Adolf Hitler enjoys more power than did Kaiser Wilhelm, or any other monarch of modern times, because he rules as a real autocrat, with no opposition of any sort in the open. He is absolute.

In prewar Germany, though the Kaiser was powerful, he was by title a constitutional monarch. Hitler, like the Kaiser, has a parliament—but it is a one-party affair, a single chamber, which meets infrequently for one purpose—to rubber stamp the approval of acts for which Hitler designs formal parliamentary sanction.

Hitler started out, in his abdication, where the former left off.

By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER
BERLIN, Aug. 4 (UPI)—Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, today worked on a high pressure drive to bring Germans in mass to the polls Aug. 10 to vote Adolf Hitler into office as president-chancellor under his self-selected title of Fuehrer and Reich Chancellor.

Hitler was installed already—and legally—under the broad powers of the Nazi cabinet, and is the most absolute autocrat in civilized world.

But Nazis, realizing doubts at home and abroad as to the (Continued on Page 2, Column 6)

Deputies Guard Trackage Along Roosevelt Path

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 4 (UPI)—Six Deputy sheriffs guarded a stretch of track two-and-one-half miles south of here last night and early today until a special train bearing President Roosevelt and his party passed safely over it at 1 a.m. today.

Sheriff G. G. Miles of Spokane reported he had two men guarding the stretch four days ago when a signalman reported he saw two men leave a boxcar of eight sticks of dynamite and caps alongside the tracks. The dynamite was not connected with a fuse and would not have blown up if the train had passed the spot, he said. Deputies removed the dynamite four days ago.

Sheriff Miles said he had two men stationed at the spot since the dynamite was found and ordered four men to guard the stretch last night when the train passed over.

Railroad officials and officers made "usual" precautions were being taken on the route the presidential train will cover.

(Copyright, 1934, United Press)

PARIS, Aug. 4 (UPI)—The United States and Great Britain were reported today to have been in communication regarding the possibility of naval cooperation in the Pacific in event the 1935 naval conference fails.

Through the reports were not confirmed, they came from informed naval quarters here.

It was said the discussions concerned defense plans from Australia to Alaska, based on the possibility Japan would insist on maintaining its claim to equality, causing the great powers to enter into a building race.

Would Finish Race
The United States, if the agreement were made, would with defense plans in Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands, while Great Britain would proceed with plans to build a second giant navy and air base at Port Darwin, on the Australian continent, and simultaneously complete the great Singapore base.

Presumably both bases would be available to the United States, it was said.

Exact nature of the proposals were withheld, pending conclusion of negotiations between British and American experts at London preparatory to the 1935 conference.

Naval sources said Britain would be glad to cooperate with the United States if this conference proved futile.

LUNATIC HUNTED
IN FARM DEATHS

Escaped Inmate Sought After Fondish Slaying of Aged Pair

WALSHBURG, Colo., Aug. 4 (UPI)—An escaped lunatic, described by authorities as "likely to do anything," was sought today in connection with the fondish murder at their farm home near here of William S. Evans, 71, and his wife, Fannie.

Both of the couple were found yesterday in the yard of their home. Apparently they had been attacked as they slept. Evans' bullet instrument. His wife's body was cut and slashed in many places, indicating she was killed with a hatchet, or perhaps a heavy corn knife.

Police Found

Sheriff Harry Capra organized posse to search for George Scholl, inmate who escaped from the state insane hospital at Pueblo on July 27.

It took with him from the institution a 16-year-old boy, who was working on the Colorado highway highway and returned to the asylum. The boy said School had left him to go to Gardner, Colo., where he said School had relatives.

Authorities deduced from this that School must have been near the scene of the fondish crime.

JUBILEE CHIEFS SIGN FOR SHOW

Largo Touring Carnival Will Appear in City During Celebration

Announcement was made today by Lloyd Young, chairman of the carnival committee of the Magic City Jubilee, that a contract has been closed for the appearance Sept. 5-8 of the Sie Brahma shows.

The show, which has come to town, is a large concern now touring the northwest.

It includes seven riding shows, and a 12-piece band.

Young says that the presence of the Sie Brahma shows here will not interfere with the opportunity of other individuals or groups to have concessions during the jubilee.

However, applications for these will not be received until Aug. 10, he says, and to avoid confusion he asks that requests for permits be deferred until that time.

Committeemen report that merchants are cooperating generously in the plan to convert Main avenue into a jubilee center during the celebration period.

BORAH SUPPORTS BATTLE ON NRA

News in Brief

Readers of the Evening Times are invited to contribute brief news items to this department or the news by telephone. The number is 35.

Wheat Not Involved

"Of course, I presume the government will be more than that this increase in the price of bread is due to the increase in the price of wheat. But I recall that when wheat was low, down to the very bottom, the price of bread was high and we were told that the price of wheat had very little to do with the price of bread."

"I am not in a position to advise you, as an individual, standing alone, to fight this system. Some of the rest of us will do that," Borah concluded.

VICTIMIZED

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (UPI)—E. W. Nestor, Glenns Ferry, Idaho, baker, who said he had been ordered by the NRA to raise bread prices, has been victimized by an impostor, executives of the national bakers' council, national bakery code authority, said today.

Eugene Lind, acting chairman of the authority, said that no deputy authority or administrator has been appointed for Idaho and that no one has been authorized to act for the national authority in that state in any capacity.

Not Warranted, Baker Says To Ruling by NRA

(Editor's note: E. W. Nestor, a baker in Glenns Ferry, Idaho, who has defied the NRA in refusing to increase the price of bread, today told the United Press the following story on the bread situation in that section of Idaho.)

BY E. W. NESTOR

(Contributed to United Press) GLENN'S FERRY, Idaho, Aug. 4 (UPI)—I refer to how to bow to the order of the NRA bakers' code administrators to raise the price of my unsliced bread one cent a pound because I believe conditions don't warrant it.

I have no competition. I am harming no other baker if I sell less than the code figures.

Hits NRA as Bulk

The NRA is the bulk. The idea of someone administrating a blockade of the country from nation from Maine to California to Mexico to the Gulf when they know nothing of local conditions is wrong.

Moreover, they don't know anything about my business. And I don't want anyone telling me how to run my business when they don't know anything about it. None is going to tell me to move about my business. Unsliced bread is the bulk of my sales. I sell about 300 loaves a day in this town of 1,200. Practically my only other sales are about three dozen sliced loaves. People don't buy that kind here.

Hurts No Competitor

My bakery is the only one in a radius of 60 miles of Glenns Ferry. No bread is shipped into the town. Therefore, I am hurting no other baker in keeping the price down.

My customers don't object to the low price. My business probably would not be hurt much if I did raise the price but I don't believe I should be told how to run my business.

When the code administrator told me to raise the price Aug. 1, I said "I have to do a fine if I am to raise the price."

Followed Borah Advice

I wrote Senator Borah, whom I know personally, for advice. While I waited for his answer to my letter, I did raise the price but on his instructions I dropped it back and will leave it there.

If I am prosecuted I'll be more than willing to have Senator Borah as my lawyer.

My business isn't large; I employ only a clerk and a helper but it's my business and I'm going to run it to suit myself, especially where I'm absolutely alone in this territory.

"When in Portland two years ago I laid down the principle of the right of government to regulate and control people of the country well enough so that they are paying the proper price for electricity of all kinds," he said.

"The government can create yards like that. At that time one already had been started on the Colorado river. Since then two other yards have been undertaken, one in the Tennessee valley and the other on the Columbia. The fourth, the St. Lawrence, is going to be started."

Roosevelt commented on other aspects of his social and economic planning program in the Bonneville address.

He enveloped the Pacific northwest in offering the opportunity for a vastly increased population.

"There are many sections of the country as you know, where find man run out or has been put to wrong kind of use," he said. "America is growing. There are many people who are not doing enough for their country and they will have a better chance for themselves and their children. And there are a great many people who have children and need room for growing families."

After the speech the President boarded his special train which will carry him eastward to the national capital.

Indians Dance

On the train passed the border into the state of Washington, several hundred persons were on the observation platform at Arlington, Washington, watching the Indians in full war paint dancing around a large log fire in his honor as the train glided slowly by.

The President watched the scene from a window of his private car. With him were Mrs. Roosevelt, who joined him yesterday in Portland; his son Jamie, who flew to Portland from Wyoming; and his young sons, John and Franklin, who had accompanied their father on his trip from Annapolis through the Panama canal to the Hawaiian Islands, then back to the continental United States.

Clinton P. Smith today commenced suit in claret court seeking divorce from Mrs. Hamra G. Smith, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. He said his wife would "snap, grumble and complain," and quoted her as saying she was too short to spank him in the home than that last year because of diabetes.

The couple married in 1929, and were divorced that year according to the complaint. They resided at Bunker, Nov. 8, 1932, and are the parents of a 16-year-old son, O. C. Hall, attorney for the plaintiff.

Robertson Presses Nomination Effort

John B. Robertson, Democratic congressional aspirant, is home from a week spent in the western part of the district in the interests of his candidacy. He will return there Monday, and will go to Payette later where he will address the state insurance agents' convention that day, and will be back in Boise to talk at a meeting of the Young Democrats that night.

In his contacts this week, and in those made in other parts of the district, he reports that his prospects are increasingly encouraging. He said he intended to spend most of next week in the central portion of the interior in the vigorous effort he is making to win the Democratic nomination for congressman.

BEAN MARKETING AGREEMENT

Hearings to be conducted in Twin Falls commencing Monday, will determine whether or not the Great Northern industry here is to be incorporated in the proposed national set-up, covering all varieties.

The hearing here, and the one at Billings, Mont., Aug. 10, will cover the Great Northern area, and others, at Batavia, N. Y., Saginaw, Mich., Berkeley, Calif., and at Trinidad, Colo., are devoted to the type of beans grown in those localities.

The operation of agreements, for each variety, will be contingent upon final approval of the entire group, the Agricultural Adjustment administration advises.

Following these public hearings, representatives from the five areas will meet in a joint conference at Denver, about Aug. 15, to discuss the possible coordination of all the agreements to make plans for the organization of a national coordinating committee to operate in the event the proposed agreements are finally approved by the secretary of agriculture.

Under the proposed agreements, which vary only enough to make provisions for individual problems of the various areas, the industry board would determine the estimated supply of each variety of beans for the marketing year. Determination of the supply would be based on total stocks held in elevators, in warehouses, by producers on farms, together with the probable production for the year. The industry board also would estimate the amount deemed advisable to market. The difference between the total available and the amount deemed advisable to market would be withdrawn as "surplus." The surplus, if conditions justify, may be returned to the salable percentage. If market conditions do not justify such procedure, the industry board may convert the surplus into by-products, dispose of it in foreign markets, or may hold the surplus until the following year when it may be added to the salable percentage in the event of a crop shortage.

The national coordinating board, provided for in all of the agreements, would coordinate the prices of the different varieties of beans in the different areas in such a manner as to promote an orderly and equitable market movement. When necessary, it could increase the minimum price of any variety of beans.

The regional industry board for California would consist of 13 members, six elected by the producers of beans, six elected by the dealers, and one by the directors of the California Lima Bean Growers association. The regional industry board of the Great Northern area would consist of 11 members, five elected by the producers, five elected by the dealers, and one representing the consumers to be selected by the original ten. In the Michigan area the industry board would consist of seven members, three elected by the producers and three by the dealers, the seventh member representing the consumers, to be selected by the original six. In the New York area the industry board also would consist of seven members, three elected by the producers, three by the dealers, and the seventh by the original six. The Pinto bean area would have 11 members, five elected by the producers and five by the dealers, and the 11th member, neither a dealer nor a producer, to be selected by the original ten.

The national coordinating board for the five regions would consist of two members from each region, one selected by the producer members of the regional industry board, and one selected by the dealer members of the board.

Growers should attend the hearing and familiarize themselves with the proposal which may be vital to the industry here.

MILITARY CONTRAST

When Premier Mussolini decided that he might at any moment be obliged to send troops into Austria, it took him rather less than 24 hours to concentrate four war-strength army divisions, fully equipped and ready for action, along the Austro-Italian border.

When President Roosevelt visited Hawaii, he reviewed the one fully equipped division which the United States army possesses. Nowhere on the mainland could one full division be assembled, without a month or so of preparation, shifting of troops, expanding of skeletonized units, and so forth.

The contrast is an eloquent testimonial to the peaceful prospects which permit the United States to maintain a small army. Every European nation must keep its army on a war footing, ready for action at any time. But we can afford to maintain just one division—and we can keep it on an island 2,000 miles away from the mainland!

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

BIGGIN HIDE TODAY

JANE THOMAS, country girl from New York determined to show her home town, Marburg, that especially when she had been a widow of her life, Any, had been her best friend until now. Howard, Jane's husband, had forced upon him and married Any.

Howard was a business man in a real estate office and soon is making a large income. She has sold her home and moved to a larger house.

Any, when he offers to help the expenses of the separation, Jane takes the baby, named Nancy, promising never to reveal its parentage.

When America enters the World War, Howard enlists and Jane stays over this impending separation, but obliged to play hostess to the men.

Howard leaves for a training camp in Texas, says his wife to see him off.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX

IT was Mrs. Lowe who took charge of the situation. Pretending anxiety over Mrs. Jackson's marriage, she set her and Any both to marketing inquiries. Then she took them back to Any's home, talking all the while of trivialities.

Once there, Any had to be Mary and Mary Jackson put on an apron and helped. "Be nice to be in a kitchen again," she said. "I was getting tired of handling houses and hotels. I may be pretty awkward at first. You were very good to let me come, Any."

"I'm thankful you could come, Any told her. "I couldn't shut up the house and stay with Mother and Father. They love me too much. They're no place to me unless I tell them to me what I am."

And Howard wrote faithfully, even though most of his letters were by necessity very brief. He was well, he said, in spite of heat and hard work. He had passed his tests triumphantly. He was training for the air now. He hoped to get leave for a few days when he had won his wings. He wished he could be back and help in their garden. "I dream about the garden," he wrote.
