

Athletics' Star Slugger Explains Success, Hopes To Beat Ruth's Record

Jimmy Foxx Changes to 37-ounce Bat This Season.

By HENRY MCLEMORE
Editor, Press Staff Correspondent,
Twin Falls, Idaho.
A full, complete, thorough and impartial realization that he was no Ruth is the reason advanced by Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia All-star, third baseman, for his mentioned lasting agree this season.

"Yester," the chronified slugger said, "I can't help but realize I'm not any Ruth and that no business trying to make the same sort of 10-incher like him. I sorta had a feeling a few months ago that I might have had two years and half everybody kept insisting that my guy is big and strong so heavy I should be hitting as heavy as a stick at certain spots."

"A New Jim." "Well, this year I decided to make a change and see what happens. So I ordered myself a 37-ounce bat in a couple of months. It made me a new man in no time. I started hitting like never before. Why? Well, I guess it's because I can't get harder and faster and that gave me more time to look the balls over. There's only one trouble with the big bats. After you hit them, you can't get on the next they begin to wobble."

In the change or bat is the only reason for his regeneration at the plate.

"Now, there another thing. I've quit trying to get the pitcher in the hole. Last year when the game was three and one or two outs away, I'd try to pass, but this year I'm hitting at everything that comes across that plate. Most of the pitchers know this now, and they're quite nervous about it. I'm not, though, because I'm going to take a cut at all the good ones they throw makes the pitchers bear down all the more. Look at the results in their trying too much stuff and I get a pass."

Jimmy was asked if his success in hitting home runs this year had anything to do with his hitting the ball harder.

"Sure, I think about hitting it. And I might do it, too. Maybe that's why I've been hitting so well this year, but you see I'm only 21, no I've got plenty of time. I never will break it, however. If nothing else, I'll just continue to play baseball. I mean, I return them'll keep the ball about like it is now. I don't care why not, for it's just live enough to play baseball. I mean, I run a run for their money, and just dead enough to enable pitchers to come through with those right games that a lot of people go for."

Prades Blasboller.

Was there any other pitcher who gave him more trouble than the others?

"Yes, that Blasboller fellow with the St. Louis Browns. He throws a ball-in-seller I think called it 'the meadow mouse' that's all right, then there's a blinder the left-hander and free turn. Let the left-side relax as the club is taken to the top of the back."

To prevent lumbering at the ball, more work must be given to the hands and arms, with a focusing of force on the fingers.

"Teasers in the left side will prevent it from turning in the backswing; the down-swing means taking the left side then the blinder the left-hander and free turn."

The left-side relax as the club is taken to the top of the back.

Two Coast League Teams Begin Experiment on Gate Receipts

By Ulfur Press

San Francisco's two best league teams, the Seals and Missionaries, today were to begin their experiment for them—experimental to determine if day games or night games are more profitable than night games.

The Missionaries, back from a successful invasion of the south, and the Seals, who did not do so well, were to meet in afternoon games here. All were to be daylight games, and if the crowds improve, team leaders will then planed to abandon night games.

The remainder of the Coast league teams were to meet in night games.

The Oaks were to meet Seattle at Seattle, the Hollywood Stars were to meet the Los Angeles Angels at Los Angeles, and the San Joaquin Somersaulters of the Portland Beavers at Portland.

Braves Move Into First Position When Veteran Breaks Up Game in 10th

By United Press
NEW YORK (UPI)—The annual race from the stands for "tit-for-tat" Maraville, grown-ups and children, each year Cleveland to two similes for the Chicago White Sox blanked the Indians, 4 to 1, for Chicago United Indians.

This diminutive "Iron Man" is nearly 40 and is playing his 21st season. The 6-foot, 175-pounder, who has won 100 games, has broken out every year since breaking into the 10th inning yesterday when a heroic 10thinning hero, Charlie Root, of the Chicago White Sox, pitched from the third inning.

Two strikes and three balls had been called on Maraville yesterday when Root, of the Chicago White Sox, pitched from the third inning.

Root, 36, of Louisville, staged a free-run rally in the seventh frame to move out any year.

The cubs then put out any year when a heroic 10th inning hero, Charlie Root, of the Chicago White Sox, pitched from the third inning.

THE DEMAND FOR GRAFT

POLITICS being what it is, public servants land in criminal court every now and then. And once in a while such an event carries with it some very instructive information for the ordinary citizen.

Chicago recently convicted Daniel A. Serritella, former city sealer, and Harry Hochstein, formerly his deputy, of conspiring to cheat Chicago consumers out of some $54,000,000.

The two men had a very nice racket, and it worked like this:

Their job was to inspect scales, measures and the like used by grocers and butchers. Evidence presented at their trial showed that a lot of these merchants had the two officials on their payroll—and, in return, were permitted to use scales and measures that gyped the consumer.

The housewife who bought a pound of meat at the corner store really got only about 14 ounces. If she bought a peck of vegetables, the measure that was used had a phony bottom, so that she got less than she paid for.

It was done on a pretty extensive scale, too. Of 9,000 shortweight complaints filed with Serritella during his term of office, only 1,000 ever reached the city prosecutor. The rest were quietly smothered.

Now all of this is water over the dam, and the two officials have been laid by the heels so that they can't do any more harm. But the story is illuminating for the light that it throws on the source of rackets.

This particular bit of crookedness wasn't something that grew up from the underworld. It was bought and paid for by respectable citizens—by solid business men, who probably never dreamed that they were undermining the foundations of city government. In their idle moments these merchants probably complained because politicians were such a crooked lot.

And that is the way it is with a great deal of graft. Graft exists in answer to a demand; and the demand often comes from people who are supposed to be pillars of society. The racketeer and the crook have their being because the rest of the community not only tolerates them but uses them. To root them out we shall have to remake a whole series of social attitudes.

GERMAN IMMIGRANTS

A RECENT United Press dispatch from Berlin points out that Brazil and Argentina have installed stringent immigration restrictions, and that now there is hardly a country anywhere willing to receive settlers from Germany.

A few years ago great streams of people passed through Hamburg annually, bound for lands of promise beyond the seas. For a long time the United States was their goal; the pre-war German colonies took many of them, too, and since the war the two great South American countries mentioned above absorbed thousands of them.

But now they have no place to go; and it is just possible that some one is making a mistake. These German immigrants are about as fine a type of settler as any country could wish; haw-hawing, intelligent, industrious and thrifty, they make excellent citizens. Is there no country on earth that could use people of that kind?

MAY THE BEST MAN WIN

WITH the closing of the polls at eight o'clock Tuesday, the primary election of 1932 becomes history. As in all elections it is necessary that there be defeat as well as victory. The attitude exhibited by the winners, as well as by the losers, will go a long way in the estimation of the public for it is just as necessary to be a good sport in victory as defeat.

Both parties have been favored with an admirable list of candidates from which to choose. That they all cannot be nominated is unfortunate, but inevitable.

It is to be hoped that those who are nominated, from which group the public shall later choose its officers, will live up to the trust reposed in them.

Important indeed is the fact that this has been a good, clean campaign, for which no one need have any regrets.

With this pleasing prospect everyone then can well say "may the best men win!"

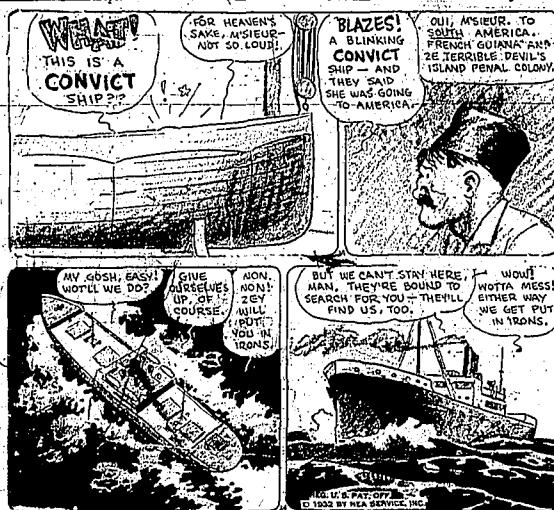

Ballots used in the Canyon county primary election were found to contain several typographical mistakes. They were used nevertheless on the grounds that mistakes made by the printers would be small compared to mistakes made by the voters.

Petroleum was about the only thing the Russian unofficial ambassadors to the United States were willing to discuss on their recent visit. They must be an oily lot.

The Senate holds up its hand in horror at the suggestion that the United States take silver in payment of war debts. Well, we'd say silver was better than nothing.

A writer says 4,000,000 inhabitants of New York cannot tell you the name of their congressman. May be they know, but are ashamed to tell.
