The 1932 gridiron season will under way in earnest in South Idaho next Friday, when 24 high school teams will clash in 11 contests on Friday and one on Saturday. In some instances the first game of the season, for the first time, while several played opening games last week.

Carries on the tradition of the season, with many "pre-season" contests slated, matching "setups" teams against each other in several games.

The "Twin Falls" Drifters, who made their first appearance here last week, will entertain the Colton eleven, will entertain the Northern Bulldogs on Lincoln Field Saturday afternoon. The gridiron contest between the Kinderly squad working this year under new coach, Harold Stetzel, was the 15th of August. Coach R. V. Jones' Blue and White squad has been in action since Aug. 10, our rough squads developed in the Alumni game last week, and is expected to present a much stronger team than the one which started "back-thrusters" or former years Saturday.

Burley to Travel

Twin Falls' eleven is scheduled to play its first game in school teachers here October 7, and will then begin a list of games, however, a Castleford team was intercepted by Lincoln, Cub half-back, 40-yard marks, which ended them off the local gridiron until November 23, when they will meet the Boise Braves here. They open their 1932 season with a local contest, and a game with Filer. Filer, on Armatelle Day, will be the first to play the visiting Bruins, in the opening of the Intermission period. So it is likely the Kindredly game, this week, will draw larger game receipts than usual for early season.

Filer's Whistler eleven will open its season Friday against the Wendell squad, which took a 34-0 heat in front of 1,000 spectators last weekend. Strength of the Whistler team this year is somewhat of an unknown quantity, but Mentor "Hank" Powell, who has available material into a football machine to reckoned with.

Burley to Play Bush

Twin Falls eleven, will not be able to get into the best contests of the week. Burley, with a record of 1-0, will play Filer, 6-7, while the Indians won from the Bush "grandmoms" in a pre-intermission game, 6-4.

Opening will travel to Glenn Ferry for a season's opener. Glenn Ferry played its first game last Saturday, and Worms are scheduled to play a night game on the latter's home field, the first of the season, against the Idaho Falls eleven, with Jerome defeated Richfield

OUR DREAD OF ROBOTS

A fable that has held the attention of writers for more than a century came very close to coming true not long ago.

An English inventor had built a big steel "robot," or mechanical man, which was operated by wireless. At a word of command the robot would do various things, including fire a revolver at a target. And one day, when the inventor was just about to give the command, the robot unexpectedly raised the gun and fired, shooting the inventor in the hand.

"I always had the feeling that he would turn on me some day," the inventor remarked afterward. "I don't know why he fired before I gave the signal."

Ever since Mrs. Shelley wrote about Frankenstein, who made a mechanical man which got out of his control; this notion of an automatic, lifeless man created out of machinery has attracted writers, and the writer who handles it nearly always has his mechanical man, at last, go on a rampage and start breaking things.

Indeed, the fable has become the modern ghost story. We don't shudder over tales of spooks and haunts the way our fathers did, but we can always get cold chills by thinking about a steel monster that goes about with no brain or heart to control it. We find it more horrifying to think of a body without a soul than to think of a soul without a body. Furthermore, we find it easier to believe in such a fable.

And now, apparently, it has happened. Life has imitated art once more. A robot has shot its master.

A psychologist could probably make a good deal out of this fascinated dread of ours for mechanical monsters. Machinery has created a revolution in our life. The wage-earner, the farmer, the soldier, the merchant, the politician, the schoolmaster, the banker—all of us, in every moment of our lives, live differently than our ancestors lived because of the constant increase in the mechanization of society.

In a very literal sense, we are the servants of our machines. Is it any wonder that we have created a literature about the mechanical man, and have raised up a steel bogey to frighten ourselves?

WALKER'S WANING STAR

The action of the New York courts in refusing to permit a special majority election this fall seems to make it certain that Joseph McKeel will continue to be the city's mayor at least until the end of 1933. More important, it makes it highly improbable that Jimmy Walker will ever return to that post.

Walker resigned as mayor in order to "seek vindication at the polls." At the moment, it looked as if he would be triumphantly reelected. But events moved a trifle too rapidly for him. The contrast between the kind of government he had given—the city and the business-like, efficient kind that McKeel proceeded to set up—was too marked for any man to miss. Within a week after his resignation, Walker's star was wanishing visibly.

And now the election is put off a year. Can Walker save his martyr's pose for another 12 months and make any impression on the electorate with it? It seems highly improbable.

JOBLESS BUT NOT USELESS

A sample of the way in which a city can turn the energies of its jobless citizens to good account was provided this fall in a middle-western industrial town, which has just opened a charming new park where a dismal rubbish heap held sway a few months ago.

The rubbish heap was turned into a park by the unemployed, working under the direction of officials of a charitable organization. The unemployed were being supported by the organization anyway; they had no chance of getting any other work; they were glad to be able to make some sort of return for the help they were getting.

So now the city has a nice new park, which will be a delight to its citizens for years to come—and it got it at no extra cost. The stunt is well worth copying elsewhere.

WILLING HANDS

Local citizens are showing prudence in making early preparations for caring for any victims of the approaching winter.

Last winter, it will be recalled, more than 8,000 meals were served at Parish hall, without a cent of cost in taxation through the instrumentalities of the Associated Charities. A record of economy was established which may stand for a long time to come.

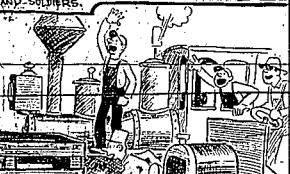

With this section supplying an abundance of food of all descriptions and with many willing hands to gather it, there should be generous response to the calls which may go out from the charities organization again this year.

A scientist states that the main cause of seasickness is the motion of the ship; it sounds reasonable.

If your alma mater loses an important football game this year you will at least have no trouble finding an excuse. It probably will be the Federal Board's fault.

Garden Reception Launches Club Year

As a foreunner to a club season of delightful social affairs, dinner, luncheons, and profitable and inspirational educational meetings, carefully planned by numerous committees, the Twin Falls Country Club's annual reception was held Tuesday afternoon in the home of the president, Mrs. D. J. Alexander, Eighth Avenue north. The reception served a dual purpose, that of presenting the new officers and their wives to Twin Falls' Mrs. Sawyer and Mrs. Wall, Mayor and Mrs. Arthur István, former Twin Falls residents, at La Grande, Oregon.

Guests at the affair, Mrs. Alexander and past presidents received the guests.

Tea was served in the garden, with the high colored late summer flowers as a backdrop.

After the tea, the garden party, which was the highlight of the day, began. The members of the club, including the new officers, were seated in the vivacious garden. Indoors the vivid autumn colors were echoed in artistic decorations.

Mr. J. W. Neuman, chairman of the music department, presented a short musical program. Mrs. H. G. Schumman, Mrs. C. E. Hartman, "Project Bird," Schumann, and "Waltz" Ibrahim, Mrs. O. P. Duval, Mrs. C. E. Hartman, and Mr. and Mrs. George Ward sang "Arake, Beloved!" Edward, an "Friend of You," Ware, Hedges, and others, played two violin solos. Mrs. Lillian Tschirkowski, and "Tambourine," Kremers, accompanied by Mrs. Kremers, opened the program.

The tea was covered with an exquisite Italian linen lace, with a central panel, a gold scroll, and a diamond pattern in cream, yellow and orange. Paper plates were used in turn-of-the-century style.

Committees in charge of the reception were: Mrs. H. G. Schumann, Mrs. C. E. Hartman, Mrs. H. G. Schumman, Mrs. C. E. Hartman, Mrs. E. Bohler, Mrs. George Ward, and Mrs. C. Thomas.

G. A. R. TO HONOR
TEACHERS

The Legion of the G. A. R. and McCook's "circle" are arranging a luncheon Friday at 1 o'clock at Mrs. Mary Mills, state president, who is returning from the national convention.

A special luncheon will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, for veterans for the luncheon are to be made with Mrs. H. G. Schumann, Mrs. C. E. Hartman, and Mrs. E. Bohler.

DHIS IS THE END

The Red Knights have issued invitations for a "super-munro" ball Saturday night at the Hotel Idaho. The affair is in honor of the new members of the club.

Mrs. H. G. Schumann, now formerly of Twin Falls, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. H. J. Wall, has returned from New York to the University of Idaho Thursday evening last week, being affiliated with the "University of Idaho Scholastic Federality, a special initiation." Mrs. Sawyer selected last spring to represent the Waterbury, Conn., chapter of the scholastic federations during her career at the University of Idaho.

During the time Mrs. Sawyer was a student Idaho there was no Waterbury chapter there, but one has been organized since she became an alumna. She has taken post-graduate work at Cornell University, New York City. There are the creation of the Waterbury chapter.

Speaking of changes in practices and party standards, the governor calls attention to the Republicans' "old-line" stand on labor, direct primaries and a number of traditional Democratic platforms which he has held since he became an alumnus.

CHECKS TRACED

IN DAVIS TRIAL

SIXTY-YEAR-OLD Checks issued by officials of the Masonic Order of Minne were traced today by Davis, the defendant, to show that which went from Davis to Bush.

The trial, which had been adjourned yesterday, was adjourned again by Justice George Chapman, presiding, until Oct. 1, when the jury will hear testimony from the defense.

The trial of Davis, charged with violation of the federal lottery laws, was resumed after Judge Chapman adjourned the case yesterday.

Chapman said that he had heard testimony yesterday that the accused, yesterday, did not in any way give or promise to the animal gun he was in possession of the defendant.

Fred W. Jones, attorney for the defense, presented a short musical program.
