

TECHNOCRATIC RANKS DIVIDED

Howard Scott Disposed Of As Director; Too Much Publicity Charged

NEW YORK. Jan. 21 (UPI)—An excess of publicity and a ruptured "blueprint of revolution," apparently mythical, were blamed yesterday by Howard Scott, president of the nation's four academic associations of Howard Scott to dispose of him as director of the Technocracy, the economic organization of technocrats recently formed to fit its information on the movement into practical application, as projected to sweep all activities.

Scott, who planned that "the work will go on" and add to his position, left a statement of his position, in left with the name, technocracy. But the energy committee, which had been working on a plan which is the core of technocracy will continue without him at Columbia University. The economic committee of technocrats, recently formed to fit its information on the movement into practical application, is projected to sweep all activities.

Split Develops.

For months there has been a sharp division among the major economic organizations—the technocrats. One faction sought to confine their work to the energy committee, which is the core of technocracy, a fact-finding body. The other wanted technocracy to be a semipolitical organization for putting into effect a drastically changed economic system.

Both sides of technocrats from Scott have maintained that fact-finishing was the only objective, but in private discussions, the two sides of the group have spoken freely on a supposed blue-print 25 mapping the major steps in the economic reorganization of national economy.

Rumor Prevails.

Whether such a plan ever existed, possibly no one can know. But the rumor of its existence grew strong and the publicity received by the group, which has been bitter attacks on Columbia University, home of the technocratic research, and the technocrats' lack of control, which financed the research in recent months to give employment to desultory architects and engineers.

Although Scott himself was exhibited extreme shyness, he was blamed by some of the technocrats for the publicity which has swamped the technocrats of late. Charges by critics that Scott and the academic degrees claimed for him by some of his followers were not matched by any general dissatisfaction.

All those favored a combination of the two sides of the central committee of technocracy. Professor Walter Hattenbaum, head of the university's department of civil engineering, was one of the revolt against Scott.
