ROOSEVELT BANS VET DEMAND FOR BONUS PAYMENT

Reiterates Stand in Letter To Commander of Texas Legion Post

SEES NO RECOVERY AID

Notes Falsity of Assertions That Cash Would Boost U. S. Normalcy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—President Roosevelt today in effect said "no" to the demands of war veterans for immediate cash payment of the bonus.

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his stand in a thousand word letter to Commander G. L. Farmer of the American Legion post at Henderson, Tex. He outlined his stand and in addition detailed his reasons against payment.

Insufficient Study "I feel that many of the veterans have not given the question sufficient study to realize the vast sums required to meet the demand suggested," Mr. Roosevelt wrote.

It was explained at the White House that the chief concern was his views on paper after first discussing the situation with Brig. Gen. Hines of the veterans bureau, who gave him a memorandum dealing with all phases of the situation.

The President pointed out that cash payment would not stimulate business and that the money if so advanced would go to meeting indebtedness rather than to create new business.

Based on Loans "This attitude he took as the result of the Hines study based on the loan value of 50 per cent of the face value of the certificates."

"I know," he said, "that you appreciate that all expenditures for relief have been made in the interest of recovery, but for all our efforts, the country is still a very depressed one."

All citizens in need have shared in the direct distribution for relief, and in the indirect distribution through the purchase of government bonds and the purchase of government securities.

MAN, 72, KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Death of Thomas Owen After Auto Overturns Brings 1934 Toll to 16

Automobile accident committed in this county during 1934 had mounted to 16 on the last day of the year with the death at the hospital last night of Thomas Owen, 72, well-known resident of the community, who sustained a head injury when the car in which he was a passenger turned over near Kimberly.

The accident occurred at about 5 p. m. two and half miles south of Kimberly along a road, said to have many corrugations, and during a snow storm. Owen was returning with his son-in-law, Frank Schenkel, to the latter's home, where Owen had resided recently. Accompanying them was John Busley, whom they had picked up along the highway a short time before. Neither Owen or Schenkel were seriously injured, officers report.

Lost Control The driver says he lost control of the car, and that it went into the barrow-pit, turning over, and inflicting the fatal injury upon Mr. Owen.

Mr. Owen had spent a part of the day in Twin Falls, and during the forenoon attended services at the Catholic church, of which he was a member.

JAPAN EMPEROR ILL WITH COLD

TOKIO, Dec. 31 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito was confined to his bed today by what royal physicians described as a "slight cold."

They said there was no need for alarm in the emperor's illness, which caused cancellation of the usual New Year's day reception at the imperial palace.

The imperial chamberlain, meanwhile, announced that Korocho Takahashi, minister of finance, and Baron Yamamoto will receive south of the emperor tomorrow as a special honor. The custom began in the twelfth century and at present only 11 living persons possess these special marks of honor.

Montana Man Held for Probe in Helping Flight of Mob's Survivors

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (AP)—United States District Attorney H. Green announced that he would ask a grand jury today and seek an indictment charging John Paul Chase with the murder of two federal agents.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Dec. 31 (AP)—With two men already in custody, federal agents moved secretly and swiftly today to arrest 12 persons accused of aiding the flight of the last remnants of the Dillinger gang of outlaws.

The suspects they sought were mainly in California and Nevada, where the late George (Doc) McCoy Nelson, one of the late John Dillinger's chief lieutenants, spent several weeks after Dillinger was slain and the gang scattered.

The first arrest in the renewed roundup was made in Atlanta City, Calif., where a "chick town" police chief seized John Paul Chase, 31, former San Mateo, Calif., run runner.

In the Battle Chase, according to federal men, was with Nelson when the city period shot it out with authorities near Barrington, Ill., Nov. 27. In the battle, two agents were killed and Nelson was wounded fatally.

Following closely on Chase's capture, government men took into custody Arthur Pratt, 30, of Helena, Mont., when they accused of having aided Chase in his transcontinental flight.

John Hauptmann, 37, who confessed the triple murder of his wife became the "biggest hit" in the state's history.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—Within the past month the state of New Jersey has discovered witnesses who will place Bruno Richard Hauptmann definitely at the scene of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

The final link in the state's case against the Bronx carpenter was disclosed 48 hours before the stolid prisoner goes on trial charged with the murder of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's infant son. Hauptmann said his surprise witnesses made the state's case airtight.

Previously, the prosecution had relied solely upon the testimony of Helen Tapley, a Princeton student, who testified that Hauptmann, near the Lindbergh home with the "kidnap ladder" in his car, to prove Hauptmann was in New Jersey on March 1, 1932, when the crime was committed.

Hauptmann refused to divulge the names of his witnesses.

State's Case In theory, the state does not have to prove that Hauptmann actually abducted the child from his crib. If it can prove that he played even a minor part in the crime, his guilt is established.

Against Hauptmann's airtight witness, Hauptmann's friends who will testify he was in New York on the night of the kidnaping, the state now promises to bring at least six men who will declare they saw a man resembling the prisoner in or near Hopewell in February and on the first day of March.

Bus Driver One witness, it was intimated, may be a bus driver who says he carried Hauptmann from Princeton Junction to Hopewell on several occasions during February before the kidnaping.

The defense, headed by Edward J. Kelly, a Brooklyn criminal lawyer who boasts a long record of acquittals, scoffed today at the prosecution's declaration. Lloyd Fisher, Flemington associate counsel, said upon his return from a week-end conference in New York that the defense would put forth public witnesses in the same category as Millard Whitely, the ally-billy lumberman who has testified that Hauptmann as a mysterious visitor to Hopewell in the days of the kidnaping, who was described by relatives who described him as "the biggest liar in the county."

Gotham Shivers As Man Strolls in Bathing Suit

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—With the mercury hovering around 20 degrees, shivering pedestrians on upper Fifth avenue were startled and amused by the appearance of a nonchalant window-dresser strolling along clad only in a bathing suit.

It was Tony again. Tony Schumacher, who has very definite ideas on dress and annually chooses the means of getting them before a public which has thus far proved somewhat unresponsive. But Tony isn't deterred.

"I can't give a rip for nobody," he told his interviewer. "I feel sorry for all you people bundled up in clothes that way."

Form "Polly Bears" Tony is the organizer of the Arctic Polar Bears of the United States, and for six years has been carrying out his Central park. He usually goes around the reservoir but this year he chose the avenue, attracted by Christmas windows.

But nudism that's something else again. "These nudist camps are stupid and idiotic. Their contention is that we came into the world with nothing on, but in those days we didn't know any better, did we? Now, if we didn't see high being big leaved? There must have been a reason for that."

Tony catches cold once in a while, but the fresh air cures him quickly.

CREDIT BODY TO MEET SATURDAY

Farmers in Production Loan Group Plan First Annual Session Here

The schedule of meetings is as follows: Southern Idaho PCA, Twin Falls, Jan. 2; Eastern Idaho PCA, Pocatello, Jan. 3; Idaho Livestock PCA, Boise, Jan. 10; Western Idaho PCA, Caldwell, Jan. 10; Lewis-Clark PCA, Lewiston, Jan. 10.

All farmers are invited by local association directors to attend the meetings, but only Class B stockholders have the privilege of voting. They will elect directors for their local association, receive a report on the past year's business and make plans for 1935 operations. A representative of the Production Credit Corporation of Spokane will be present to answer questions, and opportunity will be given for full discussion.

Not Federal Agencies "The production credit associations are not government agencies and they do not have government money," it is explained. "They are the farmer's own permanent organizations for making production loans on a business basis at actual cost. The federal government through the farm credit administration, supplied the machinery for this service, but it's up to local farmers to operate it successfully."

Although the Production Credit Corporation advanced a major part of each association's original capital, and exercises general supervision, it is intended that ultimately the associations will be wholly borrower-owned. Farmers subscribe for stock in their local association at the rate of $5 for each $100 borrowed. The first Idaho Production Credit association is housed in the First National Bank building, John M. Maxwell is secretary, and M. A. Stronk is president.

Typical Christmas weather, one week delayed, had arrived today, laying a two and one-half inch blanket of snow over this section of Idaho, and bringing more wintry weather than has been experienced here this season.

Temperatures registered moderate on the eve of New Year's, with the low this morning being recorded at 20 degrees. Despite recurring storms yesterday, which at times took on the aspects of blizzards, the low-point registered on the thermometer at the U. S. bureau of entomology was 25 degrees, the high being 48.

Traffic Delayed The storms delays traffic were held accountable for one automobile accident casualty at Kimberly last night, and caused many persons to postpone contemplated motor trips.

Breaking of melting snows last night, resulted in slippery pavements and highways, but few auto or personal accidents occurred in this city.

Indications this afternoon were that the New Year's eve celebrations would be to the accompaniment of real winter weather.

Business houses prepared to observe Sunday hours on tomorrow's holiday, and it was announced all public offices here would be closed. There will be no mail deliveries on either the city or county. P. W. Schwartz, postmaster, said:

ROOSEVELT BANS BONUS DEMANDS

Retirees Stand in Letter To Commander of Texas Legion Post

Failed to Stimulate

"This large payment resulted in little stimulation of business, and in many of the larger cities no material change was indicated at all. It was a waste of money, and the business created by the veterans prior to the payment was liquidated, and the money advanced to veterans went to clear that indebtedness rather than to create new business."

No doubt the same results would obtain if the balance were now paid. However, in this connection what to me is very important, having in mind that the bonus certificate is a valuable endowment policy payable either to the veteran upon his maturity or to his beneficiary, generally the wife and children in the event of his death, is the fact that of the veterans who died approximately 85 per cent of them have no other asset for their family but the adjusted service certificate or the balance due on the certificate.

Agencies Have Interest

"I feel, therefore, that those who advocate the payment of the certificates at this time for the purpose of stimulating business certainly cannot have given the interests of the veteran much thought."

"I appreciate your truly patriotic interest in desiring to obtain full information on an issue so vital to the welfare of our country. I am giving you this information with the hope that it will be useful in enabling you to reach a conclusion in your own mind regarding the matter as well as being of value to determine the 'fair thing to do.'"

The President went thoroughly into the fiscal side of the bonus. In this connection he pointed out: "There is another feature in connection with this matter that impresses me, and that is the fact that out of 3,500,000 certificates outstanding, 1,038,500 veterans have borrowed thereon approximately $1,050,000,000."

"In other words, some have borrowed more than the present worth of their bonus certificates. This is brought about by the neglect of congress permitting a net gain to borrow up to 50 per cent of the face or maturity value of his certificate, even though that certificate may have been issued only a few days before the loan is made. Of course, as the certificates were not issued at the same time in 1925, but have been issued from that date up to the present time, so that their present value is not the same in all cases, but taking the aggregate of all the certificates issued they have a present value of $3,100,000,000, whereas their face value is $3,500,000,000."

Family, Few Close Friends Attend Private Services For Lowell Sherman

(Copyright, 1934, United Press)

LOWELL SHERMAN, Dec. 31 (AP)—Only members of his family and a few close friends were present today for funeral services for Lowell Sherman.

Body of the actor-director lay in state for six hours yesterday. The private funeral was arranged today by his mother.

Sherman, who was 49, died Friday night of a sudden attack of pneumonia.

Claudia Dell and Edwin Silton were spending a day of honeymoon today at Palm Springs.

They left for the resort immediately after being married Saturday at the hall of justice. A honeymoon in Europe is being planned as soon as the actress completes a current picture role.

Howard Hughes, who surprised Hollywood a few years ago by his lavish spending in producing "Hell's Angels," is planning another surprise for aeronautical circles.

The young Texas oil millionaire is building an all-steel flying airplane that will be used in an attempt to set a new trans-continental speed record within two or three months, it was learned today. This plane is designed to fly at a speed of 215 miles an hour at sub-tropical sphere levels.

Nell Blip Wheeler's forgetfulness about bringing home a Christmas turkey cost him his wife's love.

Miss Wheeler, actress, was awarded $20 a week temporary alimony on her complaint that her director-husband overlooked the promised turkey when he arrived home Christmas eve in 1932. She also accused him of once arriving home from a "fishing party" with traces of lipstick on his face.

MISTAKE

CHICAGO, Dec. 31 (AP)—Frank Horton almost fell nearly 100 feet from the top of the Empire State building today when he slipped, puffing and tugged and carried away his 300-pound safe.

The safe was empty.

Apparently the burglar was secured a cheap little push cart containing three feet from the safe.

The regulator contained $100.

Lovable

A BEGIN HERE TODAY

VALERIA, bright and 20, broke her engagement to TOMMY MERRICK, commercial artist, because of her conviction that she was not responsible for the same day. VALERIA MERRICK, his newly and present fiancee, tells her everything is over between them.

Ann and Peter, both heart-sick and disillusioned, meet in a restaurant when Peter asks Ann to marry him like a man.

"They go to Colorado and spend several weeks joyfully. Then Peter is called home because of business. All of the trouble finally comes Ann's sister, MILDRED, who asks Ann to make trouble between Peter and Ann. She persuades him to undertake the work of remodeling her country home, seeing Ann at lunch with her friend, MISS KESBY. Valeria tells them.

NOW ON WITH THE STORY

VALERIA sat down at the table with Ann and Sarah. She opened her clear case and held it out. Both Sarah and Ann declined.

"You're lucky if you haven't acquired the habit," Valeria said easily. "I smoke dozens of a day and I don't care. My mother told you about the job you had doing over my old home?" She added, with a half-amused laugh, "That is, Peter is doing it. I'm only standing off admiring. But he has a great deal of fun. All the things he has suggested to get the old place on the feet again."

She realized by Ann's look of bewilderment that Peter had not told her. So much the better.

"You may be awfully glad it's finished," Ann said.

"I am. I'm driving out to stay tonight."

"Moving in?" from Sarah.

"Yes. Everything is beautiful now. I've just ready to go. Well, I must rush. Good I saw you."

Sarah and Ann sat for a moment in silence after Valeria had gone. "I bet she has it out with Peter when he comes home tonight," Sarah advised. "I wish him out, Ann."

Ann was drawing on her glove. Her hand shook a little.

"If you ask me, I think she's a snake," said Sarah. "And that's the lowest form of life to me. Ann, you simply must talk straight to Peter. Tell him if he's going to play at all, he's got to play square."

Ann thought so too. She was thinking out then of Tony's voice over the telephone before she had left the house. Pending, throughout, she must see him, he told her.

"Better have it out with Peter," Sarah warned, as they parted.

"I'll tell you tonight," Ann was thinking. "Probably it was something his firm had urged to do. Men are actually business-like. Just words. Ann didn't think Peter should have done over Valeria's home and then turned on herself into thinking. More than anything, she hated his not telling her.

DETERMINED

Ann had intended telling Ann, but decided not to. He couldn't have Ann thinking about the job when he didn't. He had gone out twice, made some drawings, and Paul out to inspect and then had stayed away.

The work was finished now. Valeria came in and given him her check for the amount—$2000—very promptly.

Ann came into the living room, thinking of Sarah's words, "Have it out with him." Thinking of something Ann Sarah had said, "If Peter is married to a man like Peter, he'll be in love with him. And I would make him fall in love with me. After all, I don't believe he was so desperately gone on Valeria. It might have been only a romantic humpover from kid days."

Ann tried to think Peter looked guilty when she said, "Hello, Peter. I don't believe you're in love with me. You know he didn't though he did look puzzled and a little worried."

He held under his newspaper. "I'm afraid you have been having a rather lonely time," he said. "Things are coming up some and I'll have more time now."

"Where?" Ann said.

"What do you say about dancing somewhere tonight? Or a show? It's late to get tickets, but we can try."

"I'd love it," said Ann. "It would be fun to get out of the house and go some place. I don't know, but I would believe his explanation—if he had one. To get back on the same friendly footing which had made their stay in Florida so pleasant."

"I'll have a quick bath and be dressed in 15 minutes," Peter said from the door. "Can you be ready?"

"I'll race you," Ann said. "Peter, we're celebrating my birthday!"

"Ann? Why didn't you tell me?"

"I thought you knew."

"You should have told me before. How old are you, Ann?"

"Twenty-one."

"Just a kid," Peter said, adding after a moment, "Sweet kid."

His voice sounded tender.

Ann closed the door to her room. The phone rang just then and she heard Peter's deep voice saying, "I tell you, Valeria, it's impossible!"

ANN went to her dressing table and out down. What was happening to her? This storm of emotion blowing over her—what did it mean?

There was a knock at her door and Peter called, "Ann!"

"Yes, come in."

Peter stood in the door. He looked tired, worried. "Ann, I'm sorry, but something's come up. I've made a mistake."

"We aren't going then?"

"Not tonight. It's urgent. You understand?"

"Yes," said Ann slowly. "I do." Something in her tone caught him up. "Ann, you don't think I want to go."

"Please, Peter, do just as you wish."

"I don't want to explain."

"I don't want to explain."

Peter was suddenly very angry. He didn't like Ann's tone at all. He didn't like her in the mood she was in, an explanation which he was sure was nothing at all. It was unlike Ann to look at him angrily, to talk in that cold, hard way. Well, all right if she wanted to doubt him.

Ann heard his car driving away. The sound merged with the sound of the telephone ringing.

She went out in the hall. "I'll take the phone, Susan," she told the maid.

The voice over the wire said, "Yes, Tony."

"What are you doing? Now?"

"Nothing." The bitterness in her tone was not lost.

"What's Kendall doing?" Tony asked.

"I don't know."

"No, Peter isn't he there?"

"No, Peter isn't he there. He was driving out to a country place with Valeria. Wouldn't Tony be surprised to know that?"

Ann was thinking bitterly. "First Tony, then Peter. Something must be wrong with you, Ann. You can't hold your nose. You're a kid. Aloud, she said faintly, trying hard to hold on to loyalty. "It's a lousy thing. Something important came up."

"Don't pretend with me, Ann. You're angry with him, aren't you?"

"No."

"You are lying."

She did not reply.

"Do you know what day this is?"

"Your birthday."

ANN had remembered. Tony loved her.

"I'm here alone, celebrating my birthday. There's damn beer on ice for you, and the best and the making of some sandwiches in my pantry."

"Sounds nice," Ann said faintly. She was thinking of Tony, sitting there alone, celebrating her birthday.

"No reason why we couldn't celebrate together, is there?"

"We can't, Tony," Ann said breathlessly.

"If you don't come here, I'm coming there."

"You're crazy. You really mustn't!"

"Look here, Ann, use your head. To keep any reason why you should spend a dull evening on your birthday while Kendall runs about?"

"That's a silly question."

"I heard you."

"Well?"

"I'm driving over. Maybe, we'll take a drive. I need to get out of the house."

"You need me," Tony said.

He gave Ann the address of the new apartment he had moved into. "He was glad he had moved. There was no one to implement memories for Ann here."

"You're not far from here," Ann said slowly. She hung up the phone and went into her room for her apartment bag and moved into the hall and caught the elevator.

Tony let her in. He looked happy and excited. He stared at Ann's white, unhappy face.

When he started to talk, her in his arms Ann said, "Please don't touch me, Tony."

"Good heavens, Ann. Will you ever get over being a puritan?"

"That's humored," Tony said. "I'll fix you a cocktail," Tony said. "You look all right."

Ann nodded. She heard him in the kitchen moving about, heard him on the porch, cracking ice. It made her think of Peter, moving about in their little kitchen in Florida. Peter, her and "old Ann" so gently, and then had concentrated on breakfast. It had been funny watching Peter, who was so big and muscular, going about getting breakfast.

Ann watched the rectangle of light under the door through which Tony could come presently, bringing a tray with cocktails.

BETTER LAW ENFORCEMENT

Interesting to the public at large is the action of the Idaho Peace Officers' association in outlining a brief legislative program, designed to improve law enforcement in the state.

What is more, the body intends to seek enactment of the program, originally outlined in state convention last summer. Idaho, because of its long stretches of highways, and its mixed farm, mining, lumber and mountaineer population, has law enforcement problems of a peculiar nature which must be cared for.

Progressive indeed are the measures proposed, including as they do a request for the organization of a state police department, a drivers' license law, a centralized state broadcasting system, installation of teletype system (similar to that employed by newspapers), and a new service law to include police and fire departments in cities of the first and second class.

In addition, there are other recommendations, but the ones mentioned apply strictly to the law enforcement question.

Heading the state association is E. F. Prater, Twin Falls, known as an alert and successful sheriff. With his fellow-officers, he is attempting to secure enactment of the program outlined by the association, to the end that law enforcement may be made more efficient in Idaho, and that society will thereby benefit. In these undertakings the sheriffs and police of the state are to be complimented, for upon them rest more responsibility than the public as a whole has any knowledge of, and in their future facilities for rendering the kind of service they want to, depends the safety and welfare of the state's citizens, entitled to the best there is in protection.

FOOTNOTE TO LABOR HISTORY

You probably remember reading about the "onion strike" in Ohio last summer. Onion weeders in the Scioto valley organized a union and struck, alleging that pay and labor conditions were unendurable. So one day a mob of some 200 men kidnapped Okey Odell, union chairman, gave him a severe beating, and warned him to get out of town and stay out.

Just the other day this same Odell was sentenced to 90 days in jail. He had hitch-hiked back to town, after his abduction, and when the mob menaced him again he had pointed a gun at his abusers and defied them to "come and get me." The sentence was imposed because he brandished the gun.

Considering the fact that no action has been taken against the mobsters who maltreated him, this seems to be about as dizzy a chapter in the history of labor relations as you could imagine.

RIDING FOR A FALL

Senator Huey Long, having been given a great deal of rope, seems to be bent on doing the traditional thing with it.

His latest exploit in striding at the father of one of those Louisiana State University students who was expelled for protesting the senator's censorship of the university paper is just naturally the sort of thing that does not appeal to an American's sense of fair play.

Having the boy kicked out of college for speaking his mind was bad enough. To bar the boy's father from using the New Orleans-Baton Rouge highway with his motor truck service, as Senator Long did, is a great deal worse.

It is a direct blow at the man's livelihood; in simple words, it was a mean, despicable thing to do.

Stunts of that kind will hardly increase the senator's popularity.

IN SUPPORT OF BUSINESS

The coming year ought to be a good one for advertising—and, by that token, it ought to be a good one for business generally.

Donald R. Richberg, NRA chieftain, has indicated that the government will adopt no policy which would hamper advertising. Advertising costs will not be included in compilation of those basic prices on which the NRA framework rests.

If a business man can increase his profits by an energetic and intelligent advertising campaign, the spoils are fairly his.

It is a truism that advertising is the oil which lubricates the business machine. Mr. Richberg's position is an assurance that Uncle Sam will do nothing to cut off the lubrication.

The result should be good profits for business men wise enough to take advantage of their advertising opportunities.

Terrible Tommy Touhy, the gangster, threatens to blow himself up, and anyone who tries to capture him. A martyr, eh?

Professor at the University of Nevada will course on marriage and divorce, but will not discuss the problem of which should be

An Exclusive Evening Times Daily Report on the Past-Moving Events in the Nation's Capital by an Expert Interpreter and Commentator

(Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon)

BUZZ

WASHINGTON.—The labor bees are buzzing again, and it looks as if someone may get stung this time.

King Bee Green of the A. F. of L. privately called a few days ago for a meeting of the executive council in the hive here January 29. The news about it may be out by the time you read this, but for several days it was not announced, possibly because there was such an inside stir about it.

One sworn wanted to go to Miami, where the situation is so tense, including bathing beauty revues and other relaxations for tired labor leaders. The predominant sworn decided that, while Washington offers the most favorable conditions in which it was probably a better spot to consider the serious business at hand.

The business business will include the 30-hour week, section 7-A, the labor board and a lot of other things, but the most serious business of all will not be on the agenda.

It will be the thought back in the minds of the leaders that they may face three major strikes within the next six months—textiles, automobiles and steel.

One party insider official, Ed Green, is now privately predicting that all three strikes will materialize. Of course, labor leaders sometimes predict strikes for whatever bargaining advantage it may give them, but anyone can see that the situation is so serious as to demand energetic attention.

TEAMING

What stirred up the labor hive lately was the inside report that the three large industries (textile, automobile, and steel) have some sort of agreement on labor policy. It is supposed to call for joint action in event of trouble.

Whether this report is true quently worked together on many things backstage. They are naturally associated in production. How textiles got into that crowd is not clear.

Moreover, the only point now in that labor leaders are accrediting the report and making preparations accordingly.

The subject may not be mentioned, but, light at the council meeting because the gathering was called merely to formulate a legislative policy for the coming session of congress. The committee was formerly limited to twelve old guard leaders, but the last A. F. of L. convention increased the membership to eighteen and left a lot of old guard leaders. That means it will be lively.

BEWILDERED

The white shirts cannot get understood what happened to their White Sulphur Springs conference. The committee submitted to the White House.

They know the published stories were wrong about their embassy being snubbed by the President. However, the only point now is that the business industry had an appointment and found President Roosevelt's schedule full for the day. The White House asked him if it could arrange an appointment for the next day, but he had to be in New York that day, so he left the business platform.

The business industry, but it does not explain why Mr. Roosevelt let the platform remain in a pile of papers for several days without looking at it.

Even more perplexing is the fact that a certain gentleman at the White Sulphur Springs conference was supposed to be an indirect representative of the President. He did not directly appear, but he talked and acted like it, and they accepted him as such. He counseled moderation in the platform other, they are beginning to wonder whether they were outwitted.

FUN

Wait until Uncle George Holden thinks he can do anything. He was elected Secretary of the National Labor Union and was appointed Secretary Perkins has cooperated with the League of Nations in labor matters. He does not know it, but he has been a labor leader for a long time. He is a labor leader for a long time. He is a labor leader for a long time.

Trainer Prof. James Harvey Rogers to Geneva to confer with other world economists under the auspices of the League of Nations.

Mr. Hull's perfect ally is that Prof. Rogers was appointed by the league as the American member of the economic committee. At two o'clock on Monday, Dec. 24, he was represented by Prof. Viner and Prof. Thorpe, brain trusters both.

It may be true that the New Deal has to do with the Rogers appointment. He has not been active in New Deal service lately. Following his return from the survey in China, he was not invited to the White House for presentation of his report, although friends saw him waiting at the telephone for the call that never came.

RESPECT

Senator Glass is still chuckling about that labor and indirect explanation offered by the federal labor trust. He has not the point that the board issued its explanation without referring to his charges and privately he fully appreciated the compliment. But if Glass had anything to say about it, he would have written and torn up by Chairman Eches on Christmas eve, there would have been real fireworks here for Christmas.

FRANKFURTER

Just because you never hear of Felix Frankfurter any more, don't NCT mean that the father of the New Deal has vanished from the New Deal scene. The fact is he has become the invisible man of the New Deal. He has fitted in and out of the White House at least twice and probably much oftener during the last few weeks. Presumably he is leading aid in preparation of the message to congress.

One of the strangest characters in London is the human skeleton business of G. Routhy, who imports skeletons from Germany, Austria,

CONTROL CREDIT, COUGHIN URGES

Radio Priest Tolls Congress To Reconvert Power Over National Money

DETROIT, Dec. 31.—The new congress' greatest work is nationalizing credit, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest of Touhy Oak, said Sunday.

A number of his weekly broadcasts, Father Coughlin addressed his remarks in part to members of the 74th congress which convenes this week.

"Recapture the power our forefathers gave you," he said, "and recapture the value thereof—whether that be currency or credit," he said.

"Father Work"

"That is your chief work this year. Unless this is accomplished there is little hope for a just and living wage, or for the lifting of the cross of depression from our shoulders."

The priest predicted that 1935 and years immediately following will see "the total destruction" of modern democracy and capitalism. Democracy, he declared, has become a system of oligarchy led by bankers and banker-controlled industrialists.

Father Coughlin, founder of the National Union for Social Justice, urged that the nation accept its present system of oligarchy—unpaid capitalism, plutocracy, Socialism, dictatorial Fascism, decadent capitalism and controlled democracy or modern plutocracy.

Attack Bankers

Renewing his attack on the bankers, the priest blamed them for the depression and observed that they are "professing at counting down the minutes they are hatched." He accused them of controlling the nation's destiny through loaned credit or "stage money."

"As for the currency the $15 billion of real currency money, approximately one billion is in the banks," he said. "The bankers keep for 100 money. Another billion dollars is in the cash registers and tills of the storekeepers. As for the other $13 billion, it is in the pockets of the people."

PARLEY TO FORM TOWNSEND CLUB

It is announced that a meeting of all persons interested in the Townsend plan of old age revolving pensions will be held in the Twin Falls high school auditorium at 8 p. m. ## Gaiety Will Prevail At New Year's Ball

Elks' New Year's eve dance tonight at the lodge hall will climax a brilliant holiday season in Twin Falls and send the old year out with a gaiety second only to that which will herald in the new one. Horns, serpentine and noise-making devices of all kinds will be in order, and the more there are the gayer the dance will grow.

Decorations are to be in the red and green of the holiday season and will make a pleasing background for the colorful gowns of the women guests. Paul Belzer's orchestra is to furnish music, and the merriest is scheduled to begin at 10:30 p. m.

The event always draws a large crowd, says Russell Miller, chairman of arrangements, but an even larger group than usual is expected to attend this year. A hilarious event of a gay season. Assisting Miller with the arrangements will be R. G. Hunt, E. W. McArthur and H. A. Ball. Only members of the lodge and guests will attend.

At a number of public places many other persons will celebrate the arrival of 1935, and local theaters have arranged special programs. Featuring New Year's eve entertainment is Radioland and buffet in Twin Falls, where a double-dance will be given, and local theaters have arranged special programs.

A number of private dinner parties have been planned for the local set. The new and exclusive Club Montmartre, south of the city, the recently-opened private social club, will be the scene of its initial New Year's party.

INDICTMENT FOR GANGSTER ASKED

Federal Prosecutor Will Ask Jury to Charge Dillinger Aide With Murders

Department of Justice men in city prison here.

Miss Speedy Trial

Chase was taken to Chicago in heavy iron while federal attorneys prepared to try him speedily for murder of the two federal agents.

District Attorney Dwight H. Green planned to present evidence in Chicago to a grand jury today that Chase was Nelson's companion in the Birmingham hotel in which federal agent Samuel P. Cowley and Herman H. Hollis, as well as Nelson, were fatally shot.

Murder indictment.

Green would not comment, but it was considered probable Chase would be indicted for the murder of Cowley, who lived long enough to confer with Melvin Purvis, chief agent of justice in Chicago.

Purvis has not revealed what Cowley said, but it was believed the wounded agent might have recognized and identified Nelson's companion.

Green said he would have witnesses before the Chicago jury today, but refused to say who they were.

Hanging, Possible

Green said Chase would be tried under the comparatively new federal law, passed as a result of the Kansas City union station ransacking, which extends federal jurisdiction in cases involving the slaying of a federal employe. Death by hanging is a possible penalty.

GANGSTER LINKED TO BREMER CASE

Montana Evidence Claimed as Showing Dillinger Gang Involved in Kidnap

HELENA, Mont., Dec. 31 (AP)—Evidence purportedly linking Dillinger's gang with the involved Bremer kidnaping reported today by the Helena bank.

This evidence consisted of two bills of currency deposited in a local safe deposit box by the son of a pioneer Helena jeweler for one of Dillinger's henchmen, John Chase.

Chase, gangster pal of Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson, is now held by department of justice agents, charged with murder.

Prominent Youth Held

Because of his association with Chase, Arthur Pratt, 30, action of a prominent Montana family, faces possible federal charges of obstructing justice. He is being held in San Francisco.

Federal Agent L. Nicholas reportedly has identified some of the currency deposited by Pratt as part of the $200,000 ransom paid by Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul brewer.

Pratt claims he met Chase two years ago in a Saualito, Cal., bar, became friendly, later met the gangster again in Helena.

Here's the background of the Montana angle to Chase's flight and capture:

While on local postoffice on Oct. 6, there came an assumed parcel, labeled "sample cups."

Money Falls Out

As postal clerks handled the package, a roll of greenbacks slipped inside the wrapper roll was found in transit. The money was turned over to Pratt.

Obeying Chase's instructions, Pratt deposited the money (about $1,500) in a United Bank and Trust company's safe deposit vault.

Next morning Postmaster Harry C. Hendricks received word instructions from San Francisco federal agents to intercept the package. "G man" followed the package here in a charred plane, inspected the currency, reportedly found it linked with the Bremer case, and then set a trap with the "hot" currency in bait.

They were not patiently, day after day, for three months, keeping close watch over Pratt, checking all long distance telephone calls.

Vigilance Awarded

A week ago, Friday their vigilance appeared rewarded. Chase was arrested at Pratt's home, but, asking for the money.

In Suite Other "G men" closed in on the hotel from which the call originated, but the gangster eluded them by minutes, unscathedly warning Pratt.

Knowing their prey to be in the run, federal agents suspected he would head for familiar ground, stole up there. They concentrated on northern California, captured Chase's mother, who runs a local jewelry store founded by her husband, in certain "my boy never knew he was mixed up with any gangsters."

Pratt, 31, 21 years for San Francisco, voluntarily, voluntarily, "at the request" of federal agents.

The money, which provided the key which probably led to Chase's capture, remains in the bank, pending federal action.
