

HURLING RECORDS OF BIG LEAGUERS FEATURE OF 1932

NEW YORK (UP) — Major league hurlers have chalked up nearly twice as many shutouts as were recorded at this time last year, 29, against 14, on May 11 of 1931.

The tight pitching seems to be divided evenly between the two leagues as the National and American each have 13 shutouts to their credit.

The Washington Senators and St. Louis Browns are tied for third in shutters with four each, giving them the lead for both leagues.

In the National league, however, are spread out more evenly. Two have been recorded by the Atlanta Braves, the Phillips, Pittsburgh and the Cardinals.

Vic Sorrells' two-hitter for Detroit against the Indians tied him with the Atlanta club for nine yesterday. His unimpressive embeded the Tigers in whitewash the Sox 11 to 0. It might have been 12 if the Indians had not hit two scratch singles in the third and sixth. Four Boston hurlers opposed him.

Lefty Grove held the Chicago White Sox to six hits, while the Philadelphia Athletics jennaded it a 7 to 0 victory.

Jimmy Dukes drove in four runs, while the Indians had two doublets and a homer. Jimmy Foxx connected for a double and a pair of singles.

In the National League, Brooklyn's Carl Hubbell fanned his hits, 4 to 0. This victory advanced Philadelphia to third place, dropping Cleveland from fourth.

Louis Warneke, on the Chicago Cubs' mound, yielded only five hits to the New York Giants, but held the team to a 1-0 win. The Cub scored two runs in the second and drove Gibson from the mound in the fifth with a five-run rally.

Cleveland's Wally Schang was washed out and Brooklyn at St. Louis was frozen out.

In the other American League game, the Indians scored their fourth victory of the season, holding the St. Louis Browns to seven hits, while the Yankee team added 10 to 3. The Indians tallied all runs in the seventh.

Cleveland at Washington was postponed by rain.

Dwyer, many sons and daughters, attended from the Taylor, Johnson, Peck, Ellsworth, Jackson, Clarence Bowler and Ruth Haller, accompanied by New Hartwell, among three sons.

ACTION of the Federal Reserve authorities in determining to buy United States Government securities on a large scale has probably the most important stroke of central bank policy made. Open market operations have been used to some extent on the scale cited, but since the public does not seem to be found to increase the amount of credit available, and the market is too powerful methods are called for that may have been necessary in the past.

The official pretenses of one more credit expansion are in the fact that the Reserve Banks take the initiative in making funds available to the public, but it is the public does not take the initiative to correct the situation, necessary to do so, and by its own action increase the amount of credit available in the market.

The new credit assistance banks in paying off their debt to the reserve banks and as this is accomplished, the acceleration of the rate of return will naturally result in a more liberal attitude toward loan application by the banks or possibly in bond investments which will put the credit of "money" into circulation.

A manifestation of strength in the bond market will be helpful in securing further loans, thus providing the means for expenditures which will increase employment. In short by raising funds in the money market, where business goes to finance its needs, it supplies funds in the manner most convenient to the business, and probably the most important stroke of central bank policy ever made. Open market operations have been used to some extent on the scale cited, but since the public does not seem to be found to increase the amount of credit available, and the market is too powerful methods are called for that may have been necessary in the past.

The inauguration of this Federal Reserve policy on the scale contemplated will be a great contribution to world cooperation by central bank for the more effective control of credit and prices.

There is a probability that the action now being attempted may enlist similar action on the part of other central banks, and that a general stabilization of such continuous cooperation. The markets of the United States, by reason of this great influence on many commodities, exercise an important influence on the world market, but the effort to stabilize the market must be made at a price level which should have support everywhere.

Hope of early industrial improvement are centered in great part in this industry but this year production has increased at a slowly and very favorable rate. April was very favorable compared with earlier months, the peak year will evidently come later. The nationalistic situation is evidence that a belated spring time improvement in all industries will be helpful in securing further loans, thus providing the means for expenditures which will increase employment. In short by raising funds in the
