BUSINESS SWINGS UPWARD... Evidence that business is at last beginning to show signs of a revival is contained in a summary of general business conditions just issued by the Federal Reserve board at Washington.

The report points out that there is now apparently an increase in the activities of commodity and security markets. The decline in the production and distribution of commodities late in February and early in March has been halted, and an upswing is taking place, reflected especially in the steel industry...

DISCONTENT FINNS EXPRESSION... The fight at Washington over the recovery program is getting a pretty loud accompaniment back home these days. This accompaniment, which was almost too soft to be heard a short time ago, is rumbling louder now, and no one can form an intelligent opinion about the doings at Washington without taking this swelling rumble into account.

For the things that are being argued at Washington—inflation, devaluation, a minimum wage law, mortgage relief, public works, etc.—and all the rest, it is not to be judged in the cloistered calm of an academy. They must be outlined against their background, and if that background is daily growing darker and more ominous it simply means that it has to be one of the determining factors in the decisions that are made.

Look at the background and what do you see? You see a group of low farmers—and low farmers, ordinarily, are the most peaceable and law-abiding folk in the land—coming within a hair's breadth of hanging a judge, forcing a deputy sheriff to flee the American flag and raising to so much heft generally that 400 soldiers have to come out on the double-quick.

You see a flock of deputy sheriffs hurrying through the hills of Pennsylvania to keep other farmers from taking the law into their own hands. You see farmers' representatives calling for a nation-wide strike in which, to quote one of their officials, farmers will "buy nothing, sell nothing and pay nothing."

You see thousands of school teachers parading the streets of Chicago, with such angry vehemence that police have to club them back into line—teachers who have been paid irregularly for five years and not at all for seven months.

You see 4000 ex-service men arriving in Washington as the advance guard of what they say will be a group of half a million men to demand a cash bonus to relieve their distress.

And, lastly, you find witnesses and members of Congress openly discussing before a Congressional committee the possibility of revolution in the United States.

That, then, is the background for the discussions at Washington. In front of that background, nice theoretical arguments about the advisability of this or the practicability of that become futile. One fact emerges, too big and robust to be overlooked:

Something must be done, it must be done very soon, and it must be something drastic, far-reaching, bold and determined. If we are not to have inflation, minimum wage laws, vast public works programs and so on we must have something else, and the men who oppose those things must offer some pretty concrete suggestions. Furthermore, they will have to do them quickly.

Too had to see the Russians and Japanese arguing over a few railroad cars. We could send a lot of ours that aren't being used.

Lady writes to a health column and protests that she can't sleep after day breaks; has to pull the shades and cover her eyes with a towel. Another thing to do would be to get up and go to work.

Huey Long won't let Louisiana send an exhibit to the Century of Progress. Maybe he's figuring on going himself.

Dietician reports that no matter how you cook spinach, kids are apt to refuse it. Just an old spinach custom.

"Cap and gown" parade planned in Washington by unemployed college graduates. Such a lot of doctors ought to have a prescription that would be good for the country.

One thing's sure, we're not going back to ragged individualism.

Fewer families moved this spring than usual on the annual May 1 "moving day." Lots of them wanted to move, but the mortgage was overruled.
