WESTERN TEAMS LAG IN RACES EASTERN AMERICAN LOOP

SENATORS' CHIEF GROUND-GAINERS

Washington Profits by Taking Invaders for Eight Wins In Two Weeks

BY THELON WRIGHT
NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Western raids in eastern American league pastures have been going on for upwards of two weeks, and it is now possible to estimate the damage.

The damage has been very slight. Two weeks ago Detroit was atop in the American. Directly below the second-place Yankees were two other western clubs of Cleveland and St. Louis. Today Detroit is not on top, the other western clubs range from fifth place downward.

Senators' Clinch
The head-to-head playing was done by the Washington club. The Senators have played 727 ball—the best in the circuit—since the invasion started. They were fifth, at .500, now they are third, at .541. During the western tour, they have won 8, lost 3; won 2 series and are even with Detroit on the third.

The Yankees, dating from June 8 when they came home and played a six-game series with Cleveland, averaged .602. They have won 9, lost 4; won 2 series, tied one and lost one. Cleveland, on the other hand, has lost 12, won 10; won 1 series and lost 2. The Red Sox have moved into the first division, from fifth in Detroit, to second in the western club left in the upper bracket.

Yesterday the Senators evaded the series with Detroit, 8-6, although they were eight and a half games behind. The 14-10 tie between the single and Travis doubled to the fifth drive in four runs. End Whitlock was out in the sixth but got credit for the win.

New York, going to Cleveland, 9-5, lost a full game to the Senators. The Indians pummeled Detroit in the second, 6-2. The Yankees, for 3 in the first, added 3 of Jimmy Deohang in the 2nd, 3 in the 4th.

St. Louis split with the Athletics in Philadelphia, winning the opener, 7-0, and losing the second, 2-2. Irving Burnes got a homer in the fifth, driving in two others in the sixth. In the eighth Jimmy Fox and Bob Johnson cut loose with homers in the 4th, Johnson's 2nd.

Chicox Dives
The White Sox dived in Boston, 1-0, in a series of exhibitions which Red Sox in the first, 6-3, fanning 3 in a row with 2 on base in the fifth. The White Sox were leading, 4-1, driving Rhodes away in the 9th.

Boston was the only team to lose in the National League, beating the Pirates twice to replace the league leader. The Pirates were 4-1 and 8-7. Banjo Morero's homer hit the left field foul pole, bounced fair, drew another home ahead of him to win the first. Lou Warlick held the Giants to 4 hits, won 4-0. Cincinnati's game on the leaders, St. Louis got behind, leading Brooklyn, 2-0, in the 4th, but lost to the Reds.

The tall, Cincinnati Reds whirled the Phillies, 4-1, in the 7th. Tony Fritter's bowling, Fredrick drove in with a single in the 6th.

We have lived in, and been a part of this community, for over twenty-five years. During that time we have always appreciated the patronage of our customers from the time of the old acetylene-lighted "gasoline-buggies" to the high-powered luxurious autos of today. We have seen the automobile arrive and thrive in this community.

Since we are so well acquainted with the part the automobile plays in the life of our city and farm community, we realize that the 24 to 26 cent price of gasoline is away out of line. Our farmers are not yet receiving a price on the commodities that dictates a higher price on motor fuel—a necessity in their livelihood. Nor are our wage earners receiving a wage commensurate with higher prices.

You probably have noticed that golfers, when they try for extra distance, are likely to get it. This is because the right hand, which delivers the blow, has taken on a downward swing.

HORACE HART

Twin Falls bows today, in reverent tribute to its most venerable citizen, Horace Hart, who would have been one hundred and six years of age in another month. He died peacefully shortly before noon yesterday at the hospital where he had been taken in the hopes of prolonging his unusually long life-span.

Today, press dispatches have informed the people of the entire nation of the passing of this remarkable man, whose daily visits down town here had become commonplace. Life was kind to him, for it permitted him to serve his country with heroism, and to live throughout the most important era in the development of the nation. He was born in the time of Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States, and his life covered the careers of the succeeding twenty-five.

He was in his thirties when Abraham Lincoln was elected President, and cast his first vote for him. He was a Republican, voting that ticket consistently, up until the last presidential election when he joined in supporting Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It is given to but few men to live the remarkable life that was Horace Hart's. He was possessed of an unusual physique, and must have been endowed with a strong will. Most of his faculties were unimpaired, and he was ill but a short time, before death, as it must to all men, came a month before he would have been one hundred and six years of age.

Those who contributed to making his last years pleasant are entitled to the appreciation of his fellow-citizens who marvelled at the tenacity with which he held onto life, and pay special tribute to the veteran of Grand Army of the Republic in honored death.

ONE YEAR OF THE PWA

The nation's greatest effort to create employment through a giant program of public works is now just one year old.

A report on what has been accomplished has just been written by Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes, as public works administrator. It is an admirable report in its candor.

Ickes says frankly that the PWA "has won in many sectors, and lost in others. It has made errors, corrected its mistakes, and doubtless will make more errors, to be corrected in their turn. . . . But, it is a wheelhouse in the recovery team . . . and it is pulling its weight."

Much criticism has come to the PWA, centered on two points: First, that it was slow in getting underway, and that increased employment was not quickly felt; second, that many cities which needed PWA money sums were denied it. So it is good that Ickes now sums up what has been accomplished.

The whole $3,300,000,000 was allotted by Jan. 1, 1934. More than a billion dollars of the fund has actually been paid in cash. Some 16,000 construction projects have been provided for, most of them now under way.

How many men have been given work? Ickes is careful not to say, because he feels that any estimate on that basis would be misleading. You might say, for instance, that two million men had received employment. But if they all worked one week and then were laid off, that wouldn't be much work, after all. So Ickes makes his estimate in hours of work provided. There were "1,418,000,000 hours of honest work at homes; to men on direct construction site employment only to wages who otherwise would have passed those hours in the ranks of the idle."

That means 177,250,000 eight-hour days, or 29,541,666 weeks' work. Or it means 20 weeks' work for nearly a million and a half men. Almost as much again is assured in coming months from allotments already made, and it is further estimated that two hours of indirect work is provided in producing the materials for these jobs for every hour actually put in them directly.

So the PWA administration has provided a vast amount of work, and in the heavy and construction industries chiefly, where it was most needed. In the main, the huge fund seems to have been spent for projects of value to the public, and without administration scandal.

Secretary Ickes is to be congratulated on making a frank, straightforward report on his handling of the huge sum of public money to which he refers as "a public trust."

President Cleveland became famous for his principle that "public office is a public trust." Harold Ickes will gain immortal fame if he can establish a like regard for public money.

Now that Father's day is over, it will be Mother's day the rest of the year.

Funny how the same people who object to brain trusts in Washington would yell if there were a lack of any in their own businesses.

CHAPTER XLII

Bill was sitting at the window, staring out at the falling snow. He did not turn when Donna entered. She crossed the room and slowly began to remove her hat. She said, "I told you a lie tonight, Bill."

"I know you did," he said.

"I know that, too. Why?"

"It didn't occur to me that you would object," she evaded.

"I don't know that I did object. Now you've deliberately tricked me into lying," she said boldly. "That was unbecoming."

"I'm afraid I did it," he rose and came to her. How small she looked and how pale. The healthy bloom of her cheeks and eyes was gone. Her features looked pinched and tense. There were shadows under her eyes and a pathetic quiver about her lips that made his heart ache.

"Because—because I could see—and you could not—that I was having nothing—nothing could ever make you doubt me again. I wanted to see—to see if you would believe me."

"You're a liar," he said.

"You're a liar," she said.

"You're a liar," he said.

"You're a liar," she said.

AIR WASHINGTON—There is hardly a man on the inside at the war department who does not believe that General Foulis has been given unbecomingly rough treatment by the house military committee.

They feel generally that the case has more behind it than a simple effort to improve justice.

For one thing, Foulis has always acted rather independently in his congressional life. He made no effort to play politics with them, as most government officials do. He even criticized this same house committee once because it did try some log-rolling in the selection of a certain air field. In fact, he blocked the committee's efforts.

That circumstance certainly did not spare the rot when it had a chance to fly him.

POLITICS

You can never make war department men believe that the committee rendered a free non-political judgment. All the Democratic efforts to enter the main will be an effort to get the committee to render a free non-political judgment. All the Democratic efforts to enter the main will be an effort to get the committee to render a free non-political judgment.

Beer Lovers Quaff 2,226,800 Gallons In 1st Idaho Year

BOISE, Idaho, June 22 (U.P.)—Idahoans drank 2,226,800 gallons of beer during the first 32 year which ended yesterday, and the state received $12,716,344.

But they acquired a taste for the amber brew and next year's consumption will pour more revenue into state coffers, tax statisticians Miss Edith White said.

"The trend is upward," she remarked.

Gov. C. Ben Ross declared to comment on the first year of Idaho post-prohibition beer results.

MECHANIC SAVES FILM ACTRESSES

Shouted Warning Sends Jean Harlow and Patsy Kelly To Safety

(Copyright, 1934, United Press)
HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (U.P.)—Jean Harlow and Patsy Kelly had a thoughtful mechanic to thank today for saving them from a fatal or serious injury.
A heavy air light suspended on a catwalk over their set broke loose from its moorings while they were performing directly underneath. A warning about sent them scampering to safety and would have been too late had the chain not caught the lamp, halting its fall.
Recovering from their fright the two actresses resumed work.
Two motion notes were re-taken by Hazel Forbes, toothpaste heiress and screen actress, within the last two weeks, her mother disclosed today.
Mrs. Elizabeth Prellowau said, however, that the notes didn't frighten her daughter into leaving for New York. She said no special precautions were taken against kidnapping.
John J. Millard, Mr. Oakley, who has been seriously ill at his home for the past two weeks is reported getting along satisfactorily.
No two notes are marked alike, and even the two sides of each individual animal are different.

Letitia Young, who underwent minor operation, was reported to be recovering rapidly today. She is expected to be released from the hospital within a few days.

Rumors started circulating again when Gloria Swanson and Herbert Marshall sailed to Catalina, W. C. T. U., national lecturer. Marshall reportedly has denied that he and his wife, Edna Best, are on the verge of separation. His Best also refuted at the reports before she left England.

June Vasek's extra days are over. She came something more than a fledgling when she had her first regular contract approved in court, calling for a graduated salary of $700 weekly at the end of seven years. Since she was 17—that was three years ago—June has been knocking around in the extra ranks.

MOTHERS FUSSY, EXPERT CLAIMS

Children's Bureau Says Many Parents Take Job Too Seriously

CHICAGO, June 22 (U.P.)—Miss Grace Abbott, who has resigned as head of the children's bureau in Washington after 17 years, found during her long service that many mothers were too serious about their job of child raising—inclined to be fussy and something of alarmists.
Sometimes, she said, there were crank letters from mothers complaining that "an old maid in Washington couldn't know very much about raising children."
"But in recent years there have been surprisingly few such letters. Maybe mothers are beginning to realize that, after all, their doctor really never had a baby."
Miss Abbott said that "old wives' tales" of caring for children—sanitaphobia and sulphur and molasses—have been generally banished. And mothers have learned that a heaping dose of caustic oil isn't a cure for everything.
Knowledge helps.
"They have realized since grandmothers' time that a little scientific knowledge helps," she said.
The most alarming situation of the present day, she said, is the country's high rate of maternal mortality—16,000 women died of childbirth in the United States last year.
"And about half of these deaths could have been prevented," she declared firmly.
Improper pre-natal care, old-fashioned ideas of attending physicians and communities without proper facilities for confinement cases, she said, were responsible for many of the deaths.

MONKEYS TOPIC BEFORE SAVANTS

Science Meet Informed That Humans Came First in New World

By WENDEL BURCH

BURKLEY, Calif., June 22 (AP)—Men and monkeys drew attention of members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science today.

In the new world, at least, men came before monkey, a report presented to the anthropological section of the association indicated.

Earl W. Count, of San Jose, Calif., State Teachers' college, based his statements on studies of skulls showing that in the case of world monkeys the frontal bone was more "wedged-shaped" than that of primitive man.

These shapes of the frontal structure long has been taken to indicate relatively slight development for species in which it is found.

Doesn't Aid Argument

Count's report gave slight promise of settling the general question of which came first, man or monkey, however, since both monkeys and ancient men of the old world began possess more primitive bone structures than new world animals.

An indication that men and monkeys are at least distant cousins was given by Prof. W. H. Murray, Stanford university, in reviewing the work of J. K. Van Deveren, also of Stanford.

Van Deveren has shown that blood data from human beings behave like those from monkeys when subjected to the lightening action of a certain chemical compound. Likewise, both blood-clots react differently from blood clots of all other animals he tested, including the horse, cow, sheep, goat, dog, cat, guinea-pig, rat, mouse, and chicken.

Mrs. McDonald said he wanted pay for leveling off some land.
