TREASURY DRIVE SHATTERS WIDE DRUG SYNDICATE

Terror-Stricken Remnants of Peddling Gangs Flee to Underworld Havens

HUNDREDS ARRESTED

12,000 Federal Men Join in Nation's Most Extensive Narcotics Round-up

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (UPI)—Arrests in the nationwide roundup of illicit narcotics distributors totalled 791 at noon today, Narcotic Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger said.

By HARRISON SALISBURY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (UPI)—Shattered and terror-stricken remnants of drug-peddling syndicates from New York to Hawaii sought refuge today in underworld hideouts far beyond the nation's greatest metropolis, dragnet.

Already 765 prisoners—peddlers, key men and addicts—were in federal custody and more faced arrest in a campaign to deal a crippling blow to the illicit traffic.

New Round-up

Agents expected to round up additional prisoners on information gleaned from those already held and from addicts, starved for drugs with their regular source of supply cut off.

The next move in the nationwide drive will be to prosecute drug dealers with that in possession of law-enforcement departments of the treasury. About 12,000 men are concentrated in treasury police forces, covering narcotics, customs, secret service, alcohol and income tax.

Extensive Drive

It was revealed that these agencies are co-operating in this drive. The co-operation is expected to provide one of the most powerful and effective law enforcement units in the world.

Data from the narcotics prisoners were expected to uncover important leads in income tax and customs violation cases. Treasury officials predicted further sensational developments might be expected.

Information held by the treasury department, which conducted raids in a score of cities, indicated today existence of loosely organized

NEW DEAL BANS DEVALUATION AS PRESENT POLICY

No Further Changes Planned In Dollar Level Unless Action is Forced

STABILIZATION IS SOUGHT

Inflation Opposed as Federal Administration Moves to Loosen Credit

By LYLE C. WILSON (Copyright, 1934, United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (UPI)—Public and private expressions of administration opinion today presented reasonably accurate picture of what the New Deal plans for banks and money.

Dollar devaluation, informal dollar stabilization extra now at 50.00 cents, gold. There is no intention to devalue the dollar further immediately. Either of at least two conditions could quickly persuade Roosevelt to change the value of the dollar in terms of gold:

France Is Cog

1. If refunding gold standard countries, notably France, were forced off gold, it might then be desirable further to devalue the American dollar in line with the general depreciation of currency which would ensue throughout the world.

2. Mr. Roosevelt would not hesitate to devalue the dollar further to enter into an international currency stabilization agreement. The statutory limit of devaluation is $10,000,000.

"Trial Balloon"

In his message to congress last January Mr. Roosevelt said the disturbed state of international affairs prevented him from launching a large-scale propaganda campaign to defeat the federal and scores of municipally owned power projects, the federal trade commission reported to the Senate today.

The 46, income tax returns showed, paid 7 per cent of the total personal income tax. In the peak of 1929 prosperity year, 613 persons were listed with incomes of $100,000 or more.

Million dollar incomes in 1933 more than doubled those of 1932 notwithstanding a decline in incomes of all Americans to the lowest level in 18 years.

Personal income tax returns numbered 3,000,105, totaling income of $10,845,033,532 and tax liability of $372,037,761. Average net income in 1933 was $2,003, and tax liability $101,00.

Names of the 30 millionaires were not made public.

Your Per Cent Graft

"Only the four per cent," Casey replied. He added that when administration executives learned of the terrible immediate action was taken to prevent future dealings of that nature.

Description of the sales to China was preceded by a description of alleged intrigue, bribery and corruption in connection with munitions sales in the Balkans.

The charges were contained in reports of activation of British, French and German munitions companies. The du Ponts denied the record a statement that they had no part in any such activities.

GRAFT ADMITTED AT ARMS PROBE

Di Pont Heads Tell Senate Quiz of "Old Chinese Custom" in 1929

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (UPI)—Private utility conducted a massive propaganda campaign to defeat currency stabilization, United States Ambassador Robert W. Bligh recently sent up in England a trial balloon, suggesting the United States and Great Britain undertake stabilization regardless of the rest of the world.

The White House did not immediately react to the trial balloon, but Bligh's speech on his own responsibility, British pressure in stabilizing dollars would be to increase rather than decrease the value of the dollar. This will continue to be true until and unless it is recognized that there is through a specific legislation that creates a primary money market, a highly regulated relationship to gold by law.

BALLOON UNPICKED

Whether the proposed Wheeler amendment to the gold act, or the Bligh bill would have established such regulated relationship, the exact ratio adopted is relatively unimportant, just as it is now the natural parity of world production established over a period of more than 400 years, which production has been approximately 14 times as much silver to one ounce of gold.

One of the chief arguments used against re-establishing silver through congressional action, when the Wheeler amendment was before the last body, was that we would be flooded with silver. This argument fell when China put a virtual embargo on silver exports through an export tax when the United States treasury silver purchases began.

CHINA WON'T SELL

Hence we have only obtained a small part of the amount expected to be offered from foreign countries. China will not sell a large amount of silver because it is the only money she has and without it the business of the country could not be conducted. She is a silver buyer and not a silver seller.

If allowed to import silver, the value of gold it must have a free and open market in the United States. The new silver law destroys the American market for silver since that market itself is subject to manipulation. Neither the economic situation nor the value of the money metals is standardized by law and not subject to manipulation.

NEW DEAL'S BAN ON DEVALUATION

News in Brief

Readers of the Evening Times are invited to contribute brief news items to this department of the paper by telephone. The number is 35.

Opposed to Inflation: "Inflation: Currency inflation—printing press money—is not a New Deal policy. The $3,000,000,000 of funded greenbacks authorized permissively by the Thomas inflation amendment have not been spent."

Credit inflation has administrative support. Appointment of Muriel S. Eccles as governor of the federal reserve board foretold a centralization of government control over credit. By borrowing, others to borrow and by utilizing control over banks to insure they will make the loans, government can inflate credit. Low interest rates probably will be a factor.

"Under domination of Eccles and Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., the banking system rather than the printing press will be the source of government funds. Deficits created by spending will be met for a time with more borrowing. The alternative to borrowing to meet deficits is currency inflation."

Man's Served, Publicly: An authoritative administration viewpoint is that the federal reserve board has served the interests of the banker rather than the interests of the people. Bankers dispute that.

The government's attitude is that the 1933 experience with bank closures is sufficient evidence that the interests of the people and those of the banks do not always coincide.

Under Eccles-Morgenthau domination the board will endeavor to compel banks to follow policies evolved in Washington and believed to be more nearly in the national interest than were board policies prior to the 1933 collapse. If bankers resist, they will be coerced.

Bankers display purely political control of the banking system. New Dealers contend bankers provided themselves unable to protect the public.

DRIVE ON DEVALUATION

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 10 (UPI)—President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau federation today urged further devaluation of the "commodity dollar" as the means of restoring prosperity among United States farmers.

Speaking to nearly 5,000 delegates gathered here for the organization's 18th annual convention and representative of all districts of agriculture, O'Neal urged advances made under the agriculture adjustment administration program but insisted that the relative buying power of farmers remained below normal.

President Roosevelt, speaking from Washington over a radio hookup, gave his members Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Dr. George K. Warren, money adviser, addressed the afternoon session.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will speak at tomorrow night's banquet.

DRIVER CLEARED IN FATAL CRASH

Verdict of a coroner's jury here Saturday, as announced in the city edition of the Evening Times, exonerated any of the involved in the accident Wednesday night in which the life of Mrs. Sarah Wallen, 36, and injured her companion, Charles Dugay, died.

Carl Hollenbeck, driver of the car which ran into the Dugay machine on the state highway northwest of Elba, was the last witness at the hearing conducted by Dr. F. A. Pritchett, county coroner. The nine jurymen took but a few minutes to reach a verdict that the accident was unavoidable.

WILLIAM SCOTT WINS IN DEBATE

The teams debated the question, "Resolved: That the nations should agree to prevent international shipment of arms and munitions."

Scott is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Scott, Twin Falls, who attended the event.

ORPHAN PRAYS

Union Engineers Join Plant Workers at Great Western Beet Refinery

BILLINGS, Mont., Dec. 10 (UPI)—Union engineers today joined other Great Western Sugar company plant workers who went on strike here last Friday.

The engineering action,avelled strike ranks to slightly more than 400.

With about 20 per cent—70,000 tons of the plant's sugar beet tonnage on the dump, no progress was made at breaking the impasse which resulted when union men, who refused demands for a minimum wage of 10 cents hourly for all hourly men, to be retroactive to Oct. 2, and a closed shop.

Company officials said they were continuing shipping their remaining beet to another company plant at Lovell, Wyo.

Peaceful Pleading:

An strike conducted peaceful pickets lines about the refinery—one of the world's largest—the permanent Great Western crew carried on charted operations, except chiefly of refining what sugar was left in the plant.

More than 500 greater plant workers joined up the greater part of the strike ranks.

The virtual shutdown came when the plant had about three weeks more to run. Its major activities normally end shortly after the first of the year.

Salaries paid hour workers range from $2.12 cents to 75 cents.

No violence of any kind has been reported since the strike began.

Both unions and company officials indicated they were making little progress in pending action by J. C. Jacobson, national labor relations board representative stationed at Denver. Kerr Beadle, Butte, is in Billings on Jacobson's personal representative now.

The great naval base around the country, the Oregon Coast, is likely to be the scene of the most ambitious naval gathering in many years. A "hostile" fleet will attack Singapore and bombing planes will defend it. The army will cooperate.

Coming next Sunday are thrills and mystery in the air, "Murder in the Clouds," with Lyle Talbot and Ann Dvorak.

THIEVES TAKE PROGRAMS OF L. D. S. PLAY

Those in charge of the production of a play, "The Four Plushers," at the L. D. S. amusement hall Thursday and Friday night, were surprised when they found their printed programs had been stolen.

The package containing the four-page leaflets, was taken from a machine parked on Main avenue, Saturday night. Also stolen from the car were a number of grocery packages.

Today the church committee was awaiting return of the programs to any one but the sponsors of the production. If no track of the leaflets can be found, the play committee will have to have them reprinted at no little expense.

PEACE, NOT WAR

If ever the League of Nations had its peace powers tested, it is now, with the rival claims of Hungary and Yugoslavia being pressed in the councils of Geneva.

The world sits back, wondering what will come out of this waving of threats and demands. Though there may be reasons which the affected nations feel require war, there seem to be economic barriers to such procedure.

In this case the poverty of nations may be the best force there is for peace. Armed conflict cannot be waged successfully without war chests of money. If nations are without funds to wage a successful war, diplomacy justifiably can be brought to uphold the sacred honor of governments.

War in Europe may come eventually, but it is more likely that the strength of the League of Nations will be able to avert it, and that governmental poverty will at least postpone it.

But aside from the League of Nations, the question of economics and the apparent seriousness of the issues involved, this country wishes that the contending factions will make a speedy settlement of their differences, for the peace of the world is important to every nation, to every inhabitant on the globe.

America wants to see peace; not war.

OBJECT LESSON IN FREEDOM

Huey Long seems to have done the students of Louisiana State university a double-barreled favor—quite unintentionally.

The unrest which seized the student body, or a part of it, when the student-newspaper was gagged may not last very long. It may not bother the Kingfish in the least, and it may do absolutely nothing toward freeing the university of his domination.

But it is giving these young students the best possible kind of object lesson in two kinds of freedom.

First of all, it is teaching them—in the most approved laboratory manner—just what this famous old freedom of the press argument is all about.

When the staff of the student paper resigned after discovering that it would be less majestic to criticize the senator, they learned something that newspaper editors of all times and places have known, to wit: that a newspaper is worth nothing whatever, to its readers or its publishers, if it be not free to express opinion and present facts without interference from above.

They will not need to be told, any more, that a people is not free if its newspapers are gagged. They have learned that much by sad experience and the lesson will stick.

So much for the first object lesson. The second one runs parallel; it is a succinct and memorable demonstration of the nature and value of academic freedom.

If there is one place above all other where men's minds should be free to rove in any direction that seems good to them, it is a university. There must be freedom, if there is none anywhere else.

Without it, a university ceases to be a place where minds are broadened and culture is developed, and becomes—a country club, a political organization, and athletic association, or what you wish; anything at all but a university.

And when that transformation takes place, the institution is no longer worth what it costs.

Now a person who has succeeded in imparting these two important lessons in freedom has accomplished something noteworthy. Many people grow old and die without ever learning that, if freedom can be squelched in the editorial rooms and on the campus, it is in danger everywhere.

Senator Long, amazing as it may seem, has actually broadened the education of the youngsters at Louisiana State.

GOOD JOB FOR A GOOD MARINER

It is good to read that Capt. George A. Fried, retiring from the sea, is promptly given one of the biggest jobs the federal government can give a mariner—supervising inspector in the important second inspection district for the Federal Navigation Bureau.

Not often does a merchant sailor attain such widespread public confidence as Captain Fried has attained. His cool, seamanlike, and daring rescues at sea are almost legendary.

Any man who could perform as he performed in the famous Antioch and Florida rescues must be a pretty broad-gauge sort of man as well as a first-rate sailor.

Captain Fried, in other words, is too valuable a man to be allowed to slip into retirement just yet. His new job is one of vast responsibility. The safety of many sea travelers depends on it being handled properly.

Captain Fried filling in, the American public have complete confidence that the work will be done the way it ought to be done.

"Valeria is a cheat," Sarah said. "Everyone knows it except Peter Kendall."

went into a waste-paper basket.

"Isn't it a swell moon last night?" When he'd been seeing the moon with Elsie, well, he'd been jealous of Dick.

Ellesie had heard it, too. He and Sarah began talking and matedly, all at once, giving Ann time to realize her ammonia.

Later when they were alone Sarah told to Ann, "Pity a grand fellow like Peter Kendall couldn't have chosen a nice gal like you and let that double-crossing Valeria lie up with someone like Tony."

Ann's eyes flushed as she flew to Tony's defense. "You might wait for his explanation, Sarah Tony may have a good one."

"I'll bet he has," Sarah replied dryly. She was applying cold cream to her pouting-like face. Her dark eyes looked wistfully at Ann from the thick, white mask.

Ann turned away. She couldn't meet Sarah's gaze.

"Any way," Ann said indignantly, "there's no reason to compare Tony with Valeria Bennett, who seems to be a cheat, judging from the way Dick Kendall talked."

"She is a cheat," corrected Sarah. "Everyone knows it except Peter Kendall. Why, if some of the things that girl has pulled over got out! You see, Peter Kendall has been away a lot, studying abroad. He really doesn't know what she's like. From what I've heard, they knew each other as kids and she got her hoodlum into him early. Evidently she keeps a foot on the brake when he's around."

Ann was only half-interested. She was thinking about Tony. Ann felt sick with jealousy and fury and disappointment. "Now we know that she was capable of being a hoodlum."

"Don't keep the rest of the night in a sieve over Tony," Sarah advised from the bathroom door, where she was wiping away the cold cream. "Why girls fall for men who keep them up all the time to beyond me! I'll take more peace and security and less excitement every time."

Ann did not reply. She was not telling Sarah, but there was plenty she would say to Tony tomorrow.

WHEN Ann returned from lunch the next day she found the note on her desk which read, "Howdy. What are you doing? Wasn't that a swell moon last night? Tony."

Ann clenched the note in her hand and dropped the tight little

"That fox hound!" Tony laughed, unkindly.

He was not jealous of Dick then. Well, who could be jealous of a rabby idiot like Dick?

And then after she reached home there was the usual call, and Ann said, yes, of course, she'd be to go for a drive.

Tony laughed. "Dick probably briled Mac with tickles for the show. Mac's Scotch, you know?"

"Well, anyway I think I promised Dick a date this week," Ann said. She glanced at Tony and saw his eyes darken. He drew the car to the side of the road, took the cigar from his lips, and turned to Ann.

"No funny business, Ann." He laughed a little unkindly. Then he threw the cigaret aside, pulled her into his arms and kissed her violently.

"Tony, you're almost breaking my bones!"

"You will break that date?"

"Of course," she could never have gone through with it any way.

Tony settled back in his seat and started the car.

"Who was that girl you qualed to?" Valeria asked Peter Kendall in the way home from the night club.

"Ain't Hollister."

"Where did you meet her?"

"I have really met her."

"But I saw you upside."

Peter told her about Ann's visit to his grandfather. Ann had left her card, otherwise he would never have known her name, though he had talked to her.

He neglected to tell Valeria just how he happened to talk to Ann. He failed to mention also that he

PETER thought Valeria was a threat, or in a thoughtful mood, not dreaming she would be during about Ann's love affairs. He liked to think that part of Valeria's vivacity was depth of character. Once the carefree days of his fiancee's girlhood were behind her he was sure she would show the womanly qualities he had missed at times—missed in all the girls he knew. They didn't realize that another side of life existed—the side he saw sometime when he was at Kendallwood talking to the men who worked in his grandfather's immense factory.

His grandfather assured him that workers in the Kendall factory were paid more than workers in any other factory nearby. Old Peter Kendall had equipped a large playground for the children and done many things to improve conditions for those who worked for him.

"I'm going out to Kendallwood tomorrow, Valeria," Peter said. "Want to drive out with me?"

"Peter, dear, I'd love to, but I've been going so hard this week I'm tired out."

"Another time, then," Peter said. "Grandfather has been asking about you, Val."

"Give him my love," she said sweetly.

In the darkness her mouth was in potential lines. Barn Peter Spender so much time in that Spender factory town with that old man. If he expected her to ride out there with him just anything the mood struck him, he'd learn better after they were married.

had gone to the bat with his grandfather for her. And he said nothing about the brief visit in Ann's home in Georgia.

Valeria might not understand his interest in helping the other girl.

"So she works," Valeria said. "I was thinking that it wasn't likely Peter would be even mildly interested in a girl who didn't move in his social circle. It was strange how upset Valeria had been after she saw this girl wave to Peter. There was something irritating about her—an ungracious quality in her beauty." She had chided and_parallel.

Unconsciously Valeria returned to the attack. "But you sounded on very friendly terms."

"Nice girl," Peter said.

"Did you think you think so?"

Peter turned. Valeria's curved lips were compressed into a straight line. She knew she was angry, very emphatically and was going to try them again this session. The plan is clever. Instead of proposing all three at once, Messes Davis and Wallace are going to put forward one at a time. The two controversial amendments will go first. Last to be offered will be the one extending the AAA power over small crops not in the basic commodity group. Each probably will be attached to some bill, no aim to stand alone.

What happened on the Sunburst was this: Hitler had found it can catch more congressmen with Chester Davis' maneuver than with Tugwell's.

You remember those three amendments to the AAA act which were thrown into the bill at the last Democratic meeting, who said the amendments would make Prof. Tugwell a Rex or something like that?

Well, Messes Davis and Wallace have privately retrofitted them, dined them off, argued them very, very emphatically and are going to try them again this session.

This left France two choices: (a) An endless fight to hold the Sunburst, which would give her nothing; (b) a peaceable effort to get fifty million dollars promised by the treaty for letting the Sunburst go. That was no choice for Frenchmen. They took the fifty million dollars.

have the Catholics pile up a strong opposition vote.

Hiller really used his head for something besides bombastic words when he worked out the recent Sunburst agreement with France. The best minds in the state department believe he avoided a worthless European war next spring.

It was not hard to do because France was thoroughly frightened.

MONEY

What happened on the Sunburst was this: Hitler had found it can catch more congressmen with Chester Davis' maneuver than with Tugwell's.

You remember those three amendments to the AAA act which were thrown into the bill at the last Democratic meeting, who said the amendments would make Prof. Tugwell a Rex or something like that?

COTTON BILL President Roosevelt himself can re-roll a pill with the boat of them when he wants to.

That in the explanation behind his announcement Wednesday proposing to exempt the one- and two-hundred cotton farmers from the Bankhead cotton control, he has given a middle tip that Virginia tobacco growers have been extraordinary, furthermore, there are some Virginia potato growers who have been trying to get their commodity into the basic list.

At Byrd will say in that he has another way, which tends to confirm AAA here.

The AAAers already have gone to work on the farm crowd to get approval for revival of the program. Soon they intend to call in the members of congress and attempt to get an agreement before the amendments are formally offered.

Great stress will be laid by the AAAers on the fact that these are not Tugwell's amendments. Prof. Tugwell probably will be hidden behind the congressional oath.

What fact will give you a hint as to how things are going within the AAA now?

HITLER'S CANDY Hitler knows how to use sugar also. The confectionary gestures he has been making lately to the Catholics in Germany do not measure that he has changed his mind about religion.

The truth behind it all is that the Sunburst is going to be held in next month and all the German Catholics, Hitler has fixed everything with France so that the Sunburst undoubtably will go back to Germany, but he cannot afford to let other advantages out of it.

NOTES

The best financial quarters have received a tip from London that Hitler has been busy trying to arrange a loan of $100 million to Russia for the Chinese eastern railroad.

About one-fourth of the two million cotton growers thus will be exempted, but they raise only one-tenth of the crop.

HECTIC SCORING RUSH WINS TILT

Avalanche in Fourth Quarter
Overcomes Chicago Lead
For Easterners

NEW YORK. Dec. 10 (UPI) — Professional football is ruled today by new champions, crowned after one of the hottest football battles ever waged on a frozen gridiron.

With a last period avalanche of scoring, the New York Giants yesterday overcame a 13-3 lead held by the Chicago Bears, turned the game into tilt, in winning by 30-13. They broke the Bears' winning streak that had stretched through 34 consecutive games.

Strong is Star

More than a year ago Ken Strong, towering former ace of the New York university backfield, kicked a flea goal that beat Chicago for the last time until yesterday.

He led the attack in bringing the National league championship and before a crowd of nearly 50,000 that forgot fears of frostbite in that wild last period.

Strong's contribution for the day was 17 points—two touchdowns, two points after and a field goal. Franklin, who took injured Badger's place at end, and Danowski, injected into the lineup two weeks ago when Harry Newman was injured, added a touchdown apiece for the Giants.

Sudden Power

The power of that sudden, unexpected attack wiped out Bronco Nagurski's touchdown for the Bears, along with two field goals by Manders in a game almost equal to the one of last year in which the Bears finally noted out the Giants after the lead had changed seven times.

Yesterday's victory broke the Bears' two-year rule and brought to each Giant $621, winning share of the $84,604 in receipts. Each lower earned $414.

GRID BROADCAST FIGHT RENEWED

Joint Conference Discusses Skeleton, Maps Schedules,
Ponders Rule Shifts

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., Dec. 10 (UPI) — Radio broadcasting of football games was dragged from the skeleton today for its annual inspection by members of the Pacific coast conference.

Each year the broadcasting quota is debated at conference powwow with radio opponents, thus far always in the minority. Southern California and U. C. L. A. reportedly were ready to oppose any new move to ban broadcasting at today's meeting of the graduate manager's section.

Secret Sessions

All usual meetings were conducted secretly, radio considered anti-trust. It indicated serious discussion would attend a proposal to liberalize the playing rules to permit more scoring and favor a running team.

It was said the following changes would be considered:

1. Give the trailing team, instead of the team just scored on, the right to kick off or receive after a touchdown.

2. Permit unlimited passing into the end zone instead of making the second incomplete pass a loss of ball as at present.

3. Adopt forward passing rules similar to the professional rules, notably to permit passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage. Collegiate rules require that the pass must be thrown from five yards or more behind the scrimmage line.

Schedule-Making

Schedule-making was another important item. Leading for coast conference dates were University of Arizona and Drake of Iowa. Other "outside" schools represented included St. Mary's, Santa Clara, Loyola, Gonzaga, Fresno State and California Aggies.

Northern division managers last night helped the following track and field schedules for next spring:

MAY 4. Oregon at Washington State and Washington at Oregon State; May 11, Washington State at Idaho and Oregon at Washington May 18, Washington at Washington State and Oregon State at Idaho; May 25, Idaho at Montana; Oregon State at Oregon; May 30, June 1, Northwest conference meet at Seattle.

Kimberly Planning Girls' Cage Team

KIMBERLY, Dec. 10 (Special) — With practice sessions well underway, Kimberly high school will enter a girls' basketball squad in Class A competition this season.

Many of the Kimberly girls in the recent individual competition in the City competition, will add on to the team in the group which will be battling for the two Class A positions in the district tournament. The third Class A post in the tournament will be filled by Buhrig's host team.

Scribes Will Meet

Three scribes will meet Dec. 10 in the Hotel Idaho, Twin Falls, Wyo., to discuss the news of the year. It was arranged by the Associated Press, C. I. Lee, manager of the Twin Falls office, and the scribes are Gene Brando, sports editor, and Otto Lippert, sports editor, from the University of Wyoming. The scribes are the members of the Associated Press at Milwaukee, Dec. 10, and the Associated Press at Denver, Dec. 11.

DISTRICT CHIEFS MAP CAGE PLANS

Tournament Dates Chosen for South Central Schools; Schedules Fixed

Dealers have been cleared today for the 1934-35 basketball campaign in south central Idaho. Meeting at Twin Falls high school Saturday, superintendents of schools, field and town, in the district mapped the season's program by drawing up schedules, setting dates and regulations for tournaments and completing details for officials' rates.

Tournament Dates

The Class A district tournament, the unseeded school chosen to decide which will be held at Twin Falls high school, gymnasium starting Feb. 28 and running through March 1.

The Class B district tournament will be played at Shoshone high school gym on the same dates.

Playoff between the Class A and Class B victors, to decide which

Girls' Tourney Mar. 6, 7 and 8

district tournament for girls basketball team will be held at Shoshone high school gymnasium March 6.

It was decided at the cage conference here Saturday.

M. Van Patton, who presided at the meeting of schools sponsoring the girls' team, was named manager of the 1934 event.

Each Class B sub-district will enter one team, and the Class A schools will have three representatives. The Class A entries will consist of Buhrig, an hour and the two highest teams in percentage rating on conference games.

will represent the south central district in the state tournament, will be held in Twin Falls March 9.

The state tourney, which had already been awarded to Twin Falls by the Idaho high school athletic association board, is slated for March 14, 15, and 16. Twin Falls high school's Bruins, a team, will compete in the state tournament in addition to the south central Idaho victors. The Bruins will not enter the district tourney.

Withholding of the Bruins from the meet will mean that only one of the nine remaining Class A teams will not compete in the tournament. That one will be decided on conference standing.

Sub-District Meets

All of the five Class B sub-districts will pick their entrants for the district meet by way of the tournament route, it was decided.

Last year two of the six sub-districts utilized the percentage system. Data were definitely selected for three of the sub-district tournaments, with both boys' and girls' teams competing—north side, at Shoshone, starting Feb. 15; south side, at Moulton, Feb. 21, 22 and 23; Mindola, either at Albion or Paul, Feb. 21, 22 and 23. Dates for the King Hill sub-district tourney at King Hill and the Wood River tournament at Hailey were left undesignated.

In ruling on basketball officials, the school heads endorsed suggestion for a "school" for officials. Tentative plans were underway today to secure Guy Wicks, basketball mentor at University of Idaho, southern branch, as instructor to conduct the school. Three sectional meetings are tentatively planned for various areas of the district. Coaches and team players, it was proposed, will also attend the "school."

Free Approved

Four of the five districts and five for doubleheaders were approved. Officials were instructed to answer a questionnaire prepared by the district board, and submit replies to Harold Roberts, secretary of the board. Approval of a college or university football game for Twin Falls in 1935 was enthusiastically granted by the school leaders and coaches, who went on record as unanimously favoring the proposal and offering to help in any possible manner.

Harold Roberts, secretary of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, presented the matter.

A. E. Hirschler, superintendent at Paul, presided at the general session Saturday as president of the district board. Other board officers are M. M. Van Patton, superintendent at Buhrig, vice president, and Roberts. In absence of Roberts at the Saturday conference, H. Maine Shoun, Jerome, acted as secretary for the gathering.
