experience in handling, fitting and showing livestock and crops; to develop rural leadership and responsibility in the farm boys; to give them confidence in themselves and their work; to start training livestock for fairs next fall; to improve community spirit by bringing the farmers together, in Twin Falls; to boost the Twin Falls community and Twin Falls products; to encourage more practical and efficient work in vocational agriculture; to further the work of the Future Farmers of America, and to assist in developing a cooperative spirit between the agricultural department, civic clubs, cooperative associations and social organizations.

Surely these are laudable ambitions which everyone, with the interest of the community at heart, can give encouragement.

THE BORAH PLAN

(OREGON JOURNAL)

WOULDN'T it be a good thing for congress to set afire inquiry about a lower rate of interest paid by our government to the small investor, and a higher interest rate paid to the big investor?

Here is the point: March 5 the United States treasury put upon the market bearer certificates in denominations of $50, $100 and $500. They were, of course, for buyers of small means. The interest rate on them was 2 per cent.

Two days later, on March 7, the treasury put upon the market bearer certificates in denominations of $5000 to $100,000. They were, of course, for big investors—investors, for instance, who could make a purchase of government certificates of $100,000 or more without batting an eye. On this same issue the interest rate was fixed by the treasury at 3-1/8 per cent on certificates to mature in seven months, and at 3-3/4 per cent on certificates to mature in a year.

That is to say, the interest rate paid the poor man was 2 per cent and that paid the big investor was as high as 3-3/4 per cent. It was 50 per cent, to nearly 100 per cent larger interest return on the larger certificates as compared with the certificates of small denomination. If this is not gross discrimination, what is it?

"The farm land banks are now demanding chattel mortgages on the anticipated crops of the farmers," said Senator Borah in the senate recently. He added:

This in itself appears to me harsh. But not only are they asking for mortgages but they are asking for 8 per cent interest. I undertake to say that there is literally no hope for the farmer if he must pay interest on the mortgages on his land at the rate now required, and also pay 8 per cent interest on the default.

The senator then cited in the farm loan act a requirement that borrowers are required to pay 8 per cent interest on defaulted payments, and said:

I understand that at present we are lending money under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act at 5 to 5 1/2 and 6 per cent. I can see no reason, if that be true, why it would not be in reason and justice and equity to amend the farm loan act so as to permit farm loan banks to take this default security at a rate not to exceed 5 or 6 per cent.

Borah offered an amendment cutting the farm loan interest to 6 per cent. His measure ought to pass.

And meantime, why at Washington is there one interest rate for the weak and a higher interest return paid the powerful?

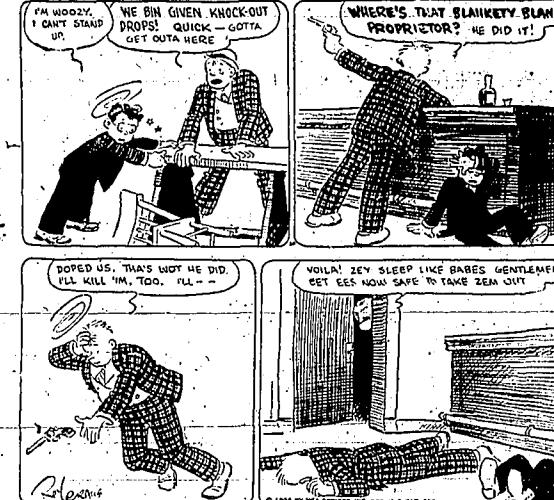

The Franklin D. Roosevelt people may use the Smith speech to their own advantage. Smith said in effect that Roosevelt was trying to line up the poor against the rich. The Roosevelts think that is a good idea. They figure they can lose all the rich and still have about 99 out of every 100 people in these times.
