WASHINGTON
By Paul Mellon

Political pressure from the top brought that laudable agreement for eastern railroad consolidation. It was urgently needed by the legislators. They were in a tight spot on that issue then the public will ever know.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE.

The privilege of voting carries with it the obligation to vote. National progress depends upon enlightened public opinion registered by ballot so as to secure the right kind of leadership in local, state, and national affairs.

In national affairs in particular, the need for constructive leadership is greater now than it has been since the days of the world war. The prolonged depression has created conditions that are as disastrous to ourselves and the united effort of all the people as necessary to insure safe readjustments in national Poncey relates in the "Flagging" Column as a result of an agreement of all interested parties to abide by the opinion of Engineer Horne of Boise, who is here doing some work for the city, and who, when accompanied by President P. A. Koenig and Secretary W. C. Taylor, of the city company, and President John W. White, of the Twin Falls County, Fern Bureau, C. E. leveled restrictions against the city, which were to be added to the town records and that each citizen paid a share in the cost of the same.

women are equally responsible with men for an intelligent use of the ballot to remedy existing conditions. Failure to use the ballot indicates an indifference to the national well-being that cannot be excused on any grounds. Women, as well as men, have their individual duties, their individual activities, based upon personal desire for either profit or pleasure, and it is recognized that to assume the obligation of citizenship is an onerous burden that many would like to avoid.

However, women cannot shift to others the responsibilities that should be jointly shared; they must accept politics as a medium through which to work for a stronger and a happier nation; they must vote regularly in the interest of good government, wisely administered.

A COMPLETE FOOD

If every person in Idaho would use the quantity of milk usually suggested for good growth and development and maintenance of health, the problem of surplus of dairy products would be greatly diminished and one of Idaho's large industries would have sufficient surplus to provide for good business in the industry.

Dairy products are all parts of the meal is a possibility that should be considered in planning meals for health and well-being. It is this should be remembered that dairy products are rich in vitamins, calcium, and have a high percentage of protein. They are also both strengthening and assimilating for adults and provide a good source of milk or dairy products.
