DENIAL OF WRIT FOR HAUPTMANN

Takes Extradition Battle to Appellate Court After Initial Reverse

JERSEY GIVEN VICTORY

Justice Refuses Request for Habeas Corpus to Block Transfer Move

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann carried his fight against extradition into the appellate court today coincident with hints that the state of New Jersey was concealing important evidence linking him to the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

New Jersey won a victory in the proceedings by extrajudicially transferring the murder charges to Supreme Court Justice Ernest B. L. Hammer last night denied the request of the suspect's counsel for a writ of habeas corpus which would have nullified the extradition warrant.

Wine Stay James M. Fawcett, Hauptmann's attorney, won a stay until 4 p. m. Friday to permit an appeal from the decision. The appeal probably will be argued in appellate court on Friday and, if rejected, Hauptmann will be taken immediately to Flemington, New Jersey county, N. J., where he will be tried there on four weeks hence.

Roller that Atty. Gen. David T. Wilentz of New Jersey, had kept "an ace in the hole" in the hearing before Justice Hammer soon increased by his confident attitude.

Plans Fight Fawcett, expressing disappointment, said he would use every means of fighting extradition and, if the appeal failed, might even fight before the United States supreme court.

Justice Hammer's decision came last night after two days of testimony in which Hauptmann had pleaded guilty to the murder of the Lindbergh baby in New Jersey on the date of the crime; that he wrote the ransom notes; that he kidnaped the baby; that (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

Gaunt Hauptmann in Court

The strain of the predicament in which possession of Lindbergh ransom money thrust him has exacted a heavy physical toll on this picture of haggard Bruno Hauptmann, taken in court when his trial in Bronx county, N. Y., on extradition charges was postponed, reveals. Hauptmann had lost his first fight against New Jersey extradition today, and appealed to the New York appellate court.

Final Beet Checks Sent to Producers

WILL ROGERS says: Beverly Hills, Cal. Saw a mighty pleasing dispatch from Washington in the papers, saying Fred Stone was in a position in a straight drinking pipe.

These self-entitled miners in Hungary had to starve practically to death to get a ratio from $2 a ton to $3 a ton. An imperial lord in Stuyvesant gave the longshoremen 95 cents an hour with $1.40 per hour overtime.

So you see those old boys that got up and tell you what the rest of the world is doing, well that's just about what they are doing. Yours, Will Rogers

MRS. SHANKEL IS GIVEN DISMISSAL

Poostello Woman Absolved in Merritt Death When Case Is Abandoned

SALMON, Idaho, Oct. 17 (UP)—Mrs. Caroline Shankel, 28, today was freed from charges based on the mysterious slaying of Milton Merritt, 36, Idaho frontiersman, at Forney, last May 27.

Merritt's colorful figure during the holiday of Iron Mountain, rickshaw mining camp that now is hidden by 20 feet of flood water, was slain by two charges of buckshot fired through the window of his cabin.

Insufficient Evidence Mrs. Shankel, beautiful wife of Robert Shankel, Poostello and formerly of Twin Falls, was charged with the killing and bound over to the district court. During her preliminary hearing, a defense motion for dismissal was denied. When the case was called for trial, the prosecutor asked dismissal. He said he had insufficient evidence.

Critics who worked on the case based their charges against Mrs. Shankel on alleged evidence which consisted principally of similarity of shotgun shells found near the window through which the fatal shots were fired, and similar shells in the Shankel cabin at Forney.

Senator Will Address Session Called to Fight Assorted Acreage Transfer

LAUDS TWIN FALLS AREA

Reports Stand Against U. S. Curtailment of Farm Production

Asserting that he is convinced there is no over-production in this country, "but a terrific under-completion," Senator William E. Borah here today prepared to address the beet growers of Twin Falls and Jerome counties on the present allotment situation resulting from repudiated threats to transfer to California 10,000 acres of the Idaho quota under the AAA program.

Interviewed at the Park hotel today, Borah paid tribute to the Twin Falls country, when he said "there is no other place like it in the whole country." It was his second visit here this fall. He spoke at what he described as a "political meeting" at 10:30 last night, returned here for the night and will go on to Boise tomorrow.

Will Aid Colleagues He intends going to northern Idaho this week, he said, and next week to deliver an address, possibly at Detroit, in the interests of the candidacy of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., and following that, to Albuquerque, N. M., where he will talk for the reelection of Senator Hiram Bingham, R., Cutting, I. He declared his health was good.

"To my way of thinking," Borah said, "it will not aid recovery to either production or to the clothing industry, when millions of people need these things."

Didn't Change "I am opposed to reduction of production now as I was opposed to it on the floor of the senate when the proposition was up for consideration. My stand is no different now than it was then."

The senator said he would continue his remarks tonight at the (Continued on Page 2, Column 7)

Federal Agents Moved Fast to Name Kidnaper

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (UP)—The department of justice, advised that a number of hours after abduction of Mrs. Alice Stoll last Wednesday, pointed the finger of accusation to Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., as her kidnaper.

The identification was another triumph for the department's ever alert and machine-like division of investigation.

Not On Trail Federal agents believed they were hot on his trail. It apparently led out of Indianapolis, where Mrs. Robinson received the ransom money from him after receiving it from the Stoll family in Nashville on Tuesday. She was taken into custody when federal agents closed Mrs. Stoll outside Louisville last night.

Long before that, scientific criminal identification pointed to Robinson. Here is how it was done.

The kidnaper's designation in the ransom note of T. H. Robinson, Sr., of Nashville as the desired intermediary led to immediate inquiry by Nashville federal agents. They found his son had a minor police record.

Faint Prints A copy of the ransom note was rushed to the justice department's laboratory here, where it was compared with chemical powder. Tall-tale fingerprints appeared.

From their file of over 4,000,000 criminal records, department agents picked out the case of young Robinson. He had been arrested only twice, on comparatively minor charges, and never convicted. His fingerprints tallied with those on the ransom note.

Even before Mrs. Stoll's return last night, notes calling for Robinson's arrest and giving a full description were broadcast to police. Investigators with experience that brought success after months of work in the Lindbergh case, lists of serial numbers of the Stoll ransom money were prepared for distribution.

KIDNAPER SOUGHT IN WIDE HUNT AS VICTIM IS FREED

U. S. Operators Set Trap for Abductor

Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll Returns Safely After Absence of Six Days

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 17 (UP)—Federal warrants charging violation of the Lindbergh kidnaping law were issued today against T. H. Robinson, Jr., his wife, Frances, and his father, P. H. Robinson, Sr., accused of the $50,000 abduction of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

The three warrants were issued by United States Commissioner Eugene Dailey at the request of District Attorney Thomas Sparks.

Sparks announced he would ask the death penalty for Robinson, Jr.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 17 (UP)—Federal agents throughout the middle west today set traps for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, who was returned safely to her home last night, six days after she was stolen.

Robinson, once an inmate of a Tennessee insane asylum, was only a few hours ahead of the agents. His young and attractive wife, Mrs. Frances Robinson, was undergoing extensive questioning. She was collector of the $50,000 ransom paid over by the wealthy and influential Stoll family.

In addition to Robinson, agents sought several accomplices, all of whom, they said, played only minor roles in the abduction. Robinson, the agents charged, engineered the abduction with little assistance.

His arrest was expected momentarily. Mrs. Stoll appeared none the wiser today for her experience.

Almost all of her captivity was spent in a hospital in Springfield, Mo., where she was guarded by Robinson and Mrs. Robinson for a companion. She said she was well treated.

Federal agents last night intercepted a car in which Mrs. Stoll was being returned to her husband, Berry C. Stoll, in Louisville, at Scottsburg, Ind. in the car with Mrs. Stoll was Mrs. Robinson and the Rev. E. Arnold Clegg, of Indianapolis, who had been in Indianapolis in closest cooperation with the department of justice.

Mrs. Robinson had $500 of the ransom money in her purse and had spent $50 more on route. The remainder of the ransom was in Robinson's possession.

Federal agents said there could be no doubt that Robinson was the kidnaper. His fingerprints were on the ransom note left in the Stoll home, on the telephone the kidnaper ripped from the wall, and on the section of gas pipe with which he beat Mrs. Stoll when she showed signs of resistance.

Robinson has a minor police record. In Nashville, his home town, he was twice accused of assaults upon women and of robbery. He spent one month in the Tennessee insane asylum in 1929 for observation.

Strange Plot The strange threats of the abduction plot were revealed by the partition of justice agents here today. The Stoll home had been searched and the kidnaper had first planned to make C. C. Stoll, the husband's millionaire father, his victim, but changed at the last minute. He threatened his victim with death if $50,000 was not paid. He named Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., of Nashville, as intermediary.

Federal agents checked up on the senior Robinson and discovered he had a son with a police record. The younger Robinson was in the Stoll home, and the kidnaper was in the Stoll home.

VICTIM RETURNS; HUNT KIDNAPER

Mrs. Stoll was rushed to her hospital home in an excellent condition and put to bed.

Physicians said the frail, 29-year-old victim of the crime which struck at two of the state's most prominent families was in "fairly good condition." Despite the severe beating she inflicted upon her husband, Mrs. Stoll said before her trip to bed that "they treated me fine."

Harold E. Nathan, head of Federal agents, announced he will shortly be returning to Boise to resume his duties.

His agents raided the apartment in Indianapolis in which Mrs. Stoll was imprisoned for most of the six days she was missing.

Police raid in a score of cities from Nashville to Chicago broadcast orders to pick up a Ford V-8 sedan or coach with an Illinois license 381-700 - presumably driven by the kidnaper.

Robinson is a former employe of the Stoll company as well as a former inmate of the Tennessee state insane asylum, Nathan said.

KIDNAPER'S WIFE AVERTED MURDER

Induced Husband to Abandon Blaying of Mrs. Stoll, Victim Says

"This woman saved my life," the kidnaper said. "I was in a quandary when she appeared at the minister's home in Indianapolis yesterday after being held prisoner for six days."

Confirm Death Threat "The government agents and I, counsel of the department of justice, confirmed the fact that Robinson, pending under the strain of walking for the ransom payment, died several hours before her husband was released."

He telephoned to his father in Nashville, Tenn., T. H. Robinson, Sr., the agent said, and announced: "If I don't get the money by tonight I'm going to kill her."

Mrs. Robinson flew succeeded by persuading her husband to leave and take with him all but $500 of the ransom money which she had brought to him from Nashville.

The money had been sent there by Henry V. Stoll, husband of the kidnapped woman, in accordance with demands of the original ransom note naming the elder Robinson as intermediary.

Sackett's Note No. 3 The government agents also disclosed that Frederick M. Sackett, former United States senator and ambassador to Germany and an uncle of Mrs. Stoll, received a communication from the kidnaper.

Another letter to Mrs. Stoll's handwriting and containing one of her rings, was received by her husband Monday or Tuesday.

The letter to her husband, mailed from Indianapolis, complained that another letter to Mrs. Stoll's handwriting and containing one of her rings, was received by her husband Monday or Tuesday.

Rev. Mr. Clegg, at whose home Mrs. Stoll appeared yesterday, and asked him to drive her to Louisville, said he believed Mrs. Stoll's head was bandaged.

"She wore a small hat but I am certain I saw a bandage beneath it," he added.

Members of the Stoll family, all of whom live along exclusive Lime Kiln road on the outskirts of Louisville, admitted their homes were searched yesterday.

The police guards will be maintained, they intimated, until after the kidnaper is captured.

George Stoll, brother of the kidnaper's father and an official of the Stoll Oil Refinery company, told the United Press that "the family is extremely solicitous about the health of Mrs. Robinson."

Mrs. Robinson was a very much needed protection to Mrs. Stoll during her incarceration," he said.

Last Poincare Writing Lauds Slain Barthou (Editor's note - Raymond Poincare, France's president, three times premier, an invalid for five years, was informed a week ago of the assassination of his friend, Foreign Minister Louis Barthou. He burst into tears, crying, "Oh, Barthou! Oh, Barthou!" He died at 4 a. m. Monday, his French aid from shock. But before he died, he used his last strength to write a poignant eulogy of his friend, though he was unable to complete his own memoirs. The eulogy follows.)

Louis Barthou's entire life was a great lesson and an example. He was an unflinching worker who loved duty for itself and the love and healthy pleasure which he derived from it. Willing and energetic, he was gifted with an unequalled intelligence which permitted him without any effort to approach the study of the most difficult problems. He was clear minded, reflective, methodical and well balanced. He never lost any thing of his equilibrium.

SOVIET DEGREES BETTER GALOSH

Materials Must Be Improved, Monk-Trial Decides at Russian City

By JOSEPH H. BAIRO United Press Staff Correspondent MOSCOW, Oct. 17 (AP)—A shiny black pair of galoshes were under sentence today to improve themselves at once—or else.

They were convicted by a court of five judges, with Chief Arbitrator Nikolai Kuznetsov presiding, of people's commissars' meddling of being inferior in quality.

The judges, on a high class; the witnesses for prosecution and defense; the presiding judge, and the chief attorneys; the court stenographers, and the defendants' executives of the Red Triangle Factory at Leningrad assembled for the trial in the palace of labor.

Heads Inclined The chief Justice Golitschikov read the indictment. The galoshes were charged with being inferior quality. Charged with the quality in the indictment were the factories, charged with making high quality galoshes for export—but inferior ones for home consumption.

The galoshes themselves, a tremendous pair, were in the center of the court for all to see.

A woman worker testified she bought a pair of galoshes whom she had bought off before she reached home. The manager of the Moscow department store qualified as an expert witness and testified that they were badly cut, that their heels were weak and that other parts were flabby and unsatisfactory for the high quality trade that patronized his store.

Points Out Flaws The prosecutor pointed out the flaws done to society by faulty goods. The defense attorney and his witnesses held that the work was the best possible in view of the raw materials.

DIDN'T REFER TO ATHLETE RACKET

Trojans Representative Accused in Article Misinterpreted By Berkeley Paper

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17 (AP)—Al Watson, University of Southern California athletic director, today denied that he had received the University of California in inaugurating an "athletic racket" which was robbing the local school of promising athletic material.

His article in a recent issue of the "Trojan Athlete" Review was misinterpreted, Watson said, in commenting on an article in the Daily Californian, U. C. campus newspaper, and on other stories.

"In my article, written more than a month ago, I merely pointed out certain elements of the 'athletic racket' which I thought that institution certainly has made no attempt to keep secret," Watson said.

"It is regrettable that by pointing to this campaign, I have been misinterpreted as having accused California of having inaugurated an 'athletic racket.' For if I, S. C. or any other conference institution wish to make such accusations they will do so through the proper channels of their conference representative."

Watson explained the fact that the article, written before the football season started, was being interpreted as an attack for the "Trojan" two successive days.

LEAGUE BATTLES MARK GRID LIST

Conference Tilt Thursday and Friday Keeps Interest at High Level

With more than half of the games slated for tomorrow because of the education association meeting in Twin Falls Friday and Saturday, high school football teams of south central Idaho will battle this week in conference clashes slated to keep grid interest at top pitch.

Big Ten teams in the area will see a busy day. Coach Hank Gowara will lead his Twin Falls Trojans to Tocatillo Friday to do battle with the local outfit. Saturday, Gowara's team will meet the visiting Idaho State team at Tocatillo. Saturday, high school football teams of south central Idaho will battle this week in conference clashes slated to keep grid interest at top pitch.

Most of the Class A and B Saturdays have been shifted to Thursday to permit teacher attendance at the Institute meetings here.

In Class A, Kimberly will play at Jerome; Kimberly takes a jump to Gooding, and Wendell meets Hagerman at Hagerman in an inter-conference game.

South side Class B games send Hanson and Albion teams together at Albion in a game involving teams unbeaten in the conference; Hollister meets undefeated Edon, and Hazelton goes to Hazelton.

DIZZY AWARDED LEAGUE HONORS

Cardinal Hurler Gets Nearly Perfect Score as 'Most Valuable' Man

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (Special)—With three of his nine game schedule won, the College of Idaho Coyotes are moving rapidly up to their second conference game which is to be played in the college district. The Coyotes will be played with Albany college, classed about the same as the College of Idaho so it shouldn't represent too hard an obstacle.

Last Friday Albany was defeated by Williamette in a conference game, 8 to 6. Albany's lone touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Tney Patch threw a pass to Melbrook, Albany left and Patch is quarterback on the Albany outfit and his pass was something that the Coyotes will probably worry about before their game in over. Albany's best ball player was Melbrook, a terrific halfback, Bonnie Adams.

As usual the Coyotes are not considering the game won until it is thoroughly tucked away. With the experience that the first three games has given them the Coyotes have their weaknesses fairly well ironed out and they should be ready for any surprise that Albany might have in store for them.

This will be the last of the night football games at the college, the only other home game being played on the afternoon of November 1st. The Coyotes will be the home team in the game which is to be played with Fairfield college of Steelhead.

Bowling Banter

—by— FRED STONE

Apparently in Holly Jough goes, no goes the Times team. Holly just once again his first two, but started the third with two spins. As the gang said: "We went home!"

"Three perfect games," said Smitty of the Times. But don't ask him about the score.

Notwithstanding anything you hear, Len Cavan was also there last night.

Well, foul men, you don't have to watch Jimmie Mullen. If I'll call his own fouls, and that's just what he did in that last game. Anyway, he was second high total for his team. O. K., Jimmie.

Cap Hringar had a couple of good games, but river after in the last one didn't do his score any good.

Head Miller, at headoff for Highway, set on fast a pace that his teammates were themselves out trying to keep up. Anyway, 525 isn't so bad for the first night.

"I'd get a double but I don't think my heart would stand it," exclaimed Charley Bremermann. "He was very careful about it."

"No man can work for me and beat me at bowling," said Harry Horn to Craig Colman. "Who wants to be out of a job and winter coming on, eh Craig?"

Bill McDonald certainly had a new game that last one. He started with two strikes, had six spares and two more strikes, making high single game for the night. Nice going, Bill.

And at anchor was the old deer hunter—hunter, follow, not "getter." Harry Beant. A double with a few spares gave him high single game for both teams second game. Not so bad, Harry.

ILLINOIS' AERIAL GAME BRILLIANT

Past Attack One of Greatest Seen by Big 10 in Recent Grid Campaigns

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—Nolan from a football press box: Illinois has one of the greatest aerial attacks developed in the Midwest in years.

With three great passers, Heyson, Luberger and Prosch, and five great receivers, the pack of the Illinois team is the two ends, Nelson and Dylatka, Illinois is going to pose a lot of trouble for the Big 10.

The Illini connected with eight out of 14 for 100 yards against Ohio State.

Triple-Play Attack
Big Lund, Minnesota's triple-threat artist, gained 147 yards from scrimmage against Nebraska, only 11 yards less than the entire team, and made the following week against the Commodore's Oze Simmons, Iowa's Negro halfback, is good, but not as good as Diel Hanley would try to make you believe.

Simmons in front of a hussler company, and the Northwestern couldn't stop Simmons, don't mean he's a second red Grange.

Notre Dame used 57 men against Purdue, and wasn't scored on until the fifth team was on the battlefield.

Captain Duane Vairo of Notre Dame and Frank Larson, Minnesota, are two of the best ends performing in the Midwest.

Scrabber Refusing
There were 15 out-of-town spectators in the press box for the Illinois-Ohio game, and not a hip flank in the crowd. A record which probably won't be equaled again this season.

The hum sandwiches Mike Tobin served reporters between halves of the Illinois-Ohio game set a standard which probably won't be equaled again, either.

They're calling Plumer Layden Notre Dame's "thin man," a nickname which made no order for him. He has worked and worked himself down to 160 pounds wrestling with Notre Dame's athletic problems.

Don't Sell Short
Don't let Purdue rest because they lost to Ohio and Notre Dame.

If Coach Kizer can get Duane Purvin back in shape to team up with Jimmy Carter, the Bollers-makers are going to give somebody a busy afternoon.

Next in line is the staff of Glendale, Calif., who is performing for Chicago, in one of the best sophomores back in the Big Ten.

Boxing Moguls Refuse Sensible Scoring Plan

By HENRY McEMORE
NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—General John J. Phelan, who learned about boxing as a president of a hussler company, and D. Walker West, who gained his knowledge of things battie as head of a bootery, are just a couple of old hat-upper.

They banded up the only sensible suggestion to come out of the New York Boxing commission since Jim Farley thought up the no-foul business, when they said today to Bill Brown's plan to junk the existing system of scoring brawl in favor of a method calculated to make fights close.

They were who, somehow managed to get a place on the commission despite the fact that he knows something about boxing. Phelan is the round-robin president of the National Boxing Association, and D. Walker West, who gained his knowledge of things battie as head of a bootery, are just a couple of old hat-upper.

PAUL MALLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on the Fast-Moving Events in the Nation's Capital by an Expert-Interpreter and Commentator

TELEPHONE 38
Full Leased Wire Service United Press Association, Full N.E.A. Feature Service.
Published Six Days a Week at 325 Main Avenue East, Twin Falls, Idaho, by IDAHO EVENING TIMES PUBLISHING CO.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
CHARLES MOHRMAN, reporter for The Blade, telephoned the newspaper in report of the death of EDWARD H. WILSON, a well known detective, believed to have been the murderer of NATHAN WOOD, the late Idaho senator.

"I want you," Blecker said, "to go to Riverview. Find out all you can about Frank B. Cathay."

POLITICAL PETARD

If any political organization expected to make much capital out of the beet acreage scare which originated in Pocatello over the week-end, that ambition appears to have been summarily frustrated.

This political game is a queer one—especially just before election. Little effort is spared to gain political advantage, regardless of the cost. D. Worth Clark, Democratic candidate for congress, mined no words in his interview in the Evening Times yesterday when he laid at the feet of designing politicians much of the responsibility for this latest petard.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

DAN BLECKER, junior publisher of The Blade, was in the throes of a fit of rage. He was thin of frame, and his eyes were bloodshot.

DICK KENNEY'S voice was a low growl. "It was just one of those things that couldn't be helped," he said. "It came to me at the last minute. The man gave me the name of John Smith."

"I want you," Blecker said, "to go to Riverview. Find out all you can about Frank B. Cathay." Kenney nodded. "It's a damned poor way to verify the man's identity," Dan Blecker said.

BLECKER raised black, smoky eyes and regarded the young man for a full second before saying, "Shut up!" He dropped his chin to his hands, stared at the floor for a few minutes, then looked up at the city editor.

"I was covering the thing from a human interest angle," said Morden. "When they started checking up on the man's identity, then they found out the car he was driving was a rent car, that when he rented the car he had given the name of Frank B. Cathay of Riverview, had shown his driver's license and exhibited his badge and club cards by way of reference."

"How did he get those cards?" "Cathay says his pocket was picked," "Did you ask him what he was doing in Riverview?" "He said he was here on business."

A prominent citizen there for 15 years will probably have a lot of stuff about him. The Riverview Daily Press is his paper. That means The Riverview Chronicle will be fighting him. Go up to Riverview and see the editor of The Chronicle. Find out all they can tell you about Cathay."

"After you've got all that information I'll have a heart-to-heart talk with Mr. Frank B. Cathay. Going to have a facsimile of a substantial check printed in The Riverview Daily Press, is that all right?" "I don't know anything that will give me greater pleasure than to all that had across the desk from me and tell him, 'Now, Mr. Cathay, you understand that if you try a little out the question that's naturally presented to the court is the damage to your reputation. Therefore the nature and character of your reputation enters into it.'"

SAFETY FIRST

Once more the occasion has arrived when it becomes the duty of this newspaper to point to the inherent dangers of careless hunting.

Not only are life and limb endangered during the pheasant season which annually calls hundreds of hunters into the fields, but property and livestock are likewise jeopardized.

It is pointed out by game wardens that if the law is obeyed scrupulously, and if care is exercised, all dangers are minimized and the advantages of the sport are enhanced.

Land owners who post their places against hunters, do so purposely and their edicts should be obeyed, else infractions can be penalized.

The law which says there is a bag limit of four birds, means just that, and all good sportsmen will obey the rule, whether in danger of getting caught by a warden or not.

These are only a few of the warnings which should be heeded. These are some of the precautionary measures provided by law. Others, involving horse sense, judgment, due regard for others and their property, can only be implanted by a sense of moral obligation and responsibility.

DAMMING THE MISSISSIPPI

The Mississippi valley committee has given Secretary Ickes its recommendations for future control and development of the Mississippi river, and while the report has not yet been made public it is understood in Washington that it calls for a vast system of dams up and down the whole length and breadth of the Mississippi Valley.

If this is correct, there is foreshadowed one of the most remarkable internal developments ever undertaken by any nation.

"No, wait a minute," Dick Kenney told him. "We did a lot more than look at the cards. We telephoned to Riverview and talked with Frank B. Cathay. His wife and husband were in the city and Tom Carson, down at the detective bureau didn't release the man until he had given proof of his identity. There were signatures on the cards Carson had him duplicate those."

"That all your story?" asked Blecker. "That's what he said," Kenney remarked. "He wanted to have a facsimile of the check published so he can convince the local citizens that someone had been made for a great wrong."

"What?" Blecker whirled to look at Kenney. "He said that got in his mind, but I asked, 'I reported the case when it first came in.'"

But other campaign work at the present time is being done by the outgoing mail from Democratic political headquarters—left or right night in two large nuclei which have been tracked by an elevator.

The United Press sought the state figures but was informed that Democratic national committee headquarters a week ago that state-by-state spending tables were not for general distribution.

"I reported the case when it first came in. It was a John Smith case then. I was instructed to get a human interest article and—"

"And you're the one that set us into it, huh?" "Yes-er."

"I've got a question, my boy," he said. "When I ask you a direct question, give me a direct answer. The alibi can come later. If you'd kept boating around the bush I'd have fired you."

"I was covering the thing from a human interest angle," said Morden. "When they started checking up on the man's identity, then they found out the car he was driving was a rent car, that when he rented the car he had given the name of Frank B. COORDINATION
WASHINGTON—The biggest bludgeoning job among New Dealers is the office of business coordinator. The boys litter at the mere mention of that vacant job. That is, all do except Mr. Roosevelt and the two co-ordinators who generally shoo themselves out of the impossible task.

WAT TALK
You can get a sharp inside shot on all this war talk you have been hearing in past months by digging behind the sudden change of front by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

COOPERATION
Our officials agree that if European statesmen in 1934 had acted as wisely as Mussolini, there would have been no World War. Even Soviet Russia, the farthest from his aid and support, had come out with a leading editorial in Izvestia charging that the German Nazis were in secret possession of the Alexander examination. That is a clever move to divert Yugoslavian suspicions from Italy.

INCONSISTENCIES
Everyone (since Dr. Johnson) knows consistency is the bugbear of a small mind, but it is possible to be so consistent that the very function will be required of the new coordinator.

NOTES
The best analysis of the inside situation in the Far East is Robert Platon's good new book with the title "Storm Clouds Over Asia." For once someone has written about the Far East without being secretly subsidized either by the Japanese or the Chinese.

OLD CAMPAIGN IS GONE
(Halley Times)
This country has lost the good old fashioned political campaign, much to the regret of the old timers. It is planned to remember the barbecue, the torch light parade, the flag raising, the rabbit-raiding and the other things that are gone, approximately forever.

Democrats Schedule Rally Friday Night
HURLEY, Oct. 17 (Special)—A. J. Ayler, county chairman of the Democratic party, announces a political rally for Friday evening at the L. D. S. tabernacle. Speakers will be Gov. C. Ben Ross, D. Worth Clark, and H. C. Baker, county secretary of the Black Legion. Other speakers will also be introduced and will give short talks.

Crash on Highway
HAGERMAN, Oct. 17 (Special)—Just below Pope's service station, near the turn to Lower Basin falls Sunday night a coupe driven by Ellis Wicklund and Marshall Pugmire, while slowing down to take a turn, was struck by another coupe driven by Clint Palmer. The car turned over several times. The Pugmire was unconscious for about 20 minutes. Mr. Palmer had a serious leg injury and was taken to the hospital.

HISTORY Of Twin Falls City & County

As gleaned from Files of The Times

15 Years Ago
Approving the suggestion made by the Daily Times, stockholders of the Twin Falls Canal company in Twin Falls, Idaho and Bull had voted unanimously in favor of supplying the North Side tract with domestic water. The plan will be put into effect by the water from the South Side being diverted at Miller dam and turned into the north side system for three days.

DORAH AT HOME
(Country Home Magazine)
At last Senator Dorah is in a rival. The most obscure spot in all Idaho has been occupied by Dorah. But a new one came in from the town of Teton. James P. Pope, by the end of his first campaign he was in the spotlight more frequently than his opponent, Dorah. He was one of the few senators who have never enough to attempt to answer Dorah's blasts at the New Deal.

USAGE OF RELIEF FIGURES DROPPED

Democratic Committee Decides To Stop Issuing Facts as Aid to Nominees

By LYLE C. WILSON
(Copyright, 1931, United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17, (U.P.)—The Democratic national committee today voted to discontinue its practice of issuing relief expenditures for campaign use in the several states. The United Press was informed.

Other Work Continues
But other campaign work at the present time is being done by the outgoing mail from Democratic political headquarters—left or right night in two large nuclei which have been tracked by an elevator.

Republican protests against the Democratic use of relief expenditures as a campaign argument.

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee was making political capital of his man relief fees in violation of a solemn promise by President Roosevelt.

The United Press sought the state figures but was informed that Democratic national committee headquarters a week ago that state-by-state spending tables were not for general distribution.

You May Not Know That

There is no provision in Idaho statutes for assembling returns of election excepting when the judges deliver the ballots, boxes and other supplies to the board of canvassers.

The official results to the public is born by your newspapers and press associations as a matter of public service, and at great expense.

committees never compiled expenditure totals for all states and that no more state-by-state reports are being prepared.

The committee's campaign bank had closed a few weeks ago, and had invited this invitation to candidates.

The amount in which each state participated in this (PWA) and other forms of emergency relief is available by the states at the Democratic national headquarters and will be supplied on request.

Northview
Endorsing a man to pass a treaty, the car driven by J. H. Skinner ran into the burrow pit, Friday afternoon. Miss Wanda Skinner, who lost three teeth, Billy Stoloberger, who had to have several stitches taken in his face, and Merrill Skinner were the other occupants of the car. Merrill Skinner and J. H. Skinner, only received minor scratches. The car was considerably damaged.

VANDAL SINGERS PLEASE HEARERS

Chorus Brings Musical Treat To Audience at Varied Concert Here

University of Idaho Vandaleers brought a real musical treat to an appreciative Twin Falls audience in the high school auditorium last evening. Directed by Prof. Carleton Cummings, head of the university music department, the chorus sang Russian, Spanish and Negro spiritual numbers in a manner which showed intensive training and unusual skill.

Also noteworthy was the adequate imitation of "The Good Shepherd" by the soprano, Lyona, Kellogg, who did the solo work in the spiritual "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray." The chorus ended its program with a highly interpretative of "Long Day Chorus," sung a capella.

Excellent Solo

Speculative Decline

"The relative weakness of futures compared with cash prices," the report said, "is indicative of the fact that the decline was of a speculative nature rather than due to any weakness in the domestic cash market situation."

Although the domestic price now is "fairly close" to an import basis for non-premium wheat, "there is no prospect for large importations unless very large amounts should be sold in the United States," the bureau said.
