WASH TUBES

A HOPEFUL TREND
Everyone is watching these days for signs of a brightening in the industrial sky. The Alexander Hamilton Institution believes it has seen one. It reports finding encouragement in the fact that prices of manufactured goods are at last beginning to decline more rapidly than the prices of raw materials.

The fact that there has been a wide gap between these two price ranges has acted to rob the raw material producers of purchasing power, and this has been one of the fundamental reasons for the steady decline in business activity. If the gap continues to narrow until a real price equilibrium is reached—a noticeable gain in commercial and industrial activity should follow in a short time.

THE RISE IN STOCK PRICES
The current rise in stock prices at Chicago, which produced an accompanying upswing in the prices of wheat and corn, may eventually turn out to be one of the most important bits of news of the whole summer.

Not really healthy national prosperity is possible without sound agricultural prosperity. The one glaring defect of the boom days of 1928 and 1929 was the fact that the farmer was not getting his due share of profits. If, at last, agriculture is going to return to a decent level of financial health, the effects throughout the nation should be profound.

It is perhaps too early to hail the upward movement at Chicago as the beginning of a lasting, nationwide revival. But if it endures throughout the summer, there is little doubt that it will mark the beginning of the end of the depression.

COMMON SENSE ON REPARATIONS
At the time the Treaty of Versailles was signed, the allies talked of forcing Germany to pay reparations of $64,000,000,000.

A conference in 1920 sealed this down to $13,500,000,000. In 1924 the Dawes committee, refusing to commit itself as to the grand total, ruled that Germany must pay $950,000,000 a year. The Young plan in 1928 set the total at $26,500,000,000 and gave Germany until 1938 to pay it all.

Now, with the reparations conference finally reaching agreement, the German delegates have agreed that their nation shall pay just $750,000,000—and the allied nations are glad they can get that much.

The steady shrinkage of these figures represents a number of processes that have been active in the world since the war.

For one thing, it represents the steady decline in Germany's economic health. A nation that was willing, 12 years ago, to sign an L. O. U. for more than 30 billions now insists that $750,000,000 is the limit of its capacity to pay. To be sure, Germany signed the first agreement under duress; yet the contrast between Germany's armed forces and that of her former enemies is just about as great now as it was in 1920.

For another thing, the dwindling of these figures represents a return to sanity on the part of the nations of Europe.

The original figures were simply fantastic. No unprejudiced economist ever supposed such sums would or could be paid; the statesmen who insisted that they would were simply kidding the folks back home. That the allies are now willing to take $750,000,000 where they once talked of 30 billions indicates that common sense is about to have its day.

Lastly, the whole affair shows how the world has steadily drawn away from the insane hatreds of the first post-war years. In those days no penalty on Germany could be too high, for Germany was a race of international criminals. Today, it is realized that Europe cannot recover unless Germany recovers. No enduring peace could be built while the first emotional state prevailed. Its departure gives one much hope for the future.

After the statement by the English, it is expected for a time that the Hoover disarmament plan might be accepted by everybody but the United States.

A Minnesota veterinarian expects to put a window in a cow's side, explaining that it will enable him to watch her digestion and will not hurt the cow. At that the cow will have a pane in the stomach, to say the least.

Judge Lindsey says that 6,000,000 Americans are too poor to get married. What he forgot to add was that most of them are married.

Who says the 1932 girl is more attractive than her 1920 sisters, asks a writer. Well, the 1932 girl, for one.

WASHINGTON

Dry Nominee Asks Liquor Debate

You May Not Know That

Mr. Roosevelt will use the first inaugural presidential parade in many years to have a grand dress, inside arrangements for it are now underway.

That is highly important, the chief, completely. It is very important that the masses of the country is largely Republican. They thought that they could not get their side of campaign stories told. This was the leading reason for the establishment of three-class (bureaucratic) publicity bureau three years ago.

This time the Hearst papers are understood to have placed themselves at Roosevelt's disposal. They are said to be willing to cooperate in any way the Roosevelt campaign might require.

The powerful New York Times will soon endorse the candidate cheerfully. It is very influential in banking, business and scholarship circles. The normal democratic press is being held in check.

In addition to the usual campaign to induce one of the Washington administration to support the President, the independent and independent democratic cause early in the fall. The way that that is now being actively cleared.

...and removed from the ressemblance and original viewpoint of the Republican and Democratic parties. William H. P. Foster, above, day.

IMPLICATION:
Senator Hiram's threat for the Glass inflation bill was only a political maneuver.

The plan of inflating the currency directly through national bank notes has many more adherents, now, than when Senator Glass originally proposed it. Foster for some time has been spreading the contrary has been inflicting possibly on the public. However, there was no chance for its adoption. The President and the majority of the Senate have been more than ready to support it.

It is important to note that Foster will be making his move as part of the unfolding great filibuster of delay adjournment of Congress as well as to check a beer vote.

NOTES:
The nomination of Wendell Phillips as the dry's candidate for President pleased the Republican and Democratic leaders. They figure Phillips will poll more than the usual, expected vote of about 20,000.

Phillips's big battle will be against the Communist William Z. Foster to see who will be the lucky prize.

The dry campaign is an old burrhead war for the Anti-Saloon League, however, that being a nice word for salubrious. It is supposed to be a plan of holding that third party in readiness for a possible change in the leadership. However, it was a pure snarl.

The Presidential contest that is being held when Foster will be expected to be Hiram's main purpose now.

Prices
The financial market is beginning to show signs of recovery. The study here in this paper has finally attracted a lot of attention and has been freely expressed that the little blue chip is the one to lead in the recovery. The down here is that the consumption is up 10 percent from last year.

A better view situation is expected as a consequence. Until this has been arrived at the situation is not expected to be about 2 months lighter than it is to fall then. Now it does.

The only fear expressed is that prices may go high as to turn downward again. This is not anticipated at present levels.

Wheat
The wheat market generally agrees that the wheat situation also looks much better. They think the price about now will begin to rise, the carry-over to next year in another year. There seems no prospect of a Russian export in the near future.

A wheat-powder plant of this nature has been formed. They are quiet and cautious in view of the outlook.

Thousands Visit Olympic Village Where World's Great Athletes Gather

Flags of 16 Nations Wave Over Homes Of Performers

NURMI ARRIVES

By OGDEN, N. HEALE
Hailed Press Staff Correspondent
LOS ANGELES, (UP)—Seemingly stimulated by the single name of Hannu Johannes Nurmi, the 1932 Olympic games became a thing of the future.

Thousands streamed to Olympic village—the complete village—today to witness the 4000 most conspicuous of the athletes. They were reported to be the largest since they opened. The athletes continued to take an additional sign.

May Not Complete
The anticipated 4000 was greatly exceeded by the great Finnish distance runner, who may not even be able to complete the celebration of the tenth Olympiad, July 30 to August 14.

Reception was greeted at the village where the flags of 16 nations fluttered before the admiring throngs. The athletes were to follow the flags, according to tradition from the comfortable living quarters in the village to the training fields, were athletes of the 16 nations.

Will Rogers Present
And rushing among them were scores of southern Californians, some curiously equipped, for the occasion of the athletes and some on business.

In front of the main entrance building Will Rogers, humorist, posed for photographers with Nurmi.

Private Nurmi is allowed to compare Nurmi—Nurmi—to the ancient Egyptian race which has not won in previous Olympic games. He is expected to follow the flag in the parade.

There were about 250 athletes quartered in the Olympic village today and twice that many more are expected during the week.

The ticket office predicted more than 1,250,000 seats would be sold for the games.

Six of 18 Sprinters Entered in Tryouts Have Equalled World's Records

United States sprinters equalled world records today for the 100 and 200 yard sprints at the American Olympic tryouts at the University of Maryland stadium tomorrow and Saturday.

Faced with unprecedented competition from foreign nations, the United States Olympic games committee will accept only the best of the American sprinters to represent the United States at the Olympic games in London.

American tryouts were held at the University of Maryland stadium tomorrow and Saturday. The American team moves immediately to Los Angeles to begin training for the Olympic July 31.

The Reason for a Blanket Event and Why Right Now is the Logical Time to Buy Them
 To obtain the lowest possible prices from the mills, blankets must be bought in January and taken in before May, for at that time manufacturers are willing to sacrifice profits in order not to have to carry them over during the summer months. To avoid carrying these blankets an extra three months and to stimulate July business we have made this blanket week an annual event. At that time the savings made possible by ready cash and ample storage space and quantity buying are passed on to you—or in other words we pay you to help us turn our blanket stock an extra time. Due to the popularity of our blanket events in the past we have this year again a very complete stock. Our big second story stock room is filled almost to overflowing. Compare quality with price and you'll agree with us when we say "Every Blanket Is Truly a Super I. D. Value."
