PRESIDENT'S ADVISORS CHANGING THEIR VIEWS

Mitchell Willing to Let Voters Decide Issue At the Polls

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The entire Hoover cabinet, it is agreeable to re-examination of the prohibition issue, according to information received in the United Press.
President Hoover's most intimate advisers, now almost entirely in favor of re-consideration of the prohibition issue, are expected to increase the likelihood that the cabinet will shift to a more liberal position in favor of re-consideration.
Hoover Silent
One by one the three members of the Hoover cabinet have swung over. There are still substantial differences over details and the mechanics of enforcement. President Hoover has maintained public silence on the subject, but the disposition in cabinet circles is in favor of the administration.
The latest cabinet member whose position has been known is Attorney General Mitchell, who has department has charge of prohibition enforcement. Because of this, Mitchell is expected to announce the prohibition question for public consideration.
It is learned, however, that the cabinet members are still divided on the question of re-consideration. Attorney General Mitchell has a chance to pass on the question.
Talk for Special Election
One of the most significant developments in the prohibition question is the national prohibition referendum which has emanated from within the cabinet. Mitchell has provided an outline by the United States, Saturday, for a special election to be called by Congress within 60 days of the date chosen to attend a national convention on the prohibition question.
Attorney General Mitchell never has an ardent dry though he usually does not make any public statement on the prohibition question at the moment. It is believed that he is in the best position to observe the workings of the prohibition question.
He knows that it is widely voted.

IRISH UNDAUNTED BY TRADE THREAT

Warning of Economic War Falls To Scare Erin Free State

Copyright 1932 by United Press
DUBLIN, (UP)—The British strongest argument to dissuade Ireland from abolishing the oath of allegiance, was that of an economic war, will not turn Irish Republicans from their independence goal, President Eamon De Valera has declared in an interview.
The Valera has achieved the first victory in his program passed by the bill of the first reading of the bill aimed at abolishing the oath of allegiance from the Free State constitution.
Our decision has been reached after long and careful consideration on all its possible consequences," the President said in a statement issued today.
Documents on the Anglo-Irish negotiations regarding abolition of the oath of allegiance, valued at $15,000,000 had been made available.
"I have, I may add, no reason to believe that the British are engaged in an economic war," he continued.
The Irish Free State is by far the best customer Great Britain has in the world, he said.
The only important customer of Great Britain will be that which is a desirable balance of trade. British statesmen are not likely to want to embark on a policy of economic war which would interfere with a trade position so advantageous to their country.

Both Sides Present Evidence in Chicago Freight Rate Battle

CHICAGO (UP)—The new hearing in the long-contested western grain freight controversy entered its second day today as railroads presented evidence in support of their plan that reduction of present tariffs would make their critical financial plight more desperate.

The hearings which are expected to take three weeks are conducted before Examiners Arthur H. Mackley and George J. Hall of the Interstate Commerce Commission.
A U. S. Supreme court decision affirming the railroad's contention that new grain rates ordered into effect last August by the Interstate Commerce Commission were unconstitutional.
The first three witnesses called by the railroads to justify their contention that present rates should be allowed to stand were L. E. Wetting, assistant for the western roads, J. A. Brown, Missouri Pacific vice-president, and L. C. Pritch, Rock Island vice-president.
They presented testimony showing that competition from inland waterways, the Pacific coast, and motor trucks had reduced railroad revenues sharply.
Former Governor Clyde Reed of Kansas, representing grain growers, challenged testimony of the railroads. He declared heavy expenditures made by the lines in a period when rates were increasing amounted for at least part of the failure of fixed charges to decline as rapidly as income.

DAWES ATTACKS PATMAN SOLDIER BONUS MEASURE

Financier Says Legislation Would Undermine Confidence in Country

WASHINGTON, (UP)—In his "State of the Union" message, Charles G. Dawes attacked the $22,000,000,000 soldiers' bonus bill before the House was scheduled to vote on it.
Dawes said the measure would so fatally curtail that general confidence in the country would be destroyed.
Dawes read a prepared statement in addition to his remarks.
In his foreword, he said that different questions regarding the reconstruction of the Finance Corporation of America were raised.
He defended the corporation's activities, saying every section of the United States had benefited from the financial reconstruction.
The "reparation does not give loans except when there has been adequate security," Dawes said.
"In my judgment, in the long run, this corporation will not incur losses and there is no change of any principle of the fund."
Dawes said the corporation in the 11 weeks of its operation had been asked for loans totaling one-fifth of its resources.
Loans totaling $24,248,000 have been made to 1,520 banks and 275 companies, Dawes said.
Small Banks Aid
The bulk of the loans have gone to small banks. Sixty-nine and two tenths per cent of borrowing banks had less than $500,000 in assets, 500 population.
Only 3.6 per cent of the money loaned went to banks in cities of more than 1,000,000 population, Dawes stated.
He left the administration attack on the Patman bonus bill in a speech before the House.
The long-stemmed pipe and smoking, he declared that the Patman bill would "destroy" the credit of the nation.

ROUTINE POLICE INQUIRY MARKS LINDBERGH CASE

Wire Tapping Proceeds on Line Leading to Noted Flier's Home

MYSTERIOUS CAR GOES TO ESTATE

Jansie, Gives No Indication of Progress in His Negotiations

SEARCH FOR CHARLES AUGUSTUS LINDBERGH, JR. was confined today to routine police investigation with private negotiators reported inactive.
Indications of wire tapping on telephone lines leading to the suburban mansion estate of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh led today to New Jersey state police establishing a patrol. Eavesdroppers find it difficult to listen in as the wires are laid on the ground.
Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police, has his men watching the Lindbergh home. A machine gun was sent to the Newark airport. The Lindberghs are expected to return to the Newark airport where the car was found to be used in the kidnapping case to prevent his escape.
Statement Issued
Schwarzkopf later issued a statement saying the report had no connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping. Police at the Morristown barracks where the order was received said it was a matter of routine.
Another report concerned a mysterious automobile which entered the estate in the New York license number was in the rumor that it belonged to Col. Nathan, racketeer.
John W. London, Jansie, who paid $25,000 ransom for the wife of a captured kidnaper, has no indication by his actions that he was making progress in his private negotiations to return the baby. He left his home once, but explained he was on his way to a lecture.

MYSTERY WEILS STRANGE DEATH OF BOY ELLIOTT

Clues Lacking in Accident Case at Boise; Officers Are Busy

BOISE, (UP)—Following every slightest clue officers have been unable to shed a single ray of light on the mystery of who strangled the Fletcher child last Sunday night when it crashed into Fort St. Elliott, its killing her fatal.
"If those who know something about the case would talk, and those who have opinions would keep still we would make more progress," said Sheriff Alford Weir, while commenting on the case.
"Practically" day and night the officers have worked on the case. The case would talk, and those who have opinions would keep still we would make more progress," said Sheriff Alford Weir, while commenting on the case.
The French justice adopted a more advanced procedure for reparations and payments to the United States.
The United Press found the only other indication of the child's death was a newspaper account that came from Germany, where news agencies had reported the child's death as the death sentence for reparations.

Mrs. Massie Weeps As She Tells Jury About Cruel Attack

Wife of Naval Officer Narrates Story on the Stand

COURTROOM, HONOLULU, T. H. (UP)—Mrs. Thelma Porteous Massie broke out in hysterical sobbing when she was called to the witness stand Wednesday to testify in behalf of four people accused of slaying Joseph Kahahawai, one of five sailors charged with assaulting her.

She—hid—her—head—behind—her hands and was able to answer questions only with the greatest difficulty.

She was nervously twisting her handkerchief as she told of coming to an inn with her husband and other naval officers and when Darrow asked her if she had been drinking.

"I didn't have anything to drink except half of one highball," she said with a drawl. "I didn't care to drink."

She said she left the others at the inn and went for a walk about 11:25 p. m. A few tears trickled down her pale face and Prosecutor John Kelly broke in to object that Darrow was leading the witness.

"I didn't attempt to do that," Darrow assured the court.

Mrs. Massie then continued her story.

"I didn't enjoy the party at the inn," she testified, "and I thought a walk to Fort Duresey might be nice."

Kelly again objected on the ground that the defense was attempting to retry the Ala Moana case—the assault on Mrs. Massie is known—instead of attempting to try the present murder case. The court ruled Mrs. Massie might go on with her story.

Mrs. Massie began crying again.

"Mrs. Massie already knew, broke out in hysterical crying at this point.

She said "Tomato" telephoned her.

"I told him something terrible had happened to me," she said.

almost screamed when she said the word "terrible."

Mrs. Massie was so nervous and hysterical that she could hardly go on with her testimony. Her mother, Mrs. Porteous, produced smelling salts. Mrs. Massie then continued her story, telling how she told her husband how she had been beaten and assaulted by the natives.

She told how Kahahawai grabbed her.

"To said 'come baby, you're going for a ride!'"

"To beat her."

"I pleaded with him."

"They wouldn't let me go."

Mrs. Massie's face became agitated again and she sobbed.

"They dragged me into some bushes," she went on.

She choked up and couldn't continue.

"The judge hung his head and waited."

Mrs. Massie's eyes were swollen and red.

"Kahahawai knocked my teeth out—she said—"

"He wouldn't let me pray. My voice rose hysterically."

"When in the audience went openly."

Mrs. Massie hid his face behind his hands.

His eyes flicked.

Mrs. Massie mused each of her sentences.

She knew exactly which one did what and when they did it.

"Kahahawai kicked me, and told me to shut up," she said.

"I tried to pray for mercy."

"He told me to keep my damned mouth shut."

"Then he knocked my feet out."

Kelly and Darrow exchanged bitter words.

"I don't want to be objecting all the time," Kelly said.

"You shouldn't," Darrow replied heatedly.

Mrs. Massie began crying again.

She told how she and Massie went home.

"We couldn't sleep," she said.

"The next day we went to the hospital."

"A policeman was there with some of the men who assaulted me."

"I saw Joseph Kahahawai."

She pronounced all the names

The History of Twin Falls City and County

AS GLEANED FROM FILES OF THE TIMES

15 YEARS AGO

WORKMEN STRIKE
 Giving their reason as the high cost of living (I. C. T. U.) the union laborers at the various buildings under construction Monday demanded an increase of 50 cents a day and which this was refused, they struck. The laborers in order to make expenses. The employer says that they are paying off that they can afford, and that in many cases material has been raised on them since they strike contracts. Just how the strike will turn out is uncertain.

27 YEARS AGO

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE
 A franchise for an electric railway connecting the town of Twin Falls with Blue Pines, Shoshone Falls and Twin Falls requiring seven miles of track, was given to L. H. Ferris at the last session of the board of county commissioners. The franchise grants the right to the use of Main street and Shoshone avenue, three miles along the highway to Blue Pines, a distance of three miles, thence east to Shoshone Falls, a distance of three miles, and to Twin Falls, a distance of another two miles.

AN AMAZING RECORD
 REPORTS filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission recently show that American railroads made a truly amazing safety record in the transportation of passengers during 1931.

In the entire year, only four passengers were killed and 498 were injured.
 Considering the number of people carried on American trains annually, this represents a safety record of surprising excellence. One wreck can easily destroy a dozen lives and injure a score of people. The 1931 performance is easily the best American railroads have ever made.

LINDY—A LEGEND

THAT was an interesting little story from Minneapolis the other day, telling how Colonel Lindbergh has replaced such a famous character as Jack of the beanstalk legend in the hearts of modern children.

A university of Minnesota scientists, as you may remember, made the test. Out of 100 kindergarten children they found that 90 knew who Lindbergh was and what he had done—and only 58 knew about the famous Jack.

There probably is some sort of moral behind all of this, but what it may be is hard to discover. It certainly does testify, though, to the completeness with which the famous aviator has taken possession of the hearts of American youth. The man has already become a legend; and the legend is apt to last for a great many years.

THE HEROES OF THE TITANIC

HUMAN beings seem unable to let anniversaries go uncelebrated. So, the other day, brief ceremonies were held on both sides of the Atlantic, and short articles were printed in the newspapers, commemorating the fact that 20 years ago the liner Titanic foundered in mid-ocean, carrying some 1500 people to the bottom.

It is odd; the way time can dull the edges of a tragedy. Of that disaster there is left, today, none of the grief, none of the horror; only a bright realization of the depths of heroism that are to be found in the average human heart.

For that is the chief thing one thinks of, in re-reading the accounts of the Titanic's sinking. The people who awoke out of peaceful sleep to learn that they must die in the darkness of the empty Atlantic went to their doom, almost without exception, with gallantry and quiet fortitude.

And that, after all, is the great test—unexpectedness and suddenness. An unforeseen crisis brings out un-failingly, what is in a man. He has no time to get himself ready; no time to throttle fear and lock it safely in a dungeon. Like Comand's Lord Jim, if he has courage in his heart it will come out, in spite of anything he can do.

Heroes are not made in a twinkling. They develop through the long years when no heroism is needed; they develop, indeed, without themselves knowing it. Day by day, night by night, the things they are, the things they say and think and dream, build up a reservoir of bravery which can be drawn upon when an emergency comes.

So it was with the men who sank with the Titanic. From the bunks in the steerage and the crew's quarters, from the luxurious stateroom of the first-class group, they came on deck to discover that a highly unpleasant death was half an hour away. And there was no panic. Women and children were helped into the few lifeboats, and those who were to die waved cheerful goodbyes. The cross-section of humanity represented on the Titanic testified magnificently to the bravery of the race.

You May Not Know that—

Twenty years ago on April 21 a big snow storm and blizzard visited this section and 19 years ago April 15 another storm resulted in snow on the Salmon tract measuring two feet in depth, according to W. H. Hoag, pioneer, who lost $2500 worth of blooded sheep by drowning in the high line canal because of the storm conditions.

1932 Sport clothes bear the mark of simplicity underlined with feminine curves. Coats and sport blouses. They are considered smart. 123 is a nice example of what Mrs. Joss will look like. Simple modified lines achieve shoulder breadth, snug hips and skirt flare.

 JUST BITS OF HUMAN INTEREST FROM EVERYWHERE

Charles Darwin, spending his twelfth birthday defending the accused honor layers of a young native in Honolulu, received a letter Monday on which his picture constituted the address.
 Although the picture was typewritten, "The Annals of Reason."
 Postmaster Chalmersworth personally delivered the letter to the famous attorney.
 Inside was a birthday card on which a small dog, with tearful eyes, was saying: "My birthday is here! On the other side it said: 'This underdog is all others, but you, their friends, many happy returns of the day, April 18, 1859. May you live to eat the chicken that scratches over your grave. An entire circus was put on the auction block at Naples, but only two lions and one lioness were sold and they were bid at less than $50.
 The city took over part of the Schauder circus when the show failed here several weeks ago. An auction sale was arranged in the circus tent. There were about 50 lions, two tigers, eleven monkeys, a dozen bears, 12 horses, and an assortment of llamas, deer and camels.
