TIGERS DEFEAT CARDINALS 3 TO 2 IN 12-FRAME BATTLE

NEW LABOR PACT SUPPORTS A.F.L. 30-HOUR BATTLE

First Triumph for Reduction In Working Time Receives Convention Cheers

AFFECTS 10,000 LABORERS

Elevator Constructors' Union Negotiates Agreement for Shortened Week

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4 (UPI)—A labor leader and a manufacturer traditionally on opposite sides of the American industrial picture have now found common strength today in labor's fighting campaign for a 30-hour week in the keytown of the American Federation of Labor recovery program.

Before his colleagues in the fourth session of the annual A.F. of L. convention, Frank Feeney, president of the Elevators Constructors' Union, announced the signing-off-the-air resolution "in the interest of the public," the resolution added.

Five Year Pact

The five-year agreement with contractor employees announced by Feeney provides the six-hour day, double week for the 10,000 members of the Elevators Constructors' union on a pay basis of the eight-hour day. The contract will become effective immediately, Feeney said, in any locality in which any other four of the building trades unions negotiate similar agreements.

The document also provides for an annuity closed shop and gives the elevator constructors the right to strike at any time to support any movement for the reduction of working hours or the improvement of the 10,000,000 jobless Americans.

Although the contract Feeney announced was qualified heavily, it was the first victory for the shorter working week reported to the convention and the delegates received it with triumphant enthusiasm.

With no less enthusiasm they heard Col. W. F. Axton, tobacco manufacturer of Louisville, Ky., support the 30-hour week as the means of getting "everybody back to work."

FRAUD CHARGED AGAINST INSULL

Government Prosecutor Tells Court Vast Losses Caused By "Conspiracy"

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (UPI)—Losses of $100,000,000 to itself investors were due to a simple conspiracy to swindle, cheat and defraud, charged today from George Brent, U. S. Attorney, Dwight H. Green, charged today in his opening statement at the "mail fraud" trial of Samuel Insull and 16 other defendants.

The short, gray-haired attorney outlined the government's case against the man who rose to fame as director of a $2,000,000 utility empire and then saw it crash under the weight of the depression, such technical detail was omitted.

"The government will prove that each defendant had some part to play in this gigantic scheme whereby thousands of people were induced to invest millions of dollars in the stock of this company by means of false and fraudulent representations," said Green.

The courtroom had been changed since yesterday to accommodate two large filing cabinets which will hold all the government's library books, 2,000 books and documents which will be submitted as evidence. Seats and railings had been moved.

Every available seat was taken before Green began his statement in a monotone. He had few gestures but emphasized what he regarded as important points as he went before the 12 judges and two

Vets Approve Radio Ban on Fiery Butler

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4 (UPI)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars approved today the action of radio station WAVF and the National Broadcasting Co. in cutting Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler off the air, while the fiery former marine asserted that the speech which offended was addressed to men "who don't wear uniforms."

Butler was discussing governmental policies on veterans problems before the V. F. W. annual convention when officials of WAVF decided his language was too pugnacious for the air waves.

The last four minutes of the general's speech was supplanted by a piano recital.

No Ruffles

"If they want to shut me off, that's their business," Butler said. "I was talking to veterans, anyway, and they don't wear uniforms."

The veterans said in a resolution that "this convention thought that General Butler's language was in no way offensive to the veterans, but may have been a mixed radio audience." Butler, which cut the plug-off-the-air wave, noting "in the interest of the public," the resolution added.

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 4 (UPI)—Approach of winter after the most severe drought in history of the state is rapidly increasing Idaho's relief burden, it was disclosed today.

While President Roosevelt was advancing his plans for industrial peace, labor disturbances spread in the troubled Pacific coast area, where five strikes are in progress.

WALLACE WARNS OF MONEY MAGIC

Advises U. S. to Concentrate On Plans for Restoration of Foreign Trade

BY LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (Special) — "Stop kidding yourself!"

In those words Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today warned the American people that the Roosevelt monetary policy is temporarily money magic.

"It cannot last indefinitely," he said, "with just the book, 'New Franklin' just off the shelf."

The mid-dollar devaluation was a necessary and desirable expedient, Wallace believes. It has tremendously aided producers of exportable goods, particularly farmers.

Not Permanent

"But raising the price of gold in the United States will not serve permanently to restore foreign purchasing power for our surplus farm products," he continued. "To note that we either have to import more physical goods from abroad or else stop producing so much for export."

President Roosevelt's monetary policy has undoubtedly helped enormously the producers of those products which are on the export market. France is paying about twice as much for cotton in terms of dollars as she did early in 1933, but she is only paying about 20 per cent more in terms of French francs.

"All this, of course, is temporary money magic; it cannot last indefinitely. Fleet one nation and then another can do this kind of thing—and benefit from it temporarily."

Most Free Problem

Wallace believes the long-term money-magic must let up, can be maintained for several years. But ultimately the people must face the fundamental problem of tariff-free imports and exports. Discarding the "gold standard" policy of producing only what we can consume, Wallace proposed restoration of foreign markets by:

1. Long continuance of AAA crop control to keep 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 acres idle.

2. Effectuation of the reciprocal tariff plan in which Congress authorized Mr. Roosevelt to do some "Yankee trading" with foreign nations.

3. Balance tariffs must come down to create in the United States market for the goods of countries which buy our goods.

Rape Inflation

Wallace warned against uncontrollable inflation as a path to ruin and dictatorship. But he defended a government's right to re-adjust monetary values short of the issue of paper money. The book is in part a reply to former President Hoover's "Outlook To Liberty." Of liberty, Wallace says: "You can, if you choose, look backward with longing to the old kind of liberty, which was more often license for the few and economic servitude for the many. I prefer to look forward to the full realization of the kind of government of the people for which Lincoln strove."

Spectacular Fare

He describes himself as "William M. Wirt's" heir-trust real plug on the most spectacular farms of recent years. And he says the Committee of the Nation, which sponsored Wirt, appeared more interested in a speculative boom than in the nation's welfare as a whole.

Wallace believes abandonment of the processing tax system of crop control would put agriculture in a pit again in three years. He can see no satisfactory substitute for the tax.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4 (UPI)—Recovery of business will remain uncertain as long as the United States is off the gold standard, W. Walter Williams, president of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, said today as the group opened its 21st national convention.

Williams preceded Henry A.

Wallace, secretary of agriculture, on the program.

"So long as we do not have a definite end date," Williams said, "just as long are we bound to have uncertainty, which operated strongly against restoration of faith and confidence."

"It behoves each of us to fight to preserve our economic system as our American standard," he said. "This means that government should get out of all business enterprisers that naturally monopolistic nor fundamentally essential to the public welfare."

The statement follows:

"A great many men and women on relief rolls have taken advantage of personal work and available jobs and have tried to re-establish themselves. The DERA is anxious to reward their efforts, and not penalize this individual initiative."

"A minimum subsistence individual family budget is made for each family, involving setting the same of household expenses. It is impossible to supply all items on this complete budget to all families on relief. Any family accepting private employment may earn additional funds sufficient to equal this budget before relief is discontinued. The DERA is anxious to help every family maintain a standard of living which provides at least minimum necessities. Relief will not be denied any family attempting to maintain this budgetary standard."

WOMAN PAROLED

JEROME, Oct. 4 (Special) — Mary Lee, Twin Falls, who was recently connected with the theft of an automobile, was sentenced to a term of 1 to 14 years in the Idaho penitentiary Tuesday afternoon by District Judge Adam B. Bradley. The woman was later paroled to Sheriff Prater, Twin Falls county, for a period of one year. Sheriff James Davis, Jerome county, made the arrest.

He described her as "William M. Wirt's" heir-trust real plug on the most spectacular farms of recent years. And he says the Committee of the Nation, which sponsored Wirt, appeared more interested in a speculative boom than in the nation's welfare as a whole.

Wallace believes abandonment of the processing tax system of crop control would put agriculture in a pit again in three years. He can see no satisfactory substitute for the tax.

MEDWICK SETS NEW HIT RECORD FOR WORLD SERIES OPENER

OUTSHINES ACES OF FORMER DAYS

Play by Play STORY OF 2nd Game

Card Slugger Is First to Get Four Successive Hits in Initial Game

BY GEORGE KIRSEY

DETROIT, Oct. 4 (UPI)—The firm of Dean and Dean, Pitchever, Inc., may have to take Joe (Ducky) Medwick, Hitler, Hitler, into partnership before the 1935 world series between the St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers in over.

If your highest admiration is for pitching, then Dugay does it in your man. But if you like the crack of the bat against the old baseball, then you have to go for Medwick, the ex-coat-painter from Carteret, N. J., just coming on 23 next month.

Sets Record

Medwick, one of the few Americans in organized baseball cracked out more consecutive home hits to uncharted territory in the opening game of the world series than any player ever did before in the first battle. Four times he slashed out clean hits—two singles, a home run, and another single before he finally flied out to center on his fifth hit at bat.

Under the old rules, Medwick's last time at bat would have been no sacrifice as it advanced a man from second to third after the catch, which would have given him a perfect day at bat.

As it was, Medwick got four hits in five times at bat, and drove in two runs, for an average of .800, and, that's good hitting in all leagues.

Home Run

It was his home run in the fifth inning, which supplied the winning run. The other three were to make four runs after that, but if they hadn't Medwick's home would have won for him.

Medwick's hitting streak has been accomplished only three previous times in world series annals.

Frank Tidell of Fielder Jones' old Chicago White Stockings first did it in the 1906 series against the Cubs. Frank Snyder, New York Giants, duplicated the feat in the 1921 series against the Yankees.

Overcast Sky

DETROIT, Oct. 4 (UPI)—A gray overcast sky shadowed this morning with threats of rain for the second game of the world series.

Weather observers predicted, however, that any showers that might fall would not be heavy enough to bunt the play more than momentarily.

The temperature was several degrees higher than yesterday.

and three years later Fredly Lindström, Glimmer, presented himself. When he had until yesterday, did any player ever make four hits in a row in the opening game? And only 14 players have made four hits in one series game.

Medwick's biography says of him: "Rated as one of the best mechanical batters and hitters in the game."

He's Dangerous

National league pitchers say of him: "Threw him one right down the middle, and he apt to break his back swinging it." But throw him one in the air, over his head, way on top, and in a choke to him, and he's apt to knock the cover off the ball."

Manager Frankie Frisch says of him: "He's taken ten years off my life this season."

Ducky-Wucky, a plumpish guy, to Medwick in Houston, Tex., and in which he has no personal pride, says: "Manager Frisch says he didn't play even half as well as he did yesterday, and he may cancel the other five during the next few days."

Streaky Player

He's a streaky player, hot and cold, good and bad. When he's a going, there's no defense for him. He's a streaky player, who plays his back in the cold shower, now and again, likely to fill the shoulder role occupied by his teammate, Pepper Martin, three years ago this autumn. Then it was that Martin catapulted to world series fame by his almost unbelievable offensive work which enabled the Cards to a glorious triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics,

NEW YORK WINS PRO GRID CLASH

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4 (UPI)—The New York Giants replaced Pittsburgh at fourth place in the eastern division standing of the National Professional Football League by beating the Pirates, 14-13, last night.

Harry Newman kicked two field goals for the extra points that provided the margin of victory.

It was the Giants' first triumph of the season, against two losses, and Pittsburgh's third defeat.

CARVER TO HEAD RED CROSS DRIVE

Former State Relief Leader
Named Chairman of 1934
Roll Call

BOISE (Special)—A new membership campaign plan for Idaho was announced by the American Red Cross here, with Burton P. Carver, formerly state relief administrator, as state roll call chairman. The plan contemplates a division of the state into several districts with a chairman responsible for each and a state publicity chairman. These several individuals with the state chairman will make up the personnel of the state committee.

"We expect to be in position before this week to announce the personnel of the state committee," Carver said. "We have already secured the promise of Ralph Shepard of Boise to serve as state publicity chairman."

Announcement of Carver's appointment as state chairman was made by Clyde Baldwin, Idaho field representative of the National Red Cross. His appointment was made by A. L. Behnke, San Francisco, Pacific area manager of the National Red Cross.

Carver's plan:

"Our purpose in organizing districts is the roll call membership campaign. The Red Cross this fall is to better correlate the efforts of the 43 chapters in Idaho and to give them additional guidance in their local plans," Carver said. "All personnel of the state committee are serving without pay and are doing so in order to contribute their share in offering every individual of Idaho an opportunity to join the Red Cross."

"We expect to make further suggestions for making the 43 individual chapter efforts more successful at the time of the Red Cross conferences that are to be held in October," he added. A state office will be opened next week at the Some Building in Boise.

MANCHUKUO LAKE FAMED FOR FISH

Farms Emanating from Khanka
Aron Fables, National Geographic Says

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Khanka, Manchukuo's "Great Lake," is famous for fish stories—but they're real ones, the National Geographic says.

Located approximately midway of the eastern border of Manchukuo in the same latitude as Portland, Ore., Lake Khanka is known also as Manly, Ichinko, and Chankin.

Virtually the same size as Rhode Island, the lake resembles a human head facing westward toward Harbin. Because it is the region's only large body of water, it has long had natives living on and near its banks.

Often Shallow

Normally 30 to 35 feet deep and of irregular shape, rarely more than 12 inches deep, the lake ranges 12 inches deep, the lake ranges shallow. However, during summer rains, Khanka overflows its banks and floods surrounding low-lying areas.

It is believed that it was during one of these floods that the lake gleaned its name. "Khanka" is a Russian modification of the Chinese "Khan-Kai," meaning "inland sea."

Valuable to Natives

It has proved valuable to native tribesmen, who depend on it for communication in small boats. However, the Geographic Society pointed out, it has been of even more value for its fisheries.

One early writer wrote that fish were so numerous in the lake that they could be caught with bare hands. He said also that an observer on shore could hear the dull murmur of fins as fish swam through the water.

KNULL

After hearing Rev. Henry Van Engelen, a former California pastor, a few times at the Baptist church at Knoll, the officers of the church report that they have given him a unanimous invitation to continue their services each Sunday at 11 a. m. Until an attack of illness necessitated him to resign, Mr. Van Engelen was pastor of one of the largest churches of the Los Angeles area. His health is so much improved that he feels able to undertake one service each Sunday again. He is the father of W. A. Van Engelen, merchant of Twin Falls.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Mrs. Magdalene Clements, director of administration, agents and distribution department, State Department of Education, Twin Falls, will demonstrate the new plan of demonstration to the public on Oct. 15, at 10 a. m., at the State Office Building, Twin Falls.

PRINCESSES ARE STYLE CREATORS

Youthful Members of England
Royalty Already Are Model
For Youngsters

LONDON (UPI)—In their belief lives, Princess Elizabeth, aged eight, and Princess Margaret Rose, four, daughters of the royal Duke of York, have had at least three fashions which have been adopted by children in all parts of the world.

First, the no-hat vogue which started mother and nurse the first time Princess Elizabeth was seen driving through Hyde Park in her nurse's arms with her yellow curls blowing free in the wind, only in bad weather, or on formal occasions, that the princess would bathe—but they always wear gloves.

Second, the coat in the wearing of sleeveless frocks in summer and winter, a fashion that always has been preserved in the royal family, as a glance at early photographs of them will show.

Then there are the famous "no-hands" coats, where in hardly a mother in Britain can tell and know where the Duchess of York has these coats made.

They have been widely copied since Elizabeth first appeared in an absolutely plain, perfectly tailored coat, with its back and front panels slightly flared apart.

For Us

Sometimes there is a scrap of fur or velvet at the neck and row of buttons down the front. One year the coats were scarlet, another salmon peach, brown, then yellow. This year they are apple green.

Worried about the baby, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. James Baggott that their son, James, was in the hospital at Durley having fallen from a top story of an elevator Friday. However, no bones were broken, and he will be discharged soon.

E. E. Elestrand of Tarkio, Mo., returned to his home Thursday after spending the summer with his brother, J. E. Elestrand. He was accompanied home by a nephew, Roy Wrayson, whose home is in Kansas.

Mrs. Lettie Morris has purchased a home in Idaho and may move soon at the present in view of Twenty-five people were invited on her birthday Monday evening.

The evening was spent in playing pinochle. Refreshments were served.

Weeds in pastures can be controlled by application of fertilizer, mowing at the proper time, and pasteurizing with goats and sheep.

All the clothes worn by her children are chosen by the Duchess of York herself, with the exception of those which the Queen and other relatives buy for them from many needlework exhibitions they visit.

College Man" Uses

New Garden Racket

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The wife of a prominent legal attorney, being an enthusiastic golfer, recently was victimized by a new racket utilized by a salesman working his way through college.

A young man, presentable in appearance, arrived on the woman's doorstep with a handful of rich cream. Pointing to a truck out front loaded with sacks, he claimed he was securing funds for his college course by selling topsoil to gardeners.

The lawyer's wife purchased four sacks.

She was quite dismayed, however, when preparing later to fix up her gardens with the "excellent flower food" to find the sacks contained nothing but an assortment of common, everyday cinders.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The wife of a prominent legal attorney, being an enthusiastic golfer, recently was victimized by a new racket utilized by a salesman working his way through college.

A young man, presentable in appearance, arrived on the woman's doorstep with a handful of rich cream. Pointing to a truck out front loaded with sacks, he claimed he was securing funds for his college course by selling topsoil to gardeners.

The lawyer's wife purchased four sacks.

She was quite dismayed, however, when preparing later to fix up her gardens with the "excellent flower food" to find the sacks contained nothing but an assortment of common, everyday cinders.

NEW WATER SUPPLY

Efforts being made by the city to establish a new water supply for Twin Falls, through the drilling of a test well at the filter plant site, is an important undertaking from several standpoints.

1. If ever a municipality needed an assured supply of good water, it is Twin Falls.

2. The contemplated action of the Twin Falls Canal company in shutting off the winter flow makes action necessary.

3. The new supply should be as inexpensive of attainment as possible.

Taking up these three factors, it seems almost incredible that this city after 30 years is just now commencing to look for a source of domestic water other than that obtainable out of the canal. With the excellent supplies which have been available in the foothills south of here, and the possibilities of getting a supply from deep wells, it has remained for the present city administration to inaugurate the experiment through drought-relief sources. The fact that members of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce listed the subject of a new city water supply third among the objectives they favor for the coming year, is evidence that the public is alert to the situation.

Regarding the second factor mentioned, that of a diminished supply of winter flow in the canals, no one knows now what the outcome will be, but is quite certain that eventually, at least, the canal company will have to alter its present custom of running water in the canals throughout the year. Raising the water level on the tract, cost of continued drainage, and actual waste of water will compel the action. Cities like Twin Falls, dependent on the ditches for their water supply, will have to look elsewhere.

The third factor, that of expense, is most important of all for under the present conditions there is hardly any likelihood of the city being able to float a bond issue, even if it desired to. Therefore it would be a godsend if a good supply of water could be obtained at a reasonable depth. The largest item of expense would be the installation of pumps. Under the present plan, the drought-relief administration is paying for the digging of the experimental well, and, it is understood, would install a pump, if a good flow is encountered.

The alternative to wells, is a source of water back in the hills, or at the head of Rock creek, or from the springs across Snake river. All these, except the wells, would be practically prohibitive from an expense standpoint.

The need for a new supply is manifest. Perhaps the well experiment will provide the solution. If not, Twin Falls is faced with a problem which might well have been solved years ago. This city and its residents cannot always depend upon the ditches for drink.

The attempt which is being made to find an inexpensive source of good water is therefore highly important to Twin Falls now as well as in the future.

Why don't the munitions men continue operations during the investigation by carving soap and wood guns? There seems to be a market for them.

CORNERED WOLVES

If you can believe John Landesco, famous Chicago criminologist, we are apt to get a very bad outbreak of crimes of violence, such as bank robberies and large-scale holdups, in the near future. Oddly enough, this will come because the underworld is at last definitely on the run.

The house racket, as a steady source of revenue for gangsters, is fading. The underworld has at last been convinced that kidnapping is too risky. The whole business of crime is suffering a severe depression. Gangs are breaking up, dissolving, losing their money and their power.

And it is right at such a moment, says Mr. Landesco, that gangs are most dangerous. Being desperate, they will try almost anything. Consequently, this criminologist believes, we shall have a new "crime wave" shortly—a crime wave which, paradoxically, will testify to the efficacy of our drive to break up organized crime.

NORRIS BATTLES FOR ONE HOUSE

Unfinished Legislature Draws Crusade from Veteran Campaigner

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — To Senator George W. Norris, white-haired Nebraska liberal, the tumult of politics is subordinate to his latest experiment in democracy.

The veteran Nebraska Progressive is back in his home state to crusade for a constitutional amendment which, if approved by the citizens next November, will create an unicameral legislative assembly in this state.

Norris was besieged by political leaders for an expression of his views on the heated political issue in progress in Nebraska this month. He refused to express himself and lend his powerful support to any one faction.

Give Attention
"My attention will be centered exclusively to the interests of the proposed constitutional amendment for creation of a one-house legislature," the white-haired senator said.

"Naturally, I hope to see the election of such progressives as La Follette, Cutting, Shipstead and all others who champion the progressive cause. If it were not for my interest in the unicameral amendment, I now would have no other states campaigning in their behalf."

Most Important

"But I believe that this amendment and the governmental reform it represents is more important than any man," he declared.

The unicameral movement in Nebraska is the direct product of Norris' flair for the reform of democracy. He drafted the first tentative proposal. He lent his financial and moral support that placed the amendment on the ballot in the coming general election by initiative petition.

Now, back in his home state, he proposes to launch a stump tour of Nebraska which will carry the proposal to success.

WOMAN TAMES HUMMING BIRDS

Kansas City Resident Proves Experts Wrong by Novel Achievement

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A group of humming birds, most restless and timid of all birds, have been tamed by Mrs. O. M. Evans. It was a fast bird experts told her was impossible.

Mrs. Evans first decided to make friends with the tiny birds—smallest of all feathered creatures—when she noted several about her flower garden. For weeks she sat in the garden, motionless for long periods. Finally, after several weeks, one bird perchched on her hand. It was the beginning between the Evans family and the birds. That was four years ago. Today there are nine humming birds spending their days about the Evans' yard and sometimes in the Evans' home.

Return Annually
The birds return each summer from the south, Mrs. Evans said, and build their nests, about the size of a hen's egg, in bushes scattered about the yard. They will attack any bird, regardless of its size, if it comes too near the nests, she has discovered.

"We glisten so familiar with the birds that I know each one individually," Mrs. Evans said. "I've even named them. One is Tommy Tucker, so named because he makes such a fuss if I'm late putting out his supper."

On damp days Mrs. Evans leaves the back door of her home open and lets her birds in for the birds to come inside where it is warm. Occasionally they make themselves at the dinner table.

WORK ON MODELS TRAINS NAZI BOYS FOR NAVY

This Nazi youth, along with thousands of others in Germany, is receiving valuable training to fit him for a part in the future operation of the Reich's naval vessels. Under expert government supervision, German boys are building exact models of their country's battleships and liners, capable of moving under their own steam. The model shown here is that of the new cruiser Koellnberg, demonstrated at the recent Nazi congress in Nuremberg.

RIVER WORK MAY AID UNEMPLOYED

Development Projects Called Best Plan to End Worry For Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Nebraska proponents of Missouri river development have seized upon the need unemployment relief in "river country" as a basis for a new plan for an additional allotment of federal funds for deepening the channel between Kansas City and Sioux City, Ia.

Dredges already are chugging on the river and almost 3,000 men are at work under the June allocation of $15,000,000 for this work. River men, however, under the leadership of C. E. Childs, secretary of the Nebraska chamber of commerce, are bringing pressure to bear in Washington for extension of this allocation to $30,000,000.

Many Jobbers

Childs and his active-lobby group point to the fact, disclosed by Francis Correll, federal reemployment director for Nebraska, that 14,000 men now are on unemployment relief in the state. Nebraska is second only to Missouri in river channel dredging.

This figure, they contend, is proportionately large when considered in the light that Nebraska is essentially agrarian and without industrial unemployment problems.

Only a portion of these 14,000 unemployed will be absorbed by river work, even when it reaches its great point of expansion, according to Cornell.

SOVIETS TRYING TO HARNESS SUN

Scientists Push Researches in Quest of Workable Plan To Get Energy

By JOSEPH H. RADFORD

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow's long efforts to use the sun's rays for producing heat and power are being carried further by a Soviet scientist, Professor K. O. Trofimov, of the Geographical Institute in Moscow.

By placing magnifying glasses over a boiler thus intensifying the heat of the sun rays on its surface, Trofimov has been able to raise the temperature of water from 18 to 100 degrees. He has built water-boilers, water-pumps and other machinery which operates successfully from sun heat.

Sun's Heat

With another Soviet institution, the Scientific Research Helio-technical Institute, the scientists devote its full time to finding ways to make sun heat usable for power on a commercial basis.

While many scientists have constructed laboratory "sun engines" which can satisfactorily, it has not yet been possible to adapt such apparatus for industrial purposes. For one thing, it naturally will not function on cloudy days. But scientists are searching for a way to store the energy accumulated on bright days so that their machines may operate until the sun returns.

Sun's Energy

From time immemorial experiments have tried to harness the sun's energy. According to legend, the Greek, Mycenae, Archimedes, succeeded in using the sun as a very effective military weapon. By an ingenious system of mirrors he is said to have produced a concentrated sun ray hot enough to burn an enemy fleet of wooden ships against which it was directed.

In recent timer Southern California has been a favorite spot for sun ray experimenters. In 1913 an engineer there built a sun-power station which pumped water to irrigate nearly 300 acres. The Soviets are hopeful of doing something similar in the arid lands of Central Asia.

Other men on the day's program include community singing, a devotional period led by Rev. Joyce S.
