Defeated Bonus Seekers Predict Army of 50,000

Leader Confident Of Campaign Despite Senate's Vote REMAIN IN CITY

By JOHN REICHMANN

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, (UP)— Unrest stirred in the ranks of the bonus expeditionary forces today and tattered veterans, the dreamers of a cash bonus shattered, began a grim struggle to impress their plight upon the nation.

In answer to a summons from their commander in chief, the veterans swarmed over the Anacostia mud flats to a huge rally called to strengthen their morale after the Senate's death blow to the bonus bill last night.

With 15,000 leaders, veterans, demanded that the men pledge themselves to remain in Washington "until the bonus is paid." Tension prevails.

With their backs to the wall, veterans railed at their bonds. The attitude of the veterans so far has been peaceful. But as thousands of them marched along the capital and down the streets, a new mood was born since the war hung over the capital.

An incident illustrating the frame of mind of the veterans occurred when Police Superintendent Glazier ordered 450 veterans to evacuate a vacant government building where they had been meeting until conditions made a mess of their encampment.

Glassford informed the men the troops descended and then to leave the building.

"To hell with the treasury," Glassford was told. "All we want from our bonus."

Oil Tankers At Sea Speeding For Port To Evade Gasoline and Oil Tariff

WASHINGTON, (UPI)—Thrifty citizens the country over have gone one on a buying spree in order to make regulations that will "tear the town off this town."

For many years the trusted agent of the oil companies has arranged Monday on a chance of murdering his aged benefactor, Mrs. Jessie Scott, 80, who had collected $12,500 life insurance in which she had named him as beneficiary.

Reports in the bureau of internal revenue indicate that persons by last-minute purchases of gasoline, lubricating oil, tires, automobile mechanicals, refrigerator parts, and other items in quantities in many localities merchants are advertising "pre-tax."

Interest Stocks of Goods

Wholesalers and retailers as well as individuals are building up reserve stocks of goods, for the new taxes do not apply to retail sales but only to the manufacturer after midnight, June 20.

Oil miners and gas users are making up with all possible speed to evade the gasoline and petroleum tariff which goes into effect on the same day.

Chief Executive Will Not Take Part Except for Few Addresses

CHICAGO, (UPI)—Charles G. Dawes, retiring president of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., said he would not take part in the forthcoming campaign for his re-election.

Dawes based his prediction upon the general improvement in the small business enterprises of the country in the formal statement he made to the business leaders of New York and that he "will not take part in the forthcoming campaign for his re-election."

Addresses Veterans

"I want you men to leave a name for good conduct," was the plea of Congressman J. J. MacSwain of South Carolina, shown here as he addressed the ex-service men encamped in Washington's "Bonus City." This picture gives a vivid impression of the veterans' encampment and its inhabitants, who are determined to "dig in until 1945, if necessary," to obtain cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

COACH HITCHES HIS WAGON TO THE STARS

A Fast Quartet

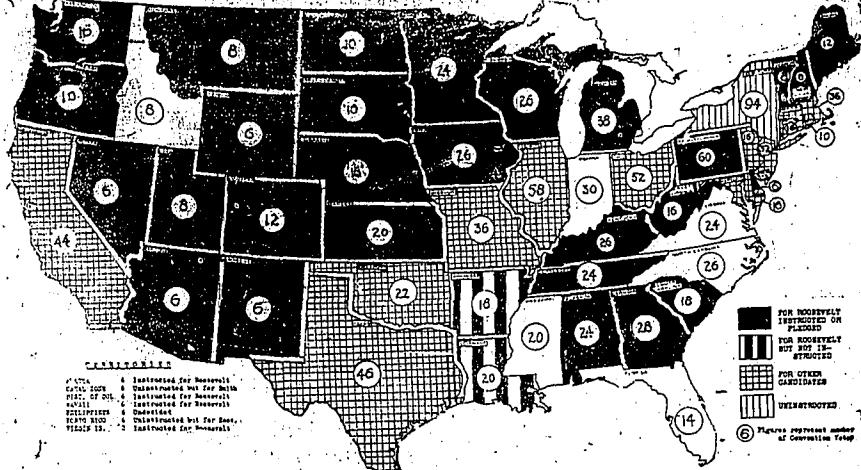

World records mean squatly nothing to this smiling quartet of college boys, all of whom are dead certain to represent the United States in the coming Olympic games in Los Angeles. The group, left to right, is Ralph Metcalfe, Jack Kellor, George Saling and Glenn Cunningham, winners in their specialties in the national-collegiate contests at Chicago. Metcalfe eclipsed the accepted world records for the 100-meter, 200-meter and 220-yard dashes. Kellor chopped a fraction of a second off the world record in the 220-yard low hurdles. Saling nipped the world record in the 120-yard high hurdles by three-tenths of a second. Ann Cunningham raced a mile in 4 minutes 11.1 seconds, the fastest miles ever steamed by a college girl.

OUR CONGRESSMAN

One day this week the Idaho Statesman referred to the action of lawmakers who voted to pass the bonus bill "in the face of warnings that bonus legislation means the virtual wrecking of the nation's financial structure . . . as disgusting." And it commented on such congressman as not having the "courage of a field mouse."

The Statesman manifestly was taking a sly dig at Our Own Addison T. Smith, congressman from the second district, who, this week right-about-faced and voted for the bonus, whereas he previously has been registered against it along with the three other members of the Idaho delegation: Borah, Thomas and French.

Not content with chiding our Congressman for his vote, whereby he hoped to make the adjusted compensation available to war veterans, the Boise newspaper came back Friday with another and still stronger condemnation of Smith.

Listen to the fury of its editorial:

The Statesman commended Senator Borah the other day because of his firm stand against the bonus—for his refusal to be lulled into supporting this legislation by the presence of the "bonus army" in Washington and the threat of the loss of political support at home. Representative French is also entitled to commendation for his vote against the measure when it came up in the house Wednesday. So is Senator Thomas who, as a member of the finance committee of the senate, voted yesterday to report the measure adversely.

But Representative Smith did not act so courageously. His vote in favor of the measure, which he must know would precipitate the government into almost immediate financial chaos if enacted, was not the vote of a statesman. It was the vote of a politician with his eye glued on what he believed to be expediency.

It is indeed disappointing to witness such an exhibition of political cowardice on the part of one member of Idaho's congressional delegation.

The Statesman should be reminded that Mr. Smith is a candidate for reelection this fall on the Republican ticket. Sometime, somehow it is going to have to eat those words!

REPUBLICAN GUIDANCE

The basic truth is that we in business have been compelled to reduce expenses, while there has been a persistent increase in governmental expense at Washington," warns John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field and Company of Chicago, in a letter being received by the wholesale trade here.

McKinlay reveals that business is alarmed over the increase in expenditures of the national government, pointing out that the average of the increased cost in 1932 over 1927 is no less than 63 per cent.

His letter points out that the total expenditure of the national governmental departments in 1927 was $1,961,000,000, while one department alone, the postoffice, increased its cost in that period 64 per cent, or from $27,300,000 to $195,000,000. No little proportion of this huge sum was occasioned by the mailing at government expense of the claptrap sent under franking privileges by senators and congressmen, and another big slice came, doubtlessly, in the loss to the government occasioned by the printing of stampless envelopes for little or nothing, at prices which no printer could hope to meet.

It is significant that the complaint registered by Marshall Field, as well as by other business organizations, takes into account only the increased cost of government. It does not concern itself with the new excise taxes presently to be levied on business to make up the huge deficits. The wail which will go up a month hence will be tremendous, and serious.

"But have no fear, say the Republican cohorts. All will be well so long as the Grand Old Party is entrusted with "continued responsibility for guidance of the nation's destinies."

There are many, however, who are aroused as to just where this kind of guidance is leading us.

PENALIZING PROGRESS

(Salt Lake Tribune)

Governor C. Ben Ross of Idaho utters sound doctrine to an audience at Franklin, Idaho, where that community celebrates the seventy-second anniversary of its founding. The governor's urge to individuals to free themselves of debt is wholesome, but humanity in general has been tardy in recognizing this fundamental need.

According to the Idaho executive the pioneers of Idaho made it possible to extract $150,000,000, annually in new wealth from that state. Harking back to the period of western conquest, the initiative and ingenuity of those early settlers provides a striking contrast to the apparent helplessness of the present generation. Their problems were not identical with those of the current times, but yet, for comparison there is a certain degree of similarity.

They were confronted with the necessity of devising means for sustaining life and providing for the future. That need has not been dissipated by time. It still remains the paramount problem of civilization. From the primitive existence of the pioneering age, communities grew upon the foundations constructed on sound principles. Modern desires, however, contributed to the defeat of a sense of contentment that comes from realizing that headway has been made.

The tax burden which escapes no community today is indicative of this modern trend toward an artificial mode of living. It is evident that we have indulged in luxuries we could not afford. The temptation has come from government units as well as from the home. There has been a tendency to escape toil and at the same time enjoy the conveniences and security that only tireless effort can assure. In other words, civilization has conspired against itself. It has endeavored to take something away without giving anything in return.

Governor Ross's warning against the dangers of debt may be belated, but it points to a barrier that retards economic recovery. The pioneers of whom he speaks came to the western wilderness to rule, not to be governed. Probably current difficulties will stimulate humanity to again become the master of its own destiny.

In line with agitation to make purchases of commodities before the new excise taxes go into effect, the business office urges debtors to write—all the checks they can before the 2-cent tax is levied on them!
