TORNADO SNUFFS OUT 31 LIVES IN SOUTHERN REGION

At Least 500 Persons Injured By Severe Storms, Day Evening

PROPERTY LOSS LARGE

Doctors' Forced to Treat Injured by Candle Light at Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 15 (UPI)—A tornado cut a narrow path across three states last night, killing 31 persons, leaving 500 injured, and property damage estimated in the tens of thousands.

Relief work was concentrated along the Tennessee-Kentucky border, where the tornado reached its greatest fury and caused the highest death toll since the earth's surface, and did not descend again until it hit Kingman, approximately 70 miles west of Tucson, where eight were killed.

Seven were killed in Prudenville, a mountain town 12 miles west of the Kentucky-Tennessee border, where the tornado reached its greatest fury and caused the highest death toll since the earth's surface, and did not descend again until it hit Kingman, approximately 70 miles west of Tucson, where eight were killed.

Nashville, Attacked.—Before reaching Prudenville, the torna- doon wreaked a section of Nashville, approximately 100 buildings, killing seven and injuring more than 300. One was killed in Owasso, Okla., a market 12 miles west of Tulsa, where eight were killed.

One hundred, National Guardsmen were sent to the scene and placed on guard duty in the devastated section of the city.

The Nashville electricians, telephone and telegraph operators in General Hospital, treated scores of victims, some of whom were blinded. They were signs reported by observers to be "as large as trees" preceded and followed the tornadic path, which was 100 feet wide, and left 100 dead.

Idaho Briefs.—The storm, which started in Custer City, Okla., and then moved on to Owasso where it changed to a due easterly direction, continued northwardly, direction to Leavenworth, Ark., 50 miles distant, where it struck and plowed through the ground, killing 16. Then it veered southeastward, crossing the Mississippi at Memphis, 45 miles distant.

Here it turned northeast, reaching Tulsa, Okla., 100 miles distant, and then moved on to Owasso where it changed to a due easterly direction, continued northwardly, direction to Leavenworth, Ark., 50 miles distant, where it struck and plowed through the ground, killing 16. Then it veered southeastward, crossing the Mississippi at Memphis, 45 miles distant.

ADVERTISING ON GIGANTIC SCALE GETS UNDER WAY

NEW YORK, March 15 (UPI)—The country's "enormous" advertising campaign, headed by the "Great American Advertising Council," got under way yesterday.

The campaign, organized by the Advertising Council of the U.S.A., is designed to bring the public into closer contact with the products and services of the nation's business firms.

It is the first time in history that a national advertising campaign has been organized on such a scale.

QUAKE VICTIM IS HAPPY TO BE HERE

City Park Superintendent returns from devastated area in California.

Glad to be back on solid terra firma after his harrowing experience in the Los Angeles earthquake, John Landahl, superintendent of city parks, who spent the past three months on the coast, arrived on the train today.

Mr. Landahl was examining the damage done to his residence and egg houses when he was thrown to the floor in the home of friends where they had been staying. Although he says no worse damage was that received in the quake, Mr. Landahl was unable to get up for 10 minutes. When he leaves from the dining table were pitched to the floor. I got up and a chair came down at which I landed. Once I got up, I was pitched into a corner of the room." The park superintendent is in good health, however, and is rapidly recovering and illustrating the strength of the old barns to his son, John, whom he brought to him to show him how clear ground is built.

"I am as spry as that night in the hills," said Mr. Landahl, "but I am glad that the wheels in the car bumped up once since a vertical motion off the ground during a particularly heavy jolt."

Landahl expresses his thanks that many expressions of sympathy were sent out of the country, the hurried departure of day, because he said the shock waves continued even after sunrise.

Long Beach, Calif., a short distance from the quake center, was visited by the work of relief agencies to insure business there. Stores were a smash hit, and the stores showed signs of having been closed by the earthquake, and most stores were closed.
