Reformer Miser's Good Deeds Cut Short by Robber-Slayers

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—In a crowded Brooklyn tenement district where it is not unusual for families of 11 and 12 to live in a two room apartment, there lived a rich man named Daniel Tabinski. Tabinski thought only of money. He worked, saved, and invested. He owned 10 tenement houses and each week he simply collected the rents, and gave to Mrs. Murphy or Mrs. Greenberg if the rent wasn't ready when he called.

But Mr. Tabinski, mine children! They are hungry. Mine husband, he got no job. Tabinski's face hid-dered. That made no difference. He wanted his rent. Thirty years Tabinski lived alone in a two room apartment. The neighbors said he was too close-fisted even to take a wife. Shopkeepers reported he bought almost no food. He had no friends.

Four weeks ago a change came. Tabinski pulled friends up, and good will. He began dropping fat rolls of bills into the poor box at St. Bernard's Roman Catholic church and the quantity conferred with the priest. He instructed delicatessen keepers that became Mrs. Greenberg or Mrs. Murphy couldn't pay their rent, it meant there wasn't enough food for the children. Therefore, Mrs. Greenberg and Mrs. Murphy were to have anything they wanted and he would pay for it. Every day he brought candy for children. To Mrs. Levy he gave $2 for the doctor, because her little boy was sick. There was no end to his good deeds. "The neighbors talked. What did he mean? It didn't take them long to decide. He gave $5. His health was beginning to fail. He was preparing himself for the hereafter. Mrs. Murphy told Mrs. Flanagan the priest told Tabinski how hard it would be for a camel to climb through the eye of a needle.

Yesterday Tabinski's good deeds were cut short. Phisick pulled out a knife, killed him, and searched this apartment for hoarded wealth. Today the neighbors tried to induce 30 years against four weeks. The priest told them to hush. It was no a question for them to answer.

He Built Lake in New Mexico Desert— And Now He's State's Governor-Elect

ALBUQUERQUE (NEA)—They laughed when Clyde Tingley, mayor of Albuquerque, violated a bathing beach in the desert, a scenic drive over the silly dump, a beautification program that would finally make the town an oasis in the desert.

Today, they stand up and applaud. And thousands of those who scoffed at his dream remain to vote for him next Monday to make him the next governor of New Mexico.

Today the man who for 12 years has guided the destinies of Albuquerque as its mayor, a colorful, dynamic figure, promises to do for New Mexico what he has done for Albuquerque.

In politics Clyde Tingley is the Horatio Alger character of the town. Born in a log cabin on an Ohio farm, he had little education except what he picked up in the school of hard knocks. He learned farming, then auto racing. He became a machinist's apprentice and a pioneer in the motor car game. When he left Ohio 27 years ago to come to New Mexico he was independent—no automobile manufacturing company.

Without salary from New Mexico he operated farms in Ohio by remote control, entered politics at the bottom and was elected alderman in Albuquerque a few years after he arrived.

Income from his investments didn't make him wealthy, but it gave him enough money to devote his entire time to his hobby politics. And for the past several years he has devoted all his time to being mayor of Albuquerque, a job for which he doesn't receive even a dollar a year.

A love for animals stimulated him to build a zoo, and today the Albuquerque zoo ranks among the best small town zoos in the country.

The city dump along the Rio Grande at the western edge of town was an eyesore for years, and the mayor vowed that some day he would make it a scenic drive. Today, it is a hard surfaced road and one of the most popular drives in the city.

When the Rio Grande Conservancy district started its project of flood control and drainage in the Rio Grande valley the mayor violated the possibilities of utilizing the drainage water before it emptied into the Rio Grande.

Speedboat course. The lake, bathing beach and equipment were built without cost to the taxpayers, the money to be paid out of earnings of the beach. People laughed at the idea, but now in summer thousands use the beach.

Through the years Tingley has urged beautification of the city, has established parks wherever any wilderness possible, planted trees, urged art in the city, today from the air Albuquerque looks like a veritable grove of trees, and truly an oasis in the desert.

Deep water wells have tapped what is apparently an inexhaustible supply of water—the growth did not affect the supply—and householders are urged to use it liberally. Special rates are given to those who plant trees and grass.

Plan Open House. Clyde Tingley is proud of the town he helped to build and his greatest treat is to show it off to some visitors of prominence.

He loves to entertain and loves a big show. He has put on Indian adoption ceremonies for movie actors, high officials, and Jimmie Walker. He has staged a sailing at the behest of Walter Winchell, has been a one-man chamber of commerce when it comes to putting over a sales talk for Albuquerque.

And for recreation he hunts deer, bear, elk and mountain lion.

Mrs. Tingley came to Albuquerque for her health, and her chief interest has in making the road smoother for the hundreds of health seekers.

Neither is interested in social functions, and when they move into the executive mansion in Santa Fe, they plan to hold a periodical entertainments, to keep the mansion always thrown open to all the people in the state in a sort of permanent "open house."

Although a Democrat, the governor-elect always has run for city office on a non-partisan ticket entitled "Greater Albuquerque." His plans for the state as governor, he declares, are summed up in the slogan "Greater New Mexico."

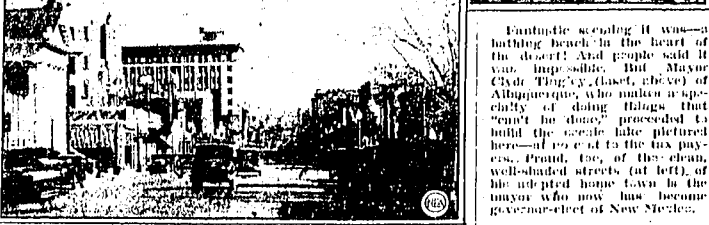

Called by his political enemies through the years the "ear" of Albuquerque, he has been one of the state's most colorful figures.

Under Fire. As governor his friends expect him to become one of the West's most colorful figures, while his foes predict he'll even back it up. Long off the map.

During the campaign he was the target for most of the attacks of the Republican speakers and was charged with everything from using poor grammar and excessive addition to "ain't" to entering a patronage "deal."

As the campaign closed Douglas Fairbanks made a flying visit to Hollywood to speak on his behalf election eve. Then, when the election was over, they went hunting for the "deal."

Clyde Tingley will take office Jan. 1, and the people of the state know that whether he makes a good governor or a poor one, there will be something doing every minute.

Facing the scenery it was a bathing beach in the heart of the desert. And people said it was impossible. But Mayor Clyde Tingley (inset, above) of Albuquerque, who makes a specialty of doing things that "can't be done," proceeded to build the scenic lake pictured here—of no cost to the taxpayers. Proud, too, of the clean, well-shaded streets (at left) of his adopted home town in the mayor who now has become governor-elect of New Mexico.

SNEEZE BY GIRL SNAPS HER ARMS

Muncie Lass, at 15, Broke Eighteen Bones in Three Year Period.

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP)—The far from an unassuming feminine sneeze broke both arms of Mary Margaret Davis, 15, as she rested her hands on her hips, accounting for two of 18 such breaks suffered in the past three years.

The girl, suffering from tuberculosis of the bone marrow, has been handicapped almost constantly with broken arms.

Asked to enumerate the occasions on which she suffered the breaks, Mary Margaret was able to account for all six of them.

The first break occurred when she fell out of bed. Twice the right arm has been broken—six times the left one—when she picked up a plate.

After falls on stairs have contributed broken arms, and sneezing has caused three other breaks. One evening as she was helping to clear the table of dishes, her arm snapped when she picked up a plate.

A fall downstairs accounted for another. Her latest break occurred on the fourth day of school when her father playfully grabbed her by the right arm, snapping it at the wrist.

The girl has been unable to attend school regularly. Two years ago she was forced to quit a city junior high school here. She tried to go to school for two weeks of late in year and had to drop out. After waiting six weeks for her arm to heal, she entered again only to suffer another broken arm after three days.

Mary Margaret now confines her activities to reading, listening to the radio and attending movies.

But Protected Land Suffered Far Less, U. S. Summary Points Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fire in unprotected forest areas of the United States last year were 20 times as damaging as blazes in protected sections, according to figures compiled by the Agriculture Department's Forest Service.

In all, fire swept 43,890,820 acres of the nation's timberland in 1933. Of this area, 40,166,000 acres was forest land devoid of protection, and 3,724,820 acres was land under protection.

Approximately 20.70 per cent of the country's unprotected forests were burned, while the toll on protected land was 1.60 per cent.

All national forests are under systematic fire protection. The Forest Service estimated that 533,570,240 acres need protection.

Properly managed forest fires in 1933 was estimated at 500,274,000, compared with a five-year average of 502,831,423. The loss, however, does not include intangible values such as watershed, recreational, scenic, soil, young reproduction, or other values amounting to untold millions.

Mississippi, with 22,366 fires, led the states.

More than 200 greyhound racing tracks are in operation in Louisiana.

PATTERN 9202

Housewives of experience are always on the lookout for frocks that are as comfortable to work in as they are becoming to wear. That's why they'll like this slimming dress. There's not a button to mar the smooth perfection of the skirt's trim lines, nor a ruffle to catch and tear as you slip your way through your morning duties. The sleeves are cut gracefully full and shoulder tanks allow plenty of room in the bodice. There's a bit of intriguing detail—there's the trim bodice closing which may be opened, and pert little contrasting ravers of lawn buttoned up into a smart point.

Pattern 9202 may be ordered only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 38 requires 8 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrasting.

CHILD PRODIGY'S NAME REVEALED

School Jealousy Brings Boy Into L'Amight Dispute

SCHOOL Jealousy Brings Boy Into L'Amight Dispute
Father's Wishes

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—The name of a public school advocate who has a private school was taken for all the credit for "X," 70-year-old boy whose intelligence quotient gave him a higher rating than Prof. Albert Einstein, he was identified today by Arthur Greenwood, son of George H. Greenwood, a teacher of mathematics.

Mrs. Winifred Travis, chairman of the Parents' Association of L'Amight School, read the names of the anonymous prying inquisitor. She thought the Holyday Educational Culture school, where Arthur is a pupil, was taking all the credit, forgetting that he once attended public school 217. She issued a statement declaring that his intelligence was due entirely to what he learned at 217.

Had been Coerced

The child's identity had been carefully concealed by all concerned because they did not wish him handicapped with the label "prodigy." The father reluctantly released reporters. Arthur was present.

"Arthur," said the father, "do you think the fact that one boy is smarter than another boy is worthy of comment in the press?" "No, I see nothing remarkable in that circumstance."

"If the reporters found out the boy's name, do you think they should publish it?"

"I don't think they should."

"Neither do I," said the father, ending the interview.

Phases Credit

Greenwood later issued a statement placing credit for Arthur's mind. It read:

"We are not interested in giving credit to any institution for Arthur's development. A unique child is a creation of nature and not the product of any training on the part of his parents or a school."

CHICAGO'S TEAM CARRIES WALLOP

Nagurski, Feathers and Hugo Also Viewed as Too Much for New York

By JIMMY DONAHUE
(NPA Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—On Sunday, the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears met here for the professional football championship of the United States and they fought a hard, close, and exciting battle.

And, in the end, it was the Bears who were the victors. They were led by their star player, Bronko Nagurski, who, in his first year in the league, led his team to a record of 10-2-1. He was named the greatest lineman in the game.

Feathers, in his first year in the league, led his team to a record of 10-2-1. He was named the greatest lineman in the game. He was named the greatest lineman in the game.

Wee Willis Smith, Tiny Star, Bucks Huge Rivals

Midget Idahoan Makes Good in Pro Ranks; Nagurski Calls Him-Mickey Mouse

By HENRY McLEMORE
NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Amused by the same curiosity which would send citizens in droves to see Jack who killed the giant, David who kayaked Goliath and St. George who dusted off the dragons, were those valorous fellows returned to earth, I journeyed to the Polo Grounds to see Willis Smith of Boise, Idaho.

Willis Smith, a midget, a tiny, double-breasted overcoat, give him the name quintuplets to hold, and he must weigh all of 135 pounds. For him up on the team, he is a tiny, double-breasted overcoat, give him the name quintuplets to hold, and he must weigh all of 135 pounds.

In a Christmas card, midget football player or a party farmer, even, these anatomical weights and measures would be without interest and quite beside the point. But in the case of Willis Smith, they are quite important, for Willis Smith is a professional football player, working against the biggest, toughest, rugged football players in the world.

So Green led him around. The first game he played in he went 90 yards for a touchdown, and he was named the greatest lineman in the game. He was named the greatest lineman in the game.

FANS THRILLED, ROMNEY THINKS

And That's One of Attractive Features in Swift, Rooky Mountain Style

Editors Note: In the last of his book series, Chief Rooker, G. Ott Romney rates his system against other popular styles of play.

By G. OTT ROMNEY
Director of Athletics and Basketball Coach, Brigham Young University
PROVO, Utah, Dec. 7.—Western midgets, eastern sports writers have tried to name the style of basketball played by the Rocky Mountain. Their titles have included "Avant-garde," "Pre-Mo," "Spartan-ism," "Swift and Rooky," and "The Meanys." All agreed it produced a thrill.

As a matter of fact, the style is an attempt to weld together elements of the various systems which proved effective as perfected by James at Illinois about two decades ago and the most deliberate short-past offensive of the modern basketball period. It is a new relation of professional basketball.

Set Defense Upset
The best team I have had in the last few years has come through means during which only a rare occasion was the plan of the opponent's defense obvious. The ball was rushed from basket to basket so rapidly that a set defense seldom, in many cases never, organized.

Revert to Own Style
If a good team playing Rocky Mountain ball should meet, let us say, the George Rogers set, taught Notre Dame team in a series, it would not be surprising if the game were split. It is quite probable that one team would murder the other in the style of the opponents in the first game, but would remedy its difficulties and return to its own system with utter abandon in the next meeting.

ANTI-T. B. UNIT MEETS SATURDAY

Association Will Report on Progress of Seal Sale Campaign

Twin Falls County Anti-Tuberculosis Association will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Orr Chapman, officers announce. Mrs. Chapman requests that every part of the county be represented to report on the seal sale campaign.

Mrs. H. J. Dehn, unit sale chairman, announced encouraging reports from her part of the campaign. She has received, she says, almost 100 per cent sales so far from the latter she recently mailed, each of which contained one dollar's worth of stamps. Although they have been in the mail but two days, the returns total $70.25 from 77 letters returned.

Three-Fold Program Proceeds from the seal sale go to the three-fold program of this county's chapter of the Idaho Anti-Tuberculosis Association, at the association's share in the Community Chest goes entirely to the McCluskey health camp at Imhl. Special plans for the camp will be discussed Saturday.

Informing the public about tuberculosis through talks, moving pictures, posters, literature and publications is one of the projects emphasized by the Twin Falls County association, says Mrs. Chapman. Other projects are special lectures once a "keeping the well child well" through health education in the schools; concentration on the physically underpar child through physical examination, correction of defects, x-raying and special care and feeding; health camps; tuberculin tests and an x-ray program to find those children who have picked up infection so that they may be safeguarded from active disease. The third project is the study of the tuberculosis problem, which means securing hospitalization. This provides for tuberculosis surveys and clinics, which are a follow-up of tuberculosis cases and of securing legislation for sanatorium care.

PLANES BECOME FAVORED AS TOY

British Boys Grow Airminded but Girls Prefer Yankee Unbreakable Dolls

LONDON (AP)—The favorite toy of the British boy this year is the airplane. Instead, are showing a decided predilection for American-made unbreakable dolls. The toy of Charles W. Scott and Campbell Black, the British aviationists in the London-Melbourne air race, is responsible for the boys' enthusiasm for aviation, executives of leading department stores in London told the United Press.

British children are mostly practical. Lead soldiers, guns, battle-hips, submarines and other war-like toys are selling just as any other toy.

Doll Sales Gain Doll sales have increased more than 200 per cent the largest volume since 1913, one department store reported. The toy business is closely connected with the demographic situation, it was said. The increase in the British birth rate in the past five years has been a major factor in the present boom in sales.

Mechanics, electrical toys, Mickey Mouse games, Three Little Pigs and Big Bad Wolf puppets are also best sellers. Ninety per cent of the toys are British made. The remaining 10 per cent is divided equally between the United States and Germany.

Body of Margaret Cowan, 21, Killed Near Phoenix, Will Be Brought to City

The body of Miss Margaret Hancha Cowan, 21, is to be brought to Twin Falls for funeral services and burial, according to word received here today by the Twin Falls mortuary. Miss Cowan, a nurse, was killed almost instantly yesterday just east of Phoenix, Ariz., when she was struck by a hit-and-run driver.

She and Dr. Benjamin Herzberg, 30, Phoenix, were struck down while they were standing by the roadside repairing a tire. Both were killed. Miss Cowan grew up at her home northwest of Tucson. FOR THE LEGISLATURE

Among the important conventions which have been held here were those of the Idaho Municipal Officers' association...

Attendance at both was comparatively small, because no provision is made in the statutes for officials to travel to the meeting...

No doubt the actions of the municipal heads here this week will be influential in changing state statutes, and if so, it will be because a few of the elected officials took it upon themselves to attend the meeting...

Every official of a tax-leaving body holds an important position when the taxpayer is considered. If such gatherings as those held here can be influential in keeping tax costs down by lower levies and a fairer distribution of revenues...

This is a matter which the state legislature might well consider at its next session.

BONUS PAYMENT

Action of the Fifth district American Legion in going on record in favor of the immediate cash payment of the so-called bonus, is but representative of the growing attitude over the country.

This is not to say that the bonus is to be paid, but like the pension plans for older folks, congressional representatives are likely to be swayed by the waves of sentiment in favor of such proposals.

As has been pointed out in these columns previously, there is every justification for paying the bonus, if it can be done without impairing seriously the credit of the country.

The American Legion and other ex-servicemen's organizations have gone on record at national conventions in support of bonus payment...

WHY THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE?

Having persuaded the people of his home state to try a far-reaching reform in substitution of a single-chamber state legislature for the traditional two-chamber body, Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is now planning to offer a much-needed reform to the nation as a whole.

What the senator proposes to do is simply to abolish the electoral college. His scheme would not break down state lines, in the final count; but it would make the electoral vote a far more accurate reflection of the popular will...

It is hard to think of any very good argument against this reform. The electoral college is not only a cumbersome anachronism; it actually makes it possible for a man to be elected president by a minority of the country's voters.

It is high time the system was changed, and Senator Norris' plan for changing it looks as good as any.

EDUCATION ABOVE SPORTS

Now that the smoke of the football season is dying away, it is worth while to heed some remarks made recently by President James Rowland Angell of Yale on the subject of intercollegiate athletics.

"The young man who wishes to give all his time and energy to sports is quite entitled to do so, if he can afford it," says President Angell, "but he has no place in a really reputable college where intellectual development is the primary concern."

"A collegiate institution of which this is not true is a fraud to the trust."

This provides about as good a yardstick for the measurement of "overemphasis" as you could wish. College, in other words, is a place for study, and football is a game the students play in their spare time, for fun.

The college which enrolls students who are there primarily to play football, and who accept college as a necessary evil, is, as President Angell says, being false to its trust.

Dr. F. E. Wright of the Carnegie Institution says the moon is a cold, dead body, although it warms the hearts of many a loving couple.

The young man leaped from his car and came forward, extending his hand. "You!" he said. "Where did you come from?"

ANN HOLLISTER, pretty and 26, with the family picture of a debutante, her father, now dead. On the day of the show a young man, stopped by motor trouble, came to her home in telephone. After he had seen Ann, she had a blue, vase-shaped and in the place a note signed "ANN" was left.

"Almost you over you," Ann laughed. Suddenly she remembered she had a reservation. "It wasn't nice of you to leave more than the vase was worth. I wasn't accepting, charity," she said.

"I'm sorry if I appeared off-color," she said. "I thought it was worth it. It was worth as much as that, wasn't it?" Ann conceded, doubtfully. "What are you doing now?" she asked.

"Remembering her errand, her father, Ann said: "I'm on my way to report a failure to the head of the library where I work."

"You're really sorry you had the trip for nothing. It happens. I'm going to see him now. Suppose you go with me. I'll take you to the practically put me out, I don't want to discourage you but if I were you I'd wait another day."

"You?" Sarah began an elaborate description. Peter Kendall had gray eyes with a hint of humor in them, a nicely chiseled nose, a strong mouth with a hint of obliquity about the chin.

"I'm glad to hear you're making progress," he said. "Anyways, Tony, rich people are people. Well, at least I know one who's rich."

"No, they're not. They are a bunch of snobs," he asked after a moment. "Who is the nice fellow?" "Peter Kendall," he said.

"What did you say?" "Nothing. What is the grandson?" "The coal trolley gripped railway service in and out of Twin Falls, with the decision of the Oregon Short Line to end its passenger service in half, commencing tomorrow."

"The Twin Falls Elks lodge will have memorial services for departed brother this afternoon. Members of the order will assemble to watch the reading of the following: Frank Mattson, exalted ruler; Oliver Duvall, esteemed leading light; H. B. Grant, loyal knight; E. R. Taylor, lecturing knight; Herman E. Deane, secretary; H. M. Maxwell, treasurer; V. H. Grady, squire; J. W. C. Deane, iller; C. L. Bowen, inner guard; J. L. Duvall, chaplain."

You May Not Know That— Flowers have shipped to south central Idaho every month of the year. J. A. Campbell, whose residence is on suburban property, reports that his crocus commenced blooming Jan. 26, 1934, and that he recently saw flowers from these plants.

Germany produces more than 2,000 varieties of sausages. A rattling service station is now on the market. The motorist drives into a station on a turn-table and the car is serviced with gasoline, oil and water within two minutes. Greasing and oil changing are done in another part of the building.

Early that evening Ann and Tony were part of a milling crowd at the amusement park. It was fun to cling to Tony in "The Crazy House"; to become almost frightenedly wondering about the most romantic to drift with him to the little gondola at the "One Night in Venice" concession.

"For goodness' sake! Can't you wait until we're out of the water?" Ann said, trying to shove Sophie ahead and nonchalant. But she knew something had happened. That kiss had meant that she was Tony's girl now. The carousal companionship was ended.

"You?" Ann agreed, her voice not as steady as it had been. "There was a bump in Ann's throat. She was falling in love. She was listening to Tony's deep musical voice and seeing pictures. Seeing herself moving about a neat little kitchen, wearing a blue-checked apron.

INNOCENCE COST $15 BOSTON (AP)—William G. Stripes, chairman of the Whately school, wanted to prove his innocence at any price. Charged with a parking violation, Stripes came to Boston at a cost of $15. He brought a picture of his automobile in Dearfield the day police say it was in Boston. Found not guilty, he thought, so a body should pay the expense.

Two Women Seize Burglar on Farm CHARLESTON, D. C. (AP)—Six unidentified women seized a burglar on a farm near here, when she heard signs in the night. Nor has her mother. Mrs. Benjamin, heard crockery and canned food being dashed in her kitchen one night. She summoned her mother, Mrs. John Prosser. Into the kitchen rushed the plucky women, and captured a man, who later said he was from Cleveland. The two women wrestled with the intruder and struck him with their fists repeatedly until Deputy Sheriff C. R. Spaulding arrived.

History of Twin Falls City and County AS GLEANED FROM FILES OF THE TIMES

15 Years Ago The coal trolley gripped railway service in and out of Twin Falls, with the decision of the Oregon Short Line to end its passenger service in half, commencing tomorrow. Notice of the new schedule, which is necessitated by an acute fuel shortage, was given by railroad officials last evening. They were unwilling to venture an opinion as to how long the restricted service would be necessary, or whether it might be further reduced.

27 Years Ago Rev. David H. Jones, pastor, is in the city this week endeavoring to obtain the help of the citizens in erecting a church building on the lot near the hospital, which was donated to the church by the townsite company. The bishop has fully made up his mind to build at once and begin church services as soon as temporary quarters can be obtained.

Says Budget Can Be Balanced; Poor Fed TOLEDO (AP)—The national budget can be balanced without recourse to anyone, and those who claim the contrary lie, declared Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, in an address here tonight. The Ohio Chamber of Commerce. "The statement that you can't balance the budget and let men starve is pure, absolute demagoguery. We can meet all the requirements of our budget with no more than the increased taxes which have been heaped on the people in the last two years," Col. Knox said.

"Kidnap" of Pet Monkey Is Sought CINCINNATI (AP)—Although Ben Benjamin couldn't get federal agents interested in the "monkey" which protected sorrow into his house for two days, police have been hot on the trail of the man who took Benjamin's animal. "Kidnap" the monkey was reported at night, without payment of ransom. News had been asked. Benjamin believed the "monkey" had read his plea, newspaper-printed, to keep the animal in a warm room because of pneumonia dangers.
