CALVIN COOLIDGE DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Body of Ex-President Is Found on Bedroom Floor By Wife at 1:15 o'Clock

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (UP)—Calvin Coolidge, 60th president of the United States, died suddenly today at his home in Northampton. He was 60 years of age.

He succumbed, according to physicians, to a heart attack that developed while he was at his main street law office, and he died alone in his bedroom.

Mrs. Coolidge, returning from a shopping trip, discovered the body on the bedroom floor at 1:15 p. m.

The former president had been dead 30 minutes, according to physicians.

The tragic death of the sturdy New Englander, who less than two years ago relinquished his high office in apparent favor of a brilliant political career in the United States, is a surprise to his personal secretary, Warren G. Harding, who died in a San Francisco hotel while his wife was visiting to him and after physicians had believed he had passed a serious crisis.

It was upon the death of Harding, that Coolidge, then vice president, assumed the White House. It was recalled today when a train to him from a launch of an old farmhouse, by his late father, a judge of the peace.

Health Good

Mrs. Coolidge had been in his usual good health, so far as his wife knew. He had been in his home in this town for his last six weeks, at 8:30 a. m. He was there, it was reported by his partner, Ralph W. Henshaw, who remarked that he appeared to be in the best of health.

The work of the funeral home was completed by the funeral home, which was held by his secretary, Harry Bond, left for the Coolidge home, he believed.

He is the secretary of the state while, before now, he had continued his work as a secretary and had accompanied the former president.

THORNHILL SEATED TO MENTOR CARDS

Stanford Line Coach Expected to Reopen Wayner at Palo Alto

PALO ALTO, Cal. (UP)—Coach E. "Doc" Thornhill, the coach at Stanford for the past 17 years, was expected to be named coach of the California team to succeed Glenn S. Brown at Stanford in the near future.

Although "Maury," "Cliff" and "Doc" have been mentioned for the post, Stanford's efforts to continue the "Warner" tradition was believed to assure the appointment of Stanhill to a former "Warner" team.

Members of the athletic board believe that the reaction would be taken at Stanford's meeting in the near future.

Stanhill, a member of the board who coached the team of California in 1929, is believed to have been named to the position.

Thornhill, it is reported, will have the Stanford line.

Chesterfield

They Satisfy people know it

The manufacturer of good cigarettes does not depend on any one year's crop. He knows that to keep up the quality of his brand, he has to carry on hand an immense stock of tobacco from several years' crops.

The domestic tobaccos are kept in large highlands, each containing about 1000 pounds, and are allowed to age for two full years—in other words, matured by the curing of the tobacco. Something like aging wine.

DeWitt & Myers has about four and a half miles of warehouses used for storing leaf tobacco, to make sure that his products are uniform and are of equal as he made.

To do this requires a great deal of money—for example, there is invested in the domestic and Turkish tobacco for Chesterfield Cigarettes over $75,000,000.

Smokers can be assured, regardless of the crop conditions, that Chesterfield will be absolutely uniform—the same year after year at all times. The cigarette that smokes better.
