COMMITTEE PLAN CALLS FOR SLASH IN SURTAX RATES

Normal Income Assessment Unit
changed by Senate Finance Group

PROGRAM ASKS FIVE CENT DUTY ON RUBBER

Automobile Sales Tax Is Increased From Three To Four Per Cent

MOSCOW, (UPI) — The Soviet finance committee today approved a treasury department compromise tax bill to raise $100,000,000 of revenue. The committee had demanded increased normal income tax rates.

The vote was 13 to 4.

Secretary of the Treasury Ordin Mills said the 14 per cent corporate surtax would be retained but the penalty on non-corporate surtaxes was eliminated. The $1,000 corporate income exemption was granted for the carrying over of losses for one year.

Income from this source is estimated at $150,000,000.

The action was taken after Secretary of the Treasury Mills had plied with the finance committee to "eliminate the specialties" from the tax.

The program includes an import tax of five cents a pound on rubber and an increase of the automobile sales tax from three to four percent.

Maximum income taxes were reduced from the 65 per cent corporate surtax to 50 per cent yesterday to a maximum of 45 per cent on incomes of more than $1,000,000. The committee also voted to eliminate the surtaxes that would drive vast wealth into tax-exempt securities and would not produce material revenue.

Tires Eliminated.

Tires were eliminated from the automobile accessories tax. The taxes on oil, automobiles, trucks and accessories were cut from 40 per cent, two per cent and $75,000,000 respectively, to raise $75,000,000.

There was no change from committee amendments in the brewers' war taxes calculated to raise $70,000,000.

Whitening oil was increased from two to five cents per gallon to yield $35,000,000.

Gum and cedar taxes were un-

Heat Waves Lead To Discovery of Moonshine Still

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (UPI) — A prohibition agent has become some deduction that he is also that they throw off heat waves led to the uncovering of a clever moonshining operation here.

There was nothing unusual about the arrest of Fred J. Irreale, as far as Officer William Irreale could see, except those heat waves which were distinctly visible in any arose from the small structures.

Irreale investigated, discovered a still and smashed the entire apparatus.

AIMEE "DONE" IN OIL BY PRIZE-WINNING ARTIST

The debuting "Apparition Over Los Angeles," shown above, has been admitted to the walls of the California Art Club at last after being barred by Judge of the Los Angeles Museum exhibition as "too controversial." The same Judge awarded the artist, Burce Miller, a prize, however. The painting depicts Angelus Temple with Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton in the Lady Godiva manner floating among the clouds in the center and flourishing a collection plate. Silk-clad choristers peer from among the money bags below her. At the right is suggested David L. Hutton, her law husband, and at the left reclines a figure resembling her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy-Hutton.

VIVA LA FRANCE!

THE world will watch with keen and sympathetic interest the developments in France as the result of the shocking occurrence of Friday when President Doumer's life was jeopardized at the hands of a would-be assassin.

Such events are not to be taken lightly as inevitable as they seem to be when affairs reach the critical stage they have in central Europe. None of us can forget that the late World war is credited with having been started with the assassination of much lesser official than the President of the French Republic.

The assassin's hand must be put down; such enemies of government must be curbed at whatever cost. The American people will hope and pray that President Doumer will have his life spared.

CONVENTION BATTLE LOOMS

IT IS beginning to look as if the Democratic National Convention this summer would be a more exciting and spirited affair than seemed likely a few weeks ago.

No political convention is really exciting when one candidate has the victory cinched in advance; and until recently it looked very much as though Governor Roosevelt would go to the convention with the nomination practically assured. Recent primary elections, however, have made that seem very much less probable; indeed, it is quite possible that the convention will be the scene of one of the most spirited contests in recent history.

Much can happen, of course, between now and the day the convention meets. But it hardly likely, any more, that there is going to be a walk-away.

NO PLACE FOR POETRY

HART CRANE, the poet who lost his life at sea recently in what seems to have been a suicide, complained to friends just before death that he had grown despondent because "there is no place for poetry in the world today."

This is a complaint that nearly every poet has felt like making, at one time or another; and the peculiar part about it is that it was just as true 20 years ago, or 50 years ago, or 200 years ago, as it is now. The world is never over-kind to poets, or over-eager to get their songs. It prefers to go its own way in peace—for poets' dislirium, and make it discontented, and question the values by which it lives.

But the poet sooner or later comes to realize that there is a place for poetry, in spite of the world's indifference. There is place, that is to say, for songs and dreams, and there always will be; and it is a pitiful tragedy that gifted Hart Crane could not have lived to realize it.

THE WAY WE DO THINGS

ON May 14 there is going to be a big parade in New York City. It is to be a "beer parade," a vast demonstration by people who want the making and selling of beer made legal again, and New York's municipal government is making great plans to help put it over.

Now this is perfectly proper, of course, since the right of citizens to demonstrate against a law that they don't like is inalienable; but suppose, just for the fun of it, that this great parade were going to be put on, not by people who are thirsty, but by people who are hungry?

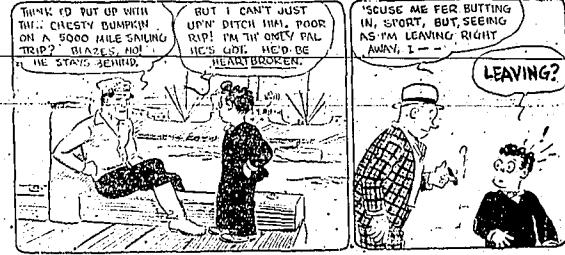

What would happen then? You could make a pretty fair-sized parade out of it, if you enrolled every man in New York who wants something to eat. But would your parade be permitted to move? Try to imagine the sensation that would arise, the thrills of fear that would circulate up and down various patriotic backs, if 50,000 people should try to parade down Broadway carrying placards saying, "We want bread!"

Unless the New York police handled it differently, than they have handled every other demonstration by the jobless, such a parade would not get one block before the cops charged in with clubs swinging. A lot of heads would get busted and next day we would hear all about a dreadful riot.

As it is, though, there won't be a bit of trouble. The May 14 parade is to be held by the thirsty, not by the hungry. The marchers are going to demand beer, which is illegal, instead of bread, which isn't. Consequently nobody will be alarmed, no policeman will have to use his club and no marcher will be flogged home on a stretcher.

This isn't to say that this beer parade shouldn't be held. That isn't the point. Doesn't the situation seem just a trifle paradoxical? Or, to put it in plainer English, isn't there something a wee bit cockeyed about the way we do things?

WASH TUBBS

I Must Forget

By HELEN WELSHIMER

I MUST forget the sadness of your smile. Your eager eyes sought mine across a room, The way your eyes have done so often and sweet—I must not catch my breath in sudden lust. Because a voice says words you used to say, Or see a tawny head and wavy hair. Two people's hair could grow that rugged edgy way.

I MUST remember only you gone, And do my strands. I'll prefer that you are in a body that has real, Not anyone else's body known.

And that I have measured all this, As children sometimes play a foolish game. The maybe I can make myself believe.

The after all, perhaps you never came.
