HOOVER AIRMAIL DEALINGS UNDER SENATORIAL QUIZ

MacCracken Is Arrested Contempt in Holding Back Data

GIVEN HEARING MONDAY

Member of "Little Cabinet" Ordered to Divulge His Contract Secrets

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (CP)—Investigation of Hoover administration airmail contract dealings was thrust upon the senate today while a member of the former president's "little cabinet" was under arrest, charged with refusing to divulge information to a special senate investigating committee.

He was William P. MacCracken, jr., assistant secretary of commerce while Herbert Hoover was in the White House, and since then attorney for a number of airlines that obtained federal mail carrying subsidies.

Technical Question

A technical legal question will be presented when MacCracken appears before the senate Monday to answer charges of contempt of a committee headed by Senator Black, Dem., Ala., investigating airmail subsidies.

The question is whether MacCracken may be forced to reveal secrets between himself as a lawyer and the airline companies whose interests he was advocating.

The senate required MacCracken's arrest yesterday because he refused to submit to the Black committee correspondence which he said was confidential between himself and his client airlines after he retired from the commerce department in 1929.

MacCracken's persistence in his position aroused the anger of the committee. Members of the committee moved promptly to im-

C. OF C. AIMING AT TOLL OUSTER

Elimination of Bridge Fees Listed Foremost Among 1934 Activities

Removal of the rim-to-rim bridge tolls, or reduction in the charges by the state or federal government bargaining to take over the structure, is listed foremost in the tentative program of activities for 1934 by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, it was disclosed today in the monthly program report, published from the office of Newell S. Wight, secretary.

The desired accomplishment has been assigned to the highway committee which has four other principal objectives on its tentative list. These are:

1934 Program

Betterments in the construction of U. S. 93 highway, including improvement of the "loop" to Godwin, Curry-Godwin construction, pavement to the high bridge and oiling in Nevada; improvement on U. S. highway 30, including elimination of dangerous curve north of Filer, widening of bridges, and correcting dangerous crossing over canal between Hansen and Murtaugh; market roads, including Hansen-Rock Creek and Hansen bridge-Eden segments; and forest roads to Porcupine springs, and to a proposed one on Cedar creek, as well as a proposed Idaho-Nevada-Mountain City project.

Other 1934 objectives listed by the chamber body include maintenance of free employment service; blue card check on solicitations; merchandise bureau service; co-operative tourist travel and advertising program; marketing promotion; Rock creek park improvement, and airport improvement services.

CUBA READY TO QUELL REVOLTS

HAVANA, Feb. 3 (CP) — Col. Fulgencio Batista held a heavy force of police and soldiers in barracks today, while the Mendieta government was attempting to solve its critical labor problems, in momentary expectation of a new uprising.

Employes of the Cuba Electric company, incensed at President Mendieta's decision to return the confiscated properties to the company, were believed to be preparing for an immediate strike, which would add turmoil to the threatening situation.

The cabinet, meeting at 9 a. m. to consider the crisis, received the backing of the ABC group, however, against "any proletarian faction."

Roosevelt Scores Politics in Vast Plans for Relief

Advises State Chiefs To Hit Partisan Attempts

FREDERICK A. STORM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (CP)—In forthcoming words President Roosevelt made it clear that his giant recovery organization was for the purpose of recovery only and not politics.

His viewpoint was hammered home in a blunt address to 48 state directors of the national emergency council and was regarded today as a reply to critics who saw in the government's widespread activities the framework of a powerful Democratic machine.

"Hard-Boiled"

The directors, of all shades of political opinion, stood silently in ranks in the executive office of the White House as Mr. Roosevelt expounded the objective of his administration. He capped his remarks with a warning that the directors must be "hard boiled" at the expense of the most powerful political bosses in the land.

When it was all over they applauded vigorously.

Decrying any effort that might turn relief work to political account, self aggrandizement, authority or special credit, the President observed:

No Politics

"This work has nothing to do with partisan politics, nothing at all. A great many of you are Republicans, a good many are Democrats, quite a number do not belong regularly to one party or the other. We are not in the least bit interested in the partisan side of this picture.

"We do want you to be absolutely hard-boiled if you find any local person within your own states who is trying to get political advantage out of the relief of human needs and you will have the backing of this administration 100 per cent. That is the biggest political boss in the United States on the head, in carrying out this general program.

Non-Political Partisanship

"I think it is awfully important for the country to realize that relief, the carrying out of the principles behind the national recovery act, the carrying on of public works and all of the other ramifications, is based on a conception that is far beyond local

FORMER SENATE LEADER PASSES

Hitchcock, One Time Foreign Relations Chairman, Is Taken by Death

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (CP) — Former United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, publisher of the Omaha World-Herald, died today. He was 74, and had been suffering for a week from heart disease.

Death came at 1:05 a. m. at the home which he established here several months ago. At his bedside were his widow, the former Martha Harris of Memphis, Tenn., his daughter, Mrs. Henry Doorly, two grandchildren, Gilbert Doorly and Mrs. Winifred Young, and Mrs. Edward Kauntze, sister of Mrs. Hitchcock.

18 Years in Congress

A member of congress for 18 years, serving in both the house and senate, Hitchcock waged the unsuccessful fight for ratification of the Versailles treaty during Wilson administration when he was chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. His senate career lasted from 1911 to 1923.

He had been in the newspaper business in Omaha for 40 years.

SOVIET PROPOSES HUGE PURCHASES IN U. S. PLANTS

Giant Steel Orders Awaiting Completion of Agreeable Credit Maneuvers

(Copyright, 1934, United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (CP) — Orders from Soviet Union for millions of dollars worth of American steel were dangled before American manufacturers today, awaiting satisfactory credit arrangements.

Huge Orders

A representative of one of the steel companies informed the United Press that Russian interests recently had made inquiries for 1,600 miles of 12-inch steel pipe for oil pipe lines, and for large quantities of steel rails and other railroad equipment.

Huge Orders

The pipe orders would be sufficient to keep American steel pipe manufacturing plants busy on a full time basis throughout 1934, this informant said.

Financing facilities are now under administration consideration, with the prospective formation of a credit corporation of export bank in the District of Columbia, under the aegis of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Credit Needed

Some form of credit assistance will be necessary to get exports from this country to the Soviet Russia started in large volume, but later when reciprocal trade

PAYROLL OF CWA TOTALS $17,585

Weekly Checks Will Be Given Monday to County and Federal Workers

Payments through the CWA to be made Monday in this county for the week ending Thursday evening, will total $17,585.55, it was announced this afternoon by Raymond F. Graves, disbursing officer and secretary of the county committee.

The sum approximates that paid last week, and will compensate 1,050 men and 21 women in the regular force, 75 women in the CWA service division, and owners of 102 teams and 40 trucks.

Employes of both county and federal projects are included in the foregoing, Graves said. County project workers are on a 24-hour week week, while those employed in the federal divisions, which include census, geodetic and tax survey, work 30 hours weekly.

Trucks have displaced teams in gravel hauling, it was explained by Graves. He said the 40 trucks are able to accomplish a greater amount of work more economically and that by using them, an additional amount of money is left to put into man labor.

GERMANS REJECT PARIS PROPOSAL

Nazis Return Unqualified No To French Suggestions On Disarmament

BERLIN, Feb. 3 (CP) — Germany's last note to France, published today, revealed an almost complete deadlock on disarmament.

To a series of proposals by France for solution of the problem, Germany returned an almost unqualified "no."

Germany's note was sent January 19. It was a reply to that of France delivered January 3.

"The possible consequences of the French disarmament plan," said Chancellor Adolf Hitler's note, "raise serious doubts whether solution of the disarmament problem could be found along these lines that would conform to justice and serve as an assurance of peace.

"Regarding the French proposal to effect disarmament in two periods over several years, the question whether discrimination in armaments should be extended over several years is a decisive one for Germany."

Soviet Balloonists Crash Seven Miles to Death

After conquering the stratosphere to a new height of more than 13 miles, three intrepid Soviet balloonists crashed to their deaths from an altitude of seven miles when the gondola of the "Syrius" became detached. Paul Fedosenko (upper left), scientist who set the altitude record, commanded the flight. Andrew Vassenko (lower left), engineer who constructed the gondola, was also among the three victims. Highest Soviet honors were accorded the memory of the dead aeronauts.

DEADLOCK BRINGS NEW TOUHY TRIAL

State Requests Halt In Extradition of John Factor

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (CP) — The state's attorney's office moved today for an early re-trial of kidnaping charges against Roger Touhy and two other Chicago gangsters after an initial attempt ended in a jury disagreement.

To proceed anew, the prosecution was forced to seek a delay of an extradition order against John (Jake the Barber) Factor, its most important witness. A stay of execution of the order removing Factor to England to face swindling charges expired today.

To the demands of Franklin H. Overmeyer, counsel for the British government, that Factor be given into the custody of English officers, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney was prepared to add a new delay to enable Factor to retell his story of having been kidnaped and held for ransom by the defendants.

Sets Feb. 13

The new trial was set for Feb. 13 at the request of the prosecution. Judge Michael Feinberg refused any further delay after William Scott Stewart, defense counsel, pleaded that he would be unready to handle his clients' cases so soon.

A mistrial was declared at 6:20 p. m. yesterday after the jury, reported it was hopelessly deadlocked. It was reported to be split 8 to 4 for conviction. Its deliberations had continued for more than 25 hours.

WEDNESDAY SET FOR ROAD CASE

Suit of the Burley highway district against the Minidoka county commissioners and CWA committee to restrain them from pursuing CWA construction on a road within the Burley district's boundaries, will be given a hearing in district court at Burley Wednesday, at 10 a. m., it was ordered following presentation of arguments before Judge W. A. Babcock here yesterday.

Judge Babcock was called into the case after Judge Jay P. Downing, Pocatello, disqualified himself. S. T. Lowe represents the Burley district, and Hugh A. Baker, former district judge, is attorney for the Minidoka county interests.

Home Loan Help Saves Cabin of War Veteran

ST. PAUL, Feb. 3 (CP)—Word from the Home Owners' Loan corporation in Washington today ended successfully a two months' fight to save the home of Marvin Hansen, war veteran, who walked 470 miles to tell his story.

One day late in November, Hansen appeared in the offices of the loan corporation in St. Paul—A tired, unkempt figure in a worn-out army coat.

Otto Bremer, head of the Minnesota branch, heard his story. Hansen had built his cabin home on an island in the Lake of the Woods, northernmost point in the United States.

He hauled the lumber 60 miles, after giving the company a mortgage.

His veteran's pension was stopped, whereupon the company gave him 40 days to pay or move out.

The company refused to accept the home loan corporation's bonds or to grant more time for payment.

Needing an appraisal—the loan corporation finally found an airplane pilot who dared to fly over snowbound forests and treacherous lake ice.

The appraisal and the approved loan application were sent to Washington in time for a favorable decision.

WILL ROGERS says:

CHICAGO, Ill. — Watched congress open in Washington around noon, then I realized I couldn't do anything about it, so I left, into Chicago at four-thirty. Salt Lake by midnight, with Los Angeles for breakfast. That's rumbling. Got a lot of blind flying by radio beams on account of the snow. I don't know what the ground hog saw, but we didn't even see the ground all day. Have read all the papers in all the cities along the route, and all have had the same front page, big pictures of Sankey and Dillinger (generally both). We don't give our criminals much punishment, but sure give 'em plenty of publicity. Yours,

VIOLENCE LOOMS IN TAXI STRIKE

Gotham Tieup Leaders Worry Over Terrorism Trend of Subordinates

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (CP)—Leaders of the citywide taxi strike, perturbed at an increasing demand for drastic action against cabs still on the streets, admitted today that certain groups of hacklmen were beyond the reins of leadership.

The ire of the strikers was directed mainly at owner-operators who have been reaping a rich harvest since the strike removed 85 per cent of the 16,000 cabs from the streets of the largest taxi using city in the world.

William Paul Gandall, strike leader, told his followers he would withdraw from the movement if violence developed. He said strikers had suggested at meetings that severe measures be taken to enlist independents who have no cause to strike since they collected the disputed 5-cents-a-fare tax for themselves.

20 PUPILS SEE TEACHER SLAIN

Rejected Iowa Suitor Kills Girl as Terror-Stricken Children Watch

HARLAN, Ia., Feb. 3 (CP)—From the lips of 20 children this community pieced together details of the murder of a rural school teacher by her rejected suitor before her classroom.

Miss Margaret Graves, 23, instructor at Monroe township rural school No. 2, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon by Herman Selck, 28-year-old farmer, who then shot himself. Twenty horrified children, the oldest about 12, saw the shootings.

Coroner Herman Bocken said there would not be an inquest. He pronounced the case murder and suicide.

Invades Schoolroom

Miss Graves was teaching her school when the door opened silently, not disturbing the quiet of the little one-room schoolhouse. But without looking around, the children knew from the horrified expression on her face, that something had happened.

While they sat huddled in their seats in fear, they saw Selck stalk down the aisle with a shotgun. Miss Graves screamed and fell to the floor near her desk. Then Selck pushed a shotgun into her back and fired.

The children fled. Parents of those closest at hand called authorities, who found Selck and committed suicide in the school yard.

Friends said Selck and Miss Graves had been "keeping company" for about a year, but that recently Miss Graves had been attempting to discourage the young farmer's attentions.

PRICES ON HOGS CHEER MIDWEST

Government Stimulus Brings Increases Toward "Cost Of Production"

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (CP)—Mounting hog prices today raised the hopes of midwest producers of obtaining "cost of production" within the next two weeks.

These hopes were said to be based on the belief that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has determined upon a course of government action that will cause hog prices above $5 per hundredweight. Purchases of 200,000 hogs for relief purposes during the next 20 days were predicted today.

Prices Jump

With the government in the market yesterday, prices jumped 50 cents from the previous day to the highest since mid-November, $4.50 per hundredweight, and $1.15 higher than the close of 1933. With normal receipts coming, the next three or four weeks, it was hoped top prices would advance well over $5 per hundred pounds.

Although it was considered impossible to calculate the actual cost of production, farmers admitted they could "make a little money" if prices held at present levels or advanced. The average price yesterday was $4.00 per hundredweight.

ADMINISTRATION ACTS TO CHECK CAPITAL INFLOW

CWA LABOR FOR LOCAL AIRPORT NOT AVAILABLE

Officials Declare No Added Workers Can Be Put On New Projects

CWA authorities said today that for the time being, at least, no additional men could be placed on any new project such as the proposed Twin Falls' airport, and that while there was a possibility that the situation might be changed after Feb. 15, there was no assurance at present that this would be the case. This word came from Fletcher Carver, state administrator, this afternoon.

Meanwhile Mayor Duncan McD. Johnston said that he and the members of the city council had not changed their attitude regarding a proposal from the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce that the city take over the landing field and improve it in order to secure CWA funds, unless the Chamber of Commerce could present a plan whereby the proposition would be tax-free, would free the mayor and councilmen from liability, and could overcome the legal grounds against a five-year lease.

Rope Inference

Raymond E. Graves said today that any inference that any men are being deprived of work opportunity on account of non-acceptance of the airport project since the interpretation became the committee is under strict order to commence no new projects until then present ones are completed. Furthermore, he said, im-

ALCORN FACING KIDNAP CHARGE

Sankey Partner Returned to South Dakota to Stand Federal Trial

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (CP)—Gordon Alcorn, former railroad fireman, was taken back to South Dakota today to join his former engineer, Verne Sankey, in facing federal kidnaping charges.

Both men confessed the abduction of Charles Boettcher II, Denver financier. Alcorn's apprehension followed the arrest of Sankey by one day. The pair had been sought for almost a year as suspects in the Boettcher kidnaping as well as four other similar crimes.

Alcorn was taken into custody by the same federal agents who trapped Sankey. Revelations by Miss Helen Mattern, waitress found living with Sankey, led to Alcorn's arrest, agents said.

Admits Participation

Alcorn admitted participation in the Boettcher kidnaping but denied that he was involved in the kidnaping of Haskell Bohn of St. Paul. He also denied having any information in connection with the kidnaping of William Hamm, jr., Edward G. Bremer, of St. Paul, or the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Sankey admitted engineering the Bohn abduction.

Alcorn was shabbily dressed and claimed that his funds were exhausted. In his apartment agents found his wife, Birdie, copies of a note, apparently for use in a second kidnaping of Boettcher were found. The note was said to be in Sankey's handwriting.

HUNT FLOYD FOR EAST ROBBERIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (CP)—"Pretty Boy" Floyd, Oklahoma bandit, today was sought for two bank robberies that occurred within a few hours of one another but several hundred miles apart.

New Jersey authorities thought that one of four bandits who robbed two payroll messengers of $130,000 at Pegns Grove, N. J., yesterday, resembled Floyd.

Massachusetts authorities thought that one of four bandits who looted a bank at Needham, Mass., killing a policeman and wounding three others, likewise resembled Floyd.

Floyd, long a fugitive, was reported in the east recently.

Rapid Return Offers Threat to U. S. Program

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY

(Copyright, 1934, United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (CP)—Means to check the rapid return flow of capital to the United States because of its threat to the successful operation of the American monetary program were studied by administration financial advisers today.

So great is the confidence in the program of the American financial authorities that further devaluation of the gold standard that the huge flow of investment funds to this country has dangled world financial markets and interfered with the administration's effort to "peg" the dollar in foreign markets at 59.06 per cent of its former gold value.

Several billions of dollars worth of capital which sought safety in London last summer from the decline in the dollar, has begun to return to the United States. It is being attracted by the assurance of at-least temporary stability of the dollar, and the new field for investment with the gradual improvement in business conditions.

The administration is anxious that this capital return to America should not be unrestrained, it is understood, for it fears that the stampede places a strain on financial markets and the operation of the Roosevelt recovery program. Initial steps to bring this influx under control, the United Press was told, were the reductions in the New York and the Cleveland federal reserve bank rediscount rates.

Reserves Increased

The cut in these rates and possible reductions in other reserve districts were a move to ease credit, conditions of progress industrial borrowing and at the same time render the American market less attractive to returning capital. It was pointed out that the heavy return flight of capital were mid authoritatively to be [illegible] in operation of the government's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund set up early this week to aid in the support of the dollar at its present gold content of 15 5-21 grains were shrouded in secrecy but its operations so far were understood to have been limited.

Its bid of $35 per ounce for gold served to give the United States broad power to "dictate" world price levels indirectly, that is influence of the gold buying in depreciating the dollar was more than offset by the heavy influx of foreign capital.

Generally speaking capital flowing to this country would cause an advance in the price of the dollar because foreign currencies are transferred into the American unit. Conversely purchase of gold by the United States with dollars would tend to cheapen the supply of dollars and lower the price.

CWA EXTENSION BILL APPROVED

Committee Will Report Plan To Senate as Soon as House Votes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (CP) — The senate appropriations committee today gave its approval to an administration measure appropriating $950,000,000 for federal emergency relief and continuation of the civil works program.

The measure has not been voted upon by the house and will be pushed before the senate as soon as it comes over from the other side of the capitol.

It was estimated that $400,000,000 of the appropriation would be used for CWA, which according to present plans will be closed out May 1.

The $450,000,000 remaining will be used in federal work for the remainder of the present fiscal year, which ends June 30.

The senate committee approved the measure as proposed by the administration. It deleted, however, a house provision declaring that none of the money should be used for any CWA projects under any other department or establishment of the federal government.

The committee felt this would stop work on federal projects now under way and would interfere with highway construction work. The effect would be to limit the expenditure on such projects.

The committee also raised from $100 to $300 the amount which may be spent on purchases not subjected to competitive bidding.

New Car Demands Increase Number of Workers to 1929 Levels

By JOHN OWEN

(Copyright, 1934, United Press)

DAYTON—Spurred by an industrial army of 325,000 workers—100,000 of them recruited from the unemployed of last year, cars are answering automobile factory whistles here as the industry mobilizes to meet the largest new car buying wave in five years.

A United Press survey last week disclosed that orders for 1934 cars already have passed the quarter billion dollar mark.

Spurred by this unexpected demand, executives say in the boom years, the industry is rapidly absorbing its idle labor. Manufacturers report that they are recalling thousands of their former workers every day.

Near 1929 Level

They expect employment figures will approach 1928 and 1929 levels by the end of January.

Assembly line laborers, who have not worked for two and three years, are returning to their old jobs at the factory gate. The welfare burden here and in other Michigan cities is proportionately lighter.

The huge General Motors corporation has a total employment of 33,000 more workers now than at this time last year. The greater part of this gain is in factory workers, "or the 158,000 workers on General Motors payrolls now.

Chevrolet Motor company, largest of the General Motors units, has almost doubled its last year's January payroll. General Manager M. E. Coyle reported that the company has 60,000 employes.

Ford Plants Hum

The Ford Motor company, leading the production parade because of its monthly output—other corporation, is working 40,000 men in the Detroit area alone, most of them on assembly lines. The company has between 1,500 and 3,000 workers in each of ten branch assembly plants scattered throughout the country. Ford workers are turning out $200 cars daily, five days a week.

The Chrysler corporation, slow to get its radically streamlined Chrysler and DeSoto cars into production, has approximately 42,000 men on its payrolls, the majority working on Plymouth and Dodge models. Former Chrysler employes are returning to work as rapidly as officials can fit them into their organization.

Hudson Motor Car company, which employed 4,000 workers in January last year, now has 8,000 men working to fill orders for the new Hudson and Terraplane cars.

agreements can be worked out and arrangements are made for importing a large volume of Russian products, the need for such credits will diminish.

The total value of orders which may be expected immediately from Russia has not been estimated. Neither has an estimate been made of the amount of credit which would be involved.

Would Endorse Loans

The proposed export bank would not extend the credits directly to the Soviet but would endorse certain loans made by other institutions, and assist in financing exporters on a percentage basis of the value of their actual consignments.

In addition to inquiries for steel pipe, rail and railroad equipment, there have been several inquiries in America for airplane motors, gasoline motors of all types, and their accessories. Most of the inquiries were for materials which would be required by the Soviet in the event of war with Japan.

COLLEGIANS GET HELP FROM CWA

Hopkins Arranges Part-Time Positions for 100,000 Needy Students

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (UP)—Relief and Civil Works Administrator Hopkins has arranged to give part-time jobs to 100,000 needy young men and women to enable them to attend colleges and universities during the second semester.

Aid will be provided especially for those who would have been forced out at the end of the first semester because of lack of funds.

The young men and women will be paid $10 to $20 per month for seven to college branches, laboratories and various similar jobs.

Tax Collections Reach $653,000

December tax collections in this county totalled $653,886, it was reported today by Mrs. Cora E. Stevens, county treasurer and ex-officio tax collector.

Of this amount, $496,865 was for current taxes, and $157,021 was for delinquent taxes. The total tax charge was $1,244,760, of which amount one-half was due. Eighty per cent of the due amount was paid.

A year ago in December, the current tax payment was $442,657.

EFFORTS FAIL TO IDENTIFY VICTIM

"Scalping-Murder" Bulks All Idaho Attempts to Name Slain Man

DUBOIS, Idaho, Feb. 3 (UP)—Efforts to identify the body of a man found scalped on the desert near here last week have been in vain, authorities reported today.

For a time it was thought the man might be Edward Ogren, 60, of Boise but a check disclosed that distinguishing marks failed to tally. Ogren left the upper Salmon river country, last June 30 or July on a prospecting trip and since then his daughter, Mrs. H. T. Bohn, has not heard from him.

Ogren had an old scar on one foot and a mangled fingers. No such marks were on the body of the scalped man.

Thelma Todd and John Barrymore in a scene from the Universal production, "Counsellor at Law," which co-stars Bebe Daniels. It opens a three-day run at midnight tonight at Joe-R's Roxy theater.

'Last Round-up' Is Feature At Idaho

With America's favorite radio and stage tune, "The Last Round-Up," as the basis for its story, Paramount's picturization of Zane Grey's novel, "The Border Legion," appropriately entitled "The Last Round-up," starts at the Idaho midnight show tonight.

Randolph Scott, Barbara Fritchie, a newcomer to Hollywood in her first picture, Monte Blue, Fred Kohler and Fuzzy Knight head the cast.

It is the robbery operations in Idaho and Arizona, down in the then-called "border country," about which the story of "The Last Round-Up" is concerned.

The story, an adaptation of Zane Grey's "The Border Legion," gives a vivid account of a band of ruthless outlaws headed by Monte Blue and Fred Kohler.

Brilliant Cast In 'Dinner At Eight'

Twin Falls screen enthusiasts have been hearing about it reading about it, and waiting for it.

Now "Dinner at Eight" will start a three-day run at the Orpheum theater at midnight tonight.

Acclaimed by critics as justly the most talked of and highly received picture yet produced, it presents the greatest array of moviedom's stars — Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery, John and Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlow, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Billie Burke, Madge Evans, Jean Hersholt, Karen Morley, Phillips Holmes, May Robson and Louise Closser Hale.

"Dinner at Eight" is from the famous Ferber-Kaufman play.

The Robert Montgomery and Madge Evans feature, "Fugitive Lovers," will close its run on the regular evening show at the Orpheum tonight. It's an exciting and entertaining a picture as Twin Falls has seen in a long time, and Orpheum patrons last night were enthusiastic. The scene is a transcontinental bus, and Montgomery plays the role of a young escaped convict. Police are on his trail every minute—and the climax is taken from an actual midwest occurrence.

CHAMBER URGES AIRPORT ACTION

Directors Request City Heads To Reconsider Position On Leasing

Resolutions urging that the City of Twin Falls take over the Twin Falls airport were adopted at a meeting of the board of directors of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce yesterday, it was announced today by Newell S. Wright, secretary.

The resolution asks that the city administration reconsider its position in rejecting the proposal.

Text of the statement follows:

Civic Function

"We believe it is the civic function of our city, just as thousands of others are doing, to provide adequate air accommodations so that Twin Falls will be in a position at any time to secure standard passenger and airmail service and become the field cannot be operated on a twelve months basis at the present time.

"Officially assurances of an additional quota of CWA labor and employment will accrue to the community and will be of material assistance in relieving the unemployment situation by supplying increases of income sufficient to between forty and sixty additional families in our city up to summer work commences.

Future Feed

"Twin Falls, in our opinion, will be compelled by necessity within a few years' time, due to the rapid growth of the air transportation business, to supply cash funds for identical purposes which federal funds can now be made available to the city free of charge for the specific purposes.

"The cost of maintenance and operation of the airport can, as has been in all past years since the airport was built, be kept nominal in amount, especially when the improvements now offered are installed, and considering the possibility of meeting maintenance from gate receipts, concessions, and rental charges in years in the future.

We respectfully request the city administration to reconsider its position and do urgently request that the airport be taken over and the project aggressively pursued to the end that this potentially valuable commercial asset may be had and our city kept abreast with other cities of our state and nation in providing air facilities."

CUNNINGHAM, VENZKE MEET IN CLASSIC INDOOR MILE RACE

WORLD'S RECORD MAY BE CRACKED

16,000 Fans Will Jam Garden Hoping to See Mark Shattered

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—More than 16,000 fans will swarm into Madison Square Garden tonight, hoping to see world records shattered at least in the mile, high jump and sprints, when a brilliant aggregation of track and field stars compete in the annual Millrose games.

Featured event of the night will be the Wanamaker mile in which Glenn Cunningham, Kansas flyer, and Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania renew their indoor feud of 1933. It is expected to be strictly a dual race, although Glenn Dawson, Joe Mangan and Frank Crowley are entered.

See New Record

Because of the form which Venzke showed last week at Boston and which Cunningham showed in training, officials of the A. A. U. would not be surprised if Venzke's 4:10 world indoor record is broken. It all depends on what pace Venzke will set, they said. Both are determined to win because a victory for either will give him the Wanamaker trophy. Each has a handle of it.

In the high jump, Walter Marty of Fresno State college, Calif., holder of the outdoor record of 6 feet 8½ inches, meets Cornelius Spitz of the New York university, who set the indoor mark of 6 feet 8½ inches. Both are in excellent shape and trying for a 6' 9" mark.

Metcalfe Runs

Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, who has broken or equalled every world record from 40 yards to 220, will match strides in the 60-yard invitation sprint with Emmett Toppino, the New Orleans torpedo, twice a Millrose winner, and the only conqueror of Metcalfe in 1933. The indoor mark of 0:06.2 may be clipped.

The Idaho Evening Times also offered two three-month subscriptions to The Times.

Bowling 'em — Over —

with

Fred Stone

Community Gas doesn't work so well on Highway at least, it didn't last night. The Gas team lost two out of three.

Jimmie Mullins, our young bowler, had a bad second game, but did you see him turkey out last game?

Craig Coleman used to be out done by his dad, who got four doubles the night before) got himself two turkeys during the night's play. Said Craig: "I guess that'll hold dad!"

Campbell, at some time or other, must have worked in a telegraph office . . . his games were full of dashes. That's bad, Camie.

Bill McDonald, at leadoff for Highway, had quite a lot of trouble hitting the head pin. But so did the rest of 'em, Bill.

Charley Brueggemann had a bad first game but he came back with a good second . . . high man, both teams, 192.

Harry Beam remarked: "Some of you guys may get larger scores, but gals, see, you get more consistent." He bowled 167, 166, 167.

Ted Emerick had the old arm working, starting with a turkey and then sparing along to high score first game and also high man for the team. Ted hasn't always got the edge.

By the way, did you see that turkey that George Hof started with? The only trouble was that his "turkey" was blown, and they don't help too much, eh George?

HIGHWAY TAKES TWO PIN GAMES

Highway bowlers annexed two out of three games last night against Community Gas in the winter bowling league.

Stone's 559 was high three-game, and Emerick's 531 topped Highway.

BRUINETTES WIN AGAINST FILER

Twin Falls Girls Take Fast Basketball Game From Visiting Sextet

Playing a swift brand of basketball, the Brunettes of Twin Falls high school turned back Filer girls here last night, 30 to 23.

Outcome of the tilt hung in the balance even during the closing minutes as Filer's determined maidens battled in an attempt to overcome the margin rolled up by Coach Dorothy Cole's sextet.

Lead at Half

Twin Falls held a 13 to 5 lead at the half.

Lineups: Filer — F. Cammack and Rich, forwards; Allen and H. Levcke, centers; Musser and L. Cammack, guards. Twin Falls — Hinkle and Handy, forwards; Savage and Ebelhiter, centers; York and Lawrence, guards.

Substitutions: Filer — Moore, H. Levcke and Potter. Twin Falls — Hayden, Mackey, Colwell and Thomas.

YANKEE NETMEN DRAW CANADIANS

Davis Cup Tennis Team Will Play Northern Neighbors In Opening Round

LONDON, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—The United States Davis cup tennis team will meet Canada in the opening round of the North American zone this year, it was determined in the draw conducted yesterday.

Mexico, the third nation challenging in the North American zone, drew a bye and will play the winner of the United States-Canada tie.

The European zone was drawn as follows: Hyes — Czechoslovakia, New Zealand and Italy; first round — Switzerland vs. India, France vs. Austria; bye — Germany, Australia and Japan.

Peru and Brazil were the only nations listed for the South American zone. The winner of that tie will play the North American zone victor. That winner will meet the European zone champion to determine the challenger for the trophy now held by England.

The field of nations now listed for the challenge totals 25.

Hansen Wins From Hazelton Quintet

HANSEN, Feb. 3 (Special)—Hansen forged into a closing period lead here last night to defeat Hazelton boys, 29 to 20, in Class B south side conference game.

Hazelton held the lead in the first quarter and at the half.

Hansen sophomore won the preliminary from the Hansen boys, 22 to 18.

OAKLEY DEFEATS JEROME QUINTET

JEROME, Feb. 3 (Special) — Oakley high school's basketeers defeated Jerome boys here last night, 28 to 12.

Jerome, unable to click into effective scoring drives, lagged at the half by 18 to 6.

In preliminary junior high tilts, Jerome boys won from Eden reserves and the Eden girls defeated junior high maidens of Jerome.

KING OF THE ROARING ROAD

Announcer Pulls 'Boner' But Tony Wins Anyway

BY JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (U.P.)—The ink is drying today on the duplex decision," another goofy chapter in the book of boxing blunders that may rank in heal-shouting history with the memorable Chicago "long count."

This double-barreled verdict was rendered last night after the 12-round bout in which Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, beat Chick Locatelli of Italy for the second time in six weeks.

Nearly 9,000 fans in Madison Square Garden heard ancient Joe Humphries announce the decision was a "draw."

About 15 minutes later, after Canzoneri and Locatelli were in their dressing rooms and after a pair of curtain-droppers had boxed three rounds, Uncle Joe again strode to the center of the ring and announced, clearly and distinctly, that Canzoneri was the "winnah."

The fans were nonplussed. They booed lustily—not at Canzoneri's victory—but at the official-boner.

The error was explained like this. In collecting the judges' ballots, Humphries glanced at the Goldberg's slip and saw the first words "contest draw." Without reading further, he picked up the slip of the other judge, Leach Cross, who voted for Canzoneri. This made a disagreement. So he called upon Referee Willie Lewis, who voted for a draw.

Unfortunately Judge Goldberg had filled out his slip as follows: "Contest draw — Canzoneri doing the best work in his winning rounds. Canzoneri wins."

Canzoneri was electrified in his dressing room. He turned handsprings. He had intended to retire unless he won. But the changed decision instead made him the undisputed challenger for Barney Ross' lightweight crown.

WAHL, RANDALL ON FIGHT CARD

In addition to the "natural" rematch between Kid Cannon, Richfield, and Mark Jensen, Brigham City, Thursday's Legion fight card will offer a fast semi-final bout between Sammy Wuhl, 118, Twin Falls, and Buddy Randall, 118, Nampa, Matchmaker Bill Child announced today.

Randall won a decision over Sammy last night at Pocatello, and the bout here will be a grudge affair to eyen the count, Child said.

The six round special event lists a pair of heavyweights, Jim Brown, Jerome, 190, will tackle Floyd Finnell, 186, Twin Falls.

Lee Cazier, Filer, fights Nasario Mendoza, Burley, in the four round preliminary. A four round curtain raiser will start the show at 8:30 p. m.

BY GEORGE H. BEALE

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Feb. 3 (U.P.)—Willie Cox, Brooklyn, N. Y., golf pro, the home stretch of the $7,500 Agua Caliente golf tournament today, grasping a one-stroke lead that he built up in three sparkling rounds of play, two via the par-par route.

He entered the final round with a 216 total that placed him within ready reach of $1,500 first prize money.

Crowding the New Yorker's heels, however, was a Los Angeles rival, Willie Hunter, who nearly a decade ago was crowned British amateur champion. Hunter, long since turned professional, all but matched Cox's start of 69-70-71 with a score reading 71-70-70—211.

Consistent Golf

Cox and Hunter were showing the most consistent brand of play in the route already traveled. Their performance, however, indicated an advantage for Hunter who the past two days has bettered par by one stroke while Cox has slipped a stroke in each of his three journeys around.

Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Ky Laffoon, of Denver, at the last leg checked with 217 each.

Of this trio, the brilliant young Denver pro displayed the most sensational golf. Yesterday, he finished by shooting by scoring a hole in one on the 105-yard par-three ninth, the only ace of the tournament to date. The shot, engineered with a No. 8 spoon, enabled him to round out the day's play with a 69, two under par.

Castleford Trims Buhl Town Squad

CASTLEFORD, Feb. 3 (Special)—Castleford Mercantile defeated Buhl town team here Thursday night, 32 to 28.

George Black, new forward for the Mercantile quintet, was high point man with 12.

The Mercantile team and the Castleford women's town squad will meet Wendell town teams at Wendell Tuesday night, and will invade Filer for a double program there next Thursday night.

Lineups and points scored, Castleford-Buhl:

Buhl—Mullens 1, Gibbs 4, forwards; Goldsmith 6, centers; Harvey 2, Thurman, 7, guards. Substitutions—Meyers 2, Dey 4.

Castleford—G. Black 12, Thompson 3, forwards; Long 2, centers; P. Lewis 5, Ulrich 10, guards.

Paul Cage Teams Turn Back Declo

PAUL, Feb. 3 (Special)—Invading Declo boys' and girls' basketball teams fell victim here last night to the local high school quintets.

Paul's girls, in a close and fast game, won by 29 to 25.

Paul's varsity quintet defeated Declo boys by 31 to 20.

HAILEY CAGE SQUADS WIN IN THREE GAMES

HAILEY, Feb. 3 (Special) — Hailey cage teams won three games here last night.

Hailey "midgets" conquered Wendell midgets in the opener, 17 to 7. Hailey girls won a conference game from Bellevue, 26 to 20, and Hailey boys also annexed a conference win from Bellevue boys, 20 to 16.

GUY NELSON WINS KAYO IN POCATELLO BATTLE

POCATELLO, Feb. 3 (Special) — Guy Nelson, 157, Twin Falls, won a technical knockout in the fourth round here last night against Les Berry, 158, Emmett. Jack Randall, Nampa, won a six round decision over Sammy Wuhl, Twin Falls.

VICTORY PETRONS WIN IN NOON DO-NUT PLAY

With a score of 9 to 7 the Victors defeated the Mavericks, and the Pythons beat the Panthers 12 to 1 in the noon do-nut league yesterday.

SMALLPOX AT KNULL

KNULL, Feb. 3 (Special) — The A. Waddell and W. Fender homes are quarantined for smallpox. One case, however, is in a very light form.

BOWLS RECORD

Toppling the pins for a three game series of 775, Joan Hadkha, above, set a new world record in a recent spectacular bowling performance at Cleveland, O. Her score topped the previous record of 758, set in 1927 by Mrs. Floretta D. McCutcheon.

BRUINS CAPTURE PIRATE THRILLER

Free Toss in Closing Moments Of Game Gives Twin Falls Win Over Rupert

RUPERT, Feb. 3 (Special)—A free throw made by Twin Falls in the closing moments of play handed the Bruins a thrilling 16 to 15 victory here last night over the Pirates of Rupert high school.

The score was deadlocked at 15 to 15 with less than two minutes to play. The Bruin free throw broke the tie and gave Coach R. V. Jones' quintet its second win over Coach Ed Lacy's boys.

Twin Falls led by 6 to 4 at half time.

In the preliminary game, Malta high school overwhelmed Rupert sophomores, 34 to 3.

Varsity lineups: Twin Falls — Givens and Bates, forwards; Lovina, center; Eaton and Taylor, guards. Rupert—Craven and Keasinger, forwards; S. Whitley, center; Newcomb and Walker, guards. Substitutions: Twin Falls—Wells. Rupert—Gardner, D. Whitley.

MURTAUGH TAKES TWIN VICTORIES

MURTAUGH, Feb. 3 (Special) —Murtaugh repelled the challenge of two Castleford teams here last night in Class B south side conference frays.

The Murtaugh girls, displaying an eagle eye for the basket and fine floorwork, defeated Castleford girls, 50 to 22. The Murtaugh maidens, behind by 22 to 20 at the half, held Castleford scorelcss and proceeded to register 30 points in the second half.

Murtaugh boys trimmed Castleford, 35 to 20, in the second game on the twin bill. The locals were in the lead throughout.

Heyburn Hoopsters Nip Albion, 29-16

HEYBURN, Feb. 3 (Special)—Heyburn maintained its Minidoka subdistrict leadership in Class B ranks here last night by defeating Albion 29 to 16.

The local quintet hung up a 10 to 7 margin at the close of the opening quarter, and were in the lead by 19 to 9 at half time.

Albion sophomores won the *opener from Heyburn underclass*men, 15 to 12.

California Picked To Beat Stanford

BERKELEY, Cal., Feb. 3 (U.P.)—The University of California basketball team, southern division leaders, were early favorites today to defeat the Stanford five in their important conference clash tonight. Stanford, with victories over U. S. C. and U. S. F. in recent games, was expected to give the California giants a hard fight.

Wildcats Drop Second Clash Of Season to Bobcat Cage Squad

BURLEY, Feb. 3 (Special) — Burley high school registered its second win of the season over Filer high school boys' team here last night. Final score was 26 to 19.

Filer worked into a first quarter lead, holding a 6 to 1 margin at the close of the period. Burley came back to tally an 11 to 3 count in its own favor at the half, and topped Filer 18 to 13 at the third quarter.

Burley sophomores won a 24 to 8 victory in the preliminary game on the program.

VANDALS CLASH AGAINST W. S. C.

Idaho Victory at Moscow Will Lift Fox Quintet from Northern Cellar

MOSCOW, Feb. 3 (Special) — University of Idaho and Washington State college meet in the Memorial gymnasium here tonight in the second tilt of their four-game basketball series. The Vandals defeated the Cougars 34-28 in the opening round at Pullman Jan. 20.

Out of Cellar

A Vandal victory Saturday night will lift the Idaho Fox's crew out of the northern division cellar at Washington State's expense.

The visiting Cougars will probably line up with Johnson and McPhee at forward; Houston, center; and Scott and Wells, guards.

Four starting berths in the Idaho lineup are pretty well clinched for tonight. Big Harold Klumb will start at one forward, Howard Gramler at center, and Wes Geraghty and Merle Flake at the guards. A four-way fight for the nod at the other forward among Vic Warner, Horton Herring, Bill Hutchinson and Glenn Nastund won't be decided until game time.

Glenns Ferry Is Shoshone Victor

SHOSHONE, Feb. 3 (Special) — Glenns Ferry invaded the local floor last night and conquered Shoshone boys and girls.

The Glenns Ferry maidens won the opening tilt, 36 to 22. Glenns Ferry boys defeated Shoshone boys, 23 to 21.

In the first tilt, the visiting girls held a clean margin throughout. The boys' clash, however, was a nip and tuck affair that found each team threatening to win. A basket in the closing seconds of play won for the visitors.

Eden Trounces Hollister Five

HOLLISTER, Feb. 3 (Special) — A smoothly working Eden high school boys' cage team trounced Hollister boys here last night, 45 to 4.

Eden's passing and teamwork was too much for Hollister to overcome, and the visitors chalked up a 29 to 2 count at the half.

POLITICAL BEE

Premature arrival of spring and summer weather has brought out the political bees, among other things.

They are buzzing in unexpected places, permitting their subjects to enjoy the pleasant glow of transient glory in the political limelight.

Nothing is so satisfactory to friends of the politically ambitious than to drag the latter out into the public gaze for a time and see what the public reaction is. This is known as sending up trial balloons. It is a harmless pastime, for if nothing happens, no one's feelings have been hurt, it has cost nothing and has brought pleasure to a few.

On the other hand, this parading of possibilities is calculated to stir men's ambitions, test their strength, and not infrequently brings favorable results.

It must not be forgotten that at the bottom of the career of every office-holder there was some occasion when he was first "brought out."

With the annual Lincoln day banquet of the Republicans scheduled for Boise soon, renewed interest in candidacies is developing among the confused leadership, and there is gossip going the rounds as to whom shall be sacrificed.

From sundry sources there is a constant flow of propaganda connecting the name of Frank R. Stephan, Twin Falls attorney, and former attorney-general, with the position of governor on the Republican ticket. No one pretends to say what are his private ideas regarding the matter.

Then there is recurring mention of the name of Henry C. Dworshak, Burley publisher, as a likely candidate on the Republican ticket for the position of congressman. This would be quite a step for Henry for he has not previously been honored with public office, but it does not deter mention of his name.

And there are many other such mentions being made. Burton L. French, defeated congressman in the first district, is said to be restless out of the halls of congress; Senator Callahan from northern Idaho, is looked upon as a possible successor to Borah, and Wesley Holden of Idaho Falls, defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination in the last primary, still manages to keep his name in the papers.

Some of the aspirants are victims of the political bee; others are nursing secret ambitions that it may light upon them next. This is a political year . . . from now on we shall hear much regarding possibilities. Names mentioned now may be important ones later, or alas, they may never get beyond the mentionable stage. That is the tragedy of politics.

A TEMPORARY PLAN

It is somewhat reassuring to hear Assistant Secretary Tugwell telling a Cincinnati audience that the present administration measures to curtail agricultural and industrial production are purely temporary.

One of the contradictory features of the administration's revival program has been the fact that the nation's productive capacity has been retarded. The production of food-stuffs has been cut down in a land where many people do not get enough to eat; factory production has been cut down in a land where an almost infinite variety and quantity of factory products are needed badly.

As a method of meeting an emergency, such a scheme may be wise and effective. As a long-range program, however, it would suffer from overwhelming contradictions.

It is good to get this reassurance that the administration realizes the fact.

BETTER TO STAY HOME

It would be a good thing if men who want jobs could be warned not to go to Detroit to find them.

The auto trade is reviving marvellously this winter, and employment in the Detroit area is picking up at an amazing rate. It is to be hoped, however that this will not cause a great influx of job-hunters to Detroit.

Manufacturers in the area point out that there still is a vast reservoir of unemployed men in and around Detroit. In almost every case, manufacturers are giving preference to these men in handing out jobs.

The man who picks up and moves to Detroit in the hope of cashing in on the auto trade revival is apt to get a very painful disappointment.

Burglars broke into the Boston auto show and stole the whole state police exhibit. A check-up is being made to see if any police are missing, also.

Dillinger the bandit, supposes he'll soon learn his business doesn't pay. But then it will be too late to do him any good.

Garlic is recommended for colds. You eat the garlic so that the persons with a cold will keep away from you.

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as GINA DEFALCO and DEREK BLISS, but Lin ever seems to be long together. Gypsy keeps her job teaching in a settlement school.

Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. Another problem is Tom's jealousy of wealthy MARIO DEFALCO, who once asked Gypsy to marry him and whom they meet at the Blisses' home.

When the doctor tells Gypsy she is to have a baby she gives up her job. Summer comes on and is intensely hot. Gypsy and Tom move to a cottage on Long Island owned by a friend.

Life makes an unexpected call at the cottage. She seems restless and discontented. And for the first time Gypsy is sorry for her increase of coming her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

THE summer waned all too swiftly. Blue days, golden days there were in August, when Gypsy flung her arms aloft for sheer joy in living; when there was not a cloud in the sky; when the borders blazed with phlox and larkspur and zinnias; when the nights were drenched with dew and you wakened to cool, scented, blowy mornings.

There never was such a summer. The Morells came over from Blue Hills in the shabby car and there were picnics on the grass under the Baden apple trees. Steaks were broiled over the crude outdoor oven. Tom rushed home early, sailing in the luxury of his own time and fig tree, and there were two wonderful weeks when he was home altogether. The corn ripened under the sun along the highways. The fruit hung heavy on the trees. Hay was stacked in golden tents in the fields. And on one gorgeous day in late September Gypsy's child was born. She had been rushed to the city hospital the night before. For 10 long hours she had writhed in pain, digging her nails into her flesh, trying to stifle the cries that were wrung from her. At 3 o'clock the baby's wail sounded and the watching young husband, pacing the corridor outside, sagged against the distempered walls in an agony of relief.

"It's over, it's over," he whispered. When they allowed him in to see her an hour later she was lying white and seemingly broken in the narrow bed. Only her eyes were alive, moving alertly in her tanned young face.

"Tommy dear . . . oh, darling!" Tears of weakness ran down her cheeks and his own eyes watered in sympathy.

"Was it so terrible, dearest?" He had her hands in his. His eyes were raving anxiously over her dear, familiar features.

She shut her eyes, on a long sigh. "Let you see the baby?"

"Not yet, honey. The nurse said . . ."

A figure in striped and crackling cambric glided in. "Time's up, Mr. Weaver. This young lady must get some sleep." And he had to go, after a kiss and a whispered admonition.

"She's all right. She's perfectly fine," the doctor told him. "She came through splendidly." But Tom was not comforted. His often mated called him robustly on his grimness; "As if they knew what it was all about," the poor fellow thought whimsically, wincing to think of the long night and Gypsy's smothered cries. But afterward, when they brought the child to him that evening, and he gazed upon him—his own son—his spirits mounted. It was going to be all right—it was going to be all right! He and Gypsy and the baby to follow! Why, that was an unbeatable combination.

"ISN'T he the darlingest . . ?" It was a week later and the baby, a bundle of pink blanket and muslin, with only the top of a rosy head showing, lay on Gypsy's arm. Her curls were freshly brushed, her eyes had the peculiar deep, lambent glow that comes to young mothers just out of the shadowy valley. Tom had eyes only for her.

"Isn't he the sweetest, most adorable . . ." Tom Weaver, you're not paying attention to your son! You're not listening to a word I say."

He grinned at her. "She's a wonder, but humbly, Gyps, do you think he's much to look at right now? I was admiring you. Do you mind?"

"Silly!" She pretended to be annoyed, ignoring the flattery. "He's the most beautiful thing God ever made! Aren't you, precious? Aren't you the most beautiful thing God ever made? Look at his little hands, Tommy. Marvelous!"

"Your mother says he's like the Glynns," said Tom slyly. "But I say he's the living image of my Great Uncle Tobias."

Gypsy looked up quickly, to say with pride, "Why, Tommy, he looks like no one else in the world but you. How could anyone say he looks like Uncle Tobias! Dreadful fat old man!"

Tom roared, delighted at the way she had flown to the bait. Of course David Morell Weaver was the very image of his father! Of course he was handsome!

"You're the most extraordinary girl . . . Tom murmured. "I'm sure your pals were just a kid, dancing, playing around. And now you're a full-fledged parent, bristles and everything."

"You stop teasing me," Gypsy told him with dignity. "I am now a full-time mother, with no sense of humor where my child is concerned."

The McKinnons had returned from Minnesota during the early part of Gypsy's hospital sojourn, so it was to the apartment instead of to the little house that the young Weavers brought David Morell.

They arrived there one brisk October morning, squired by a slow, plump, talkative Indiana Swede who had been recommended by Doctor McGuire as a practical nurse. And immediately the tempo of life changed. The hospital had been dull—Gypsy had looked forward to coming home—but at least the routine had been precise and orderly. The baby had gone back to his nursery after every feeding and the young mother had known nothing of the routine of baths, diapers and airings.

Now everything was different. Mrs. Burby was inefficient though amiable. Gypsy's own room was a welter of powder cans, safety pins, folded small garments and a bassinette which seemed to overshadow everything else. The kitchen was never tidy. There was always a boiling container on the stove. There were potatoes, half of them peeled, in the sink. There were rags, towels, soiled dishes everywhere.

AT the end of the second week of this, Gypsy's patience broke. She said desperately, "I can't stand it any longer, Tom. You'll have to go down to an agency and get a maid. I'm strong enough to bath baby myself now. We'll let her go in the morning."

But she looked about her in despair the morning of Mrs. Burby's departure.

"I don't know where to begin," she said wearily. The living room was dusty, the chairs were all in the wrong places, pictures were awry. There were half dead flowers in the blue vase. The kitchen was piled high with soiled clothes, week-old newspapers. There were crumbs on stove and sink. The coffee pot, with a scruff of grounds on spout and lid, stood on the window sill.

It was the first morning Gypsy had got out of bed before breakfast, under doctor's orders. Now she donned one of her old summer prints and, having restored herself that the baby was warm and wasn't in a draft, she attacked the kitchen.

Wasn't Tom coming back? What's he have to battle with this disorder all day? She began to regret having let Mrs. Burby go, as wave after wave of weakness swept over her. But her spirit was valiant. She filled the dishpan with warm soapy water and stubbornly attacked the discouraging task. She had cracked the cups and saucers in the dishdrainer and was beginning to experience the fine flavor of encouragement when she heard a baby ready wail.

She hurried to the baby. "What is it? What does he want, the darling?"

Oh, what an idiot she was! He was used to his bath at precisely this hour. Mrs. Burby had impressed on her the importance of doing the same thing at the same time for David. And she had been forgetting.

SHE was not, really, strong enough, but it seemed worth both labor and exhaustion to be the mistress-of-the-dwelling, herself, complaining Mrs. Burby. The first day Gypsy was carried through by sheer force of will and nervous energy. Tom tried sheer agency, but there seemed no one anxious to do cooking and general housework in a family with a brand new baby. At the end of 24 hours young Mrs. Weaver found herself almost regretting the departure of her erstwhile assistant. Her back ached and her feet were on fire. There was everything still to do. Beds were only half made, dinner half prepared. How did young mothers manage without assistance, Gypsy wondered. Was it possible that only a month and a half ago she had been strong, rested, that she had thought housework and cooking amusing?

She was too tired to eat. Tom watched her anxiously as she lay, quite exhausted, on the day bed.

"This can't go on," he said. "I'll bring someone in first thing in the morning. If I have to send her." And now the baby was crying. He had to be changed, fed; his bed had to be made fresh. There were piles of baby garments waiting to be washed.

"It's endless," Gypsy wailed on a long sigh, collapsing into bed. Tom patted her hand, but his young face creased by a frown of worry and bewilderment. Later, as she dozed off, she could hear him clattering inexpertly in the kitchen, dispusing of the dishes.

Next morning she dragged herself out, only half rested. Young David had awakened to the night, of course, for his feeding. A baby's demands were inexorable. Tom scrambled together his own hasty breakfast and Gypsy drank a cup of coffee lifelessly, standing at the kitchen table. She must let everything go now, attend to the baby's bath first. What luxury, she thought longingly, if it would be to sink down to sleep this moment; to sleep the clock around and waken refreshed.

made now)

She went to gather him up, a rosy bundle of babyhood, a few moments later and even her tired eyes brightened at the sight of him.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

CWA Work Due for Revolutionary Changes. Explains Delay in Western Homestead Plan. NRA Cushions Decline in Wages, Employment. Wants to Know What Bootleggers Are Doing.

BY PAUL MALLON

(Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon)

WASHINGTON—Even Mr. Roosevelt's most ardent admirers cannot quite stand the CWA.

Administration inner circles greatly grasp their noses now when anyone mentions it. Their descriptions of it run from "mad" to "awful." It has become the common curbstone joke of the capital. Complaints continue to pour in on Mr. Roosevelt's desk. They concern the ridiculous manner in which the idea is being administered by underlings, rather than the craft angle. It is a foregone conclusion that the President will do something further about it.

The new ruling will probably be an order confining CWA work to those who are in actual need of relief.

SYMPTOMS

The President's original plan was to establish the CWA only for those who were on relief rolls. Later, someone and everyone took part in it. That is where the trouble started.

The result is children are running away from high schools to get soft snaps under the CWA. Poor ones who really need the money do not seem to be as successful in getting jobs as those with letters from their senators or congressmen.

Certain steel workers in Pennsylvania quit the Carnegie mills to take softer jobs at more pay under the CWA, until recently, when they were fired.

Negro cooks in the south left the kitchen and started quitting at home for the CWA at $12 per week.

A law school graduate passed his bar examination and got a job here as a PWA lawyer at $250 per month, looking over PWA contracts.

Irate citizens are writing that the CWA workers they observe in their local communities perform their tasks with slow motion picture speed; that personal and political favoritism are shown in selections for positions; that the CWA is becoming a haven for those who do not want to work, as well as those in need.

THEORY

One of the brain trust boys who thunders on the left recently made a trip to New England. He was appointed by an irritated commerce man to "go out and tell the brain trusters:

"I am trying to be patient with all these new-fangled ideas, but would you please tell me why it is necessary for CWA workers to take up the leaves outside of factories that are closed?"

The brain trusters is supposed to have replied:

"We think it might inspire the employers to hire those men."

FARMING

Better yet is the yarn behind the delay in the homesteading plan.

A congressional representative from a western copper state was strong for the plan. This representative went to certain wealthy copper men in New York and painted a bright picture of what a nice thing it would be if they would donate some land so that unemployed miners of the west could go to farming. The government would furnish the money for the construction and outfitting of the farms.

One of the wealthy copper men decided to chip in $5,000 for land purchases. Several others were also persuaded.

Suddenly their western managers started calling on the long distance telephone, suggesting that western copper lands were hardly ideal for farming. In fact, the only crop in the particular region under discussion is alkali dust and cactus.

The wealthy copper men decided to stop payment on their checks.

PARING?

Such stories have increased the agitation of alarmists who fear that the government is throwing away money beyond recall. They suggest that quite as much good would be accomplished if Messrs. Ickes and Hopkins were permitted to toss away hundred dollar bills from the dome of the capitol.

The fact seems to be that the federal spending program is increasing employment somewhat, but not of needed good. Purchasing power is being artificially created. But the spending is not being as carefully planned and limited as it should be.

You may expect to see Mr. Roosevelt starting paring down shortly.

WAGES

It is now possible to estimate the results of the NRA from the government's own figures.

The codes generally started going into effect last September. Statistics (by Secretary Perkins) show employment then was 74.3 per cent of normal. In October that figure slipped 1.2%; then in November to 72.4; in December to 71.8.

So under the codes employment was reduced 3 from the 74.3 in the first four months of operation.

The second idea of the codes was to improve wages. Statistics (also by Secretary Perkins) show the factory payrolls in September at 57.6; October 57.4; November 53.6, December 53.1.

So under the codes factory payrolls have dropped from 57.6 to 53.1 in four months of operation.

Those figures may be a little too hard on the NRA. They are anticipated for seasonal variations and cannot be denied, but the fact should also be pointed out that industrial production has fallen off in the four months cited.

Production was at a level of 84 per cent of normal in September and was off to 74 in December. You can readily see that the relative decline in employment and wages was less than the decline in production.

Therefore, the NRA seems to have safeguarded wages and employment in some measure during declining production. In other words, it cushioned the decline.

NOTES

If anyone is going to hold the expenditures within bounds, it will have to be Mr. Roosevelt. Congress and the politicians are enjoying the spree.

Some people are getting good out of the CWA. One is Linus Wilson, ex-leader of the bonus army march on Washington. He is telling all his friends that he is getting "three square meals a day" for the first time in some years. Wilson stays at a fort near here where the following reading material is furnished by the government: a series daily newspapers, Harper's, True Romances, Life and Judge, and a prize fight magazine. The selections were obviously made by a narrow-minded official who failed to include the Wall Street Journal.

One CWA man was cashiered for drunkenness, but reinstated on orders from Washington which suggested that relief workers should be punished for violations of the rules, but not fired.

An industrialist has been stirring around town recently calling General Johnson "a sheep in wool's clothing" because Johnson is not proceeding fast enough against code violators.

One government official who dislikes the CWA has suggested privately a new type of employment for it. He would have the CWA make a survey of what bootleggers are doing now. Another idea: organize liquor-hunting squad to ascertain if distillers are putting water in their products or whether it is really as intoxicating as it should be. Considerable purchasing power could thus be created.

HISTORY Of Twin Falls City & County

As Gleaned from Files of the Times.

15 Years Ago

People were turned away from the Christian church last night at both 6:30 and the 7:30 meetings. The first hour was under the leadership of Mrs. C. J. McCormick, giving the first program of Everybody's Early Evening Musicale. The second hour featured "Indiana Night," with an address by Superintendent Blue and the sermon on "Bolshevism" by Pastor W. A. Moore.

C. H. Williams is back from Boise, where he spent some days in connection with preparations for the carrying out of his $28,000 contract with the Jordan Valley Hauling company in the Jordan valley irrigation district.

The owners of the Mutt and Jeff garage say that business has been fine all winter, since the weather has been so good that cars could run regularly, and that means just a certain amount spent on repairs.

27 Years Ago

Arthur Seoval, while freighting some goods to the power plant at Shoshone falls, met with a painful accident Wednesday afternoon. The horses became frightened and started off, throwing Mr. Seoval from his seat. In falling he hit his head on a rock and got a bad cut on a result.

On account of the new rate on flour, the local stores announce they will sell high patent flour for $1 a sack, which will mean a saving of 25 cents.

The next lecture in the Y. M. C. A. course will be given at the school auditorium on Saturday evening. The attraction will be Dr. J. M. Driver, who is pastor of the People's church at Chicago.

Putting God's Kingdom First

Text: Matt. 6:1-34

BY. WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The message that Jesus brought to concerned the Kingdom of God. It was a message for which many in Israel were prepared, for the religious life of Israel was marked by the hope of a coming Messiah and a Messianic kingdom.

Just what was the nature of this Kingdom of God that Jesus came to establish was then, and is now, a matter of controversy. To some it was then, as it is to many today, a Kingdom of truth and righteousness and justice to be established on earth. To others the Kingdom is more remote and spiritual in its nature.

To the latter, its realization in the hearts of men is a force tending to change the world for the better, but the consumation of the Kingdom is not thought of as entirely or material except as earth and heaven may meet in "some far-off divine event."

Into these controversies and critical speculations and interpretations it is not necessary that we should enter in order to profit by the teaching of Jesus concerning the Kingdom. The first step we may put altogether too much of our interest and attention on questions about the Kingdom, while we neglect the realities of the Kingdom itself.

It was precisely this attitude that Jesus rebuked when he reminded those who were saying that the Kingdom of Heaven is "Lo, here" and "Lo, there," that it was a Kingdom within their own hearts.

It is more profitable to consider the characteristics and attributes of the Kingdom, the sort of life lived by its King, and the sort of life and character demanded in its subjects, than to enter into speculations concerning how and when some outward manifestation of the Kingdom is to come.

When we approach the Kingdom of God in this way, these characteristics are marked rather plainly. The Kingdom of God, the King, and His subjects are very definitely distinguished from the kingdoms, kings, and subjects of this world.

The Kingdom of God is a kingdom of the unselfish, of those who are not seeking earthly treasure for themselves, but of those who are seeking the deeper treasures of the Kingdom of Heaven—that is, the treasure of loving character and good deeds and true relationships, the things that neither life nor death can destroy and that are always safe and permanent investments.

The Kingdom of God is a kingdom of those who are sincere and single-minded. It is a kingdom of those who are seeking the light and whose eyes are not blinded by any insincerity or duplicity of mind and heart. It is a kingdom of those who have made their choice very definitely for God against Mammon, and of those who see in life some higher purpose than mere existence or even preservation of the body.

It is a Kingdom, manifestly, of those who have brought into their lives a scale of worths and values somewhat different from that of a selfish and materialistic world; of those who believe that a man's soul is worth a great deal more than could be measured against it even if this were the whole world.

What Jesus came to declare was that this Kingdom of God was for all men capable of accepting it. It was not for the rich nor for the mighty, but now, in the coming of the Savior of men, the poor had the gospel preached to them, and the pure in heart, though lowly, had the privilege of seeing God and entering into His Kingdom.

THE HAAG VORTEX
New Model 34 Has Them ALL
The one low-priced washer with a full sized tub
You'll never know how good and reliable and efficient a moderate priced washer can be until you see the new Haag 34. Here is a machine which will do everything which higher priced washers can do—it washes heavy and light pieces with equal ease and safety. The Haag 34 is a quality washer all the way through. It has a big generous sized tub, available in pressed aluminum or porcelain enamel, as you prefer. It is equipped with the latest features including the new Haag direct drive, all-metal wringer, submerged agitator, etc.
You must see this washer to appreciate it.

Marian Martin Pattern

"SMART AFTERNOON FROCK
Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included."
PATTERN 9778

A woman looks smartest and feels best in a simple tailored frock—like the model sketched today. It's the sort of dress that is appropriate—for—mid-season wear—under a coat, and later without the wrap in smart as can be for street wear. These simple details hold unusual chic—the clever bodice seaming accented by trig buttons, the attractive sleeves, and the collar close-to-the neck fashioned of contrast. A smoosy crepe, satin, faille or sheer wool would be good combined with bengaline or satin for contrast.

Pattern 9778 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards 39 inch fabric and ½ yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

ORDER YOUR COPY OF THE NEW MARIAN MARTIN SPRING PATTERN BOOK — a practical Spring sewing guide, offering stunning models for all occasions for grown-ups, juniors and youngsters, and for the woman who needs slenderizing lines. PRICE OF NEW BOOK, FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to The Idaho Evening Times, Pattern Department.
