

IDAHO EVENING TIME, TWIN FALLS, IDAHO

WASH TUBES

by having to cut the principal from $5,000 to $1,000.
Other mortgage holders are doing that, but the Kansan candidate is the first to make senatorial political capital out of a shrewd though communistic business adjustment.

You May Not Know That

F. D. Kimball was the first president of the Twin Falls Commercial club, organized 27 years ago today.

ADORABLE APRON DRESS PATTERN No. 774

Women can now have custom-made, practical wash-and-wear aprons, and when the pattern is simple to make and as inexpensive as it is attractive, there's no reason why they can't be had in ten cents when ordered with a pattern which is often five cents when ordered separately.

GLADIOLUS SCHOOL PLANNED BY MATTHIAS CZECH, MICH. GUP, for gladioli growers, both professional and amateur, will be conducted here during the August 15-17, 1932.

There's a certain dilemma about this style that困扰着农夫们 at the moment. The soil is wide and fertile, but the weather is hot. The farmer is not too far from the mountains, so the need for irrigation is great.

Mr. Thomas will be campaigning for reelection on the Republican platform and as an administration senator, Mr. Borah, it may be expected, will be denouncing both, so long as he puts in a word for the Gooding statesman, that will be perfectly all right with the party bosses. Principle will apparently have nothing to do with the matter.

Mr. Thomas, as yet unheard from since the Republican convention, is not, you will note, denouncing Mr. Borah for straying from the reservation, as he should; if he is the sincere Republican official he is presumed to be. Mr. Smith, also strangely silent in the face of the Republican anti-prohibition plank and the Borah-Hoover episode, must be fearful lest he antagonize the "one lion" of the United States Senate.

Subservient to expediency, Idaho's legislators (all except Borah) remain in the background without the temerity to either subscribe to the platform or to come to the defense of Hoover, much less to challenge the lack of regularity on the part of the Borahs and the Norises.

It is a strange phenomenon, but a familiar one in Idaho. Either Borah is right or the Thomas-Smith method is right. Both cannot be right.

The entire affair clearly reveals what has been long contended: Borah is bigger than his party; at least in Idaho. Thomas, et al, would apparently rather have his endorsement than that of the Republican party.

One can easily imagine the reluctance of congressmen to attend their session. How much easier it is to be compelled by patriotic duty to remain in Washington during the campaign and solve the great problems of the nation than to face more weightier, not to say vexatious ones, right here at home!

COME, LET US REASON TOGETHER

A Dodge City, Kan., lumber and grain dealer, is running for the United States senate on a platform that advocates a scaling down of debts. In the course of his business, he says, he has taken mortgages on some farms. He finds a farmer in distress and unable to pay. "I can demand that he pay or stand foreclosure, take a big loss, and make an enemy of a man who has trusted me for years. But there is another way. I cut down the debt to what I think I can collect and what he thinks he may be able to pay. I shoot the farmer sticks by his farm, and probably will work out, and the man with the mortgage is better off than if he had foreclosed."

That rough filing down of unbearable debts is not an exclusive discovery of this Kansas man. It is going on quietly all over the country. A farmer, losing hope and courage, says to the mortgage holder, "Well, I'm through; I'm finished. Take the farm and tear up the mortgage. I made the mistake of borrowing $6,000 at 7 per cent, when what was $1,50. I just can't make the grade with 40 or 50 cent wheat."

If the holder of the mortgage agrees with that statement of facts, and is sensible, he will say: "Sit down and let's talk it over." He hints that the interest might be cut to 6 or 7 per cent, per cent, per cent, but always the farmer shakes his head. Then comes another moratorium on the interest for a year or two? Again the farmer says no. The moratorium goes on, depending on circumstances, varied agreements are reached in such cases as in some instances the mortgage holder finding it necessary to cancel all interest for two or three years, and possibly all interest for a period of 10 years. This is the case in the case of the state of New Mexico, where Comptroller of the State Treasury, Collier, has agreed to forego interest on the state's bonds for 10 years.

In the state of Colorado, the board of county commissioners has agreed to forego interest on the county bonds for a period of 10 years. In the state of Oklahoma, the state legislature has passed a bill authorizing the state to forego interest on its bonds for a period of 10 years.

These are some of the steps which have been taken to relieve the financial difficulties of the country.
