Utah's Voters Await Roosevelt's Views on Stabilization of Silver

Nominee to Make Second Major Speech Of Trip Tonight

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — Franklin D. Roosevelt entered Utah today to expand his views on the silver question, of paramount importance to the miners, particularly, and to the far west in general.

Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, planned to remain

KING AND DERN SURE UTAH WILL GO DEMOCRATIC

Roosevelt Speech To Be Broadcast

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak in Salt Lake City at 8 o'clock in the A.M. today and his address will be broadcast over two national networks.

He will leave this city Sunday and will stop in Pocatello Monday evening and Tuesday night, at which time he will appear a short talk.

He will deliver the second major address of his transcontinental "top, look, and listen" tour at the Norman, Idaho, tonight.

Utah, whose economic life is largely based upon the price of silver, has been unable to find a market for its surplus production which was anxious to hear what the governor had to say on the subject.

Roosevelt, in introducing his daughter, Mrs. Carl Sandburg, said:

"The other day, my party was pleased with their reception. It's a cut of the old block, we're not so pleased with our own," he said.

"We'll remember what Madison did and we'll do the same."

Roosevelt, in introducing his daughter, Mrs. Carl Sandburg, had remarked, "Madison, who

the greatest orator of his day, was anxious to hear what the governor had to say on the subject of silver."

The principal theme of the governor's tour will be railroad subsidies throughout the country.

The governor came to Utah from Denver, Colo., where he stopped off at Cheyenne, Wyo., where he made at stations along the line, he made brief appearances, urging that the cow country join with the agricultural states in supporting the Democrat's national ticket.

STORES ANNOUNCE IMPROVED SALES

Seasonal Uniforms in Retail

Business Devotions, Clerks Are Relieved

NEW YORK (UPI) — The season is now well along with high hopes that the input market will improve in the next few weeks.

Industrial traffic and electrical power production, two of the foremost businesses, are showing some improvement, and this week, when allowances are made for the Labor Day holiday weekend, it is expected that there will be an increase in sales.

Businessmen, who have been concerned about the market, are relieved

that there is some hope for improved sales.

There is also some hope that the market will improve in the next few weeks.

Stocks, though still difficult moving them, are beginning to trade

again, and the market is showing some signs of life.

mands because of "it's to

A NEW BONUS ANGLE

New attention to the bonus proposition has followed the action of the American Legion in favoring immediate cash payment but there are many angles to the situation which apparently have not been given consideration.

It will be remembered that when the Congress authorized the loaning of one-half the full amount of the adjusted compensation certificates, the point was stressed by the then Secretary of the Treasury that there were no funds with which to meet the demands of the legislation; a statement which was discredited soon afterward by payment of the obligation out of funds on hand which had already been laid away for that very purpose.

No one knows whether or not Congress will authorize cash payment at its next session in response to the demands of the ex-service group—but there is this fact to bear in mind: whenever such legislation is passed, there is no reason to presume that 100 percent of the men will cash their certificates. In other words, the government would not have to meet the full obligation of two and a third billion dollars. There are many thousands of men in the United States who would be eligible to benefits who would not need to cash their certificates, and there are additional thousands who could be appealed to on grounds of patriotism or frugality to resist the temptation to draw their funds immediately.

Of course other limitations might be put into effect such as requiring those who would cash their certificates to prove actual necessity—or the government could convert the due amounts of the certificates into negotiable notes, which banks and investors would be willing to accept the same as any other government security.

The bogey of the maximum figure payable to the veterans will constantly be drummed into the ears of the public, between now and the time for Congressional action, without very much attention being paid to other means and methods of meeting the emergency as conveniently as possible.

No one yet has suggested that an additional twenty-five percent of the money be made available instead of a full fifty percent, nor have there been other alternatives proposed.

Before the question is finally settled there's a compromise possible which will neither wreck the country or ignore the veterans' claims if the matter is approached sanely and without prejudice.

SOME FROZEN IDAHO TAX ASSETS.

(State Capital News)

"Let's give the taxpayers of Idaho the benefit of the savings the state administration has made for them, and thereby reduce their taxes."

So said Governor Ben Ross to the other four members of the state board of equalization.

"Can't do it. It isn't ethical, wasn't intended by the legislature, and it may not even be legal."

Thus answered the board of equalization.

Whoops, my dear!

Unethical to reduce taxes at a time like this! Red tape and political frippery keeping money hoarded in the state treasury that has actually been saved in operating expenses, and refusing to give the desperate taxpayer the benefit of it!

The other four members are Ed Gallett, state auditor; Fred Lukens, secretary of state; Fred Babcock, attorney general; and George Barrett, state treasurer—all running for reelection.

Talk about frozen assets! There's a half million dollars or maybe double that amount, frozen up in the state treasury, by all the rules of reason, should be used to reduce taxes this year—right now.

If the Frosty Four get away with their determination to keep the available tax money frozen for use as political capital against the governor, this newspaper will have to admit that it has misjudged the spunk and fighting ability of Ben Ross.

Kissing shortens life, according to some of our doctors—but is it really shorter, or does it just seem shorter?

Russia shouldn't feel hurt because we don't recognize her. When we think back to 1920, it's about all we can do to recognize our own country.

Wonder what have become of the statements on prohibition which were promised several weeks ago by Jack Thomas and by Addison T.?

Too much fodder is oft-times wasted by political elements in fighting each other, instead of uniting in a common cause against a common adversary.

Nature is surely a perverse thing; just when business experts were happily announcing that things were getting brighter, along came the solar eclipse.

You May Not Know that

Indicating the extensive market existing for, but very-operated radio receivers, a national advertising agency has compiled figures for every state giving the total number of homes in each state, together with the number which is not served by electricity. Idaho has a total of 108,515 homes, 42,034 of which are without electricity. In the U. S. there are 29,980,146 homes, 9,802,657 without electric power.

No one knows whether or not Congress will authorize cash payment at its next session in response to the demands of the ex-service group—but there is this fact to bear in mind: whenever such legislation is passed, there is no reason to presume that 100 percent of the men will cash their certificates. In other words, the government would not have to meet the full obligation of two and a third billion dollars. There are many thousands of men in the United States who would be eligible to benefits who would not need to cash their certificates, and there are additional thousands who could be appealed to on grounds of patriotism or frugality to resist the temptation to draw their funds immediately.

The effect of this would be to reduce, anywhere between twenty-five and forty percent the amount of funds the government would actually have to expend immediately upon passage of the law.

Of course other limitations might be put into effect such as requiring those who would cash their certificates to prove actual necessity—or the government could convert the due amounts of the certificates into negotiable notes, which banks and investors would be willing to accept the same as any other government security.

The bogey of the maximum figure payable to the veterans will constantly be drummed into the ears of the public, between now and the time for Congressional action, without very much attention being paid to other means and methods of meeting the emergency as conveniently as possible.

No one yet has suggested that an additional twenty-five percent of the money be made available instead of a full fifty percent, nor have there been other alternatives proposed.

Before the question is finally settled there's a compromise possible which will neither wreck the country or ignore the veterans' claims if the matter is approached sanely and without prejudice.

So said Governor Ben Ross to the other four members of the state board of equalization.

"Can't do it. It isn't ethical, wasn't intended by the legislature, and it may not even be legal."

Thus answered the board of equalization.

Whoops, my dear!

Unethical to reduce taxes at a time like this! Red tape and political frippery keeping money hoarded in the state treasury that has actually been saved in operating expenses, and refusing to give the desperate taxpayer the benefit of it!

The other four members are Ed Gallett, state auditor; Fred Lukens, secretary of state; Fred Babcock, attorney general; and George Barrett, state treasurer—all running for reelection.

Talk about frozen assets! There's a half million dollars or maybe double that amount, frozen up in the state treasury, by all the rules of reason, should be used to reduce taxes this year—right now.

If the Frosty Four get away with their determination to keep the available tax money frozen for use as political capital against the governor, this newspaper will have to admit that it has misjudged the spunk and fighting ability of Ben Ross.

Kissing shortens life, according to some of our doctors—but is it really shorter, or does it just seem shorter?

Russia shouldn't feel hurt because we don't recognize her. When we think back to 1920, it's about all we can do to recognize our own country.

Wonder what have become of the statements on prohibition which were promised several weeks ago by Jack Thomas and by Addison T.?

Up down on what is going on behind the scenes at Washington and New York—for Evening Times readers everywhere.

—WASHINGTON By Paul Mallon

REPUBLICANS in Maine were not slow to cut it out on President Roosevelt. That is the slogan of the opposition here from Dixie, from the best non-partisan sources. Prohibition had little to do with it.

The Republican campaign was conducted under auspices more or less automatically clearing up a favorable field than prevailing in bad inside situations. The candidates were popular. The machine—which did not run—had no place.

Then the slogan of the opposition here from Dixie, from the best non-partisan sources. Prohibition had little to do with it.

There is no question that Republican votes elected the Democratic candidate. The answer is:

“A terrible depression develops in the campaign.” Mr. Hoover took it hard. He had reason to expect a better result. His confidential informant in the campaign was a Democrat who would have one Congressional seat if he could get it.

CROWDS.—

Dolly Gann, the Mrs. Cleere of Dixie, was elected to the Senate. She expected to win. Her name drew a crowd of 500. The next night Gene Tunney drew the local leaders' explanation that she didn't just turn up but was elected to represent the people.

CONFIDENCE.—Confidential government reports early in the week indicated price levels had risen 9 per cent since last month; 10 per cent; 11 per cent; sugar 22 per cent; corn 2 per cent; silver bars 2 per cent.

CONFIDENTIAL.—

J. C. Sanger and others, plotting the part of the new party, are to meet in the Lakeview Hotel and afterward meet with the Shap and Anderson avenue slate leaders in Twin Falls.

COULD WIN.—

The higher-ups are well pleased with the results of the election. The president claimed Cleveland made but one speech—in one of his examinations—but he did not say Hurley, Miller will do the same.
