Veterans Throughout Sports World Labor To Annex New Honors

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, (UPI)—The not-so-old year of 1932 is likely to bring many surprises to the sports world, and some of them will be unexpected. For here it is only June and the veterans, headed by the greatest of all come-backers of them all, Jack Dempsey, have been popping out of obscurity with considerable regularity. Almost at the rate of one a week, the great Dempsey has won all his old-time admirers to be in motion, hours waging, careers swinging.

"As this is being written the bus," beings who are rating dispatches, "is but about the only thing the papers include Dempsey's he'll beat."

And speaking of comebacks, which are done in time for the year, for with things so tough, they'd be no danger of anyone throwing eggs, turning and curtsies. Gilt-edged, good, maybe, but not good enough. You can't expect The tell man to be good, too, especially when they're tired.

Golf, by the way, is working this section these days, and is in full swing. It's a game with some sort of electrical transmission business. A year ago C. C. was flat. Very flat, in fact, but not discouraged.

"I am a girl, woman and child in the won money," C. C. said at the time, "but I pay you. All I got to do is function. That's all just function. Once I start functioning, I'll start making money."

Sure enough, the minute he started functioning, he started bringing in. As now, the golfers are improving with the golfers, plain or the future, the future reaches of the globe. Out this trip he will assemble well people of all sorts, shapes, sizes and colors, and get them carried back to America and not opened until the World's fair. The collection will then be offered to the public at two bits or so a ticket.

But we digress. Let us get back to the athlete, come-backer. Dempsey has been the most successful. True, Jack has had much to live up to, but never more than the sugar rolled. In some half a million or more. And any man who can roll on an illustrious name, and not let him down, and a twinklings apparatus that goes wheezy after four rounds to the tune of a half a million, is an unquestioned success and a leader.

Enough, the regatta has been selected for southern California. Under the new plan, the race will be run from Redwood City, San Francisco, and return.

Four qualifiers each from section trials at New York, Chicago and San Francisco, will make up the team. The team will be led by Eddie Leonard, who has been selected for the trials on past performances.

St. Louis and Pasadena also bid for the final trials.

Surprise, surprise! The Republic of China will be represented in the Olympic games this year. An amateur, cabin boy yesterday announced that the country would have representatives in the 100, 200 and 300-meter runs in the track and field events here next August.

The vanguard of the French Olympic team arrived here today, to compete in the 100 and 200-meter sprints, the 400-meter relay and the 400-meter relay.

Travel Half Million Miles

PHILADELPHIA, (UPI)—George E. Barnes, 32, has been a citizenship captain of the Delaware for many years, has traveled 656,850 miles up and down across the river, he said.

He would indicate his come-back will get him more than a cent of tax.

Barnes, the old ranger of the north, never got to travel, but he has traveled 656,850 miles up and down across the river, he said.

Joe Stecher, to hear his inspirer, press agent tell it, "is once again the best player in the world, and he's back in the room door." Hub Marquart just pitched Atlanta to victory over Little Rock. And you know how tough those Little Rockers are. Paddock won out over the A. A.

One back swing—that is one of the first things any golf professional will tell a beginner. And when a good player gets off his game, gains and loses, his teacher will say, "Get back to that first simple lesson."

There are two principal reasons for getting off the swing. The first is that a sharp backswing will throw the player off balance for the shot, frequently causing him to hit the ball before he can shift the club.

PLOT TO MURDER LEADER OF BONUS SEEKERS PROBED

Any acted as unit in supporting the Roosevelt program.

Local leaders, like Fred Johnson,

Dillingham, and Fred Johnson,

Rock Springs, Wyo., have been the key Roosevelt men in the Mountain states delegations and have been prominently featured with James A. Farley, manager of Roosevelt's campaign.

The delegation received word to return home at once.

Alford, Lewiston publisher, was an invalid in a New York city hospital as a result of injuries resulting from a fall while riding in a taxi on the way to catch a train to take him to Chicago for the convention. He is represented at the convention by an alternate.

"Our watchword," he declared,

"will continue to be 'stick it out.'

We will do our best to keep our quarters building in the best shape possible," he said.

Another indication of dissension was the ousting of W. C. Cox, the Oregon contingent's representative, from the delegation committee.

He had been acting chairman of the committee.

The veterans' committee has only enough food to last until tonight. After that, it is in prospect except bread and cracked wheat breakfast food.

Steps were taken to prevent any further misrepresentation of reputed Communists, who were beaten by the veterans Monday night.

Glascow declared the Communist were entitled to the convention with all others.

CONVENTION STADIUM, CHI-

CAGO, ILL.—The national convention, its educational committee delayed by difficulties in framing a platform, recessed with no platform.

The convention offers hope that on reconvening the resolutions committee would have completed its troubles so the meeting can proceed with the adoption of the platform.

Planks on prohibition, agriculture, silver and several other issues proved knotty problems owing to conflicting views, causing the delays.

In the meantime, candidates were hurriedly put up to cover their strength; the Roosevelt supporters still confident, trying to make inroads into favorite son delegations.

A SURVEY by Dillingham today disclosed that the Mountain States which include Idaho, Wyoming,

Arizona, Colorado, Nevada,

Montana and Utah, have practically no bonus supporters.

At Miami, Fla., after a rescue of Young Rookies in Major League Spotlight

By CLAUDE BURCKE
NEA Series Sports Writer

CHICAGO—The major league baseball season, in spite of some unsolved problems involving the Braves, Giants, Tigers, Reds, and Cardinals, has already produced a dozen or more rookies for future stardom.

In the National League, the freshmen crop numbers in the 16-to-21-year-old bracket, seven or eight. The American League boasts about the same number. Of the combining groups, they are the ones who have been hitting with ease regularly.

The Yankees, setting the pace in the American, have a 16-year-old, Bob Brown and Bill Urbanski, a shortstop. Urbanski arrived this season, having been optioned to the Indians, and Brown, yet to show his true value to the Yanks. The latter has been the more dependable player, though, and is currently optioned out to the Yankees' farm team.

The Braves, setting the pace in the National, have a 16-year-old, Harry Betts, a shortstop, and a 17-year-old, Billie Tamm, a pitcher. The Indians, with a 16-year-old, Carl Erskine, and a 17-year-old, Harry Feltz, both at third also have done well for the Braves.

The Cubs, with Leo Warneke, a 16-year-old, and a 17-year-old, Eddie Cicotte, and Harry Heilmann, who came through to fill Manager Horberg's place at second, have the most favorite admires by far. Horberg, a 16-year-old, Gerald Walker, outfielder, has been among the league's leading hitters, though, in a pinch hitter and runner. His amount of ground Hornsby could

Rescued Flyer Lands At Miami

Saved by a miracle of chance, Stanislav Hajnec, Polish-American boy shown above as he landed at Miami, Fla., after a rescue at sea. Unhurt, Hajnec was thrown sick and exhausted at his home in Chicago, where he had been flying for the past 10 days. His plane was forced down during an attempted flight to Poland. He was taken ashore from the steamer by tug to receive a tumultuous welcome.

BIG DAYS

History of stupendous importance is in the making at Chicago this week, for doubtless the next President of the United States will be named when the Democratic national convention nominates its ticket.

The events should be followed with keen interest on the part of the public. This newspaper will bend every effort to provide readers with the very latest developments during the next few days, providing thorough coverage of the Democratic meeting, just as it did for the Republican gathering, giving you today's news today, which usually means also, the most important news of the 24 hours.

The national radio broadcasts of the conventions are contributing in no small degree to keener interest in politics among a larger number of people. This, coupled with the complete coverage provided by the press supplies every detail of the conventions, second only to being in actual attendance.

The more familiar the public becomes with political methods and maneuvers, the brilliant speakers, the worthy candidates, the more healthy becomes the body politic. That is why children and young folks should follow these great national events so they may more intelligently familiarize themselves with the processes of conventions, of politics, of parties, of government itself, for good government in the final analysis is the goal of all the activity leading up to the election.

There are those who would belittle politics and politicians. But when one realizes that the future of this government, as well as its past, is dependent upon the proper functioning of our political system; then its critics should resolve to work for improvement in methods and men and systems, rather than to condemn that which controls so much that is vital to the existence of every American.

Young persons this year appear to be more interested than ever in politics. And it is well. Nothing will make for a healthier, sane and intelligent results than an aroused interest on the part of the younger generation in American politics. Disillusioned as many young folks are in the incapacities revealed by the Hardings, the Falls, and the Denbys in politics; the Blackmers, Kriegers, and Eastmans in the industrial realm and the Cannons and McPhersons in the ecclesiastical field; the apparent breakdown of police powers in the control of gangsters and liquor; as well as by the pandemonium which reigns in the financial world, there surely remains big opportunity for improvement at the source such as has never been offered before.

That source is government, and the ones who are going to operate, control and administer the government in a few years are yet in their youth.

Let the youth, then, study politics and government as they never have studied it before, so that their children shall not meet with the disillusionments which have been the lot of those now living.

Let the younger generation through counsel with their experienced elders help America find the way out through an intelligent, alert, sane, citizenship and clean politics, which will be reflected in better government and sound national patriotism.

Familiarity with the events of national conventions is one way to arouse this interest, an interest, by the way, which can be sustained quite as well as that engendered by a world series, a big football game or a prize fight, and, believe it or not, of far more importance!

HELPLESS CHICAGO

Seldom has society's helplessness in the face of gang insolence been more clearly demonstrated than in the case of Dally McGeoghegan, Chicago beer hustler, who got free of a charge of conducting a $60,000 bank robbery the other day when the state's attorney asked the courts to dismiss the indictment.

This action was taken at the request of the two bank officials who had identified McGeoghegan as the robber and who were to be the principal witnesses against him. They had received so many threats that they had to live under constant guard in a Chicago hotel, and they finally begged the state's attorney to call the whole thing off so they could breathe freely again.

Could there be a more striking instance of the utter breakdown of law enforcement? The episode is a worse stain on Chicago's record than any of its innumerable unpunished gang murders. It reveals a society standing completely helpless before the threats of a gang of desperados.

At The Theaters

THE MOST PENETRATING DRAMA OF THE AGES

The only motion picture ever made of the Freiburg Passion Play, "Jesus," shown at Joe's Roxy theater last night. Wednesday night.

Something of a challenge to commercial producers and professional actors is contained in the new motion picture, "Jesus," and the acting generally transcribed which is usually found in the best of commercial productions. The cast consists of actors who are almost entirely of the class who do not only devote their lives to the perfection of their roles, but who, in most cases, have been born into the homes of such participants from a long line of fore-bearers of equal devotion. These players are almost virgins in the field of professional work, war-dancers, toy-makers and equally humble artisans. They earn their livelihood in these estimations, and do not return from the Passion Play other than the honor of their participation afores.

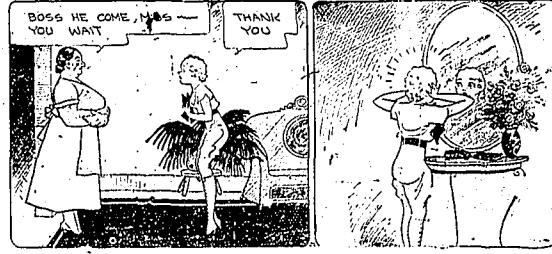

The Passion Play forestold in "Jesus" is at once educational and interesting. Its spectacularism affords to the players great opportunity for expression.

AMERICAN STAINLESS STEEL

Twin Falls Man Writes of Visit To Indian Ruins

A Waving Reed in the Windy City

By GENE AHRENS
I would like to say something that has been on my mind for a few years before I took to visiting the southwest country every spring. I was under the impression, like many others, that the altitude of some of these little "travel trips" that this country below us, is of a lower altitude. This was what I thought, but a few days ago, I was surprised to find that the altitude there was the same as here at home.

On this trip this last month, we were in an altitude never any lower than 3500 feet. This is to some will be a surprise, but it is true. We were in the mountains up to 7000 feet, but that was off a pass through the mountains. The south rim of the Grand Canyon is 7000 feet.

Mr. Verde is 5555 feet, so you will see we were in a high country all the way, thus making the weather at this time of year very delightful and traveling just right.

Everything to be used in preparation for the national Democratic convention, The "fairy exegator" had better be there to help us get ready, because 36 delegates cast their votes for their favorite son on the first ballot.

From Missouri and ready to be shown, former Senator James A. Reed lifts his parasol in greeting to Chicago upon his arrival for the national Democratic convention. The "fairy exegator" had better be there to help us get ready, because 36 delegates cast their votes for their favorite son on the first ballot.

and we had decided before we left that it was a canary all right!

Pueblo, Colorado — The most wonderful chamber of which there are 32 in your eyes 150 miles distant, Valley, mesas, mountain ranges and mesa-like plateaus, were held in such high esteem that we were compelled to come into this wide expanse all at once.

To Be Continued

SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR STORE BURGLARY

—Arthur W. Speciale, Aristo Electrician, was sentenced yesterday to a room not unlike our city halls or lodges rooms. Only in this respect, it was not a room of religious meetings, but a holding cell.

We had just been to the hospital of a hotel and towering with the chance of sacrifice the medevac men would prepare themselves for days for whatever affair it was to be.

In all the ruins I have seen there is always the love. Even the Indians who have lost their homes, the ones who write articles in the press, the ones who have been buried in the earth by the Indians. Even in some of the caves that we visited pottery was what we found. They have used it for ceremonies, funerals, and even cannibals or whatever they have to keep.

Each tribe had a different style of pottery, or perhaps they were were on an Indian reservation, so the women would be along the highway selling pottery. The San Juan was black, and the Hopi pottery is a light red, and the Navajo pottery is a light red and looks as though it was made by hand. A nice piece of work, though, we bought, but away from town, back when they turned from horse to wagon, they have kept the same designs.

Chaco Canyon — We left Chaco Canyon on the 25th, for the last time, and drove 55 miles out to the largest pueblo or cliff house, Chaco Canyon, that has been discovered, a ruin of 880 rooms. The Indians had built this main house in the world up to 1887 when a building was erected in New York of 1200 rooms. This pueblo was larger than Chaco and the government experts say that it was inhabited for 1000 years, or more, and that the Indians who were used for catties found in this ruin, A Dr. Douglas had this done for the government and it was a great task, but it took too much space to try and describe this ruin with its kivas and ceremonial chambers. The pottery was down on this pueblo is quite fragile, as all the rock used was carted four miles and the Indians had to drag the load over the mountains.

The Indians had built a fort at Aztec, Colo., for the night. A very busy little place, when I tell you that last year all this town, except the Indians, had moved to Aztec. Then you will get an idea of the amount of travel that pleased through the little towns located on the rim of these mountainous mountains. Aztec is 55 miles from Green Canyon, Mesa Verde is 55 miles from Durango, and the Indians were in the order of the Yellowne and Yucca parks, with an arts and crafts and meat and clothing.

We saw some wonderful well-preserved ruins and some fossils of nature at this park. The Kulte ruins, or the Chaco Canyon, I thought that there must be a trace of Irish in the Indians who had carted the "hod" so far and being such good "brick layers," as the Irish first came to America, and the early colonists when they built the pyramids for Cleopatra?

This evening in Chaco there was a lot of young fellows and certainly these boys are picked for the job as they tell you everything, and then ask if there is anything one can do to help. They have indicated we stay over night and visit the rest of the ruins. There are 18 accurate dwellings in this canyon.

"Alfalfa Bill" Slightly Muffled

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, Oklahoma's colonial governor, was having a hard time on windy City streets playing tennis with his vocal cords when he stepped off the train in Chicago to fight for the Democratic presidential nomination. Despite the heat, a black muffle encircled his neck, as pictured here.

State-Sheriff Nuptials Solemnized at Buhi Church
Tuesday Afternoon

BUHL (Special) — In a setting of marked beauty, Miss Geraldine Sherley, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Sherley, Buhi, and Edgar Davis, state sheriff, exchanged the State Lead Mine company, Atlantic, Idaho, were united in marriage Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Presbyterian church, Rev. C. W. Hailey, officiating.

Mrs. Virginia Vance, "Mackie" college friend of the bride, and J. E. and Mrs. John L. Johnson attended the couple. Mr. C. W. Hailey presided at the procession from Tannhauser and the recessional from Menard, pastor. H. C. Jeppson, Buhi, officiated. Friends and relatives of the bridal party entered the church. A reception was held following the wedding.

Miss Sherley, State hot for Salt Lake City on a golfing trip, Thursday return to Buhi next Sunday for a brief visit and will then go to Atlanta. The bride is a graduate of Union High School and attended the University of Idaho.

The altar, a double heart of American pillar roses, was the center of attraction, flanked by a half dozen of amaryllis fern and greenery. In the immediate background, and the entire wall at the rear of the room, was a mass of greenery. White, peacock and greenery on tall standards presented a formal foreground at the chancel.

A three-branched candleholder, a five-branched candleholder on either side. The choir loft was blanketed with greenery, plus a white cloth. The organist seated at the piano, could hardly be distinguished with the multitude of protection against the noise of the organ.

That is why they nearly went to the roof, but far from the ground as possible, the sides of cliffs and in canyon that afforded a place for defense, so as little a number of people could have hidden in their homes. These one or two or ten Indians could kill any number of men or enemy for that matter, and you could feel safe in your house, even though you had no protection.
