

Right now—TODAY—an unusual opportunity is being offered Twin Falls and vicinity, an opportunity every wide-awake resident of this locality should immediately recognize.

No one can doubt that Twin Falls is growing as fast as is possible in face of various obstacles. Building and improvements under way and already completed in our business district are conclusive evidence of that. And the demand for satisfactory business locations continues to grow daily.

This condition is a strategic opportunity for builders, contractors and investors who have been hounding the locality of recent years. It should be recognized by the city as a whole as a problem that must be solved as quickly as possible.

Perhaps never before have so many opportunities presented themselves to our city officials and various public organizations, including the Senior Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, civic groups and women's associations.

We hear of the Starbuck road project, the necessity for improved transportation facilities, culling factories, elimination of the bridge toll, the need for more business buildings, more homes, a new library, airport, swimming pool, and dozens of other worthwhile endeavors. Why continue to dream about such things? Why not, with conditions so favorable, have on many of these improvements as possible become a reality? Through the services of federal labor and the National Housing Act we already have the facilities to start the march toward that, coupled with our own initiative and enterprise, can accomplish wonders.

PARALYSIS KILLS COAST ATTORNEY

Ann Keyes, Brilliant Former Prosecutor Jailed for Bribery, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Ann Keyes, whose brilliant career as district attorney was cut short by imprisonment for bribery, died at his home in Beverly Hills early today following a stroke of paralysis. He was 67.

His condition had been critical since he was stricken Tuesday night. He lapsed into unconsciousness yesterday and hope for his recovery was abandoned.

It was the third stroke the former prosecutor suffered since he was paroled from San Quentin prison in 1931. The others were mild, and he was able to carry on his insurance business while he fought for reinstatement to the bar.

He died without attaining this distinction.

In Famous Cases Keyes either prosecuted or had a hand in the prosecution of some of the most notorious criminal cases in the history of the west.

Among them were the William Edward Hickeyman kidnap-plotting case, the Madeline Oshenbain trial and Clara Phillips hammer murder. He played a minor part in the attempt to solve the William Desmond Taylor shooting.

It was under his direction that the purported kidnaping of Almeda Temple McPherson was investigated. She was accused of having conspired to defeat justice in the case but was acquitted.

Possibly his most sensational case was solving William Edward Hickeyman to the gallows.

Gifted Lawyer Keyes, one of the most gifted trial lawyers who ever practiced a case in the local courts, was sentenced to San Quentin for five years imprisonment after being convicted of accepting a bribe in connection with the Julian Petroleum corporation finance.

He served 10 months of his sentence and was paroled in 1931. Later he received a full pardon from the late Governor James Rolph, Jr.

Friends said his health was impaired by prison confinement. Returning home, Keyes waged an energetic though unsuccessful battle to win reinstatement at the bar. His conviction and stripped him of his right to practice. The bar association opposed him.

FAMED ORGANIST WILL TOUR U. S.

NEW YORK (AP) - The renowned German organist Gunther Ramin is visiting America to give a series of recitals from coast to coast. Ramin has been the organist of St. John's Lutheran church in Leipzig 16 years. It is the most coveted position in the world of organ music and he is considered the greatest living interpreter of the works of the father of music.

Many in U. S. Ramin finds the number of great organs throughout the United States is surprisingly large. Many of the churches have beautiful instruments judged by their standards. One of his surprises was to find one of the largest organs in the world in the little town of Tigover, Pa. Great advance has been made in organ building in America in recent years, he finds, and the technical perfection of American workmanship is especially noteworthy. Some of the organ builders of Germany, incidentally, have sent representatives to the United States to spend considerable time with American organ builders to study their methods.

MYSTERY PLANES TO FLY IN RACE

England's Three Speed Ships Carry British Hopes in Melbourne Flight

LONDON (AP)—British three speed mystery planes, the Comet, on which this country's leading high speed pilot, the Duke of Westminster, will fly, and the Comet, on which this country's leading high speed pilot, the Duke of Westminster, will fly, and the Comet, on which this country's leading high speed pilot, the Duke of Westminster, will fly.

Mellison Flying
The pilots of the other two Comets will be James Mellison and his wife, Amy Johnson Mellison, and Capt. C. W. A. Scott and Capt. Campbell Black.

For the past six months the design of the three mystery planes, the only ones specially constructed for the race, has been kept closely guarded secret. They have never been given their actual design. Although they are not expected to be as fast as some of the machines entered for the race, it is now believed that they will have a cruising speed of more than 200 miles an hour and a range not far short of 3,000 miles.

No Wind Breaks
To nullify the effect of wind, the three Comets have been given "debutante" engines polished as smoothly as glass, with the wings covered with a layer of "stressed skin" like that of a racing motorboat. At the same time the skin is sixteen-thirty-two of an inch thick. At the wing-tips it is only an eighth of an inch thick.

EASY, SAYS GIRL
PARACHUTE STAR
"Nothing to it," claims Aco of Soviet's Women Air Jumpers

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
MOSCOW (AP)—Nina Kuchinova, the 17-year-old Soviet girl, who recently set a world record for delayed parachute jumping for women, would like to know why people think that leaping a few thousand feet from a plane is anything to be afraid of.

"There's nothing to it," said Nina, in effect, when asked about her reactions.
"I was worried when I made my first jump, but I was terribly frightened," she said. "While I was still in the airplane I felt no fear. Then I climbed out of the wing, still no terror."
"Questions Hurled"
"Maybe," I thought, "when I suddenly jump I'll be frightened. I jumped but still was not afraid. I didn't realize when or how the parachute opened. Everything was hurried."
"People told her that the second jump would be 'the worst.' But she did not find it so."
"I was surprised to see how the parachute opened over me and again I had no time to get frightened," she said.
"On my 24th jump, which I planned as a delayed one, I was counting down while falling, but I could not hear my voice. After I had counted to 10, a cork-crew movement started tumbling me about and I could not see anything."
"Stopped Cork Crew"
"I threw out my arms and legs and the cork-crew movement stopped. I was falling fast and hard. When I was able to see clearly a river and people on the field below, I pulled the ring."

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—Carl Langre, 34, of Belle Vernon, near Pittsburgh, has set a new world record for successive parachute jumps. Recently, he made 21 jumps in 24 days, from dawn to dusk. London-Melbourne Race Will Prove World's Greatest Sky Adventure For Ace Air Pilots

LONDON (NPA)—Across sixteen different countries and over open seas, passing through the hot deserts of Persia and Arabia, by a route which has never before been flown by man, the world's greatest crack aviators soon will be winging the Pacific on the greatest race in aviation history.

Although nearly a score of Americans originally were scheduled for entry in the 11,323-mile London-Melbourne derby, the hope of the United States now centers on one plane and its two celebrated pilots—Col. Roscoe Turner, holder of records for trans-continental dashes, and Clyde Pangborn, round-the-world flyer and the first to span the Pacific non-stop.

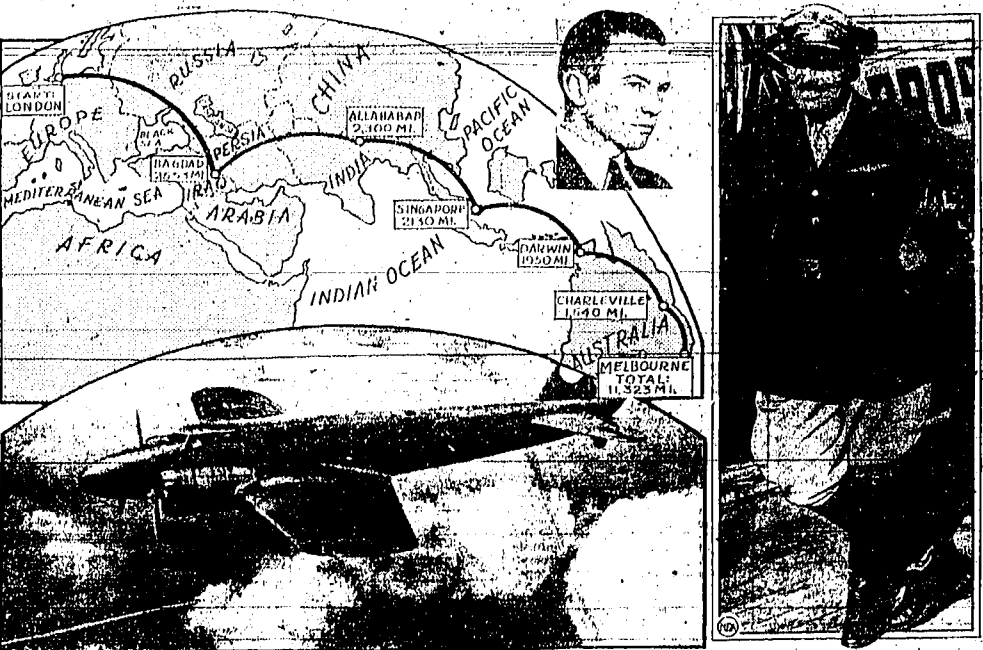

Starts Oct. 20
They'll get away on Oct. 20 from Mitchell Aerodrome, the Royal Air Force base near here. Flying steadily, it is believed, likely that the winning craft will land at Melbourne, Australia, on the fourth day of the race.

In such a free-for-all race, it may be that the winner will be a private racing ship, operated by ordinary commercial flying. That is why the handicap feature was added—to reward the craft which may be a little slower, but more valuable to the aviation industry. An American aviator is vitally concerned in the handicap race as well as the speed contest because at least three American-built planes, two of them piloted by foreigners, have been entered.

Two Ideas
That they really are two separate races with separate prizes, through they're run concurrently, for the main feature there are no restrictions about flying at night or refueling in the air, no time allowances, no limitations on fuel, power or number of crew. The idea is to get from here to Australia as quickly as possible, providing only that all ships stand hand for certification at five control points along the way.

Swift Planes
There are faster planes in the race, but it may be that they will be handicapped by shorter cruising range. England is entering a new de Havilland Comet, details of which have been kept secret. But it is reported to cruise at 221 miles an hour. The entry of Colonel Fitzmaurice and his crew is expected to be a surprise, with great speed, and tremendous range.

FAMOUS AVIATOR GIVES UP RACING

Major Jimmy Doolittle Views Experimental Purposes As Vanished

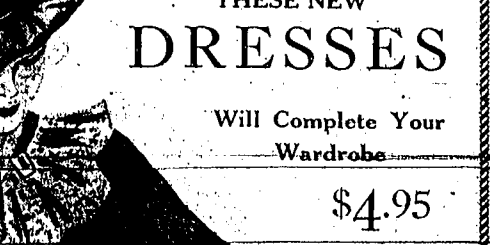

DETROIT (AP)—Breakfast in St. Louis, Mo., lunch in Detroit, dinner in Williamsport, Pa., and still Jimmy Doolittle, famous retired army major, today announced he was definitely through with speed flying.
"None," he said, "no more of that reckless stuff for me. Speeding at a breakfast speed. I'm through, positively through."
Doolittle, who has flown over mountains in endurance flights with both legs broken and whizzed through the air at 300 miles an hour, gave his reason that his "instructor" had been taken away from him.

Not Needed
The laboratory, Doolittle explained, was the race course. "For years the little racing planes were the guinea pigs of aviation," he said. "Now they're no longer necessary. Little, short winged planes of today are purely experimental, they're no longer experimental."
"Maybe I've got vinegar in my veins, I'm not sure myself, but anyway I'm through with racing. Now I've got two little boys, a wife and twelve, and besides there's nothing to be gained now by this racing."

AMERICANS NO LOVE MAKERS, SAYS LEDERER
HOLLYWOOD (Special)—"They're a race to which unnumbered millions of people delight. France, Lederer has found romance suddenly, shunted into the background in America."
"Americans, he declares, are 'too busy to love' and their lives are full of other things."
"It's a Good Thing"
All of which, the handsome young Czech screen actor, considered, was the reason in Parisian's "Parade of Happiness," is a good thing from a practical standpoint and saves this country a lot of trouble, but he holds that Americans don't know what they're missing.
On the whole, Europeans have more leisure than Americans, and consequently devote more time to their hobbies and sports. In Czechoslovakia and in Germany and Austria, he says, "the average woman does nothing to contribute to her financial support."
"Time for Love"
"A girl chooses no profession but prepares herself for marriage as a career. She spends her time reading, her mother with the household, and enjoying herself. Men, too, have more time."
"But here life is not so empty. The woman, as well as the man, has a very interesting life. They're part of both the social and business worlds, just as men are, and they're eternally busy. That's a healthy condition, though," he said.

DRUNKEN DRIVING SHOWS INCREASE

Pennsylvania Finds Stricter Penalties Necessary for Lax Motorists

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 17.—Pennsylvania highway patrolmen have answered the "increased" tendency of automobile drivers to mix drinking and driving with increased arrests and license revocations since repeal of the 18th Amendment.

Revocations Gain

Revocations, which reflect the county court action on which they are based, have increased 25 per cent, and suspension of drivers for indefinite periods have increased nearly 400 per cent.

Leon D. Metzger, secretary of revenue, issued these figures, a histogram showing the rising number and more rigorous action against persons who persist in the dangerous practice of combining drinking and driving.

"The sharp rise in the number of revocations resulting from convictions under the influence of liquor indicated offenders are finding the courts firmly on their feet in the general campaign to curb drunken drivers," he said. "Juries are becoming more tolerant in dealing with the menace of drivers with diluted faculties and cars built for speed and quick thinking."

GIN WAS PRICE OF MANHATTAN, DUTCH BELIEVE

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 17.—For a $24 barrel of "fire-water" the Indians sold Manhattan Island to the Dutch.

It long has been believed that the particular brand of gin which was so popular to the noble rooster was whiskey—good eye, for preference.

Now it is suggested the potent spirit, with which Hudson and his Hollanders bamboozled the Indians, actually was gin.

It is pointed out that the Dutch already had been manufacturing this cocktail foundation for nearly 85 years before Hudson's voyage.

War or Peace in Europe May Hinge on Saar Vote Results

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON (NRA).—Probably not since the American Presidential election of 1800 will there have been a vote of the people so important to the future of peace or war as the plebiscite to be taken next January.

Whether the Saar territory shall be returned to Germany, remain under the League of Nations or at present or become part of France.

Evil Legacy

The Saar question is one of the evil legacies of the treaty of Versailles. With all their cantankerous northern France wrought during the German army's occupation, the French of Versailles dominated the annexation of the Saar in compensation.

A piece of German territory, 757 square miles, with about 800,000 inhabitants, it is located north of Belgium and south of the Rhineland section of Prussia. President Wilson and Premier Lloyd-George sided with Germany, the plebiscite was held in 1935. As compensation, the French were given the rich coal mines of the Saar and proceeded to knit the product of these mines up with the iron mines of Lorraine. This gave the Saar economic prosperity.

Attempts to Frenchify

But all attempts to Frenchify the Saar were vain. Before the advent of Adolf Hitler and his Nazis in Germany, the plebiscite had been held in 1935. As compensation, the French were given the rich coal mines of the Saar and proceeded to knit the product of these mines up with the iron mines of Lorraine. This gave the Saar economic prosperity.

Hitler Needs Victory

Adolf Hitler is all out to achieve a smashing victory next January in the Saar. He needs it. He has encountered nothing but failures so far in his external policies. He has been thwarted in his efforts to Nazify his native Austria. He has lost the friendship of Mussolini and Italy. So now he has turned to the Saar. A mere victory will not mit his book. Unless it is overwhelming, it will be counted against a defeat. All the tricks the Nazis know so well how to employ have been used.

French Offer Equality

Hitler held a gigantic meeting at Ehrenbreitstein in which over a hundred thousand Saarlanders were transported. Every night the radio from Germany broadcasted propaganda. The Saar is flooded with German papers, filled with propaganda. Nazi-minded Germans in the Saar have been united in a powerful organization called the "Deutsche Front" in a gesture to France. Hitler has said that when the Saar is returned to Germany, there will be no more outstanding questions with France and the Joy-bells and peace-bells can ring.

Max Braun, redoubtable Socialist leader and editor of a leading Saar newspaper, has taken command of the anti-Nazi. At the time Hitler was addressing his followers at Ehrenbreitstein, Braun organized a meeting of 60,000 Saarlanders. He has joined hands with the Communists in fighting return to Germany.

Sends Note

Making propaganda for itself, the French government has sent a note to the League, saying that if all or part of the Saar is given to France, all its inhabitants will be equal before the law, will have full protection of life and liberty without distinction of language, race or religion. The Versailles Treaty provided that if the Saar is returned to Germany, the latter shall buy back the coal mines from France.

INDIANS REJECT WHITE DOCTORS

Attempts of Native "Medicine Men" Proving Detriment in Sickness Wave

By JULIAN A. BEAMAN

MESA VERDE CAMP, Ariz. (AP).—Indian medicine men and their Red Skin brethren on numerous reservations in Arizona have no use for modern medical science. For generations the practice of curing for the sick in their native ways has been handed down from one medicine man to another and still dominates among the scattered Indian colonies. We spotted evidence of this when we brought here this week by Dr. B. Huff, physician on the Apache Indian reservation.

Two Die

The report that two Indian youths already have died from an epidemic of measles and many others are confined to their respective homes in a serious condition, has caused E. W. Pringle, reservation superintendent, to close all schools and order the medicine men to stop their trading the cases.

This has renewed a long standing fight between medical science and the teachings of the tribal medicine men.

The Indians confine their cases to large pits, however, not trusting pills where the ill remain on long as they can endure the heat from open light about the place. When the agony and burning can be endured no longer they run to the nearest stream and plunge into the water.

Symbolic Use

The fire of the smoking-pipe is supposed to chase the evil spirits within the body outside and the water is supposed to cleanse the outer portions of all such demon according to the superstition of the Apache tribe.

This method of treatment is one of the greatest hindrances to fighting the disease that has caused much worry on the reservation, according to Dr. Huff.

The coyote in a pen in some areas and a helpful animal in other small amounts that may do more damage to crops and forests than the coyote does to livestock, poultry, or game.

The French government has asked the League to decide how this is to be done, before and not after the plebiscite.

Thus affairs have come to a fevered hot already and the polling booths do not open for four months.

AVIATION SHOWS GAINS IN EGYPT

It's Familiar Sight to View Airplanes Soaring Over Antique Ruins

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The progress of aviation in Egypt was praised by Georges Awadalla, secretary of the department of aviation, a branch of the ministry of Communications upon his arrival here for the International Aeronautical conference at Washington.

"Egypt is truly an island," said Secretary of Aviation Awadalla. "The sight of airplanes passing above the Pyramids and ruins of antiquity is a familiar one. Egypt is not only a chief transfer point for 1500 of the principal air routes in the world, but it has originated its own very successful air transport for internal communications."

Visitors have now found that they can travel comfortably from Cairo to Jerusalem in less than three hours, a saving of considerable part of the journey occupied by the travelers in their 10 years of wandering. This new service has made possible a quick trip to Palestine and Egypt combined.

WORLD REQUIRES DEMOCRACY

This troubled world may yet be forced to understand that it will have to make itself safe for democracy before it can carry on with the ordinary business of living.

Democracy has gone out of style since the war. That magnificent slogan that Woodrow Wilson handed out in war days has become something to laugh at.

But when all the shams and hypocrisies of the war are admitted and all the faults of democratic government are reviewed, it is still true that democracy does provide a safety valve which eases tensions and prevents the kind of explosions that have been tormenting Europe lately.

Historians are still arguing about what caused the World war, and the argument won't be settled for a long time to come. One thing, however, is very clear; a large part of the trouble was the ceaseless struggle of oppressed minorities to win their freedom.

This struggle centered in the old Austro-Hungarian empire, and it touched off the war. The finest thing Wilson ever did was to tell the whole world that freedom and self-determination must be the heritage of all peoples if a repetition of the holocaust was to be avoided.

But the post-war readjustments failed to reach this goal. Democracy was discarded; Croats, Austrians, Russians, Germans, Italians, one people after another, were forced into the strait-jacket of autocratic government. That priceless safety valve, the ballot box, was tossed out of the window.

The result? Violence and bloodshed. In country after country the secret police must go about smelling out plots and conspiracies. Prisons must be enlarged, executions must be kept busy.

The dictators fear their own people and they fear one another. Riots and assassinations come in an ever increasing crop; and each one disturbs an unstable equilibrium so dangerously that people catch their breath and wonder, "Will this start a new war?"

Maybe it's time to revive that old war slogan. A world that was safe for democracy would certainly have fewer danger spots than the one in which we are now living.

Calling the Southern California football team "Hollywood struck" is unfair. Those boys have been struck not so much by Hollywood as by their rival teams.

SIGN OF HEALTH

Expressions of regret at the outburst of rowdiness that marked the final game of the world series seem to be out of place. The outburst simply indicates that the grand old game of baseball is enjoying excellent health.

For baseball has a rowdy streak in it. It isn't a polite game, formalized and toned down by generations of "good sportsmanship."

It derives from the small towns and the sandlots, where players get sore and slug one another occasionally, where "kill the umpire" is a familiar cry, and where haterides are not afraid to vent their displeasure on the visiting team.

That sort of thing may be regrettable—but it's part of baseball, and part of America. So long as baseball retains a touch of it, it will continue to be the typically American game.

Starting boys in military training at the age of 8, as Mussolini is doing, is a good idea, since wooden guns have come into use not just to play with.

FOR PROMOTERS ONLY

The senate banking committee certainly indulged in plain speaking when it issued its report on investment and holding companies.

"Little justification, economic or social, exists for the holding company as presently constituted and conducted," says the committee's report. "Holding companies, whether employed in the banking, public utility, or railroad field, have been catastrophic to the American public."

All too often, the holding company is nothing more than a device by which a clever promoter can gain control of widespread properties through use of other people's money. It may be very nice for the promoter, but it has very little social usefulness.

Majority sentiment in the United States is likely to be with the senate committee in its demand for federal regulation of holding companies.

BEGIN HERE TODAY CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Idaho Evening Times, reports a story of the death of EDWARD HILLINGHAY, private detective, killed by "BROTHERS RUDY" LAMSON, gangster.

"You know," Mrs. Cathay said, "husbands would very frequently make fools of themselves were it not for the restraining hand of a wife."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY DAN HARKER, junior partner and publisher of The Idaho Evening Times, returned to Morden, his police reporter.

"I'm putting someone else at your desk down at headquarters," he said. "You get busy and 'chase' down every lead you can get on Frank H. Cathay. Dig into Cathay's life with a spoon, and dig deep. There'll be plenty there that he won't want to have brought out—there always is. The trouble with her of his type is that they pose as being altogether a woman, but they're not from that 'hot' human. When you get back of that front you find a lot of stuff that nobody knows about. You get busy and find out."

"Yes, sir," said Morden. "I'll be right on top of it." "You better get up under your hat and see that you keep your mouth shut. You get the information, as you got it, you bring it to me. You'd better make daily reports."

"You mean that you're going to get a fight, tell him not to stand up and look him in the eye and tell him that." "Whatsoever you do, don't be sneaky. Don't go to knocking around corners, hanging at loose ends, peering through windows. Be right in the eye of the job—it's a legitimate business. Remember, young man, that this newspaper is back of you. Frank H. Cathay may be bigger than you are, but by God, the newspaper is bigger than he is. He's started a fight. All right, he's going to get a fight. Tell him not to stand up and look him in the eye and tell him that."

"Whatsoever you do, don't be sneaky. Don't go to knocking around corners, hanging at loose ends, peering through windows. Be right in the eye of the job—it's a legitimate business. All right, he's going to get a fight. Tell him not to stand up and look him in the eye and tell him that."

"Thank you," she said in a voice that was neither cordial nor grateful. She remained standing. Ethel West strode into Dan Harker's private office. "Mrs. Cathay is out there," she said.

Harker looked up at her with a swift frown. "Name?" "Yes?" "What does she want?" "She won't tell me." "What does she look like?" "She's about 35. She has lots of money and she's spent a lot of it on her appearance. She's got one of those schoolgirl complexion. She hardly ever moves her facial muscles. Her eyes are nervous. She's trying to make a good impression. She's wearing a fur coat with a big collar; she looks better in it when she's standing up. She started to sit down and then changed her mind. She looks perhaps you might come out to see her, instead of letting her come in to see you. She's standing up so she can make a good impression."

"She's asked Harker, 'No, she's got a perfect figure and the coat displays it to advantage.' 'Show her in,' said Harker. The woman was expensively dressed and well kept. Her manner, rapid, yet sweet. Her face was a study. She had a collar of a fur coat, a collar which had been carefully selected to set off the delicate oval of the face, when the face was seen against the collar at just such an angle. 'Yes,' she said. 'Will you be so good as to tell him that I am here?'

"I wanted to see you about my husband," Mrs. Cathay said. "Yes, of course."

"Oh, did you know I was coming?" "No, but I naturally assumed that was what you wanted to see me about when my secretary said you were in the office."

"I'm a bachelor, myself," he said. She gave a low nervous laugh. "And," went on Harker, "you can cut out the preliminaries and get down to business."

"My husband," she said, "is a man of very strong will."

"At times he's quite impulsive. That is, in his rages, you know. He reaches some decision on the spur of the moment when he's really mad about something and then he's too proud and obstinate to back up."

THE NEW DEAL

Editor Evening Times: Dear Sir: The current political controversy is not without its humorous side, which to quote from a pamphlet that I have just read. Quote "Now, in it not strange that after 147 years of our national experience, we American people should have to learn what it means to have a conservative man in the White House, a mariner on the bridge, who can force the storm in the distance, and guide the ship of state through fair and foul weather, and bring us into that haven of peace and happiness so marked out by the founders of our Constitution?" "The New Deal," by "New Deal," said the author.

RAIL MEN FORM DISPUTE BOARD

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15 (AP)—Shenandoah Railway employees have formed with the company a "system adjustment board" for settlement of all wage and working agreement disputes. The agreement between the shopmen and the company provided machinery for the local adjustment of disputes by negotiations between the board, regional and general officers of the road and representatives of the men.

HOBBOES RENAME "KING"

CINCINNATI (AP)—Although their convention has not yet begun, counting the 400,000 votes cast—by proxy, grapevine telegraph, mail and what not—was not completed until recently, Jeff Hobboes, widely known as "King of the Hobboes," retained the name. The subjects re-elected him overwhelmingly.

Mr. Sinclair's trouble was that he wrote too much. His avocations have collected all he said against the churches and church people. They also have collected a large (for these times) campaign chest and are using it to advertise Mr. Sinclair's early literary efforts, with devastating effect.

The silent politicians, however, are not inclined to count any heads before they fall in the bucket. They are disarming surface developments and still believe regretfully that they have at least an even chance to win.

EDITH The recent exchange of letters between General Eddy and an able writer was merely to give notice that that particular article in that in the trans-Pacific air field.

That is why the letters were given out. A rival line was preparing to get in on the ground floor by establishing a regular air-mail service from California to Honolulu.

It is generally agreed that the U. S. must do something about far eastern air service because the European nations are flying in ahead of us, thereby obtaining commercial advantages.

NOTES It may or may not be significant that Maine spent $12,000 more than her federal allotment for transient relief in September. The FEERA made it up by an increased grant for October. The Maine election was held Sept. 10.

The rumor about a special session of congress after election is being revived, but no plan has yet been made for it and probably none will be.

You cannot find out how many Liberty bonds held by the treasury were part of the last refinancing, but there were some. Such an arrangement is ideal, because there is no danger of the treasury declining to accept the bonds because of inflation to convert the bonds.

TRIESTE REVEALS SHIPPING BOOST

Italian Port Shows Marked Increase in Mercantile Operations

By THOMAS H. MORGAN. TRIESTE, Italy (AP)—The traffic returns for the port of Trieste already show a considerable improvement which, in great part, is due to the conventions between Italy and Austria and Italy and Hungary, according to which of the two Danubian countries are allowed to use the port as a shipping base for mercantile vessels.

The figures show that 22,457,268 units of merchandise entered the harbor during the first seven months of 1934 against 17,000 million units during the corresponding period of 1933.

The conventions entered into between Italy and her Danubian neighbors are of considerable extent and importance. They have become a flourishing port for ships flying the Austrian flag. A special quay has been assigned to Austrian ships and a coal depot placed at their disposal.

Austrian Warehouses Warehouses have been placed at the service of Austria at special rates, and there is an Austrian customs office operating in Italian territory. There also has been created a permanent depot for goods coming from or going to Austria.

The sea traffic of Trieste has declined considerably during the years immediately preceding the recently signed convention. Until the end of the Great War and until the economic crisis of 1932, Trieste was the big port of the Danubian countries, especially Austria and Hungary.

Reason for Decline Two things brought about the decline in traffic: the impoverishment of the Danubian countries caused by their policy of self-sufficiency and customs barriers and the introduction of "clearing" systems which reduced Trieste to a simple point of passage or intermediary stopping place. The men of Trieste no longer bought and sold the goods that entered their port; they acted merely as shipping agents.

Under the new conventions, things are looking up again, and hope is entertained that Trieste will regain some of its lost importance. Even cargo of 90 per cent of the traffic that enters and leaves the port is transit goods, that is, merchandise being conveyed to foreign countries.

TWO DIE IN DOUBLE WRECK

Derailed with two other coaches in a wreck on the Rhode Island railway at Iowa City, Ia., this coach was sliced open by a collision with a freight train when a second passenger train crashed into it before warning signals could be posted. The rear car of the second train is seen at the right.

PARISIAN CROOKS USING OLD TRICKS

Ancient 'Rony' Game Taking Heavy Toll on Pocketbookers of Visitors

By REYNOLDS PAGARD. PARIS (AP)—The old rony game, in which victim and swindler walk around the block with each other's wallet in a gesture of confidence, has been pulled out of the mothball and is being successfully worked here again.

Apparently too good to be improved upon, the ancient trick, without any variation in form, has been used by Parisian crooks within a single fortnight.

The swindler and his assistant in each case were described respectively as an Australian and an Irishman.

The Plot As in the old days, when tourists were more trusting with money than now, the Irish swindler picks up an acquaintance with a man on a cafe terrace or in the lobby of a hotel. He talks of big business, inheritance money and a desire to add American charity.

"The unfortunate of the world is his great unhappiness. He talks on, impressing the victim with the sincerity of his philanthropic intentions.

If any doubt remains, however, it is soon dispelled by the arrival of the assistant who joins the party as if by chance encounter. He soon shows how much he is interested in the charitable project of his put and for a time it looks as though the inheritance money would go to Irish charity.

MILLIONS PLUNGE OIL KING INTO MARRIAGE WOE

The overnight rise from rags to riches brought tears and wretchedness to C. M. "Dad" Jones, 67, discoverer in 1930 of the vast East Texas oil field, the 71-year-old multi-millionaire "wildcatter" told a jury in Dallas, Tex., the other day, fighting the suit of Mrs. Lydia Jones, extreme right, his first wife and mother of his five children, to set aside a property settlement of $500 a month and to grant a wife's half of his fabulous riches. Jones' marriage to his pretty secretary, Miss Dea Fagland, ended immediately after obtaining a Mexican divorce from his first wife in 1929. It is alleged by Jones' first wife, backed by their children, that she was victimized after the man's sudden acquisition of money and announced intention of filing a divorce for judgment.

Season of Colds Is Here, So Start on Precautions

By DR. MORRIS FISHER. Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Look out for a cold at this time of year, especially if you are easily susceptible to one.

For this is the season when colds and influenza return to school. People who have been a great deal outdoors during the summer, move indoors. And many of us will at first be exposed to the drafts, at football games. It is a much sudden change in temperature, and other conditions, that may lower vitality and give way to cold, although the exact cause of the common cold, is not yet known. Colds are passed from one person to another by coughing and sneezing.

Diets to Eat Furthermore, a diet that contains insufficient vitamins and lacks such essential vitamins and leave you susceptible to a cold. Cereals—influenza—in nose and throat, and in the ears, may do so.

And so many interferences with breathing through improper construction of the nose.

If you catch colds easily, you should undergo an examination as to the special conditions existing in your system which might be related to the manner in which you catch cold.

Through the experience of many years, doctors have been worked out for taking care of the ordinary cold, although it is not certain that any of these techniques will actually stop a cold or cure it. The summary of the best advice includes a few simple procedures.

Orange Juice In the first place it seems to be generally believed that alkalization of the body is desirable. This may be accomplished by taking alkaline drinks, such as orange juice and lemon juice in the form of orangeade, which at the same time supplies plenty of water to the body.

The taking of plenty of water is known to be useful, not only for flushing the intestines and the kidneys, but also for protecting the body against fever. The alkaline solution may also be taken in the form of small doses of the citrates or bicarbonates, but it is best not

Washington Monument Will Get First Bath—And It's Big Task

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN. WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Washington monument, 80 years old, is going to get its first bath, a $100,000 job.

Since 1838 when the corner stone of the shaft was laid and the pipe began rising slowly to ward the top in the 1850's, it hasn't had a bath. And it is estimated a lot of dirt in these years.

As in the case of most things being the both will be a soap and water. Only the "pore" soap, the PWA, which set aside the money, stipulated.

Big Task Erecting scaffolding for the bath proved to be a big task but yesterday the spider-web structure had risen 555 feet, 6 1/2 inches to the top of the shaft.

The bathers crawled around the top of the scaffolding today and paid no attention whatever to the scenery below. One of them took an after-lunch nap on a plank, 555 feet in the air.

The White House looked like a white-washed bird's nest from where they worked; the Potomac river like a smoky, the Lincoln memorial looked like a country band stand and the reflecting pool in front of it, like a full bathtub.

Serious Job The job is a big one, and so serious that some of the workmen quit when the sea of foaming reached the half-way mark. They said they weren't going to risk their necks that high in the air, George Washington or no George Washington.

The great job is a replacement with jobless skyscraper builders and the work went ahead.
