action the moral that crime never pays. To Dillinger it was a warning that he could not afford to ignore.

Dillinger's face had been lifted by means of plastic surgery in an effort to avoid recognition, according to Melvin H. Purvis, the federal government's chief man-hunter in the Chicago area, who directed the ambush.

At the county morgue, however, attendants and police officers said they were sure the outlaw's facial characteristics had not been altered.

It was a good job the surgeon did a terrific job, but I know him the minute I saw him.

Purvis said he was standing in front of a beer tavern a short distance from the neighborhood theater when Dillinger passed him.

Dillinger's suspicious
"He gave me a piercing look," he related. "Just after he went by and was midway of the next building I raised by hand and gave a pronounced signal to my men."

Purvis said the federal men were under orders to take Dillinger alive if possible.

"I thought it impossible he could have a weapon concealed on his person and the plan was to arrest him, disarm him and jail him prisoner."

"However, the men were instructed to take no chances."

Searches for Gun
"Dillinger, becoming suspicious as my men closed in, whirled around. He reached for his pistol.
Four shots were fired. Three took effect."

Purvis said two or three of his men fired but he failed to say which one killed the desperado.

Within seconds after the shooting hundreds of morbidly curious thronged to the scene. The mob grew to thousands. Dillinger's body was lying on the sidewalk near the entrance of the movie theater. He had been shot in the back, and his arms and legs were stretched out.

After his body was hauled in a government automobile to Alexian Brothers hospital, many spectators
—even children—got a ghastly thrill from dipping their shoes in his blood.

The crowd grew for hours longer than the Gold Coast and flavens carrying whole families jamming traffic for 10 blocks around the death scene.

"Shooting of America's No. 1 public enemy, a day of celebration for the federal officers. Chicago police, with their "Dillinger squad" of 40 picked marksmen idling at police headquarters, were not even notified a trap was planned."

Tip Brought Trap
A tip to Melvin Purvis started Dillinger to his death.

Purvis refused to betray the source of his information.

While hunted between Chicago and Washington all day yesterday, Dillinger's hideout was watched by the best "snobs" of the bureau of investigation. Five police from East Chicago, Ind., where Dillinger was killed, accompanied a bank robbery, were summoned to reinforce the agents.

AREA OF DILLINGER'S REIGN

This map shows the area over which John Dillinger and his gang left a trail of death and terror, the line indicating the out-law's path after he shot his way out of a trap in St. Paul. From there he went to visit his father at Maureville, Ind., held up the Warsaw police station, hid out with relatives of John Hamilton, his chief aide, at South Ste. Marie, Mich., and then hunted out of another trap at Little Bohemia lodge, Wis. He was shot to death last night after leaving a Chicago theater.

Dillinger's Terror Reign Covers Brief Time Span

Less than six months ago the leader of the nation's most notorious gang of criminals named John Dillinger the police killing as America's public enemy No. 1.
During that period the Dillinger gang was reputed to have obtained more than $200,000 in a dozen or more middle western bank robberies. At least three police officers were slain by the gang.

Dillinger was born on an indian farm near Mooresville, 31 years ago. His youth was spent in school and doing farm work.
"Bad Company"

He left the farm, where his 70-year-old father still lives, at the age of 20. By his own account he "fell into bad company." His career of crime, so far as police records show, began in the summer of 1924.

Dillinger had a companion waylaid Frank Morgan, 65-year-old grocer, and beat him severely during a robbery attempt. He was arrested, convicted and sentenced to two to 14 years in the Indiana state reformatory.

After serving four years of his sentence he was paroled in 1928.
There was no record of how Dillinger spent his next few months, but in 1929 he was arrested for the robbery of a grocery store in Grovetown, Ind. On July 10, 1929, he was sentenced to six to 10 years in the state prison at Michigan City.

Met Bandit Gang
In the Michigan City prison Dillinger met the men he later was to lead in a bloody campaign of banditry. Among them were John Hamilton, Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark and John Mackley.

Dillinger was paroled from state prison on May, 1933. Four months later he engineered a prison break, which resulted in the freedom of Hamilton, Pierpont, Clark, Mackley and five other convicts.

A week later Dillinger was arrested and jailed in Lima, O., on a bank robbery charge. On the night of Oct. 12 the convicts repaid Dillinger for his efforts in securing their freedom. They murdered Sheriff James Barber in liberating him.

Leader, Pals Captured
Pierpont and Mackley were captured with Dillinger. They were convicted of the murder of Sheriff Barber and sentenced to death. Clark, also captured in Tucson, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

A few days after the Lima slaying the gang launched on a series of daring bank robberies. A reign of terror spread throughout the middle west, centering in Indiana. All police of Indiana were mobilized by the governor.
Three Indiana bankers yielded $50,000. A Racine, Wis., bank was robbed of $10,000. A Chicago bank was looted of $8,700. Police identified Dillinger gangsters as the robbers. Half a dozen other robberies were attributed to the gang.

Second Victim
On Dec. 14 the second victim of the gang, Patrolman William Shaney, was shot to death in Chicago when he attempted to arrest Hamilton. The search for the gang centered in Chicago.
Dillinger and a woman companion shot their way out of a police trap.

The gang next made its appearance in East Chicago, Ind., where the First National bank

TWO RECOVERING AFTER ACCIDENTS

Motorcycle and Auto Mishaps Injure Fred Powers, Mrs.
O. J. Collier

Two patients were recovering here today from serious motor vehicle wrecks which occurred last evening.

Fred Powers, Kimberly, is a patient at the hospital, suffering from a fractured leg sustained when he was thrown from his motorcycle at Main avenue and Fifth street south. Officers who investigated state he hit some poles protruding from a truck parked on the street.

Mrs. O. J. Collier, Harrison street, received first treatment at the office of a physician following an accident on Blue Lagoon boulevard, midway between the city and the rim-to-rim bridge at 7:30 p. m. The car in which Mrs.
Collier was a passenger turned over twice, when it was struck by another machine driven by Mrs.
Roy Dunlap, Turley, according to Earl W. Hill, state traffic officer. The Dunlap car was turned out of the line of traffic to avoid striking a truck parked on the highway, and hit the Collier car, throwing it into the narrow pit, he said.

Idaho Onion Crop

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Farmers in this vicinity are getting ready to harvest a bunch of tons for somebody.

The onion crop this fall is expected to be better than ever. Two long an acre is not an unusual yield with the growers and harvest from 350 to 500 or more hundred sacks from each acre-unit.
Onions are one of the most profitable crops in this vicinity.

Area Criminal
Police described Dillinger as the most dangerous criminal alive.
Orders were issued to shoot him on sight. The gangster, banded after his capture at Tucson, that he never would be captured alive again if given the remotest chance to shoot his way out.

A "legend of daring," cunning, and ruthless cruelty grew up around Dillinger.

Dillinger's cunning and cruelty surpassed that of the infamous Gerald Chapman, officers said.
History records his counterpart,
in a lower degree, in Dick Turpin, English highwayman, and James James, the early American road agent.

U. S. TURNS TO DILLINGER GANG

Department of Justice Shifts Activities to Search For Associates

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)— With John Dillinger dead in a Chicago morgue, federal agents redoubled their efforts today to locate the rest of the gang and all who aided and abetted him in his outlaw career.

Justice department officials said they were trying to find the doctor who performed plastic surgery on Dillinger to help him avoid detection.

Prosecute Helpers
All who ever gave Dillinger refuge or helped him in any way will be prosecuted to the limit of federal authority. Already a doctor in St. Paul has been incarcerated for treating Dillinger for earlier wounds and a dozen other persons have been arrested during the past five months for aiding Dillinger.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the justice department agents who trapped Dillinger, intends to make it so hot for all who assist criminals that they will be forced in virtual isolation. He is starting out by making an example of those who helped Dillinger.

With Dillinger out of the way, federal agents will have time to hunt down any aids close developed during the long hunt for the fleeing outlaw and to go after those who aided him.

Nelson Next
Lester M. Gillis, alias "Baby Face" Nelson, became the "No. 1 public enemy" on the justice department list today. A lieutenant of Dillinger's, he is wanted especially for the killing of Federal Agent W. Carter Dunn in the raid on Dillinger's hideout in Wisconsin two months ago. The government has pointed a reward of $5,000 for capture of Gillis and $25,000 for information leading to his capture dead or alive. He is the only criminal for whom a federal reward now is outstanding.

William Stanley, acting attorney general, said the absence of Homer B. Cummings, said nothing would be done toward distribution of the $50,000 reward for information regarding Dillinger until Cummings' return about Sept. 1.

LOTT, STOEFEEN CAPTURE DAVIS CUP DOUBLES MATCH

BOLSTER YANKEE CHANCES BY WIN

Americans Sweep to Victory Over Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 23 (AP)—American Davis cup hopes were bolstered today when George Lott and Lester Stoeffen defeated Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist of Australia in the first round of the doubles match.

The Americans played magnificent tennis except in the third set when Stoeffen lost control, twice allowing the Australians to break through.

Two to One
The first round match now stands at two matches for the Americans and one for the Australians. Thus the Americans must win both of tomorrow's final singles contests if they are to meet England, the holder of the cup, in the challenge round starting at the weekend.

The Americans gained a winning margin in the first game of the first set by breaking Crawford's service. Three double faults were charged against the Australian No. 4 man in this game. The Americans then concentrated on Crawford who played shakily during the remainder of the set, hounding him with lob and deep drives.

Stoeffen had his speedy service working beautifully, enabling him to win his two services with the loss of but two points. Lott was deadly at the net and his lob forced both of the Australians to remain in deep court territory.

The Americans broke Crawford's service in the third game of the second set to lead 2 games to 1. Two almost unbelievable backhand passing volleys from Stoeffen's racket were responsible for this win.

The Americans went out to a 4-to-2 lead when Lott backed up Stoeffen's service with two beautifully executed low placements.

Lott's service, which twice caught the Australians flat-footed, made it 5 to 3. Quist, playing strongly, made it 5 to 4. The Australians were within one point of breaking Stoeffen's service in the fourth game of the third set, but Lott pulled it out of the fire with two leaping volley kills.

The Australians held a lead in a set for the first time when Quist broke through Stoeffen's service in the fourth game of the third set, to lead, 3 games to 1. Crawford held his own service to lead 4 to 1. Lott held his service at love but Quist's service was unbreakable in the next game, giving the Aussies a 5-2 advantage.

Stoeffen's service was broken again in the eighth and deciding game. The Californian led, all semblance of control in this game.

Used Top Stars
The Australians indicated that they were out for a straight match when they decided to use the regular doubles combination of Crawford and Quist instead of substituting Don Turnbull for the former.

But these hopes appeared definitely shattered from the first because of the poor serving record of Crawford. Crawford, 2 in, world rankings, found his game only in the third set; but in the others he was quite unable to withstand the bombardment of the Americans. Both Quist and Crawford were superior for a day, concentrated on the more famous player.

Lott was the hero of the match. He played with a seemingly perfect command of the ball, rolling off almost countless deep court drives and high-bounding angled shots, was precision itself.

SEALED UP, N. J., July 23 (AP)—Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., beaten by Dorothy Round at Wimbledon several days ago, today began a campaign to reach the quarter-finals of the women's singles title.

Playing in the forty-seventh annual Seabright bowl competition at the Lawn Tennis and Croquet club, Miss Jacobs won her first round match, 6-1, over Thelma Haden of Pasadena, Cal., 6-1, 6-0.

Other three seeded stars in the field advanced but Carolyn Babcock of Los Angeles, seeded No. 2, dropped a set before defeating the Brookline, Mass., Kithen, 6-1, 6-0, 6-0.

Zig-Zag Rabbit Fools Bettors at Dog Races

Bettors at Dog Races

BY HENRY McLEMORE
WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 23 (AP)—An electric rabbit, no life-like it doesn't have the most intelligent greyhound, has been installed at the West Ham stadium, one of London's biggest tracks.

This new mechanical wonder not only zig-zags but also slides of the course to another, it hops exactly like a live rabbit in flight, but at the end of the race poetically sheds its skin for the winning dog pounce on.

Can't Be Won
It has proved immensely popular with the bookmakers. Before its installation, when the dogs chased a rabbit with a one-track mind, it was possible for a man, by intensive research among the most experienced, to average a win every ten.

Stoeffen's service was broken again in the eighth and deciding game. The Californian led, all semblance of control in this game.

BRUNSWICK GETS 10 TO 8 VICTORY

Twin Falls, Team Wins Over Early Laundry Ball Squad

A busy morning that scored seven runs in the third frame for Brunswick, left ballers over for the Early Laundry team, 10 to 8.

Early proved more powerful at the bat, although Brunswick's lead was not in doubt. The Laundrymen collected six sacrifices, Brunswick's seven.

PROS READY FOR P. G. A. TOURNNEY

Open Qualifying Play Tuesday as Sarazen Steams Home to Defend Title

While Sarazen is a slight favorite to retain the title, in spite of his 18-hole lead, the American professional is certainly a fairly wide open affair, with any one of a half-dozen pre-tournament favorites conceding a strong chance. These will probably include Harry Cooper, Tommy Armour, Leo Diegel, Horton Smith, Denny Shute, with perhaps Ky Pafford, Paul Runyan and Tom Crean among the probable betting favorites.

Howard Stores in Feature at Roxy

If RKO-Radio Pictures had secured the stage and screen of the world, it could not have bettered the David Lloyd Taylor production of "Of Human Bondage," which played high favor with the premiere audience at Joe-Ka Roxy last night.

A FILM OF OIL A HUNDRED MILLIONTH OF AN INCH THICK IS SUFFICIENT TO CALM A ROUGH SEA.

BETWEEN THE YEARS
1905 AND 1912,
ABOUT
30,000
ELEPHANTS
WERE KILLED
ANNUALLY.

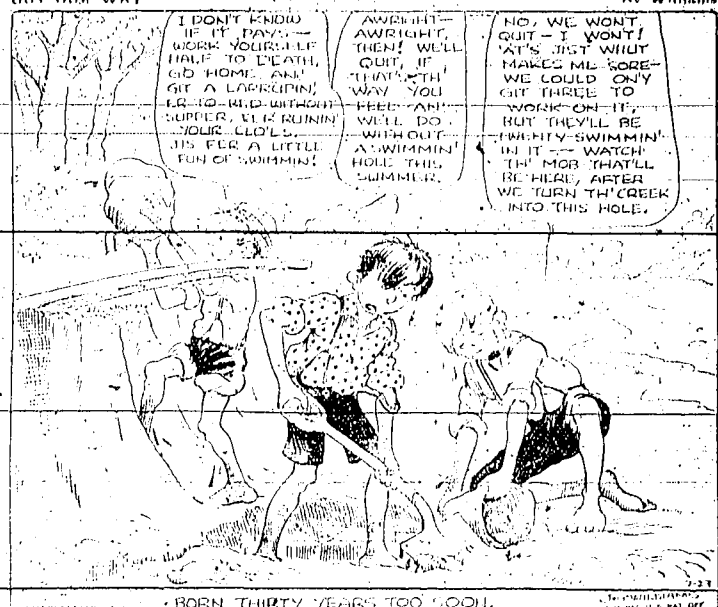

For years, sailors had known that when the cook threw greasy water overboard, the water became calm, but not until the time of Benjamin Franklin did people know why this should be. Franklin reached the conclusion that the oil film on the water lessened the friction of the wind on the surface.

ARMY AIR CORPS EXPANSION URGED

Military Facilities Must Be Made Finest in World, Probers Report

...that the government should establish and maintain its own airplane factories were condemned. Much attention was devoted to the attempt of the army to carry the main figures consisted on the flights were a revelation in establishing that few accidents occurred while actually engaged in this work despite hazardous weather conditions. The report, while finding several losses in the aircraft venture, was full of praise for the morale and effectiveness of the service under adverse conditions.

Significant View
The findings in this report were considered of great significance because the board was appointed at the time of the air mail controversy and largely as a result of that dispute.

The board was unanimous in its recommendations with the exception that James H. Doolittle, noted flier, protested his belief that a separate air service should be established. He joined in the rest of the report, however.

The board was composed of Baker, Maj. Gen. H. A. Drum, Earl T. Compton, George W. Lewis, Brig. Gen. C. E. Kilbourne, Maj. Gen. George S. Sikes, Brig. Gen. Carroll, Brig. Gen. J. W. Galt, Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Paulose, chief of army air corps, Chief of Chamberlain and Maj. Albert B. Brown.

Continuous Policy
Hope was expressed in the report that it might "be accepted as the basis for the development of the army air corps for the next 10 years and thus terminate the continuing question of air mail safety which has been to the detriment of harmonious development and improvement."

The Morgan report (1924) was credited with having set aviation development in the direction of "satisfactory and outstanding progress," adding:

Navy Aviation Landed
In general aviation in the United States leads in the world. Its naval aviation is stronger than that of any other power, and with more financial support its army aviation can be raised to a world position equal to that held by the navy.

Blame for failure of the army to attain higher rank was placed on congress and the direction of the budget which failed to provide the necessary completion of the five-year aircraft program and to coordinate it with a program for procurement of material and personnel.

Balanced Program
As a remedy the report suggested that a balanced program covering all expenditures for military activities should be prepared and coordinated by the war department as part of a plan for improving the entire army including the air corps.

Proposals that the air corps of army and navy be combined in a department of air as a branch of a department of national defense were dismissed with these words: "Through study and analysis of the various European organizations indicate clearly that they accord with conditions and circumstances of their respective countries but have no general application to the United States or Japan, which maintain their air components as integral parts of their army and navy."

Present Set-Up Is at The possibilities of economy in such a consolidation were explored with conclusions that the existing organizations would be lost expensive. Joining the existing organizations with existing military organizations, the committee is convinced that the adoption of any plan along the lines indicated above would be a

...error, jeopardizing the security of the nation in an emergency, and be an unnecessary burden on the taxpayer.

Research on the role aviation will play in the next war led to some interesting comment in the report.

PRaises Lindbergh
WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Capt. Eddie Rick, member, one of America's foremost war aces, paid high tribute to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh during his testimony before the Baker committee.

"The Lindbergh flight caused the birth of hundreds of aviation companies (transport and passenger) financed through the public's interest in aviation by the flight," he testified.

URGES AIRSHIP TESTS
WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Baker committee ignored the question of dirigibles but recommended continued experimentation with non-rigid balloons.

"The committee believes," the report said, "that the experiments made with utilization of small rigid airships as partial substitutes for observation balloons should be continued as well as the proposal for motorizing the observation balloon units."

POWERFUL MOTORS
WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Although Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was one of the 15 witnesses who appeared before the Baker board, the committee mentioned his testimony with three lines in the final report.

They were: "Colonel Lindbergh, in his testimony before the committee, expressed the opinion that we should work to develop engines of 1,500 to 2,000 horsepower."

MITCHELL RAPS "AVIATION BOARD"

Former Army Air Chief Says Unified Force Is Vital to United States

PHILADELPHIA, July 23 (AP)—

The United States is in a "vital" position, according to Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, former army air chief, in a report of government aviation pilot, criticized the report of the war department's special aviation committee as "old stuff."

"It all goes to prove that bureaucracy is still in power in Washington," he said. "There are only two classes of people who are not demanding one air force for the country—those who gain financially by the dual system and those who are so biased by tradition that they cannot conceive any change."

Air Supremacy Vital
"Air supremacy will decide the next war. With Alaska as a base we could dominate the entire world through air power. Alaska is the only base from which we could strike at Japan, and since planes can fly over the Arctic circle, they are not subject to attack from which danger might emanate that we could not reach."

"And yet with all this tremendous potential power within our grasp, we continue to waste money on an army that marches on the body and obsolete battalions and cruisers that will only be a burden during the next war."

CLOUD OF STEAM SEEN AT CRATER

Volcanic-National Park Eyes Phenomenon as Possible Eruption Omen

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Steam clouds reported to be the largest to appear in recent years, have been sighted over Lassen Peak, Center in Lassen Volcanic National park, Cal., according to word received by Arno B. Cammerer, director of the national park service.

According to the Lassen park superintendent, the appearance of unusual activity from the volcano may be the aftermath of a storm. It is believed the high humidity, followed by cold temperatures rapidly condensing the moisture of steam normally escaping from the crater may be responsible for the disturbance.

However, the park ranger naturalists are conducting further studies to determine whether the clouds are forerunners of an eruption, or whether they have been caused by a storm.

LONDON (AP)—Some 100 pilots country entered for the London-Melbourne air marathon in October now are poring over maps, plans of landing grounds, aerial photographs of landmarks, weather charts and other information in preparation for the greatest long-distance race in aviation history.

Two of them, Eric W. Donner, of Ireland, and Francesco Lombardi, of Italy, already have made exploratory flights over the course.
