NAVAL SECURITY MUST BE FIRST, JAPANESE TOLD

TOKIO DEMANDS PARITY

Specific Proposals Will Be Made on "New Theory"
Of Limitation

By FREDERICK RUMI
LONDON, Oct. 24 (UPI)—Naval equality and security, desirable in principle, must be arranged in fact according to varying needs and the security of neighboring nations, Norman H. Davis, chief American disarmament delegate, was reported to have told Japanese delegates to the four-day naval conference.

The Japanese delegates were undecided to have outlined to the Americans, loosely, their demand for naval equality and their desire for global tonnage limitation arrangements under which Japan could build any sort of ships, of any size, within a total tonnage allowance.

D. S. Wants Actuality.
Davis was said to have replied that the United States was interested in the substance rather than the form, of any naval understanding.

Japan was expected to outline specific naval proposals to a British delegation Friday and to amplify them to the Americans early next week. The Americans were due to meet the British in the middle of next week.

Japanese Ambassador Taneo Matsumura told the Americans that Japan had established a new theory of naval naval limitation complete and fixed.

He was asked in his outline by Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto.

British Willing.

The outlines were similar to those made by the Japanese to a British delegation yesterday.

The British seemed willing to concede the Japanese the right or equality, providing they did not exercise it to build a navy equal to those of the United States and Great Britain.

It was said authoritatively that the American view was that of existing naval strength, as laid down in the Washington Limitation treaty, actually established relative equality and security.

The Washington treaty limits Japan to three tons in capital ships to every five tons for America and Britain.

Bankers Expect Address May Solidify Swing Toward
New Deal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UPI)—President Roosevelt's important address tonight to the American bankers association was awaited eagerly today in expectation it might solidify a swing toward balking support of the New Deal.

The nature of the president's remarks was guarded closely.

He was quiet during the address after conferring with treasury advisers, including Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper.

Roper offered the only hint of what the president might say.

"I do not believe the president will go beyond Pugatory."

Forces Reassurance.

The bankers were hopeful that from administrative spokesman speech that would gain reassurance.

He warned Idaho that "the same principles now being applied to beet sugar can be utilized against beans, wool and other western products."

Urge D. O. M. Unity

Urge Republicans to show unity and to take the right candidates who represent the principles conducive to our interests," he said.

He assured that the state must get out of the channel of temporary emergency, and into the channel of permanence.

He told the resolution committee,

ADVISES LIBERAL CREDIT

By MACH JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UPI)—Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation today assured the American Bankers association that dangers to banks were past, and called upon them to lend money to recovery.

Jones' speech, couched in more friendly terms than he used in an address to a group a year ago, emphasized the necessity for increasing the flow of bank funds into business channels, and suggested widespread liberalization of credit policies.

Promised U. S. Aid

He promised full co-operation of government agencies in carrying out this policy, including that of bank examiners.

The remarks of Jones served as a prelude to the address which President Roosevelt will deliver to the bankers tonight.

"There is no longer danger of panic withdrawal," said Jones, "or anything else befalling banks that

Heads Bankers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UPI)—Rudolf B. Hecht, chairman of the board of the Illinois National bank, New Orleans, today was unanimously elected president of the American Bankers association succeeding Francis M. Law, president of the First National bank, Houston, Texas.

Robert V. Fleming, president of the First National bank, Washington, D. C., was elevated from the second vice-presidency to that vice-presidency.

Credits Bankers

James credited bankers generally with doing their duty to the country and admitted the governmental bank examination policy was partly responsible for continued optimism on liquid condition.

"It is necessary that we reorganize or reform bank examinations," he said, "and bank supervision. One examination a year should be enough for a well-managed bank with ample capital to protect its depositors."

He suggested that a joint examination for all government agencies interested in banks might be adopted.

Suggets Shift.

"Bank examinations could very properly be made on a basis of soundness and solvency, rather than too much liquidity," he said.

LISBON, Ok., Oct. 24 (UPI)—Adam Richetti, put in the chain Chas ("Pretty Boy") Floyd, who was brought here to jail today from Webville, will be turned over to Boone county, Missouri, officers for trial on murder charges, County Prosecutor George Lafferty announced.

Richetti, 30, of the main bandit-killer, Charles ("Pretty Boy") Floyd.

Rather than facing trial in Kansas City for participation in the holdup of the First National bank in Coffeyville, Richetti will be tried here on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Hugh McNamee and Frank Wedderburn left for Cleveland, announcing they would make no further efforts to send Richetti to Kansas City.

Shérif Thomas J. Nash of Kansas City also departed.

"I hope to take second place to any man in the country in attacking the President of the United States in offering allegiance to anything he does or intends to do that is to the best interests of the American people."

He praised Frank L. Stephan, Twin Falls Republican nominee for governor, and asserted that "public opinion is every day growing stronger for the election of Stephan to the post he seeks."

Other planks in the platform helped to clinch the G. O. P. rally.

1. Enforcement of anti-trust laws to break up monopolies and end price-fixing conditions which are permitted to flourish under the NRA setup.

Currency Bank

2. National bank or central bank for currency, as proposed by Senator William E. Borah.

3. Old age pensions.

4. Extend scope of income and inheritance taxes "so wealth will share more equitably in the nation's burdens."

5. Lower freight rates for Idaho.

Preceding Hale's address, Petty-grove introduced more than a dozen Republican candidates for legislative and county offices, including two nominees in the non-partisan judicial race.

BANK DANGER IS FINISHED—JONES

RFC Leader Asks Financiers To Extend Liberal Credit As Recovery Aid

People, said Jones, read that it is important to lend money, but find actually that they are willing to lend only on collateral that few possess.

"Counteracting in large measure," he said, "any willingness to make new loans in the fact that most banks are still trying to collect the slow loans with which they were caught at the beginning of the depression, even though, in many instances, interest is being currently paid and periodic reductions made."

Hints on State

"A continuation of forced liquidation will put the government further into the lending business."

He declared the RFC only wants to make loans where other credit is unavailable, and collects the co-operation of banks to that end.

Jones suggested further decentralization of credit control, "there is still a great deal of concentrated power," he said, "and congress might look further into the question of interlocking directors and control by influence."

Proposed Limit

He also advanced limiting bank deposits to eight times the amount of sound capital, and urged basic reorganization promptly capital where needed.

The two big problems still confronting the RFC, he said, are further assistance to railroads and re-establishment of a national market for sound real estate mortgages.

Why? asked Jones at a speech before the Franklin D. Roosevelt club here. "If the money is so bad, how Senator Borah left this country for 22 years in such awful danger of a catastrophe, which, from his viewpoint, would follow a change of mind on the part of Canada? Why has he not started a crusade for its repeal?"

Necessary Measure

Whalen said the reorganization measure was necessary in view of reopening markets, closed due to reprisals against the then existing tariff policies.

"But," the speaker said, "it is rather parlous to presume to differ from the conclusions of Senator Borah now. There was a time when even Frank Stephan and others could make critical talks about 'Why'."

Stephan, secretary of state, took issue with the senator on constitutional interpretation and the trust issue. Stephan charged him with mud-slinging."

But Turner and Pangborn, after making 256 miles, had to land at Bourke because of motor trouble.

The Netherland "flying hotel" got away at 8:54 a. m. (9:54 p. m. yesterday eastern standard time) and got into Melbourne at 10:54 a. m. Its three passengers left the plane at Albion to take another for Melbourne, but it was announced this would not affect the Douglas handicap.

Half an hour before the Netherland plane arrived, Turner and Pangborn left Bourke for their final 515-mile flight, after losing an hour and 20 minutes.

Turner and Pangborn got out hurriedly when they reached here. They had heavy beards. They had not shaved since Saturday morning.

Their first request was for hot water and razors.

Shave, Bath and Sleep

"First, a shave and then a bath," said Pangborn, "then I hope for a spot of sleep and perhaps more than that spot."

They had been abed only a little more than six hours since Sunday, they had only one at their disposal.

WALKER RESIGNS AS CLUB'S PREXY

Charley Grimm Remains Field Chief; Revamping Planned Among Players

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (UPI)—The third place Chicago Cubs of the National League are embarked on a plan designed to make them a power in the field as well as on paper.

First step in a reorganization which will sweep the Cubs from business office to dugout was the resignation last night of President William H. Walker, who has been associated with the Cubs since the days of the old Federal League.

Walker's 1,974 shares in the club were bought by P. K. Wrigley, chewing gum magnate and majority stockholder. Wrigley announced that he will be elected president at a meeting of the club directors next week.

"I have some ideas that I'm going to try out," Wrigley said, "so see how they work."

"They might be formed crazy in baseball circles, but I want to prove to my own satisfaction that they are good or bad."

The young multi-millionaire said that Manager Charley Grimm will be supreme on the field but "will work in closer cooperation than ever with the business office."

He confirmed rumors that the playing roster will be radically changed when the team goes south in the spring—some players "possibly" absorbed before the 1935 season—and that "some players of this team are leaving" and promised that they would not be with the club next year. The Cubs stumped badly at the end of the season after riding within a few games of first place all year.

Feathers, Manders Lead In Scoring; Herber First in Pass Effectiveness

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (UPI)—Reuben Feathers of Tennessee and Jack Manders of Minnesota, both members of the champion Chicago Bears, are tied for individual scoring honors in the National Football League.

On figures, released today, show that Feathers and Manders each have 37 points. Close behind is Ken Strong of the New York Giants, who topped the circuit in scoring last season. He has 38 points, one more than Bob Monnett of Green Bay.

Fentons also has a big lead in ground gaining, with 620 yards in six attempts.

Arnold Herber of Green Bay is the most effective passer. He completed 22 in 45 passes, for 431 yards. Ben Smith and Hugo Shapdany, Pittsburgh ends, are the best receivers, having caught 10 and nine, respectively.

Huskies' Baseball, Court Star Dies

SEATTLE, Oct. 24 (UPI)—A supposed injury in an automobile accident Oct. 8 caused the death yesterday of Joseph Weber, Jr., star University of Washington basketball and baseball player.

The county coroner ordered an inquest. Weber, buried yesterday, was 21 years old. He died the time of the accident. He had been in a hospital since then.

Weber was captain of the Washington baseball team and was a member of the 1934 coast champion basketball team.

Ho Hum! Gotham Board Orders Wrestling Quiz

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (UPI)—Those of us who believe in preserving old customs were gratified when General John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, ordered an investigation of wrestling.

For 22 years the athletic commission has launched wrestling probes on the 23rd day of October without a misstep. So, when General Phelan sounded off, he was keeping a rendezvous with tradition. It was like a father handing down his shaving mug to his oldest son, or pressing the family rolling pin into the hands of the daughter first to marry.

Ho Ho! Rumors

In explaining his order for an investigation, the general boldly hinted that wrestling, in his opinion, was not quite the classical sport that enthralled the ancients. He said—and you could hear the reporters groan at his words—that rumors had reached his ears of unsavory activities.

"I have been told, for instance," the general said, "that these wrestlers aren't always 'shouting' as we call it, and that they aren't always trying to win the bout." In the bottom line, it has also been brought to my attention that these athletes frequently wrestle each other at regular intervals, with varying results. I am against this, I think, because I don't think they should meet too often. They become friendly and the outcome of their bouts might not be determined upon the actual superiority of one man over the other."

"Even gentlemen, I am beginning to lose faith in wrestling."

Ho Ho! Santa

The next thing you know, the general will be questioning the honesty of slot machines, the existence of Santa Claus, and the ability of rabbits to lay Easter eggs.

In criticizing the business of wrestling, including the amateur, pro and three thousand a week, the general revealed an amazing ignorance of the game. Any follower of the wrestling sport should know that not until two gents have gone at one another 15 or 20 times does their bout become really worth while.

It isn't difficult to spot a match in which the participants have—made only two or three attempts before they start in rhythm to their work. They hurt each other. Often they complete the required falls minutes before their allotted time has elapsed.

Artillery Plus

On the other hand, there are few things more artful than the 4th meeting between two wrestlers. They work with a precision and grace which no other sport's adepts are not able to grants or grants. The sound effects blend into a harmonious whole, and the man-work-up-to-a-theatrical climax of billy goat butts, flying tackles, and airplane spins as though directed by a Rohrhardt.

ILLINOIS SHOWS TRICKY OFFENSE

Bob Zuppke's Up to His Old Legerdemain—And Rivals Get Dizzy

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NCA Sports Editor)
CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (NEA)—

Illinois' surprise leap up to old tricks of legerdemain at Illinois this autumn, and I'm going to take a peek at the Orange and Blue at Ann Arbor on Oct. 27, when it attempts to whip Michigan for the first time in five campaigns.

I regret having passed up the Illinois-Oregon State engagement Oct. 13 to see Southern California thunder bats at Pittsburgh, for everybody who saw it agrees that the Illini edged out the Buckeyes in one of the most thrilling games in years.

"May Change Game

The light and speedy Illinois backs executed wide laterals so skillfully that trained observers are hinting that Zuppke's 1934 team may lead the way toward a development that actually may relegate running attack to secondary importance. Just as the late Robert Riddell and Gert Dorris of Michigan made the football world believe in 1913,

Kyle Anderson, Chicago scout, relates the following:

"The Illini and Buckeyes did everything but dribble," relates one keen observer.

"And for his information, members of both teams did very well on a couple of passes. Only the officials saw it."

"Just imagine this: The Illini put the ball-in play on Ohio State's 3rd yard line, six men handled it, and finally wound up with an end-making an easy catch in the end zone for a touchdown."

"The various scouting expeditions had to compare notes to see just who did what. As near as we could determine, the center passed the ball to the fullback, who made a dash toward town to one of the halfbacks."

"Back No. 2 wheeled a step off and threw the ball about 15 feet on a lateral to Back No. 3. This young man heaved it in the opposite direction to Back No. 4, Jack Beynon. The latter looked around, took aim, and dropped the ball into the arms of Dykstra for the touchdown."

"What was Ohio State doing all the time? Probably what everyone else was watching to see what would happen next."

CIVILIZATION-BENEFITTED

As another gangster "bites the dust," Americans heave a sigh of relief in the knowledge that something definite and thorough is being accomplished in the matter of crime curtailment.

"Pretty Boy" Floyd, like John Dillinger and the rest of that motley throng of modern desperadoes, has paid for his career of crime with death quite as horrible as any he had inflicted upon his seven victims.

Nothing brings more respect for the law than its swift and certain enforcement. Lately, this respect appears to have been greatly increased, as the effective arm of the federal government has reached out to stamp from society these public enemies.

If the present administration had accomplished nothing else it would be entitled to universal approval for the manner in which crime is being stopped at its fountain head. The result should make for a better society, a more secure people, and in the end, a better civilization, for the gangster types, whatever the extent of their crimes, are in fact mortal enemies of society as we know it.

C. O. C. INCORPORATION

Members of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce are this week being called upon to elect six new directors, and in addition are asked to say whether or not the organization should be incorporated.

It is to be expected that every member will agree to incorporation, on account of the liability which otherwise might attach to the members or the directors personally.

On account of the large number of events which the chamber is called upon sponsor, it seems that the height of good judgment would dictate that incorporation was desirable.

An instance has come to light only this week, in a case at Emmett where the city was made defendant in a suit instituted by a rider alleged to have sustained injuries in a rodeo performance in September. He had sued for $10,000, and a jury in district court awarded $750 in a verdict returned Sunday. Had the sponsors of the performance been an unincorporated Chamber of Commerce, innocent officials and members might have been held responsible.

The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce members should have no hesitancy in voting favorably for incorporation.

CONVENIENT 'SCARE.'

How much do the "alien agitators" have to do with our industrial disturbances? Precious little, as a matter of fact—according to figures unearthed in Washington recently by Rodney Dutcher.

Rhode Island police, for instance, rounded up 55 "alien agitators" after bloodshed in the last textile strike. Of these 55, 48 proved their citizenship, four claimed naturalization, and only three turned out to be aliens; and no evidence has been produced to show these three deportable.

It was the same in San Francisco. In the famous "red raids" after the general strike, 373 men were rounded up. Only 101 were non-citizens, only 14 of these were subject to deportation on any conceivable grounds, and only one was shown to have advocated violence or to have belonged to an organization favoring violence.

This is evidence that the "red scare" in connection with strikes is just a scare, and nothing more.

WATERFOWL IN DANGER

One of the consequences of the recent drought is apt to be a disastrous reduction in the number of American waterfowl. Arthur Newton Pack, president of the American Nature association, says that the dying up of so many streams and ponds has brought about an alarming decline in the numbers of game birds—so much so that sportsmen in some states are even urging a closed season.

"But, instead of being accorded freedom from shooting," he adds, "the harassed birds now face an open season that promises to be the most disastrous in the history of North America wild fowling."

Most hunters undoubtedly would gladly agree to a curtailment of this fall's hunting season, if they were fully convinced of its necessity.

From every standpoint, it would be a calamity for us to lose any of our present species of waterfowl. To no one would it be more of a calamity than to the hunters themselves.

Secretary Ickes thinks Herbert Hoover's book would do the Democrats more good than his own. Smart Republicans will take the hint.

Princess, now Mrs. Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, regained her citizenship and immediately began suit for divorce. She never lost her Americanism.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

CARLEYON
KENDRACK

ARMED WITH a pistol, publisher of The Idaho Times, James Morden, police reporter, has been mysteriously shot. He is the victim of a woman, identified as MARY BRIGGS, famous criminalologist, to solve the murder.

Morden, who was working in town all day, came home to CHASE H. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent who had threatened to sue him for libel. Cathay had been reported. Cathay had been arrested. Cathay was proven. But Cathay was still giving the name of Cathay and was accused of a man called MARY BRIGGS, who was an impostor. MARY CATHAY was the name of the woman who dropped the charges of the blade publishes a retraction and this is done.

A day later Morden is found dead shortly after that comes word that Cathay is dead—possibly of poison. Bleeker goes to see Mary Griff.

NOW ON WITH THE STORY

BLEEKER spoke slowly. "You understand," he said, "that Morden was investigating Cathay's life. Cathay isn't what he cracked up to be."

"How do you know that?" Griff asked.

"Because," said Bleeker, "I've been in the newspaper business too long to accept any small town celebrity at his face value."

"Riverflow isn't exactly a small town," Griff pointed out.

"The same principle applies," Bleeker said. "It's a suburb, and as far as that's concerned I won't accept any man at his face value. Not unless he's a mugger, or a crook. That's one thing you find out from being in the newspaper business. You're a criminologist, Griff, you know crooks. I am a newspaper man, I know people. And this man Cathay is simply too good to be true. The president of the luncheon club, the president of the chamber of commerce, director of the bank, candidate for city councilman on a reform ticket. And his wife had four in her eyes."

"Fear?" asked Griff.

"Fear," repeated Bleeker. "She was afraid of something."

"Afraid of the newspaper?" asked Griff.

"Perhaps," Bleeker said. "But it looked to me though she was too adept at covering up the fear to have recently acquired it. I would say it was something she had been living with for weeks or months."

"And there was some talk about Cathay's death being due to poison?"

"That's right."

"Then obviously," Griff went on, "the woman would not be guilty of the murder."

Bleeker stared at him. "How do you figure that out?" he asked.

"Quite simple. A woman's good name is, of course, an important possession to her, but a woman of the type who could carry on an affair with a man of the social prominence of Frank H. Cushing is probably the type of woman who does very much as she pleases, and doesn't have to account to any man."

"That's reasonable," Bleeker agreed.

"Therefore," Griff went on, "such a woman would hardly commit murder to keep Morden from getting information concerning Cathay. In that right?"

"That's right."

"Then obviously," Griff went on, "the woman would not be guilty of the murder."

Bleeker stared at him. "How do you figure that out?" he asked.

BPW EXECUTIVE TELLS HISTORY OF FEDERATION

Miss Fern Bauersfeld, field representative of Business and Professional Women's clubs, traced the history of the organization from its beginning at a convention in 1919 in St. Louis to the place of its present power when it was instrumental in placing a woman in the President's cabinet, in a speech last night to members of the Buhl and Twin Falls clubs. Members of the Buhl organization were hosts at a 6:30 o'clock dinner at the Westend Country Club.

Miss Bauersfeld, whose home is in Spokane, gave to the assist. Mrs. Georgia Emory, Davolt, and Miss Price, New York, selected the design for the national emblem of the organization. They presented the design at the second national convention.

President at Organization

Miss Bauersfeld attended the St. Louis convention and since that time has been engaged in federation work. She has been president of the Idaho state federation and now on her second tour as field representative.

She increased the responsibility of the business woman to work with the business man for the betterment of each community and the value that the federation gives to such work.

Miss Gladys Shriner, president, here with the assist. Mrs. Ada Ryan, preceded the speech. Fifteen representatives of the Twin Falls club attended.

Miss Bauersfeld also gave an interesting demonstration of the piano discussion method.

FAULTY HOLDS ANNUAL PHEASANT DINNER

Honoring C. J. Bond, new high school principal, and Mrs. Bond; Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Matteson, Coach Henry Powers; Miss Wilma Koel and Miss Jane Maxwell, now members of the faculty, and Superintendent and Mrs. W. B. Smith, members of Twin Falls high school faculty and their wives, were invited to the annual pheasant feast last evening in the dining room of the home economics department. Courses were arranged for 43 guests.

Music was the "program" theme and parades were sung to the new members. Loyd Perry served as toasting master. R. V. Jones, Miss Ione Marie Minger, Miss Dorothy Call, Miss Lindsey and Mr. Smith all gave never-to-be-forgotten.

Miss Juanita Sutcliffe, assisted by a number of high school girls, supervised the dinner. Miss Martha Carnes, Miss Melon Minor and Miss Edwina Wylard were the arrangements committee. Miss Cora Jensen and Miss Minger had charge of decorations which featured the autumn theme, and Harold Foster supervised the pheasant hunt.

DINNER HONORS BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson and Orville Olsen, both of Hazelton, were united in marriage at an 8 o'clock ceremony last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Swin Patterson. Bishop Jesse J. Olsen of the Latter Day Saints church, father of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. Miss Verna Schwab and Earl Patterson were attendants. The bride wore a formal frock of pale blue silk.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Olsen drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wyllie, 235 Ninth avenue north, where with Misses George Hilliges and Alberta Paton, they were entertained at a late dinner. The table was covered with a large white wedding cake, which the bride cut and served. Tapers on either side were in yellow and the other appointments carried out the color scheme.

Mr. and Mrs. Olsen are leaving this evening on a three week wedding trip to Chicago. On their return they will be at home at Hazelton.

At The Theaters

SCORES AGAIN

Helen Hayes scores a complete success in the screen version of Sir James M. Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," which opened a two-day engagement at the Orpheum theater today. Brian Aherne and Madge Evans are also cast in important roles in the picture.

ROXY STARS

Walter Connolly and Robert Young in "Whom the Gods Destroy." Young essays the dramatic role of a young son pledged to perpetuate the eminence of his father's genius in the theater in the new drama, "Whom the Gods Destroy," showing tonight and tomorrow night on the "Particular Day" program at Joe-K's Roxy theater. Walter Connolly heads the cast.

BUHL CLUB HOST TO ROTARY UNITS

Members of Twin Falls' Jerome, Gooding and Idaho Falls' Buhl clubs will be guests of the Buhl organization at a 7 o'clock dinner tomorrow evening at the West-end country club. Jim E. Carver, Oregon, formerly Buhl's governor of Buhl, will be the principal speaker. A large delegation of Twin Falls members is expected to attend.

Services Held for Mrs. Edith Clark

HURLEY, Oct. 24 (Special) Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Johnson chapel for Mrs. Edith E. Clark, wife of Llewellyn H. Clark, who died Thursday following an extended illness. Rev. Leroy Walker officiated.

Funeral was played by Mrs. George Patterson, and Miss Helen Sprague sang two solos. Rev. Walker preached the funeral sermon.

Interment was in Burley cemetery, under direction of D. E. Johnson.

RADIO PRIEST TO BACK ROOSEVELT

THE Rev. Charles C. Conning, pastor of the Hurley Methodist church, will continue his "Buhl or Bust" theme in his sermon on Nov. 1. Hartwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Hartwell of Buhl, will conduct the service.

Some of his audience, he said, will seek to prepare the people of the United States for "an age of leisure." He declared that he would urge his listeners to support the present administration.

RUNNING WATER Your Family Deserves It

MAKE EVERY HOUR . . .
A HAPPY HOUR

To the housewife falls the task of pumping and carrying water for household uses. Under average conditions, in one year, she will pump from 25 to 50 tons of water and will walk a distance of 30 to 100 miles to carry this water. Let running water do her running . . . have it serve instead of enslave her.

Water under pressure is the one thing that is always ready to serve everyone, every hour and every day. It is the most common, most abundant and most useful to life of any of the compounds, or substances of the earth.

Look ahead . . . visualize what running water means to your family. Their comfort, contentment and their health are in your hands. You are living today . . . keep in step with today. Modernize your home with a dependable water system.

No longer is running water a convenience limited by the extent of city water mains. Wherever there is electric power, you may have your own completely automatic water system and enjoy the same comfort and convenience as if you were living in the city.

See Your Water System Dealer

The first step is to visit your water dealer and select and install a dependable pump that will meet your present requirements as well as those of the future. Outlets or faucets for the kitchen, laundry, barn and garden may be installed first. Later, porcelain kitchen sink, lavatory, bath tub and shower, toilet and laundry tubs may be added as finances permit.

Plan a water system installation just as you would any other improvement for your home . . . but plan NOW!
