ICKES, MOFFETT SPLIT OVER NEW HOUSING EFFORT

Powerful Advisors Divided on Question of Financing Program

RIFT UP TO ROOSEVELT

President Must Settle Break off Fundamental Point in Administration

By RICHARD L. HARRIS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (UPI)—A clash of New Deal opinion regarding that which brought Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's resignation as NRA chief today appeared headed toward President Roosevelt for settlement.

Two of the president's most powerful advisers, Harold L. Ickes and James L. Moffett, not in public and fundamentally disagreed over the important question of housing policy.

Wants Huge Program

Ickes, who has directed expenditure of billions in the public works program, asked for public financing of the huge programs upon which the New Deal is depending largely to deal a crushing blow at unemployment an inertia in the capital goods industry.

Moffett, director of the program authorized under the national housing act, said Ickes' program would cripple efforts to save housing under private financing.

Fundamental Rift

The issue is in public versus private financing. In the controversy bring to the surface a fundamental and recurring conflict in New Deal philosophy. It was believed certain President Roosevelt would attempt to coordinate the positions of his advisers.

Moffett is already engaged under the housing act in promoting through private savings—exactly what Ickes wants done with government money.

Despite an apparent gesture by Ickes toward the broadening of the branch, there appeared little hope of bringing the two viewpoints together.

Ickes Plan

Shortly after Ickes issued his statement declining to have his bill interpreted, Moffett told the press that any public program of the type mentioned by Ickes would wreck the nation's mortgage structure and checkmate.

PREDICTS HIGHER FIGHT

Wayne Meredith of Appeal to Washington; Hits Strong Influence

Pending decision on the requests which have been submitted to Gov.

C. Ben Ross and to ERA officials for the reinstatement of Bob H. Warner, ex-county manager of the relief organization. F. G. Thompson, district supervisor, was in charge of the local headquarters.

Mayor Duncan McD. Johnston, chairman of the Twin Falls County Relief Association, has charged that Warner's dismissal was the result of "political interference." Warner was home today from a trip made to Boise, Idaho, in company with Carl Ridgeway, Kimberly.

ROSS Promises Decision

Johnston said that Governor Ross had promised a decision early next week on the issue raised by the discharge, asserted by P. C. Meredith, state ERA administrator, to have been on account of the youth of Warner, who is 26, and because of a recent policy of the state advisory board which called for the placing in key positions of "matured men" where maximum experience and abilities and proper taxpayer power.

Presented to the governor and to Meredith by Johnston and Ridgeway were petitions signed by more than 1,000 local business men and by other workers urging the reinstatement of Warner.

WILL GO Higher

Meredith is reported to have stated yesterday that the decision to restore Warner would not be changed, and Mayor Johnston has promised that if this is not done, the case will be submitted directly to Washington.

UTAH MAPS PLAN FOR LIQUOR SALE

Commission Puts Final Touch
To Report Urging State
Owned Stores

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 24 (UPI)—Utah, a stronghold of prohibition for years, today was heading toward entry into the liquor field.

A governor's committee is giving the final polish to recommendations to the coming state legislature which will write the rules for liquor sales in the state.

The preliminary report recommended:

State Stores
(1) Distribution through a system of state stores.

2. Control by a non-partisan, non-political commission.

3. Sale of strong drinks only by licensed distilleries, restaurants, and hotel clubs.

Clubs are defined as "a group of persons" designated for "non-profit and legitimate" purposes.

The committee expects to complete its report within several days. Strong opposition is expected to its recommendations being made by the state legislature but it will probably be approved.

Bell Ringing's Not So Hard, Say Royal Swedish Experts

Bell ringing is just as simple as piano playing. At least that's what members of the Royal Swedish Bell Ringers, who are in Twin Falls today, say. It's just a matter of learning to reach two and one half inches to the right for the "A" tone or a particular octave or three inches for the "C" sharp of that tone.

So the five of them handle 200 bells in such difficult selections as Peer Gynt suite with an organ that is usually associated with the man on the flying tra-mite. They include six octaves, while the piano has only seven.

The troupe was organized in Sweden in 1911, says Swanson, who besides serving as leader arranges most of the music played.

Members of the troupe are O. E. Swanson, second ringer; H. L. Hokanson, third ringer; Magnus Grönqvist, fourth ringer; Nils Lindström, and fifth ringer A. Asplin.

The troupe will play at the Orpheum theater this evening.

ILLINOIS BANKS INSURANCE PLOT

Confessions Reveal Effort to Plunder Lincoln Company, Dominate 3 Banks

The conspiracy was made possible by the fact that the Abraham Lincoln company recently was reorganized under a new management. Sanders and Lindquist were appointed at that time.

Sanders, confirmed, according to Thompson, "had 'hooked' the plot to buy a controlling interest in the insurance company and in the Indianapolis banks with money obtained by cashing apportion checks on the insurance company. They induced Van Dorek, clerk in the Amalgamated bank, to help them.

They had agreed to pay $400,000 for the company, and made a $25,000 first payment.

Planned Bond Crop.

After gaining control of the company, according to Thompson, Sanders and Lindquist and their associates planned to flood the vital offices of the company with more bonds which they hoped to buy from criminals at 10 and 15 cents in the dollar, selling them to the company at face value.

The Indianapolis banks were to be forced to further the stolen bond scheme.

The alleged plot was revealed when Van Dorek, urged by his fiancee, walked into police headquarters and told as much as he knew. Three fraudulent checks already had been cashed at the bank without detection, even though a state bank examiner checked its records after the first theft.

He story led to arrest of Sanders, Kuratz, Barry and Baldwin. Lindquist was questioned, but not held when he promised to appear at any time. Police said he disappeared from his home yesterday.

L. A. STREET CAR WORKERS STRIKE

Service Unimpaired as Union Workers Quit in Demand for Pay Boost

No Interurban Tram.

The city strike vote was taken after a similar walkout had been inverted in interurban service. Union employees of the Pacific Electric company, who previously had voted to strike, were instructed to stay at their jobs. The walkout was taken at the request of the federal mediation board at Washington.

Approximately 1,800 city railway workers, most of them in uniform, attended the early morning meeting at the Union temple.

P. J. O'Brien or Detroit, vice-president of the Amalgamated, after reviewing negotiations for a peace settlement, stated:

"How many of you men are willing to stand by your guns and throw down your shackles?"

Workers Chear.

An audience arose, stamped and cheered to the cries of "Strike! Strike!"

O'Brien then called for an informal vote.

Three-fourths of the assembly identified their strike vote by standing.

When a "no" vote was called, the remainder arose.

The vote was declared official.

"By your rising vote you have voted a suspension of services and the strike is now on," O'Brien declared.

A roar greeted his announcement.

Picket Arms.

Union leaders immediately selected 300 strikers to picket the various car barns throughout the city.

J. W. Buzzell, head of the Los Angeles central labor council, pledged the support of 30,000 union workers in the city.

"I am authorized to state all organized labor will stand behind you in this strike," Buzzell announced.

The Amalgamated claims the membership of 60 per cent of the city's union workers and 60 per cent of the bus drivers.

O'Brien charged that the company would attempt to "break" the strike with strikebreakers. He said 200 had been recruited and were lodged in a downtown hotel.

The strikers exulted to newspapermen a mimeographed copy of letters they said were posted on bulletin boards at the barns threatening with dismissal any employee who attempted the strike.

EUROPEAN FEARS CENTER ON NAZIS

German Roaring May Bring Old Balance of Power System Back

Conversations have been proceeding between France and Russia regarding the situation created by Germany's rearmament, and it is well within the bounds of possibility that there eventually will be an entente.

If and when it occurs it will be among the most important diplomatic developments since the World War because it will complete a reversal of the pre-war policy of "isolation" of Germany.

It will also mean the virtual end of the phase of attempting to prevent war. It will be a shattered blow at the League of Nations methods.

France Fears?

The extent of fear of Germany's increasing warlike strength is shown by the fact that opinion in France seems favorable to an entente with Russia.

For years after the Bolshevik revolution France was among Russia's bitterest enemies because of her opposition to the war and default of billions of francs worth of Russian bonds held by French parliament.

In recent years opinion rapidly altered, until France became the principal supporter of Russia's entry into the league.

Japanese Plot?

With Germany's rearmament, even stranger bedfellows are likely. For instance there are growing indications that Germany might be impelled to seek an understanding with Japan as an offset to a French-Russian alliance.

"The moment Russia attacked Germany," commented today's Daily Express, "she would expose her own back to Japan, which point Russia is likely to keep in mind."

Germany would seek determinedly her own allies for a counter entente," said the Daily Herald, organ of the labor party. "What then would stand between the world and a holocaust?"

ICKES, MOFFETT SPLIT ON PLANS

Powerful Advisors Divided on Question of Financing Program

Moffett denied any personal tilt with Ickes, but said he is too fond of management. He furthered that the telecast program and the Moffett program were completely incompatible.

Ickes had assigned private interests as unwilling or unable to undertake an extensive building program. He said private interest of 6 and 7 per cent was too high, an were labor charges. He proposed that the government finance home builders at 3 per cent with no down payment, and that labor lower its hourly wage scale in return for year-around employment.

THANKSGIVING

Governor Ross has issued the annual proclamation for Thanksgiving day next Thursday.

This national event will interest all the people, for it marks the first of the traditional year-end holidays and ushers in the Yuletide.

Thanksgiving day springs from the earliest of our American ancestors and smacks of the sturdiness of our forefathers. As a day of feasting it takes supreme place in the category of holidays and has an appeal for the old as well as young.

Then, too, there is a reverence about the day that is good for all, for the challenge is to render Thanksgiving to the Creator of all things.

In this section and state there can be genuine thanksgiving next week, for nature has been kind the past year; conditions have made great improvement and the future holds more promise than in years.

Thanksgiving day on Thursday should be the occasion for the entire countryside to join in pious appreciation for the good things of the past twelve-month, and it should encourage renewed hope for the year to follow.

TO KEEP CHILDREN ERECT

If the infantile paralysis serum developed by Dr. William H. Park, of the New York city health department, proves as effective as he believes it will be, humanity will be indebted to that gentleman about as deeply as it is ever indebted to anyone.

Dr. Park has found a serum which he believes grants immunity against this dreadful disease. Approximately 25 people have been inoculated with it so far; all have received immunity.

Further tests, of course, will have to be made to see whether the immunity is permanent, and to make sure also that there are no unforeseen faults in the process; but the present outlook is exceedingly encouraging.

In any case, it will take some time before the serum can be made available to physicians outside of New York. But if present expectations are fulfilled, a tremendous achievement in preventive medicine will have been made.

THIS TOPSY-EURVY WORLD

The topsy-turvy condition of the world today could hardly be appreciated better than through a contrast of American and Russian agricultural programs.

A Russian court in Tashkent recently put 55 cotton farmers on trial for their lives. They are accused of having grown only 60 percent of the amount of cotton which the government expected them to grow this year; and if the court finds out that they limited production on purpose, all will be shot.

Contrast that, now, with the American farm program, which aims at cutting production rather than expanding it. Laying aside the blood-curdling savagery of the penalty involved, the contrast is illuminating.

MAKING MATTERS WORSE

One of the complicating factors in the budget difficulties which are assailing local units of government these days seems to be an ever-growing readiness on the part of the voters to cut off needed funds at the source.

In many states the power of amending the state constitution by referendum petitions has been used to limit the tax rate on real estate, to exempt autos from personal property taxes, and to restrict use of gasoline tax funds to highway construction.

In addition, emergency tax and bond issues are being turned down at the polls with monotonous regularity.

While the effort to keep taxes down is natural and right, the consequences create new problems.

RECOVERY WILL THWART RADICALISM

A Washington dispatch reports that business and administration leaders are "moving toward a common front in an effort to cash in on present recovery gains as an answer to prospective left-wing drives in congress."

If this is true, it simply indicates that business and administration leaders are showing excellent good sense.

A great deal has been said about the radicals who will be at large in the next congress, and a great deal more has been said about the wild and woolly legislation they will try to get put through. The thing to remember is that all this is a direct result of economic pressure.

The one sure way of heading off such radicalism is to hasten recovery. Let unemployment approach the vanishing point and profit return in good measure, and the threat of radical legislation will vanish of its own accord.

What may be keeping Huey Long from taking in more territory than Louisiana is his inability to find the American equivalent for Hitler or Der Fuehrer.

BEGUN HERE TODAY

When CHARLES MORDEEN, reporter for The Idaho, is found dead DAN BREWER, publisher, employs SIDNEY CHIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the mystery. Mordeen had been investigating the affairs of PHILIPPE GILBERT, V.-Y. agent, and previous to his death had written to the Inspector, claiming he was to be called Philippe BREWER. The day following Mordeen's death Gilbert dies of poison.

Gilmour leaves Mordeen and visits the apartment of ALICE GILBERT, pretty and unemployed. Her contractor, ALICE, with KENNETH HODGES, accused of killing Mordeen, and they are arrested.

MARY BLANCHARD, for whom MRS. CATHAY and GAIL, DAISY, daughter, die in her employer's home, has been searching, is located but refuses to talk.

Griff and Blodell go to the hotel where Mary Bridges, now known as Stella Mockley, is staying. They find CHARLES PINEAU, father of three, Blodell's friend, in the room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

PHILIPPE's voice rose belligerently. "Go on!" he said. "Come on! You and CHARLES PINEAU, father of three, Blodell's friend, are here."

Fisher stopped forward, put a heavy hand on her shoulder, pushed her back into the chair.

"You're like," Fisher said, "you know more than that. Who was that friend?"

"Just Frank."

Her eyes refused to meet those of the attorney.

"Who? Who? Who? That's a friend?" Fisher said with some indecision.

"You're either going to tell me about that summer you've had with Frank, or you're going to go to jail."

"I think," Blodell interrupted, "we may be able to—"

Griff whirled and clamped his hand on the publisher's arm.

"Keep out of it," he said.

"Go on," Fisher said, staring steadily at Stella Mockley. "You've got your chance—either talk it or leave it."

"I've already told you," she said, "I don't know."

Fisher strode across the room to the telephone, jerked the receiver off the hook with an air of brusque finality.

"Where did he put it through?"

"Just last night."

"And do you call this person in Riverview?"

"Yes."

"Do you know the number?"

"Yes," she said in a voice that was almost inaudible.

"What was that number?"

"The number," she said, "was the number of Mr. Cathay's residence. I took occasion to look it up in the book. Then after I found it out I got frightened. I thought that perhaps it was something that you—a lot more serious than I had at first thought—that you wanted me to do."

"You're commanding to get information of this man."

"He didn't continue to go under the name of Cathay after you found out about the impersonator?"

"You," she said, "do now."

"Never mind," he said. "I wanted to try and find out about a parking tag I received, but I guess I had better call in person."

"He didn't continue to go under the name of Cathay after you found out about the impersonator?"

"You," she said, "do now."

"Never mind," he said. "I wanted to try and find out about a parking tag I received, but I guess I had better call in person."

He dropped the receiver back on its hook and turned to the girl.

"That's better," he said. "Now what's your name?"

"Evelyn," she said in a voice that was almost inaudible.

"What was that number?"

"The number," she said, "was the number of Mr. Cathay's residence. I took occasion to look it up in the book. Then after I found it out I got frightened. I thought that perhaps it was something that you—a lot more serious than I had at first thought—that you wanted me to do."

"You're commanding to get information of this man."
