AMERICAN AVIATOR RESCUED AT SEA BY SHIP OFFICERS

Captain Fried, Harry Manning
Pick Up Reichers
After Crash

OCEAN FLEET UNDER CARE OF SURGEON

Fuel Supply Almost Gone When Plane Plunges Into Atlantic

ABOARD S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, en route from New York (UPI)—Lou Reichers, young New Jersey flier, who lost a gallant fight to span the Atlantic, was under care of ship's surgeon yesterday after an emergency operation. America's most famous maritime rescue team, Capt. George J. Fried and Chief Officer Harry Manning,

The fast-thinking combination already honored for its phenomenal ability to be in the right place at the right time for a sea rescue and do its work precisely in the face of danger, effected

Aphane abandoned.
Reichers' airplane "Liberty," the black, jolted free of its moorings when the ocean, Manning, Lieutenant also was abandoned after Reichers had been taken out of his gold and black machine, his face buried.

The flier said he landed because one wing of his plane was damaged and he could not get back to the most zone. He was sighted at 4:10 P. M. EST 47 miles from Fastnet and four miles off Cape Clear, Conn.

Bank Holds Good.

Visibility near the cape was poor. Mist hung over the ocean, at the last of Fried and Manning, the flier and his crew were seen a few miles farther off his course, the officer on watch might never have sighted the plane if he were still awake.

The President Roosevelt's passenger had finished dinner and were reclining in the saloon when the ship slowed down suddenly.
Now he was up again and had been ashore rapidly.

The President Roosevelt's search lights picked up the form of an airplane in the wings of darkness.
When he was pulled down the passenger gasped as the pilot moved his machine down and struck the water with a smash.

Plane Down On Top.

The airplane skidded itself and landed on top of the water but was tossed about like a cork and in violent battering of found itself on the ocean. It was uncovered—the bulk of the monolithic plane alongside the plane. Manning and his crew were lowered to the deck. The hull of the plane was reached at the end of a long attempt to fly to the Atlantic, was described tersely by Capt. Fried in his report, which ended:

"The pilot, Lou Reichers, the lone pilot, unable to salvage Lieutenant or plane on account of high seas. (Signed) Fried."

Capt. Fried, who is one of the nation's leading naval aviators, had invited President Hoover on a hunting expedition this summer in Idaho.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs.
William E. Borah, wife of the Senate senator, today invited President Hoover on a hunting expedition this summer in Idaho.

her niece, Miss Mary Lueddemann, of Portland, Ore., Harry C. Shillworth and James F. Allibone, both

Payroll Racket Expose Prompts Relatives of Solons to Begin Work

By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congressional wives, daughters and other relatives who are on the legislative payroll are showing up for work in increasing numbers as a result of inquiries from house bulk.

There has been many a family council among members of Congress and the United Press to keep local congressional relatives off the legislative payroll. The relatives congressional payroll racket. Elections are coming and congressmen are giving their wives a chance of getting into the service and taking the draw, or of helping off the rolls. The result is that now, faces are appearing around the capitol, some of them dressed as mothers, some of them dressed as grandmothers, and some of them keenly dressed. They are secret life relatives.

There is the case of Rep. Albert Carroll, (Rep., Calif.), which might be really a misnomer unless he is married to a woman who is the payee. He is getting a payroll of about $40 a week.

RED CROSS WHEAT.

THERE is available through Red Cross channels, cracked wheat, flour, and even seeds for distribution among the needy. The source of most of this is the federal farm board.

In some quarters it is understood a false pride has prevented asking for this material for the deserving in this county where, since its inception as an agricultural empire, its prosperity and productiveness have given it an enviable reputation.

There is no question about the desirability of seed wheat being made available to farmers of that part of the country where drought conditions prevailed last summer; likewise there should be no question of the necessity for accepting from the Red Cross agencies, flour for food and vegetable seed for gardens, in a community which all winter has been required to maintain a combination soup house and flop house and which still is required to feed from 30 to 50 hungry men every morning.

Fool to keep the Associated Charities going has been largely donated by business men and the public at large; it has been a commendable charitable institution. Now if there is available foodstuffs through sources other than local contributions, there should be no hesitancy in accepting it. The Associated Charities organization is more than willing, if the material will made available to it.

As long as donations are needed, it appears useless to quibble over its source, and there is no denying the desperate need in many instances.

ASK IDAHO STEP-OUT OF PICTURE

(IDAHO FALLS POST-REGISTER)

A. EDWARD NEWTON of Bennington, Penn., has made a discovery, and that is that Idaho, one of the "backward states" has as much voting power in the United States senate as the great state of New York or his home state of Pennsylvania. Mr. Newton does not like that and says so. He says Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming, Montana, Arizona and New Mexico should resign, get out of the union or be kicked out. Mr. Newton does not say who should do the kicking or where we would go if we did resign. Several states a few years ago tried to resign and had to be severely spanked for their effort, when they were brought back. Just where we would go did we resign Mr. Newton fails to say or provide. Maybe he would want Idaho and Utah along with the other "backward states," as he calls them, to set up in business for ourselves which we could do possibly with a less loss to us than to Pennsylvania.

Mr. Newton seems astounded at the discovery Idaho has as many members of the United States senate as New York and that Utah has just as many as Idaho. The gentleman evidently is not well-versed on his constitutional law. His recent journey across the continent, during which he crossed southern Idaho, and which he describes as a "terrible place" revealed to him, and through his ravings and writings, probably to others equally well uninformed that Idaho is really a part of the United States. The Kansas City Star in discussing the ravings of Mr. Newton, says:

From time to time many easterners have been devastated, as Mr. Newton seems to have been, by a sudden realization that Nevada, with a population of 91,000, and Idaho, which pays only $868,000 in federal taxes, each speaks with as much authority in the senate as New York, which has a population of 12½ million and pays $28 million dollars into the federal treasury. Not all of them have been as frank as Mr. Newton, writing in the current issue of the Atlantic Monthly, in their contempt for "these miserable western states," or as confident that virtually all of the intelligence of the country is concentrated in the east. (He contends that states like Delaware and Rhode Island are entitled to their two senators, in spite of their small size, on the score of intelligence.)

Mr. Newton would offer the "backward" states of the middle and further west the option of relinquishing their rights to have two senators or of retiring from the union, although under certain conditions he might allow the whole region one senatorial representative. Evidently Mr. Newton has no high regard for the abilities of men like William E. Borah of Idaho, Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, George W. Norris of Nebraska, Reed Smoot of Utah, Arthur Capper, Henry J. Allen and Charles Curtis of Kansas, Bronson Cutting of New Mexico and the late Francis E. Warren of Wyoming. But there are some observers who suspect that the east of the last decade could not match such a list in the senate and that the country would have been the poorer without their services.

The following advertisement by a candidate at Idaho Falls seems to get over well: VOTES WANTED—Will be in the market for a car load of Bonneville county votes about May 24th. No objection to votes produced from Hoover seed, if quality otherwise is up to Idaho Falls U. S. No. 1 standard grade. Delivery must be made in regulation ballot boxes bearing Democratic labels. Wheat never recovered from an initial drop in April, but it has been trading today with mixed fractional losses. The financial program of the government and the weakness of the dollar are the two main factors causing selling.

The crop was harvested in mid-May, and wheat is now being marketed. It is being sold at lower prices than last year.
The market is still weak.

At the close of trading, wheat
