PRICES RALLY AT CLOSE

Chicago Board of Trade Is Wild Scene at Height
Of Excitement

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP)—After a frantic, sensational session during which traders fought to unload their holdings on a rapidly falling market, grain prices reacted slightly from seasonal lows on the closing of the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat closed from one and a quarter cents to one and five-eighths cents lower than yesterday's close.

The May close was 78 1/2 cents, off one and five-eighths cents. July wheat closed at 78 1/2, off one and one-half cents and September wheat closed at 79 1/2, off one and one-fourth cents.

Pandemonium Defining
The pandemonium in the wheat pits was defining, when they went out at noon to 77, or three cents under yesterday's close, but strength in the stock market and a rally in cotton quotations had a palliative effect on the gasping grain market.

The pits were thrown into turmoil during the day with the most hectic trading of the year. Prices sank to new low levels for 1934.

Wild scenes approached as pandemonium of last July when wheat skyrocketed to $1.25 a bushel, prevailing at a level of strength in the stock market and a rally in cotton quotations had a palliative effect on the gasping grain market.

Outlaw Calls Him 'Biggest Fool'

"The biggest damn fool I ever saw" was John Dillinger's appraisal of Fred Hunter, inmate, when the officer grasped the muzzle of the desperado's machine gun, prodding him, and pointed it in the air during the fiery Dillinger and an aide made good on Vassar, Ind., police headquarters, in a battle and bullet-proof vests. "Now that I look back on it, maybe I was a damned fool, after all," Dillinger concluded after the raiders' escape.

OIL LEVY BRINGS FIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Agreement for Philippine independence in two or three years to break the tax bill stalemate and to obtain permanent benefits for American agriculture was urged today by Sen. William E. Borah, R., Idaho, former chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Taxation tantamount to embargo on importation of the foreign goods, Borah said.

Inclusion of the coconut oil tax may lead to veto of the revenue measure, Borah said.

Regarding the levy as a breach of faith with the farmers under the Philippine independence pact, Borah said.

"If I had my way I would shorten the time within which they should become independent to two or three years at most," Borah said.

"The importance of maintaining the Idaho production amendment in force was sharply stressed by the senator."

Rev. J. H. Burgess, Boise state chairman, said district organizations throughout the state would be completed by 20,000.

Mr. Burgess, Hillman, and St. Paul, state vice chairmen, went to Moscow and Cedar Grove in the near future to further the program.

Urges One-Year Contracts
Pending Study on Policies

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—President Roosevelt today pointed a way out of the troubled island situation with a suggestion that congress name a commission to study the entire aviation problem during the next year and draft a general government aviation policy.

The President recommended that pending island legislation be revised so that contracts could be awarded for only a year. Meanwhile the proposed commission could complete its investigation and report to congress.

Initial response of leading Republican critics was no more friendly than that to other proposed resolutions in the island situation.

His proposals will be offered immediately in congress by Chairman Kenneth D. McKellar, D., Tenn., of the senate post office committee, and Chairman James M. Mead, D., N. Y., of a similar house committee.

ROUND DELS FEATURE MAJOR LEAGUE OPENING DAY

ACE PITCHERS IN INAUGURAL FILTS

More Than 200,000 Expected To See Opening Glashes In Both Circuits

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Thrilling mound duels were expected to feature opening day of the 1934 major league baseball season. Sixteen major league clubs today start from scratch in the National and American pennant races.

Most managers, seeking a flying start, are expected to throw out more than 200,000 fans were assured of a hot and exciting battle, in addition to the usual ceremonial home-coming of band blarney, flag raising, first-ball throwing, and peanut-hodog-neocorec symphonies.

Send Out
The Red Sox and the Boston Braves were scheduled for a typical opening at Washington yesterday, assisted by President Hoover, but they wanted it out. This left the field in the two circuits intact for today's opening.

The four National league games in particular, promised heated mound competition, with seven of the circuit's top-notch hurlers engaged. In the American league five big-liners pitch.

Huddle at Mound
At New York, the world champion Giants had Carl Hubbell groomed to oppose the Red Sox, while the Yankees had Babe Ruth.

In this circuit, Hubbell, after his amazing 1933 season, stands out as baseball's foremost pitcher and the game's most valuable player. In this circuit, Hubbell, after his amazing 1933 season, stands out as baseball's foremost pitcher and the game's most valuable player.

The clash at Brooklyn was figured to be plenty of action, with the big Ed Brandt of the Braves, against young Leslie Van Houten of the Dodgers. Brandt, a big manager, Casey Stengel, was to coach off him.

Play Starts
Over at St. Louis, Dizzy Dean, ace of the Cardinals, had drawn an opponent that, dependable as a pitcher, Dean is not the pitcher.

In Cincinnati, Tex. Wainwright, who has faced St. Louis in the field, this game was additionally interesting because—Cheney Klein was making his first championship start in a Cub uniform, and the Reds were performing their first time under the colors of their new millionaire owner, Powell Crosley, Jr., and with a new new catcher-manager, Bob O'Farrell.

In the American league, Joe Cappel called upon his first catcher, Earl Whitehill to uphold the laurels of his pennant-winning Senators against Dusty Rhoades at Boston.

Holla Athletics
This Boston encounter was certainly a hot one, with attention being brought to the Senators, whom most of the league have picked to win for the pennant, and the Red Sox who are believed strengthened enough to mount into first division.

A battle of the aces was seen at Chicago, where Stan Jones, probably the oldest pitcher in the majors, taking the mound for the White Sox against 35-year-old Filpo Marberry of the Tigers.

At Philadelphia, Lefty Gomez, one of the Yankees' stars, was opposed to Meritt "Sugar" Cain, who came from last year's start of the Athletics.

Young Omar Hildebrand of the Indians and George Blumenthal of the Browns were figured for a red hot bout at Cleveland.

Madam Dusts Off Glass And Picks New Yorkers

By HENRY McLAUGHLIN
NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—The madam who has been picking up the pieces of the Yanks and Glants are in.

She was Madam Dunbar, speaking Madam Dunbar, the actress of Sixth Avenue, just back from her annual trip to Yuma, Ariz., the madam was in rare good humor as she bustled about her establishment, readying it for opening.

"Yes," she said, dusting off the crystal ball, "the Yanks and Glants are in. And by the way, I am adding a phrenology department. This season, Professor Spiro Judson's name has been on the train. Come here, professor, I want you to meet a pal."

Studied the Noggins
The professor came out from behind a curtain, his head loaded with blueprints of the human noggins. One look at the professor and you knew he had been over the bumps. He laid down his graphs, walked over to the table and began rubbing his head.

"Ahem," he said, "young man, the fundamental phrenology as a system of mental science is that mental phenomena are reducible into the manifestations of a group of separate faculties. The organs of benevolence and firmness are said to be as distinct as the liver and the pancreas."

LEAGUES EN IN EXHIBITION PLAY

National and American Loops Virtually on Par After Training Games

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—On the basis of final returns from exhibition contests between National and American league clubs, the general strength of the two circuits appears virtually on a par.

Of the 25 inter-league games played during the training season, National teams won 48 while American outfits took 46. One result in a tie.

When the new ball, heavier than the one used in the National league in 1933, was adopted for both circuits, there was considerable difference of opinion as to whether it would help National clubs. Apparently it has not hampered them.

Sluggers Do Well
Heavy-hitting clubs—the Cubs, Cardinals and Pirates—made the best National showing. The Cubs won five and lost two against American opposition, while the Cardinals and Pirates each won seven and lost four.

Meanwhile, the Athletics, New York Yankees, St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers, each won four and lost four. The Athletics made the best American record in this general major league comparison, with a 10-4 record.

ECKHARDT LEADS COAST SLUGGERS

Mission Red Bird Starting For New Batting Title as Third Week Opens

Oscar Eckhardt, lumbering Mission Red bird outfielder who has topped Pacific coast league batters for several seasons, was well on his way toward another championship today as the circuit opened its third week.

Eckhardt, a bit off form when the season started, has since the ball over the Seals' ball yard last week to compile a .555 average. His hitting has much to do with the Red's record of five victories in their seven contests with the two new clubs.

However, the records failed to show that Eckhardt had improved in the art of sacrifice hitting. Last year he didn't have any of this variety, but Manager Gabby Street promised him and others that Eckhardt was due to help a mate along the bases with a neat punt now and then.
