FERA STARTS ON DRIVE TO BLOCK RELIEF WASTAGE

Officials Ordered to See That Extra Care Is Utilized in Administration

SEEK TO HEAD OFF QUIZ

Lenders Order Economy, Draft Fight Against Tendency to Refuse Jobs

(Copyright, 1934, United Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (U.P.)—Federal relief administration officials today prepared a model cost accounting system for state administrators in an effort to reduce administratively expenses before congress can begin an investigation.

The United Press was informed FERA is spending just more than 11 per cent to distribute the relief millions to the nation's destitute. Officials consider that average figure satisfactory and said they considered anything under 11 per cent for overhead efficient management of so large an enterprise.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (U.P.)—A drive to head off further congressional criticism by tightening up supervision of federal relief expenditures started today. Officials of the FERA have been instructed to use extra care in dispensing funds so there shall be no fresh cause for denunciations such as those of S. William B. Borah, R., Idaho.

Hit at Waste While it has been the contention of the FERA that the funds have been administered efficiently with almost no waste, the instances cited by Borah have resulted in renewed pressure upon this phase of relief activity.

Under Handicap The way in which relief funds have been used has been the central organization from keeping a close check on expenditures. While still under this handicap, Hopkins and his associates (Continued on Page 2, Column 4)

A NEW DEAL FOR THE SALMON TRACT

A move to improve the water situation on the Salmon river tract, as announced in the Evening Times yesterday, should be welcomed. The exact details of the procedure may have to be altered to suit conditions, but it is certain that any effort made to try to make the number of acres to be watered match the amount of water available will be looked upon with favor by those who own fertile acres.

Some day the Salmon river tract will have a water right comparable with its neighboring tracts. This would be one of the most important assets which could come to this county, because it would immediately increase the population, increase the county's taxable wealth and supply hundreds of new homes, right at our front door, so to speak.

...This city and this county should be more interested in solving the problems of the Salmon river tract, and other such tracts to the east and south of this one, than in any development which is located in some remote section. It is more important to perfect the water rights of those tracts which are already opened, and already tenanted, or partially so, than to seek the opening of new areas with the attendant extra cost of dams, canal systems and other reclamation steps.

Maybe a new deal is in store for the Salmon!

The Evening Times is trying to decide whether or not to conduct a poll among its readers on whether or not it is all right with them for Louisiana and Huey Long to secede from the union.

MUCH WORK LEFT

Those sleeky, streamlined trains that the railway lines have been throwing about the country lately come close to being the most encouraging single thing that has happened since the depression.

Or, to be more exact, the public's response to them does.

Since those trains appeared, the newspapers and magazines have been full of predictions of vast new railroad construction programs. Hand in hand with this has come a great revival of interest in new types of construction in other fields.

Makers of steel houses are stirring from the long sleep. Automobile makers are playing around with new designs. Even the output of such things as refrigerators and household furniture has been affected.

Now all this, to begin with, is simply the process of putting ourselves on tiptoe to peer into an enormous new field that is fairly begging for industrial expansion.

A great opportunity awaits American business, somewhere not far off; it begins to look as if we would be moving into it in the near future.

But there is more to it than that. It also signifies the revival of the old, traditional American spirit. We are discovering that the world is not coming to an end, after all—that there is work to be done, and lots of it, and that we might just as well roll up our sleeves and get busy on it.

We talked so much about over-production, over-expansion and over-capitalization in the last four years that we fooled ourselves into thinking that we had left our golden age away off behind us somewhere.

Everything was finished, all the big jobs had been done, and the only thing that would ever set the wheels going again was a great program of occasionally useless public works.

Then we saw a couple of brand-new types of railroad train, did a little meditation, and discovered that it just wasn't so.

There is enough work crying to be done in this country to keep us all busy for generations.

When we have remade the world's greatest railroad system, rebuilt some millions of homes, harnessed all our streams, restored our failing forests, checked soil erosion and performed a dozen other similar 50-year jobs—then it may be time for us to look around and ask, "What next?"

But we won't see that time. Our grandchildren may, if they live long.

Greater than all other troubles of the depression was the paralysis that fell on the old American spirit of determination and hope. That spirit is now reviving. There could not possibly be a better augury for the future.

The Bolivians captured Fort. Senator Long from the Paraguayans in the Gran Chaco, making this the first defeat Huey has felt since the last session of congress.

Barbara Huton Mdivani threw a costly party in Paris, knowing it was all right as long as our nickels and dimes kept clinking in to pay for it.

Preserving the peace by means of arms may be possible in some quarters, but whoever heard of preserving anything in gunpowder?

The Claw of the Forgotten Murder

By CARLETON KENDRICK
 Copyright 1934

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 When CHARLES MORRIS, reporter for "The Idaho," found out that the "Idaho" had published a sensational story, he was aghast. He had been investigating the murder of FRANK B. APPLETON, wealthy and prominent Idahoan, and he had just learned that the "Idaho" had published a sensational story about the murder, claiming to be the work of a girl called MARY BRIGGS.

The day following Appleton's death, Mary Briggs, a young girl, was arrested by the police. She was charged with the murder of Appleton. Her name was ALICE BRIGGS, and she was a very attractive young woman. Her name was ALICE BRIGGS, and she was a very attractive young woman. Her name was ALICE BRIGGS, and she was a very attractive young woman.

CHAPTER XXXIV
 CHARLES FISHER, the lawyer, shook his head. "I am not prepared to go that far," he said, addressing Griff. "It depends somewhat upon the facts surrounding the administration of the poison. I believe that the authorities hold that a death by accidental means implies that the means by which the death is brought about must be accidental. In other words, an accidental death is not a death by accidental means. It is rather a fine distinction with which the layman is not ordinarily interested, although he should be, because a large number of persons have utilized claims in their insurance policies."

"A most interesting legal point," Griff said, looking from one to the other.

Fisher suddenly smiled. "Well," he said, "I'm standing here gabbling like some glibly woman. I've got work to do and I presume you gentlemen have, too. It was a real pleasure to have seen you."

He bowed, and then turned abruptly to the left, striding purposefully down the corridor, pausing and knocking on the door of a room.

Griff and Bloeker stood by the elevator as the lawyer left, looking at each other attentively.

The door of the room opened a few inches. A woman's voice said, "What is it?"

The lawyer's booming voice came down the corridor, plainly audible.

PAUL MALLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
 An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on the Past-Moving Events in the Nation's Capital by an Expert Interpreter and Commentator
 (Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon)

MISLaid ORDER
 WAS A SINCE THE THE best chance the most-clever woman is the one about Mr. Jekes' lost order.

It may not become as famous as that lost order of General Robert E. Lee, the one accidentally left behind by one of his generals, disclosing his plans to the enemy and causing the battle of Antietam.

Mr. Jekes' order appears to have been lost only temporarily, but it may have the result of leading to a battle with his politically-minded adversaries within the New Deal. It is order No. 110, which appears to have walked off the day after the election of October 10 and may have hidden itself until after election.

POLITICS
 Dated nearly three weeks before election, the order was addressed by General Jekes to his PWA troops and stated in part:

"Many employes are attempting to use political pressure to secure other assignments or increases in salary. These special requests have grown in volume to a point where the staff in my office is unable to handle them.

Notice is hereby given to all employes that requests of this nature will be ignored and will not enhance their standing for future advancement. Once an applicant has been employed, he should be content to stand on his record of performance for advancement."

That would have been a sad blow to General Jekes and Colonel Hurd if they had heard about it before they left. They are in charge of political pressure in the New Deal army and they might have sought the "entirement" of General Jekes for Democratic treason.

At least the order may have been grossly mislaid at this juncture with their effort to get all sisters, brothers, cousins and friends of Democratic office-holders to the polls.

MIDDLE ROAD WORK
 Spraying of Hating, the appointment of Josephine Roche as assistant treasury secretary could not have been announced at a more opportune moment for the country.

President Roosevelt had made his speech to the economic specialists on social insurance. It is no secret that they did not like it. They wanted a lot of social insurance and wanted it fast.

Just as they were criticizing the administration, the President favored Miss Roche, who in the world's outstanding expert in social insurance through the operation of her coal proposition.

But that is not the story behind Miss Roche's appointment. A very good story says she was first offered the post of chief of the national labor relations board. She informed the President her coal mine in Colorado offered such an opportunity for experiment in the labor field that she could not bear to leave.

After Francis Biddle, the Philadelphia attorney, was given the labor post, a job was found for Miss Roche. She is a very good field of operations in health. She may feel that she will have a freer hand there.

Incidentally, the labor people have observed four quarters that Biddle's appointment, so far as they know, he has no labor record and can be expected to be nonpartisan.

CANDIDATE?
 There is a story going around in certain fiscal quarters that a certain associate justice of the supreme court will resign shortly to become president of an Eastern university. You can find evidence to support this story. It has been made, but those close to the justice assume he will decline.

The story would hit page one.

 1. Those who believe that Long can hinder the return of property if given complete charge of the government in the event of a return to Long should have a chance to put his political theories to practice. Business men of New Orleans appear to fall naturally into three groups:

See Prosperity

2. Those who oppose him but favor to take an open stand because they believe they may be subjected to heavy property tax assessments.

3. Those who profess no interest in the local political situation.

The United Press sought answers to the question: "What effect will Long's dictatorship have on business?" Long has claimed himself with complete authority to regulate municipal police and utility rates. The recent legislature passed a two-year debt moratorium that has been the subject of some speculation regarding its effect on business.

In addition, Long abolished poll taxes as a requisite to vote and took complete charge of the state's election machinery.

Lack of Hostility
 The opinion showed a surprising lack of hostility toward Long's political opponents that big business will be forced to pay the cost of his wealth forcing schemes.

Long has claimed himself with complete authority to regulate municipal police and utility rates. The recent legislature passed a two-year debt moratorium that has been the subject of some speculation regarding its effect on business.

In addition, Long abolished poll taxes as a requisite to vote and took complete charge of the state's election machinery.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1
 (Holds Capital News)
 Some days ago, Senator Huey Long of Louisiana ordered a college football ballcock, born 20 years ago in Kyrie and living in Mississippi, created a state senator. This fantastic piece of state-manship was mildly criticized in a state university publication, which called it "a horseshoe of representative government."

With appropriate mouth-frathing, the clown who represents Louisiana in the United States senate, suppresses the student paper, destroys its printed copies, and announces: "This is my university and I'll throw anybody out who utters a word against me."

You can imagine Mussolini, or Hitler, or Stalin, or the dictator of a Bigfoot state acting in that way—but it is pretty hard to realize that a so-called "American" is doing it.

It is impossible, too, to believe that such un-American conduct has the approval of Louisiana's—at least, those capable of thought. But Long's stolen power seems too great for the civilized section of his kingdom to overthrow. Louisiana today is practically a medieval barony, ruled by an ogre-maniac about whose sanity there seems no doubt whatever.

Long's exalted presence in the United States senate is an insult to 47 American states—and maybe to 48 of them. His power may be such that his own state cannot break it, but the United States as a whole has a duty to smash it beyond repair. What right has Long, a half-insane dictator, to take part in the making of laws governing other states?

One of the first duties of the national senate, in January, should be to expel Long, by any feasible route. The senate is supposed to be an American body, composed of citizens in America. With Long in it, it is anything but that. He is, today, probably the country's Public Enemy No. 1. He should be dismissed and his power stripped from him, before it is too late.

Gas Cost High
 A manufacturer stated that it cost him $25.00 a month for gas to operate his plant. The same source used by him, pulled from Louisiana fields, can be bought in St. Louis for half the price, he said. Long's two-year debt moratorium carried the endorsement of the New Orleans Merchants association, which helped draft the law. A credit manager for one of the city's largest department stores saw the law as a "constructive piece of legislation." He said it would aid business by letting "poor credit out of circulation and at the same time help the man in debt by giving him two years to get back on his feet."

A few business leaders expressed doubts for Long's unorthodox method, but were in accord in regarding his "dictatorship" over municipal police departments.

Miss Werner Given Miller School Job
 BURLEY, Nov. 21 (Special)—Miss Evelyn Klein, recently elected to succeed Miss Ruth Story as principal of the new Miller school, has been unable to obtain release from her present position in the single high school.

Miss Helen Werner, who was selected in the event Miss Klein could not accept, has accepted the position. Miss Werner is a graduate of the Alton State Normal school and the public school music course at the University of Washington. She has also done graduate work at the University of Chicago.

In 1920, she was a teacher in the Southwest school in Burley and since that time has been teaching at Mountain View. She will begin work at the Miller school Dec. 3.

You May Not Know That—
 Thursday of next week, Thanksgiving day, will be observed as a legal holiday, with Sunday hours in effect among Twin Falls business establishments, the post office and at other public places.

If he accepted, because everyone would recognize the possibility of nominating him for the republican ticket for President in '36.

NOTES
 Senator Richberg has become the favorite prospect for the President. Engagements which the President cannot fill are usually turned over to him. The White House considers him after that as the New Dealer for that purpose.

Several years ago going the rounds that the AAA poured money into certain towns on a very day that important Republican leaders in America. With the recent campaign, Senator Richberg arrived in a small Idaho town on the same day. This was a very interesting coincidence, because the machinery for grinding out the cash is so complicated and unwieldy it could not be timed so specifically to a single day.

Our ambassador to Cuba, Jefferson Caffery, never ventures out alone any more. A motor car of Cuban citizens usually leads the way. Soldiers are constantly on guard at the embassy. Three efforts have been made to get him. The reason is that the terrortists believe the present Cuban government to be maintained only by American support.

F. D. R. Called Best Political Speaker
 NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Walter Dill Scott, orchestra conductor, thinks that the best political speakers should learn how to speak English correctly. He cited President Roosevelt as master of pronunciation and of microphone technique in addressing a child guidance conference, but said other political speakers mispronounced even the names of American cities and states.

Lodge members arranged a 6:30 o'clock dinner in her honor at the Odd Fellows hall. FOOD MEN SCORE SALES TAX PLAN

Distributors On Record As Opponents. Levy for Added State Revenue

Any attempt to impose a retail sales tax in Idaho will be vigorously opposed by food distributors of the south central district who had gone on record today against such a levy.

Following a dinner meeting at 72 grocery and meat dealers at the New Rogerson hotel last evening, such a tax was discussed, and talks were made by W. T. Lockwood, state administrator for the SRA, by a number of guests who included the national retail representative, by Harold H. Harvey, secretary of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, and by R. G. Wilson, Kammerer merchant, and Democratic county clerk.

Wide area distributors were present from over the south central area, and it was estimated by W. E. Standaker, Boise, who presided, that 20,000 miles were covered by those in attendance at the meeting. J. S. Standaker is vice president of the Idaho Association of Retail Food Distributors.

Legislators in attendance included Senators T. L. Connor, F. H. Williams, Charles C. O'Neil, and William A. Peters, Jerome, and Representatives A. V. Satterfield, Donatello, Joe Day, Jerome County, W. C. Thornton, Gooding, H. E. Powers, Dan J. Casanova, and Harry W. Barry, Twin Falls county.

200,000 Motor-Minded Men

See Why Germ Processed Oil Cuts Motor Wear and Saves You Money!

AFTER seeing the demonstration of oiliness and film strength pictured below, at least 200,000 motor-minded men have been convinced that "Any oil would be better oil if Germ Processed!"

Every well-known motor oil in America has been tried in this instrument. The addition of a drop of Germ Processed oil to every oil used gave an increase in film strength and oiliness that could be felt, seen and heard!

That's proof that New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil—the only oil made by the modern Germ Process—has greater film strength and more oiliness than any mineral oil. Proof that it will give you greater motor protection and lower oil consumption.

Change at any of the 18,000 Conoco Red Triangle stations and ride with the comfortable feeling that you have the safest, finest motor oil ever made.

- Assembled instrument. Split bearings and shaft, lubricated with Conoco Germ Processed Oil, are clamped between "bars" of instrument. With six-second extreme pressure is applied.
- Crank is now used to turn shaft. Oil film ruptures and bearing "seizes". Shaft extremely hard to turn. You can even hear the metal-to-metal contact.
- Drop of Germ Processed Oil is added to oil in bearing. Same pressure applied. Shaft can now be turned easily. Smooth, quiet movement—no bearing noise. Proof that Germ Processed Oil increases oiliness and film strength of any oil.

SCIENCE IMPROVES ON NATURE

Just as scientific fertilizing makes the best corn land produce more corn, so does scientific Germ Processed Oil make the best motor oil. And it's in the Conoco Red Triangle to get greater motor protection and lower oil consumption!

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

THE CUSTOM
OF SERVICE SHIPS SALUTING, IN PASSING MOUNT VERNON, WAS BEGUN BY THE BRITISH, DURING THE WAR OF 1812!

INDIANS
OF THE EARLY DAYS, SPARED THE LIVES OF CHIPMUNKS BECAUSE THEY WERE THOUGHT TO BE RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALING HERBS AND ROOTS!

IN THE ARCTIC,
BECAUSE OF THE SHORT GLIMMERS, MANY BUTTERFLIES SPEND TWO SUMMERS AND A WINTER IN THE CATERPILLAR STAGE.

In 1812, British war ships fired a salute to George Washington, as they passed Mount Vernon—a great and pleasant surprise to the inhabitants, who expected to be fired upon. Now, they are lowered to half mast as they go by, and the ships bell is tolled.

WAR HERO LEADS MOONSHINE DRIVE

Holder of D. S. C. Heads U. S. Fight to Smash Virginia Liqueur Ring

By JULIAN FRANKS (Copyright, 1934, United Press.) HARRISBURG, Va., Nov. 21.—A sharpshooter who, expert through the mist of no man's land on a special mission and won the D. S. C., today was hero of a new battle—the economic—leading against the liquor ring which, through the biggest conspiracy ever disclosed, Thomas Bailey, treasury operative and ex-lieutenant of infantry, is leader of the fight to force which today was presenting evidence of the conspiracy to a federal grand jury.

100 More Witnesses. Scores of witnesses remain to be heard on the story of great and corrupting that a literal flood of moonshine from liquor pouring down from the main white of Franklin county.

Huge trucks and well-camouflaged by driving between small towns and big city depots within a radius of several hundred miles.

Aim at Higher-Ups. Chief objective of the drive to smash the conspiracy are higher-ups, business and social leaders whom the government alleges have held the back-country mountain area in a state of virtual anarchy through a moonshine monopoly.

Bailey, who is a federal investigator, today was in the 11th infantry, 25th division, A. P. C. Extraordinary heroism at Fubina, Sept. 4, 1918, earned him the "Distinguished Service Cross." His outfit is led by Major Tom up front last day. Bailey went to get it.

War Heroism. (Crawling on his belly 100 yards across an open space and then traversing 200 yards of woods in front of the enemy, he gained information of the greatest value, making possible a subsequent and successful attack," his citation reads.

That citation might have been written as a description of the way Bailey and his men equipped through the underbrush of Franklin county ravines to nab moonshiners at their work.

Bailey is a lean, 45-year man, whose hair is graying now. He is an expert shot. He can hold a pistol upside down and still plunk the bullet's eye out of a target.

Every moonshine cabin has its arsenal. And the men used to be snatched down from their racks with the approach of anyone suspected of being a "revenuer."

But now the federal officers get untamed spite the remote fastness of the mountains. They are invited to stay for dinner with moonshiners whose attils they destroyed only a short time before.

Home in 11 days even seemed slighted when the grand jury appeared before the grand jury in Harrisburg, where the jury is meeting, 135 miles from Backmount, Franklin county seat. That is farther than most of the witnesses ever have been. Government officials in many instances had to advance him fare to them.

SHERIFF SAVES HONOR OF JAIL

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 21.—Sheriff Scott Curtis today had a hard job. "Boss" of the jail here but it cost him $11,000. He had to look out for the night in the jail while en route from the Illinois to the Texas penitentiary.

The next morning, Hardwick explained to Sheriff Curtis that other occupants had taken $11,000, all the money he had. Sheriff Curtis after making certain Hardwick really had $11,000 that's all you had to do to get a lot of it, and gave him the money out of his own pocket.

Only a few of the jail occupants of the night were known to Sheriff Curtis, but Hardwick's $11,000 was not found.

Economist Declares U. S. Faces Dramatic Changes If Trade Does Not Revive

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP) Changed in internal trade beyond imagination, await the United States if it fails to revive a liberal footing in foreign markets, for Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, predicted today.

The way to win back foreign buyers and avoid through reorganization is to buy more abroad, he told the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Experiment Stations.

"Barring foreign trade reorganization," Ezekiel said, "we must reorganize the whole economic life of this country far more drastically than anyone has yet suggested." He said the only permanent level of stabilized poverty for millions of our people.

Grave Readjustments. Among "grave readjustments" which he said are "inevitable" and "unavoidable," Ezekiel mentioned: Reopening of railways serving seaports.

Relocation of docks, warehouses, terminals, port facilities and seaport industries depending on foreign trade.

Discovery of new uses for millions of acres and new employments for thousands in the cotton, wheat, tobacco and sugar belts.

Material reworking of our whole industrial organization which tied in with the rest of the world at a score of ocean gateways.

Shift of dominance from New York, Boston, San Francisco, New Orleans and other big seaports to interior centers.

Ezekiel estimated that "much of our foreign trade is artificially reestablished over a five or 10 year period. New production abroad, tariffs, quotas and other trade barriers preclude more rapid growth, he pointed out. The United States has used "many devices" in trying to escape "the basic fact we cannot sell abroad if we will not buy," Ezekiel said.

MOONEY PARDON ASKED BY MOLEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP) A full pardon for Tom Mooney to eliminate his "martyr" value to the criminal cause was urged today by Raymond Moley, former presidential adviser and editor of the magazine, "Today." He made his plea in an open letter to Gov. Frank P. Merriam of California.

URGES BALANCED BUDGET FOR U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP) E. Roland Harriman, investment banker, continued the National Economy League campaign for a balanced budget in a radio address last night. He said "uncertainty and tears on the part of tens of millions of citizens" will continue until the federal budget is balanced.
