

Idaho Evening Times

TELEPHONE 38

FULL LEASING WIRE SERVICE United Press Association, Full N.E.A. Feature Service.

PUBLISHED SIX DAYS A WEEK at 255 Main Avenue East, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Entered as Second Class Mail Matter in the Twin Falls Post Office, April 11, 1933, Under Act of Congress, March 3, 1913.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By the week $1.00. By the year $4.00.

By month $1.00. One year $11.00.

All notices required by law or by order of court of competent jurisdiction to be published weekly will be published in the Thursday issue of this paper pursuant to the laws of the state where they are filed.

161, 1922 Session Laws of Idaho.

NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVES

W. M. KENNEDY, INC.

Mills Tower, 229 Main Street, San Francisco, Calif.

NEBRASKA NEEDS IDAHO HAY

Rising-by-Nebraska of the quarantining against hay shipments from nine Idaho counties was shortly, muted to the regret of Idaho hay-growers. The ban is to be applied on hay with which Nebraska cattle are fed. Now, the state department of agriculture, which so far had the life of the embargo in the first place, has launched a campaign to permit shipment of hay from the counties in question, convinced that Nebraska feeders are sympathetic to shippers from this state, and certain that the embargo is unjustified and results in depressing the local market.

Authorities state that the only reason that ever has been raised against hay from this section of Idaho is the scare of "weevil," and inspectors assert there has been no weevil in southern Idaho for years.

Fact is, Idaho hay is wanted desperately in Nebraska; one local dealer stating that he gets calls from the less than 120 feeders in the midwestern state. Nebraska is shipping hay from Oregon and Washington, which fact emphasizes how been placed.

Politics is charged in the situation, with the result that E. Lee Johnson, state commissioner of agriculture, is asking all Idaho persons with Nebraska connections to write or telegraph them, pointing out the hardship being raised against Idaho and urging that pressure be brought to correct it manifestly.

"Nebraska officials continue to have a spiced suspicion against Idaho hay, it is possible that a similar question could be raised against Nebraska corn in the view of one dealer who questions the validity of this latest move from the Cornhusker state and asserts that it may have serious consequences for southern Idaho hay trade."

The ban was lifted from the nine counties about the middle of December and the first shipment of hay reached Nebraska around the first of the year, it having been necessary to set up Idaho inspection. This immediate result was to reduce the price of hay in Nebraska, informants state, and the result in Idaho was a strengthening of the hay market. With an admitted surplus in Idaho, that was a welcome situation here, and likewise met approval in Nebraska.

But yesterday the word came through that the embargo against Twin Falls and eight other counties would again be in effect. The neighboring counties were again taken in.

It is to be hoped that Nebraska authorities will be convinced there is no danger of weevil from hay grown in the counties mentioned; that sale of the product can be resumed shortly; and that there shall be no retaliation against Nebraska products.

Both Idaho and Nebraska will benefit with free shipment from the Gen state to the midwestern state and the result will be increased income and prosperity for both commonwealths.

SIGNIFICANCE OF RELIEF FIGURES

One useful thing—the depression-born-relief problem is doing for us. It is acting as a microscope through which we can get a new look at some of the phases of American life which we never bothered to examine very carefully before.

We talk about unemployment, about the need to get people back to work; about the "American standard of living," which must be preserved; and all the while, tucked away in the relief statistics, are figures which give a dismaying new view of the young-and-large percentage of our population.

These statistics were studied by C. Hartley Grattan in a recent issue of Scribner's Magazine.

Mr. Grattan takes his figures from the F.E.D.'s lists, which show that in September, 1934, some 18,300,000 persons were receiving relief. Slightly less than two-thirds of these people were city folk; the rest were from the farms—or the small towns.

Then, by analyzing the figures, he makes a further discovery—that most of the people on relief are precisely those people who, when employed, receive income so low that they cannot build up a nest egg for hard times.

For instance: Unskilled and semi-skilled urban laborers make up only 41 per cent of our general urban population, but they composed 63 per cent of our relief cases; great skilled workers, comprising 17 per cent of our population, make up 19 per cent of the relief group.

In city and country alike, these people are the ones who never, even in boom times, touch on famous American standard of living. They live in those homes at which slim clearance plans are aimed.

They never get adequate medical attention, diet, clothing; they never can build up bank accounts big enough to carry them very long when times are bad.

Studying the relief figures, we see how many of these people the world over have had the poverty load all abnormally expensive; in good times it limits their ability to supply the social problems born of poverty.

This nation cannot be complacent about any recovery that does not permanently raise the status of people in the lowest income brackets.

NEW DEAL WITH VENGEANCE

In its report asking congress for new powers to deal with monopoly, the Federal Trade Commission outlines a program which would make most of the existing New Deal policies seem ultra-conservative.

To prevent one corporation from obtaining control over another by buying its stocks or assets, or by merging, to give the commission power to prohibit unfair business practices in any other way, to prohibit "affectionate" interstate combines, to prohibit big corporations from getting control of purchasing terms merely because they are big, and to require corporations to get rid of properties illegally acquired—here would be a new attitude toward big business, with a vengeance!

Would public sentiment permit such a change? It would be hard to say, offhand. Certainly congress will have to do some thorough canvassing of sentiment if it proposes to act on these requests.

IDAHO EVENING TIMES, TWIN FALLS, IDAHO

Lovable

By Mary Raymond
Our Home Service Inc.

HELLO, HONEY TODAY.
The house is bright, the birds are singing, engagement is TONY MICHAEL and the baby is WALLACE BENNETT, his name, that is everything, is all I care about now. I am so full of love, Tony, and Peter, he will bring me joy, but when chance brings the two men together, I am afraid Ann won't marry him, she never loved him, she loves me.

She is a good girl, she is a good mother, she leaves no hint of her whereabouts.

Peter is a dissolute, believing in nothing, he can not relate to, he is a good boy, he goes to Tony's apartment, but especially when he is drunk, he likes him but he is not good for him.

Ann is a good girl, she has been to school, she is a good mother, she loves me, she is a good woman.

It was dark when Alton Vincent arrived, he was slender, well-built, boyish-looking.

"I'll go to get into my bath and then into pajamas," Mrs.
Tracy said. "Please, Alton, come and sit with me while I wash you down in bed, don't like to have anyone in bed, like Alton to her feet." She swayed a little and put out a hand to the door, "I'm going to the latrine."

"I'm only that I'm tired, I'm sorry, but I must go." Her aching voice broke and she slipped to the floor.

WHEN she remained unconscious
she was lying on the dram and Alton Vincent stood looking anxiously down at her.

"You failed," he said. "He died, this is strong, but you mustn't let it upset you, come to me."

"I'd prefer having dinner with the children, too," the young man said. "I have a nice home, a stable, a garden, a fine place to live."

It was a quiet meal, Ann thought. The strange young man with the intelligent, restless eyes at one end of the table, a child on the other side. The children had been to bed.

She smiled at him and suddenly he was by her side, "Where are your booties?"

"We'll use the old ones until you and Sirra get home, we'll go to town and buy one each," she said.

"With lots of pictures," piped Sally.

"All pictures," promised Ann,
"The artist, the painter, the photographer, the sculptor, the carver, the wood carver, the potter."

"Turn in an instant," Alton said. "Yes, I'm a little tired."

"Won't you come into the living room with me while I make a cup of tea, we'll have a nice time, will you come with me, one with me?"

"I don't smoke," he said.

"Well, come in for a moment any way."

THEY sat down on a comfortable
couch before the fire.

The little beggar was bottling her to death, he was a tiny, tiny, tiny person, a little, little, little.

She smiled a little. He was extremely, extremely, almost arrogant,
but she liked him in spite of it.

Her thoughts, though, would not let her go to sleep, she was worried about him, he was worried about her.

"I'm worried about you, Ann."

"Ann."

"Like that better, I'll shall have to go to bed, I'm very tired."

She snuggled a little. He was extremely, extremely, almost arrogant,
but she liked him in spite of it.

Her thoughts, though, would
not let her go to sleep, she
was worried about him, he was worried about her.

Mr. Cummings is four years old,
but he has a mind of his own, he wants a car, he wants a car, he wants a car.

However, it is not true that the new 35,000 machines in customs are not to be had, they are to be had,
but they are not to be had.

However, are they to be outfitted with cameras? Those are false.

However, a car would be a luxury, a $5,000 vehicle, with simple trimming, silver cigarette trays and other ordinary necessities of modern motoring life.

SOLUTION
That will not alter the present secret, the old thing, and the latest word from the front, in the matter. Mr. Roosevelt, and Senator Louis Howe, may have difficulty finding a probable that Meissner, Hull and Cummings and madame secretary will be entitled to $2,000 a year, which is what he wants it to be, one which he wants it to be.

Notes
War Secretary Den is one officer who has been asked to leave the service, but it only costs which leaves him little better off than what he has.

McCormick liked the style of the dissenting opinion of Supreme Court Justice Cardozo in that brilliant decision, the one that Justice Holmes Cardozo former chairman who is rich and inclined to hunting. Alton, some money, he was forming a new house, and asked Alton to help him.

"It ended by Alton doing the whole thing. The house was a newly built, it gave me a new interior. He became a studious, a man of taste.

"Why don't you live in town
An hour, he said.

"I would be foolish there," he said, "I am a man of taste, I would be out-of-place."

"My sister probably dramatized me to you, but it's only a picture of me, I am a good boy, I like getting a home in shape, curtains, rugs, mirrors."

"And that's the way you do it right, what I want to do."

"So, and you make it hard for me to accept you, you won't accept me as I am."

"You don't know anything about me," she said, "I do."

"There's some other, more you haven't told me, I don't like you to have her feet."

A little and put out a hand to the door, "I'm going to the latrine."

"It's only that I'm tired, I'm sorry, but I must go." Her aching
voice broke and she slipped
to the floor.

WHEN she remained unconscious
she was lying on the
dram and Alton Vincent stood
looking anxiously down at her.

"You failed," he said. "He died, this
is strong, but you mustn't let it
upset you, come to me."

"I'd prefer having dinner with
the children, too," the young man
said. "I have a nice home, a stable, a garden, a fine place to live."

It was a quiet meal, Ann
thought. The strange young man
with the intelligent, restless eyes
at one end of the table, a child
on the other side. The children
had been to bed.

She smiled at him and suddenly
he was by her side, "Where are
your booties?"

"We'll use the old ones until you
and Sirra get home, we'll go to town
and buy one each," she said.

"With lots of pictures," piped Sally.

"All pictures," promised Ann,
"The artist, the painter, the
photographer, the sculptor, the carver."

"Turn in an instant," Alton
said. "Yes, I'm a little tired."

"Won't you come into the living room with me while I make a cup
of tea, we'll have a nice time, will you
come with me, one with me?"

"I don't smoke," he said.

"Well, come in for a moment any
way."

THEY sat down on a comfortable
couch before the fire.

The little beggar was bottling
her to death, he was a tiny, tiny, tiny person, a
little, little, little.

She smiled a little. He was extremely, extremely, almost arrogant,
but she liked him in spite of it.

Her thoughts, though, would
not let her go to sleep, she
was worried about him, he was worried about her.

"I'm worried about you, Ann."

"Ann."

"Like that better, I'll shall
have to go to bed, I'm very tired."

She snuggled a little. He was extremely, extremely, almost arrogant,
but she liked him in spite of it.

Her thoughts, though, would
not let her go to sleep, she
was worried about him, he was worried about her.

Mr. Cummings is four years old,
but he has a mind of his own, he
wants a car, he wants a car, he wants a car.

However, it is not true that the
new 35,000 machines in customs
are not to be had, they are to be had,
but they are not to be had.

However, are they to be out-
fitted with cameras? Those are false.

However, a car would be a
luxury, a $5,000 vehicle, with simple
trimming, silver cigarette trays and
other ordinary necessities of modern motoring life.

HISTORY Of Twin Falls City & County

As Cleared From Files of the Times.

15-Years Ago

The following officers were installed Friday evening at the Knights of Pythias, Frank Kenneth, president; W. A. Moore, vice president; J. A. Waters, master of work; G. M. Hollister, master guard; W. E. Nixon, master of exchequer; M. E. Echert, master of supplies; and C. C. Eldred, trustee.

Pythian officers also installed afternoon: Mrs. Myrtle Aylett, trustee; Mrs. Alice Wickes, protector; Eliza Woodhead, senior chief; Anna Johnson, junior chief; Mrs. C. C. Chappell, treasurer; Eliza Elmer, mistress of records and correspondence; Virginia Isaac, matron; Mrs. Helen Mumford, kitchen lady; Mrs. Myrtle Aylett, matron.

Bill-Being-Drafted

The expansion is proposed in bill being drawn by Herman Elmer, former attorney general. His recommendations are expected to be submitted with the bill.

Administrative

The FDIC with 14,000 of the country's 16,000 operating banks numbered among its members, has increased its capital accounts up to $6,000 in individual accounts, fast becoming important as the federal reserve system's

Administrative

It is expected the additional powers will be voted by the board on its next banking day.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch network, and expand its branch network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

Right to examine all bank
accounts, expand its branch
network, and expand its branch
network.

FDIC AUTHORITY BOOST PLANNED

Administration, Ponders Bill Giving Wider Powers to Insurance Unit

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (UPI)— Despite strengthening of power by FDIC last week, the corporation is given authority to act under existing laws.

The new power would give the FDIC more authority to combat banking difficulties.

It would be used to combat banking difficulties.

STAR SIGNALS Octayne

For persons who believe that sunlight is gained by the stars, this daily horoscope is outlined by a noted astrologer.

In addition to information of general interest, Octayne provides special information of personal interest to persons born on the designated date.

JANUARY 12, 1935

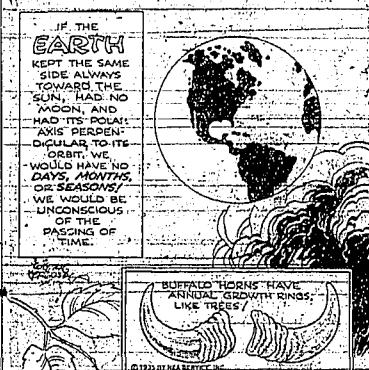

It is another unfavorable day.
It would be unwise to start any new project.

The expansion is proposed in
bill being drawn by Herman Elmer,
former attorney general. His recommendations are expected to be submitted with the bill.

The expansion is proposed in
bill being drawn by Herman Elmer,
former attorney general. His recommendations are expected to be submitted with the bill.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

ALL WORMS
DO NOT CRAWL!
SPAN-NORM PROGRESS
IN A SERIES OF LOGGING STRADES, BECAUSE THEIR MIDDLE
SECTIONS HAVE NO LEGS!

SIDE GLANCES

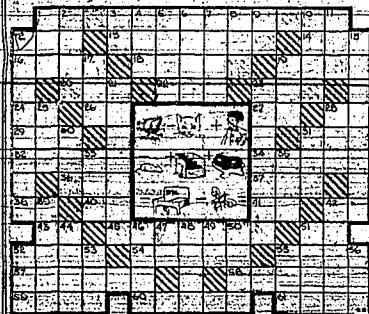

By George Clark

Holiday Rebus

HORIZONTAL

- 1 Symbol of the holiday season
2 Wand
3 Glass
4 Present
5 To prepare for publication 18 Vision
19 Feet
20 Bottom
22 To abide 23 Jealous
31 American Mother 34 Christmas
35 Mother 36 Maternal 37 Point
38 Point
39 You
40 Dolly
41 Like
42 Like
43 Time-honored
44 Pickle
45 Taro paste
46 Point
47 Point
48 You
49 Dolly
50 Like
51 Like
52 Like
53 Like
54 Like
55 Like
- Answer to Previous puzzle 12 His stretch is pulled by 13 He comes down our 14 Negate
15 Robert
16 Drama
17 Peary
18 Sore 19 This is the season for 20 Tinsel
21 Club
22 Poet
23 Sleight
24 Family
25 Entertained 26 Entertain 27 To help
28 Blotches
29 Frost bite
30 Frost bite
31 Young
32 Young
33 Lubricant
34 Lubricant
35 Lubricant
36 Lubricant
37 Lubricant
38 To preclude 39 Garret
40 To enter 41 Northward
42 Clockwise
43 To scatter
44 To scatter
45 Matras
46 Genius of 47 Genius of 48 Semi 49 Half an em
50 High terrace
51 High terrace
52 To perform
53 To bind
54 Chart
55 Purchased

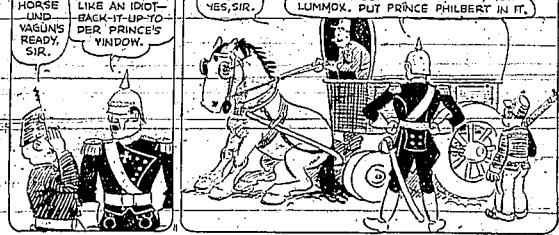

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

By Ahern

WASH TUBBS

By Ahern

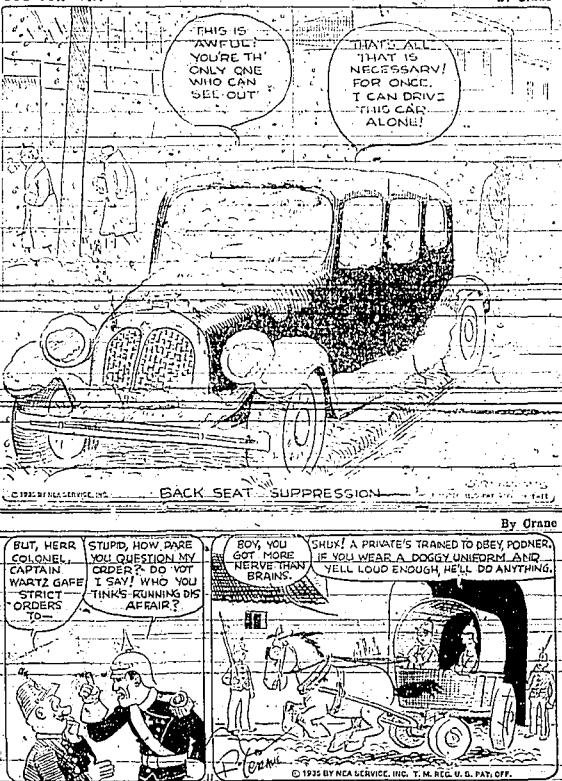

BOOTS AND HIS BUDDIES

By Martin

OUT-OUR-WAY

By Crane

ALLY-OOP

By Martin

SALESMAN-KAM

By Martin

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

By Bloch

