By ROBERT T. LOUGHREAN
CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (UPI)—Federal agents seeking to avenge the mysterious "Baby Face" gangster, conducted a "no-quarter" search today of 21-year-old wife and a temporary companion today while a coroner's jury investigated the death of Nelson himself.

The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Knew Death Was Sure

The slain outlaw's 26-year-old sister, Mrs. Juliette Fitzsimmons, testified at the inquest that more than six months ago both Nelson and his wife accepted the belief that eventually he would die like his father, John Dillinger, and eight others of Dillinger's gang.

"Iolan knew it, too, but she chose to go with him because that's where she thought she belonged."

"She and the girl agreed last spring in Madison, Wis., on an undertaking to be called when Nelson was killed," Mrs. Fitzsimmons said.

Says Confederates Near

Chief of Police Axel Stofer of Milwaukee said he and other police were certain that other Nelsons were the man with whom he killed two federal agents Tuesday, withheld from concealment while police and government officials searched Nelson's body.

NEW ORGANIZATIONS' CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Gen. Lazaro Cardenas Assumes
Presidency for Six-Year
Reconstruction

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30 (UPI)—Gen. Lazaro Cardenas today took over the task of guiding Mexico through its six-year period of reconstruction.

Cardenas took the oath as constitutional president before a crowd of 70,000 who gathered in the national stadium for the inaugural.

Peasant and workers from all parts of the country joined in a festive celebration of his assumption of office.

A shower of stones directed at the motor car of one of his progressive cabinet ministers last night was an unhappy reminder of the grave problems that he inherits from President Abdolroodríguez of the same national revolution.

The new minister is Gov. Francisco Gómez of Tabasco, who has been a certain choice for the portfolio of minister of education. It will be his duty to enforce the educational program which is bitterly resented by Roman Catholics because it forbids religious instruction in schools in favor of a purely rationalistic curriculum.

Cardenas, a radical, is considered a sincere official representative of his opposition to the church.

President Cardenas will have to contend with Gen. Rodolfo Fierros, who does not share his views, but that Cardenas has complicated to

HOLIDAY PLACID FOR TWIN FALLS

City and Environs Have Quiet
Thanksgiving Day, Law
Agencies Report

Twin Falls and environs indulged in one of the most quiet Thanksgivings in its history, it was revealed today.

No untoward incidents occurred during the festivities of the holiday; weather was considered ideal; special efforts were made to insure that all needy persons were well-fed, and a number of charity groups joined in providing a Thanksgiving dinner for the residents of the county poor farm.

At the small station, it was said that good order was maintained in Twin Falls yesterday and last evening, and that few complaints were filed.

Asst. U. S. Marshal E. F. Prater reported that his knowledge not a single call was made to his office during the holiday.

Little Money

Friends of Nonneka had little money. Although he got his rations, he could not afford to buy tobacco. In consequence, smoking to keep him whereabouts a secret, possibly fearing vengeance, he did not dare attempt to collect the half-smoked tray, due him the day he fled.

The "elopera and the three children followed a wandering trail across the continent. First trace of them was found at Waycross, Ga., where they stopped at a tourist camp just west of town. To stay because they hadn't enough money to pay the pittance asked for accommodations.

In Philadelphia a day later a restaurant owner saw them trying to divide several meals among the five and helped them out. They stayed that night in South Langhorne, Pa., on the road to Trenton and New York.

Doubled on Trunks

Apparently they doubled on their trunks, for the body identified as Mrs. Max Pierce's was found nearly hundred miles west of that point, accompanied by the body of a man identified as Nonneka. Both had been shot to death.

One hundred million negro Philadelphia were the bodies of the three little girls whom authorities and Homerville residents believe are those of the Neateney children.

It was reported here Nonneka pawned his coat to buy a gun, further evidence supporting the Reservoir theory that poverty brought out the killer.

The identification of the Pierce girl was made positive through the slight deformity on her left foot. The description of Nonneka and that of the man in Duncanaville tallied except for a slight discrepancy in height.

TRIO SUCCOCATED

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 30 (UPI)—The three girls found murdered here were "succocated by external means," Coronor Edward A. Hingley said today.

Pounding heart of California relatives, bodies of the victims identified as Norma Neateney, 12; Dorothy Neateney, 10; and Corinda Neateney, 8, will be held at a local embalming parlor, Hingley said.

The Carlisle American Legion has made arrangements to bury the children and has collected more than $200 for the purpose. These funds may be carried out unless the relatives desire to return the bodies to California.

'NO MERCY' HUNT SEEKS OUTLAWS

Concentrated Drive Pushed As Coroner's Jury Approves Death of Nelson

E. Hulke had their lives in the last island of Nelson, while Hulke had been charged with being Federal Agent W. Carter, lame in northern Wisconsin last spring. "That woman and the man with her were right near me all the time, and probably still are," Stoeber asserted.

Phone Undertaker

"How do you figure that?" asked a deputy coroner.

"Why it can't have been any other way," the coroner replied.

"Someone, the man who was with Nelson at Barrington," telephoned the undertaker, Philip Shadwick, at 7:35 a. m. Wednesday that a body was lying out there by the street.

"We went and looked, but couldn't find anything and went back to the station. About 11:15 the same man called again.

"In the meantime we hadn't found the body. He must've been watching."

The panel of blood-smeared clothing cut from the wounded outlaw by his companion and thrown by a roadside was found by Annie Lindeman, a resident of suburban Morton Grove, Stoeber revealed. Police removed their search and found Nelson's body.

Agents Push Hunt

While the hunt continued toward the faraway west of Judahite homicide, a great concentration of government agents prosecuted the search for Nelson's survivors of the gang which he led after Dillinger's death.

It is known that Santa's arrival will take the form of a toy parade with children being invited to bring broken or discarded playthings to the Idaho theater, where they will be given to children after St. Nicholas has been guest.

Horner will be given the first 1,000 children in the parade. Local department stores, including J. C. Penney, company, Van Buren, Hood, Idaho Department store and Golden Rule store, are donating these.

Dedication ceremonies for the new wing will take place on Nov. 30, with the opening of the new wing to bring broken or discarded playthings to the Idaho theater, where they will be given to children after St. Nicholas has been guest.

Monarchs and members of the government deny it, but nevertheless, are persistent reports that President Midway is not pleased with the Archduke's role at a recent royal ceremony at Eisenstadt, capital of Burgenland.

Represented Otto

Officially representing Otto, when he arrived "The Kaiser," Archduke Eugen recently went to Eisenstadt to receive a formal document making Otto an honorary citizen of the town.

He was given a royal reception.

He was invited to review a company of federal army soldiers drawn up on the town square. He did, saying that in "the name of our Kaiser."

This remark is likely to have displeased President Midway intensely. As head of the Austrian government he is said to have felt this remark and Archduke Eugen's action were encroachments upon his authority.

Reprimanded

The authorities of Eisenstadt, it is further said, have since been particularly interested in the liberal attitude of the two men between their objectives the two men battled through the newspaper over which was to have the best try at printing the hunting pump. Not yet will Otto decide that.

Also difficult to reconcile are the speeches in which Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and Dr. C. C. Richberg, director of the Burgenland, have been big business to get into the picture parade. They believe business can and should take over a big share of the re-employment problem by printing its own pump with its own money. The Leopold-Moffett pump lead the other way.

Roper's intent comment was that business was improving, but that was obtained by the volume and intensity of federal spending. That is stark contrast to Administrators Jekes and Hopida.

Archduke Otto often has been mentioned as the next President of Austria, in another step toward placing Otto on the throne. President Midway, however, has the job until Oct. 9, 1935.

CLEVELAND (UPI)—City hall employees are jubilant now, but some are complaining that light hurts their eyes. Both attitudes are justified, for windows of the municipal building have just been given their first bath since Mayor Harry L. Davis' administration moved in. That was Nov. 13, 1933.

CHEST HELPS IN CHILD WELFARE

Permits Red Cross to Provide Continuance of Health Program

"Development of a positive health ideal, and prevention of disease in childhood is the principle upon which we may hope to build a sturdy generation of adults," says Dr. Charles Scott, Twin Falls, president of the Idaho Medical Association, and his opinion is heartily seconded by Dr. J. N. Davis, Kimberly, secretary of the South Idaho Medical Society.

"We have suffered an irreparable loss due to the disorganization of the Public Health unit," say these two physicians, "and a specimen which help in any way to safeguard the public health, are giving a service to the community."

Health Chest

When you make a contribution to the Community Chest, those in charge of the drive say, you are helping to safeguard the health of Twin Falls school children through the Twin Falls chapter of Red Cross in cooperation with the school board, furnished last year and is now furnishing a school nurse who is devoting all of her time to the health of our school children, both public and parochial. The Red Cross is working further with a class in home hygiene in which parents attending the adult school may learn food values as well as care of the home from the standpoint of preserving health.

A contribution of a dollar or more to the Chest gives you the right to display the Red Cross insignia, it is explained.

ISLANDS MOVING NEARER FREEDOM

Independence Program Enters 2nd Phase With Drafting Of Constitution

By WILLIAM H. LANDER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Too rapidly to suit some people and too slowly for others, Uncle Sam is in the process of freeing the Philippine Islands.

The program now underway contemplates creation of the "Philippine Republic" in not less than ten years. Some groups, however, still insist that it be completed in five to those far-flung islands of the Western Pacific, while others still contend that "absolute complete and immediate" independence is the only feasible solution.

Freeing 14,000,000

Regardless of the various theories as to what constitutes the best method freeing the 14,000,000 people, the fact remains that they already have started on the road to independence prescribed by the law congress.

The preliminary stage already has been passed. Congress has passed the Independence act known as the "Tydings-McDuffie" law.

Matters now have arrived at the second stage—that of drawing up the proposed constitution of the "Philippine Commonwealth." This is to be a transitional government which will be semi-autonomous and is scheduled to continue for 10 years, after which the "Republic" may be proclaimed.

Convention In Session

The Philippine constitutional convention has been in session at Manila since July 4, 1934. It is comprised of 203 delegates, sitting in a unicameral body. Although its work during the first few months necessarily was slow, it is expected to pick up speed in the next few months.

Just when the new constitution will be completed is uncertain. The Tydings-McDuffie act stipulates that the "constitution shall be submitted within two years after the enactment of this Act to the President of the United States." Since the act was enacted on March 24, 1934, this means that the convention may legally continue until shortly before March 24, 1936.

Members of the Philippine senate and chairman of the land independence mission which obtained passage of the independence act last spring, however, believe that the constitution will be completed much before the final limit.

Heavy Pushers

NASHVILLE, Mont. (UPI)—Duplicating facts of covered wagon days, Jim Evans, 62, and his 60-year-old mother hiked to Montana from Pennsylvania, shoving a packcart ahead of them. The Evans traveled the 5,000-odd miles in a little over four months. They received only two automobile lifts, one in Minnesota and the other in North Dakota.

BATTLES INSECT

"TICKS UP," "Stump Wiles" and yellow jackets do not like each other, especially if the "Wile" is climbing. Henry Roland, a "human fly," was scaling the court house here when Wiles ran across a nest of the yellow jackets. Roland, however, continued climbing with one hand, brushing away the insects with the other. He was unharmed when he descended, having gone down 200 feet.

President Roosevelt Endorses Christmas Seal Campaign

THE CHRISTMAS SEAL
WASHINGTON, D. C.

November 27, 1934.

My dear Doctor Daniels:

The approach of the holiday season brings again to my thoughts the need for the Christmas seal to aid the national fight against tuberculosis. Each year the seal is sold in the United States and Canada, and the money raised goes to the American Lung Association.

The campaign has been successful, this disease with rates first as of 1930, has been reduced, and it still causes nearly 10,000 deaths in the United States annually.

But by no means alone, but by many means of attack, both direct and indirect, tuberculosis is being fought. Fifty years ago Doctor Trudeau pointed the way to the sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis patients.

For those with early disease, I believe the sanatorium is best for care, and patients with advanced disease also need a sanatorium. Nurses, beds, food, drugs, and medical expenses are essential for tuberculosis patients.

The need for early diagnosis, I believe, is even more important. To protect infants and young children, and to protect the health of adolescents and adults, the services of every community are taxed.

The task before us is more than a medical problem. Physicians, nurses, and hospitals are only a part of the great defensive force, which must include the heads of all families, governors and mayors, educators, social workers, sound writers, volunteer workers, charity organizations, business men, and the general public. The National Tuberculosis Association and its local branches give constant leadership.

It is arrangement, the responsibility for the sale of Christmas seals is a local one. The money is spent locally by and for the residents of each city, town, or county. It is a sort of window for each locality to receive its share of relief and responsibility.

The need is urgent; the cause most worthy.

Very sincerely yours,

Franklin D. Roosevelt

Hawaiian Planters Plan Move To Get Court Action on Marketing Act

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (UPI)—Judicial procedure will be sought in an attempt to secure an early supreme court decision on the constitutionality of the sugar marketing act.

James R. Garfield of Cleveland, counsel for the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association, announced that he would apply to the supreme court for a writ of certiorari, asking review of the decision of the circuit court by Justice Jennings Bailey in District of Columbia supreme court upholding the legality of the law.

So far there is no record of any case ever having gone directly to the supreme court from the circuit court. Others in the case are: Billy Jack, Walter L. Rice, special assistant to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, said he would have no objection.

SALMON TRACT'S HOLDERS GATHER

Stock Owners Meet to Hear Proposals for Solving Present Status

HOLLISTER, Nov. 30 (Special) — Stockholders of the Salmon Canal company gathered here today at a meeting called by the board of directors to explain proposals for solving the irrigation problems of the tract, and to answer any questions relative to the plan.

By resolution the board had asked for a referendum on the projected purchase of 25,000 shares of capital stock of the tract at $15 a share, and for authority to borrow money for this purpose as well as to lower the tunnel from Salmon river dam and do away with a part of the canal system.

Asher B. Wilson, chairman of the board, presided at today's meeting. Sentiment is said to be generally favorable to the proposals and the consensus is said to be almost unanimous that something must be done to improve the water-rights.

Stockholders have until Dec. 9 in which to vote on the proposals.

GLOBE-CIRCLER FINDS ROMANCE

Astoria, Ore., Youth Travels Around World and Meets Finnish Sweetheart

PARIS (UPI) — Traveling around the globe with only one cent in his pocket, Emil Richard Nivala, 26-year-old sign-painter of Astoria, Ore., has passed through here after becoming engaged to be married in Finland.

Nivala had plenty of adventures on freight trains and tramp schooners during the 26,000 miles he has already had covered but did not stop until he reached Rautio, Finland. There he met his Finnish girl and fell in love with his teacher, Miss Almo Vorron.

"I must hurry up and finish the rest of the 45,000 miles of my itinerary or I can get back to Oregon and get married," he said. "The life of the rolling stone is great sport, but it can't be done after you get married and settle down."

His only luggage is a brief-case which can be carried by hand or strapped on the back. It contains change of linens, a comb and some kitchenware picked up en route. On the outside of the case is inscribed the legend: "Round About the World—45,000 miles or more—with One Cent."

Nivala does not drink nor smoke. Encountered in an American bar he was offered a glass of beer, or a pint of whisky. "No thanks," he replied, "but I'll have a hot dog if you don't mind." Believing in always keeping neat appearance, he has had the-oreum in his trou-sers sewed in permanently.

Even in Astoria, Ore., a Finnish parent, Nivala left home July 18, 1932, determined to see at least 45,000 miles of the world. He got his first lift by plane to Portland, Ore. Thence he traveled through 38 of the 48 states of the Union, mostly on freight trains. After touring Mexico he returned to the United States and obtained free passage on a boat to the Scandinavian countries by looking after two passengers of doubtful mental ability.

His only documents, which he carries in his coat pocket, consist of an American passport, a letter from the Mayor of Astoria, and one in French from the Finnish Consul in New York, attesting to his good character and honesty.

DOG PET, RADIO IN $2,000 SUIT

Neighbor Wants Court Order Stopping Niuvanen From Night Screeching

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A dog and a radio, which the plaintiff needs to have enjoined, and $2,000 worth of alleged damages to Mrs. Antonia Centini's nerves, plus factors in a superior court action here, are causing considerable discussion these days in the neighborhood of 1812 Sixty-seventh avenue.

There are the dog-tavern and the radio-tuna who find it difficult to reconcile Mrs. Centini's affidavit of trouble with that of Mrs. Irene McClintic, dog "John Doe," and her radio, "Richard Doe."

Nightly Screeches
But, according to Mrs. Centini, action seeking to enjoin both the radio and the dog, "Richard," torments the night with thundering rhythmic and acreaching wails and squawks, and every so often too often, according to Mrs. Centini, "John Doe" mangles a melodic worth of mortal and gods.

In another lawsuit, one collecting the sympathies of light sleepers, Mrs. Centini asks $2,000 damages for alleged injuries to her health and nerves due to the activities of Richard and John.

Superior Court Judge Ogden set a hearing date on the injunction and most of the neighborhood expects to attend the session.

STATE BATTLES LAMSON FREEING

District Attorney Prepares to Oppose Defense Move to Secure Release

BAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Nov. 30 (Special) — District Attorney Fred Lampson entered court today determined to block attempts to have staying charges against David A. Lamson dismissed.

Lamson also planned to oppose any attempt to have Lamson released on bail pending disposition of the case returned to the Santa Clara county jurisdiction by the state supreme court in reversing a previous decision.

Counsel for the discharged prisoner, former leader on the Stanford university campus, will argue earnestly for Lamson's freedom, basing their plea on the supreme court decision which held the evidence in the first trial too circumstantial.

Second Trial Possible

If Judge R. E. Feyer denials both defense motions, Lamson's party is to ask that a date be set for Lampson's second trial. "We know Lamson is guilty of killing his wife in their campus home," Thomas said.

While other prisoners in the jail have been paroled yesterday, Lampson entertained his family at a turkey dinner in a private room at the jail. He recently was returned here from the condemned row section of San Quentin prison.

One of the inmates of Sanquin organized a body of unemployed men to go to the aid of the king. Once outside the gates who invaded, lied between two poles and started on his journey to the Little Rock zoo.

PREPARES BOOK ON SHAKESPEARE

Literary Sleuth Working on Now Facts Concerning Bard of Avon

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI)—When ever there is a literary mystery in need of solving, the man to send to is Mr. Leslie H. Trelawny, Haverford College's famous "literary detective."

The latest bit of detecting the professor has undertaken is a job thrust upon him by Alfred G. Gardner, author and for many years editor of the London Daily News.

The task to which Hobson was "nominated" is that of searching out the private life of William Shakespeare, to be found in Elizabethan records long buried and waiting to be brought to light. Gardner believes:

The literary sleuth may be at work on a new book on Shakespeare and expects to finish it for publication next summer.

The professor has made a deep study of the life of the "Bard of Avon" and many other well-known literary personalities.

On a recent visit to Britain, Hobson recorded high honors by the British men of letters.

In 1932, Hobson, a noted English novelist, stated he would like to see a delegation of British writers, including Lord Pontefract, Shaw, Chaplin and Wells, pay a call on the Minister of Education and ask Hobson to remain in Britain to complete a work on Shakespeare.

SALT MAY HELP CANCER BATTLE

Scientist Finds Radium Rays Can Be Secured Through "Atom Gun"

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Radium treatment for cancer, long regarded as too expensive for the patient of ordinary means, soon may become a commonplace method of treating the disease as result of the discovery of Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence of the University of California.

After exhaustive experiments with a "deatom gun," Dr. Lawrence found that ordinary table salt, composed of sodium chloride, contains radium-like substances of great potential therapeutic value. The "atom smacking" physicist announced his findings in the Physical Review, a science publication.

Through the use of the "atom gun," Dr. Lawrence transmuted radium into a half million volt gamma rays.

Dr. Lawrence emphasized that while ordinary radium radiates mixed rays, some weak and some strong, the salt rays are pure and three-quarter million volt rays of deatoms. The salt radium thus gives more power than those from the precious radium used by medical science in its treatment of cancer, according to Dr. Lawrence.

The salt radium constituent changes under the bombardment, becoming "heavy sodium" of atomic weight of 24 instead of 23. This heavy sodium disintegrates in the same manner as mined and refined radium, but for a period much shorter than the rare mineral.

During the disintegration, a powerful ray is given off from the transmuted salt.

The discharges, while lasting only hours or perhaps days, is sufficiently long for therapeutic use, according to the physicist.

Rays of invisible light are discharged from the salt radium with energy estimated at five and a half million volt.

Radium used in hospitals gives two and a half million volt gamma rays.

Dr. Lawrence emphasized that while ordinary radium radiates mixed rays, some weak and some strong, the salt rays are pure and

ROSE BOWL BID ACCEPTED BY UNBEATEN ALABAMA ELEVEN

CLOSING VICTORY BRINGS LAURELS

Oriental Tornado Will Travel Westward for Tournament
Of Roaring Classics

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 30 (UPI)—Stanford university today announced that the University of Alabama had been invited to meet Stanford in the annual Tournament of Roses football game, New Year's day and had accepted.

The announcement was made by Al Manteca, graduate manager of Stanford, through the Tournament of Roses committee.

BY LANTON CAYER
NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (UPI)—Alabama's Crimson Tide was a standout today for the Pasadena Rose Bowl New Year's day. So much of a standout Alabama that a large part of that state's population understood the invitation already had been issued and accepted.

The Crimson Tide unannounced Van-Schilt yesterday, 34 to 0, making it clear enough for the season, Pittsburgh, still an outsider for the invitation, beat Carnegie Tech 20 to 14. Pittsburgh may have been defeated this season.

Already Announced.
John Culor, superintendent of the Birmingham city auditorium, announced at a Thanksgiving dance last night that the Crimson Tide had been invited and accepted. Coach "Inky" Thorburn of Birmingham was asked to confirm. He said that "as far as I know" no official action had been taken.

Two largish attractions remain on the season's program. Army versus Navy tomorrow and that Pasadena Rose Bowl match between Stanford and an eastern or southern opponent.

Army and Navy's meeting at Philadelphia tomorrow already is a sell-out — meaning an assured audience of 75,000. Both teams departed last night for the scene of battle, each spoiling for a fight. The odds were 3 to 2, like your choice.

Huge's in Twilight.

Another outstanding game tomorrow, largely because of the pulse-making proclivities of a non-participant, in the meeting of Louisiana State university and that Tulane Son Huey P. Long in a vocal backer of L. S. U. and if Tulane wins he probably will have a law passed prohibiting Tulane from crossing the L. S. U. goal line next season.

Tulane college and Holy Cross meet at Houston in an eastern feature; Detroit meets Washington State, Georgia and Georgia Tech tangle, and other games include Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, Southern California and Washington, Mississippi and Mississippi State, Florida and Stetson, and that's just about all that's left of another football season.

IRISH ACES WIN HONOR IN TEXAS

O'Brien Sends St. Edward University to New Fame
On Gridiron

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 1—Texas "Little Notre Dame," St. Edward's university here, may be headed for its second football championship in as many years with another honor, that of Knute Rockne at the helm.

Last year Jack Chevigny, now at the University of Texas, brought a new football spirit to the campus of this little community. Chevigny changed the team name from Indians to Tigers and proceeded to make them rise up to a St. Eds won the Texas conference title for the first time in history and Chevigny won a promotion to head coach at Texas.

Cameos from Navy
He was replaced by John O'Brien, last year's matador coach at Navy. O'Brien brought with him Laurie Verner, another Rockne disciple, whose exploits are well known. Together they have maintained the prestige of St. Edwards in the southwest and to date have lost one game to Taylor, in the southwest conference.

While St. Edwards hardly follows St. Mary's university as "giant killers" of the gridiron, the floundered white has represented it for the past two years and won the admiration and respect of every fan in this medium. Balanced and colorful, the Tigers made most rivals look bad by comparison.

Bogger With Knife
Pinned by Wrestler

CINCINNATI, Ohio—Using his 200 lbs., Jimmie E. "Huntington" Harvey, welterweight selling champion of Cincinnati, won an unexpected match with a knife-wielding Negro bogger at a downtown corner.

Harvey, amateur at a theater, went to the aid of Patrolmen Harry Hunt and Albert Hogan when he saw them attempting to disarm the man. He quickly overpowered and threw the Negro, but without getting an index finger nailed. Police said the man was using the knife to threaten people who refused him money.

YANKS GET ANOTHER ITALIAN

Tony Lazzeri, the Yankee, second baseman, is going to have company in 1935 when Joe DiMaggio, young Italian from San Francisco, Pacific Coast League star, in 1934, John Collier's team last fall, when he is to report. Here are Joe and his son discussing over a snack of spaghetti the recent deal which made him a Yank.

Borries, Buckler Ready For Personal Grid Duel

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (UPI)—The experts, meaning those gentlemen who can see more at a football game than the blond baby dolls and the mudholes, are telling the public that you, the Yale and the Harvard boys, will probably, exception of crew, be the one in which teamwork, and not individualism, triumphs.

Maybe they're right, and maybe I'm not the one to say, but I'm a gent who had much rather watch the blond baby dolls than tackles, tackle, running, guards, run, and endzone charge. But just the same, I am of the opinion that the biggest game tomorrow, the one which holds the interest of footballdom all over the world, will be decided by the personal exploits of two young men.

He's Ignition System.

I refer, of course, to the Army-Navy Skirmish in Philadelphia and to the Messrs. George Borries and Jack Buckler. Borries is more than the sparkplug of the Navy team. He is practically the entire ignition system. It was his all-around brilliance more than anything else, and this is not meant as a reflection on his teammates that enabled the youthful and light Navy team to come through as it has, though.

And tomorrow, largely because of Borries, Navy will go in there against Army not to hold the score close, but to win, and with a good chance of doing it.

Public Favors Navy.

What's more, nearly everybody will be pulling for the Navy, also the usual situation. They were Cadets Prince and Denmark McLean with these two as coaches. Middle aerobic, general director and eight halfbacks, Army knocked together a crew and prepared to meet the invasion of the fleet.

On that memorable occasion, Army went down to glorious defeat by the score of 24-0, but the Navy had been in a battle or so the sports page of that day tells us. Here's part of the running account:

Rend This!

"Blood on both sides is now hot. The Navy is ferocious (goodness!) and Army recalcitrant. They come together with a great crash (bang!) and Navy is hit on the nose. (But how Navy could take it.)

The Navy is a raw-bone wild beast that has tasted blood. It leaps at the throat of poor contacted Army and in the white while

Jackson is forced over the line for another touchdown."

That's the way the boys fought.

Borries is being heralded as the re-incarnation of all you'd find in great backs, while Buckler this season has been shunted into the background. Not entirely forgotten, but second fielding to Buzz.

Jacks Human.

Because Jack Buckler is human, it is likely that he will go in there tomorrow determined to prove that he belongs on the all-American and not among the honorable mentions down in the list of afterthoughts.

Borries very likely will be a back-bone man during the afternoon along similar lines. The outcome of the game probably can be pinned on one—or both of them.

You've heard and watch the running, might tomorrow and the blond baby dolls too.

But if you want to find out how the game is going, glance at Borries and Buckler.

Martial Commands.

For instance, the Navy quarterback had his attack with directions based on nautical terms ("splice the mainbrace" meant a dash through Army's center, "Tack ship" indicated an end run, and "Weir ship" directed the attack to the other end).

It is hard to realize just what signals would have been employed had the wide-open lateral game of today been in vogue then.

Martial Commands.

Army, on the other hand, directed its team with "Battery right wheel," "Column right," and similar military terms, which gave the Navy the edge right away, for the Tide knew their manual of arms too.

It was a grand game, that first one, and every one of the series of 31 since then has been a corker, too. Army has the edge, having won 10 to Navy's 12, three resulting in ties.

Navy goes into this battle with whatever edge there is on its side, having fought through a tougher one than the Cadets.

Did you never hear tell about the traditional chads? The underdogs have the annoying habit of coming to dizzy heights and when that happens, his bite is worse than his bark or, much worse.

VANDALS DEFEAT
GREIGHTON, 13-0

Mighty Men of Idaho Unleash Spectacular Defense to Win at Omaha

OMAHA, Nov. 30 (UPI)—The mighty men of Idaho's Vandals' Greighton's strong football team here yesterday 13-0 and treated a huge Thanksgiving crowd to a spectacular passing and running exhibition.

Scoring in the first quarter when Bevin clinched a series of five bounces with an end run for a touchdown, the Vandals scored again in the second quarter, through the air. The pass, McCue to Clegg, was good for 40 yards and an extra touchback.

Craighead's one long-scoring chance came when Holland, center, intercepted a Vandals pass and ran 86 yards, only to be dragged down from behind on the Idaho one-yard line. The Vandals took the ball on downs.

EDEN HOOPSTERS
OPEN PRACTICES

LIONS MAY GET NOTE

DETROIT, Nov. 30 (Special)—Coach George Hjort has announced that tomorrow, Dec. 1, will be the opening date for boys' basketball practice.

The Edens mentor will have four lettermen back on the boards for 1934-35, according to the latest news. Willie, Kip, Johnson and Morris Latimer. Although a substantial squad is expected to flock to the initial call tomorrow, much of it will be green and Coop Hjort will probably meet a tough job in filling last year's holes and in finding up capable reserves material.

Miss Houston, girls' basketball coach, expects a good turnout this year. The maidens will begin practice Dec. 3.

BOSS MEETS PACHO

CLEVELAND—Barry Rood will defend his junior welterweight championship against Bobby Peck, 23-year-old Mexican here Dec. 10. Rood will bat 12 round for Cleveland's first bout.

SKATING MEET SCHEDULED

MONTRÉAL—The North American figure skating meet will be held here Feb. 22, 1935. It will be staged under direction of the Montreal Winter club.

ARMY-NAVY FEUD STARTED IN 1890

Middies Captured That First Tilt, and It's Been Great Event Ever Since

By JIMMY DONAHUE
Times Staffer

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30—The Battle of Franklin Field, expected to be the most torrid of the present gridiron campaign, in the offing, Army has started the big field pieces. Navy is marching up from the waterfront behind a barrage hurlled by warships and destroyers straining at their anchor chains.

Led by Capt. Joe Stanack, full-dress, Army's tactical maneuver will be based around the big gun, Jack Buckler, while Navy will counter-attack with a mighty lethal weapon personified by Buzz Horrigan, on whom Capt. Dick Burns counts to bring in Middies here.

Lafe of Color.

Not even an artist could elevate his thoughts about the color in this game. Possibly no other titillating struggle in the annals of the same consequence as that which the Cadets and Middies will stage here tomorrow.

It all started back in 1890, when Navy, having had reports via carrier pigeon and pony express that the Yale and the Harvard were playing a game called football, challenged its archrival to a contest.

Army had heard even less of the game, its carrier pigeons having stopped en route to feed on putted wheat. But knowledge or not, the game, la bida, from West Point took up the show.

Wa! Who Team?

Only a couple of men at Army knew anything about the game. They were Cadets Prince and Denison McLean, with these two as coaches. Middle aerobic, general director and eight halfbacks, Army knocked together a crew and prepared to meet the invasion of the fleet.

On that memorable occasion, Army went down to glorious defeat by the score of 24-0, but the Navy had been in a battle or so the sports page of that day tells us. Here's part of the running account:

LAKE IN DESERT MAY DISAPPEAR

French Academy of Sciences Warned That Chad May Dry Up

BY REYNOLDS PACKARD
PARIS, Oct. 19.—The possibility that Lake Chad, covering some 7,000 square miles of territory in French Sudan and Nigeria, suddenly may disappear one of these days has been reported to the French Academy of Science.

The report was made by Gen. Jean Auguste Tilho, author, explorer and topographical expert, who has completed a study of the Lake Chad region.

Lost One-Third
Enormous amount of lake lost—estimated by 40 men during a 10-year period in the 19th century. General Tilho pointed out that his sudden disappearance would not be without precedent in history. He recalled that the Mahajanga in Madagascar suddenly was swallowed up in a single night in 1903 by the Beaufort.

General Tilho reported that there was every reason to believe that in the not so distant future the Lake Chad, inland affluent of the Niger, in which it meets, would be drained rapidly and would be replaced by a vast desert.

Study for Experts

The report suggested that a special commission of experts on topography and waterways be formed and sent to the Lake Chad region.

FIRST STREAMLINE STEAM LOCOMOTIVE FACES TEST

This first streamlined high power steam locomotive soon will be given a series of tests by the New York Central railroad to demonstrate the rail line's faith in steam, despite recent advances in Diesel-powered locomotives in the west. The engine, named the Commodore Vanderbilt, after the founder of the road, is streamlined to cut air resistance 35 per cent at a speed of 70 to 90 miles an hour.

to study the danger and to adopt measures such as the construction of dams. It was brought out that the lake is unusually shallow for a body of water covering such a large territory.

The western half of the Chad area was stated to contain the real lake, while the eastern part was described as consisting of a conglomeration of low banks separated by dried-up canals.

Offers Peace Plan

PAINESVILLE, O., Oct. 19.—"War will never be stopped by forming peace societies or by discussing the awfulness of war with peace-minded people," Dr. William E. Pierce, president of Kenyon College, told Lake Erie college students here. He recommended "super-government" a world court with teeth in it and a military organization."

The report suggested that a special commission of experts on topography and waterways be formed and sent to the Lake Chad region.

FRENCH THIEVES TO ENJOY FETE

Annual Event, Mostly in Fun Will Repeal Law During 24 Hours

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The eighth annual event will be repeated for 24 hours, beginning Dec. 8 at daybreak.

The 24th annual date set for the "Thieves' Fair at Sables d'Olone, in the Vendee, and the 14th Commandment, 'Thou shalt not steal,' is valid for 24 hours, paying for the object which he has stolen unnecessarily to repeat.

In other days this fair was a show of dexterity and wit between merchants who seldom trusted each other. Today, however, it is mainly done in a spirit of fun rather than skill, and often with the connivance of the "victim." They agree to exchange and promise not to "steal" the other one while the "thief" is being made.

At the "Fair Market," on the outskirts of Paris, where stolen goods are sold to the public rather than the exception in most of the booths, if an object can be proved as being the property of anyone present, he or she can claim it legally, and the owner, regardless of how it may have come into his hands, must forfeit it. It is rare, however, that claims are made in this manner.

At this picturesque fair, which draws back hundreds of visitors attending it authorized provided the thief is not caught in the act. If caught, his penalty is buying

RICH WINE CROP PUT IN STORAGE

French Peasants Prepare for New Crop at 1934 Yield Begins Aging

PARIS, Oct. 19.—With the richest wine harvest in nearly half a century now mellowing in underground cellars, the peasants in Languedoc throughout France already are preparing for the 1935 crop.

Except for a few days of rebelling over the abundance of last year's crop, the growers have continued their work uneventfully.

Many thousands of acres of vines have been pruned and sprinkled with anti-parasite solution.

Vines must be plowed at least twice before next season, thermal instruments and implements must be repaired.

At the same time vintners must be kept at hand in a kitchen.

Old wines must be moved out and shipped away to noble room in the dark recesses for the maturing of new wines. An idea of the amount of work necessary to keep a cellar in order can be gained from the huge champagne caves at Reims.

One of the show places of the region, it branches out into twelve miles of winding underground passageways, penetrating the chalky soil of Reims. All its vaulted walls are hidden beneath row on row of bottles of both old and aging champagne.

MEMOIRS BOOST U. S. WAR SHARE

Fourth Lloyd George Volume
Emphasizes Yankees Value
In World Conflict

By WENDELL MILLMAN
LONDON.—The U.S. soldier's part in winning the World war and the predominant importance of her military intervention gradually is emerging with publication of the memoirs of allied statesmen.

Publication of the fourth volume of David Lloyd George's "War Memoirs" has thrown more light on the vital importance of America's part.

Never taken the Armistice American military part in bringing the war to a victorious end has been depreciated widely in Europe. One of the principal reasons was that the Allies did not want to pay their war debts.

Some Extracts

Extracts from the book, including documents which were hitherto secret, give a different picture.

Here are some excerpts:

"Lord Asquith, Britain, now and I thought the project (plans for the battle at Passchendaele) a mistake. When Britain, with practically the only unbroken army, was holding the pass until the Americans arrive." (Page 2185).

"The gallant facts as to the condition of the French army and the extent of the demoralization in its ranks also were withheld or minimized. We were not told that the French plan was to assist the Americans and meanwhile to divert the equipment, husband the allied resources and only engage in limited operations not involving heavy casualties." (Page 2187).

Quotes from Report

Lloyd George quotes as follows from a report submitted to the British cabinet by Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial general staff at the end of 1917. "Our task is to do our utmost to insure holding our own until America arrives, and meanwhile make every effort to expedite her arrival." (Page 2347).

In a letter to President Wilson on September 3, 1917, Lloyd George said:

"Our allies . . . consciously or unconsciously, rely upon the British and Americans to supply that additional effort which is necessary in order to bring about a just, liberal and lasting peace. And you must be aware, the appearance of the vanguard of the American army has produced a tremendous effect, especially in France." (Page 2356).

SEA SHELLS WIN FASHION'S FAVOR

Feminine Contingent in Resort
Cities of Florida Find
New Style Uses

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1.—Sea shells have found a definite place in the winter resort girls' wardrobe this year.

Florida's gems of the ocean are putting in an appearance in many unexpected places in the beach girl's attire.

At the first of a series of pre-Thanksgiving soirees in the palm gardens at Honey Plaza, one blue-eyed maiden bound her blonde curly with a circle of tiny shells in rainbow tints.

Another girded a slim evening gown of sea-blue satin with a belt of shells. A third adorned her wrist with a pair of shell bracelets.

A chic sports outfit at the opening tea at the Miami-Biltmore Country club used sea shells for buttons. A pair of matching shells held the belt together.

Shells on the Florida beaches sparkle with all the colors of the rainbow, and the task of collecting them for evening wear is offering beach girls a new hobby.

THOUSANDS VISIT MORGUE; FAIL TO IDENTIFY TRIO

Thousands passed the biers of the three little girls found dead near Caribou, Pa., in a mystery to which no clues have been found, but none could identify the victims. Here is shown part of the curious and morbid throng which beat at the doors of the Caribou undertaker's bier where the bodies were taken in an effort to establish identity. Several tentative identifications were found to be wrong and appeals were sent to all parts of the country for possible clues.

DRYS IN KANSAS AIMING AT BEER

Leaders, Elated at Results of Election, Hope to Extend
Anti-Drink Sphere

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 1.—Kansas which went dry in 1880 by 8,000 votes, and elected to remain that way in the recent election by 70,000 votes, may be the focal point for a new drive to bring the nation once again under the banner of prohibition.

Dry leaders, elated by the way Kansas turned back the effort to repeat its ancient prohibition amendment, already are planning to make the state even more arid by outlawing sale of 3.2 beer.

Fight Against Beer

When it is expected pressure will be brought to force enactment of a measure declaring 3.2 beer unconstitutional, the courts, under the present law, have held it merely an innocent beverage. But the drys say it is the same stuff that was sold in Kansas prior to 1880, and add that beer constitutes 90 per cent of the traffic in alcohol drink.

A band of hatchet wielders, reminiscent of Carrie Nation, who came from the dry areas of the country to help enforce the ban on Kansas. A day ago an offering at Kansas election a group of G. T. U. workers met in Aransas City, where for months a fight has been waged over the road-holes that dot the highway just outside the city limits, even as they do in the wet states.

Sounds Call

Mrs. May Fraze, spokeswoman for the 50 women, sounded the call for hatchet wingers.

"If the law isn't enforced we'll get out hatchet and go to work."

"We don't want to take such drastic measures, but you can rely on that we will if necessary."

DISTILLERY FLUME FOUND

UTICA, Mich., Dec. 1.—An old distillery site, which had been underground for approximately a century, was uncovered here recently by workmen working on the streets near the Utica Flour Mill. The flume was made of stone boards two inches thick and was still in fair condition despite the fact it was placed underground about 100 years ago. At that time it was employed to carry water to the distillery.

Fiction Writer Shot Showing Own Plot

TOLEDO, Dec. 1.—Using a iron to demonstrate the feasibility of a situation in his latest novel, Ralph Gold, 32, writer of detective stories and a former Toledo and Detroit newspaper reporter, was wounded in the chest and arms.

Gold had decided to prove the gunplay situation in a novel he was writing, the scene of which was the home of his mother, J. D. Gold, in Swanton, near here. Gold left newspaper work several years ago to write fiction.

Libit-Satir waved his scepter before the days of Abraham. The cone contains names of Mesopotamian cities mentioned in the Book of Genesis, inscribed in cuneiform characters of ancient Babylon.

SPHERES TO ATTRACT TOURISTS

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 1.—The Michigan Department of Conservation has decided to scatter spheres of varying sizes to attract tourists.

The state's recreational facilities for visiting tourists, thousands of whom who visited state parks during the past tourist season were besieged with questionnaires asking what they thought of the present park and asking them to advance ideas of betterment.

CORN TITLE ENDANGERED

HOLMELAR, Calif., Dec. 1.—Tevon's claim as the leading state for "full corn" was in jeopardy today when H. W. Soderquist exhibited five 16-foot stalks weighing 70 pounds.

The corn was planted in June and a second crop.

HIGHWAY HAZARDS

There is need for better policing of the highways, which means that there is carelessness both in the operation of motor vehicles and the condition of machines permitted to be operated.

The wave of auto accidents here lately, resulting in tragedy, may not be traced directly to poor lights, weak brakes and other shortcomings, but it is manifest that if every driver was careful, if all cars were operated with headlights after darkness, if brakes and other accessories were in good working order, and what is more important, if drivers knew there would be penalties for violations of the road laws, that there would be severe punishment for intoxicated drivers, and that stop signs and speed laws have to be respected, there would be fewer accidents, and less sorrow.

With the approach of winter, slippery pavements and the creation of additional hazards, extreme care should be the watchword of all motorists.

The fearful accidents which have befallen others, may strike next where least expected. The dual responsibility placed on motorists for carefulness, and the condition of their vehicles must not be lost sight of. The most careful driver is subject to accidents arising from the most careless. The best driver in the world in a car without headlights, or with only one, runs the risk of causing danger to himself and all others on the road.

Traffic officers must be supported in their efforts to make the highways safe; magistrates must have no hesitancy in assessing stiff penalties on persistent and willful violators; and the public itself must set a high standard for safe driving in cars equipped to meet the emergencies which this age places upon all who travel upon wheels.

SEA SERPENT AGAIN!

It seems that there was something in those stories of a sea serpent in British Columbia, after all. The remains of some queer sort of animal have been found, and it is to be hoped that enough is left to enable scientists to tell us just what the creature was, in life.

Probably 90 per cent of all sea serpent stories are pure fable. But now and then one is forced to suspect that where there is so much smoke there must be at least a little smudge of a fire.

A British naval officer not long ago wrote a book in which he revived practically all sea serpent tales of modern times; and he boldly concluded that the seas do hold some sort of out-of-date monster, a holdover from the misty ages of pre-history, which men glimpse from a distance now and then.

Few things would be more interesting than to get genuine confirmation of this belief. May the British Columbia scientists have good luck in their research!

WORLD WAR IN MINIATURE

That long-drawn out, confused, and bloody little war between Bolivia and Paraguay seems to be furnishing an admirable laboratory specimen of the real thing. What happens in great wars is depicted here, in miniature, and the spectacle is an instructive one. A two-paragraph dispatch from La Paz, Bolivia, is an example.

This story began by remarking that Bolivia has now enrolled its 18-year-old conscripts, not due for service until 1936. Then it added that the Bolivian army had won a smashing victory, inflicting losses of 15,000 men on their opponents; and the story closed with a reminder of simultaneous claims of a sweeping victory by the Paraguayans.

Modern war is epitomized in that little story. Heavy losses, conflicting claims of victory—and the grim summing up of 18-year-olds to the colors!

IMPORTANCE OF ALASKA

It is interesting to notice that the Russian Communist newspaper Pravda predicts that Alaska will probably be an important battlefield if the United States and Japan ever go to war.

This spokesman for the rulers of Russia asserts that "the almost untouched wealth of Alaska attracts the appetite of Japanese imperialists," notes that United States naval authorities are contemplating the development of bases in the Aleutian Islands, and calls Alaska "one of the decisive battlefields of the north Pacific phase of a future Pacific war."

All this is interesting, not so much for its prediction of trouble, but because it is a useful reminder of the enormous potentialities of our great territory in the far northwest.

Our development of Alaska so far has barely scratched the surface. Some day this great region will be one of the most valuable features of our national economy.

The navy department has ordered strict secrecy on all new naval developments, so that only the foreign powers may know what we're doing along this line.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

CARLETON KENDRICK
CONTRIBUTOR

CHAPTER XI
CRIME completed his statement to Captain Malone as Cathay, because that was the name under which we knew him. Mrs. Malone reported to Cathay that Shillingby was making an investigation and naturally Cathay thought Shillingby had uncovered the secret of his past and was going to threaten him with exposure.

"Then he didn't go to see Mrs. Malone at all?" asked Blucker. "Of course he didn't," said Griff. "He wanted to try to get some message through to the girl who was arrested and he wanted to arrange to secure counsel who would get her out on habeas corpus because she could make too many damaging statements."

"Then," Blucker said, "Fisher must have been leading Mrs. Malone's room instead of going to it when we saw him there in the hotel."

"Of course," Griff said. "Fisher had just drilled her on the story she was to give if she was questioned."

"And Fisher was really the accomplice of Peter Malone?" Captain Malone asked.

"Yes," Griff said. "Peter Malone imbricated more than $26,000 from the Second Security Trust of El Paso, Texas. That was more than 30 years before. He ran away and left a wife and daughter. The wife subsequently divorced him. She came to this city. In the meantime Peter Malone had gone to River View, taking the name of Frank B. Cathay, posed as a business man who had sold out interests in South Africa and therefore had some cash to invest. His accomplice, whom we knew as Fisher, naturally shared in his resulting prosperity.

The two men became prominent in River View. They had the secret of their new wealth safely in their own hands. Then Mrs. Malone happened to make the discovery that her husband was a River View millionaire. Immediately she came up to participate in his wealth and did her daughter who had been going under the name of Alice Lorion."

"Then," Malone asked, "the marriage of Cathay was legal?"

"You," Griff said. "Mrs. Cathay is really his wife, although she did not know it. She knew enough of his past history to realize that he had probably left a wife. She knew his real name and knew that the wife's first name was Blanche. When Cathay died she moved heaven and earth to try to find Mrs. Blanche Malone and make some sort of a deal with her."

"And Mrs. Malone wouldn't see her?"

"No. Cathay had been carefully coached by Fisher."

"How was that?" Griff said. "Perhaps I had better explain from the beginning. The two men imbricated money. They became respected citizens in River View. Then the bank employed Shillingby to investigate Mrs. Malone.

"We know that Morden took a taxi cab. That he went to Ninth and Central. That he went to Shillingby's office and asked questions. Undoubtedly, Morden was shadowed. That trip cost him his life. The conspirators were in a panic. It was decided that Morden must die.

"They knew that Cathay would be suspected. Therefore, he must have an alibi. Fisher undoubtedly agreed to give him some indication that would make him quite ill, so that he could keep the appointment without the powerful knife now out against him."

For one thing, the Farley clan had suddenly recalled what Mr. Tekef did to it in patronage. It could and may eat Mr. Tekef raw or otherwise.

Much less evident in the relationship between the influential ex-ordinator, Mr. Shillingby, and Mr. Tekef. That is a secret which has been kept for years. The whole story is even now not in printable form. Nevertheless, it may safely be related that while Morris Richberg and Tekef once were law partners, they now speak only when necessary.

With Messrs. Farley, Richberg, Morden and a dozen sharp New Dealers after him, Mr. Tekef is in for an interesting holiday season.

OLD SCORE

There was more behind the Morden trouble than housing, much more than the mere question whether Mr. Morden should encourage private housing or Mr. Tekef encourage public housing.

Thus high in the interior department, know that Mr. Morden's first experience in government service is not now a pleasant recollection of either of them. Mr. Morden left his $100,000-a-year job with Standard Oil to represent the government representative of the oil code authority. But Mr. Tekef was oil administrator, which made Mr. Morden rather superfluous.

At last Mr. Morden thought so. They had many tussles about price fixing, with Mr. Morden insisting that price fixing was necessary. Once things got so bad that Mr. Morden went to the White House. Mr. Roosevelt wired with Mr. Tekef.

It is not generally known, but since that time Mr. Morden has never attended a meeting of the oil committee, although he never formally resigned. He just walked out, he could be under the eye of the inspector. That was Fisher's opportunity. He suddenly realized how much better he would be if he could kill off Cathay, stand in with Mrs. Malone and milk Mrs. Cathay by blackmail.

Fisher had been having Morden shadowed and, therefore, had no difficulty locating him. Morden was waiting for Alice Lorion to come in. Fisher showed up and produced a key to the apartment. Morden recognized Fisher as the man who had been arrested and given the name of Cathay. Fisher called Morden from behind, left the body in the apartment and slipped out.

"Alice Lorion found the body when she returned to her apartment. She helped her get rid of it.

"Fisher knew that Cathay had left a chauffeur a large amount. This had probably been done for a reason. We may never know what that reason was. I was afraid that they would either murder the chauffeur or get him to skip out of the country for a large sum consideration. Therefore, I was anxious to hold him as a witness. The story which Stella Mockley told us of course, which Stella Mockley told us about the mysterious conversations of Peter Malone over the telephone with the chauffeur, was made up of so much whole cloth. She had been carefully coached in this story by Fisher. When she had told her story, Fisher wanted her removed. He telephoned her to take a car and met him at a nearby place. Then he took out the gray Cadillac which had undoubtedly been hired in some private garage near the scene of the crime."

"When did you first uncover all this?" Captain Murphy asked.

"I should have known it much sooner," Griff said spontaneously. "I realized what must have happened when I began to realize that the man who had assumed the identity of Cathay must have done so with Cathay's knowledge, consent and co-operation." Then I realized of course, that it had been done to give Cathay an alibi and that a man would go to such trouble to get an alibi only in the event he planned to commit murder. I then thought back to remember it. It was decided that Morden had been murdered at 10:15 o'clock."

The criminologist sighed as he got to his feet. "Doubtless," he said, "so far as you gentlemen are concerned the case is completely explained." As far as I am concerned it will never be explained."

"If Morden merely obtained some money," Blucker said, "how could he have obtained it?"

Ortloff shook his head.

"I wish," he said softly, "that I could answer that question. The entire murder was the key to the entire mystery—and yet that murder was overlooked—by all of us—all except Morden. He remembered the forgotten murder."

"Gentlemen, good morning."

THE END.

RECOLLECTIONS

There is proof that Mr. Moffett remembers that. The White House did not give out the fact, but when Moffett and Tekef were summoned on the carpet there the other day, Moffett informed Tekef with feeling that those who would devour him. Nevertheless, he will have to be tougher than usual this time to withstand the powerful knives now out against him.

For one thing, the Farley clan had suddenly recalled what Mr. Tekef did to it in patronage. It could and may eat Mr. Tekef raw or otherwise.

"Fisher knew that Cathay had left a chauffeur a large amount. This had probably been done for a reason. We may never know what that reason was. I was afraid that they would either murder the chauffeur or get him to skip out of the country for a large sum consideration. Therefore, I was anxious to hold him as a witness. The story which Stella Mockley told us of course, which Stella Mockley told us about the mysterious conversations of Peter Malone over the telephone with the chauffeur, was made up of so much whole cloth. She had been carefully coached in this story by Fisher. When she had told her story, Fisher wanted her removed. He telephoned her to take a car and met him at a nearby place. Then he took out the gray Cadillac which had undoubtedly been hired in some private garage near the scene of the crime."

"When did you first uncover all this?" Captain Murphy asked.

"I should have known it much sooner," Griff said spontaneously. "I realized what must have happened when I began to realize that the man who had assumed the identity of Cathay must have done so with Cathay's knowledge, consent and co-operation." Then I realized of course, that it had been done to give Cathay an alibi and that a man would go to such trouble to get an alibi only in the event he planned to commit murder. I then thought back to remember it. It was decided that Morden had been murdered at 10:15 o'clock."

The criminologist sighed as he got to his feet. "Doubtless," he said, "so far as you gentlemen are concerned the case is completely explained." As far as I am concerned it will never be explained."

"If Morden merely obtained some money," Blucker said, "how could he have obtained it?"

Ortloff shook his head.

"I wish," he said softly, "that I could answer that question. The entire murder was the key to the entire mystery—and yet that murder was overlooked—by all of us—all except Morden. He remembered the forgotten murder."

"Gentlemen, good morning."

THE END.

PIGEON FANCIERS FIGHT FALCONRY

Revival of Old Sport Brings Vigorous Campaign In British Isles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Falconry has become so popular in the British Isles that pigeon fanciers fear their birds may be driven from the airways.

The National Geographic Society reported:

"Falconry is the sport in which a falcon is taught to take off from a falconer's arm, attack the prey and then return at his trainer's command."

In recent years, the Society said, falcons have been swooping down on pigeons in flight. Fearing complete destruction of their birds, fanciers have declared war on the hunting methods of pre-shooters.

Old Sport

Falconry was popular 2,000 years before the Christian era when Chinese entertained themselves by hunting game with falcons.

Stone carvings unearthed in the Near East and Egypt indicated the sport was followed in those regions at the same time.

Japanese, Indian and Persian-trained falcons, as early as the seventh century B.C., with expansion of the Persian Empire, became spread through Europe. It did not, however, gain a foothold in Britain until about 1,400 years ago, it then becoming the "sport of kings."

British falconers were ranked according to the kind of birds they owned. The finest birds belonged to the nobility.

Falcon training, it was pointed out, in a tedious procedure requiring great skill and patience.

ENGLAND SPEEDS AIRWAY ROUTES

Shorter Time from London to Dominions, Expands Air Mail Service

LONDON (UPI) — Britain is planning a great highway over her Empire air routes for the new year.

The speed-up plan, which the Air Ministry is working out in conjunction with the post office and the commercial airlines, includes Imperial Airways, including the shortening of many hours from the flying time between London and other capital cities of the Empire, re-reaching developing of aerial traffic between Great Britain and the Dominions, and an increase in the number of services to South Africa. A new air route to China also is contemplated.

First-Hand Survey

Sir Philip Snowden, Under Secretary of State for War, recently conducted a detailed and up-to-date survey of Britain's air communications, and that the government had been working for some months on plans for developing British commercial air transport. These plans have given an added impetus to the Melbourne race.

Sir Philip revealed that the government is considering increasing the subsidy to Imperial Airways to enable it to compete at greater advantage with the German airline, which with the German airline has been holding its own in the Pan American routes. The entire subsidy at present given to civil aviation in Britain amounts to about $2,305,000. It is pointed out that the United States Post Office air-mail appropriation alone amounts to more than $31,000,000 annually.

SCRATCHED BY SNAKE

SCOTT CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Howard Wible, 3, toddled out of his bed recently and crawled into the room where his father, a teacher, and "scratched" him. Investigation revealed that the boy had been bitten by a rat-tailed maggot. He is recovering.

By using approximately 1,000 fish, some black and some light gray, Summer put them in light and dark colored pools for the penguins to gobble up if they could see them. The question was: Did the so-called protective coloring of the fish—black in dark pools and light in white pools—aid it in capturing the penguin's bills?

The tests showed a two to one margin in favor of protective coloration. Black fish stayed in the dark colored pool while the light fish swam to safety in the white-bottomed pool.

The fish were the same type, the color being supplied by the experimenter so that penguin peculiarities of diet had nothing to do with the experiment.

COLOR PROTECTS FISH FROM FOES

Scientist Proves Reasons for Varying Hues of Water Inhabitants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Little black-pinked because they think that in a nice color, but because their ancestors weren't eaten up with them? That's black bacon.

Such was the conclusion of P. B. Sumner of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography at La Jolla, Calif., in a paper published by the National Academy of Sciences which tells of experiments in protective coloration.

In the light of Sumner's findings one might conclude that men are white, yellow or black because of age-old environments. The teeth in California, however, dent with the protective coloration of fish and penguins were eaten by humans.

WV. TREES UNCOVERED IN MARYLAND AS WAVES CUT INTO POINT

ANCIENT CYPRESS FOREST IS FOUND

Ice-Age Trees Uncovered in Maryland as Waves Cut Into Point

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Remains of an ice-age cypress forest have been unearthed, near Annapolis, Md., by Dr. Charles T. Berry, Johns Hopkins University paleontologist.

Such trees are believed to indicate the type of vegetation which covered this section of the country from 25,000 to 100,000 years ago, when were discovered by Dr. Berry.

Waves cutting into the face of Greenbury Point were responsible for Dr. Berry's discovery. The forest is directly across the Seven River from Annapolis.

The swamp consisted entirely of bald cypress trees, believed to have flourished in Pleistocene days. It apparently filled a deep valley which while it ran two ancient stream courses now to 200 feet deep and several feet wide.

At the extreme end of the Point, and exposed only at low tide, are approximately 25 cypress stumps from two to six or more feet in diameter. At the cliff's base is a five-foot bed of black clay, in the lower portion of which roots and knees of stumps are interwoven.

Dr. Berry was able to identify several species of ice-age vegetation from seeds gathered in the muck. It was pointed out, however, that the ancient vegetation did not differ greatly from that growing in the area today.
