OFFICERS PROBE ACCIDENT FATAL TO U. S. WORKER

Dr. George Schwamm, Aide to FERA Meat Inspector, Dies After Hansen Crash

MAY ASK FOR INQUEST Left Side of Machine Sheared Off by Collision With Truck on Road

Officers today said that evidence collected this morning proved conclusively that the driver of the truck which crashed today on a half mile east of Hansen lane, killed by Schwamm, was on the right-hand side of the road when the accident took place, and that since no liability existed on the part of the driver, plans for a coroner's inquest had been dropped.

Officials today were making investigations which may result in the holding of a coroner's inquest as the result of another auto accident which took the life of Dr. George Schwamm, 47, assistant to Dr. A. J. Crowley, federal inspector in charge of FERA meat inspection in Idaho.

Dr. Schwamm died at 11 p. m. yesterday at the hospital, following a head-on collision, of his car with a truck near Hansen on the state highway at 8:25 p. m. He was received at the hospital at 8:25, and remained comatose until his death from internal hemorrhages.

Family in East The body is at the Evans & Johnson mortuary awaiting word from Washington regarding disposition, and information from Mrs. Schwamm, who with her daughter recently arrived at the family home in Brooklyn, N. Y., following a trip home from San Francisco by way of the Panama canal.

New York "Babies" Famed Doctor of Quintuplets

Only the birth of the Dufon quintuplets, whose survival has made him famous, amazed Dr. Allan H. Dufon more than the modern metropolis the Cathedral city, physician has visited in a quarter century. He's shown at left beside Alfred E. Smith, who is considered worthy feeling himself, examining New York from the top of the Empire State Building, high spot of Manhattan. At right, he emulates a native by trying out the subway strap hanging technique in a jurching train far below the city streets. Dr. Dufon was credited like a baby by his hosts, who provided police escorts and a huge suite in a midtown hotel.

LAWMAKERS SEE BUSY UTAH MEET

Usually Placid Gathering Will Have Excitement in Form of Hot Issues

By GEORGE D. CRISSEY SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—The next session of the Utah legislature—usually a placid affair—promises some excitement. Just offhand, it appears the lawmakers are bound to consider the following proposals:

1. Prohibition. 2. Relief through public works. 3. Old age pensions. 4. Unemployment insurance. Indications are the legislature will be guided in each instance by the inclination of the Roosevelt administration, for the senate and house both seem to be decidedly pro-New Deal.

Overwhelming Majority Unusual in Utah in the overwhelming Democratic majority in both houses, as well as a Republican legislative program with the majority. Added to that circumstance is the fact that the state administration, through Gov. Henry H. Blood, a Democrat, favors a decided degree of co-operating with Roosevelt.

Fuller Fight Conservatives, it has been indicated, will fight old age insurance and unemployment insurance. But, in the opinion of many impartial observers, the battle will be a futile one, unless President Roosevelt changes his mind toward social legislation.

EXTENDS PRAISE TO BLOODHOUNDS

Prison Expert, Well Versed on Dogs, Defends Unusual Canine Heroes

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—A man qualified to know whom he speaks comes forward in defense of unusual heroes in the war on crime—bloodhounds. Grady Anderson has put in an hour for those who say the dog is man's most loyal friend.

Anderson is "dog sergeant" at the Oklahoma state penitentiary. He is said to be the best informed authority on manhandling dogs in the southwest.

Prison records show that about eight of every hundred prisoners made trustees will take advantage of their semi-freedom. Thus comes a call for the dogs. Away they go on the trail of the fugitive.

Some bloodhounds at the prison have followed their quarry until they died of exhaustion, and convicts, cornered or overtaken, have not killed the dogs. And, with the tenacity usually attributed largely to bulldogs, they never give up; the properly trained animals, at least.

Explodes Fallacy Anderson took occasion to explode the fallacy that bloodhounds are trained not to attack a fugitive. He cited the example of Andy, one of the prison pack, which once caught a man in a scrub oak tree, stamped feet, and barked and howled in the air 15 minutes until a keeper arrived.

While the dogs are docile and easily handled in the kennels, when on the trail they are ready to leap on a man to place the heel and paw in the air 15 minutes until a keeper arrived.

BRITON OUTLINES SOCIALIST AIMS

Fred Henderson Raps Present Capitalism in First of Lecture Series

The modern conception of Socialism from the British viewpoint was brought to a Twin Falls audience last evening by Fred Henderson, London, first of four lecturers to be brought here by the League for Industrial Democracy. His subject was "The Economics of an Age of Plenty."

Capitalism was denounced by the Englishman, whose interesting pronouncement met the attention of the 200 persons in attendance at the high school auditorium. Speaking without notes, Mr. Henderson appealed to his non-Socialist audience to examine the present economic trend and to scrutinize Socialism carefully in an effort to break down the arguments he presented.

Economic Faulty

He declared that an economic revolution had already taken place and that the chief difficulty of the age was that the economies of 200 years ago, when man labored with his hands, were still being used as the measure of service to be rendered in an age when machines had eliminated the necessity for most of the manual employment.

Capitalism with its machine has increased the hourly production of a single person up to that of 1,000 hours of a worker of 200 years ago," the speaker said, "avoiding leisure and plenty. Instead of leisure, it has meant unemployment, and instead of the plenty being distributed the result has been poverty. From an age of scarcity we have advanced to an age of plenty, and plenty is the enemy of capitalism."

Deplores "Cycles"

Henderson deplored the contention that business cycles must necessarily go up and down, and argued that in this enlightened age, with a world of plenty, man should be able to distribute the resources to all. As a solution he pointed to the Socialistic doctrine of public ownership of resources and the means of production.

"There is no economic reality except nature, and nature is the world we live in and what human effort can make of these resources," he declared. "Life is a constant struggle with nature for subsistence."

Upro America

He criticized the present effort in America to manufacture jobs, and said it was an inconceivable stand in an effort to maintain capitalism, and "contrary to the economics of industry."

The speaker was presented by Rev. Louis Hulstna, Jerome, who announced that succeeding numbers on the lecture series would be presented by Ray, Burt, Chicago, Miss Tony Bonder, Antwerp, Belgium, and by Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president of the United States.

Joe E. Brown shows Maxine Doyle just how it's done in this scene from the comedian's new feature "Six Day One Night." It opens a two day engagement at the Orpheum today with many entertaining short subjects on the same program.

Novel Western on Program at Idaho

Today and tomorrow the Idaho theater is presenting something new in westerns with Noah Berry, Jr. in "Five Bad Men," with five famous cowboys, Buffalo Bill, Jr., Bill Patten, Wally Wales, Art Mix, and Pete Morrison, also Miss Sally Dolling of Idaho. In this new and different western, Noah Berry not only rides and shoots with the best of them, but he takes "Five Bad Men" with his expert and deadly knife throwing. Added thrills are "Tallpin Tommy," No. 2, a cartoon, novelty, and Motion picture.

Tomorrow, free "Tallpin Tommy" wings will be presented to the first one hundred children attending the regular matinee.

Judge Gives Prince Lesson in Parking

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)—Prince Johann von Liechtenstein has learned it does not pay to follow the example of Americans—particularly in the matter of double-parking.

Prince Johann, husband of the former Alice McFarland, of Weatherford, Tex., near here, was held into court on a charge of double-parking.

"I did not know there was anything wrong in it," the prince told the judge. "I saw four or five other cars double-parked."

In view of this explanation the judge reduced the fine from $2 to $1. The prince paid.

Newspaper Drama Roxy Tale Sunday

Are newspaper editors justified in printing stories that mean ruin for many persons, regardless of the circumstances?

This is the interesting theme upon which the story of the Columbia picture, "White Lies," is based. It will be seen at Joe's Roxy for three days beginning Sunday. With Walter Connolly, Ray Wray and Victor Jory in the featured roles, this picture deals dramatically with a question that never has been satisfactorily answered since the inception of American journalism.

Bob Steele in the "horse opera," "Brand of Hate," along with episode No. 11 of "The Lost Jungle," a comedy, and Universal news are the Roxy's current attractions.

Spokane Men Will Address Doctors

Two Spokane medical men, Dr. R. E. Siler and Dr. Joseph Lynch, will address members of the South Blis Medical society tonight following a 6:30 o'clock banquet at the Park hotel. Members of the auxiliary will attend the banquet and be entertained afterward by Mrs. C. R. Scott.

Dr. C. R. Scott, president of the state medical society, will bring the local group a message from the state unit. Thirty doctors and their wives are expected to attend.

EX-STAR'S WIFE ASKING DIVORCE

Suit Claims Charles Ray In Too Interested in Other Feminine Friends

(Copyright, 1934, United Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 (AP)—The most recent wave of Hollywood separations and divorces caught up Charles Ray today.

The actor who won camera fame as the shy, winful-eyed hamperer who inevitably runs to wealth and marriage with the girl of his dreams, was a philanderer in private life, Clara Grant Ray charged in a divorce suit.

Accusing her husband of cruelty, desertion and non-support, Mrs. Ray asserted he associated with other women who wrote him ardent letters containing references to "happy times together." Since last September, she charged, he centered his attention on one woman.

Mrs. Ray, who married the actor 10 years ago, said there was no community property. A star in the silent days, Ray lost his fortune as an independent producer. His pictures were failures and he sank into comparative obscurity. He is now attempting a comeback as a "bit" player.

Another blighted film romance was disclosed today when Elizabeth Allan, British stage and screen actress, announced a separation from William O'Brien, London actor's agent.

Miss Allan said their differences were largely geographic, his work commanding his presence in London and here in Hollywood.

"We simply could not adjust our personal lives under the circumstances," she explained. She made no mention of divorces.

The brules and hump Henrico "Giggles" Hummel, screen vocalist, absorbed while collecting a drumming bill, were appraised at $25 today by Superior Judge Isaac Picht.

Inspector Arrives

Dr. N. A. Orr arrived today to take over the work of city meat and dairy inspector, succeeding Dr. H. Graves, who retired to enter federal work in Colorado, it is announced.

Dr. Orr, accompanied by Mrs. Orr, came here from Phoenix, Ariz. Previously he was stationed in Fort Collins, Colo.

An ambulance boat is in action off the coast of Los Angeles. The boat is equipped with every known device for resuscitation work, as well as a quantity of standard hospital equipment.

High School News

Members of the board of directors of the Twin Falls F. P. A. Thrift bank were elected yesterday in a special meeting of the Future Farmers. Leonard Arrington was named senior representative, Maurice Capps, freshman representative, and Howard Annis, member at large. They will serve with Calen Sanner, junior member, and Melvin Ehlers, sophomore member. Officers of the governing board are Leonard Arrington, president; Calen Sanner, vice president; Howard Annis, cashier; Melvin Ehlers, assistant cashier.

Membership cards were given to the H-Y club yesterday. Those distributed at a previous meeting permit the boys to the privileges that Y. M. C. A. members enjoy. The club will receive a charter as soon as its constitution has been accepted. Dale J. Wakem, sponsor, announced. Bill Schifman was appointed to act as chairman for the committee to make arrangements for three Christmas baskets for needy families.

An original reading, "Sonny," was given by Alice Jean Glandon at the meeting of the Blue Triangle Girls' Reserves yesterday. Plans for Christmas baskets and for the remodeling of the club room were formulated. The Blue Triangle in junction with the Home Economics club are to paint and decorate the dining room.

Blaise Eckelstam and Margaret Reag entertained the J. O. Y. Girl Reserve club yesterday with a dance, and Betty Yarbrough contributed two impromptu piano selections, "Carrióna" and "The Twelfth Street Rag." Jean Clark, president of the club, announced that a contest for the best dressed doll to be given by the girls to the Salvation Army will start as soon as the dolls arrive. The social committee announced that a Christmas party will be held December 17 at the Presbyterian church.

ANNUAL LADIES NIGHT FETE IS JOYOUS AFFAIR

Gay and informal was the dance at which Y. O. T. club entertained last evening at the Lexion Memorial hall. It was the annual ladies' night dance. Women guests chose partners throughout the evening and a number of novelty features added to the festivity. Music was furnished by the Night Hawks orchestra. Christmas decorations made the hall particularly attractive. Punch was served throughout the evening. Mrs. A. R. Eldred was general chairman of the event, and Mrs. Paul DeWolfe, Mrs. O. E. Weider, Mrs. Lillie F. Gardner and Mrs. J. G. Toolson were members of the courtship committee.

INTERESTING PAPERS FEATURE UNION MEETING

Two interesting papers, one "Appreciation of Japanese Art" read by Mrs. James Vandenberg and the other on the American Indians, read by Mrs. C. E. Stanton, featured the annual union meeting yesterday afternoon of the Foreign and Home Mission societies of the Methodist Episcopal church. The groups met in the church parlors. Vandenberg's paper stressed flower arrangement, tray arts and Japanese gardens. Other program numbers were two plans of "Magdalena" and "Tunisia of the Ring" by Doris Wohlhab, and a reading, "Crimson Rambler" by Merla Salomon. Mrs. F. A. Goodlykin led devotions from the book "Contemplation". Mrs. C. C. Dudley, president of the Foreign society, presided, and Mrs. William Baker announced the program.

CHRISTIAN COUNCIL ELECTS OFFICER STAFF

Mrs. W. S. Parish was re-elected president of the Women's Council of the Christian church at a meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. W. T. Seal on Third avenue north. Other officers named were Mrs. Alfred E. Eber, secretary, and Mrs. Alphonse DeAloy, secretary. Mrs. C. E. Allen, Mrs. J. F. Donny, Mrs. John Klimes, Mrs. Frank Black, Mrs. H. E. Swisher, Mrs. A. L. Folk, Mrs. E. B. Lancaster, Mrs. Walter Goodman, Mrs. E. F. Brown and Mrs. W. R. Haye were elected vice presidents. Mrs. Frank Black led group singing after the business meeting. Mrs. DeAtley played accompaniment. A feature of the afternoon was the annual gift exchange. Mrs. Seal's division served refreshments.

LOSERS OF CONTEST ENTERTAIN FOR WINNERS

The Young People's class of the Memorial Brotherhood in Christ church, lauded in a recent attendance contest, entertained members of the Bible class, the winners, last evening at the home of Mrs. J. C. Porterfield. Mrs. Eris Zacharias and Miss Alice Zacharias were assistant hostesses. Mrs. A. W. Barboza conducted the program of games. Following the serving of refreshments Rev. A. W. Barboza, pastor, gave a talk on Sunday school work.

Marian Martin Pattern

A SMART PLAY FROCK
Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart, Included
PATTERN 9204

Silly Anne, there, may look demure but we think she's just waiting her chance to try out the romping possibilities of her new bloomer dress. She likes it already because it's so easy to get into, buttoning up the front with buttons big enough for a little girl to handle easily. And she likes the way it feels. She doesn't know why—but it's because the frock is cut to fall free and full from its cunning half-yokes—and the bloomers are plenty roomy. The long sleeves keep little daughter snug in the winter time, but short sleeves also are indicated in the pattern. Nice in shawls, gingham, popadoclo, etc.

Pattern 9204 may be ordered only in sizes 4, 6 and 8. Size 6 requires 2 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write complete name and address on the order. NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern. Do not miss our WINTER PATERN BOOK of smart seasonable children's fashions. It's a real bargain at 25c.

W. C. T. U. GIVES STUDENT PRIZES

Mrs. Joseph Blake Awards Cash to Pupils Winning In Essay Contest

Mrs. Joseph Blake, director of the department of scientific temperance instruction, Women's Christian Temperance Union, presented two high school students with a number of cash awards this afternoon in the weekly assembly. The awards were for the essay contest sponsored yearly as a part of the organization's program. A total of $175 in awards will be given by the organization in local and state prizes this year. Miss Daisy Dean Thomas won a three dollar second prize in the freshman-sophomore division of the state contest with her paper on "Mental Forming Drugs, A Menace to Health." Miss Pearl Lense in Miss Thomas' teacher.

Local winners in the first and second year group were: first, Miss Thomas, $2.50; second, Vera Adams, $2.50; Miss Cora Jensen, teacher; third, Miss Vera Middleton, honorable mention, Miss Jensen, teacher. The junior-senior group wrote on "Hazardous Run by the Drinker." Winners were: first, Miss Alice Olson, $3; Miss Jensen, teacher; second, Miss Dorothy Holm, $2; Miss Martha Linney, teacher.

Awards for junior high and grade schools will be made next week. High School Girls Organize Campfire Group. ## PRIEST FINISHES MISSION TONIGHT

Father Wilfred Hurley Will Deliver Final Sermon at 7:30 Services

Father Wilfred C. Hurley will close his series of lectures at 7:30 p. m. today, when the services will end with benediction of the good blessed sacrament. His subject this evening will be "Way I Became a Catholic." Rev. Hurley, who is a radio lecturer and the author of several articles and pamphlets, was a naval officer before he became a priest. Church officials rank him as one of the leaders of modern thought in the Pacific order. "The Question Box," an added feature of the mission, is proving of exceptional interest. It is reported. Resignation of Father Hurley's mission in Twin Falls has been shown by the increase in attendance of both Catholic and non-Catholic, these in charge said. The missionary has reiterated again and again the welcome awaiting all who come. Rev. H. E. Heitman, pastor of St. Edward's church, also extends a welcome to all who wish to attend. Church officials for physics, and gratified by the attendance so far.

FAIR TAX DEAL. COMPANIES TOLD

Worry Over Surplus Penalties Unnecessary, Morgenthau Accuses Businessmen

(Editorial Note: Corporations are worried about possible interpretation of the revenue acts increasing penalty taxation against surplus funds.)

The United Treasury in the following interview with Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and his two principal tax aides to be the most complete information available on Treasury intentions toward corporation surplus.

Morgenthau and his aides believe business apprehensions to be unwarranted, there are their reasons.)

By LYLE C. WILSON
(Copyright, 1934, United Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (UP)—Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., told the United Press in an interview today that corporations would get a fair deal on taxation of their surplus funds.

Businessmen are apprehensive of interpretations of section 102 of the 1934 revenue act and section 104 of the 1932 act.

These sections say surplus funds accumulated beyond reasonable needs to protect stockholders from a surplus shall be subject to a stiff tax, graduated from 25 to 35 per cent in the 1934 act and fixed at 50 per cent in 1932.

“Morgenthau’s assurance applied to both acts. Only on income in 1933 and subsequent years will tax be assessed under the 1932 act.”

“The last thing I want,” Morgenthau said, “is that any businessman should be afraid of his Treasury department. If a businessman is worried on the matter in which the bureau of internal revenue is going to administer the income tax law, we ought to be ready to give him advice on his particular problem.”

“If we can’t solve the businessmen directly on their own tax problems then there is something the matter with the law or something the matter with the bureau. If businessmen are worried by the Treasury there is something wrong with the Treasury.”

Willing To Meet
Morgenthau has looked his own door against tax lawyers and other g.o.p. between representatives of business on this and other tax questions. But so far as his time permits, the United Press was informed, Morgenthau is willing to meet with any businessman who is not satisfied with the treatment of his tax liability received at the bureau of internal revenue.

Corporation executives are uneasy because they do not know what the Treasury may deem to be a reasonable surplus. There is fear that the Treasury might establish a single formula by which the liability of all surplus accounts would be judged. Businessmen point out that surplus needs vary with types of business.

Surplus Needs Vary
Guy T. Heverling, commissioner of internal revenue, and Robert J. Jackson, assistant general tax counsel for the Treasury, participated in the Morgenthau interview. Their comments on the reasonable surplus needs of corporations would vary with the kind of business and other conditions in each case. Heverling said no corporation using its surplus for the business in which it is engaged need be apprehensive.

SEWER DAMAGE HEARING URGED
Suit of Robert K. Logan, proprietor of the Logan Music company, 221 Shoshone street north, against the Associated Mines and Development company to recover $350 for damages alleged to have occurred when sewer lines were clogged by sand from a dredging device, was argued in probate court today.

U. A. Bailey is attorney for the plaintiff, and Bothwell & Powey represent the defendants. The hearing took place Oct. 2, according to the complaint, the damage being caused when sand filled a part of the music store basement injuring materials stored there.

The main concern was demonstrating a method of recovering gold from Snake river sands.

SNIPPER TAKES CHILD'S CURLS
BOSTON, Dec. 14 (UP)—Additional police in plain clothes mingled with Christmas shopping crowds today after a “jack-the-snipper” had cut the curls of a 10-year-old girl.

Margaret Bacon, of Boston, accompanied by her mother, two sisters and an aunt, were walking on Washington street yesterday. Suddenly the girl felt a tug on her hair. She turned around and saw a man in a red sweater holding a pair of curlers and a pair of scissors. She screamed. He fled.

Police said the vague for curls probably had revived the “snipper” for several years past. Cases of this kind were frequent because bobbed hair had clogged the market for curls and switches.

Combined Party
CLEVELAND (UP)—A party combining an anniversary, a welcome and a farewell was held in the Cleveland public library today. The farewell was for Mrs. M. J. Shea, supervisor, and Mrs. M. J. Shea, supervisor, and Mrs. M. J. Shea, supervisor.

THEY WIN PRESIDENT'S CUPS

Proudest young farmers in the land were Mary E. Vela, left, 17-year-old Lafayette, Ind., girl, and William Kiesel, Jr., right, 20-year-old Pryor, Okla., youth, who were awarded the coveted President Roosevelt cups for farm achievements under the first club program. The two are pictured at the International Livestock show in Chicago, where the presentations were made.

Boys, 15 and 16, Given Year To Life Sentences in Prison

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (UP)—The week’s accumulation of convicted killers, bandits, burglars and car thieves were being chained together in the county jail corridor for transportation to the penitentiary at Joliet. A warden came into the office of Joseph Frank Sain.

“Those kids,” he began, but his voice broke. He resumed, “It’s a hell of a note when we start sending kids to the big house.”

“What sort of get-me, too,” said Warden Sain. “Say, bring them in here a minute, will you?”

Young Offenders
The keeper brought in Floyd April, 15, and Tommie Dean, 16, but they had been sentenced one year to life for 60 burglaries.

Floyd’s hair was ruffled. Tommie, thin, was awakened from too rapid growth. Floyd’s eyes showed he expected the good, and Tommie grimed uncertainly. Sain grinned back, to put them at their ease.

“Sit down. You’re leaving me now, and I just thought I’d like to talk with you. What started you kids off, anyhow? What are you thinking about now?”

Waves Capping
Tommie’s face instantly was engaged. He jerked a newspaper clipping from his sleeve pocket, clutched it, screamed:

“That’s a lie! That’s a lie!”

While the boy raved, Sain examined the clipping. It told of the arrest of Tommie’s mother as an alleged fence dealing in stolen goods by her son. It mentioned that she took a pinch of snuff in court.

“My mother never took snuff,” yelled Tommie. “She didn’t know I was reading. She tried to make me get in at 10 o’clock every night.” He began crying. “Is it really true they’ve got her? Is she in jail?”

The conversation had taken an unfortunate turn, and Sain directed it into another channel.

Father Dead
“How about your father, Tommie?”

“Remember my father in a castle?”

“How about your mother, Floyd?”

“My mother, Warden?” Floyd asked, consciously tough. “Hell, I don’t even remember her. She died when I was a kid. My old man drives a bus to the race track sometimes.”

“What got you kids started, anyway?”

“Well, I guess it all started when I moved into our neighborhood,” said Tommie. “The kids called me a dummy. I said I wasn’t. I guess I proved it. Nobody says I’m a dummy now.”

Japanese Shaft ON ALAMO SITE
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—A century apart exist here 20 years ago by the Japan geographical society, commemorating a remarkable similarity between a famous Japanese battle and the historic Alamo, in the object of universal comment by tourists who visit this city.

The marker is erected on the site of the famous battle where nearly a century ago, Santa Anna’s troops fought the loyal defenders finally to capture the Alamo.

The shaft itself is a piece of one of the huge granite stones which once formed the great Nookomino castle, which was located on the plain halfway between the modern cities of Nagoya and Osaka, the sea center of Japan. What the Alamo is to Texas, the great castle is to Japan.

The inscription on the monument is, strangely enough, in Chinese. It is a long poem written by the Shigetaka Shiga, of Tokio, Japan.

DEFENSE HEARD IN DAMAGE SUIT

Our Drivers Dony Swerving In Glenns Ferry Crash Of August, 1933

Presentation of defense testimony in the damage action now being tried in district court featured the hearing before Judge W. A. Babcock today. Plaintiff J. W. Porter and G. C. Hendrickson are suing the Cullinger Electric Company, Inc. of Seattle, to recover a total of approximately $3,500 for injuries sustained in an auto accident near Glenns Ferry in August, 1933.

On the stand this morning were George Praemer, driver of the car which is alleged to have swerved, causing a machine driven by Ralph E. Leighton to go off the highway, resulting in injuries to himself and companions, and Gilbert Gunnery, driver of another of the machines in the finance company’s caravan. Praemer denied his machine swerved.

Concluding witnesses for the plaintiffs were Marshall Chapman, H. L. Bennett and Leighton, occupants of the car; W. Porter and Dr. John C. Coughlin, John E. Hayes and Praemer were the first witnesses called by H. P. Parry of Wallers, Parry & Thomas, clerical counsel. Representing the plaintiff are Harry Bennett, J. L. Hodgin and R. L. Rayburn.

AAA PAYING WAY, DAVIS DECLARES

Administrator Reports Farm Program Self-Supporting By Process Taxes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—The agriculture adjustment administration is paying its own way and then some, Administrator Chester C. Davis said.

He reported collection of processing taxes which are levied to support the farm program, totaled $650,081,410 on Nov. 1, compared to payments of $421,597,380 for reducing acreage.

Davis said the margin illustrated that cash counties to farmers do not increase the national debt.

"Each of the big adjustment programs has been planned as nearly as possible to pay its own way," he said.

The administrator pointed out that whereas the 4.2 cents a pound cotton tax raises the price of a $1 shirt about a nickel, it means an increase of nearly 100 per cent in the price paid to the farmer.

The consumer's indicated per capita share in the payment of the cotton tax is about $1.25 annually and of the wheat tax, less than $1, Davis said.

Accompanying Davis' report was a table showing that some states pay many millions more in benefits than their farmers receive in benefit payments.

The apparent unequal treatment, he explained by the fact that tax collections are greatest in states where manufacturing of farm products is concentrated.

Illinois Pays Half—About one-half of all hog processing tax collections, for instance, are made through packing plants in Illinois.

Texas farmers got more benefit payments than those in any other state—$67,167,913. But only $14,642,600 in taxes was collected there compared to $31,000,100 in Illinois.

California farmers received comparatively small amount of benefit money, $18,587,087.

The report showed $58,213,426 in processing taxes collected in New York compared to $10,200,000 in New York.

FINDING OF OLD LANGUAGE AIDS BIBLICAL STUDY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 14 (AP) - Discovery of a hitherto unknown pre-biblical semitic language, revealing the source of the ancient and modern alphabets and offering a new key to controversial passages in the Bible, was announced by Dr. Julian J. Ohermann, visiting professor of semitic languages at Yale.

Cuneiform tablets, found at Iam Shumra, near Antioch in northern Syria, disclosed the language of Canaan, and according to Dr. Ohermann "are written in a new alphabet that proves to be the oldest known."

He termed the find an "epoch-making discovery in the field of semitic antiquities and the most important find since the Babylonian cuneiform have come to light."

The tablets, he said, were inscribed during or before the fifteenth century, B. C., and offer a previously unknown link between the ancient and modern alphabets, revealing how the various letters came to their individual shape, and how they came to be arranged in their traditional order in the alphabet.

As a result of the discovery he said biblical literature and Hebrew antiquities will be better understood.

Alphabetic Study The new semitic dialect of Iam Shumra promises to throw light on the evolution of the letter from the ancient and modern alphabets, revealing how the various letters came to their individual shape, and how they came to be arranged in their traditional order in the alphabet.

SOLDIERS USING ARMORED BOXES

British invention helps foot troops advance under constant fire.

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP) - In future wars infantry will be able to advance under machine gun fire in "mechanical coffins."

This is the name given to an invention which the war department here is considering.

Actually it is an armored box, propelled by a tiny motor. It will hold a light machine gunner lying flat, and will carry him much faster than he is tried to crawl, and with far less exposure than in the normal advance, where he had to run or walk forward upright.

Armored "crawler" Using an "armored crawler" of this kind he may have a far better chance of getting within close range of the detaching machine gunner ensconced behind cover.

IDAHO'S SHIPPING TOPS 1933 MARK

Outgoing Produce During Past 11 Months Is 7,814 Cars Over Last Year

BOISE, Dec. 14 (AP) - A decrease of 297 cars of produce shipped out of Idaho in November last had no effect on the increase of this year's shipments over last year, according to a report to the public utility commission made public today.

The increase of 1934 over 1933 for the 11 months up to Dec. 14 is 7,814 with 29,374 carloads shipped out.

Potatoes lead all other produce in November, with 1152 carloads on the O. S. L. train Dec. 17 and 1918. From the third district there were 1192 carloads, taking in the Twin Falls tract, and from the fourth district, south of the Idaho there were 137 carloads. There were 732 carloads of apples from this district.

NEBRASKA SENDS 5 NEW SOLONS

Norris and Burke Head List Of Lawmakers Elected To Congress

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 13.—The Nebraska congressional team will consist of one veteran, one sophomore and five freshmen.

Five brand new congressmen and one new senator were chosen. None of the congressmen over had run for an office. The new senator, Edward T. Burke, Omaha, was a member of the lower house during the past session. His only previous political experience was as a member of the Omaha school board.

The veteran is Nebraska's Senator George W. Norris, whose protract term does not expire until 1935.

Good Representation

The new lower house delegation should compare favorably with past representation.

From the first district comes Henry G. Luckey, of Lincoln, about 60, the oldest man on the list. Born and reared on a farm, Luckey became a real estate man. He is regarded as a conservative.

Charles F. (Chick) McLaughlin, president of the Omaha Bar association, financed his education by working on a railroad section gang. He was drafted for the second congressional race after other Omaha Democrats had despaired of beating Herbert Rhodes, popular domestic relations court judge.

Colorful Figure

Looking one picturesque figure, the third district gained another. Probably not so colorful as the veteran Congressman Edgar Howard, whom he defeated, Karl Stefan, Norfolk, former newspaper editor and radio announcer and the only Republican to win a Nebraska seat in four years, has had a wide and varied career.

The fourth district elected a bi-metallic in the person of C. G. Dindrup, of Minden. A former hardware store owner, Dindrup went to congress. The son of a pioneer Texas trail operator, Coffee has been in the cattle business since his father died when he was but nine.

Inside Story Reveals New Lindy Case Data

(Editors Note: Following is the second of a series of 12 disclosures by Sidney H. Whipple dealing with the "crime of the century"—the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. It pictures the early confusion, the frantic activity which followed the announcement that the Lindbergh child had been stolen from his crib.)

By SIDNEY WHIPPLE (Copyright, 1934, United Press)

On the morning of March 2, 1932, the whitewashed garage that formed one wing of the Lindbergh home in the Bourland, fourth became the field headquarters for a regiment of police officials.

Dirt roads leading to the estate were alive with another army of unofficial investigators and marvelously curious citizens who spread, fanwise, through the desolate territory and up the sudden slopes of the mountains, in eager attempts to discover clues to the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

They tramped through the meadow and into underbrush and forest. They searched through winding paths and unused lanes, churning the muddy ground with their heels and creating a confusion of tracks and trails. And they found nothing at all, except the child's diaper to the kidnapers' identity had been left behind, inside or within a hundred yards of the Lindbergh home.

From the vacant crib in the nursery, Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf had taken—with extreme care, lest a finger print be blurred—a pencil drawing for $50,000, the price for returning the child to his parents. The note, in blurred and peculiar script, said:

Dear Sir:

Have 50 000 $ ready 25 100 $ in 20 $ bills 15 000 $ in 10 $ bills and 10 000 $ in 5 $ bills after 24 days we will inform you were (81C) to deliver the money.

When you were for making anything public or for notifying the police, (blurred)

The child is in gut care. Indentation for our letters' signature.

Then followed a "signature" consisting of a strange device of interlocking circles, colored with red and blue ink and bearing the imprint of the slight indentations—thin prickles, perhaps—near the edges of the circles. Subsequent notes, in negotiation for payment of the ransom, bore the identical symbol.

When Carl Schwartzkopf and Col. Lindbergh, lighting their way with electric torches, made their first hurried search of the grounds, they had stumbled upon the second physical clue—an abandoned ladder.

Home Made Ladder

The ladder was of "home made" construction, and consisted of three sections which, when joined together, rose to a height a little above the nursery window. It had been made by a skilled craftsman—by a man adept in carpentry. The pegs by which the sections were joined fitted perfectly into grooves carved for them. The rungs were sunk, to be flush with the sides. One rung apparently had broken beneath the weight of the kidnaper and his burden. Could that have been the sound heard outside his window by Col. Lindbergh?

Not far from the nursery window they found a heavy metal part of the kidnaper's equipment, and evidently intended for forcing the nursery shutters, it had not been needed. The shutters, warped by inclement weather, had remained all snugly in their frames.

Find Footprints

From the house, and trailing away into nothingness, the main road, were a series of heavy footprints. They were not clear-cut. They looked to have been made by one who had bound his feet in an overcoating of cloth. These provided the only physical clue to the kidnaping of the Lindbergh home. The investigators turned to an analysis of the footprints. The demand had been made for a pair of shoes, and the English-speaking man, 22,

GUFFEY TERMED SECOND PENROSE

Pennsylvania Compares Victor To Famous Senator of Other Days

By ROSS DOWNING

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 13.—Pennsylvania's newly elected Democratic senator, Joseph P. Guffey, has been hailed by his followers as a second Helen Penrose. The late Republican senator, Penrose, was a professional politician. He ruled the Keystone state politically for many years. His membership in the U. S. senate from 1907 to 1921 made him a power in the national councils of his party.

Guffey, the Democrat, likewise is a professional politician. He has been the Democratic leader in Pennsylvania for a number of years. He swung his delegation to Roosevelt at the Chicago convention which won the nomination in the nomination accorded the New York governor.

National Recognition

Guffey's election to succeed David A. Reed in the U. S. senate in January brought him national recognition in the Democratic party. Reed criticized the "New Deal" adversely in his campaign for re-election.

The power of the senator-elect in Pennsylvania is undisputed. His candidate for governor, George H. Earle, was elected. A majority of his candidates for the state house of representatives and for congress were elected.

Only in the state senate did the Republican retain control. It is in this connection that Guffey's future political activities will differ from those of the great Penrose.

State Legislature Split

While Penrose always exercised his single vote as an unwaveringly Republican, Guffey will have the handicap of a split legislature.

LIARS' MEDAL

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—A diamond-encrusted gold medal—the Burlington Liars' club says its gold—will be awarded New Year's eve to the champion liar of the world.

"Intense competition this year comes from the four corners of the globe, including Louisiana, the winner may call himself international champion," O. C. Fulett, president of the club, said.

The Liars' club started as a practical joke and has grown into the Liars' club of the world. Tall yarns began pouring in and in 1931 the Burlington Liars' club was formed. This year, Fulett, the secretary of the club, had been convinced that everything was on the up and up, the club was incorporated.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

It is commendable that community interest is being displayed in a public library. At present the needs of the people are being cared for by a municipally-operated library, maintained by direct taxation. The levy for this purpose annually has been two mills.

To erect a building will require considerable capital, and to operate a larger library than is now in use would doubtlessly entail additional taxes, at which few would not revolt.

The unfortunate thing is that Twin Falls long before now was not able to secure a Carnegie library, or that some individual of wealth and sufficiently interested in the cultural growth of the community has not been able to endow such an institution here.

Being comparatively new, this city and section have not yet been able to produce a wealthy citizen or family. The community, like its individuals, lacks that desirable attribute.

Practically everything in this county has been paid for by direct taxation. The exceptions might include the city's parks. But the hospital and fair grounds are county-owned, which is unusual; there are no memorial bridges, orphanages or other such institutions. No one has erected a monument to any of the founders, not because there are no worthies deserving of the honor, but because there have been no individuals or estates able to supply the funds.

People have been too busy, outside their personal efforts, to devote themselves to securing these things, and have found the need for public gifts of a more immediate nature too pressing to leave a sufficient amount for financing a project as large as that involved in a library.

The generosity of local people is proverbial. Through all the years in this county business men and others have been called upon to finance canal bridges, highway rights of way, band stands, canyon grades and other such benefits.

Perhaps now there is some individual or institution that could be induced to donate all or a part of the cost of a library. If this is not possible now, it may be that in future years such a grant could be made. Certainly it would be appreciated, and would serve as a permanent memorial to the giver.

PAUL MALLON'S NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on the Fast-Moving Events in the Nation's Capital by an Expert Interpreter and Commentator

(Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon)

WASHINGTON—The treasury did not intend to let in on the other day what amounts to a box score of New Deal results for the first year.

The data was contained in a survey of 1933 that is now being shown under a few million figures to get at the nugget of information, but it is there.

It shows that in the first year the New Deal failed to restore dividends, wages and salaries, but it did immediately improve business, profits from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, and the income of partnerships (largely professional men).

The income of those who were helped at all increased $410,000,000 over the previous year. The income of those classes not helped decreased 12 billions.

Keep in mind, however, that these results came before the NIRA was started. Had it not been for the new taxation, the income of those who were helped at all would have been $100,000,000 more.

It must be remembered, also, that the figures are based down somewhat with results of two previous months (January and February, 1933) before the upturn started.

For the purposes of analysis, the figures may be charted as follows:

Decreases in 1933
Wages and salaries	$308,000,000
Dividends	$249,000,000
Interest	198,000,000
Rents and royalties	81,000,000
Total loss	$1,200,000,000
Increases for 1933
Profits from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds	$100,000,000
Partnerships	113,000,000
Total gain	$213,000,000
The box score for the year now closing	will be sharply different.

But you will not know the extent of the difference from such a report unless you get behind the scenes until the internal records of the bureau given out its data at this time next year.

EXILES
Some of these New Dealers slip out to exile in the middle of the night without anyone being aware of the real reason for their departure or even of the fact that they are gone. For instance, the exit of Benjamin Squire as executive of the test labor union got him out of the labor circle.

Mr. Squire left virtually before he got his coat off. Upon arrival, the faculty threw together a staff and began gathering the data to decide whether the unions or mill owners were right. Within a few weeks he presented his findings to the board, but nothing happened. He was paid and the board made no decision. Squire got him out of the union and he went back to Chicago without saying good-bye.

FAPE DETECTIVE
Another unpublicized New Deal reform invention in "the ticker tape detective." There are two of them. They sit at desks in headquarters every day reading the regular commercial Wall Street ticker tapes through the magnifying glass of their own experience in pool operations.

They are especially billowed in the financial trade that they can detect an ordinary pool operation within twenty minutes after it occurs on the floor of the exchange in New York.

At the end of the day, they put the tape on a reel and put it backwards, just to make sure

FAMED TAPESTRY
RAISING BATTLE

Reformers, Historians, Assort Bayeux Classic Offends in Varied Ways

By MARY KNIGHT

PARIS (U.P.)—Queen Mathilde, wife of William the Conqueror, welded a naughty needle, as she bent over the tapestry which bears her name.

Paintings of 1035 become her of it, and so do several charges for further with being produced and unfair.

The good, though not too accurate, lady has been dead these 800 years, but her memory survives on. Modern historians now are questioning whether or not the Queen actually did weld the naughty needle herself, or merely gave instructions. They think perhaps she may have had nothing whatever to do with it.

Discussed Tapestry
The tapestry in question is a piece of coarse linen 251 feet long, 20 inches wide, and attached to the wall at the rate of 22,000 a year who visit Bayeux, in Normandy where the discussed bit of fabric now remains, to settle the matter. Their own mind if not for posterity.

The ancient work of art has been described as "enchantingly obscure." The unadorned exaggeration and the naughtily embellishments of their needlework enabled the coterie ladies of the 11th Century to mock Paganism and savants 800 years later. Some even assert that Paganism found inspiration for a number of his unadorned exaggerations in the handiwork of Queen Mathilde, and yet his hand in called more emphatic than naughtily.

Seen as Propaganda
M. A. Gumbert, a French expert on William the Conqueror and his conquest of England, goes on far as to assert that "Queen Mathilde's famous tapestry on Bayeux is a clever bit of propaganda, a diplomatic falsehood, a deliberate deformation of history perpetrated by William the Conqueror to deceive and delude his subjects."

The true subject of the tapestry in the trachery and perjury of Harold, and the punishment which followed. "When William used the tapestry to justify his invasion of England," says Gumbert, "the distinguished artist employed as a propagandist. He spread abroad the idea that he conquered England in the instrument of God to punish Harold, the traitor and the perjurer, not for his ambition or ambition. The Norman conquest is pictured not a selfish war but a holy war with God on the side of the Duke."

Ignored 700 Years
Other historians, however, do not agree with Gumbert. They even assert that the tapestry was embroidered after the death of both William and Mathilde. For 700 years the work of art was ignored. It took the French Revolution to re-discover it. In 1803 Napoleon, then First Consul, had it brought to Paris, but later it was returned to Bayeux where it is today, the chief argument for drawing tourists in art, criticism and reform.

You May Not Know That

Two American Legion posts in this section, Kinberly and Richfield, have qualified for the special citation of Most Distinguished Service, by reason of having equalled or surpassed their 1934 totals with 1945 paid-up memberships on Nov. 11, Idaho Legionnaire.

LIMIT ON POPPY GROWTH ADVISED

Restriction Formed Only Way to Stamp Out Increasing Narcotic Trade

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (U.P.)—An international covenant limiting the production of the poppy to a quantity sufficient only for world scientific and medical needs is the only solution to the increasing illegal narcotic trade, Mrs. George Bass, Chicago, only woman supervisor of a district federal narcotic bureau, told Kansas City club women.

Based on Greed
The narcotic evil is unquestionably based on the competitive greed of great nations for export income, she said.

She deplored the fact that the United States has been the champion of the covenant for only two decades.

According to Mrs. Bass, the narcotic problem, were it to be checked, could destroy civilization in a generation.

"The underworld," she said, "is not a man, in both add and neither, trying to gain enough to satisfy the craving. The addict is a liar, thief and a potential murderer."

DUMB?

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—Co-eds of Northwestern University were accused today of making the psychology graduate to attract the notice of a girl.

Prof. John J. P. Morgan, of the psychology department, said that students "piled on the theory that men like them dumb."

He suggested that men submit the co-eds to intelligence tests before dating them.

NEW HEADQUARTERS IN U. S. WAR ON CRIME

The department of justice has moved its headquarters to the new modern headquarters. For the first time the "crime laboratory" with government scientists, D. J. Sweeney, fingerprint expert, and other specialists, will be housed in the single print and the fingerprint laboratory.

HISTORY
Of Twin Falls City & County

As Gleaned from Files of The Times

15 Years Ago
Howard Whittier Robinson, well known eastern oil painter and well-known by critics at Chicago as the coming genius, will open a studio in Twin Falls over the new home of the Golden Rule store, corner of Main and Second street east, about Jan. 1. Mr. Robinson is in the west, because, he says, the eastern people like oil painting of western scenes and while here he will devote a great deal of time to painting the scenic wonders of the west.

Twin Falls chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, had its annual election of officers Tuesday evening at the Masonic temple. Mrs. Effie Taylor was elected worthy matron; Mrs. Health Sawyer, associate matron; D. W. McFarlane, worthy patron; Mrs. Jean Dickinson, conductor; Mrs. Nollie Higgins, secretary; Mrs. Lena Friedman, treasurer.

27 Years Ago
Monday and Tuesday evenings the opera house held small but enthusiastic audiences when the incident of the Presbyterian church presented their merchants carnival. The business men of the city responded liberally to the solicitations of the ladies and about 40 firms in the city were represented on the stage in the drills which were used to exhibit the humorous costumes of the ladies. Those deserving particular mention for artistic effect are the Electric Club which Mrs. C. C. Bedford represented the electric power company, and the Electric Sewing Song represented by Mrs. Johnson, wife of the carnival manager.

Mrs. O. A. Stalker in acting as deputy in the superintendent's office during the absence of Miss Dawson.

BERLIN THEATER DROPS POLITICS

Changes Policies as Public Grows Tired of Nazi Propaganda

BERLIN (U.P.)—The Berlin theater is marked by Nazism to a much lesser degree than either the radio or press.

Formerly many theaters are playing again, but most of them produce classics, or revivals successful plays by modern authors. Contemporary drama, so it seems, will be in the background this winter.

The reason is clear. Serious new plays can be produced only if they have a distinctly Nazi outlook. The public interest in such plays, however, is limited.

Public Revolts
The Hitlerites admit this. "The last theatrical season," Dr. Clemens Bauermann, a Nazi theatrical authority, recently wrote in the party's theater organ, "failed to fulfill expectations. Despite the rich supply of good and useful plays, public interest gave out. We had to revert from political plays to musical comedies and farces, if we did not want to risk financial ruin."

In the season beginning now, the situation seems to be the same.

The department of justice has moved its headquarters to the new modern headquarters. For the first time the "crime laboratory" with government scientists, D. J. Sweeney, fingerprint expert, and other specialists, will be housed in the single print and the fingerprint laboratory.
